WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1904

University Assembly

DR. WILLIS AGAIN ADDRESSES THE STUDENTS—A CONTINUED DISCUSSION OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The second Wednesday morning in October when Dr. Willis addressed the University Assembly on the condition of the Philippines, he gave plain facts in a plain manner, vouching for them from personal experiences and observation. Not long after this address he gave to the public some of these observations and was shortly quoted by Judge Parker. The Republicans became interested in such statements and cabled the substance of Mr. Willis' observations to Governor Wright in the Philippines asking if these conditions were true. The answer was politely "I think not."

Dr. Willis in his previous address saw two questions: Shall we keep the Philippines? If so, what shall we do for them? On Wednesday morning last Dr. Willis began by saying that the imperialistic policy is now to be pursued, the Philippines are to be kept, now what shall we do for them? He thus continued the previous address by a discussion of what we must do for those islands.

In the first place Dr. Willis justified himself of Governor Wright's negative to his observations. The first reason for the Governor's negative, he held, was human bias. No governor of a state or province would willingly admit of such conditions in his province. Second, no despotic ruler can know the full account of conditions in his dominion. Then, he said, that he would not rely upon the acceptance of his own statements for proof, but brought forward the testimony of Mr. Forman, an Englishman, who is wholly unbiased, and Mr. Ireland, another of unbiased repute. Mr. Ireland observing that the cost of the army and government of the Philippines is greater than the total exports of the islands. Governor Wright claims that they are self-supporting.

Dr. Willis added to the statement that one-half of the land property of the islands was delinquent on taxes, and that this was substantiated by a report from a committee of the natives at St. Louis, asking that the taxes be released on that account. The commercial conditions are as bad as they can be. The shipping laws and the tariff are injurious to the Philippinns. The judiciary was again referred to and Secretary Taft was cited as noting that the judiciary was declining. The claim that self-government is allowed is not true.

How now, if we keep them, may we best serve them? said Dr. Willis. One remedy for a despotic government is freedom of speech—such is not enjoyed in the Philippines. Then we must decrease the expense of the the government; not so much red tape in the Philippine affairs, and give them, as President Roosevelt would say, "A square deal."

Dr. Willis concluded by saying that he was not unpatriotic. His observations were not caused by such motives. He was interested in the territory of the United States; interested in the government of such, and would gladly aid in measures for good. But he knew wherof he spoke; his eyes had seen and his ears heard.

We could not, said he, have carried out, nor dare to carry out, in Cuba, Hawaii or Porto Rico, the same policy that we are now pursuing in the Philippines.

The Day After

While walking down the street early Wednesday morning I found myself immediately behind two of the staunchest Democrats in College. They were hunting consolation.

"I tell you," said one, "it was awful."

The other one smiled broadly. "South Carolina and Virginia went Democratic, though."

"Yes, and we have the consolation of knowing that the Hon. David 'Been It' Hill is going to retire."

The other reached down in the folds of his new overcoat and produced a copy of the Columbia, S. C., State, dated Nov. 7. "Parker is all right, had, for I see by the headlines that he returned to his farm with great zeal, for his agricultural work. He seems to enjoy it." The other one looked at the paper, and he too, was now smiling. "Roosevelt ain't going to run any more. Bryan will quit talking for a while, and Grover has signified his intention of remaining the Sage of Princeton. Crum will never be confirmed as collector of Charleston's port, and ——— O, shucks, the trusts beat us any way."

I was blue, too, for I, also, was a Democrat. I joined them, and as we went up the Postoffice steps I saw Duncan smiling, for we were whistling: "There'll come a time some day."

Washington Society

Upon being called to order by President Armstrong the society heard the inaugural address of President W. N. Grubb and the report of the retiring president. The regular program was set aside and Messrs. Pobst and Smith were admitted to membership in the society.

The Graham-Lee Society was then invited into joint session, and the political rally, the main feature of the evening's program was begun. Hon. John Sharp Williams, in the person of Mr. A. M. Duncan, spoke by way of introduction of the antemortem examination to be held over the prostrate form of the Republican party. He then introduced Mr. Wiseman, the Republican chairman for Rockbridge county, who in turn introduced Hon. H. "Standby" Tillman. Hon. Tillman discussed at some length the issues before the people in this campaign dilated upon the inconsistency of the Democrats, and spoke in warm admiration of the personality of Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. E. W. Kelly, Democratic chairman for the county of Rockbridge, then appropriately and eloquently introduced Hon. William "Friendly" Semple, the candidate of the party from the 10th congressional district. Hon. Semple spoke of the issues before the parties in as able a way as had Hon. Tillman, and then he addressed himself to the personal record of the candidate in opposition. Reading (?) from a South Carolina paper of standing, he showed that the Hon. Tillman was a staunch upholder of the doctrines of Mormonism, and further proved from court records that his opponent was a ——— chicken thief. In stating his attitude he laid especial stress upon the plan of getting through congress a bill for the establishment of asylums for old maids in college towns. After a spirited reply from Hon. Tillman, who gave a letter from Gov. Heyward as evidence that the charge of Hon. Semple was unfounded, Mr. Grubb, as president of the William Jonah Bryan club, introduced that worthy in the person of Mr. Cox. Mr. Bryan spoke at length on his reasons for supporting Parker, and was strong and earnest in his denunciation of the Republicans. The permanent chairman now introduced Hon. Joseph Cannon—Mr. Mercer Hartman—who made a telling plea for Republicanism and the Philippine policy.

