

FINAL BALL TONIGHT WILL MARK END OF FESTIVITIES

Intricate Figure Tonight To Be Led By G. S. Wilson With Miss Eleanor Rash.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS

Decorative Scheme Will Be Conical Tent Effect With Myriad Ball At Crest.

Finals of nineteen twenty five were opened Friday evening when the first outburst of music sounded through Old Doremus Gymnasium from Howard Lanin's dance orchestra. This, the Interfraternity dance, was the formal opening of a program which presents as many and more attractions than ever.

The figure was led by Joe Clay Roberts with Miss Lucille Gaines, of San Antonio, Texas, assisted by Allen Rushton with Miss Josephine Connors, of Birmingham, Alabama. When completed, the figure formed the letters "I-F." The usual decoration scheme of blue and white streamers draped artistically over the heads of the dancers, and with blue and white festoons hung from the streamers. Banners of all the fraternities adorned the sides of the balcony.

Saturday morning from eleven until one o'clock the P. A. N. White Friar German was held. The figure was led by W. W. W. Donnally, with Miss Pauline Thomas, of Covington, Kentucky, assisted by J. K. Thomas, with Miss Katherine Stewart, of Charleston, West Virginia. The figure formed the letter "P."

Saturday afternoon at four o'clock the alumni were tendered an informal reception at Alumni Headquarters at the corner of Lee Avenue and Washington Street. This reception was well attended and enjoyed. Then Saturday afternoon North River was the stage for the second and third crew boat races. The Harry Lee crews were the victors in both events by wide margins.

The Sigma German dance, at nine in the evening, completed the program for the day. The figure was led by John T. McVay, with Miss Hazel Airheart, of Roanoke, Va., assisted by John C. Morrison, Jr., with Miss Dorothy Merry of Hollins college. The figure formed the letter "S," with the girls surrounding the boys. The unique Sigma hats worn in the figure was a feature which was quite attractive.

Sunday at eleven o'clock the Baccalaureate Sermon was preached by the Rev. J. J. Murray, of Lexington. The sermon was very impressive and carried a message of great interest to the graduates. At five that afternoon a concert was given on the campus, which was an enjoyable feature of the day. Vesper services were not held owing to rain at the scheduled hour.

The program for Monday presented a varied and enticing variety of entertainment. A buffet luncheon was given the alumni on the lawn and following this were several class reunions, and the Varsity-Alumni baseball game. The first crew boat race, always exciting and hard fought, was staged at six in the afternoon. The Harry Lees again won the race by over two boat lengths.

At nine o'clock Monday evening the graduates, the alumni, the trustees, the faculty, and visitors were tendered a reception by President and Mrs. Henry Louis Smith at the executive mansion.

Bringing to an end the entertainments for Monday was the Senior-Alumni Ball. The figure was led by John Owen Lewis, with Miss Miranda Yerkes, of Jacksonville, Florida, assisted by John R. Leggate, with Miss Jean Clymonts, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; William Edward Moore, with Miss Betty McKenny, of Crozet, Va.; Frank P. Fischer, with Miss Mary Conway, of Danville, Va.

The Final Ball tonight will bring to a climax the culmination of a Finals program as brilliant as any witnessed in Old Doremus for many a year. The figure will be led by George S. Wilson, Jr., with Miss Eleanor Rash, of Owensboro, Kentucky. Wilson will be assisted by Harry S. Dawson, with Miss Elizabeth Stewart, of Richmond, Va.

liant. The couples will form first a double wedge, then four pinwheels, followed by an interwinding effect, and will close with the formation of a W. & L. monogram.

The decorative scheme will be a conical tent effect. A myriad ball will hang from the center with colored lights reflecting on it. The balcony will be made up after the manner of an old-fashioned garden. Streamers will hang from the conical center. Pink, yellow, green, blue and purple will be the colors delicately shaded in the colors of the rainbow.

Dancing will begin at ten o'clock and continue until about 5 a. m. with a break at 1:30 o'clock for a lawn supper which will be served on the lawn in front of the Carnegie library. Making their first appearance here, Howard Lanin's orchestra has found great favor with students and guests. Coming well recommended, the orchestra has lived up to expectations. The sobbing notes of the saxophone, the harmonizing sliding of the trom-

"UNSELFISH SERVICE IS KEY TO HAPPINESS" BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Rev. J. J. Murray Takes Place of Dr. Peter Ainslee of Baltimore, On Program.

