The Game With West Virginia

RINGERS ON THE TEAM AND GAMBLERS IN THE RING

The trip to Charleston is a thing of the past, but its memory will last. Never did a team from Washington and Lee or any other school that pretends to put out an amateur team run up against such a proposition as we found awaiting us. Soon after the team reached the city it was informed by some loyal W. & L. alumni that they were to play against an aggregation of professional athletes from all parts of the State of W. Va., some of whom they knew did not make even the pretention of having been at Morgantown this year. A look at the hotel register verified their statement as it showed but eleven men registered from Morgantown, one of whom was their manager. When the manager was confronted with the fact they had ringers and professionals along, he made no denial of it whatever, but stated simply that they had made a date to play a game of football with W. & L. and that there was no previous understanding as to the kind of players who should play. An appeal was then made to Messrs. Thayer and Snyder who had given the guarantees to the teams. They agreed not to allow Crebs, Lewis and Yeager to play—the two former they knew were not at U. W. Va., and had only spent a day or two there just before the Georgetown game, practicing signals for that game. The latter, Yeager, they knew had graduated from U. W. Va. in '99, was captain of the team in '98, and coach there during the years '00 and '01. They also knew that all these men had played on various athletic clubs for money, which fact was not denied by the players themselves. One of them remarking that "the half has never been told. If you put us off, you'll have to put out Washer, Smith, Hammer, and Core."

With the understanding that these four men were not to be allowed to play, W. & L. went on the field, but on arriving there it was soon discovered what kind of trap we had gone into. Instead of sticking to their agreement, made at the hotel, Thayer and Snyder now took the ground that even though Yeager was a professional that "he is old and stale" and that since W. Va. had not enough men along for the line-up without him, they would be compelled to make us play with him in the game or forfeit our guarantee. The question of officials then arose. W. & L. had requested Dr. Harris, a U. Va. man, to officiate for them, but Thayer and Snyder persisted that they had gotten two officials, Messrs. Anderson and Carmichael, who were disinterested, without money up on the game, and that they must officiate. Nothing was left but to submit. It did not take long after the game started, as soon as W. & L. showed up well in the first six minutes of play, to see the kind of ball W. Va. plays, nor did it take long to see that the officials were either grossly ignorant of the simplest rules of the game or were determined that W. Va. should win at any cost. It is doubtful whether ever in the history of the game of football as much foul interference and tackling was done in as few minutes of play. The end runs, without exception, were made by a line of men holding on to each other's belts and jerseys while the rest of their players held or tackled our men in open field, which gross violation of rules could not be seen by the officials. Considering the fact that the managers of the enterprise did not hesitate to say that they had money up on the game, it cannot but look like the whole scheme was a gambling enterprise, and that no living eleven could have beaten the gamblers of Charleston and the professional football players of the whole State of West Virginia, under the circumstances.

The following is an account of the game in detail. No criticism of individual work can be fairly given owing to the circumstances under which the game was played:

West Virginia University gained the toss and Yeager kicked 25 yards to Walker, who advanced the ball 10 yards. After two downs Walker was forced to kick. Smith caught the ball and ran it up 10 yards. After two line bucks West Virginia lost the ball on a fumble, Meredith falling on it. W. & L. in turn is forced to kick, but the W. Va. backs failed to catch the ball and W. & L. gets it on the 15 yard line. They advance the ball to the 2 yard line and it looked as if they would be held for downs, but on the third down McNeill is pushed over the line. Campbell failed to kick a difficult goal. Time six minutes.

Up to this time W. & L. seemed to have entirely the best of it. But the W. Va. team took a brace and carried the ball over in three minutes and a half. Yeager kicked 30 yards. The ball is advanced 15 yards when Walker is compelled to kick. Smith caught it and ran 30 yards before he could be downed. He goes around the end for 15 more. Yeager gains 17 more by good hurdling and dodging. Smith then takes the ball for 30 yards and a touchdown. Washer kicked goal. The large crowd of W. Va. rooters then went wild. Score 12—5.

