CLASS BASKETBALL GAMES

Juniors Defeat Freshmen, Seniors Lose to Sophomores

Everything connected with the business side of the college work was carefully laid aside on Wednesday night to give room for the enthusiasm created by the opening games of the basketball league. The largest crowd, judging entirely from the number of yells, that ever attended a basketball game in Mr. McCutcheon's "play house" was in attendance to watch the stubborn scraps and make the "welkin ring" with cheers for their respective class teams. Class spirit was demonstrated in its greatest proportions and frequently overflowed in cheers sufficiently loud to have awakened the "seven sleepers."

Promptly at 8:45, thunderous applause broke loose from the freshman portion of the house, as through the doors of the dressing room, the pesky warriors of the freshmen filed, each wearing a smile that spread his mouth within threatening distance of his ears, and clearly indicated that somewhere in his brain box was stored a vision of the capers the "folks at home" would cut when they learned of how the pride piece of the family had starred on '11, class basketball team. However, the hilarity of this most verdant bunch was doomed to be short lived for in less than 20 minutes each member of the class gathered around the tired and battered ball tossers to spread the salve of complimentary words upon their wounded pride and soothe their disappointment with the consoling remarks "we would have won if—" Tumultuous applause from the half-toned senior side of the house, a few minutes after the arrival of the freshmen, announced the appearance of the junior team including their redoubtable center, Lord Chatham. After a short warm up by both teams, the stubborn clash, which resulted in relieving every freshman present of any of the symptoms of an "exaggerated Ego," began. This was really a pretty contest throughout. Both teams exerted all their energy to the fullest extent in an effort to win. For the first five minutes of play it looked as if the freshman who were putting up the gamer fight were sure to win. But before they had cinched the game a sensational field goal was manipulated by a junior that would take the fight out of a tortured lion. Lord Chatham, upon whom the baseball fans have time and again relied as a pinch hitter, by a series of side steps, hand-springs and "shoal hops" that would have made a renowned contortionist ashamed of himself, worked the ball within striking distance of the goal, and by using a little "ceiling english" threw a beautiful goal.

Altogether the game was a good, fast one, and the Freshmen showed that they have a team which will have to be reckoned with in future contests.

In the first half the crowd got their money's worth. The play was fast and furious, with an occasional resort to the roughness upon part of the freshmen which resulted in several fouls being called on them. The feature of this half was the fast work of both teams, and a field goal from midfield by Lewis in the early part of the half. Score at end of first half 5 to 4 in favor of Freshmen. The juniors came back strong in the second half and played the "freshmen's" off their feet. After ten minutes of furious fighting the game ended with score 15 to 12 in favor of the juniors.

Line up:

University Assembly

MATH SHARKS HAVE AN INNING

The student body was addressed by Dr. C. J. Keyser, professor of mathematics at Columbia University, New York, Thursday, Jan. 30, at 9 a. m. Dr. Keyser had to leave on the 10 o'clock train and this accounts for the meeting of the assembly at such an early hour.

The subject of Dr. Keyser's lecture was "Mathematics" and when he had fully defined and stated the limits to the scope of this science several members of the faculty looked as if they were in doubt as to what they really taught. The doctor said he did not aim to teach untrained minds in his lecture, but rather hoped to be able to offer some suggestions to minds trained in mathematics. The math sharks certainly had an advantage over their fellow-students who have omitted this study as much as possible from their work, for the latter could not absorb or comprehend much beside the fact their education was woefully incomplete.

Dr. Keyser showed that the commonly accepted definition of mathematics is too narrow and said that to define mathematics as the science which draws necessary conclusions gives the closest approximation to the true scope. He spoke of the adverse criticism of such men as Huxley, Sir William Hamilton and Schopenhauer and said that they might be pardoned on the ground that "indulgence is ignorance," for Hamilton plainly showed an aversion to seeing the light.

The doctor gave as the necessary qualities of a mathematician fancy, energy and self-confidence, and contended that where mathematical talent is found other talents are apt to be found in generous proportions.

The lecture was very complete and convincing in its proofs of the importance of mathematics and of the dependence upon it of other sciences. He showed further that the term "Applied Mathematics" is a misnomer and is simply a widening of the field of mathematics proper into new fields of thought.

Senior Law Class Meet

BECADE TO HAVE A BANQUET

Immediately after Moot Court Thursday afternoon the Senior Lawyers met and several important matters were dispensed with. On motion of Mr. R. W. Arnold to have a wet banquet Saturday night during finals the vote was called and the motion was unanimously carried.

Motion was also made that the Law School get out separate invitations for finals but it was strongly opposed on the ground that it would tend to sever the Law School from the rest of the University. Motion was not carried.

