Students Make Slow Response To Finals Drive

Definite Plans Will Be Made First Week in March

FINALS SET MAY BE BROADCAST

Orchestra Not To Be Engaged Until Campaign Ends

The drive for subscriptions to the 1930 Finals started Monday, has been accorded a slow response by students, R. K. Sutherland, president, stated yesterday. The drive will continue through tomorrow evening he said. A large number of post-dated checks were accepted by the members of the finance committee, a larger number than was anticipated under the new cold check rule. These checks will not be deposited, however, until notice is sent to the writer, he stated.

The campaign proper will end March 11, which is the latest date checks may be post dated. Following the conclusion of the table drive this week, and individual canvass will be made by members of the finance committee. Those men who are not planning to remain here for Finals week are asked to contribute half the regular assessment, or five dollars. This has long been a custom, inasmuch as the Finals set is considered an integral part of student life.

Definite plans will not be made for the week until after the first week in March. Then, Sutherland said, plans will be made, based on the account of money in the treasury.

Sutherland has carried on correspondence with several well-known orchestras among them being Hal Kemp's Wagner Hotel orchestra, Jan Garber, Whitey Kaufman, and Waring's Pennsylvanians. The Music Corporation of America books many of the leading bands and Sutherland is corresponding with them.

Plans for broadcasting the dances are also in a state of uncertainty but a definite announcement along this line will be made soon, he said.

"I would like to emphasize the point," Sutherland said, "that we can not go ahead definitely along any line until we know just how much we will have to work with. Therefore, the sooner the students pay their share, the sooner we will be able to go ahead."

With the election of W. H. Marsh to lead the Senior Ball and W. A. Ward to lead the Sigma German, the list of dance leaders was completed last night. The full list is as follows: Interfraternity dance, L. Y. Foote; Pan-White Friar dancant, M. G. Perrow; Sigma German, W. A. Ward; Senior Ball, W. H. Marsh, and Final Ball, R. K. Sutherland.

Davis And Baker On List Of Candidates For Supreme Court

John W. Davis and Newton D. Baker, alumni and members of the Board of Trustees of Washington and Lee, are considered as two of four likely candidates to succeed Charles E. Hughes as Justice of the World Court.

The selection of a successor to Hughes, who was recently appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, will be made entirely by the League of Nations, and there is a possibility that an American may not be chosen. The selection is made on merit alone, and not political prominence. The four Americans receiving the greatest consideration are John W. Davis, Newton D. Baker, Roscoe Pound, and George Wickersham.

Doctor Brown On Law Commission

Dr. William Mosely Brown, defeated anti-Smith and Republican candidate for the governorship of Virginia, has been given a position on the United States Law Enforcement Commission.

Dr. Brown until last June served as professor of psychology here. His appointment to the Law Enforcement Commission as research expert to study the causes of crime came as a result of his defeat in the state elections last fall. It is thought in some quarters that he will eventually be given a permanent position on the United States Board of Education.

Students To Hear Lecture By Dr. Foster

Theme Centered on "Science and Religion"

Dr. Allen K. Foster, director of the board of education for the Baptist Church, will deliver a series of lectures and discussions to the students of the University on February 20, 21, and 22, according to Munsey S. Gleaton, secretary of the Students Christian Association. The theme of his talks will be centered on "Science and Religion."

Doctor Foster will be available by fraternities and special groups for the discussion of religious subjects. Arrangements for these special meetings may be obtained from Mr. Gleaton. An announcement of his scheduled talks will be posted on the University Bulletin board.

Doctor Foster is a graduate of Baltimore City College, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Yale, and Brown Universities. Since his graduation he has taken an active part in church and Y. M. C. A. work. He has been devoting a great part of his time recently in delivering lectures at different colleges and universities.

No Assembly This Saturday

Next Formal Assembly Scheduled for Monday, March 17th

Contrary to report, there will be no Student Assembly on Saturday, the twenty-second. Acting-President Robert H. Tucker moved up the last assembly in order to keep this date a University holiday in commemoration of the two great founders of this institution in its origin Washington and Lee, as everyone knows, dates from 1749. The present institution, however, received its first real impetus in 1789, when it was endowed by George Washington and formally authorized to bear his name.

The next formal Assembly of the Student Body is scheduled for Monday, March seventeenth. The speaker at that time will be Dr. Rollo Walter Brown, distinguished author, and former teacher at Carleton College in Minnesota, and Harvard. Doctor Brown was a professor of Rhetoric and Composition at Carleton, and a lecturer on English at Harvard. He is now devoting his time to writing and lecturing. He is the author of a number of books, among them being a life of Dean Briggs of Harvard, and "The Creative Spirit in America." Doctor Brown is now collecting material for a biography of General Lee.

