SUBJECTS FOR PRIZE ESSAYS ANNOUNCED

Hart, Shaffner and Marx Prizes Offered Again for Theses on Subjects in Economics

Announcement has been made by the committee in charge of the Hart, Shaffner and Marx contest of the conditions of the contest and subjects upon which papers are to be written for the year 1910-'11. The prizes are offered for the best papers on economic subjects; they amount in all to $2,000. The present year is the seventh since the establishment of the contest, and during its existence it has furnished a stimulus to interest in the study of Economics. Washington and Lee men have taken part in the competition on several occasions and have been awarded several prizes. Among the successful competitors for Washington and Lee were Lauck, Desha, and Ramsey. Prizes have also been given to representatives of Harvard, Dartmouth, Wisconsin, Michigan, Chicago, Pennsylvania and North Western.

Contestants are divided into two classes. Class "A" includes any American, and in this division the first prize is $1,000, the second $500. Class "B" includes only those who, at the time the papers are sent in, are undergraduate students at any American college, and offers prizes of $300 and $200. Members of class "B" may also complete in Class "A."

The committee to pass upon the merits of papers submitted is composed of Professor J. Laurence Laughlin, University of Chicago, chairman; Professor J. E. Clark, Columbia University; Professor Henry C. Adams, University of Michigan; Horace White, Esq., New York City; Professor Edwin F. Gray, Harvard University. Essays must be forwarded to the chairman of the committee by June 1, 1911.

Among the subjects suggested by the committee are:

"The effect of labor unions on international trade.

"The best means of raising the wages of the unskilled.

"A comparison between the theory and the actual practice of protectionism in the United States.

"A scheme for an ideal monetary system for the United States.

The true relation of the central government to trusts.

"How much of J. S. Mills' economic system survives?

"A central bank as a factor in a financial crisis."

If a contestant wishes to choose a special subject, he should communicate with Professor Laughlin who will provide a list of available subjects.

Statistics, printed in the Yale Daily News, showing the average amount which the Yale man spends during the first three years of his college course, indicate that the Freshman year is the cheapest and the Junior year the most expensive. The average cost for the three years is $3,270.15 per man, the lowest report being $501.00 and the highest $7,300.

ANNUAL GAME GOES TO V. P. I.

Washington and Lee Strong in First Quarter But Weakened by Injuries in Last Stages of the Game—V. B. Hodgson and Simms Stars of Contest

On October 29th the Washington and Lee football team was defeated by Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the annual game at the Roanoke fair grounds by the decisive score of 23 to 0. Over 1,000 loyal rooters followed their respective teams from Lexington and Blacksburg. The Blue and White special arrived in Roanoke at 11 o'clock, while the Blacksburg train came in at 1:45. A large number of automobiles, bearing alumni and admirers of the two teams swelled the crowd. It was a gala day for Roanoke. The streets and hotels were crowded with college men wearing colors of their alma mater. Every passing carriage and automobile flew streamers and banners of the rival schools. Store windows were appropriately dressed for the occasion. The University men met the V. P. I. special at the depot and greeted their rivals with a long cheer. Then headed by their respective bands the men paraded the main streets of the city.

Promptly at 2:30 the cadet team ran on to the field, headed by Captain Hodgson. Their appearance brought forth loud applause from the grandstand. They quickly lined up two teams and ran through signal practice.

Three minutes later Captain Waddill led his team on the field, the stands once more breaking forth in loud cheering. Coach Pollard immediately had his varsity running through snappy signal drill. The substitutes of both teams, wrapped in their woollen blankets, eagerly watched the drill from the side lines.

A stiff westerly wind blew across the field, making it difficult for the backs to handle punts and restricting the use of the forward pass. The game, as a whole, was devoid of new football. Both teams depended for their gains solely upon end runs and line plunges. The cadets completed only one forward pass which netted them a 20 yard gain. The spectators were kept busy following the ball, owing to the many freak formations used by Washington and Lee. The military formation, the varsity two-step and the split play failed to gain as much ground as they should, the Blue and White backs fumbling repeatedly. The features of the game, as last year, was the perfect interference of the powerful cadet backs. Time and time again the light ends were easily bowled aside by Hodgson and Legge.

