THE RING-TUM PHI.

BY THE STUDENTS AND FOR THE STUDENTS.

VOL. VII

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1903

NO. 9

Washington Literary Society

Last Saturday night the officers for the second half-term took their seats, President Hartman making an inaugural address that was well received. He showed that the society had begun the year under the most favorable auspices and that the work already done, particularly by those who had wisely entered the society their first college year, gave large promise of continued success. He outlined the course he would follow in his administration and made a special appeal to his fellow-officers.

Retiring President Kelly then offered him the chair and made his own address, summarizing the excellent work done in the past administration by both officers and private members, in all a fine showing.

The program was then taken up and circumstances rendered it expedient to pass to the debate. The question, "Resolved, That Washington and Lee University should have a schedule of intercollegiate debates," was warmly upheld by Messrs. Armstrong and Thompson; while Messrs. Miller and McPheeters vigorously championed the negatives. The debate was spirited throughout, but never acrimonious; and a final burst of enthusiasm from Mr. Armstrong brought the judges round to a decision of two to one for the affirmative.

As candidates for participation in the Randolph-Macon debate Messrs. Hartman, Thompson and Kelly were elected. These gentlemen will debate in the preliminary with a like number from the Graham-Lee.

Mr. McPheeters, the physical instructor of the University, has started his gymnasium class. It is of great benefit to students to take their physical exercise under the direction of a competent instructor, and the class is open to every student in college. A point to be counted on their degree is given to those academic students who take the class.

Graham-Lee Society

The society was called to order by President M. T. McClure. After the roll call and reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the following men were elected members: M. J. Anders, Arkansas; F. H. Wolfe, Texas; D. W. Van Devanter, Virginia; R. L. Browning, Kentucky; F. M. Barker and J. H. Larriek, Virginia. Mr. M. B. Marshall delivered an excellent oration on "Character." Mr. D. V. Guthrie delivered an interesting oration on William Graham. Messrs. Sells and Jones delivered declamations. The remainder of the program was postponed on account of the three elections which took place. For the honor of representing W. & L. U. and the Graham-Lee in the Randolph-Macon debate, Messrs. Anders, Sells and Marshall were chosen as contestants. The officers and speakers elected for the Intermediate Celebration, to be held January 19, 1904 are: President, C. R. Blain; Vice-President, John Pinkington; Secretary, M. B. Marshall; Chief Marshal, Albert Steves, Jr.; Orators, Messrs. Phillips and Bradham; Debaters, Messrs. Boyette, Breedlin Browning and Engle. The election of officers for the society took place. Mr. F. C. A. Kellam, Jr., was elected president and Mr. E. C. Crum, vice-president. After transacting the immediate business, the society adjourned.

The Box of Monkeys

Rehearsals for the play, a Box of Monkeys, are being held under the direction of Miss Annie White. The play will be presented at Newcomb Hall during the first week in December, and from present indications will be the best amateur or professional performance ever given in Lexington. The cast alone is a guarantee that the occasion will be a rare dramatic treat. Those who will take part are Misses Annie White, Josephia Allen, Louise Haskine and Messrs. Nall and Stokes. Riley Wilson will act as stage manager.

Y. M. C. A.

An unusually large meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was addressed last Sunday afternoon by President Denny. His address was introductory to a series of "Life Work" meetings which are to follow.

The subject of his address was "Life Investment." A few of the many excellent thoughts are here given. Our life's work is second only to personal salvation, and every man should face this great issue as a man. Two great considerations should motive every man in the selection of his life work. First, he should have a high, definite and substantial purpose. All mankind may be divided into two classes, those who have these elements, and those who have not. The former will make success in any honorable work, the latter are worse than failures anywhere. The great of all ages and climes have possessed these elements. Nothing can be substituted for this purpose, neither genius nor talent, nor luck, nor circumstance nor education. Every one should have this purpose because it trains and strengthens his faculties, and it is cumulative in force.

Second, our life work should be one which is congenial to our taste and talents and in which we may have this high purpose. No one should enter any life's work unless this combination beckons him. A call is a man's conscientious conclusions as to where he can make the most of himself and serve best his fellows and his God. "Know thyself," and under God's guidance select, and with this purpose and harmony as to tastes and talents your life must have the divine approval.

It is reported that a certain member of the faculty, having been offended by the remarks of a fellow professor, has challenged him to fight either with the swords or the gloves. If the athletic committee could just arrange to have the bout in the gymnasium, charging a fair admission, it would be possible to pay off all our athletic debts.