The Baccalaureate Service of the 1925 Commencement was held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Lee Chapel, with Rev. J. J. Murray of the Lexington Presbyterian church delivering the sermon. A colorful throng of the faculty, graduates, townspeople, and students with the visiting girls filled the chapel to overflowing.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the faculty and graduating class in caps and gown formed in front of Washington College and marched to the chapel. While the congregation remained standing the Doxology was sung and the invocation pronounced. A hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," was rendered by a choir of students together with the entire assemblage. The Rev. J. J. Murray then read the scripture lesson, which was taken from the first chapter of Ecclesiastes.

Following this another hymn was sung and a prayer given by Rev. E. B. Jackson of the Lexington Baptist church. After a beautiful solo, entitled "My Task," had been sung, Dr. Henry Louis Smith stated that he had two announcements to make, one of sorrow and regret, and one of thankfulness and joy. He announced that Rev. Dr. Peter Ainslie of Baltimore who had been originally chosen to deliver the baccalaureate sermon had been confined to his bed by illness and forced to cancel all his engagements by order of his physicians. On the other hand, Dr. Smith stated that he had been extremely successful and pleased in securing Dr. Murray of Lexington for the occasion.

Dr. Murray gave as the text for his sermon Ecclesiastes 12, 13, "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep His commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." Using Solomon as an not to strive for in life. He declared that Solomon's life which had begun so brightly and nobly had been

HON. JOHN W. DAVIS HERE YESTERDAY

Noted Alumnus Attends Trustees' Session and Alumni Meeting.

Hon. John W. Davis, '95-L, democratic candidate for president last year, was in Lexington yesterday for the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University. He also made a few remarks at the Alumni meeting held yesterday morning.

Mr. Davis arrived from New York Sunday night and left last evening. While here he was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Campbell, dean of the University. Mrs. Davis had planned to be present also, but was unable to attend.

SIX SCORE AWARDED SHEEPSKINS TODAY

An Increase of Nine Over Number of Degrees Awarded last Year; Number of Law Degrees Unusually Small This Year.

CHANGES IN FACULTY PERSONNEL ARE FEW

Prof. R. B. Ellard In Charge of Journalism—Prof. Tyree Gets Leave For One Year.

There will be only a few changes in the Faculty for next year. The most important addition to the administration for the coming term will be Professor R. B. Ellard, who will institute the first School of Journalism at Washington and Lee. Professor Ellard comes to Washington and Lee from Beloit College, Wisconsin, where he was the head of the School of Journalism. He attended the University of Missouri where he was an honor graduate with an A. B. degree, and also made his B. J. with honors. He has a great deal of experience in journalistic work, serving for four years on student publications and later as feature writer and reported on Chicago, Milwaukee, and Missouri newspapers. The new School of Journalism will be conducted in the old Phi Kappa Sigma house, which has been purchased by the University.

Other Faculty Changes.

Professor Tyree will be on a year's leave of absence during the next session. His substitute has not yet been definitely decided upon. Miss Helen Rockwell will take the place of Miss McCrum at the library, who will also be on leave of absence. L. M. Harrison, a graduate of Washington and Lee, will serve as an instructor in the Geology department. Professor Paxton will return next year from Columbia, where he has taken his Ph. D. while on leave of absence. Raymond T. Johnson, an A. B. of the University of Kentucky, and a J. D. of the University of Chicago, will be an associate professor in the Law School. These are all of the changes and additions up to this time and will probably constitute the new staff for next year.

TULANE TO CONFER

Word has just been received from Mr. F. P. Hamilton, President of the New Orleans chapter of Washington and Lee alumni, that President Dinwiddie has asked for a date to be set for a conference in regard to the use of the Washington and Lee "Swing." President Dinwiddie stated that he had been absent from the city and Mr. Hamilton's letter had therefore not received attention.

DR. F. T. MILLER SPEAKS

Impressive Commencement Address Made By Noted Historian; Woolfolk Is Valedictorian.

The graduating exercises this morning brought to a close the one hundred and seventy-sixth session of the University and one of the most successful years in the history of Washington and Lee. One hundred and nineteen men received degrees in the different schools and this represented an increase of nine over the number of degrees awarded last year.

William L. Woolfolk delivered an unusually fine valedictory for the Class of 1925. He chose as his subject the motto on the shield of the University, "Non In Cautus Futuri," which means "Not Unmindful of the future," and brought out as one of his principle points the fact that the Seniors this year have made an annual subscription of $1,800 to Washington and Lee.

