THE RING-TUM PHI.

BY THE STUDENTS AND FOR THE STUDENTS.

VOL. IV.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1901.

NO. 29.

THE YEAR'S RECORD.

In another column will be found the season's individual and team averages as compiled by the official scorer with the assistance of his (some say hoodoo) system of hieroglyphics. The batting averages are not by any means what are technically called "fat" by the profession, but it may be well to state that they are positively not "padded" or stuffed as they are in the case of some teams. One of the most notorious loopholes for padding lies in the interpretation of "sacrifice" hits. In many places it is taken to include any ball hit by the batter which advances the runner on the put out. Our "official scorer" has always allowed a sacrifice hit only on an attempted bunt, according to the strict reading of the rule.

The averages show a remarkable evenness in seven out of the nine in batting, and while none of these seven are high, it has been proved that it is better for the team to be able to count on the probability of a hit from any one along the line than for it to depend upon a few leading batters of high percentage at the top of the list to do all the slugging. An opposing pitcher in the former case never knows when he has struck generally looked for "weak spots" and he is puzzled and discouraged to find that a batting rally may start in the most unexpected places.

Comparing the averages with those of last year we find that while the first of the list averaged higher there were three or four men at the other end batting below .200 or even .100, and this fact alone prevented any good team batting. On the other hand, the ability of everybody to hit the ball this year at critical times brought about consecutive hitting and runs and hits could be expected at any time and under any circumstances. Uniform development is the thing most sought after in up-to-date training and this is another reason for the greater effectiveness of this year's team.

One peculiarity of the past two seasons has been that one of the most valuable men in either instance who finally made the team what it was, was not "discovered" until quite late, and applied for other positions than those which they were best fitted to filled, which goes to show that it is not always best to pick the team definitely too early in the season. There were many who certain opposing slab artists, they all appeared to look alike to Crawford and he leads the list by a wide margin. He also got too timely homers during the season; his most remarkable escapade being a four bagger and four hits out of five times up at Roanoke. No team was able to make much connection with his delivery, and had he been a "replaceable atom" at the diamond's "left corner" he would have appeared oftener in the centre.

Boogher had his eye on the middle stitches and batted in good shape throughout the season. His fielding average took a drop on sundry slippery grounders.

Baker began the season by giving

Smith was late in settling, but when he did he was there to stay. As a second baseman, after his first appearance, he "clean forgot" how to make an error, and his hitting at one part of the season made Callan positively nervous.

Fox, while somewhat down on list, probably got more hits of the "timely" variety than any man on the team and his base running was always A No. 1.

Bagley, S. C., had the misfortune of being hoodooed by the one twirler he most "ran up against." He did his best batting on the best pitchers (which is the best way), and the captain will put up odds that "Rusie" will rank as one of the surest shortstops ever seen in these regions. Only one day off (Salem) in two years, and at all other times it was a certain out to hit the sphere in his neighborhood.

Bagley, J. W., fell off in his batting this year in the most unaccountable manner, but got in the game at Lynchburg for some of the best hitting of the season. Behind the bat, however, he is the same "old Oom," and few can touch him in his old camping grounds. It is recorded that for five successive games only one man stole second on him.

The Refunding of the Virginia Debt.

Dr. Willis spoke to the students on Wednesday morning, his subject being the refunding of the Virginia debt after the war, and the effort of West Virginia to avoid paying her portion of her portion of the debt previous to the war. The address was neither technical, nor, in the commonly accepted term, was it a popular lecture, but it received the full attention and consideration of the students. Dr. Willis presented his subject in a clear-but way, and held the close attention of his audience. We are glad that he does not keep on hand a stock of antiquated commencement addresses, and trust that he will have more like the one on Wednesday to deliver in the future.

did not approve of this idea and expressed their sentiments in no uncertain fashion, yet the late and shining appearance of both "Oom Paul" and our present second baseman should prove a warning to all who have the responsibility of picking a team, not to be too hasty.

The fielding averages will rank well any where in amateur circles, and it is hard to distinguish who is best in a testimony of such general excellence, as a rule the men having the most chances holding the highest percentages.

