CASTLE HILL BRANCH OF Y. M. C. A.

Committee Chosen to Take Charge of Association

At a conference of the president and general secretary of the university association with four of the most influential men at Castle Hill, held last Tuesday in the Y. M. C. A. office, the following action was taken:

The work at Castle Hill for the coming year is put in the hands of a committee of five men.

C. P. Light, chairman.
T. O. Watson, vice-chairman.
Riviere, Mell, Turbyfill.

These men have full charge of this branch of the association's work with power to take such action as to them seems best for the advancement of the work. It is believed that under their leadership, strongly supported by the students, this work will meet with great success.

Weekly meetings, conducted at Castle Hill on Friday of each week are to be held to enable students whose classes interfere with the Tuesday night meetings, held weekly in the Young Men's Christian Association Hall in the Library, to actively participate in the work of the association. This plan was originated three years ago and since that time has been carried on with ever increasing success. The distance of this building from the library, the large number of students rooming there and the attractive and suitable hall for this purpose attainable in the building caused the location of this branch of the weekly devotional services of the association at Castle Hill.

During the past year this work, under the guidance of William Riviere, attained greater success than ever before in its history and he is to be congratulated on the faithful work and successful results secured.

The duties of this work, however, are too many and important to be assumed by one man, and it is felt that he, together with the four above mentioned competent men, backed up by that portion of the student body represented at Castle Hill will accomplish greater success than before known.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING

Pursuant to a call by President Burks, the executive committee of the student body met Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11th, in Newcomb Hall. The most important business transacted was the election of a cheer leader to succeed T. McP. Glasgow who resigned on account of heavy work. H. E. Moran was chosen by unanimous vote of the committee to fill the vacancy.

A resolution was adopted asking the faculty for holiday on the 29th of October, when Washington and Lee will play V. P. I. in Roanoke. Since more interest is felt in this game than in any on the schedule, and since it has now become a custom for the student body to attend it each year, the committee decided to ask for a holiday on this date, rather than on that set for the A. & M. game in Lynchburg.

WASHINGTON AND LEE OVERWHELMED

Most Decisive Defeat in Years—White and Blue Team, Outclassed, Fights Courageously, But is Unable to Stop Heavy Georgetown Men

Facing the best team Georgetown has turned out in recent years Washington and Lee was powerless in Saturday's game and was overwhelmingly defeated by a score of 52 to 0. When it is taken into consideration that Dunn, left half for Georgetown, has played three years at Holy Cross, meeting such teams as Yale, Princeton and Harvard; that Dailly, left guard, has had a like experience at Fordham; that Fury, right half, like every other man representing the Blue and Gray, is a veteran, and that on the other hand Washington and Lee's team is light and wholly inexperienced, it is easy to see how the defeat occurred. The White and Blue team battled gamely to the end of the struggle and deserves credit for the fight made against hopeless odds. They did the best they could and no fault is to be found with their work. The following account of the game in detail is taken from the Washington Post:

"Georgetown's great football scoring machine swept the eleven from Washington and Lee University off its feet on the hilltop gridiron yesterday afternoon and atoned for the defeat administered to them by the Lexington lads two years ago.

The final score of 52 to 0 does not really show how utterly the visitors were outclassed, for Georgetown could have made it much larger had Coach Neilson desired to do so. Forty-one points made in the first two periods of play demonstrates how the team worked before Coach Neilson shifted his line-up, which sent Vlyman, Lamberton and Crafts, his second string of backs, into the game. Fury, Dunn and Walsh viewing the contest for the remainder of the time from the side lines. Other changes were made that unquestionably weakened the team.

Those in the stands who saw the giant Blue and Gray team of 1904 sweep everything before them, with the possible exception of Princeton, had the first opportunity to look upon the greatest team that has represented Georgetown since that time. It was the first real test on the home grounds, and Neilson's handiwork was clearly demonstrated. It was expected that the locals would win, but not by such an overwhelming score.