McNeill again falls on the ball when it is fumbled on Smith's kick off. W. & L. are unable to make any impression on the opposing line and W. Va. immediately gets the ball on downs. Yeager, Hoy, and Smith carry the ball down the field by a series of hard bucks. Yeager makes one long end run of 30 yards and Smith carries the ball over the goal line. Washer kicked goal. Time nine minutes and a half. The rest of the half was taken up by line bucks and a double pass which netted W. Va. 20 yards. Time was called with the ball in W. Va.'s possession on W. & L.'s 25 yard line.

SECOND HALF

In the second half, W. Va. gets the ball and by successive bucks and end runs carries it to W. & L.'s 40 yard line when Martin, who had just substituted Yeager, carries the leather 40 yards and plants it under the goal post, after three and one-half minutes of play. Washer missed an easy goal. Score 17—5.

Smiley kicks off and after a number of plunges the W. Va. backs advance the ball to W. & L.'s 35 yard line, where they are held for downs. Smiley gets 5 yards around the end, Haw gets 10, McNeill 4, and Ross 1. Conover here takes Bagley's place. W. Va. gets the ball on downs. Martin gets 7 yards around left end, Smith gets 10. No gain around right end. Smith runs out of bounds and is brought back. Trundle breaks through and throws the West Virginian for a loss. Campbell does the same thing on the next play, and it is W. & L.'s ball on downs. McNeill gets 10 yards through tackle. Ross gets 10 yards around right end. Smiley can't make anything and Walker punts 35 yards. It is returned 5. W. Va. fumbles but immediately recovers it. Washer fumbles and is thrown for a heavy loss. Twice more they tried but could gain nothing. W. & L. gets the ball. McNeill gains 2 yards and Walker gets a beautiful punt of 35 yards, good and high, and Smiley downs the catcher in his tracks. Smith gets 45 yards but was out of bounds and is brought back. W. Va. gets 5 yards. Stone falls on the ball on a fumble and crawls 10 yards with a West Virginian on his back. Smiley is thrown for a loss on an attempted run around right end. Ross cannot make anything and Walker punts 25 yards. Smith gets a short end run and 5 yards through the line, and then 10 more when time is called with the ball in W. Va.'s possession on W. & L.'s 5 yard line.

Kentucky Club

Last Friday night the Kentucky Club met at President Pilkington's room, at the residence of Major Houston, with ten men present. After all business was attended to the club went out of executive session and had a very informal and pleasant time. Letters of acceptance were read from some of the honorary members, while Hon. Henry Watterson and Col. W. C. P. Breckenridge were elected honorary members of the club.

'As there was no election the meeting passed off very quietly.

"A man's a man for a' that"—but some of them retain a remarkable resemblance to their Simian ancestors.

An account of the Thanksgiving german will appear next week. At the time of going to press, our reporter is still in bed.

Out at the University of Chicago the co-eds. have developed a new stunt in saluting the heroes of the gridiron with a kiss.

Hampden-Sidney Breaks the Agreement

The action of Hampden-Sidney in cancelling the Thanksgiving game in Roanoke, four days before it was to be played, is inexcusable. At that late day she should have played the game regardless of consequences. This action is all the more a matter of regret, when we consider that we would have much preferred arranging another game for Thanksgiving, had we not considered ourselves bound by our agreement with Hampden-Sidney. No margin was left to secure another game, however, and so the football season came to an abrupt close.

The Charleston Game

Very often it is attempted to assuage the chagrin of defeat by denouncing the officials of the game and the playing of the opposing team. The account of the Charleston game in this issue, however, is not meant to be a series of "sour grapes" reflections upon our defeat at the hands of West Virginia. It is intended to be a recital of facts—an account of the treatment received from West Virginia, and the attitude of those in Charleston who arranged for the game. Washington & Lee teams are not given to mud-throwing, are always willing to recognize the steel of a victorious and worthy opponent, and to abide by the result of a merited defeat. There may be extenuating circumstances, and there may be explanations, and if such is the case we are more than willing to make reparation, but if the facts are true as stated, as we believe they are, any school that plays under the amateur rule, or that has its athletics upon a pure basis, should not enter into an agreement with West Virginia.

