The Score Repeated

"History repeats itself" and so it did last Saturday when the second teams of W. & L. and V. M. I. met on the University athletic field. Quite a number of students and cadets were present to see what the "scrubs" could do, and none went away disappointed, for it was a hard, well-played game, of which both teams should be proud.

The score was 11 to 0 in favor of the cadets and in more than one respect did it resemble the great battle of Tuesday, Nov. 11. The halves were somewhat shorter than those played by the first teams and only one touchdown was made in the first half. W. & L. was within five yards of her opponent's goal when time was called. V. M. I. made another touchdown in the second half, but this was the last, the ball going first one way and then another about the middle of the field.

Capt. Boogher handled his men well. Baer, Tabb, and Smiley did good work for the Institute. Burrows was the best ground gainer and Funkhouser another good one.

We trust that this is a beginning that will hereafter be kept up for it will insure another good game on home grounds each year, and encourage the second elevens.

Success of Mr. C. F. Spencer

Superintendent of public schools, Major Frank H. Smith, acting for the school board, has secured the services of Charles F. Spencer, of Lexington, to take the place of Prof. C. H. Friend, resigned. Mr. Spencer begins work regularly next Monday, though he has been in the city several days familiarizing himself with it, one of the other teachers meanwhile substituting. Mr. Spencer is an alumnus of Washington and Lee, and is one of the most exemplary and highly esteemed young men of Lexington, being popular with old and young, and there is every reason to believe he will succeed in the work he has undertaken.—Staunton News.

The Southern Collegian

The November issue of the Collegian comes to us on time and for this punctuality the editors are to be congratulated. We hope that the magazine will continue its regular monthly appearance throughout the session.

The present issue is, on the whole, well up to the average, though there are one or two of the shorter articles which, it seems to the reviewer, might well have been omitted—For instance, "In the Darkness of the Night," written in tragic, melodramatic style, as its title would indicate, is a trifle vague and unsatisfactory, and "The Double Call" with its tragic and rather overdrawn ending fails to impress the reader with its reality. We can't say that we found the adventures of the two puppies particularly interesting reading, but the sad and untimely endings to their respective careers, without doubt, pointed a moral, so they have not lived and died in vain.

"The Influence of the Greek and Latin on the English Drama" is a carefully written essay, displaying a considerable knowledge of the subject treated. "The Conflict of Sense and Soul, in the Idylls of the King" is brought to a close in this issue, with a review of the last five Idylls, showing the final triumph of Sense and the passing of Arthur.

The account of the boat race in Richmond last June, is made especially attractive by an excellent cut of our victorious crew.

Of verse "When the Roses Come Again" is decidedly the best. The rest is only fair.

The usual departments are all represented, with the exception of that of Law. The editorial space is chiefly taken up with a well-merited rebuke to the editor of the Add-Ran Collegian for suggesting that the President's daughter might enjoy a tête-à-tête with some of her father's colored friends.

Law Notes

There were several features of the meeting of the Bradford Society last Thursday which conspired to make it one of the most interesting of the year. After a short discussion it was decided that this should be the last debate of the term, which of course added a tinge of sadness to the otherwise happy occasion. But fond regrets were brushed aside when Prof. Burks appeared and announced that a bevy of fair visitors awaited the consent of the Society to be admitted within its doors for the purpose of listening to the learning and eloquence of the distinguished counsel who were to argue the case for the night. Of course the gates of welcome were thrown wide open. Prof. Burks was appointed a committee of one to escort the young ladies into the "inner court" of the temple of justice, which was done accordingly. No wonder that, although the question was exceedingly dry, the speakers were inspired to unusual flights of eloquence when the meeting was graced by such a presence.

The following suppositious case was discussed: Johnson sells and delivers to Green, his horse in consideration of Green's promise to pay him $200 in cash on the following Saturday. Green holds Johnson's past due note for $100. At the time specified, Green tenders Johnson $100 in cash and Johnson's note for $100. Johnson accepts the cash, but declines the tender of the note, and brings suit to recover a balance of $100.