Grapplers Are In First Place In Conference

Show Promise of Going Through Season With Clean Slate

DEFEAT GOBBLERS HARD MATCHES

Two of Eight Matches Go to Extra Periods; Score 23-11

The Generals' undefeated wrestling team moved further towards the realization of a "no defeat" season when they took the victory from V. P. I. at Doremus gym Saturday night by the decidedly impressive score of 23-11. This marked the third conference win for the matmen and placed them on the top in conference rating with three wins and no defeats.

Starting off the evening with time decisions in the 115 pound, and 125 pound matches, V. P. I. was then subdued and completely overcome in every other match on the schedule until Captain "Wee Willie" Davis again registered a win in the heavyweight division by throwing Mitchell.

Acting Captain Hall, 165 pound, maintay and undefeated matman for the Blue and White, continued his successive wins in one of the most exciting extra period matches of the evening by ultimately throwing his man. Belsler, 145 pound grappler, won by a fall in an extra-period match over Bailey. These two men fought four extra rounds last year, and the fight finally concluded in a draw decision.

The Generals' freshman squad also turned in a win over the V. P. I. freshmen by the score of 19-9, losing only the 135, 175, and heavyweight matches.

A summary of the meets follows:

Piltzer, V. P. I. won a decision over Stultz, 115 pound. Graves, V. P. I. won a decision over Nelson, 125 pound. Osterman, W. & L. won a decision over Mitchell, 135 pound. Belsler, W. & L. won

Generals Meet Duke Matmen Here Monday

Blue Devils Have Yet To Meet Conference Opponent

Tex Tilson, former Washington and Lee wrestling captain and Southern conference heavyweight champion, will bring his "Blue Devil" wrestlers here from Duke university Monday night with the hope of putting an end to the winning streak of the General grapplers.

Led by Captain Starnes, 135 pound conference champion of 1929, they come with a team that has as yet to engage in a conference meet, but which has been defeated by Princeton, Navy and Franklin and Marshall, all rated as being top-notchers in collegiate wrestling. Just what display of aggressiveness and versatility they may have in store for Coach Mathis' men remains entirely uncertain.

Besides Captain Starnes, Coach Tilson brings Gambol, 115 pound sophomore, and Perry, 175 pound matman, who have respectively succeeded Jones and Applewhite, 1929 conference champions. Besides these men other veterans compose the well balanced and experienced squad.

For the past three years Duke has defeated the Generals, turning the trick in 1929 by a neat 21-11 victory. This year Coach Mathis is prepared for a continuation of his winning streak in an effort to keep his record clean when he enters his team in the Southern conference tournament to be held at V. M. I. on March 7 and 8. To date all the matches have registered in the win column, and the Blue and White is leading the standing of the conference teams.

The regular line-up will start the matches, with the possible exception of Captain Kaplan, who is suffering from an injury that is likely to keep him on the bench for the remainder of the season. However, Davidson or Nelson, will be on hand in the event that he can't participate.

The matches begin at 7:30 o'clock in Doremus gym, with Hesmer, V. M. I. wrestling coach officiating.

STUDENT CARS MUST HAVE STATE PLATES

According to a regulation of the Director of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, all student owned motor cars must bear Virginia license plates.

This regulation will be enforced at once, and owners of cars bearing licenses from other states must see Officer H. B. Lee, the state inspector here, and make arrangements to procure Virginia license plates as soon as possible, an announcement from his office states.

Doctor Tucker Issues Report For Publication

Data Concerning Industrial Leaders Quoted in Assembly Address

Doctor Tucker has issued for publication the following report which he quoted in his recent address to the University assembly. The figures concerning the careers of some of the leading industrial figures of this country, were compiled by The Sherman Corporation of Industrial and Management Engineers of Boston.

College halls seem to have a decided edge on the little red schoolhouse as a training ground for industrial leadership. The careers of one hundred men who direct the destinies of many of the richest industrial corporations in the United States were studied as, presumably, being typical of the careers of executives in places of large leadership. Only twenty-two received a formal education limited by the walls of the red schoolhouse. Fourteen went on to a secondary school but did not go to college. Sixty-four attended college and three out of the sixty-four took advanced degrees.

The study was made in connection with The Sherman Corporation's researches into the present trend toward merger, after these merger researches had seemed to indicate that management leadership is the factor of limitation in merger successes.

Only four of the group are of foreign birth. Twenty-nine per cent are of rural origin. Forty per cent were born in cities of over 100,000 population. Seventy-one per cent originated in communities of 5,000 population and over.