We play pure athletics here, and when a team loses or wins, it is our team, and one representative of the University.

In the account of the game with the V. M. I. second team, in our issue of last week, a typographical error occurred. It was stated "Baer, Tabb, and Smiley did good work for the institute. Burrows was the best," etc. It should have correctly read "Baer, Tabb, and Smiley did good work. For the Institute, Burrows was the best," etc.

A New Boat Wanted

(Communicated)

Editor RING-TUM PHI:—Now that the football season has closed with such a record that we may well feel proud of our team, let us turn our attention to another very important branch of athletics. Rowing is a popular sport with us and deservedly so. Our natural advantages are great and with some such fellows as we have in college we should be able to get two crews of whom we could boast even with Virginia Boat Club, of Richmond, or the Aerials, of Baltimore. We have in college as good material as can be found in any institution the size of this. Many men think that they have no chance this year to make the crew because they know nothing about rowing or because they can't swim. There is nothing at all in that; did not Walker and Douglas make the Albert Sidney crew last season, without having rowed before? Trundle and E. J. Payne did the same thing on the Harry Lee crew. In each of the above cases, men who had tried the year before were turned down because these men were better for the places.

We want every man possible to try for one or the other of the crews. Last year, we won the race with Virginia Boat Club by one and a half boat lengths. This year we want to beat them again and to do it we need as good a crew as has ever rowed on North River. There are two positions on the Harry Lee crew that must be filled this year and the other three places go to the three best men that can be gotten for the places, whether or not they have ever rowed before. We must beat Richmond. The entire Albert Sidney crew, except the coxswain, is back this year but doubtless they will replace any or all men on the crew with better men, if they can be gotten.

Another matter of much importance in rowing circles is the problem of getting another cedar boat to correspond with the one gotten last year. In order to get it in time for the training season, we must begin at once to raise the necessary funds. By the first of February we should have enough money that we could send in the order for the boat. After the order is in it will probably be three months before the boat is delivered. If a thousand or more dollars can be raised for football, why can we not raise three hundred dollars for a new boat? Rowing is just as good or better exercise than football, without the attendant dangers. More men try for the crew or take the work because of the exercise and training than try for the football team.

We beat Virginia one and a half boat lengths; the Aerials, of Baltimore, beat them two boat lengths. Can we not meet the Aerials? I think we can cope with them, and not unsuccessfully. Let every man in college give as much as he can toward the cause, both from his pocket-book and from his brawn. It is 'up to us' more than ever, this year. L. C. P.

The M. A. Degree

(Communicated)

Last week's RING-TUM PHI contained an article with the above heading in which the writer called attention to what he considered a great inequality in our M. A. requirements—the inequality consisting in this, that "a student from an outside institution cannot do over 80 per cent. and may take as little as 60 per cent. of the work required of a W. & L. student. This is manifestly unfair," etc.

Now I think all would agree that it is "manifestly unfair," if the facts could be looked at only in the light there presented. But the writer seemed to forget that he was comparing our A. B. graduates with the A. B. graduates of other institutions. In his comparison a W. & L. student must make 90 points for the M. A. degree, whereas an outsider cannot make over 72 points at a maximum, and may obtain the degree on only 51 points. But he forgot that one of our A. B. graduates must have at least 66 of his 90 points to his credit before he enters into comparison with the outsider. We thus require only 24 points (as a maximum) of one of our own men, and a minimum of 51 points for the outsider! Might not he argue that this is "manifestly unfair," because, although we accept his A. B. degree, we yet require of him more than twice as many points as we require of our own graduates, and that too, even if he takes the very minimum!

Why this discrimination against the outsider? Well, we honor our degree, which is pardonable, I suppose. Then, we can be surer of the grade of work that lies behind our A. B. than we can be of work done elsewhere. And besides, we require of our own men a grade of 85 per cent. in the A. B. course, while we make no such requirement of those who come to us from other institutions.