The committee appointed to draw up resolutions to provide for establishing some senior law scholarships made a report to this effect: First, that each and every member of the class execute five negotiable promissory notes for the amount of $2 each, payable in one, two, three, four and five years to the treasurer of the University. Second, That the classes for each succeeding year be requested to join us in this move. Third, That when a sufficient fund has been raised that three scholarships, at the ratio of 1, 2 and 3 be awarded to the deserving members of the senior law class.

Graham-Lee Society

The society did not meet until after preaching and on account of the lateness of the hour the regular program was dispensed with and the regular election of officers took place. Mr. McMullen was elected president, Mr. Price, vice-president, Mr. Herold secretary and treasurer, and Mr. Davis, Ring-tum Phi reporter.

Messrs. Larrick and Davis were chosen as orators to contest with representatives from the Washington society, as to who shall represent the University in the State Oratorical contest.

There was once a student named Breeze
Who had so many M. A.'s and D. D.'s
That his doctor said,
"Though you're not quite dead
You are killing yourself by degrees."—Ex.

The Illustrated Monthly West Virginian

With the December issue Mr. W. J. Lauck began the publication of a magazine under the above title, which has every prospect, judging from its contents, of making itself a place among Southern publications. The magazine has two offices, Keyser and Fairmont, and is devoted particularly to the interests of West Virginia, though many of its articles have a wider bearing as well and concern the South, and indeed the whole country.

While most attention is probably given to the economic aspect of public questions, the material published is never technical and is of interest to any one who has the welfare of the section and of the South at heart. Above all the material is live and interesting of itself.

The Mid-Winter number of the Illustrated Monthly West Virginian contains some excellent new features. The issue on the whole is rather an improvement upon the December issue.

A specially good new department is "National Affairs," conducted by Dr. H. Parker Willis. This gives a resume of the events and movements at the capital, with their bearing upon the country at large. The current issue contains a fine sketch of the presidential situation, as well as an account of the status of currency reform.

The editorials are timely and able and the account of the Monongah disaster is full and well-illustrated. The fiction of the issue is far above the average.

Washington & Lee is not concerned in any way with the question of whether the University of Virginia or the Virginia Polytechnic Institute shall be the headquarters of the proposed state geological survey. The following quotation from the letter of Mr. J. Sharshall Grasty, of Baltimore, to the Staunton Dispatch and News is given solely because of its reference to Dr. Campbell, head of the department of Geology and Biology at this University.

"A state survey should be conducted for the benefit of all the people and not for the benefit of any institution. And moreover the best geologist available should be elected state geologist regardless of the institution of learning with which he may happen to be connected. There is no better geologist in Virginia than Dr. Harry Campbell of Washington & Lee, but his duties are such that I am sure if the directorship were offered him he would not accept it. The man then for this position, possessing both the necessary training, experience and executive ability, is Dr. Watson of the University of Virginia. On this account I can't understand why your paper does not advocate that he be made director of the state survey, a scientific organization that Virginia is in most urgent need of."

Communication

Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 21.

Editor Ring-Tum Phi:

Sir:—Several years ago an attempt was made to get out a Washington & Lee song, but the words were not good nor the music easily sung and it did not become popular. Washington & Lee is ahead of many other schools in a number of ways, notably in the matter of student government of student affairs, but she is sadly behind in the way of songs, especially a Washington & Lee song. Yale has her Boola, Harvard her Fair Harvard, Iowa her Old Gold, etc., but Washington & Lee has nothing. Iowa, way behind the W. L. U. student body in sentiment, has put good words to the Fair Harvard tune and has a first class song.

If some one would find good music to put to Margaret J. Preston's ode to Washington & Lee, what a fine song we would have! The music need not necessarily be new. Boola and Harvard were both well known before they were appropriated by Yale and Harvard. What is needed is a good song with pronounced melody, pitched low enough to be easily sung by the ordinary voice and with appropriate words that fit the music.

Very truly,
WALKER H. DUNLAP.

Reveries of Solomon II

If three showers work and the hot water lasts 17 minutes, how many times a week can 450 students get a bath at the gym?

Some one made the statement that the senior class was going to have a basketball team. Has it? Ask a sophomore.

Fewer people know better when to stop than when to begin, so the bell still rings regularly at 10:25 daily, except Sunday.

Among the startling changes soon to be made the reagent bottles in the chemical laboratory are to be refilled. Mirabile dictu!

Will some one kindly point out to us the freshman who thought he was joining a fraternity when he signed up for the Ring-tum-Phi?

From the small amount of light discernible in the Law Library these nights one would judge that the present law classes are not right bright.

Speaking of the assembly Thursday morning, one of the professors has confessed that the grin on his face was inane. The other one who smiled still insists that he enjoyed the lecture. Quo vadit?

Moot Court

At the second term of the Moot Court of Rockbridge, several interesting cases came up and several of the young legal lights shone with surprising brilliance.

