Washington & Lee Wins

IN SNAPPY GAME OF BALL

The team left on last Tuesday over the C. & O. for Richmond to play Richmond College and Randolph-Macon; the latter game to be played in Ashland.

The game with Richmond was played on Wednesday and resulted in a victory for Washington and Lee, the score being 6 to 0 in our favor. The result of the game was made known in College Wednesday night by a telegram from Manager White.

The game was fast and snappy. In the first part of the game our boys carried everything before them and Bagley was sent over for a touchdown after two minutes of actual play. Several other times Washington and Lee had the ball near Richmond's goal line but each time lost it on a fumble. Only once did Richmond come near scoring. Anderson made several long runs around the ends and Gooch, the little Richmond half back, also made two long runs.

The Times-Dispatch had the following to say of the game:

"The visitors won out by their speed for it was generally acknowledged that they were much the faster of the two teams. They had a good line and a fast backfield and exhibited some magnificent interference.

"Richmond, on the other hand, started out with a slow game and weak defense, and allowed the visitors to plow through them or skirt their ends for long gains. But they improved with each moment of play and in the second half were within an ace of scoring, when the ball was lost on downs within eight yards of the goal. For the visitors Rankin, Bagley, Raisin and Anderson played the stellar game."

Richmond kicked off and Miller received the ball, advancing it 15 yards. Anderson skirted the right end for 15 yards and Mensch's tackling saved a touchdown. Moomaw made 5 and then 7; Raisin in a quarterback play made 5. In a whirlwind rush Bagley carried the pigskin 10 yards over the line for a touchdown in exactly two minutes of actual play. Anderson kicked goal.

The ball was brought to the center of the field, and Richmond kicked off to Washington and Lee. Miller received the ball and advanced it to the 45 yard line. Moomaw made 2 yards. Anderson in a magnificent run round end made 20 yards. Moomaw went through the line for a gain of 10 yards. Moomaw went again for 3 yards and Bagley won 3. Two more consecutive plays resulted in a gain of 5 yards and then the ball was lost by a costly fumble. Throckmorton made 5, and a line play resulted in no gain. Jones made 5. W. & L. recovered the ball on a fumble and immediately lost it on another on the 7 yard line. Jones went against the line, but made no gain. Gooch made 5. Throckmorton tried the end but was blocked by Bagley. Snead won 12, Throckmorton 5 and Jones failed for a result; Gooch carried the oval 4 yards to the 30 yard line, and Throckmorton carried it 8 yards beyond, where Jones lost the ball. The ball went to Washington and Lee and Bagley made 8 yards. A line play was attempted but Richmond held.

W. & L. made 7, and Bagley added 3, landing the pigskin on the 30 yard line. Bagley again made 1½ yards. Raisin made an attempt but was downed in a pretty tackle by E more. Anderson won 12, and then by a costly fumble W. & L. lost the ball on the 15 yard line. Richmond had the ball and Gooch made 4 yards. Being held for downs Richmond kicked to the 65 yard line. W. & L. made 8 yards; then Moomaw was thrown for a loss by Miller. W. & L. kicked to the 12 yard line. After a series of plays, with the ball once changing hands the first half ended with the ball in the possession of Washington and Lee on the 15 yard line. Score 6 to 0 in favor of W. & L.

W. & L. kicked to Richmond. Jones advanced the ball to the 15 yard line. Gooch

SECOND HALF

5 yards; Throckmorton 2 yards further. Gooch dashed around the end and sprinted 40 yards to the 45 yard line. Throckmorton made 15 yards, and Jones added 5. W. & L. held on the 25 yard line. Snead made to the 8 yard line where Throckmorton lost a yard. The ball went over to W. & L. on

Miss Abbott

GIVES INTERESTING ENTERTAINMENT.

That Miss Annie May Abbott is quite an attractive and magnetic young lady was conclusively proven by the entertainment which she gave at the chapel on last Tuesday evening. The nature of the performance is hard to describe. Miss Abbott possesses some strange power by which she is able to resist great physical force. What this power is neither she nor anyone else can say, but she is able, when in flesh contact with another person, to resist any physical force which the person may exert upon her.

Twenty persons were invited upon the platform to act as a committee and try their strength against Miss Abbott's. Among the number were: Dr. Estill, Dr. White, Prof. Humphries, Dr. Quarles, Messrs. Dunlap, Walker and Shields, of Lexington, and Students Minatree, Dulaney, Larrick, Routan and Porter. "Red" went upon the platform very reluctantly and only after much persuasion by Dr. Quarles.

An interesting feature of the performance was the queer, freakish actions of Miss Abbott's temperature and pulse. Dr. Estill found at the beginning of the entertainment that her temperature was one and a half degrees above normal and that her pulse varied from seventy-four to a hundred and four. At the conclusion of the performance Dr. White examined Miss Abbott and found her temperature to be two degrees below normal and her pulse about one hundred and twenty-five.