The ages of the men studied indicate that from fifty to seventy are the years when large leadership capacities come to fruition. Only two men of the group are in the 30-40 year decade, further age grouping being, by decades: 40-50, 13 men; 50-60, 34 men; 60-70, 35 men; 70-80, 14 men, and over 80 years of age, two men.

An analysis of first jobs indicates that white collar beginnings just about break even with "blue shirt" beginnings. The largest number, in any one class of first jobs, is represented by clerking. One out of ten of the men rose in a direct line, that is, their positions today are the direct result of humble beginnings in the same company or in an allied line Law and teaching have contributed several leaders to industry, according to the study.

Plans For Co-Concert Are Under Way

Director of Hollins Glee Club in Lexington to Arrange Details

Preparations for the Glee Club's co-concert with the Hollins Club will get into full way tomorrow when Eric Rath, director of the Hollins choir, comes here to confer with Alex Vance, president of the Glee Club. The two will decide on the selections to be sung in the two concerts, one to be held here and the other at Hollins.

Vance has asked that all members of the Glee Club be at the meetings in the Y. M. C. A. rooms today and tomorrow at 5:10. Mr. Rath plans to be at Thursday's meeting and would like to speak to as many members as possible. Vance is working for more trips, but nothing definite has yet materialized.

The average college man's vocabulary is between 50,000 and 60,000 words.

Cagers Defeat Gobblers At Blacksburg

V. P. I. Loses Lead When Generals Unleash Brilliant Offensive

RED HANNA HIGH SCORER WITH 13

Williams Fails to Count From Floor During Contest

Led by Red Hanna, brilliant guard and floor man, the Blue and White basketball team won its tenth Southern conference victory in as many starts Monday night by defeating the Gobblers of V. P. I. at Blacksburg, 35 to 20.

The tall General guard was high scorer for the night with 13 points and led the Blue and White in a last half scoring spree which gave them the margin of victory over the Tech team. With Cox and Martin, General forwards, and Hanna heading the General's offensive play, the Gobblers were unable to take a lead in the game except in the first few minutes when they succeeded in getting two goals from the floor and a free throw only to have the Blue and White make it five all a bit later. With the score tied at the mid part of the first half Hanna dropped in a doubledecker to give the Generals a lead which was never overcome. The Blue and White was leading 15 to 12 at the end of the first period.

Hanna, Martin, and Cox got underway in the beginning of the second half to give the Generals a 10 point lead which was cut to seven when Zirkle, Tech center tossed one from the charity mark and Baker, Tech forward, sliced a corner shot for two points. Cox dropped one in for the Generals to Tech come through with a free throw and a goal from the floor to reduce the lead. The offensive combination of the Generals rallied again at this point and Martin, Cox, and Hanna dropped in field goals in quick succession to cinch the contest for the Blue and White.

Zirkle and Baker were the lum-

VPI Goblets Beat Freshmen 48-20, Monday

Brust and Crowl Lead Local Attack; Holbrooke Elected Captain

The Little Generals succumbed Monday night to the whirlwind attack of the Goblets of V. P. I. by a 48-20 count on their floor as a preliminary contest to the varsity encounter between the Generals and the Gobblers.

The Goblets, led by Hall, forward, who looped in eleven field goals and a free toss for a total of 23 points, jumped into the lead at the very first and were never headed by the local Freshmen quint. For the Baby Generals—Brust, forward, and Crowl, guard, led the local attack with eight and seven points respectively.

Paul Holbrooke, guard on the quint was elected captain immediately following the Bluefield game last Friday night. Holbrooke played with the Ashland High school team of Kentucky, before coming to W. and L. Last year this team captured the state championship and the year before were runners-up in the national high school tournament held in Chicago. Holbrooke has played a consistent game all year for the Baby Generals and was high point man against the Bluefield quint with 18 points.

This week-end the freshmen basketweavers journey to West Virginia where they will face Ronceverte on Friday night and Saturday take on the strong Greenbrier quint in Lewisburg. Jarrette, freshmen center was captain of the latter team last year. He has been out of the line-up for the last few games with a bad ankle but in all probability will be able to face his former teammates by Saturday night.

The freshmen have been working hard in preparation for these two contests. Coach E. P. Twombly will not be able to go with the squad on account of a swimming trip that swings northward. In all probability, Joe McVey, junior manager of basketball, will have charge of the squad during Coach Twombly's absence.

Tryouts For Troubadour Show Begun

Musical Comedy To Be Presented During Easter Holidays

The preliminary tryout for the Troubadour's Easter show "College Daze" or "Hershal's Horrible Hangover" was held Monday night, when the candidates for the female chorus were given a chance to show their ability. A number of aspirants appeared and some very unusual talent displayed. Several lead specialty dances were held Tuesday night and the talent which was displayed at this time.

