

Joint Debate

ONE OF THE BEST IN YEARS

Graham-Lee Victorious

One of the best debates that has been held in years in the Lee Memorial Chapel was the joint debate between the two literary societies, the Washington and the Graham-Lee, Thursday evening. The full attendance of those students who were in town, and the eager interest that was manifest before, during, and after the debate, show that the societies are putting all the energy and enthusiasm which they command into the work that they are doing.

The V. M. I. orchestra had been engaged for the music of the occasion, and their music was given between the speeches of the evening.

Mr. E. W. Kelly, the chief Marshall of the occasion took the President, Mr. E. A. Engle, to his seat on the platform at 8:15 p. m. The speakers then followed to the music by the band.

It is impossible to give even an outline of the speeches as delivered. Mr. O. V. Armstrong opened the debate for the affirmative. Mr. M. J. Anders for the negative. The debate from beginning to end was excellent in every feature. The argument was studied and forceful. Some of the speakers carrying their argument along by splendid delivery. Messrs. Tillman and Semple were the supporters of the affirmative, following Mr. Armstrong, and Messrs. McClure and Bradham, the negative, following Mr. Anders. Mr. Tillman made the rejoinder for the affirmative and Mr. Anders for the negative. Both of these men made most forceful rejoinders.

The Graham-Lee men were in evidence in different parts of the house, lending a general applause when the times presented. The Washington men on the other hand were in a body and made their men feel that they were back of them on the appreciation that they deserved. After each speaker of the affirmative the Wash. men responded with the old Wash. yell. This added zest to the fun of the evening and made things look like a celebration.

After careful consideration the judges decided in favor of the negative unanimously. Thus ended the first real inter-society debate for years. One that will be remembered long by all the members. One that showed the training that the men of the societies are getting. One that proved that rivalry is the life of a society. Ended? Not quite, for the Wash. men could not be quiet. They rose to acknowledge their defeat by giving the old yell, and ended by

The meeting opened at 8 o'clock. Messrs. Turnbull and Flournoy were received into membership.

Mr. Sheaf, the first orator of the evening delivered a well prepared oration: "A plea for the striker." Mr. Csabill spoke for five minutes, impromptu upon the "Yellow Peril." He discussed the question very ably and interestingly, and stated that in his opinion it was not a peril at all. Mr. Hill delivered a declamation upon Lafayette in a very effective manner, followed by voluntary selections from Mr. Larrick and Mr. Stern, which were enjoyed by the Society.

The debate: "Resolved, That U. S. Senators should be elected by direct vote of the people," was discussed on the affirmative by Messrs. Smith, Phillips, Herman, and Crabill, and was argued ably on the negative by Messrs. Brittingham and Weinberg. The Society decided with the affirmative. The regular program will be dispensed with next Saturday evening and instead will be an oratorical contest between the members who are not applicants for a degree this year. All the students are cordially invited to be present.

Washington Society

The meeting was called to order by President Grubb. This being the night for the election of speakers to represent the society on the intermediate celebration, the regular program was set aside. Messrs. Stokes and Thomas were elected orators, and Messrs. Stephenson, Williamson, Sloan and Magruder were elected debaters.

The Engineering School is in receipt of a large slide rule for instruction purposes. The rule is an exact reproduction of the ordinary slide rule and is about seven feet long. It is one of a few distributed by Keuffel & Esser Co., to some of the principal engineering schools in the country and we are to be congratulated on securing one of them.

Communicated

When the arrangements for the joint debate between the two societies was arranged there was a committee appointed to arrange the program. In doing this they arranged for a very attractive feature, the Glee Club. The Glee Club arranged to take part in the exercises and all were expecting to hear a good program. However it was a disappointment to find that the Glee Club would not appear. The reason of this was thoughtlessness on the part of some one who started a petition that the V. M. I. orchestra be gotten. This reached the ears of the Glee Club and they very naturally felt that they were not wanted, which this petition of course showed, and they would not appear.

Now this is quite a deplorable affair, for we have our own talent, and if they are to be encouraged, and they do have the support of the student whole, they must not get such treatment from any one in the University. This I repeat must have been thoughtlessness on the part of the person who started it, for I could not think such action would be taken in the face of the hardships and trials that the Glee Club have had to go through in getting in shape for our own work.

We want the Glee Club. Let the student body show it. They will, and do at present, express themselves as earnestly desirous of hearing it.

Featherston

Mr. N. Floyd Featherston, the Washington City society entertainer, gave a musicale at the chapel last Tuesday night. Mr. Featherston has been here before and his music is known to and appreciated by the Lexington people and the student body.

His music on his novelty instruments is especially good, something entirely new and original. As much cannot be said for his impersonation and his jokes, which are for the most part antiquated. But his performance on the sleigh bells, cow bells, marimba, marimbaphone, etc., was good and was enjoyed and endorsed by all present.