Mass-meeting

Tuesday afternoon at the request of Mr. Bledsoe, editor-in-chief of the Calyx, the students met in Tucker Hall to fill some vacancies on the Calyx board. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Bledsoe and Mr. Rolston was elected chairman. Mr. Bledsoe then stated that he wished a joint editor-in-chief with himself to be elected and asked that Mr. Duncan be chosen for this position. Mr. Gibbs, president of the Freshman class, then nominated Mr. Opie of the Freshman class, for this position. Messrs. McNulty and Bledsoe thinking that Mr. Gibbs was laboring under a misapprehension as to the real nature of the election, asked that he should withdraw his candidate, stating that Mr. Bledsoe asked it as a personal favor that the student-body should select his choice. Mr. Opie's name was then withdrawn and Mr. Duncan elected by acclamation. Messrs. McNulty and Day were elected business managers without opposition. A motion was then made and carried that the editors-in-chief should be allowed to select two associates, after which the meeting adjourned.

Junior Law Class Elects

Monday morning President McCorkle of the Junior Law Class called a meeting of the said class for the purpose of electing a representative for the Calyx board. Messrs. Browning and Stokes were placed in nomination. Mr. Browning was elected.

Riley Wilson, being unable to decide between the candidates voted for both, and because of the lack of parliamentary knowledge of the president had his votes thrown out.

Messrs. Steves and Riley Wilson are getting up a minstrel performance for the first week in December. These gentlemen have secured the best talent in college and there is the assurance that the performance will be of the highest standard. The proceeds will go to athletics.

EDITORIAL

The Calyx board has now been elected aside from the representatives from several of the classes. When they elect they should choose that one from their number, who is best qualified to fill the position to help the editors-in-chief, and not some one merely because he is popular or has a political pull. The work of getting out a Calyx is very heavy and the editors need all the assistance which they can obtain. But it is not necessary to be on the board of editors in order to help for any one in college, who has literary or artistic ability, can be of great service by lending their efforts.

When we complete our new Science Hall we should then turn our efforts towards getting a new gymnasium. The present one is a disgrace to a school of Washington & Lee's standing, and is not equipped as a gymnasium should be, although about as well as this one can be.

Don't forget that the Thanksgiving German will be danced on Wednesday night. Admission $1.50, Cotillion Club members $1.

The subject for the Yale-Harvard debate this year is: Resolved, That the history of trade unionism in the U. S. for the past twenty years shows a general tendency detrimental to the best interests of the country.

Affirmative Negative

O. T. Jones C. C. Thomas
D. D. Hawkins C. M. Barnes
Resolved, That the Republic of Panama should not have been recognized by the United States.

BRIEF FOR AFFIRMATIVE (Unpublished)

BRIEF FOR NEGATIVE.

I. Some canal a necessity. a. As a strategic point; b. As a commercial route; c. As a connecting link between our insular possessions.

II. Panama route most available. a. More practicable than Nicaragua; b. Less expensive.

III. President's action to be commended on grounds of expediency. a. Will protect American interests; b. Will preserve free transit across the isthmus.

IV. Colombia alone responsible for the revolution. a. Her revenues mostly from Panama; b. In debt to the province of Panama; c. No adequate returns to Panama in way of improvements; d. Hay-Herran treaty rejected on partisan grounds, (1) Beneficial to Panama; (2) Motives of Colombian statesmen mercenary.

V. Acknowledgement by United States not too hasty. a. Propriety dependent on state of affairs, not on length of time; b. Colombian officers had yielded their authority; c. A de facto government had been established.

VI. Military action of United States justified. a. By action of Colombian war vessel; b. By treaty of 1846 with New Granada; c. By Monroe doctrine and other international agreements; d. By obligations to the whole world (1) To protect transit across isthmus, (2) To control South American affairs; e. By examination of alternative policy.

The University of Georgia team which has no love for the Georgia Tech., promised to give Clemson in her game with the latter a bushel of apples for every point they made over 29, which was the score Clemson put on Georgia. Clemson piled up 73 points on the Tech., and hence gets 44 bushels of apples from Georgia at $1 per bushel.—Tar Heel.

JUNIOR BANQUET.

Annual Function of 1905.

Nowhere in the annals of class history is chronicled a function which has afforded as much pleasure to those present as the banquet of the class of 1905 which took place Friday night. About 25 took seats around the table at 11 o'clock, and when they left at 3 each of them was ready to vote it one of the most enjoyable occasions of his college career. In the unavoidable absence of President Campbell, and at the request of Vice-President Collins Mr. O. T. Jones presided as toastmaster.