The contest fairly bristled with sensational plays, that is in the first half. "Thug" Fury gave one of the greatest exhibitions of broken-field running that has ever been witnessed on Georgetown field, the stalwart halfback tearing off long gains every time he carried the ball. Thirty-five yard runs by him were frequent, and on one occasion, after Bryant had opened up a big hole, he squirmed his way through almost the entire visiting team for an 80 yard run and touchdown.

Dunn and Walsh are not to be denied in their share of the glory, and with this fast pair of backs working along with Fury, Georgetown scored almost at will, Dunn was especially effective.

Coach Neilson showed a few trick plays during the first half, and on these his team made many gains. The forward pass played an important part during the early stages of the battle, the visitors being unable to solve this style of attack. Neilson had many trick plays that he did not use, it being deemed advisable to keep these a secret after Georgetown had rolled up such large score early in the game.

As has been said before, Neilson took out Walsh, Fury and Dunn after the long intermission, but the second string did good work, despite the fact that nothing was used except the old-time plays, the forward pass and outside kick being eliminated. End runs and line smashes one after another were tried, with the result that only one touchdown resulted in each of the third and fourth periods. Goal post stands were the feature of the last two periods. Time and again Georgetown would place the ball on the Lexington eleven's 5 yard line, only to be held for downs, when a touchdown seemed certain. Georgetown lost at least five touchdowns in this manner.

It was the local's all powerful defense that prevented Washington and Lee from scoring. Time and again the attacks of the backs attempted to make first down were repulsed, and generally with a loss. Georgetown's forwards broke through and stopped the play before it could get under way, while the ends took care of the backs who attempted to get by them.

With the Washington and Lee defense it was different. The Georgetown line opened up big gaping holes through which the backs went through with hurricane force, and the ends were swept aside by the Blue and Gray interference. One may get an idea of the defensive game put up by Georgetown by the fact that Washington and Lee was unable to make a first down from a scrimmage during the entire game.

Quarterback Sitterding used Wymard and Bryant, the big tackles, off and on, and the latter was especially strong on the attack. Bryant crashed through the line low and hard and often carried the ball for the required distance, with three or four men clinging to him. Wymard kicked seven out of his nine attempts at goal, and outpunted his rival on every exchange of kicks.

Washington and Lee has a game eleven, and one that will fight to the last ditch, but it must look for other teams weaker than Georgetown to conquer this season. The line-up: Georgetown Positions W. & L. U. Carter L. E. Harman Bryant, Stohlman L. T. Miller, Hobson, Leach Dailly, capt. L. G. Rogers, Jones Cunniff, Freeman C. Kinnear

W.R. BLEDSOE'S SUDDEN DEATH

Succumbs After Brief Illness in Roswell, New Mexico

News was received here late Saturday afternoon of the death of William Randolph Bledsoe in Roswell, New Mexico. No details have been learned, except from a telegram sent to members of his fraternity by Jas. O'Brien of Roswell, stating that Mr. Bledsoe's death was very sudden, and was caused by a tumor of the brain. The remains will be brought to Staunton, where Mr. Bledsoe's father is buried, and the interment will be made tomorrow.

Mr. Bledsoe has been closely identified with Washington and Lee for several years, and the news of his death comes as a shock to many men who have been intimately associated with him in college. He entered Washington and Lee University in 1900, but on account of ill health left college in 1902, spending two years in engineering work in West Virginia. Returning to Lexington he again became a student here during the years 1904-'06, leaving the university the following year to take up work with the Immigration Commission. In 1909 he again returned to the University for the study of law, but was compelled to withdraw before the end of the year on account of an attack of nervous prostration. This fall he went to New Mexico, in the hope of regaining his health and was at the time of his death teaching in the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell.

Mr. Bledsoe took a prominent part in college activities, particularly along literary lines. He was editor of the 1906 Calyx, and on numerous occasions did editorial work for the Ring-tum Phi. He was recognized by his associates as one of the most intellectual men who have gone out from Washington and Lee in recent years. His extensive reading and accurate knowledge of literature, combined with his keen observation of men and events would have made him a power in the editorial field. In addition to his literary work Mr. Bledsoe was active in the social affairs of college. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, and of the Sigma, S. B. C. and P. A. N. Ribbon Societies.

