No Provocation Made To Cause Fight, Is Claim

Students Say Attack Upon Them and Girls Was a Surprise

GIRL WHO DROVE CAR IS PRAISED

Expert Driving and Nerve In Chase Probably Saved Their Lives

No provocation whatever for an attack was given by the three Washington and Lee students and three Randolph-Macon Woman's college students who narrowly escaped death at the hands of a group of men near Lynchburg Sunday evening, according to two of the students. Two of the students, J. L. Warren, Jr., and T. L. Dunn who were attacked, were interviewed for the Ring-Tum Phi in an effort to get the true story of the affair.

Gu. Wiltshire, Jr., the other student, is in a Lynchburg hospital with a severe knife wound in his back, birdshot wounds in his back and neck, and a gash on his head, presumably caused by a blow from a Coca-Cola bottle.

The following is the story as told by the two students:

Students' Version

The three boys, accompanied by the three girls, were riding about dusk Sunday evening on the river road south of Lynchburg. At the junction of the road from Twelfth street with the river road they stopped at a filling station for soft drinks.

When the party prepared to leave, Wiltshire was the last to go.

When the rest of the party reached the car they missed Wiltshire, and Warren and Dunn went back after him, little dreaming of trouble. When they entered the filling station they heard scuffling in the next room and asked if that was Wiltshire. The man told them that it was not, but just a little fight, and he would separate the men. The boys thought Wiltshire had gone out another door.

Girls Wait in Car

They returned to the car and saw that Wiltshire had not returned. Suspecting foul play, Warren rushed back to the filling station and Dunn handed the girls the key to the car and told them to drive back to Lynchburg, and started out behind Warren. The girls, instead, drove over on the Twelfth street road behind the filling station and waited there.

In the meantime Warren, closely followed by Dunn, had rushed into the room where the scuffling had been heard. On the floor was Wiltshire with two men on top of him beating him over the head with a Coca-Cola bottle. Upon Warren's entry the men jumped off Wiltshire. For a few seconds all were on their feet. One of the attackers threatened to kill the boys and started for Warren, who was farthest from the door to the front. As the man went by Dunn he swung at him with the bottle and then threw it at Warren. Dunn and Wiltshire dashed out the door for the car. Warren ran out a side door.

Shooting Begins

The men got firearms and began shooting wildly at the boys. Dunn and Wiltshire reached the car. Wiltshire was put in and Dunn pleaded with the girls to drive back to Lynchburg while he went back after Warren, whom he thought was shot, as he had not come to the car. The girls refused to go, choosing bravely to stay and see it through.

Dunn dashed back after Warren, but the firing became so heavy that he was forced to drop in a ditch and remain hidden. In the meantime Warren, who thought the girls had gone back to Lynchburg, ran to the river road and caught a ride in.

The men finally spotted the car with the girls and Wiltshire in it behind the filling station (Continued on page 4)

Injuries May Keep Hawkins and Mattox Out of V.P.I. Game

Mattox, who twisted his ankle, suffered the most serious casualty in the Tennessee game and will not be likely to get in the V. P. I. game. Several other players are on the sick list but their injuries are not of a very serious nature.

Hawkins did not play in the Tennessee game, and may enter the V. P. I. struggle only by using a cast on his hand. Martin and Wilson were out last week, but are back in uniform now.

Tilson and Stevens have been laid up but are in condition to play now if Coach Oberst needs them. This large number of injured first-string men gives the reserves a chance at a lot of action, which they will have to take care of in the tilt with V. P. I.

Tickets Go On Sale For Game With Va. Poly

742 Reserved for Students at Special Price of $1; to Run Train

With the entire V. P. I. cadet corps attending the General-Gobbler battle in Lynchburg Saturday, 1,018 seats have been reserved for Washington and Lee fans who will watch Captain Hawkins lead the Generals in their first Big Four tilt.

Special student tickets have been put on sale for $1 rather than $2, since both student bodies are attending. The ninety-piece cadet band from Blacksburg, the Washington and Lee band, and an estimated crowd of more than 5,000 will provide snap and color for what promises to be one of the closest and hardest fought games on the state gridiron this year.

A block of 742 tickets are now on sale at the Co-op, according to R. A. Smith, graduate manager of athletics. Ticket sales to the general public have been fairly heavy, he said, and indicate a large crowd to witness the battle which may have a vital bearing on state football honors.