William Woolfolk, besides being valedictorian of his class, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Arcades Club, President Chi Gamma Theta honorary chemical fraternity, and has won many scholarships and honors while on the campus.

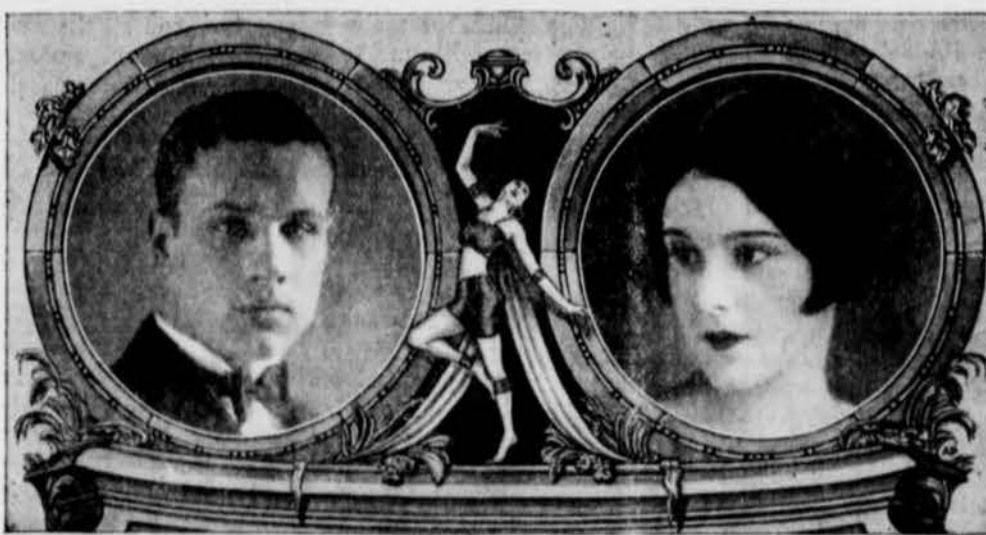

A very impressive Commencement address was made by Dr. Francis T. Miller, an alumnus '99-'01. Dr. Miller is a man who is very prominent in American learned societies and is an author, dramatist and historian. At the present time he is the managing editor of Success Magazine and is also engaged in preparing a twenty volume "history of the world."

There were twenty degrees awarded in Law this year, forty-three in the Academic School, forty-four in the School of Commerce, and eight in the Science School. One M. S. degree was awarded, one Civil Engineer degree, and two M. A. degrees. Last year thirty-five degrees were awarded in each of the schools of Law, Commerce, and Academic. The relatively smaller number of degrees awarded in the Law School this year is due to the increase in the entrance requirements. Although two degrees have been awarded in the past in this subject, this is the first class to graduate in Electrical Engineering.

Among those Present

- Miss Lillian Nottingham of Mary Baldwin College with Mr. Charles A. Nelson.
- Miss Caroline Polk of Little Rock, Ark., with Mr. Russell Dupuy.
- Miss Elinor William of Dotham, Ala., with Mr. Harry A. Dawson.

Looking Outward. Today marked the passing of another year of the historic existence of Washington and Lee

While the world awaits these men just as eagerly as commencement orators in eloquent flights of verbeage tell us

To our alma mater the outgoing class owes much, little of which can be computed in dollars and cents value.

With the mental equipment supplied by the faithful and untiring efforts of a sympathetic group of our elders whom we know as the "faculty"

Looking Backward. Finals, besides being a time of jollification, is a time of retrospection—a time when we cast a backward glance upon the events of the nine months which pass in review in our memories.

one of real progress—one in which we feel that the high standards have been maintained and even improved in many ways. Our athletics have been very successful in the fields of both the major and minor sports.

This year also marked great additions to our physical equipment, for during the past nine months a new, spacious and modern chemistry building was added to the circle of class halls

One of the greatest among the innovations was the beginning of a "fraternity row," the first house in which is the new Beta Theta Pi fraternity house

Of course there are many things which might have been done in the way of improvement but which could not be done owing to the limitations in the purchasing power of the almighty dollar.

In the larger sense, however, we can say that the year 1924-25 was one of progress, as well as it was one in which we have maintained our high standing as the foremost southern institution of learning

PLANS FOR COURSES IN LEE SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM ARE COMPLETED

Four Courses To Be Given Next Year In School of Journalism; Plans Rapidly Progressing.

