

Generals' Relay Team Defeats U. of Virginia

Coach Fletcher's Relay Team Shows Fine Form to Win; Frosh Win Their Meet.

MARYLAND WINS MEET

Generals' Team Finishes Second In Richmond Meet and Makes Good Showing In All Events.

The Generals' crack relay team defeated the mile runners of the University of Virginia by six yards or more in what proved to be the feature of the University of Richmond's invitation games in the Grays' Armory in the state capitol Saturday night. Carded as a special event, the relay race was the best-run event of the evening, according to witnesses of the meet. Both teams had the the spurts shown by several racers, misfortune to have one man slip at different junctures of the race, but especially by Summerson and Captain Davis, of the local team, was made replete with thrills.

Milbank started the event for Coach Fletcher's charges, but was three yards behind when he touched Wilson off for the second run. On the second turn Wilson's opponent slipped and fell, but recovered himself so quickly that the Blue and White runner was unable to pass him and had to be content with remaining at his heels. He gained on the last lap, however, and touched Summerson off with a slight advantage. The latter opened up a five yard gap on the first go-round, and, despite frantic efforts on the part of Laval, stellar sprinter of the Cavalier team, was able to touch off Captain Davis with a two yard lead. Running against Captain Irvine, who had won the national championship at the Penn Relays two years ago, Davis opened up a gap that the Virginia marvel could not close at any time. The tape was hit with Davis holding his own over six yards in front of the champion.

The Generals' team finished second in the collegiate competition in the general games. Maryland led with fourteen points, Richmond second with thirteen, W. and L. scored 11, Randolph-Macon and Carolina

DRINKWATER PAYS TRIBUTE TO W. & L.

Article in N. Y. Times Reveals English Author Impressed on His Recent Visit Here.

John Drinkwater, famous English playwright, recently paid a high tribute to Washington and Lee in the magazine section of the New York Times. This article dealt with his impressions of America.

Mr. Drinkwater, it will be remembered, gave a lecture in Doremus gymnasium some time ago, at which time he discussed literature and his own work.

"It is just in these last few years that the fortunes of the South are showing definite signs of revival. The disaster that befell them in 1865 so terribly aggravated by Lincoln's death, is at last being forgotten, and the reconstruction that was so long nothing but mockery is becoming a reality. Robert E. Lee's charge that the people of the Confederate States should remember that they were once again Americans, has at length become a practical inspiration and the old animosity is dying.

"Even with the old people, with a few exceptions, Lincoln's is now a name that may be spoken together with Lee's own. From no one have

CATHOLICS FLOORED BY GENERALS' PUGS

Generals win 4-3 in Hard Fought Match With Catholic U. in D. C.; 1500 Witness Match

Before a large and representative body of fans, numbering about 1500, the Washington and Lee boxing team defeated Catholic University of Washington D. C., 4 to 3 Saturday night. The match between the Generals and the Catholics was the first intercollegiate match to be held in the District of Columbia. Coach Mathis' mittmen were able to annex the first four bouts of the evening. The unlimited bout was forfeited to Catholic University, Washington and Lee having no representative in that division.

Lancaster, the Blue and White 115 pounder, won a judges decision over Amien of Catholic University, in three rounds of fast boxing. The local boxer assumed the aggressive throughout the entire fight and had little trouble with his opponent.

Felsenthal, General's stellar bantamweight, got a technical knockout over Mahon is the first round of the melee. The Blue and White boxer floored his opponent twice in the first minute of the first round with rapid right jabs. The battle was stopped when Catholic University threw in the towel to save their batter from further punishment.

Hearon won a clear judges decision over Grover of Catholic University in three rounds of fast boxing. The General boxer employed the right hook to a great advantage and had his opponent close to a knockout on

LATTURE TALKS ON RACE RELATIONS TO SOCIETY

Up-to-date Lecture Reveals Some of Racial Problems And Developments in World Now.