The special Washington and Lee edition of the Virginia Creeper is scheduled to leave for Lynchburg after classes at 10:30 Saturday morning, carrying the band. Tickets on the special train may be secured for $2.00. The special will return after the dance at 12:30 Saturday night.

America's Need Is Moral Leadership, Not More Wealth, Declares Dr. Smith

"America's most pressing need is not more wealth but moral leadership," Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Washington and Lee University, and in a recent bulletin prepared for young people throughout the country who are preparing for college. Doctor Smith, who reached the retirement age on July 1, will retire from his administrative position January 1, 1930.

"Mere popularity among the immature and untrained," Doctor Smith said, "is often no proof or evidence of real leadership. The idol of the campus is very often far more of an expert follower than a genuine leader. To find which way the crowd is going and then race ahead of them in that direction is fake leadership, as cheap and common as the 'diamond' jewelry that glitters on a ten-cent counter.

Moral leadership among human beings never 'comes natural' to anyone. In this erring world it is like towing loaded barges upstream. The movement is against nature, and the indwelling power that overcomes the current is from above and must be resolutely cultivated and developed in the daily conflicts of our daily lives."

The four essential elements of effective leadership, Doctor Smith explained, are habitual intensity, personal morality, love, and spiritual vision.

Returns From State Election Will Be Shown

Journalism Dept. Sponsoring Service for Students and Citizens Here

LEASED WIRE WILL BE RUN INTO GYM

Music and Fencing Bouts On Program for Night's Entertainment

Full returns from the Virginia state election next Tuesday will be furnished for Washington and Lee students and citizens of Lexington and Rockbridge county in Doremus Gymnasium election night.

This service will be sponsored by the Washington and Lee department of Journalism, which will lease a full wire for the occasion. Results from all over the state will be flashed to Lexington on this wire. Voting returns of Rockbridge county will be gathered by students of the Journalism department who will be stationed at the various precincts.

Particular attention is to be paid to results in the tenth congressional district, in which Rockbridge county is located.

The department of Journalism sponsored a similar service for the national election last November. At this time nearly 2,500 persons crowded Doremus gymnasium for the service.

In addition to the election returns a full evening of entertainment has been planned for election night. Music will be furnished by the Washington and Lee band, The Southern Collegians, and a radio installed for the occasion.

Several fencing bouts by members of the newly organized W. and L. fencing club are on the program, also an entertainment by a band of magicians.

Reports from the election will start coming by wire and telephone to election headquarters in the gymnasium at 7 p. m., but publication will not begin until 8 o'clock. This will give everyone time to finish dinner and get to the gymnasium before the service starts. Bulletins will be given out until final results of the election are known. It is estimated that full information (Continued on Page Four).

MONIC MATTOX-QUARTERBACK

This shifty little quarterback had his ankle badly twisted in the Tennessee game and will probably not play Saturday.

Duke Defeats Cross Country Team Saturday

Simon of Duke Leads Field; Mahler Comes In Third, Broderick Strains Leg

The Duke University cross-country team defeated Washington and Lee in the season's debut for the Generals in Durham, N. C., Saturday afternoon by the score of 25 to 32.

Simon of Duke led the field all the way and crossed the finish line almost a minute ahead of the next man, Heizer, his team mate. Mahler was the first Washington and Lee man to finish, covering the distance in 29:27 to take third place.

The duel between Flint of the Blue Devils and Coll of the Generals for fourth place was one of the features of the meet. The men ran on even terms over the course, but Flint's final burst of speed on the home stretch enabled him to nose out the Blue and White runner by two feet. Gilmore and Suter of Washington and Lee were the next two men to finish.

The Generals' chances to win the meet faded when Broderick, captain of last season's freshmen and one of the best runners on the squad, strained his leg. He managed to limp across the line in thirteenth place, but his time was much poorer than he is capable of doing. His injury may keep him out of the state meet which will be held in Blacksburg next Friday. Washington and Lee was further handicapped by the loss of Licherie.

The order of finish was: Simon, Duke, 28:22; Heiber, Duke, 29:12; Mahler, W. & L., 29:27; Flint, Duke, 30:50; Coll, W. & L., 30:51; Gilmore, W. & L., 30:52; Suter, W. & L., 31:18; Hardin, Duke, 31:32; Gordon, Duke, 31:50; Grimes, Duke, 32:23; Pilley, W. & L., 32:54; Robbins, Duke, 33:20; Broderick, W. & L., 34:15; Phelps, W. & L., 34:15.

