BY THE STUDENTS AND FOR THE STUDENTS.

VOL. IV.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, SATURDAY, APRIL 6, 1901.

NO. 22.

U. PA. vs. W. & L. U.—April 4th, 1901.

The game on Thursday was one of the prettiest ever played on the University grounds. Even the inclemency of the weather, which at first threatened to make the game impossible, was forgotten amid the excitement and enthusiasm once the game had been started. Baker's work in the box was phenomenal, in fact the whole team played a superb game with only one error against them. Should the contemplated western trip be taken there will be different stories to be told of Kentucky and Tennessee.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

1st Inning.—Crawford, like the good boy he is, abided his time and was sent to the initial bag on a hit ball. Baker fanned the atmosphere and thenceforth made a mutual resolve that his opponent should share the same fate, which was verified nine times ere the game ended. "Tit" Bagley sacrificed himself, sending Crawford to 2nd. Andrews found a "nice one" and sent it out into the centre garden, and both

Mr. White and Mr. Gawthrop undertook to catch the fly. The result was that they ran together and Andrews going to 2nd, Crawford coming home. Unable to tell who was in fault, the scorers gave the runner a hit. Fox retired the side by knocking a grounder to 1st, leaving "Polly" on 2nd.

U. Pa. Collier hit to Baker, out at 1st; White flew out to left, and Newman out from Thompson to 1st.

2nd Inning.—"Oom Paul" lined it out in left, but White was there to get it. Boogher "sawed out." Thompson fouled out to catcher.

Gawthrop needed a racket—all he could do was to make three noble efforts and take his seat. Wansboro's bat had a hole in it. Jones hit to 1st, and this ended the second inning.

3rd Inning.—Spencer hit to pitcher, but in throwing it to 1st that gentleman let the ball go through him, giving Spencer his 2nd. Crawford sacrificed, Charley going to 3rd. Baker once more again made the resolve to get vengeance. "Tit" hit to Leary, out to Jones.

Bennett and Brown were the first victims of Baker's resolve. Leary fouled out to Spencer, and in the catch made by Spencer, it must be recorded as a "beaut," catching it after it had rebounded out of his hands.

4th Inning.—Andrews fouled out to Bennett. Fox and Bagley failing to find Mr. Leary's curves, retired the side.

Collier got a single. Here the red sweatered Pennsylvanians, fearing that they would be unable to find Baker's curves, then began using their backs as a means of getting to 1st. White was hit in the back, sending Collier to 2nd. Newman sacrificed, sending Collier to third and White to 2nd. Gawthrop singled out a two bagger, bringing in Collier and White. Gawthrop went to 3rd on passed ball of "Oom Paul's," and came in home on Wansboro's hit. Jones made a hit, Wansboro going to 2nd and then stealing 3rd. Brown got his base on balls. Leary failed to make connection and left three men on bases by his failure.

5th Inning.—Boogher got a hit; Thompson couldn't do anything; Spencer once again got to 1st on that gentleman's error. But that error was costly, for Boogher circled the bases. Crawford flew out to centre.

Collier made another hit. White tried the same old gag and went to 1st. Newman went out to shortstop. Gawthrop was sent to his base by a hit on the leg. Three men on bases, one out. Wansboro fouled out to Crawford. Jones hit to Baker, out at the initial bag.

6th Inning.—Baker made a safe hit. Bagley, S. C., sent him to 2nd on a sacrifice. Andrews went out from pitcher to 1st base. Fox flew out to left.

Bennett led off by "sawing the air." Brown got his base on balls, stole second, and came home on the home run of Leary's. This ended their run getting. Collier went out from Baker to Spencer. White hit a slow ball to Thompson, who fumbled, allowing the runner to reach 1st. White stole 2nd but he was left there by Newman failing to reach 1st.

7th Inning.—Bagley, J. W., flew out to centre. It was unfortunate that the wind was against him, for just before that fly he had knocked a clean two-bagger which the wind carried over the foul lines. Boogher failed to find another hit; he fanned. W. L. U. believing in the idea that a fresh batter is likely to fool the pitcher put in Breckinridge in place of Thompson. But "Buck" retired the side by striking out.

Gawthrop hit to Crawford, out at first. Wansboro flew out to W. L. U.'s captain. Jones made a hit. Bennett got his base on balls. But it was of no avail for Brown retired the side by striking out.

