SUPPLEMENT

WAIT A MINUTE

and read this carefully. We want to give you a few reasons why the 1906 Calyx is going to be one that you will want to buy two or three copies of,—one that you will want to keep and one that you will be proud to give away. That makes two. The third is for the other girl.

You'll Be Sorry

when it is too late. The first edition is almost exhausted now and we can't afford to order additional copies unless we have a guarantee that they will be taken. Illustrations, Etc.

The greatest advance in the art of book making in the last few years has been along the line of color printing, but so far college annuals have been slow in taking advantage of these improved processes. Last year the University of Virginia got out a very remarkable annual in that it contained an unprecedented amount of color work—more probably than in all the other annuals of the year taken together.

This year's Calyx will have almost twice as much color work as did last year's "Corks and Curls" and this work will be as a whole of a higher order than that in the University of Virginia book. One series of water color panels in particular will, we think, compare favorably with a great deal of the work in the standard American magazines. The frontispiece is a reproduction of a remarkable water-color sketch of the "Main Building by Moonlight," and there is a great series of athletic posters, besides several other full page illustrations in color. There are besides the usual number of pen and ink sketches in black and white. The cover will be one of the handsomest ever used for the Calyx. As to the general arrangement of the book we can only quote the comment of our publishers, who are the largest publishers of College Annuals in the world, and who write that they are "greatly impressed with the pains you have taken to plan for an unusually fine college annual."

There is one feature, however, in the illustration of the book that we will not attempt to describe, except to state that it will set the book aside as distinctly original and different from any former Calyx. Indeed an authority on book making in speaking of this feature, says:

"Your book will mark an entirely new departure in College annuals."

We believe that you will agree with him when you see the book.

Reading Matter

Every annual is necessarily made up largely of statistical matter. We have tried to relieve the monotony of class rolls, etc., by an unusually large amount of what we trust is really readable "reading matter." We will venture one or two of the articles that should be of especial interest:

Last summer one of the best known American novelists made a pilgrimage to the "Mecca of the South," and, as many have done before him, fell under the spell of the "Spirit of Place" that broods over the old campus. He has written for us, as only Meredith Nicholson can write, his impressions of Lexington and her classic "groves of Academe." The article is illustrated with a number of views of the Campus never before published.

Every now and then, once in a generation usually, a genuine humorist arises to depict the idiosyncracies of college. Washington and Lee was fortunate a few years ago in having such a one in "Bob" Keeble, who is now entertaining the readers of Judge. There are few of us who realize that we now have a college Mark Twain in our midst, but we believe that there are few that will deny it when they have a chance to read Lee Smith's "Annals of Sheik Michael," or who will disagree with the dignified Professor who, after he recovered his breath, exclaimed, "Why that is the greatest I ever read."

Mr. W. E. Harris, the well known Washington correspondent of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, has written for us an entertaining article on "Some Alumni Great and Otherwise." This is illustrated by a number of full-page portraits of some of our alumni who are just now very much in the public eye.

Lastly there will be a complete Comic Opera concerning which our natural modesty forbids us to speak "too muchly" except to promise that it will be startling in some ways.

We hope in a few days to be able to display some specimen sheets of the book upon the Bulletin. In the meantime "Get on the Band Wagon."

Personals

Trimble left college yesterday to accept a position with the United States Geological Survey. Kelly leaves a host of friends in college who are sorry to see him leave and who wish him all success.

The Ashland Independent says Mr. Robert LeWright Browning of this city, was examined before Judge S.G. Kinnear and Attorneys S. S. Willis and Calvin Weakley at Cattlesburg and admitted to the Kentucky Bar. Mr. Browning passed an excellent examination, with an average of 98. He is a graduate of Washington and Lee University, and has for some time been in the office of Wadsworth & Worthington in Maysville.—Public Ledger.

Shot Gun Club

The efforts of a few students for a gun club have finally met with success and last Saturday the first shoot of the club took place near the athletic field. The scores are, of course, not of the best, but every member hopes to do better next time, as only two or three had ever shot over a trap before. The following participated in the first shoot with the scores for forty birds.

- Bartenstein, 26
- Myers, 26
- Pipes, 19
- Preston, 23
- Steves, A. 24
- Wallace, 8

The club hopes to meet every Saturday. If there are any students in college who wish to join please give your name to any member.

Notice Seniors !!

There will be an important meeting of the Senior Class in the Latin Room at 3.15 Monday afternoon. All Senior Academs are urged to be present and an invitation is extended to the Senior Law and Engineering classes, as an important matter regarding Finals is to be decided upon. D. W. PIPES, JR. President

Last Issue May 26

Instead of publishing the 28th and last regular issue of the RING-TUM PHI on the 19th, when there will be nothing in particular to report, it has been thought best to put it off until May 26th, when the full proceedings of the important meeting of the student body to be held on the 25th will be given.

Tennis Tournament

The Tennis Tournament with the University of Virginia will be held on the W. & L. courts next Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons at 3:30. Admission 25c. Ladies Free.

Final Ball

Now that the baseball season is over, the track team on a firm foundation, the gymnasium tourney about to take place, let us look to the last event which is to mark the most successful year in the long history of this renowned institution, namely, the Final Ball. The students have supported athletics well this year, and justly should they do so, as it is a medium to make the University known, but the not only medium. At finals there are always a great many visitors here and with a magnificent ball the impression is created that our students are not only lovers of the athletic field or of their books, but turn their attention to social affairs. As everything progressed, so President Pipes, of the ball, and his committees have made arrangements to have everything more beautiful for finals. Beautiful invitations were gotten out, Schroeder's orchestra from Washington engaged again, and the light effects for the decorations made more brilliant. That is one side, now the other: who is to pay for this? The students, naturally. The Executive Committee has been working over time this week getting subscriptions, but still there are still over one hundred men in college who have not signed up. There may be ten, or perhaps twenty, men in college who are unable to give, but how about the others? Don't you want as much credit reflected on your university as possible? Of course you do. So let every man come forth and make a subscription, no matter how small. "Every Little Bit Helps."

M. A. C. Game

The last game of the season was played yesterday against the Maryland Agricultural College and resulted in a victory for W. & L. by a score of 4 to 2. The visitors put up a much better game than we were looking for, and the game on the whole was very fast.

Johnson pitched for W. & L. and did excellently, allowing four hits.

Porter made a hard catch in left field which was the feature of the game.

The visitors' twirler was very good, W. & L., getting only six hits, and their catcher threw to second with remarkable speed and accuracy. However, they were slightly week at short, four errors being credited to that player.

In the ninth inning each W. & L. played was anxious to get the last batted ball. "Red" implored "Johnnie" to give the batter "that left field ball," but Pipes was the lucky one and put out the 27th man in the last game by catching a fly to center field.

Lauck is out of town.

UNIVERSITY TOUCHSTONE

First Issue Came Out This Week

The University Touchstone, the new publication concerning which we made mention in our last issue, put in its appearance this week and made its initial bow to the public. The magazine is well gotten up. On the cover is to be found a cartoon of "Mike" from the hands of A. H. Payne and the little verse on page seven is not needed to tell us who it is—nor, perhaps, of the che-roots either. The photographs by Caraballo are quite interesting. One taken during the V. P. I. game is especially good, as is also the one entitled "The Corridors."

Editor Iden in his editorial makes a good plea for the existence of the University Touchstone and seems to prove conclusively that it is a desirable publication. We quote: "Jokes are appreciated by every man at various hours of his existence, and news will satisfy his curiosity and flatter his desire of being drawn into publicity." In accordance we hope to flatter that desire on the part of the Touchstone's board by printing its members below:
