THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

Bishop John C. Kilgo, of Trinity College, N. C., Delivers Powerful Discourse to Graduating Class.

With the skies overhung with gray clouds, the air heavy with dampness, and the day broken up into transitory showers of rain the exercises of the 127th commencement of Washington and Lee began Sunday morning, June 12, in Lee Memorial Chapel. Unfavorable as the weather conditions were the chapel was filled and the splendid baccalaureate sermon of Dr. Kilgo more than served to offset the disappointments attending the inclement weather.

The procession of faculty, trustees and graduates was formed at ten minutes of eleven on the gravel walk in front of the historic vine-covered chapel and marched slowly into the chapel, while Mr. H. C. Eley played "Angel's Serenade" on the chapel organ.

The exercises proper began with a song, "Hark, Hark My Soul," by the commencement chorus, composed of Messrs. Leith, Carson, Watts, McDowell, Derr, McCown, Craighill, and Williams. The entire congregation then sang, "All Hail the Power," followed by the reading of the 19th Psalm by Bishop Kilgo, and prayer by

With the showers of rain of 1910 marched into the chapel that had fallen all week with Wednesday morning for the last time. The meteorological conditions seemed to indicate such frequency that their appearance was now looked upon as a matter of course, and under the same dreary aspect of the heavens that had confronted the classes during their first procession on Sunday the class of 1910 was the best in history, seeing that their departure was a matter of such regret that even the heavens

FINAL BALL GEORGEIOUS AFFAIR

Brilliant Function Marks Climax in Final Exercises at Washington and Lee—24 Couples in Figure.

The exercises of the 127th commencement at Washington and Lee were brought to a fitting climax on Wednesday evening, June 15, when the final ball was danced in the skating rink on Main Street. This function is always looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation, and this year proved to be the most brilliant and successful affair yet held in the university. The spacious skating rink had been gorgeously decorated for the occasion and presented a scene "fit for the angels to behold." The figure was intricate and elaborate, and well executed under the able direction of Mr. John Izard, president of the ball, and was pronounced the most beautiful and pleasing seen here in some time. The ball was opened at 11 o'clock by president Izard, of Roanoke, Va., accompanied by Miss Gladys Heald, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of Lynchburg, Va., who wore a beautiful creation of white silk gown and carried American beauty roses. Twenty-three other couples took part in the opening figure and the young the Rev. Wm. S. Hammond, of Lexington Southern Methodist Church.

After another vocal selection a duet, "Behold a Stranger at the Door," sung by Messrs. K. M. Leith and H. V. Carson, Dr. Denny briefly introduced the speaker as Bishop John C. Kilgo, D. D., LL. D., president of Trinity College, N. C., and a man of striking executive power in business connections and of magnetic personality in public relations.

Coming before the congregation, Dr. Kilgo announced as his text, Hebrews 11:8-10.

"By faith Abraham, when he was called, obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance; and he went out, not knowing whither he went. By faith he became a sojourner in the land of promise, as in the land not his own, dwelling in tents, with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise; for he looked for the city which hath the foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

Dr. Kilgo spoke of the great achievements of the oldest civilizations and the world's ancient heroes, and said these achievements proved that the making of mighty men depended very little upon the human wisdom of earthly things. These deeds took place in ages long before the installation of modern inventions and discoveries, long before the telegraph, railway train, printing press, were made to aid man in his work, and yet these ancient achievements were great, even as great as those of modern centuries.

The real secret of great achievements then, goes far deeper than mere human knowledge—it was God who was responsible for the great events of human history.

This God is a working God—a God who cares for every living thing; a seeing God, who sees everything that takes place in the world; a speaking God, who spoke to Abraham in the days of old; a social God, who sought fellowship with his earthly children; yet a God of secret thoughts, who takes pleasure in secret communion with his children.

This was the God who spoke to Abraham, who, following his command, went forth into the world to deepen and widen the current of human achievements, to overthrow old highways and lead the nations in new directions.

How did Abraham know this was God's command to him? In answer Dr. Kilgo said: "Not by scientific or philosophical or historical or psychological methods, but intuitively; just as I know the song of love from the note of hate; the touch of a friendly hand from the grip of an enemy's; the silent beauty of the hilltop from the rugged uncomeliness of the mountain side; the holy sense of right from the impulse of hellish temptation; the yearnings and longings of the human soul for God from the awful storm of passion that sweeps my spirit when besieged by temptation—I know it because I know it."

