The CALYX
of Washington and Lee University
1948
It is not often in this life that we are able to find a friend whom we feel is as valuable to the whole world as he is to us individually. But Mr. Graham was such a man, and without assuming the role of a debap, Mr. Graham gave freely of his talent and efforts to any—and there were many—who needed them. There is little of art, or music, or language which he could not have told those who would ask. We cannot believe, however, that it is by his accomplishments that Mr. Graham would have liked to have been remembered. His true profession was not that of teaching—but instead that of being a man. And in this he succeeded as few indeed have. Reality is not always kind; but Mr. Graham, above all things, was a realist, and would have protested a high-flown eulogy on this occasion. Because this is so, we firmly believe that if he were here today he would want us to engrave his memory in the words of one of his students: "He was the only man in the world I could enjoy taking an 8:25 under."

John A. Graham

A MESSAGE TO THE CLASS OF 1948

Through the coming years this volume, I am confident, will mean more and more to you, a kind of text-book for many "sessions of sweet silent thought." I hope that these pages will enrich you with happy memory, sustain you with revival of friendship and a sense of its power, embolden you again with inspiration and with faith. I thank you for the compliment you paid this University by electing it as your Alma Mater, and I assure you that we follow you with pride and with affection.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA
Early in the first semester this small group of talented musicians was formed by Chap Boyd. The band, playing mostly society music, went into rehearsal with views of playing at house parties and other small affairs.

Organized on the style of a "combo," the band consisted of Chap Boyd, on the trombone; Bob Reid, on the alto sax; Berrie Hall, on the piano; Al Hoeser, on the guitar, and Ray Coates, on drums.

Outstanding among the dates played by the band were the Phi Kappa Psi's fall house party, the Lambda Chi Alpha's Christmas party, Pi Kappa Alpha's December house party, and the Annual Washington and Lee Alumni Dance held at the Oakwood Country Club at Lynchburg.

The band enjoyed campus-wide popularity and was known for its "sentimental, danceable" music, featuring special arrangements of such old favorites as "Body and Soul", "I Surrender Dear", "Ain't Misbehavin'", "My Blue Heaven", and "Honeysuckle Rose".

Washington and Lee, 13; Quantico, 0

Under the able direction of Head Coach Art Lewis and Assistant Coaches Carl Wise and John Jaffurs, Washington and Lee's Big Blue football team opened the 1947 season at Wilson Field on September 20 by downing a strong team of Marines from Quantico, 13-0. Led by the running of Joe Bartos, a former Navy star, and the passing of Rudy Flores, the Marine squad was able to provide the Generals with plenty of stiff opposition in the early part of the game. But late in the second quarter, passes by Dick Working and Mike Boyda set the Blue attack rolling, and just before halftime, Halfback Charlie Harrington, on a long and beautiful run, dashed for the Generals' first score. Ed Tenny converted for the extra point and W & L was ahead 7-0 at the half. Although Bartos and Flores continued to make things dangerous, Coach Lewis in the second half gave most members of the Blue team an opportunity to play, with Linemen Don Fergusson, Tom Ciancutti, and John Kay, all freshmen, appearing particularly outstanding. In the final minutes of the contest, the starting lineup took over again and a few plays later pushed over a second touchdown with Harrington carrying the ball. The try for the extra point failed.
Aiming for their second victory with a spirit of revenge because of the 1946 Homecoming setback at the hands of the Spiders, the Generals journeyed to the state capital September 27, and overwhelmed Richmond, 16-3. Richmond opened up midway in the second quarter with an offensive drive that went to the Generals' 16-yard line. Here the Blue, led by Center Dyke Norman, threw up a defense that completely stopped the Spider attack. However, the Richmond group, not to be stopped, on the fourth down scored when their star kicker, Thompson, sent the ball through the uprights for a field goal. Richmond's lead was short-lived, though, for on their kickoff after the field goal, Halfback Brian Bell scooped up the ball on his own five and sprinted 95 yards through the entire Spider squad for a score. Freshman Fullback Walt Michaels booted the extra point. Just before the end of the half as the Lewis-coached team forced the Spiders deep into their own territory, W & L's lanky End, Jim Lutens, blocked a Richmond kick from the end zone—the ball rolling behind the goal posts for a safety. With a 9-3 lead going into the second half, the Blue continued to show complete mastery of the situation, as Bell, following a long W & L drive, scored again on a short run through the center of the line.
Washington and Lee, 6; West Virginia, 35