Green was represented by Ott and McNulty, who contended that under Sec. 3298 of the Virginia code the note should be allowed as a set-off against the claim of Johnson, and that the right to plead a statute of this kind cannot be waived by the parties. G. D. Moore and Osburne argued that as the agreement was that the payment should be cash, this amounted to an express waiver of the right to plead any set-off. Numerous cases were cited in support of both views.

The majority of the court decided in favor of Johnson, and Prof. Vance concurred with the court, though he stated that before coming to the meeting he was of the opposite opinion for three reasons: (1) The law always presumes that a man will perform his legal obligations, and it would be presumed that the defendant was desirous of discharging his obligation on the note. (2) The law never requires a vain thing, and it would be a vain thing to require Green to pay $100 in cash when he could immediately bring suit on the note for its return. (3) A substantial compliance with the terms of a contract is always sufficient. The past due note may be considered a substantial equivalent of cash.

But after considering the case of Gutches against Daniels, 49 N. Y. 605, Mr. Vance said that he was convinced that this line of reasoning was incorrect. It is certainly true in accordance with this decision that a man may waive the right to claim a set-off. The parties have a right to contract as they see fit, and if they see fit to agree upon a cash payment, then the cash should be paid, and not its equivalent. In this case, the parties must have known of the existence of the past due note when they entered into the agreement for cash, and this negatives the idea that a tender of the note was to be considered sufficient by the parties.

Thus closed what was no doubt one of the most pleasant and profitable sessions the Bradford Society has ever held, so profitable indeed that it was considered advisable to continue the debates through the winter term, and thus give every member of the Society an opportunity to be heard. The next meeting will be held on the second Thursday of January, 1903.

Y. M. C. A.

The new president of the Y. M. C. A. has now entered upon his active duties. It is asked that every man in the Association cooperate with and give him their hearty support.

The series of prayer-meetings held during last week were closed on Friday night. It was a great privilege to have at the last meeting Dr. Turnbull. It will be remembered that he spoke to us on "Private Devotional Prayer," some time ago. His second address was on "Individual Work for Individual Men." These two strong addresses have served to deepen the realization of a duty first to ourselves, then to our fellow-men.

Mr. Blain conducted the meeting Sunday afternoon. The address was made by Rev. A. H. Hamilton. He spoke from Acts 16: 31; "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Dr. Denny. The meeting tomorrow evening will be devoted to the subject of Foreign Missions. We will have with us Mr. McCulloch, a traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

The General Athletic Fee

Owing to the general impression that the Board of Trustees would not act favorably, the agitation for the adoption of a $5.00 matriculation fee, to be devoted to general athletics, has been dropped. An effort will be made, however, to place athletics upon a better financial basis. A recommendation will probably be made to the Board authorizing the collection of a $5.00 contingent fee from each student. If this rule be adopted, a small percentage will be necessary to cover the cost of unforeseen contingencies in the shape of broken windows and other property destroyed, so that it will rest with the students to state whether or not the amount remaining will be devoted to athletics. There is small doubt as to what the decision will be. Let the Board adopt the rule, and the student-body will do the rest.

The Thanksgiving Game

Every man who is going to Roanoke on Thanksgiving day should add his name to the list on the bulletin board, so that the manager of the team may know how to arrange his plans. Without an idea of the number that intend going he cannot decide how many coaches to order, or whether it will be profitable to charter a train.

Off for Charleston

The team left yesterday for Charleston where they will play the Univ. of W. Va. today. Last night was spent in Clifton Forge, and the run to Charleston made this morning.

The line-up for the game will be as follows:

Left Guard—Sterrett.
Center—Stone.
Right Guard—Bagley.
Right Tackle—Trundle.
Right End—Meredith.
Quarter—Campbell.
Right Half—Haw.
Left Half—Ross.
Full Back—Walker.