A vote was taken on the merits of the speakers, the result being: Hon. Semple, 32; Hon. Tillman, 19. The speaker then declared the meeting adjourned. G

Bradford Society

The Bradford Law Debating Society is doing very good work this year and the men seem to be taking an interest in the work. The Seniors might turn out better than they do, and no doubt would, if it were not for the enormous amount of work that is being given them this term.

The meeting last Thursday night was very interesting. The case being a contract case. Professor Staples should have presided, but as he was unavoidably detained, Professor Long was in the chair. The case under discussion was the case of Lester vs. Lorillard, in 110 N. Y. Reports 519. Lester was a stockholder in the Old Dominion Steamboat company, and was suing Lorillard to recover money which Lester claimed the Old Dominion company had paid under a contract void as in restraint in trade. The contract in question was one in which Lorillard promised not to run ships in competition to the Old Dominion line. The court, in the original case, held that this was not a contract in restraint of trade. That it only kept Lorillard from competing, and restrained no one else.

The case was ably argued for the appellant's by Messrs. Phillips and Myers. The appellees were ably represented by Messrs. McCorkle and Mayer. The majority of the court, consisting of Associate Justices Painter, Pobst and Payne, held for the appellant's with Chief Justice Browning and Associate Justice Rutan dissenting.

After Professor Long had given his opinion the meeting was adjourned.

Florida Club

The Florida club met Tuesday night in the rooms of Messrs. Herzog and Walzer with a full attendance. A lavish feast was spread and many toasts given and responded to. Mr. Grubb was the guest of the evening and responded very eloquently to a toast on the South.

During the meeting a wireless telegram was received that Florida had gone Democratic.

NOTICE

Lack of funds, for which to pay for the current issues of the RING-TUM-PHI, compels us to urge that all parties in arrears for subscriptions should pay up at once. We are required to pay for each issue as it comes out and this can be done only if subscriptions are paid promptly as due. The immediate attention of all who know themselves to be delinquent is necessary for the continuance of the regular issues and will greatly oblige the management.

Now What do You Think of This

It is said that several students of the University, particularly members of the law school, who are not wearing any mourning in consequence of the overwhelming defeat of the Democratic candidate for the presidency, are starting a movement to petition the faculty to allow them to absent themselves from the University Assembly whenever a "political speech" is to be made before the student body.

Whether the information as it comes to the RING-TUM PHI is entirely correct or not we are not prepared to state. We did not know however that "political speeches" had ever been delivered in Chapel, but it may be the fault of some member of the reportorial staff of this journal in not covering accurately his assignment.

We sincerely hope that the petition will not result in any vacancies in the august body to whom it is to be addressed or that any member of that learned fraternity will be forever excluded from Chapel in the future.

Oral Debate—Nov 14.

Resolved, That the under graduate college course should be shortened to three years.

Affirmative Negative
Mr. Stephenson. Mr. Philips
Mr. Sloan. Mr. Faulkner

BRIEF FOR AFFIRMATIVE

I. To retain the four years course is arbitrary. 1. It grew out of primitive conditions. a. Inadequacy of secondary schools. b. No entrance requirements. 2. Four years course peculiar to America. 1. Oxford and Cambridge have three years. 3. Conditions now different. a. Change in ideals of curriculum. b. Purpose of education more definite.

II. Three years course more desirable for the student. I. Best for those desiring post-graduate work. a. In professions. b. In scholarly research. 2. Desirable for those of little means. a. Cuts down expenses. b. Not dependent upon parents so long.

III. Shortened course a benefit to college. 1. Attendance increased. a. Financial help to college. b. Large body of alumni. c. Extended influence of college ideals. 2. Will put out better work. a. By doing away with certain required studies. 1. Concentration is fostered by three years course.

IV. Benefit to the public. 1. Would increase proportion of college men. 2. There is demand for college men. 3. The four years course keeps many men from college.

BRIEF FOR NEGATIVE

Four years necessary for thorough course. a. Growth of present colleges over those of a generation ago demand it. Curriculum of old colleges required four years. 2. Present elective system could not be worked in less than 4 years. b. High schools do not have a high standard. 1. Deficiency must be met by the colleges. c. Entrance requirements cannot be raised.

II. Not necessary to drop one of the four years. a. Curriculum could be arranged to suit all students. b. Professional studies could be substituted in last year.