On a hot and dusty field in Charleston, West Virginia, on October 4, the Generals renewed their historic rivalry with the Mountaineers by going down in defeat 35-6. It was West Virginia's twenty-sixth victory over Washington and Lee in thirty-one games which the two schools have played. With the powerful Mountaineers of Coach Bill Kern making full use of superior manpower to score almost at will, the only bright spot of the day from the W & L standpoint was the passing of Dick Working, who completed thirteen of twenty-three attempts. The Blue's lone tally came after passes to Ends Lukens and Jim Fahey and Halfback Charlie Harrington had brought the ball to the West Virginia one, where Brian Bell carried it over. This year's game was played on a dusty field, and many observers felt that this fact, in part, accounted for the large score the West Virginians were able to run up over an exhausted Blue, lacking in reserve strength.
Washington and Lee, 15; George Washington, 6

The Generals returned to the win column on October 11 by defeating George Washington, 15-6, at Wilson Field, thus gaining their second Southern Conference victory. Forced by bad weather to withdraw their vaunted aerial attack, the Generals unleashed an effective ground offensive during the early part of the game that netted a touchdown when Walt Michaels took a handoff from Working and stepped fifteen yards to the goal line. The try for the extra point was no good. The George Washington line, one of the largest to oppose the Blue all year, then dug into the mud and held until the third quarter, when Ed Tenny was able to kick a field goal from the G.W. 22. Within the last five minutes of play, the Generals tried an aerial play in which Working threw a 30-yard pass from the middle of the field to Gene Bennett who galloped for the final W & L score. The Colonials scored in the last minute of the game in one of the most unusual plays of the year. The W & L team had the ball on their own 34-yard line, and, as they attempted a line plunge, the pigskin got away from Bennett, went straight up in the air, where it was grabbed by burly G.W. Tackle Carl Butkus, who, in the resulting confusion, streaked for a touchdown.

GENERALs INVADE WAHOO LAND...
Washington and Lee, 7; Virginia, 32

It was the sunny afternoon of October 18 at Charlottesville that Art Lewis’ men staged a gridiron battle that will long be remembered by all who saw it. For, although Virginia’s margin of victory in the end was large, the final score by no means told the story. The Cavaliers, with smooth-working plays, moved into W & L territory a few minutes after the opening kickoff and tallied as Pennial went over from the 27. Pennial again was the man for Virginia in the second quarter when he broke through the General defense forty-two yards for a second marker. With the Cavaliers in the lead, 13-0, the Blue came on to the field a revived team in the third quarter and scored on the second play as Dick Working, falling back to his own thirty, heaved the ball to Harrington, who took it near the midfield stripe and, successfully eluding most of the Virginia team, went for the score. The try for the extra point was good. Then came the play which broke the General’s heart and spirit. Washington and Lee’s Harrington took a Virginia punt on his own twenty and raced down the sidelines eighty yards for what apparently was the tying score. As the crowd-packed stadium went wild, the officials called the play back and penalized the Blue 15 yards for holding. Thus it was that all hope of overcoming and defeating their ancient rivals faded for the Blue, and from that point on, they were unable to unleash an effective offensive, or restrain the Cavaliers, who put over three more touchdowns.
Before a Homecoming crowd of several thousand on October 25, the Generals made short work of Davidson's Wildcats by burying them on the bottom of a 32-0 score. Getting off to a rather slow start, the Blue really got underway in the closing part of the first quarter, when Brian Bell took a Davidson punt and scampered forty-five yards to the goal. Tightening up, the Wildcats were able to hold the Blue to small gains in the second period, but after that W & L just showed too much power. In the second half, Charlie Harrington racked up six more points on a 41-yard payoff run. Gene Bennett went over twice on dashes of five and twelve yards respectively, and Center Joe McCutcheon concluded by intercepting a desperate, last minute pass attempt which he carried twenty-five yards for the tally. Walt Michaels was successful in two of his extra point attempts.
Washington and Lee, 13; Army 65