This presentation will be a musical comedy, the work of O. J. Wilkinson, the author, and T. J. Sugre and B. E. Haley, who are composing and writing the words to the music. All of the working will be entirely original and is expected to be far better than anything shown here before.

As yet the cast has not been chosen so it is urged that anyone who has any sort of ability or experience in singing, specialty dancing, comedy effects or anything that might be worked into a musical comedy try out. Tryouts will continue to be held at the "Y" room each night this week.

Alumni Receive Appointments

Holt, Epes, Gregory Are Three of The Seven Justices

With the recent appointment of Judge Herbert B. Gregory, of Roanoke, to the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, Washington and Lee has the unique distinction of having three of the seven members of the court alumni of this University.

The other two justices are Henry W. Holt, class of '88, and Louis S. Epes, class of 1908. Judge Gregory received his degree in Law in 1911.

Judge Holt was given a C. E. at V. M. I. in 1886, and received his L. L. B. degree here with the class of 1888. He was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. From 1893 to 1896, he was judge of the Corporation Court at Buena Vista, and held a similar position in Staunton from 1900 until 1912. He has been Justice of the Eighth Judicial District of Virginia since until 1924.

Judge Epes took his degrees of M. A. and LL. B. here, graduating in 1908. He resigned a position on the Corporation Commission, to take his judgeship in the Supreme Court of Appeals. He was succeeded in the Commission by George C. Peery, an alumnus of the class of 1897.

Generals Face Blue Devils In Critical Game

Conference Lead Threatened in Invasion of Cameron's Team

THREE STARS ON VISITING TEAM

Werber, Crosson, and Councillor Are Duke Luminaries

Recent Southern conference rankings which gave the Generals first rank with ten wins and no losses for the season will be more seriously threatened tonight in Doremus gymnasium when the Duke Blue Devils meet the Blue and White than at any other time during the season.

The Generals with ten victories to their credit and no losses in conference games will be engaging the Blue Devils who are now in third place ranking with seven wins and only one loss which was to the Generals at Durham last month. The Duke team has been going at a fast clip all season and Cameron is bringing a team of basket-ball artists to Lexington tonight who are out to avenge their defeat earlier in the season as well as to prove to fans further south that the Blue Devils are capable of playing equally as good as they did in last year's southern conference in which they were runners-up to N. C. State for the conference championship.

Last week the Blue Devils blasted the hopes of the strong Davidson Wildcat quint for the North Carolina championship by turning them back 33 to 30 and later clinching the big five championship by defeating the North Carolina Tarheels 37 to 36. The Blue Devils added another conference victory in their play of the week by defeating the South Carolina Gamecocks 53 to 26. Loyola of Chicago was robbed of a perfect southern invasion last week by the Blue Devils who turned them back in Raleigh Thursday night.

Led by the giant center Crosson and the speedy Werber, guard and along with Councillor forward the Blue Devils have wrecked conference aspirations of every conference team in North Carolina. The Tarheels have bowed to the team from Durham twice this season and the conference champions, N. C. State, have been turned back in rather easy form by the Blue Devils. Early in the season Virginia and Maryland fell victims to the fast travelling Duke team. The Generals pitted Leigh Williams against the great Crosson at Durham last month and the General star outshone the Blue Devil pivot man in every department of play. Cox and Hanna were too much for Werber and Councillor to match strides with and the Blue and White succeeded in defeating the Blue Devils 33 to 29 in the biggest surprise of their season.

The same five which met the Generals at Durham in all probability will be used by Cameron tonight when his team take the floor. Crosson has been going great all season with the exception of his appearance against the Generals and should surely be in the line-up at center. Councillor and Rogers should be the choice of the Duke mentor for forwards. Werber and Farley have been working at the guard positions for the Blue Devils and may again face the Generals tonight. Williams should be in at center for the Blue and White and will fight it with Crosson. Cox and Martin or Barasch are most likely forward starters and Captain Ernie Wood and Red Hanna will be the choice for the guard positions.

WHO'S WHO

Stanley F. Hampton
Vice President of the Student Body

"Stan" is a senior in the academic school, and is from St. Louis, Mo. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta social fraternity, and Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Alpha Nu, Gamma Sigma Epsilon, "13" Club, and the Cottillion Club.

Aside from his duties as vice president of the student body, he is manager of baseball this year, and was president of the junior class last year. He served as one of the leading men in the Troubadours for three years, and has also been active in publication work.

The Generals, with ten Conference games won without a loss, face a hard test in the game with Duke University tonight in Doremus gymnasium.

BRING THEM HERE

An item in the Ohio State Lantern tells of Norman Thomas socialist leader, coming to that campus to speak before the class in Labor Legislation. Thomas was the socialist candidate for President in the 1928 election and is the secretary of the League for Industrial Democracy.