Dr. Kilgo went on to show that all human knowledge was wholly insignificant compared with divine intuition; that the man who depended altogether upon his earthly knowledge for his guidance forsook Shakespeare and all inspired teachers; he reduced the world to science regarded a flower not a creation of God but as a member of a certain family with so many stamens, petals and sepals, and for him the world became a world of bugs and worms and creeping things.

To this communion with God then were due the great achievements of the centuries and will be due the great achievements of the world to come.

Dr. Kilgo next discussed the theories advanced as to the permanency of things; how some regard the world as "God's thoughts fluent;" others a world of evolution, conflict, and change; but he declared permanence was the rule, not the exception; the law that twice two are four is fixed; love is fixed; and the work of Abraham and other great leaders has become permanent and enduring.

In conclusion, Dr. Kilgo paid a splendid tribute to the illustrious Lee, calling attention to him as an ideal man, and worthy of emulation by the graduates of 1910.

The services closed with singing, "Love Divine," and the benediction pronounced by Dr. Kilgo.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS AND TABLET DAY.

Hon. W. U. Hensel Makes Literary Address and Hon. W. A. Anderson Speaks to Liberty Hall Volunteers.

The procession of faculty, trustees, and graduates again filed slowly into the chapel Tuesday morning at ten minutes of eleven, Schroeder's orchestra furnishing music for the procession.

The morning exercises began with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Gordon, of Missouri, followed by an orchestral selection.

President Denny briefly introduced the Hon. W. U. Hensel, of Lancaster, Pa., who began the commencement address by calling attention to the heritage left by the noble heroes of historic Lexington, and paying an eulogistic tribute to their achievements.

Next he emphasized the familiar maxim. A little learning is a dangerous thing, and declared the object of learning was to know and to attain the "true end in the business of living."

He discussed the "joy of knowing," the secret of learning—the love of knowledge for its own sake, showed the hard labor that accompanies the acquisition of learning and pointed out the fact that those things are least prized that are acquired without effort.

"The object of endeavor is wealth." After the primeval tribes had learned the secret of providing for their daily wants, they devoted their attention to storing up wealth to guard against future need. This is a natural condition of human society, and hence the world is constantly engaged in increasing its store of wealth. He ridiculed the idea that over work kills one—worry being the sole cause and declared that work was the natural duty of man, and next alone to the "joy of learning" is the "joy of working."

"Brawn," however, "will never weigh as much as brain," and the intellectual is ever superior to the physical. Pleasures are but momentary, worries are transient, and that only is important which is eternal.

He discussed patriotism and loyalty to native land, state, home, and declared treason as unnatural a condition as sickness.

Concluding, he said, "Act in the living present: the golden age is not behind you, not before you, but all around you. Ye are heirs of all the ages. So 'quit yourselves like men; be strong.'"

Amid a demonstration of applause the meeting was then turned over by President Denny to the Rev. Dr. Strickler in behalf of the Liberty Hall Volunteers, and the address for the unveiling of the tablet to the memory of the latter was delivered by the Hon. W. A. Anderson, of Virginia.

Mr. Anderson gave a sketch of the outbreak of the war, the sentiment of the students at that time, their interest in the campaign, and told how at length they had decided to take up arms for what they considered their sacred rights, and how the classes went forth to the conflict under the leadership of their respective professors, to acquit themselves, bravely, honorably, creditably, "confident of being in the right, as God gave them capacity to see the right."

He now addressed practically the volunteers, and recalled to their memories the list of battles in which they fought, the fatalities and casualties that overtook them, and sketched briefly some of the volunteer heroes that died in the fight.

He concluded with the sentiment expressed in the lines dear to every Washington and Lee heart, which he quoted:

"Ye will not walk ignoble ways:
Ye dare not seek unworthy aims,
Ye can not do a deed that shames
Those heroes of our holiest days!
Your oath a Roman oath must be,
Sworn with a faith that will not yield—
Sworn on the doubly sacred shield
Of Washington and Lee."

He then announced to the small company of surviving volunteers whom he faced that he had one more command to make to them, and ordered them to form in line on the rostrum and face the audience, which they did amid great applause. Major Anderson then called the roll of the company. The tablet was then unveiled, the cords releasing the Confederate flags that covered the face of the tablet being pulled by two pretty little girls—Miss Frances Moore Denny daughter of Dr. G. H. Denny and granddaughter of Dr. G. B. Strickler; and Miss Lucy Gordon White, daughter of Dr. Reid White and granddaughter of Professor James J. White, who was the first captain of the Liberty Hall Volunteers.