Washington and Lee's injury-riddled squad was no match for the strong, star-studded Army team that was on the rebound from a defeat—their first in several years—at the hands of Columbia the week before, at West Point, November 1. From the very start, Army backs, with the aid of near-perfect blocking, had pretty much their own way and with the contest barely started, they had rolled up a 12-point lead. But even with the odds against them as they were, the men from Washington and Lee had no intention of giving up the fight. With the ball on the W & L thirty-three, Dick Working uncorked the arm that had already gained him considerable fame as one of the nation's top passers, and let go to Charlie Harrington, who caught the ball behind the Army secondary and raced for a score with the Cadets close on his heels. Michaels kicked true, and with their first period lead narrowed to a bare five points, the West Pointers cut loose in the second period to run the mark to 32-7 at the half. Realizing that it would be impossible to stem the tide, and that there were two more Southern Conference games to be played, Art Lewis pulled his starting lineup and used the second and third squads in most of the two final periods. As Red Blair's group continued to amass points, Working, who completed 20 of 35 pass attempts while he was in the game, came in during the contest's waning moments and tossed a second touchdown pass—this time to Vic Marler—much to the joy of those gathered on the Generals' side of the field. But that was all and the gun went off shortly after.
At Lynchburg, November 8, W & L lost a game that most people thought they would win. It was a 27-14 loss to the Gobblers from Blacksburg who, until this particular day, had not looked like a winning team to many observers. However, paced by the running of Sterling Wingo, VPI let everyone know that they were "up" for this one by demonstrating a smooth-running ground and aerial attack. The Generals, in dropping their first Southern Conference game, managed to tally twice on passes from Working. The first Blue marker was in the first period when End Jim Fahey snagged the ball to briefly tie the game, and the second one was in the last quarter when Harrington, one of W & L's best pass receivers, pulled one down for six more points. Both of Michaels' extra-touchdown kicks were good.

In dreary weather at Roanoke's Victory Stadium, Washington and Lee lost their second straight conference game by succumbing to the power of William and Mary's bowl-bound Indians. With Jack Cloud crossing the goal four times, Ed Magdziak twice, and Lou Hoitsme once, it was plain to see which team controlled the field all the way. General backs were stopped cold throughout the afternoon by the W&M line. Feeling on the Washinton and Lee side was as dark as the day and most fans were leaving the stadium when, with only a few seconds remaining in the game, Gene Bennett leaped into the air, grabbed a W&M pass, and promptly took off on a 99-yard touchdown jaunt.

Washington and Lee, 18; Delaware, 13

In the season's finale, the Big Blue brought to a close what was their best season since 1934 by edging a fighting Delaware grid team, 18-13, at Wilmington. The Generals started fast against the Blue Hens—a team unbeaten since their third encounter of the season—and Brian Bell scored on a line buck a few plays after the opening kickoff. In the second quarter W & L repeated, as Hank Mastroianni dived over from the one, climaxing a long drive. Both conversion attempts were unsuccessful. Coming back rejuvenated after the halftime intermission, Delaware opened up on the Generals with both barrels and, sparked by Stalloni, had scored two touchdowns and one extra point by the final stanza. Trailng by one point, W & L combined a passing and running attack to push the pigskin to the Blue Hen four. From that point Brian Bell, taking up where the injured Dick Working left off, passed four yards into the end zone to Jim Carpenter for the winning tally. A few minutes later the curtain rang down on the Generals most successful season in thirteen years. Dick Working, who was named quarterback on the Virginia All-State team, and Dyke Norman, who starred for the East in the annual East-West Shriners' game on New Year's Day in San Francisco, will be absent from the W&L grid ranks in 1948. Both will be sorely missed by the whole squad. Filling out the roster next year should be such veterans as Boyda, Ball, Harrington, Mastrianni, Lukens, Fahey, Miller, Andy McCutcheon, Gregory, Capuano, McCausland, and Sauers.