During the first quarter Washington and Lee kept the ball in their opponents' territory, chiefly through the fast work of their first string of backs. In the latter part of the quarter Captain Waddill was forced to yield his place to Davis because of a hurt shoulder; a few minutes later Burke followed his captain on account of a badly sprained ankle. Harman succeeded him. Hard luck seemed to follow Washington and Lee for in the early part of the third quarter Waddill, though fighting to stay in the game was bodily carried from the field by his team mates. V. P. I.'s gains were made chiefly by the perfect execution of two plays. From a fake kick formation with a four man interference Bernier repeatedly gained 10 or 15 yards around the ends and many first downs may be credited to the terrific line plunging of Captain Hodgson. One of the lasting impressions of the game was the powerful and consistent tackling of Simms. He never failed to throw the heavy cadet backs when they approached him and many times he was through their network of interference, throwing the runner for a loss. His defensive work scarcely eclipsed that of offense. Taking short steps and keeping his feet well he picked his way through the opposing line. Hobson, playing the only spectacular game of the linemen, made many tackles and has the credit of the only blocked punt of the game. Blackburn played his usual steady game. Waddill and Burke, who are touted as the best men for their positions in this section, had the misfortune to be injured early in the game and therefore did not make their usual favorable impression. In Captain Hodgson, V. P. I. has probably the best line plunger in the South. His well apportioned weight makes him a hard man to throw. The spectators were disappointed by the showing of Hughes; Bernier, the former Hampden Sidney star clearly overshadowed him. A. N. Hodgson seems to possess some of his brother's natural football ability. He showed to advantage in his knack of following the ball closely. The game in detail was as follows:

At 3:05 with Washington and Lee defending the West goal, V. B. Hodgson for V. P. I. kicked off to the five yard line. In first down Waddill punted to the 35 yard line. Hodgson, V. B., was thrown for a three yard loss by Simms. Hodgson fumbled but Hughes recovered the ball and gained three yards. Hobson broke through the line and blocked Legge's punt, but Harris recovered for V. P. I. On the next play Gass saw a cadet hold and penalized his team 15 yards. Simms threw Legge for a six yard loss. Legge punted 30 yards. Waddill came back eight and then punted 55 yards, the ball rolling over the goal line, where Hughes fell on it for a touchback. Waddill returned Legge's punt from the 25 yard line 10 yards. Blackburn got through the line for a 12 yard gain. Waddill lost a yard. Burke skirted Hodgson's end for eight yards. Blackburn was held for no gain, the ball going over. Harris on a fake punt gained nine yards. Hodgson got seven over Moomaw and Harris added nine more on his fake kick. Hodgson added two through line. Hughes got through Kinnear for two yards. Waddill hurt blocking Hodgson, after the latter had gained 10 yards. Harris' fake punt failed to gain. Hughes hit line for three but the Washington

NOTED SPEAKER TO ADDRESS STUDENTS

Mr. John Little to Deliver Stereopticon Lecture

The students and town people of Lexington will have the opportunity to hear the stereopticon lecture of Mr. John Little on the Negro problem. Mr. Little has been making a tour of the Colleges and Universities of the South and wherever he goes his lecture makes a deep impression. Mr. Little has worked with the Negro for 13 years in Louisville, Ky., and has made a thorough study of the Negro problem throughout the entire South. He knows the Negro as few Southern men do and his lecture should be both enjoyable and instructive. Mr. Little is on the Committee of the Southern Presbyterian church for Negro education and for many years has conducted missions in Louisville. The lecture is illustrated by views of his work in Kentucky and the work of others in the South.

The address will be given in the University Chapel on Nov. 8th at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. All students, members of the faculty, and townpeople are invited to attend.

DR. W. S. HAMMOND

ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. was addressed on last Tuesday night by Dr. W. S. Hammond, the local Methodist minister. His subject was "The Christian Man's Sabbath." The address was a strong one and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard it. Dr. Hammond said that man from a physical point of view needs rest at least one day in seven. This was illustrated by the experience of France, who at one time abolished the Sabbath with detrimental results. He said that especially the student needs to take his mind from his studies on Sunday, because the mental work is of a nature that exhausts the strength of the body. Dr. Hammond referred interestingly to his College days and especially to the Sundays as being the brightest days. He said that on these days his mind received a complete rest and that he was in better condition to do the work of the week than those who had spent Sunday in study. He closed by saying that on Sunday the student should refresh his spiritual nature by communion with God.

SOPHOMORES TO PLAY A. M. A.

The Sophomore football team left this morning for Fort Defiance, where they will meet the Augusta Military Academy team this afternoon. A good game is expected, since the Sophomores apparently have the best class team here, and the prep school boys defeated the juniors by a score of only six to nothing. R. A. Smith, Jalonick, Elliott, Gibson, Whitehead, Peoples, Erwin, Crist, Potter, Gardner, Dillon, Turbyfill, Werth, Hogue, Richardson, Davidson and McKee made the trip.