The first toast was to "The Class of 1905." Mr. O. V. Armstrong made an eloquent and pleasing response, dwelling upon the past history of the class and the prominence it has occupied in the last three years. One can only realize with difficulty the extent to which its members have gone in upholding the honor and integrity of W. & L., until hearing a long list of its achievements contained in the well prepared speech of Mr. Armstrong.

The next toast on the list was to "The Future of 1905," and was ably responded to by Mr. E. W. Kelly. Mr. Kelly's words dealt necessarily with prophecies of class future record, based on its past. He pictured in glowing words another class banquet at which were gathered again the members of 1905.

"The Old Man in a New Class" was next toasted. Mr. C. M. Barnes was well qualified both in oratory and experience to respond to such a toast, and in a graceful and modest speech he did so.

Mr. Albert Steves responded to "Sharks and Others." The frequent punctuations of applause were evidence enough to show the speaker's ability.

Mr. J. A. Moore treated his hearers to a delightful bit of sarcasm in response to "The Faculty." He dealt principally with their sporting proclivities, enumerating a number of their favorite sports, and describing in language befitting his great subject the accuracy with which they drive a golf ball, draw a quick bead on a flitting member of the feathered tribe or a red line through the masterpiece of the toiling, pludding shark.

A toast to "Women" was gracetully responded to by Mr. James J. Chafee in words highly complimentary to the higher sex.

"Good Old Booze" was proposed and was responded to by Mr. Riley Wilson, a gentleman highly qualified in every respect to handle this subject in all its forms. Mr. Wilson dwelt upon the various shades and qualities of this adjunct to the luxuries of man, in words whose eloquence were only surpassed in the art of pleasing, by the subject itself. He portrayed in language as sparkling as the wine he eulogized, the qualities of this beverage from the mountain dew of West Virginia to the delicate Rhine of the French. Mr. Wilson told how the beverage effected him and how it effected others, describing the marked difference in the courses it sometimes takes.

This concluded the regular list of toasts. Several others were then called for, among which "Athletes of 1905," "Absent Members," and "New Men in 1905" were gracefully responded to by W. D. Hereford, W. G. Riddick and C. S. Nichols respectively.

The concluding toast of the evening was "Any Old Thing," and Mr. Riley Wilson, as eloquent and as amusing as upon his former subject, responded in words and songs, which were heard by all despite the thickening atmosphere and heads.

In the cooling down the class of 1905 wended its winding way homeward, regretting only one fact, that the night had drawn to a close.

Bradford Debate

Those who failed to attend the Bradford Law Debating Society on Thursday night missed one of the best debates of the session. The case discussed was Norrington & Wright, 115 U. S., 188. Poage and Shields represented the plaintiff in error, and Lee and McCorkle the defendant. The court, Justices Cave, Bryan and Williamson, held that plaintiff in error was entitled to receive the contract, Sells, C. J., and Walton, J., dissenting. Prof. Chevalier concurred in the opinion of the court and delivered a clear statement of the law upon the disputed point.

A basket ball game will take place at the Southern Seminary in Buena Vista Thanksgiving Day between the teams composed of young ladies of the Seminary. A number of Washington and Lee men are making arrangements to attend.

Dance

A very informal little dance was given at gymnasium Thursday night. Those present were Misses Rogers, Dunlop, Lee, White, Haskins and Hollingsworth and Messrs. Osburn, Wilson, Baker, Page, Moore, Steves, Burks, Withers and others.

John D. Beall Concert Co

The John D. Beall Concert Company gave a most delightful entertainment at the University Chapel Wednesday night for the benefit of athletics. The program, which consisted of reading, vocal and violin solos, lasted over an hour and a half and was of unusual merit. Miss Ketchum's readings were well rendered and added an increased interest to the otherwise musical program. The singing of Miss Blanch Hardee was particularly appreciated by the audience, and she was forced to respond to repeated encores. Miss Hardee has a beautiful contralto voice with which she completely captivated her hearers. The absence of students was noticeable.

Southern Collegian

The staff of The Collegian hope to get out the November issue today or Monday.

The next issue will be the Christmas number and all articles suited to such an issue will be gladly received. Christmas poems, short stories, etc., are in order.

There are now on hand some contributions that must be carried over to the January issue. The Santa Claus "stunts" are now in order so let us have them at once so that our Xmas number may be out before we go home for the holidays.