This year's freshman group, including Michaels, Holt, Stark, Gillespie, Goldsmith, Radulovic, Fergusson, Kay, Jack Joe McCutcheon, and Cancutti, will also be on hand next year to strengthen the Generals' squad.

RESUME

Plagued by everything from freshmanitis to bad breaks, Washington and Lee’s Blue Comet basketball forces still managed to command more respect in the Southern Conference 1947-48 cage campaign than their 7 won 17 lost record would indicate.

Definitely considered for a tourney berth until late in the season, the Comets operated under a tremendous handicap in height and experience departments all winter, against seasoned quintets boasting towering point-makers.

Faced with the loss of seven veterans who carried the brunt of W & L’s more successful 1946-47 basketball wars, Coach Cary Wise in December began the herculean task of building a creditable cage machine from the predominantly green candidates. Only three lettermen-forward George Pierson, guard Steve Ulaki, and guard-Captain Fred Vinson appeared to form a nucleus. Three General gridmen, Bob Goldsmith, Don Fergusson and Jim Fahey, reported for cage duty directly from Wilson Field—all without previous collegiate experience. Joe Auer—a former West Virginia University hoopster—brightened the basket scene for Wise, while holdovers Ed Thomas, Chris Compton, Charley McDowell and Bruce Parkinson, plus freshman newcomers Howie Bratches and Charlie Agnor, just about completed the application roster.

Though he hadn’t touched a basketball since playing for Beckley, W. Va., High School in 1945, Bob Goldsmith moved into the Blue Comet center slot in pre-season practices and soon convinced rival coaches that he was a dangerous force to be reckoned with for the next four years. By season’s end he had amassed a total of 347 points and had topped the Old Dominion scoring ladder most of the winter, ahead of William and Mary’s Chet Giermak and his teammate George Pierson, considered one of the best set-shot experts in the South, who manufactured almost 300 points, many manufactured from his favorite coffin-corner spot.

TEAM HURT BY LACK OF

After a warm-up 80-44 victory session with the Danville Danmasters, the Comets gained experience but little else on their first road trip, losing to Tennessee (48-85) and Davidson (45-55), but managing to edge impotent Clemson (65-58) for their initial Conference win.

Back in Doremus gym, W & L upset Maryland 70-64, and then lost to Duke at Lynchburg (59-72). Christmas vacations figured prominently in two more losses, to Quantico (50-64) and West Virginia (34-78).

At the start of the new year, although Goldsmith showed little respect for Virginia's defenses in sinking 27 points, the Cavaliers came out ahead (59-72) and the Comets dropped another decision to North Carolina.
before staving off a desperate last-minute surge to beat William and Mary 51-49.

An unprecedentedly strong Roanoke College quintet—which later went on to a 19 won, 1 lost season—added W & L to its list of victims twice by 41-48 and 24-32 decisions. However, the Comets softened the blows slightly by decisively trounced DuPont (71-47), between the two Roanoke engagements.

Highlighting the season was Washington and Lee's startling upset Conference victory over George Washington on the first leg of the Blue Comet's northern tour in January. Sports scribes and statistic-makers were astounded to hear that W & L had beaten the Colonels, a ranking power in the South, by a close 73-72.

Maryland avenged the earlier loss by whipping W & L 38-64 the next night, and then the Comets bounced back to Lexington for a 65-57 victory over Richmond.

At that point W & L was among the potential tournament teams but a loss to VPI (49-72) and a crowd-maddening decision in favor of George Washington (65-66) ended the Comet's threat.

Poor breaks and hacking coughs worked together to defeat Washington and Lee in five remaining games, by Quantico (64-66), William and Mary (42-71), Richmond (57-69), VPI (47-55), and Virginia (49-64).