SOUTHERN TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHRISTIAN WORK

Mr. M. W. Lee, State College Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, was in Lexington last Tuesday in the interest of the movement to establish a training school in the South for Christian workers.

The site of the proposed training school is in the Blue Ridge mountains, 15 miles from Asheville, and contains 800 acres. The plan proposed is to make this training school the same influence in the South that Northfield, Lake Geneva, and Silver Bay are in the North and West. Eighty thousand dollars is to be expended in equipping the institution which will have modern buildings, gymnasium, and athletic field. Thirty thousand dollars of the needed funds is to be raised by subscriptions, in which event $50,000 will be given by Mr. Rockefeller.

The movement met with a hearty response from the Y. M. C. A. leaders here and no difficulty was experienced in raising $225 as Washington and Lee's portion of the needed sum.

SENATE REORGANIZES

Monday afternoon the Senate reorganized for the present year. The Senate is composed of the men in College holding degrees from Washington and Lee and those who have been at the University more than four years. The object of the society is to promote the interests of Washington and Lee in any way that may be deemed advisable by that body, along the three lines of athletics, relation of alumni to the College, and internal organization of the student body. The officers chosen by the Senate were:

N. D. Smithson, president.
C. P. Light, vice president.
I. M. Collins, secretary.

The members present were Montgomery, Knot, Moelick, Moore, M. A. Johnston, Chandler, Wood, B. L. Light, Collins, and Smithson. The other men in College who are members or are eligible for membership are Burks, Conner, Fred, Hannis, Pyle, Sydenstricker, Thach, Blackburn, Derr, Dickey, Hobson, C. N., Hobson, J. P., Adkins, Gwathmey, Parades, Campbell, J. L. Jr., Bootay and Scott, L. G.

Another meeting is called for Thursday afternoon at 5:30 in the Ring-tum Phi office. Important matters are to be considered and a full attendance is desired.

SENIOR LAW DEBATING SOCIETY

Friday afternoon the Senior Law Debating Society met in Tucker Hall. The committee on constitution and bylaws appointed last week made its report, which was adopted. It is provided therein that only senior lawyers and special students in law shall be eligible for membership in the society. Meetings will be held each Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which some legal question will be discussed.

The debate for the first meeting was upon the following question: "Can an injured party settle and compromise with one of several joint tortfeasors for his share of the wrong and release him, reserving his right against the others without thereby releasing such others."

Messrs. John F. Brown and F. B. Richardson of the affirmative were opposed by J. T. Watson and D. S. Kiltner. The judges, Messrs. Free-land, Rhodes, and Pendleton, by a two to one vote, awarded their decision to the affirmative.

JUNIORS vs. LEXINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Yesterday afternoon the Juniors played rings around the Lexington High School team, winning from them by a score of 41 to 0. The features of the game were Glasgow's sweeping end runs for the Juniors, Robbins' side stepping and Ordeman's line bucking. The work of this trio thoroughly proves that they would be a valuable addition to the varsity squad. The High School showed lack of team work. They seldom got possession of the ball and when they did they were unable to advance it against the strong defense of the Juniors. On the defense they were weak and offered practically no resistance to the onslaughts of the heavier Juniors. Glasgow, Robbins, Ordeman, and Webster made touchdowns. Ordeman kicked six of the seven goals from touchdowns. The interference put up by the Juniors was good and their team work excellent. Several well executed trick plays were pulled off.

FALL BASE BALL PRACTICE

Much Excellent Material is Shown to be in College. Outlook Very Bright

The fall baseball practice for new men has been brought to a sudden close, owing to the present cold wave sweeping this section. However, Dr. Pollard and Captain Smith had ample time to get a line on a great majority of the Freshmen candidates. Some good work was done, and results promise to be most favorable.

Both coach and captain are exceedingly optimistic over the outlook, owing to the large number of monogram men back and the wealth of new material. Never have prospects been brighter and at this stage the white and blue looks good to carry off the South-Atlantic championship. Every varsity man of last year's winning team, except Rectenwald, is ready to don the spikes. "Lefty" Moran, who has yet to meet defeat in a college game, is in excellent condition and ready for spring, while the old standbys, Efrid, J., and Gwathmey are on hand. Besides these men Moore, R. C., looks like another George or Moran, while Thompson of Ga. Tech, Grey of Trinity and Hamilton of Culver are sure to be heard from. Branaman of Roanoke College and Yale, appears to be the man to fill Rectenwald's shoes, and Jennings looks good to succeed some one on the infield. Ramsey, Jackson, Flowers, Milburn and Powers all have the earmarks of good men and should cause the old men some trouble in holding their positions.