R. N. Latture, associate professor of political science at Washington and Lee, delivered an address on "Race Relations" before the Graham-Lee literary society last Saturday night. In his speech, Mr. Latture pointed out the fact that the colored races of the world—mongolians, indians, malays, and negroes—are becoming less willing to admit the supremacy of the caucasian race. He declared that the Russo-Japanese war had marked the turning of the tide for the dark skinned tribes. Before this combat, the colored races had seen themselves steadily stripped of their lands, Australia and many parts of Africa having fallen into the hands of the Caucasians; the victory of Japan over Russia, however, inspired these peoples with new hope, according to Mr. Latture. The professor then remarked that the World War had been even more disastrous to the caucasian race, because this was a struggle almost entirely between white people.

Mr. Latture said that race suicide was another factor tending to aid the colored races in surpassing the white race in number. He asserted that the majority of dark-skinned men and women bring up large families,

Tryouts For Spring Troubadour Show Report

Three-Act Musical Comedy by Four Students To Be Presented with Spanish Theme

TWENTY-ONE IN CAST

Two Road Trips now Being Considered Since Play Promises Such a Success.

Seventy-five aspirants answered the annual call for tryouts for the Troubadour spring play. Of this number, 30 were retained for a second tryout, which was held Tuesday afternoon.

Each participant in this play will be chosen with regard to his singing, dancing, and acting ability. There will be nine character roles and a chorus of twelve, consisting of six male and six female parts.

The name of the play has not as yet been definitely decided, but its tentative name is "Cuban Nights." It is a musical comedy in three acts by E. H. Miller, W. R. McDonough, W. M. Garrison, and E. L. Smith, all students of Washington and Lee.

A trip is planned which will include several towns, which have not yet been chosen. This is the first musical comedy that has been attempted for two years, and the officials of the club are putting forth every effort to make the performance a success.

The following is a list of those retained for the tryouts: Frank Adams, Alfred Bailey, William Black, J. M. Boyd, Jack Chapman, J. D. Connell, W. Delp, W. Herrington, Van Holloman, Jack Kenney, Tom McRitchie, W. R. McDonough, C. Mellon, Ed. Miller, R. C. Maddux, R. Nichols, J. Penn, J. Pitts, R. W. Pharr, J. Ragland, E. Reeves, J. Scales, E. Shoup, E. FRED B. SMITH TO ADDRESS SCHOOL ON SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Will Speak to School Feb. 23 And 24; Is Known As A Great Evangelist; Has Had Interesting Career.

Fred B. Smith, who is known on both sides of the sea as a great evangelistic leader of men, will speak to the students of Washington and Lee at university assemblies on Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 23 and 24. Other meetings will also be held, the time of which will be announced later. At present Mr. Smith is chairman of the Citizens Committee of 1,000 and chairman of the American Branch of the World Alliance for International Friendship. He is well informed on the great social problems.

Mr. Smith was born in Iowa in 1865. He became a Y. M. C. A. secretary, but soon gave up his secretaryship and became engaged in evangelical work. Later he worked with the soldiers during the Spanish-American war.

Mr. Smith is given credit for the success of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, in 1911 and 1912. He traveled around the world holding a series of meetings.

For the last ten years Mr. Smith has been associated with the Johns-Manville Company. This relationship has given him considerable liberty in the promotion of religious work. Since the war he has been interested in international friendship and good will. He has visited Europe practically every year since the world war in connection with his work for international friendship.

Mr. Smith is the author of "Men Wanted," "A Man's Religion," "Observances in France," and "On the Trail of the Peacemakers."

FROSH CAGERS TALLY TWO WINS THIS WEEK

Defeat N. C. U. Frosh And Devitt Prep Here Monday And Tuesday Nights Respectively.

In a loosely played contest on Tuesday evening, the freshman basketball team of Washington and Lee defeated Devitt Preparatory School of Washington, D. C., 42-9. The game was unusually rough, and many fouls were called slowing up the game considerably.

Ebert, stellar forward of the Little Generals aggregation, scored first via the free toss route. Groop followed with a neat shot from the sideline. Devitt tallied when Jenkins shot a long toss through the hoop.