STUDENT BODY PICTURE TO BE TAKEN TOMORROW

The annual picture of the student body and faculty will be taken in front of Washington College tomorrow at 11:20, according to a notice issued by President Smith yesterday. The time for the taking of the picture was put at 11:20 in order to have as many students in it as possible, as there are more students in class at this time than any other.

Fifteen minutes has been provided for taking the picture, the bell closing the 10:30 class ringing at 11:20, and a second bell for the regular 11:30 class ringing at 11:35. Work for this class will begin at 11:40.

Plans Complete For Lynchburg Game Saturday

Dances Will Be Held Both Friday and Saturday Nights

SPECIAL TRAIN CARRIES MANY

Parade of Students Scheduled After Its Arrival In Lynchburg

Preparations to lavishly entertain the two student bodies of Washington and Lee and V. P. I. when the football teams of the schools meet in Lynchburg Saturday have virtually been completed. The most minute details have been carefully worked out. The various concerns and stores of Lynchburg will be decorated in the colors of the two schools. One of the largest football crowds in the history of the city is expected to attend.

The entertainment starts Friday night with a dance at the Oakwood Country club. Washington and Lee's Southern Collegians will furnish the music from 9 till 2 o'clock. A dance sponsored by the Alumni Association of Lynchburg will also be held Saturday night in the armory. A local orchestra will play.

Immediately after the arrival of the special train from Lexington a parade of Washington and Lee students is scheduled to start from the station to the Virginia hotel, Washington and Lee headquarters. Cheers will be lead from the eighth street balcony of the hotel at the end of the parade. The cadet corps of V. P. I. will attend the game and are expected to parade between the halves.

The seating capacity of the Municipal stadium has been increased to accommodate many more people. Virtually every ticket, excepting those in the cheering sections of the two schools, has been sold, authorities state. Hundreds of out-of-town and out-of-state football fans will witness the game.

The Washington and Lee cheering section is situated along the fifty-yard line on the east side of the field. The section was on the opposite side of the field when the Generals played the Gobblers in 1926. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:15.

Registrar To Post List of Absentees Not Allowed Cuts

A list of all students who are not entitled to absences, but who have taken cuts during the preceding week for which no excuse has been turned in, will be posted by the Registrar's office each Thursday, according to E. S. Mattingly, Registrar.

Students whose names are on such lists are given one week in which to account for the absences. If the absences are not accounted for within the week, quality credits will be deducted from the student's record in the usual way.

All excuses must be in writing, and are to be turned in at the Registrar's office. Any excess number of absences by any one student will be handled by the executive committee of the faculty.

Malone Gains Decision Over Charlotte Foe

Local Battler Makes Strong Finish to Win Lively Scrap Saturday

Last Saturday night at the Roanoke City auditorium "Bus" Malone of Washington and Lee gained the decision over Ralph Hood of Charlotte, N. C., in a hard-hitting slugfest of eight rounds. A large delegation of W. and L. fans were at the arena.

Hood was the best man that Malone has fought for some time and proved to be a tough opponent. In the opening round, Hood opened a bad cut over Malone's left eye which caused Malone lots of trouble before the final bell sounded. The cut bled so badly that the referee asked his seconds if they did not want to stop the fight. After the seconds were able to stop the flow Malone proceeded to outfight his man. The crowd was kept in an uproar by the fierce slugging that the two men engaged in, but after the sixth round Hood weakened and from that time on was forced to go into clinches to save himself from further punishment. Malone won the last two rounds by such a large margin that the judges were not hesitant in giving him the decision.

True Story of "Traveller's" Burial Is Told By Resident of Lexington

Lexington, Va.—The burial of "Traveller," General Robert E. Lee's war horse, was described here today by Mrs. Margaret Letcher Showell, of Letcher avenue, who, as a twelve-year-old girl, was one of the eight persons who made up the funeral cortege.

Mrs. Showell contradicts the common belief that Traveller was merely "pushed over a cliff" after his death and describes his burial as an affair as solemn as that of his master.

"Traveller stepped on a nail," Mrs. Showell explained, "and died of lockjaw a few days later. For several days and nights preceding the horse's death General Custis Lee, oldest son of Robert E. Lee and who succeeded his father as president of Washington and Lee college, now Washington and Lee university, and visitors at the Lee home sat beside the wounded animal. Utmost care and attention was given him.