Miss Varney, the accompanist, is good and her selection played on the cornet and piano was especially enjoyed.

The proceeds went to athletics and it is to be regretted that a greater number were not present.

The in leniency of the weather was, no doubt, to a great extent responsible for this.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting Sunday afternoon was particularly interesting. Dr. Currell presented in a clear and helpful manner thoughts concerning some phases of the Christian life, using as a basis of his address Phil. 4:13: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." We give in brief some of the thoughts suggested:

The Christian life is first of all a possible life. I can do all things through Christ. When Paul made this statement he believed that God would give him the strength to resist temptation according to His promise. This is the theoretical side of the matter. Looking at it from the practical standpoint we see examples in every community of those who find it entirely possible to lead Christian lives.

More than this the Christian life is a personal life. I can do all things through Christ. It is Christ's personality which gives power to the gospel. We do not make our Christianity sufficiently personal.

Again, the Christian life is a pervasive life. I can do all things through life Christ. This a thought which we would do well to dwell upon. Christ covers the whole life; all phases of pleasure, work, studies. Whatever we do we may do all to the glory of God.

As a closing thought the Christian life is a progressive life. I can do all things through Christ. In the Christian life we should be very guarded in stating what we cannot do. In Christ's strength we may do what we would otherwise not dare to attempt, e. g., speaking to a fellow student about Christ. To be strong Christians we must search the Scriptures. Without this infallible guide we would make shipwreck of our lives.

Thanksgiving Dance

The Cotillion Club will give its usual Thanksgiving german Monday night and hop on Tuesday night. These dances promise to be very enjoyable this year, as there are quite a number of visiting girls in town. The V. M. I. orchestra will furnish the music. Tickets may be procured from T. A. Bledsoe or C. C. Thomas.

We failed to keep any copies of the first issue of this year for our files. If five or six students who happen to have these and don't want to keep them would hand them to one of the editors we would be greatly obliged.

EDITORIAL

The college books show to date a registration of about 320 students, a larger number than for years past.

The foot-ball season is over, in consequence of the most miserable and miserly support it has received for years.

There is an incongruity somewhere. Such statements don't agree.

A demonstration is now in order from all growlers, knockers and brick-throwers, but before the show begins there are a few facts pertaining to the student body that ought to be told.

The season opened with brilliant prospects; good material, a competent coach, and a splendid schedule, and enough men in college to easily put the financial department of the team on the best of bases. But what have the students of this University, individually and as a whole, done for the team? What have they done for the management?

What have they done for the best feature of our college athletics? Almost nothing!

The management started out with a splendid schedule and the carefully kept accounts show just why that schedule was not carried out.

The request for funds met with a response that was a disgrace to the University and the student body is the University. It is beyond the truth to say that this institution could not easily support the team that was put in the field, and the failure to do so is a reflection upon none but the students.

The management has done its part well under the circumstances; the team has done its best, sticking together with little to look forward to; a few students have done well, contributing more than their quota of the funds collected. But there are numbers of men here who have done nothing except, perhaps, kick on the management and the team.

It is certainly true that there are some men who are not able to contribute toward this particular feature of college activity. This criticism is not directed against them but against those who can and won't. Those men came to the wrong place when they registered as a students of Washington & Lee. If a man desires nothing but to eat books and boot lick professors, he is out of place, and is not wanted here by the proper type of college men and the representative students of the University. If a man intends to take absolutely no interest in anything except his classes and his semi-term reports, we advise him to study other catalogues than ours.

When a season is allowed to go to pieces as the last one has done, there is something radically wrong with the make-up of the student body. Such a spirit is the kind of advertisement to cause a greater influx of the wrong kind of men and a degeneration of the University. We do not seek to magnify the importance of Athletics, but if the University is to be represented in other towns by athletic teams, they should advertise its worth and not its worthlessness.

The time has come for men in college to loosen up or to discontinue athletics. If our base-ball team and other teams are to receive no more support than has the foot-ball team, then we had better disband the Athletic Association, rent the athletic field for a cow lot, and devote the proceeds into a fund for converting the University into an Institution for the Instruction of Fossils, Book-worms and other Non-entities.

To those who have thought the matter over the idea is bound to occur that the inter-society debate of last Thursday night gives evidence of renewed activity in the societies and augurs well not only for their future success but for the general welfare of the University. For some years there has been evidence of an apathetic spirit as to literary work. It was not only because some held back and would not join, but also because the members themselves did not take the proper interest. From the thorough work that the debaters gave their subject as well as from the enthusiasm manifested by the members on Thursday night it looks as if this spirit of apathy is passing away. As to the debate itself it can truthfully be said that every point was so closely contested but in such a lofty and dignified manner that it was no disgrace to lose, but certainly an honor to win. We hope that this friendly rivalry will continue, for, as we have said, we believe that it means the improving of the society which is bound to be of advantage to the University.