The entertainment was extremely interesting and often very amusing. In one instance Miss Abbott placed her hands against the wall and twenty men were unable to push her to the wall. Yet when two of the committee placed their hands between Miss Abbott's and the wall they could feel no pressure. So it was in each experiment; Miss Abbott seemed to exert no physical force whatever but to use some mysterious force which withstood the exertions of strong men.

Miss Abbott's actual weight is 103 pounds and when one of the committee did not come in actual flesh contact with her she could easily be lifted, but when such was not the case it was impossible for them to raise her from the floor.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the performance was when the lady placed a staff in her hands, not grasping it, and six men found it impossible to force it to the floor.

That her remarkable power is not equally effective on all persons Miss Abbott demonstrated by experiments on several children. A circle was made by having the children join hands, Miss Abbott forming part of the circle. Several of the committee were then asked each to try to lift a child. Only one of the gentlemen succeeded.

The performance was truly remarkable and the audience was entertained from beginning to end, and everyone expressed himself as having enjoyed it immensely. Quite a good deal of laughter was brought forth when the names of the gentlemen who were invited to come upon the platform were read. In fact such rough house was kicked up when the name of one Mr. Stern was read out that the young student was so confused and abashed that he declined the invitation.

It is safe to say that every one got his money's worth, but we have the added satisfaction of knowing that part of the proceeds went to athletics.

Tie Game

Captain Railing and the scrubs took their second trip on last Saturday, playing the Staunton Military academy in Staunton. The two teams were well matched and neither team scored. The ball stayed in the centre of the field almost the entire game. It is a coincidence that the Staunton boys defeated the Augusta Military Academy by exactly the same score as did the second team; 5 to 0. Rasin and Dangerfield accompanied the scrubs the former acting as umpire.

The scrub line-up was as follows:

Hutcheson, centre.
Osburn, right-guard.
Railing, (Captain) right half.
Lazrus, quarterback.
Campbell, fullback.

There will be a meeting of the Shenandoah Valley Club tonight at 9.30.

Probably a few of the men who usually attend the hops were absent from the one last week for other reasons, but we think that the majority of them did not attend on account of the recent ruling of the Cotillion Club that stags be not allowed to break in during a dance. Now this would do all right at the Thanksgiving and Easter Germans when the number of girls and boys is more nearly equal, or at finals; but at the little informal hops given during the year the rule is decidedly out of place. The proportion of boys to girls at these dances is about five to one, and under the new rule a fellow would get one dance and look on at four; dance fifteen minutes and spend a whole hour chewing the rag with his equally unfortunate masculine companions. That is not an attractive outlook to the stag. There is another reason why this rule doesn't fit in just exactly right. A good many of the men who attend the dances do not know the girls very intimately and scarcely ever see them except at the dances. A man like that would stand awful little show at a hop, for he would be almost sure to find that the girls had made out all or nearly all of their cards before the dance. By passing a rule the Cotillion Club can prevent the stags from breaking in on the floor; it would be quite a different thing to prevent the girls from making engagements previous to the dance. That is an impossible task.

The action of Dr. Alderman in refusing to allow Thorpe, the ex-captain of the Columbia football team, to play on the Virginia eleven will undoubtedly be a serious blow to the team, but nevertheless it is an action which deserves hearty applause. By refusing to allow Thorpe to play Dr. Alderman is not only taking a stand against putting University of Virginia on a lower level than Columbia University. but it is a protest against having lower standards in Southern schools than are had in Northern. There is no reason on earth why Virginia should have a lower standard than Columbia, no reason why Southern standards should not be as high as Northern. Dr. Alderman is but asserting this fact. It may be that so much pressure will be brought to bear on the president by the alumni and students, all of whom are anxious to see Thorpe play, that he will reverse his decision. But if the friends of the University of Virginia would only realize that Dr. Alderman's position means more than winning any football game, they would back him up and say, "Stand pat."

Since the appearance of our last issue we have learned that the necessary funds for giving us granolithic walks have been appropriated but that no one could be gotten to do the work during the past season. We are glad to know that the walks are really to be had, even if we have to wait until next year for them. It is to be hoped, however, that we will get them sooner if possible. If not, temporary improvements on the present walks should be made.

If the students wish to go around town and break up things as they did the other night and run the risk of getting pulled it's their own look out. It is quite another thing, however, when they destroy or deface college property—that all comes out of the contingent fee and that means much less for athletics.