Mr. Bledsoe is survived by his mother, who was until recently a resident of Lexington, but who now makes her home with her son in Charleston, W. Va., and by three brothers, E. P. Bledsoe of Little Rock, Ark., T. A. Bledsoe of Charleston, W. Va., and R. P. Bledsoe of Bristol, Va.

TREAT IN STORE FOR PLAY LOVERS

Mr. Arthur de Breanski, who has performed leading parts in the Ben Greet Company for the past two years and who is well known in Lexington, will give Oct. 31 in the Lexington High School Auditorium a series of costume recitals. They will comprise renditions from Shakespeare's famous plays and from such modern plays as "The Belles," which Sir Henry Irving made so famous in his role of Mathias. The rates will be 50 cents for all except pupils of the Grammar School and High School, who will be charged 25 cents.

SOPHOMORES VICTORIOUS OVER LEXINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

The Sophomores defeated the plucky eleven of the Lexington High School on Wilson Field last Friday afternoon. There was a fairly good crowd on hand to root for each side and the game was hotly contested. The score was nine to nothing. The Sophs. were able to cross the goal line of the High School only once. Peeples kicked goal. The other score was the result of a drop kick from the 30 yard line by Ball. In the fourth quarter the Sophomores worked the ball to the eight yard line, but lost the ball on failure to make distance and Glasgow for the High School, punted out of danger. The High School team was composed mainly of alumni who are now in college. The features of the game were the punting of Glasgow and Peeples, the tackling of Elliott, the line bucking of Richardson and the defensive work of Gibson at quarter. Edmund Adair and Hutton were the particular stars for the High School.

The line-up was:

L. H. S.	Sophs.

THE PROVINCE OF THE COLLEGE PAPER

The following editorial from the Trinity Chronicle expresses the matter under consideration so admirably that we cannot resist the temptation to quote it in full.

"A perusal of the editorial columns of most college newspapers leaves one with a feeling of sadness. Such a statement, of course, premits of humorous sallies at our own editorial columns, but we are quite willing to share in the general censure—after we have had our say. We have been asked, even during our short incumbency, questions like these: "Why don't you write about things nearer home?" "Why don't you discuss local college problems, instead of Polygamy and College Rot?" "Why don't you write about College Spirit or Athletics?" All of these are fair questions and demand an answer.

"Half of our exchanges come to us week after week with their editorial page crammed with little else but the emptiest, most deadening rot about athletics. "Buck So and So is showing up wonderfully on punting and bids fair this season to win new glory" for the heliotrope and bottle green; "Bud" Smith, the new coach, is hell on skates in the matter of taking advantage of the new rules; and so onto a sickening, soul-killing infinitum. Most of our other exchanges place editorial emphasis, week after week, on such startling truths as these, "without college spirit no student periodical can live;" "College Spirit is college enthusiasm;" "No athletic team of the college can be a success if it has not the support of true College Spirit." Truly a wonderful subject this; College Spirit lends itself so easily to variation and platitude. It fills space beautifully, and bores, oh, how it bores!

"But to return to our own editorials. We do not belong to that race of college philosophers who build highly on the efficiency of a weekly baragou to make a desert of indifference sprout with a thousand little blossoms of College Devotion.

"College Spirit that is worth while was never engendered by an editorial picking-on. The kind of man that is devoid of college spirit doesn't read the college weekly unless it is a borrowed copy, and he wouldn't know College Spirit if he met it in the first column, page one, under a four-deck head. You can't teach a man college loyalty; he has it or he hasn't it. The brand that one gets from reading an editorial is frail, frail "as the whim of a spook on a spree," it is 99 and 44-100 per cent. will-o-the-wisp and the rest wind.

It may clear matters a little to state the policy of the present board of editors. It is conscious that many things about college are not perfect, and is ready to give space to any communication from the students which is worthy and which is seeking to better conditions. The Chronicle is strictly a student's paper and as such seeks to correct the thought and criticism of the student body. It is not a fraternity organ; neither is it a non-fraternity organ. It is not a bulletin of the Athletic Association. It is independent of the college administration and its policy is not dictated by the office. It will not lend itself to the editorial exploitation of college news, or would-be-heroes, as some of our exchanges do, under the sugar-coated guise of "Athletic Prospects, Debating Material," etc. It was founded, first of all, to print the college news, and only when it fails to do that, will the editors feel that it has not done its duty. Its editorials will attempt no general transfigurations. Their subject matter as far as possible will contain some element of college interest. If they will be read and found interesting their purpose will have been fulfilled.