The tablet, made by Robert Geissler, New York, is very handsome, made of bronze, fifty-two inches square, weighing 380 pounds, with raised letters, polished surface and egg and dart molding. The tablet contains the names of the original roll, the alumni recruits, a total of seventy-six men with this record:

"Killed, 13; Wounded, 26;
Died in Service, 9;
Total Casualty, 48 out of 76.
There were 106 volunteers other than alumni. See their names on Rockbridge County's Roll of Honor, County Clerk's office, Lexington, Va. Casualties among the latter:
Killed, 14; Wounded, 20;
Died in Service, 6; 40 out of 106. Total enrollment, 181;
Total Casualties, 88.
They fought in the thirty-two battles from Manassas to Appomattox, where the remnant surrendered with Lee."

The address before the alumni association was delivered Tuesday evening, by Dr. W. R. Vance, M. A., Ph. D., LL. B., '95, of Washington, D. C.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Frank A. Nelson, of the alumni association.

Dr. Vance announced as his subject, "The Sociological Function of the College Profession," and at first indulged in some reminiscences of the old school and its professors, and old memories that had clung to him concerning his alma mater. In a jesting way he discussed the college profession when regarded from the standpoint of "a joke," and remarked that "under certain circumstances college education was not necessarily an evil or an encumbrance to its possessor."

He discussed the origin of colleges, their connection with the church, and the resulting attention paid at first to Greek and Latin and ancient learning. He compared the value of Greek in one's education with a practical study such as geology, and told how the natural sciences were first introduced into the college curriculum.

Colleges, he declared, were no longer places of semi-monastic seclusion, but were for the active duties of life. Yet Latin and Greek will never be abolished from a college course as long as the elegance and accuracy of the perfect Grecian tongue and the directness and strength of the Latin are subjects of admiration.

He explained why many professors fail through some defect of character and declared that before one may be a professor, he must first of all be a man, and the chief work of man is to build up character.

After the alumni address, the members of the association adjourned to the basement of the Carnegie library to enjoy the sumptuous banquet served there.

Address Before the Y. M. C. A.

The address before the Young Men's Christian Association was delivered by Dr. Kilgo Sunday night in the chapel. After the chorus sang "Praise Ye the Father," a hymn, "Softly now the Light of Day," was sung by the whole congregation, and Dr. Wm. S. Hammond read a selection from the Psalms, followed by prayer by the Rev.

FOOT BALL TEAM.

Dr. G. B. Strickler. Mr. K. M. Leith sang a solo, "The Day is Ended," and Dr. Kilgo began his address.

Dr. Kilgo announced that he would take Moses as his subject, and draw some lessons from his life and character. He said in part:

"The mathematical and historical movement of God is never accomplished with the multitude. He always begins at the single definite point of some lofty individual mind. Singlehanded, with God to direct, Moses attacked one of the greatest nations of the earth and single-handed he conquered. When Christ wanted to impress the greatest truth he preached to a single mind, and that one of the dullest—the woman of Samaria.

He declared we needed nothing more today than to emphasize the power of the individual. Business everywhere today shows the lack of personal power and personal activity and the industrial world is finding that its machinery, its mechanical indifference is no longer producing the leaders that are to lead its affairs.

The chief glory of man is his power to break circumstances. Moses broke them, and the Master made the sea a pavement under his feet, at his command the sick stood well, the empires of death yielded up its dead, and at the end of his career he ascended up into the blue vault of heaven to assume his place among the angels and to seat himself at the right hand of God.

Cowardice is a mighty evil, but it must find no place in a man's life—there is no problem in our nations's life that a strong hand may not grasp and swing it into the ways of truth.

Dr. Kilgo is an interesting and instructive speaker and made a strong impression.

The hymn, "Jesus Calls Us," was then sung, and the benediction pronounced.

SOME 1910 FOOTBALL PROSPECTS.

Negotiations Now Pending for Training Table and Assistant Coach. Wilson Field Now Being Sodded.

It is understood that negotiations are now pending for the arrangement of a training table for the 'varsity football squad next fall, and also an assistant coach to Dr. Pollard. The rumor is that Frank M. Shaughnessy, last year's assistant coach of the White and Blue, will again fill the same position and in case his services are received Dr. Pollard will certainly have a competent lieutenant. From all that can be earned at this time from Manager Robert O. Thach and Graduate Manager Smith, no definite plans have yet been made for the training table, but it is decided that one must be had if in any way possible.

