NEW YORK CONCERT COMPANY

GIVES EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT AT CHAPEL

The concert given at the chapel on last Tuesday night by the New York Concert company was one which could not fail to please a lover of real high class music. This company is composed of four ladies each of whom is an artist in her special line and their well trained voices blended in a most pleasing manner.

The audience which listened to this musical treat was not all that could have been wished for, as the house was by no means well filled. What was lacking in numbers was, however, made up for by the manner in which the efforts of the ladies were received, for the audience was quite appreciative and applauded heartily. On each occasion the young ladies very obligingly responded to the encore and some of the best selections of the evening were secured in that way. The larger part of the selections consisted of solos and the company was, by far, more pleasing in them than in the trios and duet.

The voice of Miss Edith Price was especially good. She possesses a powerful and rich contralto of great range. The rendering of the words of her songs was quite distinct and she pays that thoughtful attention to their meaning which can not but please. The soprano, Miss Elizabeth Hardenberch, has a voice of exquisite quality entirely free from the tremendous appreciation of so many of inferior ability, and one the like of which we seldom find. Her selection, Clothilde was particularly well rendered, and charmed the audience. Much commendation was received by Miss Maude Hornbrook, the pianist, for her masterful rendition of several difficult pieces. She showed herself to be a master of the art and many wished that she had been given a larger share in the performance. Miss Janie McCausland is an elocutionist of rare ability and her selections called forth much applause. She has a voice both sweet and strong, and a manner of expression which captivates her audience. Her selection the "Moo-Cow's Moo" was perhaps the best of the evening and was highly enjoyed; while her impersonation of children is without a flaw.

On the whole this is one of the best concert companies we have ever had at the Chapel and their entertainment was an entire success. All present were highly pleased with having spent so enjoyable an evening.

Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Association last Sunday at 3 p. m. was addressed by Dr. Farrar, of the Chair of Modern Languages. The examinations which Daniel and his fellows were required to pass at the court of Babylon formed the basis of the talk. These were compared to our examinations; and the speaker pointed out that all "set examinations" fall into insignificance when compared with the daily and hourly tests through which we have constantly to pass at the hands of all those around whom our lot is cast.

The Association goes to considerable trouble to secure good speakers for the meetings on Sunday afternoon. The talks are practical as well as interesting and instructive, and are intended for all the students. We are sorry that some three hundred men in the University usually fail to take advantage of the good that may be gotten from these meetings, and ask that more of us will attend them in the future.

Press Club.

Last Saturday afternoon a new organization known as the Press Club was formed, its purpose being to stimulate interest in the various college publications and to aid one another by friendly criticism. The membership of the club is composed of Dr. Quarles, Dr. Currell, Professor Hogue, Professor Lauck and several members of the staffs of the various college publications. At the meeting Saturday a committee was appointed to outline a course of work for the club and to draw up a constitution. Mr. W. F. Semple, editor-in-chief of the Southern Collegian, was empowered to call the next meeting of the club.

Mr. White Elected

Mr. A. F. White was elected delegate at large to the Volunteer Convention in Nashville, by the executive committee of the student body. The election was quite spirited several good men being nominated, but it is safe to say that Mr. White's election was a disappointment to no one. We are all looking forward to a speech in Chapel on his return.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

The Wash Society

The Wash Society met in regular session Saturday evening, Jan. 13, with President Light in the chair. As this was the meeting for the report of the committee on amending the constitution there seemed to be a general understanding that the regular program would not be called for, and on this account some of those who were on duty were not prepared. On motion to postpone the committee's report until after the regular program the debate, Resolved, That the income tax is a desirable scheme of taxation, was called for by the chair, and Mr. Gassman responded with a well prepared and forcible speech for the affirmative. Mr. Lease upheld the negative with a very efficient speech, which showed that he had spent considerable time in preparing for the occasion. These being the only debaters present Messrs. MacDonald and Semple volunteered in behalf of the affirmative, while Mr. Peck assisted Mr. Lease on the negative. Judgment was rendered for the affirmative. The extemporaneous speakers were Messrs. Peck and Hooper, both of whom gave instructive and interesting talks.

In opening the doors for membership the name of Mr. N. B. Smithson was presented and Mr. Smithson was unanimously elected to membership of the society.

Let every member of the Wash feel enough interest to be present at every meeting unless you have a valid excuse. There could hardly be an excuse now sufficient to keep one who is really interested in the success of old Wash from being present at every meeting, especially when he is on duty.

Graham-Lee

The Graham-Lee Society was called to order last Saturday night by President Hobson. The roll-call was very intermittently responded to owing to the inclemency of the weather. Mr. Riser, of Alabama, was presented to the society for membership and was unanimously elected to the sonship of Graham-Lee, and we feel sure that he will do much to advance her interests.