"It will be seen from this that we do not take ourselves too seriously, a common failure of editors of college publications. A college weekly is not an ideal medium through which to preach a new philosophy of life, however strongly its editors may feel the call. If it prints the news, without bias, and is not dominated by any one interest in college it does all that can be expected of it. That is the kind of paper the editors are trying to make of the Chronicle this year."

GRAHAM-LEE SOCIETY

All the members of the Graham Lee Literary society were present at the weekly meeting Saturday night.

Mr. H. C. Hall, the first speaker on the program, presented an interesting declamation of the famous speech of Patrick Henry before the House of Burgesses. The question for debate was: "Resolved, That Freshmen should be prohibited from playing on the Varsity athletic teams." The affirmative speakers, Messrs. J. F. Brown and Woodward, were opposed by Messrs. William Miller and J. O. Day. The judges rendered their decision in favor of the affirmative. F. N. Cason then read an instructive account of the current events of the week.

Many new names were presented, but owing to the limitation of the membership to 40, they had to be placed on the waiting list.

We are always glad to publish any communication that may be handed to us, but we desire to state that we will not be responsible for sentiment expressed.

We also desire to call attention to the fact that unsigned correspondence will not be published. Those who do not desire their names published should add a pen name and their wishes will be complied with.

The natural question is "How did it happen?" You are enquiring everywhere and of everybody, "What was the matter with the team?" "Was that overwhelming score the result of poor coaching, or did the team just quit?" To which the reply is that bad coaching was not the cause of the lack of showing against Georgetown. The team is in no way to be blamed. They did the best they could do. We were simply outclassed. The reason for that fact was right here—not with the team. And that reason is that the men in college who can play football have been, Achilles-like, sulking in their tents. It is not believable that among six hundred men there cannot be gotten together a team that will hold any college in the South to a reasonable score. The trouble is that the big, brawny, husky men in college sat at ease and let 120 and 130 pound men go up against a team that weighs 185 from end to end. The game Saturday would not be one to be ashamed of if Washington and Lee had put in the field the best team that it would be possible to get here. But, under the circumstances, it is nothing short of a disgrace.

But all is not lost. That defeat on Georgetown field will prove a positive benefit if it serves to arouse the spirit here. It is entirely possible in the two weeks left before the V. P. I. game to get together and surprise ourselves and them. It cannot be done unless the material is on the field for the coaches to work into shape. Stop asking for explanations. Get into a football suit and go out on Wilson field to-morrow afternoon and go to work to make the team what it ought to be.

Class football has never received due consideration here. The Ring-tum Phi has during each season for the past five years urged a regularly organized schedule of games for the championship. The sophomores and freshmen have always played, and usually the juniors meet the seniors. But a schedule by which the winners contest for class supremacy has never been worked out. It will be conceded that the athletic committee is interested in this matter because of the possibility of developing varsity material from the class teams. Therefore we suggest the following plan: Let each class in college organize and elect a manager; let the class managers with the assistance of the athletic committee arrange a schedule of games to begin Nov. 5, after which the varsity plays no more games here, for each Saturday, until the final winner is determined. After the first game or two the interest of the whole student body will be aroused, and good attendance can be counted on.

Why not hold a tennis tournament before the present ideal fall weather passes? Such an event would furnish entertainment when the football team is away on a trip. It would arouse an interest in this branch of sport which would, in all probability, result in one or two meets with other colleges next spring. By this means an idea could be gained as to who will represent us in these contests and the winners could work together, with that idea in view. Another tournament can be held in the spring to determine absolutely the men to go into meets. The thing to do now, at any rate, is to bring this branch of athletics before the students.