Dr. Pollard is at present in Lexington supervising the sodding of Wilson field. The condition of the field during football season has been one of the most serious drawbacks to this branch of athletics in the past and constant injuries have borne testimony to the fact from year to year. Those interested in football will undoubtedly be glad to hear of this improvement. The change, of course, will necessitate the use of a grass diamond in baseball hereafter, and while opposed by some, will undoubtedly be of benefit in the long run. The best diamonds all over the country are of this type, and repay for themselves many times over by requiring less care in up-keep and by minimizing the financial loss from bad weather.

Circulars will be sent to all old members of the squad by Captain Waddil and Manager Thach during the summer advising them when to report, etc., and it is hoped that as early a start as possible can be made in the practice work in September. The first game, that with Roanoke College, comes on October 1.

For the convenience of those who have not seen it, the 1910 football schedule is given below:

- October 1—Roanoke College, in Lexington.
- October 8—Hampden-Sidney in Lexington.
- October 15—Georgetown, in Washington, D. C.
- October 22—Davidson, in Lexington.
- October 29—V. P. I., in Roanoke.
- November 5—A. & M. of N. C. in Lynchburg
- November 12—U. of N. C., in Norfolk.
- Thanksgiving—U. of Alabama, in Birmingham.

RING-TUM PHI BOARD.

UNIVERSITY MUSICAL CLUBS COMBINED.

Band, Orchestra, Glee Club and Mandolin and Guitar Club Will All Be Included Under One Organization.

A recent step of advancement in the musical life at Washington and Lee was the effecting of an organization combining the university band, orchestra, mandolin and guitar club and glee club. The organization will be known as the Combined Musical Clubs of Washington and Lee University and it is planned that under its direction a trip of the various musical clubs will be made sometime during the session of 1910-1911, probably to Staunton, Lynchburg and Roanoke. R. A. Waddill was elected president; C. A. Robbins, vice-president, and G. B. Peters, business manager of the club. Leaders and managers of the separate organizations were also chosen as follows:

Band—E. C. Molesworth, leader; P. H. Lantz, manager; Orchestra—H. A. Derr, leader; J. P. Thornton, manager.

Mandolin and Guitar Club—E. W. Foreman, leader; V. E. Manor, manager.

Glee Club—R. C. Bowman, leader; H. V. Carson, manager.

It was hoped by those interested in this branch of college activity that T. W. Allen, who has been mainly responsible for the development of the musical clubs this year, could be prevailed upon to take some active part in next year's executive organization, but he will not return to the university.

Alumni Banquet.

The alumni banquet given in Carnegie Library was an elegant and sumptuous affair, with excellent menu and eloquent speeches.

Judge John Alexander Lacy of Washington was toastmaster, and an ideal one he was. Following were the sentiments responded to:

The Board of Trustees, J. S. Munce, of Richmond; The Faculty, Dr. W. S. Currell; The V. M. I., Col. H. C. Ford; The Library Hall Volunteers, Captain W. T. Meade of Louisa Courthouse. The Old Faculty, Professor A. L. Nelson. United States Senator Geo. E. Chamberlain of Oregon, Mr. William A. Glasgow of Philadelphia, former Governor William A. McCorkle of West Virginia, and former Governor Claude A. Swanson also made stirring addresses.

Crews Not Able to Compete This Year in Annual Regatta on Account of Weather Conditions.

The annual regatta scheduled to take place on Monday evening could not be held this year on account of continued heavy rains. The river was so high and rough that it was deemed dangerous to undertake the race on Monday evening, and the fact that Mr. Fred Darnell, stroke on the Albert Sidney crew had to leave on Tuesday to catch a steamer out of New York for a trip abroad, the contest could not be held later. The men who made the crews will be awarded monograms just as if they had rowed the race.

Athletic Committee Adopts Rule.

At the last meeting of the Athletic Committee, held in May, the following was adopted as the requirements and conditions on which monograms will be hereafter awarded in the tennis department:

Monograms shall be awarded in the tennis department on the following conditions:

1. To any one who shall win in both singles and doubles in an Intercollegiate Tournament,
2. Or, if no intercollegiate tournament is held to any one who shall win in a representative tournament held under the auspices of the Tennis Club of W. & L.
3. That these monograms be awarded by the Athletic Committee when, and only when, the Tennis Club through its officers or its executive committee has certified to the said Athletic Committee that the person, or persons, is, or are, entitled to the monogram by having fulfilled either of the above requirements."

WEATHER COULD NOT INTERFERE.

Interfraternity Dance, Senior Ball, and P. A. N. and Sigma Germans Very Successful in Spite of Continuous Downpour.