While many good batting averages were spoiled by particular "hoodoo" in the shape of a repetition of old Penn, a bad score in the most exciting game of the season. Leading the batting order, he was noted for his head work in getting free passes to first. If the pitcher wasn't disposed to be so liberal, he would "just as lief" get a hit as not. Callan claims he also "tapped one gently over the fence."

Spencer verified the captain's prediction and "fattened his average over 100 per cent. He was liable to "line 'er out" at most any old time. It wouldn't take but one more year for "Long" to lead the list at his present gait, and his fielding is taken, as a matter of course —always good.

The Virginia baseball season, to quote Topics, has gone out in "quite a burst of glory," while on the other hand Topics has come out in quite a burst of indignation against the treatment accorded them in Lynchburg. Against the charges, if indeed they may be dignified by the name of charges, implied in their account of the game, we have nothing to say, as we believe that recrimination, mud-slinging and the like, are out of place in University weeklies and can do nothing but encourage harsh feelings between institutions where friendliness ought to exist. We think it real mean, however, that Topics would not allow us to console ourselves with the usual complaints in regard to the umpiring, but we are inclined to pardon it when we realize how badly our friends in Charlottesville must feel over the decadence of their prestige in state athletics during the past year. Poor fellows, they need sympathy rather than upbraidings. The likening of Washington and Lee to a yellow cur barking at the heels of Virginia, a large St. Bernard, was decidedly bad taste, but it was not at all startling, for we have always been informed that the bump of conceit is abnormally enlarged at Virginia. We wish to say, however, that the RING-TUM PHI did not intend to be so unsportsmanlike as to accuse Mr. Hoxton of unfairness in umpiring the game. We have every reason to think Mr. Hoxton a gentleman and that he gave his decisions in accordance with what he thought to be right. No man could do better, and although we might not agree with his judgments we could think no less of the man. Topics misunderstood us if it thought we meant to cast any aspersions or insinuations upon Mr. Hoxton.

A good deal of unfavorable comment is heard among the students in regard to having the reviews instead of examinations. It is thought that it will greatly increase their work at a time when work should be lightened, and that the law itself is unjust as it is ex post facto, and many students took classes under the impression that they would get out of examinations. The primary purpose of the reviews, that is, the keeping of the students until finals, will also be a feature, as the reviews close on Friday, and any one that so desires will have an opportunity of leaving on Saturday.

There is a sufficient number of men in college to hold a large and successful tennis tournament. The near approach of examinations makes it imperative that the tournament should be held next week, if held at all. Some one should take the matter in hand and make the necessary arrangements.

The prospective mass-meeting in regard to the Co-operative Book Association affords a good opportunity for electing an editor and business manager of the Calyx for next year. Such action would be beneficial to those having the Calyx in charge and would assure a good book.

We have forgotten to mention that the editor of our esteemed contemporary, the Collegian, extravagantly used two pages in the last issue in making flattering remarks about the RING-TUM PHI which the business manager might have used for advertisements.

Notice.

There will be a meeting of the RING-TUM PHI board in Dr. Quarles' room on Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing the editors and business manager for the ensuing year.

Crawford is wearing a Sigma Chi pin.

The Collegian will be out in its last issue in about two weeks.

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. J. Gray McAllister, a recent graduate of the Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., came to our college last week in the interest of Union seminary and of the church at large. On Sunday afternoon he addressed a good crowd of students in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Mr. McAllister's prime object was to put before the Christian students of the University the claims of the Gospel ministry. Said he, the field for Christian work is widening every day and the call for laborers becoming louder. The development of our Southland and its rapid increase of population make it imperative that the Gospel of Christ should be preached now, for "how shall they hear without a preacher." Law and medical graduates say, "where shall we earn a livelihood?" The church says, "where are the young men of Christ—the reapers?"

Free access is now had to the dying millions of other lands, a condition never before known in the history of the world; this is a clear, unmistakable call for help; who will go?

Mr. McAllister quoted some interesting statistics which showed an actual decline in the number of ministerial candidates in each of the several evangelical churches in the South during the past six or eight years. All this time the churches' need for men has been growing steadily and naturally. This is at home, to say nothing of the tremendous needs abroad.

For this year's class of 32 men, the Union seminary had 84 calls—not half a supply. Is there not a dereliction of duty somewhere?

Death of T. N. Jones.