Considered in the light of non-subsidisation at W & L in the face of ever-increasing attention to the game in other Southern institutions the Comets and Coach Wise deserve a capital E for effort and a healthy round of applause goes to Steve Ulaki who played his second season with a badly damaged knee which required a specially built brace, and Captain Fred Vinson who kept W & L in many games solely on the basis of his rebound ability.

HARRY BROADBENT, Coach

Lindell Grapemen N. C. State
When stories of the Wahoo's had been mat practice in September began to trickle over the Blue Ridge about mid-November, the official call to the General wrestlers was issued.

The early workouts were spiced by the first Virginia wrestling clinic on December 6 and the next week by the second annual all-university open wrestling championships. Winners of this "team tryout" took to the road on December 18 for a match with Loyola College of Baltimore, and on the following day a match with the always strong Franklin and Marshall College of Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Loyola was vanquished, 31-5, with reserves providing much of the punch. But the experienced Diplomats of F. & M. College handed the Generals what proved to be their only dual meet setback of the season as a fall in the heavyweight division gave the match to the Pennsylvanians, 17-9.

Returning from the Christmas holidays, the Generals were "up" for their bouts with the University of Virginia in a meet that saw the Wahoo's fail to gain a single decision. Two draw matches marred what would have otherwise been a shutout triumph over the state men. The battle of the books at semester's end was another lop-sided victory for the grapplers, and January 30 saw every varsity wrestler ready for the first Southern Conference foe, Maryland, and the pattern for later victories over the Southern Conference teams was set at College Park by a 25-3 triumph. This match saw the Terrapin co-captains, both runners-up in the conference tournament last year, mastered by two General freshmen: Joe Sconce and Bob Mahoney, and Jerry Jack, heaviest heavyweight ever to wrestle for the Big Blue, turned on the power to pin 240-lb. Matthews for his best performance of the year.

In the first home showing of their match talents, the Generals turned on the power against North Carolina University, 21-3, to avenge last year's defeat by the Tarheels. Four days later the other black mark of the 1947 season was erased by a convincing 25-3 win over the Wolfpack of North Carolina State. Falls earned by Ted Lonergan and Ken Finley in this match placed them as the leading point-getters for the met men.

A flurry of falls marked the 26-6 triumph over the mat men of Virginia Tech. Irvin Wicknick took the measure of his Gobbler in 1:09 which held as the fastest pin of the varsity dual meet season. Lonergan, Sconce, and Finley also copied five-pointers in this match, but the fans also gave high praise to Ken "Tiger" Lindell for outpointing the Tech Captain, Ed Rosen.

ENDING IMPRESSIVE SEASON

A week-end loaded with three matches closed the home dual meet season. On February 20 the reserves again stepped forward to take the measure of the shipbuilders from the Newport News Apprentice School, 20-8. February 21 saw a much improved Davidson College club defeated, 22-8. This match marked the first time all year that Cal Guest, General leadoff man, had been tested, but he won his match handily from Jim Jung, Davidson's conference runner-up in 1947. On February 23, Duke, with the best conference record of any team besides W & L, met their first severe reverse, 25-5, at the hands of the Generals. Climax of the match and feature of the entire season was "Deadpan" Bob Mahoney's double fall over colorful Jack Wamsley of the Blue Devils. Wamsley, former two-time scholastic champ from Oklahoma, had never before met his peer in wrestling. He stepped out of his weight class to meet the General's "best,", but his psychology backfired.

With sights on the conference tournament, the Generals "moved up a weight" to meet the Mountaineers of West Virginia in the final match at Morgantown that saw more than six thousand rabid basketball fans remain to see the W & L team win, 17-8, after an important intersectional hoop game. This was perhaps the largest crowd to witness a collegiate wrestling match in history.