The 1910 final dances at Washington and Lee were pronounced by all those present to have been the most enjoyable and best managed in the history of the social world at this institution. The weather was very unfavorable, but the rain continuing intermittently throughout final week could not dampen in the least the enthusiasm of the attendants at all the festivities.

The program of dances included that given by the fraternities at Washington and Lee on Saturday night, the Sigma German Monday, the Senior Ball Monday night, the P. A. N. German Tuesday afternoon, and the Final Ball Wednesday night.

The opening dance was given jointly by the Phi Delta Theta, Kappa Alpha, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Kappa Sigma fraternities at the skating rink on the evening of June 11. Dancing commenced at about ten o'clock and about fifteen breaks were danced before the close at midnight.

The arrangements for the affair were in the hands of a committee composed of one member from each of the different fraternities, P. B. Lamberton being chairman and R. S. Hutcheson, secretary of the committee. J. T. Clark, D. B. Earwood, C. H. Blackford, and R. W. Pipes were the chairmen of the sub-committees.

The Sigma Monday morning german, always an attractive feature of the final festivities, was especially enjoyable this year. The figure for members of Sigma was led by Mr. Park B. Lamberton with Miss Alice Izard of Roanoke, assisted by Mr. Somers Davis with Miss Sarah Barker of Bristol, Tenn. The german continued from eleven to one-thirty.

The final german, heretofore given by the Cotillion Club on Monday night, was superseded this year by the Senior Ball, The hosts being the Senior Academic, Engineering and Law classes of the university. Especially appropriate decorations graced the skating rink and delightful refreshments were served during the course of the evening. In the absence of Mr. Fort Pipes, president of the Senior Academic class the Senior Academic figure was led by Mr. Walter M. Hood, assisted by Mr. H. Knox Smartt, vice-president of the class. The Alumni figure was led by Mr. Somers Davis of Louisville, Ky., with Miss Von Meysenburg of New Orleans, La. The Senior Engineering figure was led by Mr. R. S. Hutcheson, president of the class. The arrangements for the dance were in charge of Messrs. Robert G. Thach, chairman of the floor committee; B. W. Coulter, chairman of the finance committee; E. S. Humphreys, chairman of the arrangement committee, and the class president.

The time of the german of the P. A. N. Ribbon Society was changed this final from Tuesday morning to Tuesday afternoon and the innovation proved a very attractive one, the dancing continuing from the close of the 'varsity alumni baseball game to seven o'clock. Mr. Robert G. Thach led the P. A. N. figure with Miss Sarah Nichols of Savannah, Ga., and was assisted by Mr. T. O. Bagley. This figure also included former members of the T. N. E. chapter at Washington and Lee from which the P. A. N. Society was organized. The alumni P. A. N. figure was led by Mr. Devall L. Gwathmey with Miss Preston of Lexington.

Proceedings of Board Of Trustees.

The board of Trustees at their meeting on Monday transacted several important items of business. One was the appointment to the chair of Romanic languages of Professor Delaware B. Easter, M. A. (Randolph-Macon), Ph. D. (John's Hopkins), at present professor of modern languages at Randolph-Macon College.

J. W. H. Pollard, M. D., now professor of physical education at the University of Alabama, graduate of Dartmouth and Vermont and Harvard, was also appointed professor of physical education and adjunct professor of biology.

All of the members of the board of trustees were present at the meeting except Trustees St. Clair and Houston. The latter had handed in his resignation on account of failing health. The resignation was accepted and Mr. Paul M. Penick was elected as his successor.

An important item was the increase of $100 in the president's salary.

Committee Report on The President's Report.

To the Honorable Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee University.

Your committee appointed to examine the president's report, and make report to your board, beg leave to report as follows:

1. We congratulate the president and the university upon the continued growth of the institution, in the increase in the number of students, in the improved financial condition, in the work accomplished and in the discipline maintained.

2. The committee agree with the president that so far as it is possible, and so far as is consistent with the progress of the university the receipts shall exceed the expenditures, and that between the fixed expenditures and the estimated income there shall be kept a margin sufficiently wide to meet the unforeseen needs which may arise from time to time, and any inroads upon the endowment of the university should be carefully guarded against, and prevented.

3. We recommend the adoption of the president's suggestion as to the fee heretofore known as the "contingent fee" of $5.00, to be paid by each student on entrance, and we recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That hereafter annually each student on his entrance be required to deposit with the treasurer $5.00 to be known as the damage and athletic fee;" that this fee take the place of what has heretofore been known as the "contingent fee," and that the fund so collected be used and expended for the following purposes:

1. To pay the amounts due for breakage or other damage or injury done to the university property by students, unless such breakage, damage or injury can be traced to individuals, in which case the latter will be held financially responsible.