Postal cards were sent out by the alumni association of Washington to all W. & L. men in the city calling attention to the game with Georgetown and asking that they occupy at the game the section of seats reserved for W. & L. men. Their interest and support are highly commendable. It is true that the alumni of no college are more loyal to their alma mater than the graduates of Washington and Lee. Yet that loyalty is much more effective when organized and it serves to put enthusiasm into the team to know that they are supported by their friends in a body. The action of the Washington alumni should serve as an example to those in the other cities where white and blue teams appear.

The management of the Ring-tum Phi wishes to explain the delay in the last issue. As the paper was being printed on Tuesday morning at the County News office a cog in the press broke. It was impossible to replace the piece of machinery this side of the factory in Rhode Island. Just as soon as the break occurred Mr. Paxton telegraphed for a new cog but it did not get here until Friday. The delay is regretted but could not be avoided, and every precaution will be taken to prevent its happening again.

COMMUNICATION

Are We Fair?

In times past it has been said generally among the colleges that sent their teams to Lexington to play Washington and Lee that the treatment here was good. And so they ought to say if the students of the University carry out their duty as gentlemen. It is merely our duty to our guests who come to Wilson field for football to see that they are well treated in every way. It is no doubt true that what is good enough for us is all that we can hope to give to the visitors. But in all justice should the white and blue team take things which they have not the kindness and consideration to have ready for the other players? I say not.

Any man who noticed that Hampden-Sidney team squatting on a cold, wind-swept rock and in the rain last Saturday would be likely to ask, if he did not know, "Where is the other team?" O, no, they were not at the other end of the field at the edge of the hill, but down under the grand stand where provision was being made for their comfort. The contrast was so marked that any one must have seen it.

We all know that a coach wants to talk to his men between halves. A sound proof wall could be built in the middle of the grand stand so that with a door at the other end we could offer our visitors a good place to retire. Let us see what can be done right now and do all we can to make it impossible for Davidson to say that we took the best and gave to them whatever was left. We must for the sake of the men in the olden days who handed down to our present repute for fairness see that no whit of the good name is changed.

EXCHANGES

Pennsylvania's newly adopted flag consists of vertical red and blue colors with the coat of arms of William Penn in white in the middle.

The Universities of North Carolina celebrated the one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of its founding on October twelfth.

Walter Camp, Yale's advising coach, who has been touring the West observing Rugby football as played by Pacific coast teams, has been summoned to New Haven by the Yale coaches who stated in the message that his services were needed there. He left at once for the East.

The demand for tickets for the first two games of the world's championship series has broken all records, seventy thousand dollars being returned to applicants whose orders could not be filled.

Rigler, who studied law last year at the University of Virginia, and O'Day, the veteran umpire, have been chosen by the National Commission to officiate in the coming world's series between the Cubs and the Athletics.

Third Baseman Corridor, whose playing in the recent Cleveland-St. Louis series is said to have assisted materially in fattening the batting average of Lajoie, has made an explanation of the affair to President Ban Johnson of the American League which the latter says is entirely satisfactory. Corridor's statement to the League's president agrees with the explanations already published. The third baseman seems to have played back too far to handle Lajoie's bunts and eight hits out of eight times at the bat resulted.

Nine rules of traditional conduct which the Students Council asks all first year men to observe, have been printed on small cards and are being placed in the hands of Michigan's latest arrivals.

They are as follows:

1. Wear the Freshman cap or toque during the entire year.
2. Never smoke a pipe on the campus.
3. Never wear prep-school insignia.
4. Get all prep-school pins out of sight.
5. Never sit on the Senior benches.
6. Always allow a man of a higher class to precede you through a door.
7. Attend all mass meetings.
8. Learn the "Yellow and the Blue" at once.
9. Don't forget the fact that you are Freshmen.—Michigan Daily.

ALUMNI NOTES

A. R. Dearborn, ex-'13, is in the real estate and insurance business in Birmingham, Ala.

J. M. Dudley, '91, is secretary of the International committee of the Y. M. C. A., Railroad department, at Montreal, Canada.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 12.—At 8:30 o'clock this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Crawford, cousins of the bride, Miss Katie Bird became the bride of Andrew Lewis Jones of Monterey. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert H. Fleming, D. D., of Lynchburg, uncle of the groom, assisted by Rev. A. M. Fraser, D. D., of the First Presbyterian church of Staunton. The bride is the daughter of the late I. Hite Bird of the Woodstock bar, descendant of the original Hite, first settler of the Valley. The groom is the son of the late Jared Jones, long Treasurer of Highland county, and is a young lawyer of the Monterey bar, a graduate of Washington and Lee University.—Times-Dispatch.