Coach Twombly used his entire squad in the game in both the first and second halves. Ebert was the star for the Little General cagers, amassing a total of 24 points during the game, while his floor work was also good. Kennedy and Jenkins showed up well for the visitors.

The N. C. U. Game

After trailing their opponents for practically the entire first half the Little Generals came on to defeat the North Carolina University freshmen by the score of 29 to 28 in Doremus gym Monday night. This was the fifth straight victory for the Blue and White team this season. Due to the lack of practice the Generals did not seem to play the brand of ball that they were capable of, and appeared fatigued from the engagements over the week-end in Lynchburg where they defeated V. E. S. and Lynchburg High.

The Tar Heels scored a field goal at the tip-off and added four more points before the Blue and White team could find its bearings. Lowry then looped the ball from the center of the floor to start the freshmen on their upward climb. Lowry dropped the ball through for a score as the half ended, 15 to 11, with the Blue and White on the long end of the score.

The Tar Heels came back in the second half with a spurt that threatened the Little Generals' lead. The game was nip and tuck with each team taking the lead but the Little Generals finally nosing out the visitors. The outstanding star of the game was Lowry, forward for the Little Generals.

PROHIBITION SUCCESS SAYS DR. ALBERT LEVITT SUNDAY

Dr. Levitt Discussing Prohibition From Both Legal and Christian View Says Prohibition Is a Success.

Dr. Albert Levitt, of the University Law faculty, spoke last Sunday night in the Baptist Church on the subject of "Is Prohibition a failure?" Dr. Levitt discussed the subject from a legal and Christian viewpoint. He declared that Prohibition or the Eighteenth Amendment measured by the standards of comparative success has not been a failure. The purposes and functions for which it was passed by Congress and the separate states have been fulfilled in the abolition of the saloon and the distillery from a legal standpoint. Direct evidence that a real improvement has been made is furnished, he said, by the fact that the amount of spirituous liquors consumed in the United States during the past year was only one-fifth of the amount consumed in the year prior to the World war.

Dr. Levitt pointed out the distinction between the Eighteenth Amendment and what is known as Law Enforcement and declared that Law En-

Generals to Be Seen In Last Game This Week

Virginia and Carson-Newman Quints Come Here on Thursday and Saturday Nights.

CLIMAX OF INDOOR SEASON

Virginia Game to be Premier Attraction of Season and Huge Crowd Expected to Witness it.

Followers of the Generals' basketball quintet will have the opportunity to see their representatives play the last two games of the season this week. Both of these games are scheduled for Doremus gym and will climax an indoor sports season that has been one of the best ever carded here.

Tomorrow night Coach Smith will send his men against the undefeated Carson Newman team. The Tennessee team, crippled by injuries last week, but ponents this season, among them being the leading court teams of the south. An eligibility list of ten men has been received by Coach Smith, prominent among them being the name of Shoun, the Jefferson City squad's seven-foot-three giant. Besides being unusually adept at playing the floor, Shoun is highly touted as a dead shot from any angle.

What is probably the premier attraction of the court season, and which will decide the championship of the state and the Big Four teams, will be the battle with Pop Lannigan's Cavalier quintet here Saturday night. The genial Virginia coach has been unable to work out with his team for several weeks because of an infected foot, but left his bed to take charge of them for three games they have scheduled for this week. Last night and tonight the Charlottesville aggregation is invading the Navy and Maryland courts, and after a two-day lay-off, will come here for the final game of the season.

The Virginians were somewhat crippled by injuries last week, but the entire first squad is reported to be rounding into condition, and in all probability Captain Holland and Wrenn, forwards, Tyler center, and Walp and Mackall, guards, will be ready to take the floor against Coach Smith's proteges. Coach Lannigan has a formidable array of substitutes to run in if his regulars falter, however, with such men as Conn, Jefferies, Ewing, Meade, Cabell and Garrett appearing on the reserve list.

Coach Smith is priming his men for these two encounters, and has them scrimmaging and practicing every afternoon in an effort to have them in prime shape for the two battles.

