Annual Meeting of the Athletic Association.

The regular annual meeting of the Athletic Association was called to order yesterday by President Ran Shields. In the absence of a secretary Mr. G. R. Houston was appointed to fill that office pro tem.

First in order of business should have been the president's report; but, as his report is for the purpose of bringing before the Association all matters of importance which have occurred during the year there seemed to be no material for one for the session of '97-'78. The treasurer when called upon gave an account of the receipts and expenditures since February.

The report finished, the meeting turned to the election of officers for the session '98-'99. Mr. E. D. Sloan of Missouri, was elected president; Mr. Gustav Capito of West Virginia, vice-president; Mr. Wm. O. Bonnie, Jr., of Kentucky, treasurer; all by acclamation. Three names were proposed for the office of secretary. After a second ballot Mr. J. Ran Tucker of Virginia, was elected. The next person to be elected was manager of the baseball team. Two or three nominations were made in such a frivolous manner that it was moved that the election be postponed until the latter part of the meeting, as it was probable that the proposed amendments to the constitution would do away with the necessity of an election altogether. The motion was carried.

Next came the proposed changes in the constitution. They were read by the secretary and then taken up separately and discussed.

The first change was the one concerning the addition of $5.00 to the matriculation fee for the support of athletics. This was tabled as it was thought to be a case of cart before the horse. Such a measure must be made by the Board of Trustees before it can be enforced by the Association. A committee of three consisting of Messrs. Farrar, O'Neal and Guthrie was appointed to draw up a petition to the Board of Trustees requesting them to adopt such a measure.

The next consideration was the one about the proposed Executive Committee. The reading of the proposal was followed by a good deal of discussion; some favoring the change, as it would put the appointment of managers in responsible hands, others were against it, as it put too much power in the hands of a few, while some others advocated the principal but saw no use of adding another committee to the Association, advocating that the duties of the Executive Committee be added to the duties of the Athletic Committee, and there be no Executive Committee formed. The result was a compromise proposed by Professor Humphreys, which, as worded later by Mr. Batchelor, is given below.

Article IX was then considered and adopted as read; likewise Article XIX. The wording of two other articles are altered by the change in Article VI. These Articles are numbers VIII and XIII, which see below.

The changes as adopted read as follows:

ARTICLE VI.

Insert: In addition the Committee shall have power of electing managers of the Athletic teams; and for this purpose only, the Secretary and Treasurer of the Association shall be members of the Committee, making in all seven members.

The football manager shall be appointed at least one week before the February meeting of the Association; and the manager of the baseball team shall be appointed at least one week before the annual meeting of the Association. Whenever either of the offices above named are vacant, the committee shall have the power to fill them pro tem.

Two weeks before any regular appointments are to be made the committee shall post notices requesting candidates and those having names to propose to hand such names to the Committee for consideration. By two-thirds vote the Association may annul the appointments of the committee and elect other persons to fill the offices thus made vacant.

ARTICLE VIII.

Change: "A manager . . . shall

Mr. Wilson Wednesday.

Last Wednesday was the last of our regular gatherings for this session. On the whole they have been quite interesting and profitable. Besides affording us the admirable addresses of Mr. Wilson and others, they have served to overcome in some measure the bad effects of a system where the men board around in private families instead of together in dormitories. It has served to draw them together and to increase their college spirit. The attendance at college is made what the students will make it, and so it rests largely with us to make next year's attendance greater than formerly.

Mr. Wilson made some remarks upon the revolution in the navies of the world caused by the result of the contest between the Monitor and Merimac in 1862.

He further discussed the conditions which obtain in Italy at this time, when bread riots are calling out a larger army than our country has. He spoke of the country from the time when Victor Emmanuel united the various kingdoms, up to the present; of their enormous and unjust tariff taxation and of their efforts to go by one strike into the "society" of European powers.

The warm weather, the end of the baseball season, the state of excitement over the boat race, the handing in of the graduating theses, President Wilson's last Wednesday morning talk, all remind us that the session of '98 will soon close. Already the more far-sighted student is busy reviewing for examinations, and the senior's face wears an expression of mixed emotion—a feeling of anxiety, lest he should miss his degree—of joy at the thought of having so nearly finished a number of year's work—sorrow at having to leave all the surroundings which have gone to make such happy college days. And to you, Mr. Senior, before you leave these walls for good, we would say a word.

As you were talking with the fellows that day about the way some of the alumni lacked interest in the welfare of the college, don't you remember that resolve you made that you would stand by the fellows when you got out in the world, that you would do everything in your power to help athletics along, that you would try to get every good fellow you saw to come to W. & L., and all that? Do you remember it? Well keep on remembering it and put your resolve in practice. Foster that love you have for your Alma Mater so that instead of being cooled by the cold winds of life, it may rather be blown into an ever increasing glow. Remember that the University has done everything in its power to make you fit for life, and now your time is coming in which to return a part of that benefit.

As we look back over the year the question arises—"Has it been a success?" The outside says, "No, they had but a hundred and forty odd matriculates." But is the number of matriculates the only object of the University's existence?

Can a year be called a failure in which an institution has put at its head one of the greatest men of the time? When the great thinkers of the country have felt themselves honored at having an opportunity of coming here to attend the inauguration of our new president, and the student has had the benefit of hearing the words which fell from their tongues? If Confucius was right when he said that an hour's conversation with a great man is more profitable than a year's study of books, our college year could be called nothing but a success when we have been thrown in touch with such a one as directs the affairs of our college.