The Lee School of Journalism which will be opened this coming school year offers six semester courses, in addition to an entire year's course for Seniors

News Writing and Reporting. 1. A fundamental study of editorial functioning on modern newspapers, country, small city, and metropolitan.

Advanced Reporting and Copyreading. 2. A course continuous with news writing and reporting. Progressive working in reporting, re-writing and telephone assignments will be continued.

Literary and Dramatic Criticism. 1. A course in book reviewing, the conduct of book pages and dramatic departments. Lectures on critical principles particularly necessary to the journalistic equipment

Special Features and Magazine Articles. 1. Advanced journalistic writing. A study of special feature articles for newspapers and magazines

HEAD OF JOURNALISM IS NEWSPAPER EXPERT

Half Million Endowment Fund Rapidly Being Collected By Corps In Charge.

The Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee, after months of investigation and research over the whole United States, has settled on Roscoe B. Ellard, head of the School of Journalism of Beloit College, Wisconsin

Professor Ellard has visited Washington and Lee, is most enthusiastic over the possibilities of such an all-Southern School as this one, and has definitely accepted the task of originating the new school.

Mr. Ellard has been feature-writer, reporter, etc., on Chicago, Milwaukee, and Missouri newspapers. When the World War involved the United States he became a cavalry officer in the regular army partments in metropolitan papers. Theory and practice of special interviews and newspaper investigations. Three hours, first semester.

Editorial Writing and Policy. 2. This is a continuation of the course in Literary and Dramatic Criticism. A course in the newspaper and magazine editorial.

Newspaper Building and Administration. 2. This course is continuous with the course in Special Features and Magazine Articles. A course of the background on American Journalism.

Research in Journalism will be given for major students who expect to enter newspaper work. This course, for Seniors only, gives three hours credit each semester.

journalism has recently been rated by the American Association of Journalism Teachers as the first school of journalism in all the Middle West

The recently purchased fraternity house of the Phi Kappa Sigmas at the entrance of the University campus is now being refitted as the home and working offices of the new department.

The publicity work of Professor Ellard and his corps of assistants will do much toward the rapid completion of the one-half million dollar endowment

LITERARY SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

At the last regular meeting of the Graham-Lee Society held Saturday night, May 16, the following officers for the first semester in 1925-26 were elected: President, F. P. Shull;

WANTED! Any information regarding the use of the Washington and Lee Swing, the popular W. and L. song, by colleges and schools or other organizations

Columbus, Ohio, was the scene of high revelry on the night of May the 27, when the freshmen staged their annual shirt tail parade.

PROTEST AGAINST TULANE USING W. & L. "SWING"

New Orleans Chapter of Washington and Lee Alumni Making Vigorous Protest Against Use of Song.

The broadcasting of "The Washington and Lee Swing" by station W. S. M. B. as the "Tulane Swing, Tulane University's great football song which is played at all their football games and dances," has caused a vigorous protest by the New Orleans Chapter of the Washington and Lee Alumni Association. An effort is being made to correct the mistaken belief of that section that "The Swing" belongs to Tulane. Thornton W. Allen, one of the writers of the song and the man who has the copyright is endeavoring to see that the Swing is recognized over the whole country as Washington and Lee's. A notice by Mr. Thornton is contained elsewhere in this issue of the Ring-tum Phi. William B. Wisdom, '21, has taken a prominent part in the campaign to get Tulane students and New Orleans correct their mistake in calling the Swing, "The Tulane Swing."

Mr. William B. Wisdom sent the following letter to the newspapers of New Orleans and a copy to station W. S. M. B. after the broadcasting of The Swing as the Tulane Swing: "After remaining quiescent for nearly five years to the blatant strains of a student band I now crave the indulgence of your news column as well as your editorial aid in rendering honor where honor is due and setting aright, once and for all a matter that has long rancored in my heart.

"To begin at the beginning, I must take you to the little town of Lexington, Virginia, where stands Washington and Lee University, one of the oldest institutions in the South.

"This University, founded in 1749, as Liberty Hall Academy, endowed by Washington in 1789 when it took his name, and presided over by our own beloved Robert E. Lee after the Civil War until his death when his illustrious name was coupled with that of Washington, has many hallowed memories and cherished traditions. But one of the most prized possessions of this University, already tinged with tradition is only sixteen years old—that is the Washington and Lee Swing.