Oral Debate—Nov 28.

Resolved, That municipal monopolies should be the exclusive property of the cities where located.

Affirmative

Negative

Mr. Shields
Mr. Gassman

Mr. Dutrow
Mr. Larriek

BRIEF FOR AFFIRMATIVE

I. Private ownership of municipal monopolies a menace to public welfare. A. Fosters governmental corruption: a. Encourages wire pulling in politics; b. Increases liability of strikes. B. Shown by political condition of cities where practiced. C. The public is plundered: a. Private franchises extortionate; b. Interests of private monopolies promoted at expense of the people.

II. Exclusive municipal ownership of monopolies is wise politically. A. Promotes civic interests: a. Increases resident population; b. Increases municipal opulence. B. Evidenced by success both in foreign and domestic cities.

III. Wise economically. A. Social expenses lessened: a. Burden of taxation decreased; b. Better service for less cost. B. Beneficial to laborers: a. Shortens working hours; b. Increases wages. C. Prevents exorbitant prices: a. Interests of monopolies and public the same.

IV. The city would be allowed to decide between private and public operation. a. As to gas plants. b. As to water works. c. As to surface transportation.

V. Would be advantageous to the public. a. Plants would be run for the benefit of the public. b. Greater control of and better streets. c. Capital could be borrowed at lower interest which would justify reduced prices. d. Citizens would desire efficient administration. e. Burden of taxation cast upon consumers by private monopolies would be prevented.

The Ring-tum Phi to June 1905 for $1.00

As one-third of the numbers of the RING-TUM PHI have been issued we think it only proper to reduce the price in that proportion for men who still wish to subscribe. There are surely more than 150 out of the 320 here who ought to subscribe, and the new men who failed to do so at the first of the year because they didn't know have now an opportunity to come in line without any loss.

We once more call the attention of delinquents to the urgent need of prompt settlements. Don't let November bills run over Christmas.

Reception to Students

The student body was tendered a delightful reception on Thursday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock by the ladies of the faculty. The entire affair was a great success, and that the students appreciated the kindness and thoughtfulness of the ladies, was evidenced by the good attendance of those who had not left town for the day. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

Those giving the reception were: Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Kern, Mrs. Humphreys, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Currell, Mrs. Staples, Mrs. Long, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Rust, Mrs. Cox, Miss Annie White, Miss Davidson and Miss Tutwiler. Others present were: Misses Houston, Jean Harmon, Mary C. Moore, Rust, Nelson, Staples, Ross, Moreland, Stuart, Turnbull, Dunlap, Misses Haskins, McCrum, Shields and Howe.

Upon the committee of students were Messrs. Thomas, Kelley, Sloan, Tillman, Millen, Trimble, White and Chafee.

The Sumter Game

The football team returned last night, a haggard and forlorn looking crowd. The defeat at the hands of South Carolina College seemed too much for them and although the defeated team always has a hard luck story to tell, the one our boys has is certainly worthy of the team. After leaving Lexington the C. & O. on the James river division put them into Richmond just late enough to miss connection on the A. C. L. This disconcerted the entire crowd but manager Steves finally arranged to get them out on the Seaboard at 11:45. On the sleeper the boys had to bunk two in a berth, and Thursday morning got up early and reached Columbia late. Then the question was how to get to Sumter. So a special train was gotten at a tremendous expense, and the run made from Columbia to Sumter, a distance of 42 miles in 55 minutes. In Sumter the boys dressed and without a bite to eat played the game, which turned out 24 to 0 in favor of Columbia. It was not so much the strength of Columbia's team that accounts for the score as the condition of the W. & L. players, caused by the trip.

At the game were fully 2,000 people, including Gov. Heyward and his family, and Miss Tillman, bedecked in blue and white. Messrs. Mohers and Henby, two W. & L. alumni, were also there in a trap beautifully decorated in our colors. The reception committee were also anxious to keep the boys over for a banquet given in honor of both teams and several wires were sent to Dr. Denny asking for permission, which was given, but the players were so tired that they voted to a man to come home, so they left at 6:35 and arrived here last night at 6:25 via Richmond. Every one on the trip voted the South Carolinians a fine set of people and their courtesy and hospitality will ever be remembered.

About the game—we are sorry to say that our reporter lost the manuscript of the details but it will appear in next week's issue. For W. & L. nobody played a star game. Cullom at end being about the only one doing plucky work. Chilton made a beautiful try at a goal from the field on the 45 yard line. The ball hitting the cross piece of the goal posts. The Carolina line was rather weak and their backs slow, their quarterback was good as was Capt. Foster at left end.

Let us hope that next years team will have another try at the courteous South Carolinians.

Did we sleep Wednesday night? Ask the coach, doctor and manager.

Simple—A plot! A plot! I have got to write something.