At the compulsory assemblies held here at Washington and Lee, the President or some one invited by him, delivers an address relating to a topic of general interest. These words are taken from the catalog of the University.

Many speakers have come here in the past to speak at these assemblies, but few of them have had topics that interested the student body. We may except Doctor Smith, Doctor Tucker, Dean Laing, J. Fred Essary, and General Lejeune, who held the attention of the students. At the average assembly one may see students reading magazines, newspapers, and even studying. They are there because they have to be.

An interesting speaker with an interesting subject has held their undivided attention in the past and it can be done again. Would not a man like Thomas, who although his political views may be at variance with those of the majority here, be an attention-getter? Could we not gain much from the stand he takes and the reasons for that stand? He is not an anarchist nor a communist but a suave and cultured gentleman who knows his economics and politics well and who knows how to present them to an audience.

Doctor Alexander Meiklejohn, who experiments in a new method of education have attracted great interest, was in Virginia last year. He spoke at Sweet Briar and Randolph-Macon over in Lynchburg, but he did not come to Washington and Lee. We do not know whether he was invited, but we doubt it.

At Carnegie Tech, attendance at such assemblies is not compulsory, although students are told that it is their "duty" to attend. If that were the plan used here, with the type of speakers we've had, it would not be an exaggeration to say that seventy-five per cent. of the students would stay away.

These assemblies could be worth much to the students. They afford a chance to hear leaders in world affairs, men prominent in fields beyond the campus. With the interest shown by the students today, that chance is missed. We believe that students would listen to the message of a well-known man in public life and gain something from what he offered.

It is not the aim of this editorial to advocate the bringing here of wild and sensational speakers but to urge that prominent men who really stand for something be secured. A mere gift for oratory can be found in the backwoods. Yet even that has seldom been present, and when it was, was often unaccompanied.

The students would listen to men like Thomas, Meiklejohn, Borah, LaFollette, Erskine, Mencken, Fosdick, and Grundy—because they are famous men whose views are interesting. Such men are secured for other colleges.

If the expense of bringing such men seems prohibitive would it not be better to have one really worthwhile assembly than three or four where students prefer to read the Saturday Evening Post rather than listen to the speaker?

HIS BIRTHDAY SATURDAY

The connection of George Washington and Washington and Lee is not too well known. In the United States are many institutions which bear his name, but one of which took it with his permission.

Every year the freshmen are told the history of their University. How it was established in 1749 as Augusta Academy, changed its name to Liberty Hall in 1782, to Washington Academy in 1798, to Washington College in 1813, and finally to Washington and Lee University in 1871.

The celebration of George Washington's birthday this week brings to mind the relationship of The Father of His Country and this University.

In recognition of his services to the country during the Revolution the legislature of Virginia, in 1784, presented him with a number of shares in a canal company. Washington refused to accept these for himself, but after some years, gave them to Liberty Hall Academy. In 1798, after the legislature had changed the name of the school to Washington Academy, and the trustees had gratefully acknowledged the gift, Washington wrote to the trustees expressing his gratitude. His letter contained the following:

"To promote literature in this rising empire and to encourage the arts have ever been among the warmest wishes of my heart, and if the donation which the generosity of the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Virginia has enabled me to bestow on Liberty Hall Academy—now by your politeness called Washington Academy—is likely to prove a means to accomplish these ends, it will contribute to the gratification of my desires.

"Sentiments like those which have flowed from your pen excite my gratitude, whilst I offer my best vows for the prosperity of the Academy, and for the honor and happiness of those under whose auspices it is conducted."

With the passing of canals, the income did not cease, as the right-of-way of the canal company was taken over by a railroad, and even today Washington's gift, made more than a century and a quarter ago, still yields an annual income of three thousand dollars to the University.

The donation made by Washington is the first important gift made to the struggling school which has grown into Washington and Lee University. Students should be not unmindful of their debt to the man whose birth we celebrate Saturday.

WHAT WE LEARN

One of the oldest jokes of collegiate circles concerns the man who went to college a freshman, pure and simple, and came home simple. Other pseudo-humorists have defined a college education as a four-year loaf, requiring lots of dough and a thick crust.

Sometimes we wonder what a man learns in college. And what he doesn't learn. A writer for the N. E. A. Press Service has compiled a few statements that are of interest in this connection:

"I can solve a quadratic equation but I can not keep my bank balance straight.

"I can name the Kings of England since the War of the Roses, but I do not know the qualifications of the candidates in today's elections.

"I know the income theories of Malthus and Adam Smith, but I can not live within my income.

"I can explain the principles of hydraulics, but I can not fix a leak in the kitchen faucet.