8th Inning.—Here Washington and Lee determined to do her best to win out. Spencer led off with a hit and was followed by Crawford. Baker sacrificed, advancing both runners. "Titlum" added another hit, Spencer coming home. An-draws in trying to bunt out to advance Crawford struck out. Fox, however, got a hit in deep centre, bringing in Crawford. Bagley, S. C., tried to make it a tally but was thrown out at home.

Leary struck out. Collier hit to deep centre for three bags. White hit a "pop up" to Baker. Newman put a "nice one" into Boogher's hands.

9th Inning.—Bagley, "Oom Paul," once more flew out to left, Boogher struck out, and was followed by Breckinridge, though he had to be thrown out at first.

As U. Pa. were then ahead, the game was here ended. E. C.

Roberts Harper's Illustrated Travel Lectures.

Dr. Roberts Harper's illustrated travel lectures on last Saturday and Monday evenings were two of the most enjoyable entertainments we have had this season.

"Round the World in a Man-of-War" was the title of the first lecture, which was finely illustrated by means of still and animated pictures. On Monday evening the subject "From Hudson to Thames" proved even more interesting.

Dr. Harper is a native of London, England, and a gentleman of high culture and ability as a public lecturer. The material which he uses is the result of a large and varied personal experience and is woven into a most attractive form. He is always in demand and from the many comments of the press and the public his ability is everywhere recognized.

The lectures besides being intensely interesting are also very instructive, and the illustrations unusually accurate and picturesque. Each lecture was supplemented by several humorous animated pictures designed especially for the younger members of the audience but appreciated by all.

It is needless to say that we shall be glad to have Dr. Harper with us again.

What is the matter with organizing a rooting club and electing a leader?

It may be well, perhaps, to explain to the holders of season tickets the reasons for not playing the second game with Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania had scheduled a game with Virginia on April 3rd but was prevented from playing it out on account of rain. On the next day they came here and asked both W. & L. and V. M. I. to give them a date in order that they might meet Virginia. This was merely a request and the game would not have been cancelled without our consent. The executive committee and management realizing that it would not be proper to detain Pennsylvania against her will, and that it was perfectly natural for her to be anxious to meet Virginia before her return home, decided to release them from their contract for a second game. The management of the matter was at all times characterized by the best of feeling, as indeed, the conduct of all the team was most gentlemanly and an honor to their institution. We trust that we may have a game with Pennsylvania next year.

The position taken by the writer of the communication in this issue is a good one, but the writer seems inclined to be severe in his strictures on the "rooting" in vogue here. We are glad to say that the rooting this year has been devoid of personalities, and in all respects in keeping with the traditions of Washington and Lee. We need rooting of the right kind, and plenty of it, for this early in the season it has been an important factor in both of our games.

The Fishburne Game.

Our team entered this game confident of an easy victory. This confidence might have cost them dearly, for contrary to expectations the Fishburne boys soon showed extraordinary improvement over the game of the Saturday before. A. Lambert pitched a splendid game, while C. Lambert as catcher, exhibited unusual skill, both as catch and batter, one of the features of the game being a home run knocked by him.

W. and L. U. started off well with two runs in the first inning, and then for five successive innings were shut out, when they awoke to the fact that they still had the game to win. Work then began in earnest. Five runs was the result of the seventh, then in the eighth made the score 10 for W. and L. U., and 5 for Fishburne.

That this game will be good for all concerned there can be no doubt. It will be gratifying to Fishburne and a good lesson for our boys.

The Greatest Need in Southern Education.

Professor Hogue's address before the Southern Educational Association in Richmond last December, which has received such wide circulation and comment in both the secular and religious press, has been issued in pamphlet form under the title "The Greatest Need in Southern Education Endowment of Our Own Institutions by Our Own People." The view held in this pamphlet should appeal to every true Southerner and is undoubtedly the right line to adopt in advancing Southern education. It is not in keeping with Southern traditions to be expending our resources in material improvements, and at the same time to be dependent on the generosity of the North to rebuild and advance our institutions of learning.

Twentieth Century Rooting.