Among the cases that came up were Arnold v. Kidd, a suit for recovery on a bond, negotiable note and due bill for fertilizer, with the defense of a setoff of damages arising from misrepresentation of the productiveness of the fertilizer, R. W. Arnold, p. q., H. L. Kidd, p. d. Verdict for plaintiff for the amount of the due bill, Spencer v. So. Ry. Co., R. F. Berry, p. q., R. B. Stephenson, p. d.; Case was continued to allow an amendment of defective process. There were several motions and petitions made. In all of these cases the counselors on both sides conducted themselves with a grace and skill very becoming to such inexperience.

The honorable judge was not inclined to look at matters in such a complimentary way, but seemed rather inclined to kick everybody "Out of Cote" and not let any more in.

DR. HOWERTON ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A.

"Faith" was the subject of Dr. Howerton's address before the Young Men's Christian Association on last Wednesday night. He spoke on the incident of Christ's casting the unclean spirits out of the poor demoniac boy at the foot of the Mount of Transfiguration.

The father of the boy had asked the disciples to cast him out but because lack of faith they were unable to do it, and so he appealed to Christ after he came down from the Mount. Christ here makes faith the condition of all prayer to him. He told the man that all things were possible to him that believed, whereupon the man cried out, "Lord I believe, help thou my unbelief."

Dr. Howerton applied this to our Christian work here in college. The beginning of every revival in college was the united prayer of faith on the part of the Christian men who were dead in earnest. He urged us to begin that here so that the work of the spirit which had already shown itself so powerful in our midst might continue till every student was a follower of Jesus Christ.

Athletic Notice

At a meeting of the General Athletic Association on Friday afternoon it was decided to make all admission to athletic contests during the rest of the session by season tickets. These tickets will be issued to those men only who have paid their athletic fee of $5.00. Any one not holding a season ticket will be charged the regular admission fee.

These tickets can be gotten from O. C. Jackson, secretary of athletic committee after Wednesday, Jan. 29.

DR. VANCE CLOSES MEETING

The meeting which was held last week at the Presbyterian church by Dr. James I. Vance of Newark, N. J., was brought to an end Sunday evening. Dr. Vance's preaching was characterized by an earnestness and power which appealed directly to the hearts of his hearers, and his visit will be long remembered.

Saturday evening a service was held for men only. The church was thronged, fully 800 being present. The discourse was upon the Prodigal Son. Dr. Vance pictured the desire of the youth to break the ties of home; his freedom from restraint being obtained, he goes the way of the worldly; then comes retribution; but passing over the retribution the speaker dwelt upon the return and welcome home of the wanderer. After the sermon Dr. Vance called upon the Christians in the audience to rise, then those who wished to be Christians and at the close those who wished to confess Christ were asked to rise, nearly 100 doing so. About 60 remained to the after-service.

Another interesting service which was largely attended by Students was that Sunday afternoon in the chapel, when Dr. Vance spoke on "Manhood."

Dr. Vance left Monday for his home at Newark.

S. V. Club

The Shenandoah Valley Club met in Engineering Hall Monday evening. The meeting was called to order by President Osbourn, and the business of the evening was at once entered upon, which consisted of Calyx representation and a banquet. Mr. Will, the club historian was authorized to prepare a "write-up" for the Calyx. By a unanimous vote it was decided not to have a banquet this year.

SENIOR SOPHOMORE GAME

Shortly after the end of the first game, deafening applause greeted the Sophies as they drilled out on the floor with the proud bearing of the old fly that sat on the axle of a chariot wheel and said, "Wat a dust do I raise." Immediately after the Sophomores came the Seniors, bereft of the dignified togs commensurate with the requirements of "Mike" on "chapel day." But regardless of this poverty of dress, the "Stickers" of four years of stubborn warfare, warmed up with grace and agility of Roman gladiators.

From the very start it was apparent that the "freshman once removed" were going to give the Seniors a severe drubbing. The passing in game was much better than in the preceding one and both teams cautiously avoided roughness. The Sophies were unable to break down the Seniors in the first half, but at its close had the comfortable lead of 7 to 4. In the second half the Sophomores started off with a rush and never gave the seniors a breathing spell until they had "chalked up" the score of 17 to 4. The games were greatly enjoyed by all present, and while the results were in some respects at variance with the "dope" dispenser's forecast yet it is predicted that in the remaining games to be played the losers in Wednesday night's "set to" will show up strong. The freshman team is especially good and after the lesson of the last game, with a little more practice, may yet unfurl the pennant from their own flag staff.

The line up:

Cather	Hannis;

Theta Chi Banquet

The Theta Chi fraternity held its first annual banquet Tuesday night at Quisenberry's cafe. Covers were laid for twenty-seven, which included the members and several invited guests. W. J. Turnbull presided as toastmaster and toasts were responded to by Messrs. Hoge, Lee, Morales, Hardy, Ordeman, Delaplaine and Stone. The cafe was handsomely decorated with pennants and quite an enjoyable evening was spent by the banqueters.