BIG BLUE TEAM LOSES TO V. P. I. SATURDAY

Spotts, Wilson, and Urmey Star for Generals in 41-24 Defeat at Blacksburg Saturday Night.

Playing a demon Gobbler quintet in the V. P. I. gym at Blacksburg Saturday night, Coach Smith's basketballers went down to defeat by a 41-24 score. The Generals were never within striking distance of victory, so fast and furious was the play of the Techmen. They played the best game of their season, according to all reports, and with the crowd behind them and all to win and nothing to lose, they tore loose for goal after goal.

With Buddy Dear setting the pace with 23 points, and with his running mate, Pearman, accounting for ten more markers, the home crew were not to be headed. The Gobblers scored six points before the Generals, by way of Captain Wilson's goal, had chalked up a single point. Pearman and Dear, aided by

As Others See Us

John Drinkwater, writing from England, in Sunday's New York Times says "In many essential things America is magnificently right—" In some things he thinks that our nation needs improvement. One of these is our too great standardization of mental habit. Only one hundred and five million of our people are guilty of this however.

On the other hand, Mr. Drinkwater seems to think that America is very satisfactory, especially the South, to judge from the amount of space he gives to an eulogy of Lexington, its atmosphere, and the Stone Mountain Memorial at Atlanta. Of course the traffic on Fifth Avenue, the New England architecture and Niagara Falls come in for their share of the praise as several of the distinctive things in America which are noticed by a distinguished English playwright on his first visit for five years. Many of our southern students do not think that cotton fields before the cotton has been picked are worthy of comment, yet our English friend is duly impressed by them.

To come to our immediate surroundings however, Mr. Drinkwater thinks that Washington and Lee with its town "is one of the loveliest spots in the world." To the student weary of books, classes and the narrow confines of our metropolis, this statement may seem overdrawn. Distance lends enchantment to the view. Possibly when we get away in a few years and look back to this historic spot in the Valley, we will share Mr. Drinkwater's opinion. If he has such an exalted estimation of Washington and Lee after a mere day's stay, would words be sufficient to express his true appreciation of the place after he had been here long enough to absorb some of the true spirit?

Mr. Drinkwater also sees the reconciliation of the South with Abraham Lincoln as told by Dean Campbell. He says "From no one have I heard the secret of Lincoln's greatness more subtly expounded than by a very distinguished scholar in the Washington and Lee University at Lexington, in Virginia, who as a child had actually ridden behind Lee on Traveller, the horse that has become a figure in Southern legend." We are proud of this, that the names of those great Americans, Lincoln Lee should be reconciled at the school of which General Lee was president.

The Great God Sport

We do not generally put religion and sports in the same class.

It has been done however. The plans for the finishing of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City call for a sports window in the nave of the great structure.

This certainly looks like the time has arrived when sport has reached a place in the estimation of men equal to that of their church and religion.

Will everything eventually bow to the great God Sport as he strides forward with the nation following at his heels?

Will Sport soon take the foremost place in our lives leaving all else ground under his spiked shoes?

It is a question which we will have to decide soon, both in collegiate and professional ranks.

Freshmen who today are going around the campus attired in costumes which would dazzle the Fancy Dress Ball have no reason to feel badly. Such a custom is now prevalent with the "freshmen" of the French Academy, probably the most distinguished body of men in France.

A THIRD SUPPOSITION

With your inherited mental ability reinforced by active personal ambition and a number of "easy tickets", let us suppose that you won a shining place on the University honor-roll, with an A-grade on a varied line of "liberal" studies. Let us suppose that at 22 years of age, in the flush of scholastic triumph, with your brow crowned with "scholastic" honors and your brain that of a "scholastic athlete", you bade goodbye to your "wonderful college career", suddenly stepped into the rushing Main Street of a competitive low-brow world, and set out to find your "preparation", some life-work or profession: in other words to select in the rush of the world-tour some one of the many uphill roads to success and happiness into which you might turn your high-powered life-car for the long life-climb.

FROSH. 'NATORS. TRAVEL TO STAUNTON TODAY

Will Meet A. M. A. At Staunton "Y" This Afternoon; Today And Avenge Last Years Defeat; Other Swimming News.