"This great college song is different from many other University songs in that it is inherently an original product. Where other Universities have adapted their own words to the aid of older songs the Swing struck a new note in college anthems, both the words and the air being written by students then in college.

"Written in 1909 expressly as a football song by Thornton W. Allen, M. W. Sheafe and C. A. Robbins (now Tod Robbins, the novelist), who were at the time only undergraduates, the Swing has since swept the country as the greatest football song ever written.

"Allen and Sheafe wrote the music and Robbins wrote the words. The Student Body was enthusiastic in its reception—so much so that they regard the Swing now as a sacred trust, and the singing of it has become almost a religious rite. It has long been traditional for the students to stand with bared heads wherever the Swing is heard, and it is the song invoked when the team is in sore straits as well as when it is on the top of the score.

"So much for retrospect. "About five or six years ago a student who had spent four years at Washington and Lee came down to Tulane to study law. His name was Gus Fritchie and his home was Slidell, La. College spirit at Tulane was at a very low ebb at the time and Fritchie, who had become manager of the football team felt that pep was sorely lacking. Among other things Tulane needed a real football song and Fritchie bethought himself of the Washington and Lee Swing.

"It is my impression that he received permission from the authorities at Washington and Lee to use it, but on this point I am not sure. Suffice it to say that the song was an instantaneous success and its popularity in New Orleans today attests to its wide appeal.

"So far so good—Tulane is welcome to the song. We of Washington and Lee are glad Tulane has found a good football song—but the song is not the Tulane Swing.

"Fifty schools and colleges have written and received permission to use the Washington and Lee Swing, and forty-nine of these schools and colleges call it the Washington and Lee Swing, through courtesy, if not for the sake of identity. When Sewanee—that fighting little university—wants pep she call for the Washington and Lee Swing—sings her own words to it—and puts it across too—but she calls for the Washington and Lee Swing.

"The same thing is true in Pennsylvania, and wherever the song is sung (with the notable exception of Tulane) it is known as the Washington and Lee Swing. But even this situation, while not very pleasant to a loyal alumnus of Washington and Lee was not tolerable, for it was still a purely local condition and it did afford one the pleasure of hearing the old song repeatedly.

"With the advent of WSMB into the radio broadcasting field, however, the local territorial aspect vanished.

"You can imagine what my feelings were recently when announcer Randall of WSMB said:

"We will now have the pleasure of listening to Tulane University's great football song, the 'Tulane Swing.' This song is dedicated to Tulane University, T-U-L-A-N-E, that's the way you spell it, and is played at all their football games and dances. We want the people all over the Northland and up the Mississippi Valley to hear this famous 'Tulane Swing.'

"If you have any imagination at all, just reflect upon how helpless I felt, boiling with indignation and righteous wrath, with a pair of earphones clapped to my ears, but absolutely powerless to do anything but send WSMB a wire telling them how much I was enjoying their program. "Yale has its 'Boola Boola'; Cornell its 'Far Above Cayuga's Waters'; Princeton its 'Old Nassau'; and Washington and Lee its 'Swing.'

The above letter ends with an appeal to Tulane University and WSMB to recognize through their sense of fairness Washington and Lee's ownership of The Swing. John M. Wisdom, who graduates from Washington and Lee this year, is William B. Wisdom's brother.

The Alumni Association of New Orleans is earnestly trying to get The Swing recognized as ours. The matter has been presented to the editors of New Orleans' newspapers. F. A. Hamilton, President of Louisiana Alumni Association wrote to Dr. A. B. Dinwiddie, president of Tulane University, calling his attention to the failure of Tulane's student body to give W. and L. credit for The Swing.

After the publication of Mr. Wisdom's letter, Eugene C. Graveley wrote in the Times-Picayune: "The Swing is a modernized version of Tulane's old 'Varsity,' which Tulane and Nemcomb students used to sing together in 1903." In reply, William B. Wisdom, after pointing out the fact that Fritchie, a former student of W. and L. attending Tulane wrote to Washington and Lee in 1919 for permission for Tulane to use the Swing, said: "It is interesting to note that the 'Tulane Swing' as he calls it, was copyrighted note for note in 1920 under the title of the Washington and Lee Swing according to United States copyright law, by T. W. Allen, its author who with M. W. Sheafe and Ted Robbins, wrote the song in 1909."