Substitutes—Conover, Cunningham, Dotson, Marshall. "Smut" Smith also went along and it is hoped that he will get into the game.

Out in the Wide, Wide World

Wooters and Ring are both at Fort Worth, Texas.

John Garrow, '00, is in the cotton business in Houston, Texas.

W. L. Newman, of last year's law class, is located at Woodstock, Va.

Wm. Martin, B. L., '00, is editing a paper in Leesburg, Va. Frank Bushong of this class is hunting clients in Charles Town, West Virginia.

Biggs and Corbett, B. L.'s, '01, are practicing their profession in Bay City, Texas. Biggs is county attorney. It is said that Corbett is no longer an S. B. C.

The M. A. Degree

A few years ago Washington & Lee with a view towards establishing a graduate school, altered its requirements for an M. A. degree, so that students from other colleges and universities could obtain a certain amount of credit for work done at other institutions. Prior to this all applicants for an M. A. had to conform to the uniform requirements. These were certificates with M. A. grade in Groups I, II, and III, of not less than ninety points. This, according to its construction in practice, means merely ninety points with M. A. grade, and not certificates or, in common parlance, "dips" to the value of ninety points.

Of these ninety points, twenty-two must come from each of three groups, and twenty-four may be elected from any of the three. In addition to these points, five certificates with M. A. grade are required, one from each group, and the other two optional, with the exception that no two of these certificates can be taken in the same department. In addition to this a thesis is required.

But to bachelors of arts of other institutions, such concessions are made that the requirements for M. A. are the latter ones mentioned for Washington & Lee degree men—this is five certificates of distinguished proficiency, i. e. with M. A. grade, subject to the same restrictions as our degree men, besides a thesis. There are no stipulations in regard to any required number of points.

Now the course here for a master's degree is essentially an academic one. Our M. A. students have frequently taken classes which were properly freshmen classes during their M. A. year, in order to fill up a deficiency in points in some departments. In fact, specializing to any great extent is prevented by the twenty-two points being required from each group.

The applicant for M. A. from other institutions, however, is not required to acquire the broad training that a student from here does. He may take five classes, three of them in one department if he chooses, and he need only be prepared for those five classes. The broad, thorough training is supposed to have been obtained at his college. And the inferiority of such, in most cases, as compared with our own, can be seen by a cursory examination of any of the catalogues of those institutions. For instance, if the student from an outside college takes Mathematics as his subject for a certificate in the third group, he need study no other scientific branch. But the W. & L. man must take at least ten points in other scientific subjects, enough to give him a good insight into at least two subjects. Other instances might be cited of this.

Again, as to the amount of work required. If the man worked for a minimum number of points, he could take certificates in French, Geology, Mathematics, Economics and Philosophy, and make fifty-one points. If he worked for a maximum number of points, he would take Physics and English valued at fifteen points and three fourteen point proficiencies, making in all 72 points, or 80 per cent. of that required for a W. & L. A. B. to get the same degree. It is thus evident that to obtain an M. A. from here, a student from an outside institution cannot do over 80 per cent. and many take as little as 60 per cent. of the work required of a W. & L. student. This is manifestly unfair and creates a bad impression on our A. B.'s who are considering returning for an M. A.

Several remedies might be suggested, but we offer only one, the requirements equal for all applicants, whether graduates of W. & L. or other institutions. Give the applicant two options—first, the same requirements the W. & L. A. B. is subject to at present, and second, six certificates with M. A. grade, only those certificates whose value is fourteen points to count full value. Any two certificates whose value is less than fourteen to count as full value for a fourteen point certificate.

We hope to see some action taken in this matter to make the case more favorable to our graduates.

Correspondence Published

The Advisory Board of the G. A. A. have published the correspondence between the U. Va. and V. P. I. managers, in which the V. P. I. manager attempted to have the game played outside of Charlottesville after it had been scheduled there, and only consented to playing the game as originally scheduled upon a guarantee being paid by Virginia of $300.00

On the Outside

The Ohio Wesleyan Transcript (Weekly) has come out in a new garb, having a magazine cover with fifteen pages of reading matter.