If our own A. B. men were required to start afresh with us and not count any of their previous work, how many of them would find themselves able to make the minimum of 51 points in one year, even if they took over again a good deal of the work they had already done when working for the A. B. degree? A. H.

Pritchett left for home this morning.

M. P. Andrews, '02, has been in town for several days.

Bagley is in New York attending the Phi Delta Theta Convention.

Miss Howe came home from Woman's College, Lynchburg, to spend the Thanksgiving holidays.

Hall also has the fever, having contracted it within the last few days. His mother is expected to reach Lexington this evening.

President Denny delivered addresses on Thursday and Friday of last week, before the students of Eastern College, Front Royal, Va.

Bell, who has had typhoid fever, has been very sick for the past few days, but was somewhat better last night. His father and brother are with him.

B. D. Causey, owing to the state of his health, has left college. He left for Suffolk Wednesday, and hopes to be back after Christmas, fully recovered.

Dr. Currell delivered an address on education, at Hampton, Va., Wednesday, and on Friday to Eastern Shore Educational Conference, at Onancock, Va.

Dr. H. Parker Willis spent several days during the past week with President Denny. Dr. Willis will return in January to resume the chair of Economics and Political Science.

Washington Literary Society.

Orations were delivered by Messrs. Ott, Henderson and Wallace, all of which were well prepared. Mr. Stanley Scott entertained the Society for a few minutes with a short selection from James Whitcomb Riley. The question for debate was, "Resolved, That patriotism in the United States is declining." Messrs. Armstrong and Cromer spoke on the affirmative, while Messrs. Hamilton and Brumback upheld the negative. After some voluntary debate the question was decided in favor of the affirmative.

Band Concert

Every student should make an effort to be present at the concert to be given in the Chapel, Friday night, Dec. 5, by the famous Stone-wall Brigade Band of Staunton, Va. The proceeds of this concert will be given to the Daughters of the Confederacy to assist in buying the old home of Gen. Jackson, which will be converted into a hospital.

Florida Club Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Florida Club was held at the residence of Major Houston last Monday evening, in the apartments of Messrs. Howell, Yarborough, and Bouschelle.

The meeting was called to order by Vice-President O. T. Jones, President Gibbs being absent. The regular routine of business was transacted, after which the club listened to several interesting recitations by the members, among the best being an oration by Mr. W. B. Crawford. He delivered, by request, his oration on Jefferson Davis, entitled "Dixie's Uncrowned King."

Mr. Howell, in his original style of forensic oratory, amused the guests with several selections, and as usual, was greeted with rounds of applause.

After an hour or more of entertainment of this nature, the guests were invited to repair to the spacious dining halls where the surprise of the evening awaited them. An elegant supper had been prepared and the table and hall were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and potted plants. Before being seated Mr. Howell, in behalf of the hosts, welcomed those present as their guests, adding that the fraternal ties now existing between the members of the Florida Club should be cemented, and that when they departed from the University, they should still retain that feeling for one another which now exists. Mr. Crawford responded on behalf of the guests, assuring him of their deep sense of appreciation for the magnificent treatment. Each guest was given a beautiful souvenir of the occasion, a card containing the names of the members of the club, suspended by a cord, which was held in the mouth of an alligator. At a late hour the guests reluctantly departed, each in turn expressing his sincere gratification of the hospitality shown them.

Those present were, O. T. Jones, H. B. Yarborough, L. D. Howell, J. F. Bouschelle, Carlisle Peck; S. C. Smith, M. M. Brown, K. I. McKay, W. B. Crawford, H. R. Henderson.

Mr. McCulloch Addresses the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. McCulloch, a traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement addressed the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday afternoon. The address was characterized by encouragement to those who have already volunteered, inspiration to those who are considering Foreign Missions as a life work, and by being a reminder to others.

The V. M. I.—V. P. I. game was a surprise, and the result was not believed until corroborated by the papers.

The U. Va.—N. C. game resulted in a tie, 12—12.