The regular program of the evening was then passed to. After an excellent oration on "The Heritage of American Ideals" by Mr. Irwin the debate was taken up. The affirmative was championed by Messrs. Michler and Pilkington, the negative by Messrs. Houser and Stevenson. The judges rendered decision in favor of the affirmative.

There being no further business the society adjourned to meet again on Jan. 20, 1906.

New Athletic Field

Last year work was begun and plans drawn for a new Athletic field. This work has been again taken up with renewed energy with the hope that something definite may be accomplished.

At a recent meeting of the athletic executive committee, a committee was appointed to further this cause and the following plans have been decided upon.

1st. Miss Annie White has promised to raise $500.

2nd. The faculty committee have endorsed the move and promised to contribute on the part of the University.

3rd. The final appeal is to be made to the alumni, but before they are asked to contribute it is desired that some funds be in the treasury and also that the students manifest to the alumni by a move on their part, that they want and need a new athletic field. If in writing to the alumni we can say that every student has endorsed this plan and has contributed something toward it, it is believed that they will contribute much more freely.

ATHLETIC COMMITTEE

HOP

The Cotillion Club grasped the opportunity of a night-before-a-holiday and gave a hop Thursday night which was enjoyed by all who were present. The V. M. I. orchestra evidently had no hard feeling towards the students for the outcome of the Christmas dance affair, and rendered the music. At 10.30 the dancers were strengthened in numbers by the appearance of several who had been at the "Fortnightly."

Those present were: Mrs. Owen, Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Walker as chaperones, Misses Brockenbrough, Haskins, Doyle, Dunlap, Miller, Rust and Moore; and Messrs. Steves, Hubbard, Pipes, Anderson, Stephenson, Gwanthney, Caperton, Hamilton, Miles, Shields and Professor Lauck.

Seniors to Meet.

The Senior Academic and Senior Engineering classes are to hold a meeting Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Latin room for the election of a valedictorian and to confer with the lawyers on having a joint banquet.

We are glad to learn that the soliciting committee appointed at a joint session of the boat clubs Monday afternoon, has already met with some success. If there is any department of college left which points out Washington & Lee in clear distinction from the other Southern institutions, it is certainly the annual regatta. It may be hard for a man who has never seen North river on that particular day of Commencement week to understand why this race should create so much stir and be considered of such importance. But let him once see it—feel the magnetic enthusiasm which moves the vast crowd on the island and the cliff as by a common consent they raise cheer after cheer at the thought of the race which has not yet commenced, and when the victor crosses the line and for half an hour thereafter such shouts wake the echoes as were never heard on any foot ball field at this place.

If a subscription for boating were called for at the end of a race, a thousand dollars would be subscribed before a hundred would row yet the two clubs are forced with this proposition to raise five hundred dollars at a time in the year when its mighty hard to be enthusiastic over an event six months off, and from a student body half of whom have never felt the thrill of a close race. But they will succeed, they must succeed. Unless that money for training boats is raised, a race this year will be impossible and the custom which for more than thirty years has made Washington & Lee distinctive, will have departed. The present student body cannot and will not allow that to happen—with nearly 400 men in college we can't afford not to do what was done a few years ago where were not many more than 100 hundred here. Let every person connected with the university give as they are able and encourage the committee in its work and this shame will be spared us; we will have training boats in a hurry and we have the regular race at Finals and beat Richmond to boot.

Owing to the tremendous success which the Dramatic Club had in the performance before Christmas the Irvings and Bernhards of the University and the town have gotten together once more and "Esmeralda" will be presented on February 16 at the gymnasium. To the great delight of all Miss White has consented to take part herself; we all know what that means to the club and to the play itself. Other parts are to be taken by Miss Haskins, Miss Rust and Miss Allan and Messrs. Daingerfield, Peck, Oliver, Rasin, Gwathney and Steves. "Esmeralda" is a beautiful and difficult play, but we are confident that Miss White will have the play presented in the ablest manner possible, and that with the cast she has picked there should be no doubt that the play will prove a success. The scene effects will be made magnificent and negotiations are in progress to have some scenery from a neighboring opera house. We wish the Dramatic Club success.

Personals

Sam Chilton, of baseball fame, was in town this week. Cousin Sam has many friends at Washington and Lee who were glad to see him again.

Mr. W. E. Jones is confined with the measles. During his sickness Mr. A. F. White is teaching his Math. class.

Tom English, who received his B. L. here last year, was in town this week. He is practicing his profession at Charleston, W. Va.

A W. & L. alumnus, Mr. Mercer Blain, returned missionary from China, will address the students tomorrow at 3 p. m. in Engineering Hall. Come to hear him.

If you want a nice tailor made suit stop and look at F. L. Young's $22 suits. Fit guaranteed.

Mr. William Goshorn MacCorkle, of W. Va., and a former Washington and Lee man of great popularity, and Miss Margaret Alexander Lyle, were married at noon Tuesday in New Providence church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Wilson, D. D., and Mr. Herbert Anderson, of W. & L. immediately after the marriage luncheon was served, after which the couple prepared to leave for their honeymoon.