According to the Brown Jug, girls are no longer called flappers. They are called bungalows, because of their painted fronts, shingled tops, and no attics.

Two hundred girls took part in the annual Dance Drama at the University of Colorado on May 22. Many of the parents of the girls were present to witness the performance.

PITT ALUMNI MAKE PLANS FOR GAME

Plans for the W. and L.-Pitt football game, which will be held on September 26, 1925, in Pittsburgh, are already being made by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Alumni Association. J. W. Claudy of the Pittsburgh Chapter gives out the following plans:

A banquet will be held at the Fort Pitt on Friday evening, September 25, at eight o'clock. The Fort Pitt hotel will be the official headquarters of visiting Alumni.

Mr. Pendleton of Pittsburgh is trying to get the B. & O. Railroad to run a through train from Lexington to Pittsburgh at a special low rate. It is probable that some of Washington and Lee's most prominent alumni will be present at the game. The Pittsburgh Chapter is anxious for a large number of alumni to attend.

GENERALS STATE CHAMPS IN THREE MAJOR SPORTS

Blue and White Teams Awarded State Championship In Football, Baseball, and Track; Beat Virginia Decisively In Each.

Washington and Lee sealed the heights of athletic glory during the 1924-25 season, winning the majority of games played in each sport, scoring sensational triumphs in quite a few of the contests engaged in, and being signally honored with the victorious wreath of state champions in three different major divisions of the athletic realm. The Blue and White of the Fighting Generals proved its mettle on varied occasions, and if the past season is any criterion, Washington and Lee can look forward in sharing the calcium light with the great teams of the country.

The fall of 1924 ushered in the Big Blue team's triumphant football season. Coach DeHart wielded together an aggregation of pigskin warriors that ran away with the state gonfalon, and put Washington and Lee on the athletic map. Roanoke College bowed to the Fighting Generals in the opener the latter part of September, succumbing to the DeHart system, 34-0. Ex-Captain Cameron proved himself a battering ram, scoring four touchdowns during the contest, and running rough-shod over the Maroons. The highly-touted Maryland eleven was the next Blue and White victim. "Mike" Palmer, backfield flash of the 1923 yearlings, was in the spotlight, and the Old Liners lost, 19-7, due to the entire team's sensational playing. The following Saturday found the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest as the Generals' opponents. The Garritymen won 10-8, in a game in which the Blue and White showed up poorly. Fumbles and misplays caused the locals' loss.

Kentucky lost, 10-7, to the Generals the following week-end at Lexington, Ky., when Harry Dawson's, trusty toe booted a field goal for the margin of victory. The backfield functioned with machine-like precision, and the front wall was impassable. October 27, W. & L., 0; V. P. I., 0. Both teams played defensive ball in the twenty-second annual gridiron classic, straight football tactics being used. Perry's sensational punting in the latter part of the game repulsed the Techmen's attacks time and again.

Turning the tables on the Cavaliers in the second quarter, after Virginia had seven markers to her credit as a result of a triumphant march down the field in the initial period, the Blue and White of Washington and Lee waved triumphantly over Lambeth Field with a 20-7 victory to its credit. Fighting an uphill game, the Generals proved invincible, and McMillan's crafty exhibition of football proved too much for "Greasy" Neale's charges. Citadel fell 32-7 the following week-end in the last home game for the Blue and White.

The mighty Spears' gridiron machine could only chalk up six points against W. & L., and that was scored in the last two minutes of play when the West Virginia mammoth aggregation of substitutes wore down the Blue and White defense. N. C. State lost 34-0 in the Thanksgiving classic at Raleigh. The Florida 'Gators finished the season, the Generals losing 16-6, the only Conference game marring the locals' record of wins.

The Blue and White hill and dale runners lost to V. P. I., 28-29, but licked Trinity College 18-42 on the local course. Washington and Lee was host to the Conference Cross-Country Meet, the V. P. I. team winning, the Generals finishing second, Georgia Tech coming in third, while Virginia brought up the finale.

Coach Brett's matmen won five meets and lost four contests during the season. The Blue and White grapplers licked Virginia, 20-11; swamped North Carolina, 21-8; defeated Duke, 14-9; and won both of its meets on the northern invasion. Franklin and Marshall was tucked away, 18-9, while the Army suffered its first reverse of the year when the Brettmen won, 12-9. The Navy tossed the locals for a 26-5 loss, Capt. Holt scoring the only points for the Generals. V. P. I. nosed W. & L.

out, 14-13; and West Virginia took two meets, 16-9 and 22-5, the former in Lexington, the latter on the Mountaineers' home floor. Boxing fared poorly, one meet being won, four being lost, while one was tied.