A feeling of joy and satisfaction prevailed the student body of Richmond College last night. For though the football game yesterday resulted in a score for Washington and Lee of 6 to 0, they regarded it as a victory, as had been shown by the fact that at the close of the game the boys raised the members of the team on their shoulders and bore them from the field as if they were victors instead of vanquished. —Times-Dispatch.

First Issue of Collegian

MADE ITS APPEARANCE ON MONDAY

The Southern Collegian made its first appearance for session on last Monday. The magazine is printed on a slightly better quality of paper than last year, but it would look a great deal better if the business manager would get the printers to use either a different color ink or a lighter colored binding.

The two best pieces in the Collegian are "Recollection" and "John Ingleton." The former serves to give us an excellent comparison of Washington & Lee of the late sixties and of the present.

"Some Political Aspects of the South" presents in a clear and forcible manner two of the leading political problems which confront all true Southerners.

But one serious criticism of the Collegian is to be made; it is too much the work of one man. Two thirds of it are written by Kay Wi. This gives too much sameness to the style. Its hard to do, Mr. Editor-in-chief, but if by some means you could induce each of the associate editors to contribute his part the general style of the Collegian would be better.

Parade of Last Tuesday

No sooner was the entertainment in the chapel on last Tuesday night ended than the college bell began to send forth its appeal for participants in the Halloween parade. On the campus in front of the main building they gathered, some 100 strong. Many and varied were the costumes they wore — anything from a bath robe to a night shirt.

The ghostly mob paraded around the streets destroying everything which confronted it. Street lamps were demolished, sign boards and barber's poles removed from their natural position and placed in the street, piano boxes burned, and the street strewn with an extra fine brand of Egyptian cigarette papers. Not content with having stirred up things in town the parade turned its attention to college and the bell was quickly minus a rope, the rooms in disorder and several wagons resting peacefully in the halls.

During the whole night the Lexington police force gallantly brought up the rear.

On Wednesday the janitor took as his motto: "Kerfaw shall not ring to-day," and no class bells were heard on that day.

University Assembly

The next meeting of the University Assembly will be held next Wednesday morning Nov. 5, at 8:45, and will be addressed by Chancellor W. W. Smith of the Randolph Macon System.

The seatings will be marked and absence will be noted by vacant seats.

The regular meeting of the Association at 3 o'clock last Sunday was addressed by Rev. Robt. S. Sanders, an alumni, who, after an absence of several years, has returned to do further work in the ministry.

Mr. Sanders took the discourse of Christ with the rich young ruler as the basis of his remarks, and pointed out that this was perhaps the saddest conversation in which our Lord engaged. It shows the insignificance of endowments of wealth, morality and personal charms, in comparison with the one thing needful. Yet the young ruler—like many of his followers—in spite of his great endowments, turned sorrowfully away rather than to lay hold of the essential complement of his attainments.

The prize was accordingly divided and a check for $500 enclosed. The RING-TUM PHI joins with Mr. Lauck's many friends in offering congratulations.

ORAL DEBATES—NOV. 6, 1905

Resolved, That a system of subsidies for American ships should be put in force by Congress.

SPEAKERS

Affirmative.		Negative.

BRIEF FOR AFFIRMATIVE

I. The Merchant Marine of U. S. ought to be built up. a. In a deplorable condition. b. It is necessary to the nation's wealth. 1. Essential to naval power. 2. To internal resources. c. The United States is favorably situated for maritime activity. 1. Lies in centre of world's activity. 2. Has a large sea coast. 3. Has abundant natural resources. 4. Large ship-building plants. d. The U. S. should foster trade in the Orient, etc.

II. Shipping subsidies are necessary. A. Cost of the Industry greater here than abroad. 1. Of construction. 2. Of operation. B. Foreign subsidies put our vessels at a disadvantage.

III. Granting subsidies best means of building up the marine. a. Better than free registry. b. System of bounties discriminating duties contrary to our foreign treaties. c. System of tonnage tax on foreign vessels impossible for same reason.

IV. It is desirable. a. Mail studies would cause regular service. b. Would promote deep-sea fishing. c. Vessels subsidized could be used in times of war. d. The system economical.

V. Subsidies have proved successful. a. We found them effectual in U. S. b. Nearly all foreign countries subsidize.

BRIEF FOR NEGATIVE

I. Ship subsidies can not remedy the evil. A. Proved by the example of France. a. She has given large subsidies, but 1. Her shipping has failed to increase. 2. On the contrary decreased. B. England owes her prosperity to free ships, not subsidies. a. All her remittances to shipping are for mail contracts. b. If regarded as subsidies they have failed. 1. Subsidized lines pay less than unsubsidized. 2. They have grown smaller. C. Subsidies would not lower rates or keep money in the country. a. Foreign ships can carry freight cheaper than American. b. Money invested in other lines of industry would bring greater results.