97th Anniversary

GRAHAM-LEE CELEBRATES

The Graham-Lee Society reached the 97th milestone, in her illustrious literary career, last night, and gave what was perhaps the best celebration in her history. Strange to say, the crowd was on hand at the appointed hour and the weather was propitious.

Mr. C. A. Eagle presided as president and presented the speakers in a very graceful manner.

The first speaker of the evening was Mr. J. M. Sapp, of Florida. His theme was "Embryonic Liberty in Russia." The subject was a very interesting one and was treated in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Sapp sketched vividly the degeneration of the Russian monarchy into a despotism and the subsequent rise of a first craving for freedom, which has grown stronger year by year until the outbursts of the last year have brought liberty within their grasp. The audience liked Mr. Sapp's delivery, and his presentation was good. The other orator, Mr. H. M. Bandy, of Virginia, made a strong speech. His subject was "A Monied Power—A Menace." He spoke of our splendid past as a nation and of the elements in our present life, which might make the future doubtful. He said that it was not militarism which would do this, but a concentration of the monied power of the country. Mr. Bandy's speech was well written and delivered in a forceful manner. His delivery was worthy of imitation, being self-composed and deliberate.

The debate was then begun on the question, Resolved, That the Federal government should assume the regulation and control of all life insurance organizations, provided that such regulation and control does not include ownership.

Mr. Axleworth was introduced as the first debater. He briefly sketched the course of life insurance companies in the past, commenting upon the ends of state regulation, and showing the advantages of government regulation. He made a very good presentation of the subject in a somewhat general way. His manner on the platform was very good, being entirely at ease.

The first speaker on the affirmative was Mr. MacCluer of Pennsylvania. He successfully met and rebutted the arguments of his opponents. In a clear, concise, and forceful manner he showed the undesirability of Federal regulation and the pernicious influence of such a measure. Mr. MacCluer's argument was good, both from a destructive and constructive standpoint.

Mr. Jones followed for the affirmative. He went more specifically than his colleague into the present status of insurance companies, showing their corrupt practices and the necessity of stronger restraint. He then took up the constitutionality of the question and argued ably from that standpoint. His animated delivery, combined with sound arguments, made a good impression on the audience and judges.

Mr. Desha then discussed the constitutionality of such legislation from the negative standpoint. His arguments were good, but he lacked force in presenting them.

The debate as a whole was far above the average for a society celebration. There was more real argument and less useless talking. The speeches were not more than 15 or 20 minutes in length, a fact always appreciated by an audience.

At the close of the debate the decision of the judges was read. The orator's medal was won by Mr. Sapp, the debater's going to Mr. Jones.

Dr. Quarles, Professor Burks and Professor Lauck were the judges and music was furnished by the V. M. I. orchestra.

U. D. C. Reception

The Mary Custis Lee chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy celebrated Lee's birthday by entertaining at the home of Mrs. M. W. Paxton from 5 to 8. The house was beautifully decorated in Confederate flags and colors and glittering candelabra. Mrs. Paxton was assisted in receiving by the officers of the chapter; and guests, after being welcomed by these ladies, were ushered into the dining room where delicate refreshments were served by a number of fair waitresses.

About 300 invitations were issued, the student body being represented by the RING-TUM PHI and Collegian board.

Senior Law Class

A meeting of the Senior Law Class was held Monday, Jan. 15, for the purpose of electing a final orator, two representatives on the Calyx board and class historian. The following men were chosen: A. W. Rutan, final orator; H. C. Pobst, historian; J. A. Watson and J. R. Switzer, representatives on the Calyx board.

Last night the Lynchburg Alumni's Association of this university gave a banquet in honor of the president of the General Alumni Association, Mr. B. F. Kirkpatrick at the Hotel Carroll. The evening was spent in listening to the bright speeches brought out in response to the toastmaster, Mr. F. S. Kirkpatrick and enjoying an excellent menu prepared by the hotel.

Washington & Lee Withdraws

NO LONGER TO BE MEMBER OF V. I. A. A.

Washington & Lee has at last decided to withdraw from the Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Association. This move was carried unanimously at the meeting of the Athletic committee on last Wednesday afternoon. In future athletics at Washington & Lee will be governed by strict rules adopted by our own Athletic committee, while there is a probability of our going into Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association at some future time, as that association seems to be run on a pure, square basis.

The Athletic committee give as their reasons for taking this step that the Virginia Association has been notoriously mismanaged for some time past; that the withdrawal of the University of Virginia last year and of V. M. I. this year makes it undesirable to remain in the association; while some have broken this year rules for the promotion of pure athletics without being called down, thus showing that the association has outlived its usefulness.

Professor John H. Latane made the announcement of Washington & Lee's withdrawal to a meeting of the Association held in Lynchburg yesterday. At the same time V. M. I. made announcement of their withdrawal.