Only twelve games were played in basketball, eight being won, the remainder being chalked up on the wrong side of the locals' ledger. "Eddie" Cameron made his debut as the Blue and White coach. Our victims were Lynchburg, 36-20; V. P. I., two games, 26-18, on the local floor, and 27-20, at Blacksburg; West Virginia, 37-32; Hampden-Sidney, 42-6; Roanoke, 46-21; and, North Carolina, 29-22, at Chapel Hill, and Davidson, 33-18. We lost to Wake Forest, 25-23; Kentucky, 28-22; North Carolina, 31-16; Virginia, 41-27; and Tulane, 37-20, in the Southern Conference Tournament at Atlanta. Capt. "Panther" Lake was the individual star of the team, and his sensational playing, especially in the Mountaineer contest, when he almost licked the Spearsmen single-handed, was the redeeming feature of the season.

The second state championship for the Blue and White was captured on the diamond. Capt. "Dick" Smith's nine won 13 contests and lost six games; five of which were lost to northern teams. Capt. Lindberg, with eight victories and one defeat, proved to be one of the shining slabmen in the country, his great work on the mound causing the New York Giants to sign him up, and he reports after school closes. Lynchburg was swamped in the opener, 16-0; Roanoke lost, 7-3, a few days later, while Cornell gave the Generals their first setback, the Ithacans winning, 8-5, during Easter, when Blue and White errors proved the locals' nemesis. Capt. Lindberg gave up only one safe hit to Cornell the following day, the locals winning, 4-0. Penn won 8-5, when a ninth-inning rally on top of errors gave them the victory. Bucknell proved easy, 10-3, but North Carolina licked the Blue and White, 5-2, the only southern team to defeat the Generals.

V. P. I. lost two games, 7-1, 6-4, while Virginia also received the small end of the score in two contests, 5-4, and 3-0 being the locals' verdicts over Neale's Cavaliers. Davidson lost, 10-3, this marking the fifth consecutive victory for the Blue and White. Emory and Henry was defeated, 4-3, and Birmingham-Southern lost, 2-1, both games being won in the ninth inning. Seton Hall was defeated, 3-2, on the first leg of the northern invasion, and ended the Generals' consecutive streak of eight wins, when Fordham nosed us out, 3-2. Georgetown won from the Blue and White, 12-9, and Maryland was the victor, 3-1. Capt. "Gus" pitched W. & L. to a masterful victory over the Navy in the last game of his college career, 5-4 being the final result.

The third championship of state honors was won on the cinder path. N. C. U. licked us, but N. C. State, V. P. I., and Virginia lost to the Blue and White, in three successive meets. The trackmen also won two indoor meets, placing first in point scoring at Charlottesville with 40 markers, and later at Richmond with 24 points, nearly trebling the points scored by their nearest opponent.

The 1924-25 season was marked by clean-cut victories over Virginia in football, twice in baseball, and track. The V. P. I. Techmen were defeated twice in basketball, twice in baseball, and once on the cinderpath. The Generals resigned supreme in state athletic activities, reaching the pinnacle of fame in the three major sports, football, baseball, and track.

Readers of the Daily Princetonian are imploring the return of the Lamp column, consisting of humor material. The students say they miss it as they sip their morning coffee, and in their eight o'clock lectures. They think the reason that it has not been published is that the editor is too conscientious to write it if he cannot amuse everyone.

W. AND L. WILL SEND LARGE DELEGATION TO "Y" CONFERENCE Group To Attend Blue Ridge This Year Largest In History of University.

This year Washington and Lee will probably send to Blue Ridge the largest delegation in the history of the University. At Blue Ridge the Southern Students' Conference is held from June 16-25. Delegations from practically all the universities and colleges of the South attend. W. and L. men who are contemplating attending this year are: A. T. Roy, Frank Charlton, G. S. DePass, Karl Zerfoss, George Burks, D. S. Dix, J. B. Clower, R. W. Jordan, Zeb Herndon, H. C. Moore, F. B. Gilmore, Harry Neel, J. T. Stallings, J. D. Reed, Lowe, Mahoney, Professor Houston, Burton, Howe, Leggate, Jackson, Corfield, Black, Henry Wilson, Knight, Mullinix, Lowry, Cox, William Rector, Ferris, B. F. Wa; and Sutton. Rev. W. W. Norton of the Presbyterian Church will also attend.