2. The remainder shall constitute an athletic fund to be administered by the president and the faculty-committee on athletics for the benefit of athletic sports.

3. We recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

It is with regret that we learn of the fact that Dr. Urdahl has accepted a call to the University of Wisconsin, but we wish to tender to him our wishes for his success in his new position.

7. We recommend that the chair of modern language be divided into two chairs as follows:

(1) The chair of Romanic languages;

(2) The chair of Germanic languages.

We recommend the election of Prof. D. B. Easter to the chair of Romanic languages; that his salary for the coming year be fixed at $2,000, with the understanding that it be increased annually by $100 until it reaches the amount of the full academic salary.

It is also recommended that Italian be added to the curriculum, and that Spanish be developed, and that French be expanded from a two year's course to to a three year's course of study.

8. We recommend that the annual salary of Prof. Farrar be raised to $1,800, that he be appointed registrar of the university, and that the said salary of $1,800 include the pay for his service as registrar.

9. We recommend the election of Doctor J. W. H. Pollard as professor of physical education and adjunct professor of biology, at an annual salary of $2,400, said salary to be derived as follows:

From the damage and athletic fee, $1,200, from the gymnasium fund $700, from the general fund, $500.

14. The committee recommend the appropriation of not to exceed $800.00 for the purpose of making certain repairs and improvements in the law building, including laboratories, new seats, and other improvements.

17. We recommend the appropriation of a sum not to exceed $800 for the purpose of improving the road ways, and in grading and improving the unimproved portions of the campus.

19. The committee recommends the appropriation of not to exceed $600 for the purpose of conducting a vigorous campaign looking to the promotion of the Lee endowment fund, and the raising of a fund for the purpose of building a new gymnasium.

20. We recommend the appropriation of a sum of not to exceed $16,000 for the purpose of building and equipping a dining hall for the use of students, and that the cost of said building and equipment be provided for out of the surplus income,—$8,000 out of the income of the fiscal year ending April 30, 1911, and $8,000 out of the income for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1912.

wept copiously.

Schroeder's orchestra again played for the exercises, and played as a prelude, "The Great Divide." The exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Fleming, of Lynchburg, Va., after which President Denny announced the scholarships and prize awards, as follows:

Endowed Scholarships.

Howard Houston Fellowship—Robert William Dickey, Virginia.

Mapleson Scholarship—T. Walter Fred and Philip W. Murray, Virginia.

Vincent L. Bradford, Scholarship—Benjamin Haden, Jr., Virginia.

Luther SeEVERS Birely Scholarship—Geo. Frederick Orde-man, Maryland.

Franklin Society Scholarship—William McElwee Miller, Virginia.

James McDowell Scholarship—James Somerville, Jr., Mississippi.

Taylor Scholarship — William Thompson Dye, Virginia.

Young Scholarship—Edward Emerson Brown, Tennessee.

University Scholarships.

In the Department of Chemistry—William Hyman Abramovitz, Florida.

In the Department of Civil Engineering—John Silliman Mullings, Louisiana.

In the Department of Economics and Politics—Neil M. Lewis, Louisiana.

In the Department of English—Paul Dulaney Converse, Tennessee.

In the Department of Geology and Biology—Oscar Holder Briedenbach, Montana.

In the Department of History—William Warren Newsum, Tennessee.

In the Department of Latin—George Holliday McKee, Alabama.

In the Department of Modern Languages—Herbert G. Anderson, Virginia.

In the Department of Physics—Samuel Allen Honaker, Louisiana.

President Denny then presented two prizes to their winners, the Robinson medal in Ancient and Modern Languages, awarded for the first time in several years, to Mr. O. A. Chidester, of Clarksburg, W. Va.; and the Final Orator's Medal, won by Mr. J. R. Coates, of Bolivar, Tenn., in the celebration of the literary societies last Monday night.

President Denny next announced the valedictory address, which was delivered by Charles Edward Burks, B. A., '10, of Ackermann, Miss. Contrary to what is unfortunately the general custom of valedictorians, Mr. Burks omitted the usual tear-spilling and handkerchief-dampening, demonstrations, and in the good-humored manner that has won him so many friends during his career at Washington and Lee, bade farewell to the faculty and his fellow-classmates with such expressions of hope and good cheer as to counteract in some degree the general mournfulness of the occasion and the weather.

The Hon. Claude A. Swanson, ex-Governor of Virginia, then delivered "A Word to the Graduates." In introducing him President Denny compared him in his good judgment and capacity for hard work to the old war Governor Letcher.