The power behind the Greco Pingo Varsity all season has been the unusually fine "B" team that often moved up to first string berths and in all other matches defeated the best of Virginia Prep and high school wrestling teams. Well spaced matches all season saw them win against Virginia School of the Deaf, Wahoo Jayvees, Augusta Military Academy and Jefferson Senior High, twice, Virginia Techlets, Granby of Norfolk, and Woodberry Forest School. The Brigadiers bolstered the Varsity in matches with the Apprentice School and Davidson, and were themselves strengthened by varsity men to overpower the Naval Academy Jayvees, 21-12, in their top strength test of the year.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE TOURNAMENT

Playing host to the Southern Conference tournament, five of Washington and Lee's freshman loaded wrestling team swept through to championships to lead the Generals to an impressive Southern Conference championship. The General matmen ran up 41 points during the two-day meet to stand head and shoulders above North Carolina State and Virginia Military Institute, teams that ended in a second place tie with 17 points apiece. Other finishers in order of point standings were: Maryland 13; Wake Forest, 9; North Carolina University defending champions, 7; Citadel, 6; Virginia Tech, 4; and Davidson, 3.

Facing a tough 24-game schedule, including such teams as Yale, Penn State, Georgetown, Quantico Marines, and Michigan, as well as their traditional opponents, the Generals found themselves, for the most part, to be composed of untested material, since only a few former lettermen returned to school.

Former General Monogramers counted on by Coach Smith included pitchers Graham Leslie, John Ligon, and Nelson Newcomb, infielders Fred Vinson, Dick Working, and Ev Schneider, and All-State Catcher Johnny Bell. Outstanding newcomers were Brian Bell, Don Hillock and Ed Thomas.

During the spring holidays the "Blue" went on their first road trip which proved to be unsuccessful. Unable to play Yale because of bad weather the Generals had had little experience prior to this trip. They met defeat at the hands of William and Mary, Richmond and Georgetown. Returning after this trip the Generals sought their first victory against Penn State. A home run by third baseman Fred Vinson during the last inning of play gave Washington and Lee a 9-8 victory over Penn State, bringing to an end a hectic two hours and thirty-five minutes of play.

After dropping their first game to V.P.I. in Blacksburg, the Generals shut out the Gobblers in the second game played on Wilson Field. Buck Leslie, backed up by beautiful fielding, was able to shut the Techmen out by a score of 6-0.

Following the V.P.I. shut-out the Generals faced William and Mary, shutting them out, 1-0. W & L played a smooth game behind Ligon, who never appeared to lose control. The lone Blue score came as a result of two walks given by Indian hurler Bernhard, and a hard hit single by Heinze which sent Ligon into home plate from second.

The season was brought to a close as the Generals bowed to Virginia in Charlottesville. The ball game was tight until the eighth inning arrived when the Wahoos loaded the bases and sent several runs in by bunts and a double. The final score was 13-7 with Virginia in front.

Washington and Lee’s return to the cinder paths was impeded by late spring snows and improved facilities. Outstanding performers on the small General squad were Jim Lukens, captain, all-around performer and winner of the first Fletcher Memorial award; Warren Hobson, middle distance runner who turned in a 51.5 quarter mile at the state meet; Vic Marler, high point man in the Davidson duel meet; Dick Hurxthal, Philadelphia quartermiler; Jim Sunderland, Missouri dash man; Dave Croyden, hurdler, and Bill Metzel, high jumper.

Early in the spring a group of enthusiastic students donned the "Blue and White" to represent Washington and Lee in its first Lacrosse game since 1942. Having made its greatest gains with recognition as a minor sport and acquisition of a minimum amount of equipment the group went on to prove itself on the field. The team concluded by being the University's most successful sport of the year, a remarkable achievement considering that the group was student coached and often found difficulty in locating a practice space.

Soccer, a new sport at Washington and Lee, was included in the varsity athletic schedule this year. A squad of determined men and a coach, who stressed physical conditioning, produced a team that turned in an undefeated season.

Jim Trundle, half-back and captain-elect of next year's squad, was outstanding with his consistent aggressive play. Russ Thomes and Dave Croyder sparked the General attack, while Pete Muhlenberg and Bruce Parkinson maintained a tight defense throughout the season.