II. Remedy is free ships. A. It would build up our shipping. a. Because if protective tariff is removed led we can build as cheaply as England. b. Because our ships can be run as cheaply as foreign ships. B. It is the cause of prosperity to other countries. a. Great Britain. b. Germany.

III. Politically objectionable. a. Inducements to corrupt legislation. b. Create a privileged class of expense of the people. c. Would establish a bad precedent.

IV. Economically objectionable. a. Merely a temporizing measure. b. A tremendous cost. c. Would not contribute to general prosperity of the country.

Uncle Jeff

In following in reference to "Uncle Jeff," who is well known to the students, is contained in a letter to Rockbridge News about the Confederate Academy at Petersburg:

Shields was a prominent figure of the day and drew much attention to his display of badges and his position as the body-servant of Stonewall Jackson. The climax of his career was reached on Friday night at the Academy of Music at the presence of the returned battleflags, he was seated on the stage presided by the sponsors, maids of honor and other invited lady of the occasion. The veterans of the county should take some account of Jeff's career and come to cease his impositions on Confederate organizations by giving credit for honor that he deserves.

Services are being held nightly at Randolph Street Methodist Episcopal church, Colored. The service opened with a sermon Sunday morning by R. v. Joseph of Harrisonburg. Among speakers have been the following gentlemen of Lexington: Rev. J. A. Quarles, Rev. Dr. Charles J. Rev. J. O. Knott and Dr. Lewis Howe.

The Wash. Society

Every one who attended our last meeting was made to feel that "Old Wash." was far from flagging in her work and that the fire in her young spirit was glowing brighter. Throughout the entire meeting the keenest interest was prevalent. Each man realized more thoroughly the vast need of such societies in our universities.

It was the night for the election of officers. Immediately after roll call the following officers were elected:

- Stephenson, president.
- Nix, vice-president.
- Mann Page, secretary.
- Witt, (re-elected) treasurer.
- Murray, critic.
- Bell, censor.
- McMurren, RING-TUM PHI reporter.

The order of the evening was then taken up. Mr. Doub gave an excellent declamation and Mr. Berry voluntarily rendered a splendid selection. Mr. G. Moore then responded with a splendid oration, while the other orator, Mr. Semple, was excused until the next meeting. The debate then succeeded. Mr. Holtz, the only representative for the affirmative, ably defended his side; while Mr. Whiting argued for the negative. Mr. Nix also defended the negative. The question was, Resolved, That abolition of army canteen was unwise. Mr. Holtz' argument proved too strong for the severe onslaught of the negative and won fairly. Messrs. Peck, Hardy and Sterret were cordially welcomed among us.

We assure Mr. J. W. Claudy that it was only gross negligence on the part of one of our members to overlook his nomination as a candidate for membership. We therefore, hereby render our sincerest apology for this oversight. And as he has attached himself to the Graham-Lee we most heartily wish him speedy success in the forum.

Graham-Lee

Our meeting last Saturday night was not as well attended as it should have been. One of our declaimers and one of our orators were absent. Of course, "comparatively" speaking, this is not a bad showing, but Graham-Lee has started in for tip-top work this year and there should be no let down even for one meeting. The program as rendered consisted of an oration by Bensen, a declamation by Beitel and a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That the Interstate Commerce Commission should be given power to fix railroad rates, the affirmative speakers being Staples and Axlerath; the negative Benson and Collins. Reveley and Leach gave voluntary declamations, while Keeber, Hobson and McCluer showed their extemporaneous abilities on the subject for debate. Our regular critic being absent, Flaumagan was appointed for the evening.

Now fellows, let's all turn out next Saturday night; we have started right this year and we must not grow weary in well doing.

downs. W. & L. made 2 yards. Here the teams became involved in a dispute which ended in blows, and two players, Wright and Raisin, were ruled out of the game. Anderson made 4 yards and W. & L. was forced to kick on downs. Mensch received the ball, and advanced it to the 50 yard line. Throckmorton made a yard. Mensch was ruled out and Tilman was forced to kick. Richmond was forced to kick and the ball landed on the 13 yard line.

Bagley made 5 yards and Moomaw advanced the ball 5 further. In a series of plays, which ended in a dash by Raisin for 30 yards, W. & L. won to the 35 yard line where Richmond held. Cadets Make Protest

At supper roll call at the Virginia Military Institute Wednesday evening when the order was given that all who did not wish to go to supper should fall out of ranks and the whole battalion fell out. They proceeded at once up town and at eating houses and groceries bought a variety of things to eat. They were followed by the officers in charge and were soon prevailed upon to return to barracks, some of them leaving unatened meals that had been set out for them. They gave as their reason for their action that they were making a protest against the food served them at the V. M. I.

Several of the students left this morning for Charlottesville to see the Virginia V. P. I. game.