Coach Twombly and nine freshman swimmers left this morning to meet the Augusta Military Academy aquatic stars in the Staunton Y. M. C. A. pool this afternoon. The A. M. A. team has not been defeated in four seasons, and from past performances they have a strong team this year, too. The cadets subdued the Little Generals last year by the close score of 36 to 35. In an effort to avenge this defeat Coach "Cy" Twombly is taking the same team that trounced the R. M. A. cadets so decisively last Monday. The men that made the trip are: Frost, Lynn, Moffet, Harrison, Smith, Taylor, Harell, Day and Pemberton.

The freshmen meet the Fishburne Military School at Waynesboro on Friday, February 19, and have a return engagement the next Monday in the Doremus gym pool. This is the first home meet of the season. The varsity is scheduled to compete against the Navy at Annapolis on Saturday, February 20. The men who are to make this trip have not been selected, but tryouts will be held this Thursday.

WORK ON WILSON FIELD PROGRESSING RAPIDLY NOW

Weather Has Held Up Project That Will Make Local Track One Of Best in State When Completed.

Work on the excavation of Wilson field has been held up considerably on account of the bad weather during the past two weeks. Now that the weather has cleared up and the ground has become somewhat drier, rapid progress is being made, R. A. Smith, graduate manager of Athletics, stated today.

He would make no predictions as to the definite date when this work would be finished, but expects it to be completed within a few weeks. The object of the excavation of this hill is to provide a level clearance for the placing of a curve on the running track. This will provide Washington and Lee with one of the best tracks in the state.

forcement under the present Volstead act was only sixty percent effective. The reasons which he advanced for this were that men had ceased to regard a violation of the Prohibition act as a violation of the law in every way as culpable and that men of higher social position secretly violated the law, thus setting a bad example to those more inclined towards crime. Dr. Levitt pointed out the inherent danger in the present situation and urged the necessity for active participation and cooperation of the citizens in law enforcement as the only solution of the problem.

Subject, "Resolved That Washington And Lee Should Be Made A Coeducational School"

Those who attended the first Y. M. C. A. social Sunday afternoon heard an innovation in the program in an extraneous debate, "Resolved that Washington and Lee Should Be Made a Coeducational School." The following men were selected to compose the team: affirmative, F. P. Shull and L. G. McKinnon; negative John Stanard and Jack Stewart. The speeches met with a great deal of approbation. The judges, C. P. Snyder, W. F. Smith and E. L. Stewart decided in favor of the affirmative.

The special numbers on the program were a vocal solo by Mrs. Kinnear and a vocal solo by Rodd Moffet. Another social will be given next Sunday afternoon.

95 YEARS NECESSARY TO TAKE ALL WEST VIRGINIA'S COURSES

West Virginia University offers 1013 courses, requiring 95 years for a student to cover every course. If the age of the average student entering the University were 20 years, he would finish at the age of 115, providing he carried 32 hours work each year and was successful in passing every course.

Degrees and diplomas sufficient to fill an art gallery would be the reward of one with such an education. In comparison with the wisdom gained from these 1013 courses, Solomon in all his knowledge would be considered in the light of a fallen idol with his limited mental abilities.

CATHOLICS FLOORED BY GENERAL PUGS

several occasions, but lacked the final punch.

Price, Generals, welterweight boxer, got a technical knockout over La Fonde of Catholic University after four rounds of terrific battling. La Fonde assumed the aggressive in the first round and annexed the initial melee. At the end of the third period an extra round was called for a decision. In the fourth, Price floored his opponent three times and the bout was stopped when Catholic University threw in the towel.

Durham lost a hard fought battle to Captain Moore of Catholic University. Both men fought toe to toe and exchanged blows for the three rounds. However, Moore had amassed sufficient points for a judges decision.

May, stellar heavyweight of Catholic University, got a technical knockout over Streit of Washington and Lee. The three rounds were hard fought and not until the third did the Blue and White boxer weaken.