"After Traveller's death, General Custis Lee, accompanied by three little girls and myself, and assisted by three colored men, buried him under a large tree in the ravine behind Washington and Lee University.

Mrs. Showell explained that a large hole had been dug for Traveller's grave. The floor of this hole was covered with boards and the horse was dragged onto the floor. The carcass was then covered with lime and sides and top were fitted to the planking in the bottom of the hole, thus enclosing the horse in a sealed wooden casket.

"General Custis Lee himself spread Traveller's blanket over him before the top was placed on the box," Mrs. Showell said. Custis Lee was as fond of Traveller as his father had been. He was very sad as he walked away from the grave."

V. P. I. Brings Powerful Team To Lynchburg

Held Pennsylvania to 14-8 Score Early In the Grid Season

GOBBLERS PRESENT STRONG BACKFIELD

Game On Saturday Is Likely to See Brilliant Air Duel

Still smarting from their 38-13 setback at the hands of North Carolina University last week, the V. P. I. Gobblers will face the Generals at Lynchburg this Saturday in the annual game of the two teams. The rivalry of the Gobblers and the Generals dates back to the nineties.

While the Blacksburg team hasn't been traveling at as fast a clip as last year the present edition of the squad is noted for its ability to rise as an obstacle in any eleven's path when the occasion demands. Starting the strong University of Pennsylvania gridsters the first part of this month by holding them to a 14 to 8 victory in an inter-sectional tilt in the Quaker City, V. P. I. gained prominence as a strong defensive team. In their game with William and Mary two weeks ago the Gobblers walloped the Indians to the tune of 25-14. On the previous Saturday the Williamsburg representatives had administered a defeat to the Emory and Henry eleven to give the Wasps their first reverse in 24 starts.

Strong on Passes

Aerial attack versus aerial attack is the program promised for the game at Lynchburg this week. In scoring against the mighty Carolina contingent, the Gobblers uncovered an air attack that netted two touchdowns. The Techmen tried 32 passes which gained them 199 yards. With Hooper, quarterback on the tossing end and Rice, left half as the receiver V. P. I. had the Tarheels worried throughout the entire four periods. Mit Owens, 200 pound full back who recently returned to the squad after recovery from injuries sustained in the tilt with Pennsylvania proved invaluable in the secondary defense and time after time successfully blocked a Carolina intruder.

In V. P. I.'s 13-7 victory over the Generals last fall it was just a case of too much Frank Peake. After the Herron machine pushed over a touchdown on the Gobblers to see the score in their favor, 7-6, the visitors led by Peake, who rushed the oval twice as many times as any other back, took the ball for a touchdown on successive plays from the kick-off.

Strong Backfield

Macaulay McEver, brother of the famous Eugene, who proved a sensation for Tennessee in the battle last week, is one of the outstanding backs for the Gobblers. With Phil Spear, hailed as a second Peake, Owens and Tomko, the Pony backfield is noted for its aggressiveness combined with an air attack which they have down to perfection.

In 1927 a powerful Gobbler combination blanketed Washington and Lee to return with a 23-0 victory, the first win since 1922. For the past two years the Blacksburg eleven has won the annual game, the reverse of last fall Blue and White home-coming celebration.

Law Requires New Doors At Postoffice

Because of a law requiring all public buildings to be equipped with outward-swinging doors, the postal department has recently replaced the old revolving doors in the Lexington postoffice with this new type.

These new doors will be installed in all postoffices as the old type wear out.

NOTHING NEW

The recent disclosures of the Carnegie Foundation in regard to the "hiring" of athletes by colleges did not tell the public a great deal that was not already known. Colleges and universities that were named as guilty of this practice will suffer some criticism for a while. But the facts have been evident for so long that repetition of them will not stir up any great disturbance.

College authorities will be prodded into some action, but, in all probability, the whole thing will soon blow over. There is no way on earth to prevent the alumni of every college from paying expenses plus for promising players. Even if the athletic associations themselves stopped scouting for good players, the alumni would not.

If the whole practice of buying athletes could be stopped, there is no institution in the country that would benefit more than Washington and Lee. Athletes who "shop around" for good offers get a cold shoulder here. This is so well known that few of them ever do.

Such, in general, is the situation over the state. The only school in Virginia which was investigated was the University of Virginia, and that one received a clean bill of health. But reading the charges against some of our other opponents will remind students what the Generals are up against in a season.