Every student in the University is an associate member of the "Y." A total of $1,687.00 was subscribed by 687 students to the general fund last fall.

Ten religious meetings were held during the year with a total attendance of 1550; Bible discussion groups were held over a period of nine weeks and mission study groups were held for six weeks; ten socials were held and three lyceum numbers given having combined attendance of 2,100.

The Y. M. C. A. met incoming freshmen and found employment for ten men. It published a valuable compendium of statistics in its handbook, and maintained a lost and found department returning 60 out of 80 found articles to their owners. Visiting committees visited sick students in the hospital all during the year.

REUNIONS AT BIG HOME GAME INSTEAD OF FINALS

Proposed Plan For Reunions In Groups of Five Years Favorably Discussed.

Alumni reunions will be held at the big home football game each fall instead of Finals if the temporary plan adopted at the Alumni meeting yesterday is made permanent. The next reunion will be held at the Virginia game, and definite arrangements for future reunions will then be made.

An interesting plan for the holding of reunions in groups of classes of five years was presented and favorably commented upon, although no definite action was taken. According to the proposed system, graduates would be able to hold reunions with men who attended college at the same time. The matter was referred to a committee.

A bronze memorial to W. M. Morrison, a graduate of W. and L. and a missionary who died in Africa will be placed in the chapel next Finals. Sufficient funds for the memorial were obtained by Mr. G. D. Letcher of Lexington.

Hon. John W. Davis stressed the importance of having class spirit in college in order to perpetuate class reunions. President Smith spoke on the importance of internal improvements instead of building expansion, a matter which came up in regard to the erection of a Student Body-Alumni building on the old Phi Kappa Sigma property. Verban Kemp, alumni secretary, made his annual report, and was well received.

"UNSELFISH SERVICE IS KEY TO HAPPINESS"

illustration, Dr. Murray showed what brought to bitterness, pessimism, and despair at its close because of his vanities and false philosophy. He said that Solomon failed because he sought not the great things in life, but the unimportant things, and consequently yfound only disillusionment. He stated that in searching for wisdom, pleasure, and wealth, Solomon found only deception and disgust.

Dr. Murray stated that "Character is built upon the "yes" and "no" of our conscience," and he declared that we must learn to say "no" to some things or life will sometime say "no" to us. Unselfish service, he iterated, is the key to happiness, for no man can be happy unless he is doing something. He affirmed that real happiness comes not from getting but from giving. Religion, he declared, is not a cage for souls, but a spark and stimulant for them.

Dr. Murray's sermon was inspiring and helpful to the entire congregation, but especially so to the graduates who will soon begin their life work. It was delivered clearly and forcefully and impressed all his hearers. With well chosen words a philosophy of life was presented. In all respects this sermon was a most excellent one.

bone, the strumming of the banjo, and the shrill staccato of the cornet have satisfied the cravings for jazz music de luxe.

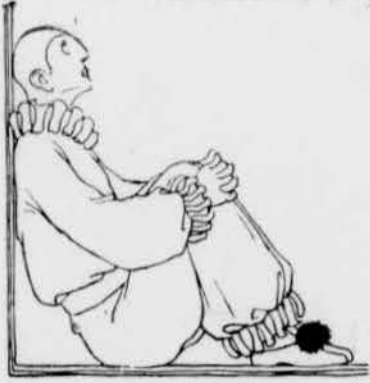

George Wilson, who has been ably assisted by Mr. C. E. L. Gill, deserve congratulations for providing a Finals program which has been filled with activity and entertainment for every moment of the five big days which are the most looked forward to of any by returning students, alumni and visitors. The program this year has been as brilliant and successful as any ever presented, and for those who attended it will long remain a pleasant memory.

LOWRY HONORED IN ORATORICAL MEET

In the finals of the southern zone of the National Oratorical contest held recently in Nashville, Tennessee, C. W. Lowry, Jr., '26, won second place. The contest was conducted by The Better American Association of California. The purpose was to stimulate thought to the preservation of American institutions. The subject of Lowry's oration was "Wester and the Constitution." The winner of this contest went to the national finals, which were held in Los Angeles, California.