Mr. Swanson in beginning expressed his thanks for the complimentary remarks made concerning him, and also highly complimented the valedictory address which had just preceded his.

He interspersed his serious remarks with pleasantries that kept the attention of his audience and aided in driving his truths home in the minds of the graduates. He expressed his gratification in the educational awakening in which the Germans had preceded the Americans, and emphasized the object of education as already mentioned by the valedictorian to become "producers of ability and capacity."

If one might accept the figure which he used in describing his speech that of a "Mother Hubbard, which covers everything and touches nothing," it was nevertheless of pleasing design and excellent material. Among other things he said that the successful man must live a life of self-sacrifice and self-abnegation, that public life and private life are inextricably interwoven, and hence public service is private service, public failure is private failure. Intellectual achievements will always surpass athletic records, as also will intellect prove superior to wealth. "Men make a nation—rugged, honest, sterling men, comparable to oaks of strength and power, men of moral courage as well as physical, for courage, both physical and moral, is a prime requisite of success."

Men are needed, he said, who forget themselves in serving others, who do not complain that the world is treating them unjustly, who realize that nature never gives, but always sells, and often dearly, her treasures. "You can never get any success in life, unless you are willing to pay the price."

Furthermore, he went on you must put character above cash, man above dollar, intellect above material wealth. Above all, he said, you must not be scared by sectional hate and prejudice.

Closing, he said, "Your life must be one of service, duty, vast contributions to your state, your nation, and to humanity."

The remainder of the exercises consisted in the delivery of diplomas. Before these were handed out, President Denny announced that the class consisted of 119 graduates, by far the largest class in the history of the school: Master of arts, 3; Bachelor of Arts, 45; Bachelor of Science, 27; Bachelor of Laws, 41; Civil Engineer, 2; Graduate of School of Commerce, 1.

President Denny announced the following honorary degrees as having been conferred by the Board of Trustees:

SOUTHERN COLLEGIAN BOARD.

CELEBRATION OF THE LITERARY SOCIETIES.

J. R. Coates of Tennessee Wins Orator's Medal.

The joint celebration of the literary societies, always an interesting event in the final week, was held Monday night in the chapel at 9 o'clock.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the splendid Schroeder's orchestra, of Washington, which had been engaged for the final exercises.

Dr. W. S. Currell made a short introductory speech, explaining the conditions of the contest for the final orator's medal. He also stated that owing to important business matters and the large amount of work on the hands of the faculty, it was decided not to hold the faculty reception as planned.

The first orator of the evening was Mr. J. R. Coates, of Tenn., who had chosen the subject, "The Man in the Ranks." He said that the praises of the heroes of war and public life had long been sung in history, but that many of the world's greatest heroes were men in the common walks of life, unheard of and unknown to the general public. Upon their work depended the greatness of the world-heralded hero, and the great battles are not won by the army's general, but made successful by the man at the head, but only through the faithful service of the man at the bottom, the private, the common workman.

Mr. T. R. Cather next delivered an oration on the subject, "The Industrial Progress of the South." He pointed out in outline the gradual development of the South's industry and commerce since the Civil War, and noted the pleasing progress made along various lines which promised well for future development. He illustrated his general topics with numerous examples, depicting in detail the laborious struggle of the South since the devastation resulting from the conflict for her former commercial and industrial position.

Mr. F. C. Williams, of Virginia, discussed the engineer as the "Modern Pioneer." He showed by citation of numerous facts and figures the progress in engineering, and discussed various conditions under which the engineer is obliged to accomplish his tasks, showing how, in his work like the construction of the Panama canal, he was a true "Bahnbrechend," or modern pioneer.

The last orator was Mr. W. L. Cazort, of Arkansas, who spoke on the subject, "The Dawn of Peace." Mr. Cazort pointed out the fact that war was becoming less and less frequent among the nations at the present time, and that the time seemed almost at hand when conflict between nation and nation will be a thing of the past. The number of disputes settled by treaties has become more and more numerous, and with the establishment of international courts of justice, the dawn of peace is at hand.

Mr. J. N. Lyle, of Waco, Texas, one of the Liberty Hall Volunteers, was appointed to announce the decision of the judges, and after a short talk, in which he compared the oratory of the present with the oratory of the past, when they "orated Cicero, and ript Eurypides," and gave several reminiscences of his old college days, he announced the decision of the judges as unanimously in favor of Mr. Coates.