A late number of "Case and Comment," a leading legal publication, contains the following sketch of Honorable J. H. MacLeary, an alumnus of Washington College: "Honorable James Harvey MacLeary is a Tennessean by birth, a Texan by adoption, and a Porto Rican by preference. He was born near Carthage, Tennessee, on July 27, 1845. Later his father removed to Harvey, Texas. In 1861 Judge MacLeary left college and enlisted in the 5th Texas Cavalry, in which he served until 1865 with high honors, participating in all the battles in which the regiment was engaged, and being four times wounded. In 1866 he entered Washington and Lee University, graduating in 1868. In 1869 he was admitted to the bar and began practice in Columbus, Texas, removing later to San Antonio. He served in the House of Representatives and Senate of Texas and as attorney general and presidential elector. In 1866 he was named one of the justices of the Supreme Court of Montana, but resigned the post on account of the rigorous climate. From 1896 to 1898 he was general counsel for the Postal Cable Companies of Texas and Louisiana. In 1898 he was commissioned Inspector General of Volunteers, and participated in the campaign ending with the fall of Santiago. When General Wood was named Governor of Cuba he asked Judge MacLeary to accompany him, and gave him the post of Inspector of Charity, and in February, 1901, he came to Porto Rico in response to a cable from Secretary Hunt. He became assistant secretary of Porto Rico, and was later appointed by President Roosevelt to the Porto Rican Supreme Bench, which position he still holds. Judge MacLeary is a cultured, accomplished gentleman of strong character and firm convictions. In a series of able decisions he has done much toward building up in Porto Rico an ideal system of justice. He enjoys calling himself a Porto Rican and repeatedly has manifested his desire to pass the rest of his days there. He is deeply concerned in the intellectual and material progress of his adopted home.

On last Monday evening Miss Lucy Patton entertained with marshmallow toast in honor of Miss Bessie Catlett, who has just returned home. Dancing was also indulged in. Those present were: Misses Bessie Catlett, Agnes, Nannie, Margaret and Lucy Patton, and Messrs. J. T. McCrum Rufus Bowman, William Paxton, W. L. Webster and Colonel Thomas Jones.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MAJOR
R. C. DAVIS OF LOUISVILLE

Major R. C. Davis, one of Louisville's most prominent attorneys and citizens, and a Confederate veteran, passed away at 8.30 o'clock Friday morning at his home, 1219 South Brook street, following a brief illness. While engaged in conversation with his son, John J. Davis, in the office of the law firm of Davis & Davis, Friday afternoon, without warning he was stricken with a sudden attack of acute indigestion and toppled for ward from his chair.

Physicians were summoned and he was removed to his home. At first he rallied and Drs. Charles Hibbitt and John Cecil were hopeful for his recovery. However Friday at midnight he suffered a sinking spell. He was unconscious for 36 hours before his death.

Major Davis was born in Clarksville, then Virginia, Sept. 4, 1837, and was a son of the late John Davis, a wealthy manufacturer and sheriff of his county. He studied law at Judge Brockenbrough's Law School, which afterwards became the law school of Washington and Lee University, in Lexington, 1859-1860. Major Davis was the father of John J. Davis, '92, and Summers Davis, LL. B., '09, both of whom are in the law firm of Davis & Davis.

WASHINGTON LITERARY SOCIETY

The Washington Literary Society met Saturday, Oct. 15, President Bowyer in the chair. The Orators of the evening were Mr. Richardson, whose subject was "The Pardoning Power of the State," and Mr. Kirby, whose subject was "Robert E. Lee." Mr. Layman and Mr. Bell delivered declamations, their subjects being "Lost" and "A Calf's Way." The subject of debate was, "Resolved: (Waving the Constitutionality of the question) That an income tax should be a part of our Federal system of taxation." Messrs. Light and Briedenbach spoke for the affirmative, and Messrs. McDonald and Glasgow represented the negative. The entire society joined in the open discussion of the subject and many forceful and impressive arguments were advanced on both sides by the members present. The decision of the judges was for the affirmative.