WINDING IT UP

The score, 39 to 0, does not sound as though Tennessee was given a great deal of opposition in Roanoke Saturday. Spectators there, however, know that Washington and Lee put up a splendid fight against a far better team that was working at its best. There is no doubt that Tennessee has one of the best teams in the entire nation. Their individual stars performed wonderfully along with a machine-like team work.

Washington and Lee lost, but the loss was not a disgraceful one. The team fought for every yard and every Tennessee player knew he had been in a football game. The Generals never stopped trying to win the game until it was over. Their desperate efforts to score by passes allowed the Vols many chances that they would not have had, if the Generals had been content to play a slow and careful game. They do not play that way—they play to win, and against teams in our class they are going to win.

The next opponent, Virginia Tech, suffered a discouraging defeat last Saturday at the hands of North Carolina, a team in Tennessee's class. The Gobblers have a good team this year; it held Pennsylvania to a close score. Now they are looking forward to Washington and Lee, Virginia and V. M. I., their old state rivals. Washington and Lee must win the V. P. I. game and the Virginia game to be in the running for state championship honors.

Victories over the Gobblers and Cavaliers will mean more than state honors. Every college has one or two opponents that mean most of the season. These two are Washington and Lee's. Should the Generals win over V. P. I., Virginia, and St. Johns, and hold Florida to a close score, the season could well be considered a success, with the two decisive wins already registered. The defeat of Florida is not beyond the realm of possibility.

The students backed the team well against Tennessee. Visitors commented upon it. But every better backing is necessary to wind up the season as it should be wound up. The spirit that has made Washington and Lee famous is still present in abundant quantities and it must be brought out to the limit on through the rest of the season. Players must fight to their limit and the rest of the students must have faith in them and "carry on" from the stands.

THE GAME'S THE THING

Roanoke and its citizens made a great holiday for the game last Saturday. All the generous welcome that was expected was received, and more. The students were grateful and responded with good conduct.

As the schedule worked out this year, the students will again be guests of a neighboring city this Saturday when they follow the team to Lynchburg for the annual game with Virginia Tech. Two week-end trips in consecutive order to such favorite cities afford much in the way of entertainment that is unusual on the schedule.

Lynchburg may be expected to welcome the student body as graciously as in the past. Dances and other entertainment will be provided for the visitors' whole-hearted enjoyment. The student body must realize, however, that the main object of the trip is to win the game. That is what the team is going over for, and the students will feel the same way.

"The game's the thing!"

HOW LONG "YO-YO"?

Will the "yo-yo" share the same fate of Mah Jong, cross-word puzzles and the Ouija board? Or will it continue to thrive and grow until it ranks with golf?

Many people bought Mah Jong sets a few years ago and were barely beginning to learn the game when the fad died out. The cross-word puzzle still attracts a few devotees, but outside of the traveling man stranded in a small town, it has no great advocate. And many people have already forgotten what an Ouija board looked like.

When golf was in its infancy people who could not play scornfully rebuked those who were learning as "fools, fiddling away their time with toys." Many of the mockers remain today as among the fiercest wielders of driver, mashie, and putter.

The insidious thing about the golf ball can also be found in the yo-yo. Both little things look so easy to handle—but aren't.

It will take a man longer to learn how to carry a golf ball over the links than it will to manipulate a yo-yo along the streets. He will not get more exasperated while learning, however.

If, as the philosopher tells us, "the things that make you maddest are worth the most," humanity will gain a great deal from the yo-yo.

ATHLETIC MERCHANDISING

And now it's up to the colleges. The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, in its bulletin on American college athletics, returns a true bill against intercollegiate athletics with suitable recommendations for improvement that are briefly summed up as follows:

"The paid coach, the gate receipts, the special training tables, the costly sweaters and extensive journeys in special Pullman cars, the recruiting from the high school, the demoralizing publicity showered on the players, the devotion of an undue proportion of time to training, the devices for putting a desirable athletic, but a weak scholar, across the hurdles of the examinations—these ought to stop and the inter-college and intramural sports be brought back to a stage in which they can be enjoyed by large numbers of students and where they do not involve an expenditure of time and money wholly at variance with any ideal of honest study."