The officers of the occasion were E. L. Potter, of Virginia, Rayford Alley, of Oklahoma, Chief Marshal; and assistant marshals, A. W. Ruff, of Virginia, G. C. Worrell, of West Virginia, R. P. Ashley, of Maryland, J. N. Montgomery, of Alabama, and G. E. Miller, of Texas.

The judges of the contest were Judge J. N. Lyle, of Waco, Texas, Judge Jno. Alexander Lacy, of Washington, D. C., and Mr. E. W. Wilson, of Philadelphia.

Alumni Hold Business Meeting

A business meeting of the alumni of Washington and Lee was held in Newcomb Hall Tuesday afternoon, at which a resolution was adopted providing for the incorporation of the association under the name of "The Washington and Lee Alumni, Incorporated," and G. D. Letcher, Frank Moore and W. S. Hopkins were appointed a committee to prepare a certificate of incorporation under the laws of Virginia, with a board of seven directors or trustees.

The purpose of this organization is that systematic efforts may be put forth in the interest of the university.

THE SENIOR BANQUET.

Gayeties of the Final Week Opened When 1910 Men Gather Around the Festal Board.

The feeling of emotion, which had inspired the members of the class of 1910 and had been pent up all during their college struggles were given free rein and allowed full sway in the senior banquet which took place Friday night, June 10. Rejoicing in the completion of "tickets," theses, and "specials," the class assembled around the festal board and overflowed with joy and happiness.

The banquet was served under the supervision of John B. Thompson, long known to the students as "Carter" and famous for his menu-manufacturing ability, and the order of courses was as follows:

- Manhattan Cocktail
- Bouillon
- Olives
- Celery
- Tenderloin Trout with Tartar Sauce
- Asparagus Tips
- Cream Potatoes
- 1910 Punch
- Broiled Chicken
- Potato Chips
- Green Peas
- Tomato and Lettuce Salad
- Mayonnaise Dressing
- Strawberry Ice-cream
- Cake
- Coffee
- Roquefort Cheese
- Almonds
- More Punch

The last article mentioned above proved very popular during the evening, and the economic law of supply and demand was pressed into frequent service.

Mr. William Fort Pipes, president of the class, first proposed a toast to the ex- classmates, which the class drank with enthusiasm. Mr. Hamilton Arthur Derr was next called upon, and he responded with a concise speech in which he recounted the achievements of the class, and proposed the toast, to the class of 1910. Mr. Robert Gordon Thach then endeavored to "emphasize the idea of the superfluity of artificial stimulation to awaken the enthusiasm of the class" and proposed the toast, to the ladies.

Mr. Robert Paul Ashley was the third speaker, and began a lengthy and well-prepared impromptu speech, the purport of which was to show that a man's life is in three acts, the first before entering college, his college career occupying the middle act. By this time, however, portions of the class were already beginning to overflow with joy and good will and good cheer, and the little drama was interrupted in about the beginning of the last scene of the second act. The interruption was not due to any lack of appreciation of Mr. Ashley's speech, but owing to the susceptibility to suggestion of the above mentioned portions of the class, and the potency of the inspiration of his remarks. The remainder of the drama, therefore, was omitted or lost to hearing, and with a general chorus of farewells and "Auld Lang Syne" the banquet was over.

The class officers are as follows:

Academic—William Fort Pipes, president; Henry Knox Smartt, vice-president; Robert Gordon Thach, secretary-treasurer; Robert Paul Ashley, historian; Charles Edward Burks, valedictorian.

Engineering—Robert Steele Hutcheson, president; Joseph Ramsey Blackburn, vice-president; Frederick Carlyle James, secretary-treasurer; Robert William Dickey, historian.

The banquet was in charge of the following committees:

Arrangement, E. S. Humphreys, chairman; R. G. Thach, H. K. Smartt, E. Watkins, R. W. Dickey.

Finance, H. St. George Tucker, chairman; B. W. Coulter, E. L. Potter.

We must not forget to make praiseworthy mention of the music furnished for the occasion by the "Ollie Jackson" mandolin and guitar trio. The musical relish added considerable flavor to the intellectual and gastronomical feast.

The intervals between courses were filled up, also to overflowing with the respective autographs of the class, among which, after the occasion were found the following: W. F. Pipes, H. K. Smartt, R. G. Thach, R. P. Ashley, H. A. Derr, O. A. Chidester, W. B. Fowlkes, J. W. Rader, J. G. Pyle, R. B. Lloyd, F. Y. Conner, M. H. Conner, R. B. Stotler, P. W. Murray, H. J. Garnand, G. R. Fortson, L. B.