The following new men are promising and will join the old squad next spring for the final weeding out: Miller, J. B., Jennings, Herford, Moore, C. C., Davis, Thornton, Searson, Ramsey, Gray, Jackson, Moore, R. C., Baird, Brannerman, Thompson, Barber, Hundley, Hamilton, Pulley Jackson, J. R., Hall, Siler, Thom, Laun, Lancaster, Dunn, Cason, Hill, Mangu, Flowers, Milburn, Powers, Harmon and Barker.

The following old men will be found in uniform: Moore, Efrid, W., Efrid, J., Smith, Brown, Webster, Gwathmey, Waddill, Turbyfill, Erwin, Stras, Simms, Beddow, Lemley, Peeples and others.

While Manager Stough has not announced his schedule it is known that nothing but the strongest teams are to be played. All small schools will be cut, being replaced by the big universities of the North. The schedule will be the hardest Washington and Lee ever attempted, but the bright outlook promises a most successful season.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE

Captain Hannis has issued a call for all basketball men to report for practice Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. While no definite information has been obtainable, it is understood that there is a large number of new men in college who have had experience in basketball and they, together with last year's men should make a winning team.

Messrs. Fred Valz and Ira Simms spent today in Fort Defiance, Va. They attended the Soph. A. M. A. football game.

Miss Conway Fleming of Richmond, Va., is the guest of the Misses Carrington on Washington avenue. She will be in the city until the latter part of the week.

We are always glad to publish any communication that may be handed to us, but we desire to state that we will not be responsible for sentiment expressed.

We also desire to call attention to the fact that unsigned correspondence will not be published. Those who do not desire their names published should add a pen name and their wishes will be complied with.

Again on last Saturday it was demonstrated that the relations between Washington and Lee and V. P. I. are the most cordial possible. Too high praise cannot be given the cadets for the treatment we received at their hands. On the streets of Roanoke before the game, during the game, and after it was over they conducted themselves in every way as gentlemen. Just one instance of their generous sportsmanship will be a sufficient example. McCallie had started the fourth quarter of the game as quarterback, and had been replaced by O'Quinn. O'Quinn was injured and had to be taken out before that quarter was finished. According to the rules a man who has been taken out of the game cannot go back in during the same quarter. But we had no other man, except McCallie to take O'Quinn's place. The cadet team relinquished their right under the rules to insist on a new man, and allowed McCallie to return. After the game was over and V. P. I. had won decisively, there was not the slightest suggestion of rubbing in our defeat. More than that V. P. I. men did everything they could to take away the sting of losing the game. It is a pleasure to Washington and Lee to meet V. P. I. on account of this spirit existing between the schools, and we hope that nothing may ever arise to mar the relations now existing.

great many things might be ly one needs to be said and that is this—the better team won. There is no use to make excuses, here, any more than after the Georgetown slaughter. There are some explanations which might be made as to why the score was what it was. The fact, however, remains. It can be said again, as truly as on previous post mortems of this character, that Washington and Lee's team put up a game and gritty fight. But as one man prominent in college affairs put it, we are tired of putting up game and gritty fights and losing. Of course it is admitted that winning victories is not the one end and aim of athletic contests. But to come away with the big end of the score once in a while is a mighty stimulus for future endeavor. Everybody knows we are going to beat V. P. I. sooner or later. We might as well make it next year and set to work now with that end in view.

An examination of football records for the past six years shows that Washington and Lee has never won more than one game played away from home in a single season. Some of the other games resulted in tie scores, but the winnings are as stated above. In the games lost we characteristically "struggled gamely," and in most of them held the opposing team to a respectable score. But how long are we to be content with that state of facts? If Washington and Lee cannot make better records as the years go by there must be something wrong somewhere. There must be, or the record would be different. The faults, whatever they are, ought to be corrected, if they can be located. Possibly every individual connected with the University has his separate and distinct idea of what the trouble is; and, naturally, each has his notion of what remedy should be adopted. But the consensus of opinion is that we need to take some measures toward putting out football teams that adequately represent a University of the size and importance of Washington and Lee.