The report leaves little room for doubt that present-day campus sports, like a ponderous truck in traffic, are crowding education over into the ditch. The conferences might see to it that scholastic attainments requisite for athletic participation are made stricter; the educational groups might require their number to take action in furtherance of the recommendations contained in the report.

Fortunately or unfortunately, only one Old Dominion institution of learning, the University of Virginia, was investigated, and it was inferentially given high praise because it does not attempt to subsidize or deal with athletic mercenary shopping for a college where their physical attainments would enable them to be freed from the expense of tuition, board; with perhaps a little spending money on the side.—Richmond News-Leader.

'Y' Purchases Radio For Room

Gleaton Announces a Special Saturday and Sunday Afternoon Program

The Students Christian association, headed by its general secretary, Mr. Munsey S. Gleaton, has announced the purchasing of a new Victor radio which will be set up in the "Y" room. Both the faculty and the students are invited to listen in on the various radio programs.

Plans have been arranged for Sunday afternoon programs lasting from 3 to 7 o'clock, at which time concerts, orchestras, and plays will be tuned in.

The Fosdick program, broadcasted every Sunday afternoon at 5:30 from station WJZ, in New York, will feature the Sunday program. The Fosdick meeting is held under the supervision of the Federal Council of Churches and offers excellent music with its services.

Mr. Gleaton also reports that scores and play by play accounts of football games will be tuned in on the Saturday afternoons when the W. & L. football team does not play at home.

DOCTOR TUCKER TO ADDRESS GRADUATES

Dr. R. H. Tucker, professor in the Washington and Lee Economics department, will speak at the annual dinner of the New York Alumni Association on November 8.

Doctor Tucker was asked by the association to bring a message from Washington and Lee to the graduates. The dinner will be held at the Lafayette hotel in New York City.

Flu and Accident Confine Two Men To The Hospital

At the present time there are two Washington and Lee students at the hospital. R. O. Parmelee, a freshman, was taken to the hospital Sunday night. It is thought that he has influenza.

Fred Irons, another freshman who was injured in an automobile accident several weeks ago, is still confined to the hospital. He is improving steadily, however.

Hugh Taylor, a sophomore football candidate, injured his ankle in practice last Friday. He was running out to receive a pass and tripped over a rough spot on the field. He was taken to the hospital where an X-ray revealed that one of the small bones in his ankle was fractured. His foot was put in a cast and he left the hospital Monday.

It's always comforting to know that others have troubles, too.

HITCH IN FIGURES ABOUT COLLEGIANS

The popular conception that college students are youths with their own cars and lots of spending money, does not "hitch" with the figures given out by the Alumni Bureau of Occupations of the University of California, which reports that last year students at the university earned a total of more than one million dollars while taking their regular college courses.

The bureau this year is seeking to increase that earning power of the students to two million dollars this year. Five thousand students at the school are to be either totally or partially self-supporting, which represents 75 per cent of the student body.

Gilmore N. Nunn, who will attend the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi November 18, 19, 20 in Columbia, Mo., will be the first delegate ever to attend a convention of this organization from Washington and Lee.

The local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi was installed here last year and took the place of the Lee Blue Pencil Club, local journalistic society.

Nunn will leave here Saturday, November 16, after the Virginia game in order to arrive in Columbia for the opening session of the convention.

Generals Lose To Tennessee By 39-0 Score

Flashy Backs Pile Up Touchdowns With Runs and Passes

A powerful Volunteer eleven from the University of Tennessee, led by two flashy backs, McEver and Hackman, continued its victorious march toward Southern Conference honors by defeating the Generals at Maher field in Roanoke Saturday afternoon by the score of 39 to 0. The General eleven fought until the last minute but the Volunteers smothered them with the fast running attack which enabled them to roll up 20 points in the first half of the game.

Gene McEver, heralded as one of the South's greatest backs of the year showed the form that has gained him this recognition by running up three touchdowns on the Generals, before he was removed from the game, near the close of the first half. Hackman, the other halfback, and Dodd, quarterback, bore a good part of the offensive brunt along with McEver and were likewise withdrawn near the close of the second quarter. Substitute backs who played the remaining periods accounted for nineteen points.

The First Score
The first Volunteer score came after a punting duel between Dodd and Faulkner. McEver received Faulkner's punt on his own forty-yard line and returned to the mid-field. Hackman ran off tackle on the next play for six yards and then Dodd threw a long pass to Hug which netted 24 yards and placed the ball on the Blue and White two-yard line. After three tries McEver went across the line for a touchdown and Dodd kicked the extra point.