Bolling Coulter, B. S., '10, and A. B. Williams, ex-'11, are doing engineering work in Dallas, Tex.

SOPHOMORE COILLION

Committee Selected to Have Charge of Annual Dance

The Sophomore class met in Reid Hall on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11, to organize a football team. R. A. Smith was unanimously elected manager and later J. P. Richardson, full-back on last year's freshmen eleven, was chosen by the team as captain. Games are being arranged with the juniors, last year's class champions, and the freshmen.

Committees were chosen for the Sophomore cotillion to be given at Thanksgiving. Mr. H. E. Moran, vice president of the class, will lead the opening figure. The committees in charge of the dance are: Finance, J. P. Thornton, chairman, Hoge, Simms, R. A. Smith; refreshments, Grantham, chairman, Moran, Turbyfill, Burke; Decoration, Craigbill, chairman, Mell, Satterfield, Harper.

DR. HOWE ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A. ON EDINBURGH CONFERENCE

At the weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held in the Carnegie Library on Tuesday night, Dr. Jas. Lewis Howe delivered a very interesting lecture on the Edinburgh Conference which he attended last June.

The conference opened June 14, and lasted 10 days. There were 1,300 delegates present, 500 of which were from Great Britain and 500 from America. There were 5,000 visitors. One of the most gratifying facts in connection with the convention was that every protestant denomination in the world was represented. Church differences were overlooked and the keynote of the convention was "Evangelization of the world in this generation." Mr. Mott Martin was unanimously chosen chairman of the convention and his special gift for ruling a large assembly was apparent. A list of questions had been sent to the missionaries all over the world and the answers to these questions were embodied in eight reports which were sent to each delegate to study before coming to the conference. The most important questions discussed at the convention were: The evangelization of world in this generation; The opening up of unoccupied fields such as Sudan, Afghanistan; Training natives to do the work; Missionary Schools; Non Christian religions; Co-operation of all Christendom; Religions and government.

FRESHMEN FOOTBALL TEAM

At a meeting of the class held last Wednesday the freshmen football team was organized with C. R. Avery, manager. The captain will be chosen later from the candidates.

The annual celebration of the freshmen on Hallowe'en was discussed. C. E. Burks, president of the student body, appeared before the meeting and made a brief and forceful talk, deploring the destruction of college and town property which is the usual result of the celebration, and urging that this undesirable feature of the occasion be eliminated. A resolution was passed that vandalism and wanton destruction of property be strictly prohibited by the class.

DR. HUGH L. McILHANY DIED AT CHARLOTTESVILLE

Dr. Hugh L. McIlhany died Sunday afternoon at the University of Virginia in the fullness of his powers and usefulness, having been born on April 25, 1874. The news excites more than passing interest in Lexington, where for nine years Dr. McIlhany was a student and assistant professor at Washington and Lee; where he carried off the highest honors for scholarship, receiving both the master's and doctor's degree; and was moreover particularly identified with Christian work among the students. After leaving college he entered upon the work of the Young Men's Christian Association. For three years he was Southern college secretary. He then became secretary of the association at the University of Virginia and while so situated was ordained as a clergyman of the Episcopal church. He is credited with being largely instrumental in the erection of Madison Hall, the association building at the University of Virginia, and has for some time been actively engaged in the work of securing a church for St. Paul's Episcopal congregation at the University, of which he was rector. Depletion of his system by overwork caused his death from blood poisoning, resulting, it is believed, from boils.

Dr. McIlhany's illness excited widespread interest. Prayers for his recovery were held in Madison Hall several days before his death, and Thursday afternoon special prayers for his recovery were joined in by the house of bishops of the Episcopal church in session at Cincinnati.

Dr. McIlhany was a native of Staunton, and the son of Captain Hugh L. McIlhany. He married 10 years ago Miss Calvert Walke of Petersburg, who survives him with five children.