Editor Ring-tum Phi:

I have noticed with much pleasure the good schedule of baseball games arranged, as well as the prospect for a good team to represent W. and L. U. I sincerely hope that the appointment of Mr. Wertenbaker as physical director may prove the signal for a general advance in athletics. And while the advance is being made in this branch of college work, Mr. Editor, might not our alma mater make some improvement and keep better abreast of the times in one other respect? I refer to the matter of "rooting." The manner of rooting in vogue at W. and L. U., unless a great change has been made this session, was common, I believe, among universities and colleges some ten years ago, but it has long since been abandoned for a more dignified as well as satisfactory manner, and the "guying" of players is now left for the small boy. Aside from the fact that the laws of hospitality demand kind treatment of visitors, it is important that a good impression be made upon visiting teams. I am sure that the treatment accorded visiting teams in Lexington of the athletic grounds is such as to encourage them to repeat the visit. But how about that on the athletic grounds? Is the player on a "prep." school team, for instance, likely to feel encouraged to attend a University where he has been "guyed" and made fun of and made to feel out of place? Probably from most of the institutions whose teams will be met this year, there is small chance of drawing matriculates. Yet the general reputation of the institution will be helped or injured by its treatment of these teams. Then, too, does not the continual hubbub serve to confuse our own team quite as much as the opposing one? Do not understand that I wish to discourage "root-ing." On the contrary I should like to see a change made that would make it much more effective. Let it be not so much an effort to rattle the opposing team, as to encourage our own.

Looking to this end, could not some one go to work and form a Rooting Club, root up some poets, and by offering prizes encourage them to exercise their talents in producing some good songs? Then would the ears of the spectators at the games be greeted, not with the din and discord of yesteryear, but with harmonious music interspersed with the dear old chicken-runk.

The Latin Monetary Union.

In the last issue of The Nation a very flattering and complimentary review of Mr. Willis' book is found, some of the extracts from which follow:

"Professor Willis has laid all students of monetary science under lasting obligations by this remarkable work. We hold it to be remarkable for its insight and grasp on economic principles, but still more for its laborious sifting of all the documentary and contemporaneous evidence available in the several countries forming the Latin Union. No such history of the Latin Union has hitherto been produced in any language, nor, it seems to us, will any future one be needed."

Schubert Lady Quartette.

The Schubert Lady Quartette, assisted by Messrs. Goodwal Dickerman and I. H. Lidy, will give an entertainment in chapel on Wednesday night, April 27th. The performance will not begin until 8.45, so that those whose attend prayer-meeting may have an opportunity of getting there before it begins.

This musical organization has been before the public for many years and has enjoyed wide popularity. The entertainment is high-class and refined, and has been given in numerous churches and under the auspices of various benevolent organizations.

The Lady Quartette has been everywhere received with approval and commendation. Mr. Goodwal Dickerman, the impersonator, is a wholesale dealer in laughs, and Mr. I. H. Lidy, the violinist, is a musician of rare ability. General admission 50 cents.

Banquet of Louisiana Alumni.

A reunion and banquet of the W. and L. alumni of Louisiana was held in New Orleans on last Saturday night. The faculty of the University was represented by Professor Stevens.

The meeting proved to be more than the usual alumni dinner, for a separate Law association, and a Louisiana State association were formed; resolutions of thanks to Harvard university for its generous gift to the Wilson endowment fund were adopted, and it was further resolved to raise $30,000 for the same fund in Louisiana.

The W. and L. alumni in Louisiana number about 120, including men of the highest position in the state—ex-Governor and present U. S. Senator Murphy J. Foster, ex-Congressman Theo. S. Wilkinson, Judge Horace L. Dufour, T. D. Foster, L. E. Hall, Professors Brown Ayres, J. H. Dillard, and W. Prentiss Brown of Tulane, and many others.

Nicholas Nickleby

The entertainment given by Mr. Livingston Barbour on Thursday evening was the most delightful of the year.

His arrangement of the main points in this powerful story of Mr. Dickens is a masterly one.

The alternations from grave to gay prevented any monotony and the audience was held at close attention for more than two hours. His impersonations of the quackish Ralph Nickleby, measuring all sentiment and affection in pounds and shillings; Mr. Arthur Gride, whose infatuation for the lovely Madeline Bray overcame to some extent even his miserly disposition; and of Mr. Wachford Squeers, who believed in hard work and frugal fare for others, were particularly effective.

It was a pleasure to have Mr. Barbour, and to our librarian must be given the credit of having induced him to come.

"I am not much of a mathematician," said the cigarette, "but I can add to a man's nervous troubles; I can subtract from his physical energies; I can multiply his aches and I can divide his mental powers; I can take interest from his work and discount his chance for success."