"The righteous man regardeth the life of his beast"—a post-revival warning to those students who overwork their faithful jacks.

The Sphinx, (U. of Wis.)—There are two classes of students—those who work their way, and those who work their parents.

Michigan Daily News.—It is a noticeable fact that divines are being succeeded by specialists along certain lines of knowledge as presidents of American universities, and that the general tendency is for colleges to be non-sectarian. Following is a partial list of college presidents and their specialties: Hadley of Yale, James of Northwestern, and Wilson of Princeton, political economists; Eliot of Harvard, and Remsen of Johns Hopkins, chemists; Schurman of Cornell, and Butler of Columbia, philosophers; Jordan of Stanford, zoologist; and Wheeler of California, a philologist. Of clerical college presidents, there are Faunce of Brown, Harper of Chicago, Tucker of Dartmouth, Hyde of Bowdoin, Andrews of Nebraska, Harris of Amherst, Thwing of Western Reserve, the late John Henry Barrows of Oberlin, Bashford of Ohio Wesleyan, and Day of Syracuse.

Personal

Miss McElwain, of Petersburg, is the guest of Miss Nettie Pratt.

Miss St. John, of Fredericksburg, Va., is visiting at the home of Dr. Turnbull.

"Stiffy" Moore came home from West Virginia for a few days this week.

"Oom" Paul is out again, and has been attending classes for several days.

Miss Conrad, of Winchester, who has been the guest of Miss Dunlap, has gone to Roanoke.

Mr. Burns has left the University. He will visit his home in England, and then go to South Africa.

W. J. Bryan, B. L., '99, is in town. He was recently elected county attorney, Duval county, Fla.

The (Balto.) Sunday Herald published last week a portrait of "Oom" Paul, and gave him a half column write-up as Baseball Captain and Final Ball President.

Speakers and Officers for the Intermediate Celebrations

At the meetings last Saturday night both of the literary societies elected their representatives for the annual celebrations.

The Graham-Lee orators will be Messrs. Crawford and Bouchelle. Messrs. Crum, Howell, Smith, (Ga.) and Hawley will contest for the debaters' medal. Mr. Pilkington was elected president; Mr. Guthrie, vice-president; Mr. Schaeffer, secretary, and W. J. Lauck, chief marshal.

The Washington Society elected H. W. Hamilton, president; E. C. Miller, vice-president; Crockett, secretary, and A. M. Duncan, chief marshal. The Washington orators will be Lapsley and W. G. McDowell. The debating team will consist of Ralston, Henderson, Trundle, and Armstrong.

West Virginians Organize

The representatives from West Virginia met in Dr. Quarles' lecture room last Monday afternoon to organize and devise means for consolation while exiled from their native soil into this dreary region.

Mr. Moore, of Charleston, was elected president; Lauck, vice-president, and Douglas, secretary and treasurer. A committee composed of Lauck, Irons, and Rader was appointed to draw up a form of organization. Over 20 representatives from this State are in college this season.

Purgatorio

Dr. Currell's second Dante lecture on last Tuesday evening gave the greatest pleasure to all present. The stereoptic pictures from Doré's famous illustrated etchings were interpreted by the speaker as they were thrown on the canvass by Mr. Stevens. In this way Dante's conception of Purgatory was both clearly and pleasingly presented. The lecture was especially appreciated by the Senior literature class.

The attendance was very good and on their own account we are sorry that any should have failed to come.

The Ancient Order of Original High Rollers held an executive session on last Monday night, and decided to send a representative to the Charleston game. When the meeting opened all the members had a chance to go, but fourteen found that the law of probability was against them.

Michigan's full-back, Lawrence, has kicked forty-five out of forty-six attempted goals this season.

The date for the concert by the Stonewall Band, of Staunton, has been fixed for December 5.

A dance was given by the cadets on last Saturday night.