The second score of the game was the result of a pass, Dodd to McEver, with the latter running across the goal line. Dodd again added the extra point with a placement kick.

BREAKS LEG AT GRID PRACTICE YESTERDAY

D. K. Crawford, a freshman law student, suffered a compound fracture of his leg yesterday afternoon in football practice while scrimmaging on the freshman team against the varsity. Coach Forest Fletcher took him to the Jackson Memorial hospital where it is said that, despite the severity of the injury, he is resting well.

Crawford, whose home is in Beverly, W. Va., is a transfer from Davis and Elkins college. He was playing halfback on the freshman team at the time of the accident.

A bad punt by Faulkner of the Generals gave the Volunteers the ball on the Blue and White 33-yard mark. On the first play Snodgrass stopped Hackman for no gain but on the second play McEver circled the end and ran for a touchdown. The try for the extra point was missed by McEver.

Dodd's Intercepts Pass
The fourth score of the game came when Reineke, substitute for Dodd, intercepted Mattox' pass to Williams on the Generals' 45-yard line and ran unmolested across the goal line.

Later in the third period Allen, Volunteer substitute back, intercepted Jacobs' pass on the Blue and White 23-yard mark. He and Heydrick bucked the line, the latter going across on a short run off tackle.

Disney, fullback for Tennessee, scored the final touchdown of the game with a 28-yard plunge over left guard after receiving Faulkner's punt on the 48-yard line and White had carried it fourteen yards on two line plays.

The Generals fought until the last minute but their last hope was lost when Heydrick intercepted Eberhart's long pass.

A fast set of backs with McEver and Hackman bearing the brunt behind a powerful forward wall gave the Volunteers the big margin of victory. The Generals, crippled by the absence of Captain Hawkins at tackle, could present no strength in their defensive play and only through the air were they able to make any head-way offensively.

The backfield combination of McEver and Hackman was without a doubt Tennessee's brightest light, while Captain Johnson and Thayer in the line were the Volunteers' defensive luminaries. Mattox was the Generals' offensive star, while Williams and Bledsoe at the ends and Mitchell at guard bore the Blue and White defensive brunt.

Frosh Run Wild Over Fishburne

Virtually All of Squad Used In Scoring 40 to 0 Victory

The Little Generals ran wild against the Fishburne Academy eleven last Friday in Waynesboro to pile up six touchdowns and a total of 40 points to gain a decisive victory over the cadet team.

The freshmen scored almost at will, the only serious threat made against their goal line was a march the Cadets made from their nine-yard line to the Little General's one-yard line just as the whistle blew for the end of the first half. Coach Davis used virtually the entire squad in the game. Several substitutes showed up well. A feature of the game was a return of a punt by Lonergan, Little General quarterback, who squirmed his way through the Cadet team for a touchdown. Collins, and Burgoyne starred in the backfield. The entire freshman line worked together well in holding back the pushes of the Fishburne eleven led by Lindsey and Baudrer, their star backs.

Next Friday the Little Generals journey over to Charlottesville to give battle to the Baby Cavaliers. Led by Beury and Stevens star backs, they were expected to give the locals a hard tussle.

No Provocation Made To Cause Fight, Is Claim

(Continued from page 1) and started after them. The girl behind the wheel sped off for Lynchburg with the men hot in pursuit fring volley after volley of shot into the car. Time and again she was forced to swerve from one side of the road to the other to keep the pursuers from passing the car. It was in this chase that Wiltshire was wounded.

Dunn, in the meantime, had caught a ride to Lynchburg also. The race continued down Twelfth street almost to the heart of the city. It ended only when the girl stopped the car to scream to a policeman for help. The pursuers stopped their car behind them.

On the girls' story, however, the men were arrested and taken to the police station. There it was learned that their names were Garland Falwell, Lloyd Goff, and Courtney Falwell. Garland is being held under $3,000 bond and the other two under $1,000 bonds each. State, county and city charges have been preferred against them.

The students state emphatically that no provocation, whatever, for an attack was given and it was entirely unexpected. They are lavish in their praise for the girl who drove the car. But for her, they state, it would have meant the possible death of her and the other three. One of the girls rode in the rumble seat of the car during the chase.