The entire student body was grieved upon receiving the news of the sudden death at Smithfield, Va., on Friday night, of T. N. Jones, who left college during the early part of March on account of his health. His death occurred from consumption, which was very rapid in its ravages. While here Mr. Jones endeared himself to all who had the pleasure of knowing him, and it was with sincere regret that the students in general, and the law students in particular, with whom he was naturally on more intimate terms, heard of his premature death. Although scarcely 21 years of age, he was a graduate of Hampden-Sidney college, and was just beginning his law course here. He was a grand-nephew of the late William Wirt Henry.

Resolutions.

LEXINGTON, VA.,
May 22, 1901.

Whereas, God in his infinite wisdom has seen fit to take from us our well beloved fellow-student, Thomas Nathaniel Jones, we the members of the Law department of Washington and Lee university, do inscribe this humble tribute to his memory. In view of the death of our friend and comrade, be it

Resolved, That it will be the pleasure of all those who have been associated with him in connection with his work in this law school to hold in affectionate memory his sweet and lovable nature, his high character as a man, and his ability and promise as a student of law, be it further

Resolved, That our heartfelt sympathy be extended to the family of our departed classmate. Lastly be it Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our classmate, and that they be published in our college magazine and weekly paper.

A large number of girls are expected for commencement.

Booker Ranch 22; Preston Ranch 5.

The next issue of the RING-TUM PHI will be the last for the year.

Virginia will not play Richmond college this year for the championship of the state, the manager giving as his reason the close proximity of examination.

Literary Societies-

The annual spring depression and lack of interest in the Literary societies has arrived. Scarcely enough men can be gotten together in each society to constitute a quorum to do business.

At a joint meeting on Saturday night Mr. Harry Hamilton was elected vice-president of the Final celebration, vice Mr. R. C. Lord resigned. There is a serious constitutional question involved, however, as to the legitimacy of his election, due to the fact that the Graham-Lee society did not have a quorum at the joint session. Our reporter could not ascertain whether Mr. Lord would contest the seat.

Mr. Alex. Hamilton was elected president of the Washington society vice Mr. E. W. G. Boogher, resigned.

Hop.

A pleasant but small hop was given at the gymnasium last night. Music was furnished by the V. M. I. orchestra. Among those present were Misses Mary Preston Graham, Bruce Houston, Catlett, of Lexington, and Misses Clayton and Berry Bedford City; Messrs. Conrad, Pancake, Goshorn, Robinson, Osburn, Burks, Vertun, Price, and the first class from the V. M. I. Miss Annie White and Mrs. Walker were the chaperones.

Co-operative Book Association.

On Wednesday afternoon the student committee composed of Messrs. Tucker, McNulty and Lauck, met the faculty committee, Professors Willis, Denny and Vance, to consider a plan for successfully organizing and operating the Co-operative Book association.

The plan for the organization was embodied in a constitution and by-laws, the principal features of which were as follows: The affairs of the association are to be placed in the hands of a student manager elected by the members of the association, who shall receive a money consideration of 5 per cent. of the sales, this amount in no case to be less $250. An executive committee composed of four students and one member of the faculty are to have a general oversight of the affairs of the association, to advise the manager in his work and to receive his reports, and in turn to report annually to the association as a whole.

Books are to be sold by the association at an immediate reduction of one-half of the retail dealer's profit; the remaining one-half, after the deduction of the running expenses of the association, will be re-distributed at the end of each year to the members of the organization in proportion to the total amount paid for books during the year. In regard to sales, the cash basis is recommended as preferable, but credit will be given for 30 days to the amount of ten dollars, with a penalty of 10 per cent. advance in price attached. Second-hand books will be sold by the association on commission. The question of extending the functions of the association to the selling of stationery and student supplies in general, was postponed to a future meeting for consideration.

Dr. Willis was instructed to draw up a constitution embodying the above points. This constitution will be submitted by him to a special meeting of the faculty for their ratification, and if the faculty concurs in it, and promises to give it their unqualified support, the constitution will be submitted to a mass-meeting of the student-body for their sanction, and the invitation extended to students to join. Every student should make it a point to be at this meeting and resolve to give the association his full support.

Such an association is beyond question highly desirable, and should this movement be allowed to fail it will probably be many years before another is started. Due notice of the mass-meeting will be given.