III. Four years course not burdensome. a. Students are aided. b. State institutions free.

IV. Inferiority result of decrease from 4 to 3 years. a. Present curriculum full. b. More graduates but less efficient. c. Past high standard could not be maintained.

V. Undesirable from point of view of professional schools. a. Preparation for professions in the U. S. lower than in other countries. b. Some universities require A. B.

for entrance in professional courses. c. Inconvenient for students who wish to study in European countries.

VI. Miscellaneous. a. Benefits from academic influences numerous. 1. Athletics and recreation. 2. Development of character. 3. Literary advantages.

Another Chapel Attraction

The football management has secured another engagement for the Chapel for this month. On Nov. 19 Mr. N. Floyd Featherstone will give an entertainment, entirely original. It will be remembered that Mr. Featherstone was here in the spring of 1903, and entirely captivated his audience. He plays on different musical instruments, the like of which very few persons have seen, and besides his banjo playing and funny sketches and songs keep you a laughing from beginning to end. Let every student in college turn out and have a good time.

Thanksgiving Game

For some time the football management have been negotiating terms for a game in Charleston, W. Va., for Thanksgiving Day. The game was finally arranged, but now a wabble as to grounds has arisen, and the game may be cancelled. Still we will have a game, as South Carolina is anxious for a game, and if the West Virginia Wesleyan game is cancelled we will surely get the South Carolina trip. It is hoped that the football men will play hard for this in the Richmond College game for next Saturday, as either one of the trips are certainly worth while playing for.

Cotillion Club

The Cotillion Club met last Monday, night. The object of the meeting was to elect a secretary, Mr. Caperton having resigned. Mr. C. C. Thomas was unanimously elected. After the transaction of some other business the meeting adjourned. It was decided to have the Thanksgiving German Friday night, after Thanksgiving.

Scrubs Trip

The scrubs will go to Staunton, Monday to play the Staunton Military Academy. This is their second strip of the season. We are glad that the management is able to give the men the trip as they deserve to be rewarded for their regularity at practice. It is their efforts which makes the Varsity strong. Doubtless they will roll up a good score again at Staunton. They will return Tuesday morning via. B. & O.

Did you hear "Bryan" last Saturday night? Ask him how he would like to reorganize the Democratic party.

To work, to work the day of exams, is fast approaching when the wail of the weary and the groan of the distressed will be heard in the land. When the flunker shall flunk, and the shark shall shark. Flee ye to the mountains of study and get thee a place of refuge behind a book. Then thou wilt not be so prone to fall, and the heights will be pleasant after that thou hast reached them.

Senior Law Class Meets

Thursday immediately after the lecture in Torts the Senior Law class met to petition the faculty to make some change in the schedule of classes as the work for this term is becoming very onerous. This matter was put before the house by Mr. Bledsoe and upon being seconded and carried, a committee was appointed to draft a request to this effect.

President Anders announced that Calyx editors would be elected next Monday.

Dr. Ran Shields Addresses the Y. M. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday had the double interest of being a missionary meeting and in being addressed by a recent graduate of Washington and Lee, Dr. Ran Shields, a volunteer for the foreign field.

The progress of the Student Volunteer Movement has been so marked and significant that it has gained for itself the distinction of being the most powerful institution of modern times in the conquest of the world for Christianity. Through its influence during the last 15 years 5,000 students have expressed it as their purpose to become foreign missionaries, 2,000 of whom are already on the field. It is probably not too much to assert that the movement will be epoch-making in its results.

Dr. Shields graduated in very recent years from Washington and Lee and later from the University College of Medicine at Richmond, pursued further study in New York, and for some time past has been practicing medicine in Mississippi. He expects to sail for China in December to continue his work there as a medical missionary.

The address was in a simple and forcible manner, portraying a deep sincerity and earnestness on the part of the speaker. He emphasized the great importance of medical missions and its corresponding need, and also the attractiveness of the work, and the great possibilities of a life of telling usefulness. This strong and helpful address was greatly appreciated as shown by the large attendance. Dr. Shields goes out to his great life work with the very best wishes of his Alma Mater for a life of wide influence and genuine helpfulness to those who sorely need him.

When the roll was called last Monday all the old guard answered "Here!" They have gone into winter quarters.

Co-Ed Difficulties

The upper classmen of the University of Minnesota recently formed an Anti-Hat-Lifting League, the members agreeing not to remove their hats to co-eds. They gave as a reason that it was a nuisance; that there was danger in exposing one's head to the cold. We thought then it would be a good idea for them to go where they could learn some manners. The "dear girls" have it in for them, however. The following is from an exchange: "In opposition to the 'anti-hat-lifting league' of the men at Minnesota, the girls have formed an 'anti-smile association'. The girls say that smiling causes wrinkles, and that in cold weather they can not waste heat in warm smiles. According to the girls, their aim is 'brains without manners.' The 'anti-lifting' movement, however, goes peacefully and successfully on."—Ex.