"I can read the plays of Moliere in the original, but I can not order a meal in French.

"I have studied the psychology of James and Tichenor, but I cannot control my own temper.

"I can recite hundreds of lines of Shakespeare, but I do not know the Declaration of Independence, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, or the Twenty-third Psalm."

Well, we know plenty of people, who never went to college, that can't either.

VIEWPOINTS

By Barton

THERE IS QUITE some talk about discarding "The Star Spangled Banner" and introducing a new national anthem in the United States. It might be well for American citizens to learn the words of "My Country 'Tis Of Thee" before the new song is instituted. They've had 98 years to learn three verses; most of them now know the first verse. If plans to inaugurate the new anthem materialize, we may be singing it pretty well by 1985. The words might be tattooed on babies at birth. By the time they're old enough to sing in public, they probably will know the song well enough to be spared the embarrassment of mumbling or humming, or of singing with voiceless lip-formations, like a star in talking movies.

A SURVEY MADE by Columbia university has brought to light the interesting fact that the scholastic average of basketball players at that institution is higher than the average of participants in any other major sport. Football players had the lowest average, the survey showed. The average of basketball players, although highest in major sports, was below that of the student body as a whole. Averages were compiled on a basis of 9:45 for the student body. Basketball teams rated 8.93; crew, 8.91; baseball, 8.76; track, 8.56; and football, 8.32. Several minor sport teams averaged higher than the general average of the student body: freshman tennis, varsity swimming, freshman and varsity rifle-shooting, and freshman fencing.

THE HIGH SPOT of the wrestling match with V. P. I. was when a janitor ascended a perilously shaky ladder to fix an electric light. (The writer has just been told that is a pretty poor joke, but he's going to let it go, anyway.)

NOW THAT the mid-winter dances are over, fraternity initiations ended, and the Glee Club has had its picture taken, there won't be much need for tuxedos until Easter when the shiny lapels will appear again. Speaking of shines, there will be six fewer at the next set of dances according to the Dance Control Committee.

THE MAYOR of Lynn, Massachusetts, has issued a decree that no girl over twelve years of age shall appear on the streets of that austere community exposing her knees, "dimpled or otherwise." Our guess is that he has seen too many of the "otherwise."

"DID YOU KNOW," asked a contemporary columnist, "that a society has been formed with headquarters in Washington to suppress religious prejudice?" They claim that the defeat of Al Smith can be traced directly to this evil. Well, well, well.

What Other Editors Say

RATING SPORTS

With boxing and wrestling in the spotlight of winter sports, the question of major and minor athletic activity pops up again. It has been asked before, editorially, just what distinguishes a major sport from a minor one. The fact that many of the country's leading institutions, including certain of the state's Big Four, have to a large extent discarded a distinction has been pointed out. The matter of such a change at V. P. I. might well be considered.

After seeing some of the recent boxing and wrestling meets, one could hardly say that participants in these sports do not require an abundance of skill and strength, or that they do not receive their share of physical punishment. V. P. I.'s boxing and wrestling teams are representative of the institution as surely as are the football and basketball teams. Very frequently, also, the boxing and wrestling teams make appreciably better records and thus increase V. P. I.'s athletic prestige more than do the so-called major sport teams. In view of this it seems that wrestlers and boxers have just recently, in comparison, been given a chance to win a minor monogram on the meets participated in, rather than by points alone.

The condition at V. P. I. may be simply a result of failure to break away from the old traditions that the four long-established sports are the only major ones. This idea, however, is possibly doing an injustice to some of V. P. I.'s athletes, and, if so, necessitates correction.—Virginia Tech.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT

It is with regret that we read in the paper the other day that Chief Justice Taft had been forced by ill health to resign from the Supreme Court. He has a long and illustrious career in the political history and judicial history of the nation. He has held the highest executive position that the American people have to offer a man—that of the Presidency of the United States. After serving his country in this capacity he then became head of the Supreme Court, the highest judicial honor in the land. In both offices he has served the country ably and with much credit to himself. President Taft had a quiet, peaceful administration marked by no unusual occurrences, but it was a term that helped the nation step forward in the march of progress. But it is not as President that we will remember him, but for the work that he did as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United and energy the docket of the Supreme Court was practically cleared up—a condition that has not been apparent for many years. There is probably no man living in this country today who has held so many positions of trust and honor in the national and state governments. His warm, ready smile will always be remembered by those who were fortunate to have seen him. We hope that his illness will be cured by a long and complete rest which he has needed for so many years.—Vanderbilt Hustler.