To be sure we had few students, but how about the football team? It could hardly be called a failure with but one defeat to its credit. With a regular bantam weight team we defeated teams far our superior in weight, and were only downed when our opponents averaged seventeen pounds to the man more than ours, and that after a great loss of training.

Our Glee Club, though not having given a public performance for its own benefit, has done less selfish deeds by throwing its talent into "Trial by Jury" and "Pinafore," making successes of these instead of gaining laurels for itself.

The baseball season has witnessed a larger schedule than we have had for a great number of years. Our players on the whole have acquitted themselves with credit to the team and to the college; and, though at times their actions have seemed open to criticism, they have shown by their scores that they can play.

Good work has been done in the literary societies, much interest having been shown in them, and a new movement having been started in them—the joint debates.

The Wednesday morning talks must not be left out of the inventory of '98's resources.

In the line of publications the Collegian has improved, our annual, the Calyx, promises to be up to the mark of its predecessors, and the sheet before you tells of a forward step in college journalism at Washington and Lee.

And above all we have shown an increase of college spirit.

If all these be the marks of failure, let us have some more failures and we will rest content.

Oratorical Contest.

On the 18th of May the eighth annual contest of the Southern Intercollegiate Oratorical Association was held in the capitol at Nashville, Tenn., under the auspices of the Vanderbilt University. Mr. N. F. Cheairs of Vanderbilt, was the successful contestant, his oration being "The Dawn of a New Era."

The following colleges had contestants: University of the South, University of Virginia, University of South Carolina, Central College, University of Texas, and Vanderbilt University.

It was with much disappointment that Washington and Lee failed to appear, but her contestant found at the last moment that the near proximity of an important examination would render it impossible for him to go. The association will hold its next contest at the University of Virginia.

On Friday evening the class of '99 of Washington and Lee University was delightfully entertained by Mr. Preston Allan at his home on upper Mains street, assisted by his sisters, Miss Margaret and Miss Janet Allan. The singing of Miss Janet Allan and Mr. Anschutz and the playing of Miss Frierson were some of the charming features of this most delightful evening, and added greatly to the pleasure of all those who heard them. Among those present were the Misses Houston, Miss Pratt, Miss Nettie Preston, Miss Moore, Miss Semmes, Miss Wilson, Miss Frierson, Miss Mildred Myers, Miss Pendleton, Miss May Ross, and Messrs. Tucker, Smith, Panacke, Carmichael, Faulkner, Sloane, Miller, Oberlin, Snyder, Watson, Barrett, White, Campbell, Anschutz, Capito, Preston, Roark, Dixon and Shively.

As Art. VI of the Athletic constitution now reads, the Athletic committee appoints the "managers of the Athletic teams." This includes the manager of track athletics, and it is earnestly hoped that the committee will select a hustler so that we may really have a field day next year.

Let every student sign the petition to the Board of Trustees. It will be doing your part toward helping the University along in a very material way.

Boat Crews.

We won't attempt to prophesy which crew will win, although we are partisan enough to think there is only one crew that is the proper stuff. The crews have now gotten into a shape that makes it possible to compare them with some degree of accuracy. In point of weight they are almost even, the Albert Sidney's having about three pounds to the better on the average. But the weight is more evenly distributed in the Harry Lee boat. As to strength the Albert Sidney's have the advantage; Tucker at one is the "weak spot," but so far he seems to have pulled his weight. His form seems very good.

Of the Harry Lee's, Capito at two is weakest. Both he and Tucker are in danger of overtraining, and the men in charge of the crews must be very careful. We have, fortunately, had cool weather so far, but if a hot spell comes only the most careful handling will keep these men in shape. An overtrained man is worse than one without sufficient training.

As to the other men, all seem to be in good condition, and some are getting fat on the work. The training is doing them good and they are all holding out well.

In the rowing of the two crews there can be noted considerable difference; not in speed but more in style. Both crews are making good time and if the improvement is steady the race will certainly be close. The Harry Lee's pull a faster stroke and a slightly longer one than their rivals. The most notable difference is that Harry Lee does more pulling with their backs, that is, they swing more. There is quite a difference in the style of stroke of the two but a detailed explanation is not necessary, nor interesting. A great deal of fuss has been made over the "English stroke" and the "Cook stroke" and the others but the best thing is to keep the boat trim, pull all together as one man and pull as hard as possible. Beyond this there are a good many details but they are not of supreme importance.

As far as it is possible to judge them we would say that the Albert Sidney's have the advantage in weight and muscle, while the Harry Lee's are slightly better in form and row a faster stroke. The race will tell the rest.

His W. & L. U. friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

Memorial Day.

The memorial program for today promises to be of unusual interest, and he will miss a great deal who fails to attend the exercises which are held in the chapel at 5 o'clock. There will be a short introduction, after which President Wilson will deliver the Memorial address. The procession will form immediately after the exercises and march to the cemetery where the cadets fire a salute, and the veterans of the Rockbridge Battery fire five minute guns in honor of the sleeping heroes. The ladies of the town are seeing that graves are fitly decorated.

The B. & O. Schedule.

A petition requesting the B. & O. to change the time of departure of the morning train from 4:30 to 8 a. m. is a move that will meet the hearty approval of all who have to travel north by that road.