The final game provided a proper climax to the season when the under-dog Generals handed a 3-0 defeat to the University of Virginia on Wilson field.

An enlarged schedule has been arranged for next year and will include games with Roanoke College, Virginia, Duke, High Point College, North Carolina and Maryland.

With the expert coaching of Fred Perry, former World's champion and Davis Cup star, the Washington and Lee Tennis team stroked out a season's record of seven wins and six defeats.

Suffering from lack of collegiate experience, the team, consisting of Ken Wilson, Pasadena, Calif.; Harry Wellford, Memphis, Tenn.; Jim Farrar, Greenwich, Conn.; Art Joseph, Louisville, Ky.; Billy Clayton, Los Angeles, Calif., and Co-Captain Don Moxham, Rutherford, N. J., managed to improve considerably upon the record of the preceding season.

The schedule was highlighted by an excursion down into North Carolina for matches with Davidson and the Charlotte Country Club. Richmond's beautiful Country Club of Virginia also entertained the Generals, downing the collegians, 6-3, in a close tussle.

Fred Perry greatly increased the interest in tennis at Washington and Lee by playing exhibition matches with Vinnie Richards and John March before large gatherings of students.

Cy Twombly's golfers opened their 1947 season with a series of six matches on the home course, winning four, tying one, and losing one, the loss being at the hands of Big Ten champion Michigan in the Generals' first match of the season.

The next three matches resulted in three losses by narrow margins to Virginia, George Washington, and VPI on their home courses. All three of these teams were tied or beaten in Lexington during the course of the season.

At Winston-Salem the linksmen downed Davidson in a preliminary to the Southern Conference medal play tournament, in which W & L finished fourth out of the twelve teams entered. Captain Gordon Sibley and John McKelway finished in a tie for eleventh place in individual competition.

The season ended with a northern trip during which the team defeated Delaware, Gettysburg, and Franklin-Marshall. The results showed nine wins, four losses, one tie in dual meets, and a fourth place in the Southern Conference.

In its first year of intercollegiate competition since the war, the General’s Nators finished a very short season by splitting the only two meets scheduled. Coach Twombly had only Bob Mahorter left from his pre-war teams and a batch of freshmen to work with. By the time the initial match was to be held several men had already shown good possibilities. Of these men, Mahorter, who swam the 200-yard breast stroke and the breast stroke leg of the medley relay; Ed Rushton, the backstroker; Frank Carter, freestyler; and Julian Frank, another freestyler, were outstanding. Lynch Christian, Bill Pacy, Bob Kearse, Ray English, Larry Burchell, Bob Moody, Hap Hamel, and Larry Garvin rounded out the squad.

Late in March of 1947 the Generals crew took to the water for the first time in seven years, bringing back to the University one of its oldest and most colorful sports.

Hampered by lack of experience, the Blue oarsmen had a hard pull all the way. However, on the 9th of May they traveled to Florida where they met Rollins College, one of their traditional prewar rivals. Rowing on choppy water at Lake Maitland, the outclassed Generals trailed the "Tars" by three lengths at the finish.

Undismayed by the loss of their only intercollegiate race of the year, the Big Blue began practice early last fall in preparation for their full season this coming spring. With the acquisition of a new shell given by the Alumni Association, the watermen are looking forward to bringing Big Time Crew to their own James River Course.

Four times a year the Lexington scene of studying turns into a scene of festivity. Hundreds of girls invade the manly air of this small Shenandoah Valley town. Dances have had a long history at Washington and Lee and their place of prominence is unchallenged among college social events. When the valley is ablaze with autumn colors and the football spirit is at its height, Openings usher in the social season. For many it is their first college dance and the chance to show one's prowess as a female attractor. Fancy Dress, started many years ago by Miss Annie Jo White, is the biggest and best known of all our dances. Costumes of every description and appropriate decorations recreate some scene of bygone splendor. This year it was a night at Hampton Court. After a winter of coldness and snow the warm days of April bring the long awaited Spring Dances and the feeling of informality with picnics at Goshen and many outdoor parties. The last dance of the year, Finals, is the best time of the school year. School is out, girls are without chaperones and everyone is in a holiday mood. It is truly a time to celebrate. From the opening musical note to the last sound of College Friendships it is a time that will be long remembered by everyone.