AN AMATEUR AUDIENCE

We know that in professional baseball it's an old American custom to "raze" the umpire. But we did not know that the college audience had definitely made up its mind to sink to the level of the professional audience. Certainly such hissing and booing of the officials as took place at the game Friday night cannot be construed as anything else.

To say that the hissing and booing of a college audience is justified merely because it is an evidence of mob spirit, is no justification. Such an excuse may be sufficient to justify the spirit of the conduct at a professional baseball game. But to attempt to justify the spirit of a college crowd by comparing it to the spectators at a professional exhibition, is to say that we expect no more of college athletes than we do of professional performers.

We doubt if there are many among the group who boo and hiss that would boo and hiss in the same manner if they were sitting in the bleachers alone. The protection of a crowd is not the protection that is sought by the type of men who are playing. It is not the spirit of anyone who has either any regard for the school or for its reputation.

The exhibition last Friday night was not as bad as has occurred at other times. The spirit during the whole season has been more friendly than in some previous years. But that is no reason for spectators to indulge in even a small amount of poor sportsmanship. Incidentally, descending to the baser aspects, it is entirely permissible for the officials to allow the visiting team a free throw for actions of the home crowd.—Silver and Gold.

AS A DEAN SEES IT

Vindicating the college man of the day, Dean Max McConn, of Lehigh University, presents in a recent article, "Tired Business Men of the Campus," an explanation of the present university system as it is viewed by most of the persons enrolled in educational institutions today. Dr. McConn portrays the working of the fraternity system. He then comes to the support of these organizations to show that their members are industrious. He says:

"These multiform outside activities are educational in a very high degree. The students themselves realize this fact and insist upon it, with an almost pathetic insistence, to the usually deaf ears of deans and professors. Indeed these students maintain that their own activities are more important educationally than their studies—that they, in their own phrase 'get more out of them' more training of mind and character than their books afford."

Dean McConn says that mature alumni minds are coming to this same opinion, and he also has become convinced that the students' claims are right.

"The older type of higher education relied almost exclusively on one instrumentality, namely, learning—book learning. . . This assumption was probably true of most of the students who went to our American colleges a hundred years ago; and we must not overlook the fact that it is true today of a considerable number of our present students. But the great majority of the new hordes are simply non-plussed and bewildered by the higher learning—and intolerably bored.

"What they (present students) admire and wish to emulate are those qualities of character and mind which make for practical success in the adult world of business and organization. They perceive clearly enough that these are the qualities and capacities that will bring jobs and promotion.

"As I said before, they are quite right. They have found a new instrument of education, admirably adapted to their purposes and capacities; and with all the energy of ambitious youth they will proceed to train themselves therewith, disregarding as far as practicable the obstructive curriculum still sponsored by the faculties but designed for other purposes and capacities than theirs.

"The fraternities have become the stronghold and chief agency of the new majority education. This new pedagogical instrument is their great and significant gift to colleges." These statements of the Dean are particularly interesting because students today hold these same ideas, but have never been quite able to present them forcibly to their parents and advisors. At least the situation is presented as it really is. If it is not right the reformers must get busy.—W. Va. Athenaeum.

GENERAL GOSSIP

If Holbrook, frosh guard and center, could play the floor and shoot like he takes the ball off the backboard there would be many opponents singing his praises.

On the northern swimming trip there was only one substitute taken. Haven Walton, a back stroke artist was the lone substitute and it is very unlikely that he will swim in any of the five meets.

Harris Cox has received the monicker of "Atlas" from his teammates due to his tendency to hold the ball above his head like Atlas holding the world aloft before shooting the ball through the meshes.

When Lafayette journeys southward this spring to meet Washington and Lee on April 3 here, the Easton, Pa., nine will be the strongest that has represented the institution in some time with three veteran mound stras in the cast.

Harry Lippen, crack Virginia hurdler, may not go undefeated if he competes against Speer and Finklestein very often. It is the two indoor meets both men have almost turned the trick. Finklestein would have a better chance in the low hurdles rather than the high timbers.

At this stage the battle for second base on the varsity nine will be waged between George Jenkins, a veteran, and Everett Cross, frosh keystone guardian of last spring. Jenkins is a flashy fielder but weak at the plate while Cross is steady both in the field and with the stick.

Crosson, Werber, and Councilor of the Duke Blue Devils are all from Washington and are setting the southern conference afire with their antics on the hardwoods. Werber and Crosson were selected on the All-tournament team last year while Councilor made the second team.

Comparative scores mean little but we can gain some idea of the Alabama cage team's strength by doing so. Washington and Lee beat Sewanee 35-30; Tennessee beat Sewanee 38-26; in turn Tennessee was held to three field goals by the fast traveling Crimson Tide while the Alabama sharpshooters were running rampant.