The intensity of the firing can be imagined by an inspection of the car, which is a new Ford convertible coupe. The top of the rumble seat is riddled with shot. The windshield is shattered. In the left rear fender and through the license plate is a large hole evidently caused by a .45 caliber bullet. When the men were arrested two shotguns, a rifle, and three pistols were found in the car.

Feeling is running high in Lynchburg over the affair. Two meetings of the Washington and Lee Alumni association of that city have already been held. The trial is set for Friday.

Wiltshire is improving at the hospital.

Emory & Henry Has Top Scorer

Littlejohn In Lead With 66 Points; Dunn, Williams Runners-up

Howard Littlejohn, E. and H. back, has amassed a comfortable lead, having scored three touchdowns in the Saturday game to run his total to 66 points or 11 touchdowns in state football. His nearest competitor is Roy Dunn of V. M. L., with 37 points. Williams, W. and L., Spear, V. P. I., and Willis, Hampden-Sidney, are in a triple tie for third place with 30 points to their credit. Williams leads all W. and L. scorers by a substantial margin, but Mattox, Thibodeau, and Jones are tied for second honors with 12 points each.

Henriette, E. and H. captain and guard, leads the state in kicking goals after touchdowns with ten successful kicks to his credit. Scott, of V. M. L., has made six points after touchdowns to put him in second place. Hooper of V. P. I. is in third place with four points.

Emory and Henry is also far ahead in the state scoring honors. They have collected 164 points to their opponents' seven. Washington and Lee holds second place by a one-point margin, having scored 103 points; V. P. I. has scored 102 points, and V. M. I. has scored 100 points.

Tennessee is leading the Southern Conference with three impressive wins to their credit. There are, however, five other teams who have not suffered a defeat. Clemson has won three games; Tulane, Vanderbilt, and Louisiana State have each won two victories. Kentucky has won one Conference game. Anyone who witnessed the Tennessee game Saturday realizes that Tennessee will make a strong bid for the Conference championship, but Kentucky and Vanderbilt are pointing to their games with Tennessee and hope to upset the dope, and to secure the coveted Conference championship.

Malone was scheduled to fight this Saturday at Lynchburg in the American Legion bouts. It is reported that he will not fill this engagement as he has suffered a slight spell of sickness.

Returns From State Election Will Be Shown

(Continued from page 1) on the voting will be in by midnight, but the Department of Journalism promises to continue the service well into the night if necessary.

Seats will be provided for a large crowd.

Because considerable expense is necessary to bring election returns to Lexington, a charge of 25 cents will be made for admission to the election returns. This, Journalism Department officials say, will merely defray expenses. There is no desire to profit from the enterprise, and it will be necessary for a large crowd to be present for the department to come out even on the venture.

Students from the department will be sent to nearby cities to gather full information from press association dispatches and from newspaper coverage of territory outside of Rockbridge county.

It is better to say nothing than to tell the plot of the play you saw last week.

A man could be surer about liking his wife's new gown if he knew what it cost.

Plans Complete For Lynchburg Game Saturday

Special buses will bring girls from Sweet Briar college to the game. Girls from Randolph-Macon Woman's college will also be allowed to attend.

Lynchburg is sparing no pains to make it a gala day Saturday when General meets Gobler.

Tobacco's
at its best . . . in a pipe

MEN'S preference for a man's smoke—the pipe—is plenty positive. But do you know why? We'll tell you.

First, pipe tobacco's different—for instance, Edgeworth. Second, tobacco smolders as it should in a pipe. And third, these mean you get more satisfaction—greater relish of the good old savory burley, soothing fullness of rich smoke.

There's even a fourth reason: you like good company. The pipe-smoking brotherhood is that.

Tobacco's at its best in a pipe. It gets a chance to be itself—to loosen up as it comes to life, to expand and take in air and glow. Only the choicest leaves get that chance, moreover, for pipes tell the truth about tobacco. Choice leaves, choice blends, and mighty careful handling. Edgeworth comes up through eleven distinct processes before we're willing to pass it on to you.

If you keep on missing all this, that's your fault—for we're waiting to send you your first pipefuls of Edgeworth. See the coupon? Fill it out, get a good pipe and the postman will bring you a neat little glad-to-meet-you packet of good old Edgeworth.

Edgeworth is a careful blend of good tobaccos—selected especially for pipe-smoking. Its quality and flavor never change. Buy it anywhere—"Ready Rubbed" and "Plug Slice"—1 1/2 pocket package to pound humidifier tin.