A ball at Hampton Court was the theme of the 1948 Fancy Dress Ball. The figure was led by Ralph Davis, president of the dance set, and his date, Miss Jane Harp of Hillsville, Virginia. The men in their stately court dress with girls in billowing skirts danced to the music of Elliott Lawrence and his orchestra.

The year is 1662. The ceremony of making Charles II and Catherine of Braganza man and wife is a thing past; and the brunette little Portuguese now rules as queen beside her indolent, intemperate, and selfish king.

The place is Hampton Court Palace. The occasion is a court ball. England is still rejoicing over the restoration of the House of Stuart... and nothing is too gay, too colorful or too naughty. This is the England of Pepys and Clarendon, of Castlemaine... and Amber. This is England at its best.

The main lights dim—and go out. And now the Lord Chamberlain takes his place at the entrance. Three raps of the Chamberlain's staff and the Duke and Duchess of York enter as he announces them in a loud, clear voice. Then Buckingham, Monmouth, and Richmond; Norfolk, Clarendon, and Chesterfield; Shrewsbury, Rochester, and Bristol; Gramont, Bathurst, and Arlington.

The trumpeters advance to the center of the floor. Another fanfare... and now as Charles enters with his queen upon one arm and his favorite Spaniel in the other, each couple bows and curtseys as he passes. The royal favors are given, the King and Queen begin the waltz. The courtiers follow suit.

The 1948 Fancy Dress Ball has begun.

Elliott Lawrence gives out with "The Anniversary Song."
The first night of the 1948 Fancy Dress set was the Junior Prom, led by Mark Sours, president of the Junior Class, and Mrs. Sours. The figured ended with a '49 formation denoting the class's year of graduation.

The initiation into the Sigma Fraternity was held with the initiates singing "College Friendship."

The last night of the dance set was the Omicron Delta Kappa Formal, led by James Harmon, Omicron Delta Kappa president, and Miss Evelyn Herrin of St. Petersburg, Florida. The members of the figure formed a rotating wheel.

TOWARD THE THIRD CENTURY
1749  THE BICENTENNIAL  1949

During the session of 1948-49 Washington and Lee will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of its founding as Augusta Academy.

The program of events will include one major gathering devoted to student life and activities, another to scholarly achievement, and a third to the Bicentennial Alumni Reunion.

The University will publish in 1949, a history of the institution by Ollinger Crenshaw, '25, and a Bicentennial Directory carrying the name of every alumnus of the first two centuries.

JOHN W. DAVIS

In preparation for Washington and Lee's third century of service to the South and to the Nation, a campaign to raise a Bicentennial Fund is being conducted by a committee of alumni under the chairmanship of the Honorable John W. Davis, '92, former Ambassador to Great Britain and Democratic presidential nominee in 1924.

The Bicentennial Fund will be used to maintain the University's high standards of instruction, to improve teaching facilities, and to create a Memorial Scholarship in the name of each of the 133 alumni who died in service during World War II.

Washington and Lee extends a cordial invitation to all alumni, parents and friends to visit the campus as often as may be possible during the period of the celebration, September, 1948-June, 1949.

V. M. I. COMMANDERS

Led by Bill Rattner, W&L '48, the best musicians of V.M.I. and W&L have combined to form one of the top college bands in the South. They have played successful engagements at Mary Baldwin College, Hollins College, Southern Seminary, Stuart Hall, and many other schools in the vicinity. In addition, they have played many house parties on the W&L campus, as well as playing for V.M.I. midwinter hops. The result of cooperation between the two schools is so successful and promising for the future, it is hoped that other organizations will follow the lead of the Commanders, and in turn, become as successful as they.