A noticeable fact in connection with every football season for the past six years is that the best men on our teams have been physically unfit on account of injuries to go into the hard games, or have been injured in those games and forced to retire. In Saturday's game this was true—five of the white and blue players were hurt and forced to retire. This fact argues poor physical condition of our teams. Poor physical condition is due either to lack of development or to want of attention to getting attention may be when the men are in training or when they are out of training. We believe that proper attention is given during the football season to this feature of preparation for football contests, and that better care is being taken along this line this year than ever before. But training for football games alone will not give men the necessary development to play the game. For that purpose they need hard work the year round. And the most perfect system of conditioning men cannot in a few weeks or months overcome nine months' inattention to physical fitness. These, of course, are individual matters, and their correction rests with the men themselves.

A College with six hundred men ought to have a football squad of seventy-five or a hundred men. But we are not equipped to handle so large a number. It is an impossibility for one coach to give individual attention to so many. The material for a successful team is right here in college now. Why are they not out? For two reasons: Some are not because they have not sufficient interest in Washington and Lee's success to make the personal sacrifice necessary—"There is too much love of luxury here," others are not because we have not proper facilities for drilling the rudiments of the game into the inexperienced. The head coach ought to be assisted by three or four alumni coaches under his direction, provided, of course, he approves of that method. Men like Moomaw, Bagley, Campbell, and other former stars would gladly render their assistance a few weeks each fall in putting into the field winning teams for their Alma Mater. This system has been tried with perfect success at other colleges, and their is no reason why it should not prove excellent here.

What the Ring-tum Phi has to say about the football situation is in no sense intended as a reflection on the coach or the management of the team; nor is it to be taken as a knock at the men who are working hard on the field. There is no question that Dr. Pollard is laboring in the face of difficulties and that he is doing excellent work. We do not mean to make any criticism of his method of handling a team. We believe, however, in facing the facts. If our team makes a poor showing, we believe in saying so, and not trying to make excuses for it. The point we are trying to make is that conditions in the student body need remedying. Dr. Pollard cannot alone make a football team. He needs help—loyal, enthusiastic backing.

Basketball prospects for this year are unusually bright. With all of last year's men back we ought to make an excellent record. The manager has not completed his schedule but, most of the games have been definitely arranged, and we are assured that in addition to the northern trip, an opportunity will be given of seeing some fast and snappy contests in Lexington. No call for candidates has yet been made. It would be well, however, to begin preparations now for the coming season. Other colleges have been practicing for three or four weeks, and the sooner we get our men into shape the better able they will be to cope with their opponents. The fact that all of last year's team are in college should not deter new men from coming out. There are future varsity teams to be made, and a year's work will make next season's candidates better able to represent W. & L.

Today marks the middle of the term. To the new men in college reports will be an indication of the direction in which they are tending. They are also reminders that the present session is well under way; that if the wrong start has been made now is the time to brace up and remedy the false beginning. Few freshmen realize that a bad first term's work is exceedingly hard to overcome, and that a poor record for the first year will be a handicap throughout their stay in college. This is true because during one year's loafing they form a habit difficult to break. It is also true because by failing to pass examinations during the first year a man creates a reputation as a flunker which will stick to him and require doubly hard work to wipe out. On the other hand it is easier for a man who has a clean record for his first year to keep his record clear because he has a good reputation to maintain. If one wishes to loaf in college and yet get his degree his first year is decidedly not the time to try the experiment. It is far better to do the heavy work first and take life easy later in college, if he must take his ease. Furthermore, it is a safer plan.

Nothing has yet been given out by the literary societies as to their plans for intercollegiate debates during the present year. In the past these contests have furnished an excellent field of endeavor for the men who are inclined toward public speaking, and it would be well to keep up the custom of meeting two or three colleges in debates each year. In order to get the best results, plans should be adopted now looking towards that end and all possible publicity given them. No other method will arouse proper interest in this

In speaking of the relative strength of the various western teams, Walter Camp says that the veteran Minnesota eleven is probably the strongest football team in the Middle West.

On November 11 and 12, next the University of Virginia will be the scene of a very large and most important convention—that of the Association of American Universities. Three will be business sessions on both days, and the delegates are to be the guests of Dr. Alderman at a reception on the 10th. This will be the 12th annual conference of the Association of American Universities, and an event of great interest both from an academic and a social standpoint. Twenty of the great universities of America will send delegates and much will be accomplished in the way of solving the difficult problems of educators in such institutions.—College Topics.

The autopsy upon the body of Lauren B. Pain, captain of the Freshman football team at Cornell, who died Thursday night, revealed the fact that he did not die from injuries received in football practice, but that his death was the result of appendicitis.