Results as follows:

115 pound class: Lancaster (W. & L.) won a judges decision over Amien, (C. U.).

125 pound class: Felsenthal (W. & L.) got a technical knockout over Ahon, (C. U.).

135 pound class: Hearon (W. & L.) won a judges decision over Grover (C. U.).

145 pound class: Price (W. & L.) got a technical knockout over La Fonde (C. U.).

165 pound class: Moore (C. U.) won a judges decision over Durham (W. & L.).

175 pound class: May (C. U.) got a technical knockout over Streit (W. & L.).

(Unlimited class forfeited to Catholic University.)

stellar playing by the entire team, came back strong, and at the half had the long end of a 23 to 8 score.

The second period opened with a sudden spurt by the Blue and White cagers, Spotts and Urmey looping the ball in quick succession. The V. P. I. tossers retaliated at once however, and while holding the Generals' attack almost helpless, ran up a tota of forty-one points before the final whistle blew.

Spotts, Wilson, and Urmey led in the scoring for Coach Smith's crew.

GENERALS' RELAY TEAM DEFEATS VIRGINIA

three each, and Virginia brought up the rear with a single counter. Lowry in the high jump won first place with a leap of five feet and ten inches, and Milbank finished third in the dash. Captain Davis led the field in the varsity hurdles, and Sutton, while not placing in the mile, nevertheless ran a creditable race, being barely nosed out at the tape.

The Little Generals had a walkway in the frosh events, scoring eighteen points against five for Richmond and four for Virginia. Swart and Simmons in the hurdles had no opposition, and Nathan placed second in the half mile. Places won by the yearlings were: first and third in the dash, first and second in the hurdles and second in the half mile. The mile was not run, and Coach Fletcher was forced to run his milers in the half. Swart was high man in the frosh competition, scoring a total of ten and one-half points. His closest competitor was Creighton, of Richmond, who accounted for all five of his team's markers.

Mr. John McMullin, editor of the "Well Dressed Man's Department" of "Vanity Fair", claims that to exploit the college man as a type under the heading of our conception would be an error, for no man under 25 has the experience or the time to develop faultless taste and knowledge in conservative dressing.

I heard the secret of Lincoln's greatness more subtly expounded than by a very distinguished scholar in the Washington and Lee University at Lexington, in Virginia, who as a child had actually ridden behind Lee on Traveller, the horse that has become a figure in Southern legend.

"This Lexington university is one of the loveliest spots in the world. Here still stands the little chapel that Lee is said to have helped to build with his own hands when he became President of the university after the war; a modest building of perfect architectural tact, in which is the recumbent figure of Lee in marble, itself a masterpiece of realistic sculpture. Here, too, is Lee's office, his table strewn with letters, his stove ready for lighting, his waste paper basket by his chair, just as they were the day he died; and here in the vault are the graves of all the Lee family, from Light Horse Harry Lee, the General's father, down to the present generation.

Lee's own house still stands, and the stable in which Traveller lived, and a few yards away is the house that Lee occupied when he first went to Lexington while his new home was being built. It was in this house that Stonewall Jackson, then a professor of the Virginia Military Institute, lodged, and it was in the drawing room that he was married."

whereas a large number of caucasians particularly of the more prosperous class, fail to provide for the propagation of their race.

In his discourse, Professor Latture mentioned a number of measures now under consideration in the state of Virginia for keeping the white and the non-white races separated. One of these bills provides that no one who possesses as much as one-sixteenth negro blood or indian blood shall marry a white person; another bill forbids people of the white and of the colored races to assemble together in any place.

The next meeting of the Graham-Lee society will be held at 7.30 P. M. on Saturday, February 27. At this time, a debate will take place on the subject, "Resolved, That the Gentleman's Agreement at Washington and Lee University shall be abolished." The affirmative side of this question will be supported by F. P. Shull and A. C. Junkin; the negative side will be upheld by E. L. Gamble and P. R. Harrison. In addition to this, a declamation will be given by C. P. Sny-Henry Lee. Visitors will be cordially, and a humorous address by ally welcomed.