While the game gets little notice from the papers, nevertheless there are a great number of "suicide" players around the school. Lamkin, Schuchart, and Bowers may be seen around the gym almost every afternoon. Lamkin may do the varsity some good next year if he continues to connect like he has been doing of late.

A few track records in the Southern conference are not to be jeopardized by Paul Hydrick sophomore football and track star of Tennessee, who has withdrawn from the Knoxville institution. Hydrick scored one of the touchdowns against Washington and Lee last fall at Roanoke, and was almost sure to rock the discus and pole vault records this spring.

Graham—Lee Debates "Pros"

Society to Discuss Carnegie Report; May Change Membership Rules

Plans for several changes in policy were presented last Saturday evening at the regular meeting of the Graham-Lee society. Among the changes contemplated is one in reference to the qualifications for membership. It is proposed that a more select method be employed in the selection of new members than now in vogue. In the course of events at the regular meeting D. J. Wise presented a summary of current events, M. J. Montague and V. Brantley recited poetry, and W. M. Burdette gave a report on the London Naval conference. Several short talks were given on various subjects by W. D. Hoyt, H. B. Busold, and K. L. Keil.

Looking into the future the society decided to have a debate on March 1, concerning a subject which has come up for much discussion and criticism during the past few months with the publication of the famous Bulletin 23 of the Carnegie Foundation. It is Resolved: That colleges be allowed to spend money in order to secure athletes.

Eleanor Holm, diminutive Brooklyn swimming star, competed in her first national championship meet only eight months after her first start in competition and took second place in the breast stroke.

Football Men Working Hard

Oberst Plans Radical Changes in Line-up for 1930 Team

Coach Oberst and his football proteges are fast forming a squad of men, new and old, and are already planning and working for the 1930 season. With the added material furnished by the freshmen to those varsity men who will be back next year, Oberst is working on new plays and the perfection of the Rockne shift.

Several varsity men are still participating in winter sports but will return to the squad as soon as their work ends there. Oberst is contemplating some radical changes to go into the making of the 1930 team. Several of last year's backfield men may see service in the line.

The squad is meeting on the field when the weather permits and in the gym and field house for lectures and light workouts on cold days. The spring practice will start in earnest as soon as the winter sports come to an end and the weather permits.

Cummings '24, With C. and P. Telephone

John A. Cummings, B. S., 1924, has just been appointed Sales Supervisor for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone company of Virginia with headquarters at Richmond. Cummings entered the Accounting Department of the company at Washington in 1924, and later held the position of Junior Traveling Auditor. Still later he took up work in the Commercial Department and was appointed Assistant Manager in the Roanoke business office of the company.

While at Washington and Lee Cummings held the Franklin Society scholarship, was on the Mink staff and the varsity wrestling team.

PROF. LYLE ILL

Prof. William T. Lyle, head of the engineering department, has been confined to his home since Saturday with a slight case of influenza.

His doctors have advised him to stay at home, rather than to expose himself to the weather conditions, and allow more serious complications to set in. It is expected that he will meet his classes on Thursday.

Generals Tie Ala. For Lead

Washington and Lee Cage Team Has Not Lost a Game in the State

Washington and Lee, as well as being in a tie for the lead of the Southern conference basketball championship with the University of Alabama, is leading the other teams of the state by virtue of six impressive victories.

The General cagers have won two victories over Virginia, and one each over Bridgewater, Richmond, William and Mary, and V. P. I. They have not lost a state contest. Randolph-Macon is second among the state teams with six victories and one defeat W. & M. is third in the standing with seven wins to their credit, but have also had three setbacks in the chase for the Virginia championship.

The individual scoring honors go to Woodson, of Randolph-Macon, who has piled up 136 points. Leigh Williams, W. and L. center, is in second place with 167 tallies. Harris Cox is close behind his rangy team-mate with 161 points.

Other leading scorers are: Carter, E. & H., 135; R. Brown, V. M. I., 125; Moore, E. & H., 117; and King, R.—M., 117.

CORRECTION

In the article on church activities among students and faculty members, which was carried in Saturday's issue, it was erroneously stated that Page Tredway was president of the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church.

H. T. Jones, another student, is the president, and Tredway holds no office in and has no connection with the organization. The Ring-tum Phi regrets the error.

Malone's Men Lose 4-3 and 5-2 on Northern Trip

The Washington and Lee boxing team fell before the mitmen from Catholic university and Georgetown on Saturday and Monday nights by the score of 4 to 3 and 5 to 2.

In the first meet with Catholic U., Coach Malore's men were handed a 4-3 defeat, after the Hilltoppers had forfeited the heavyweight bout, and had retaliated this homage by securing two technical knockouts over the 155 pound and 175 pound men. The only men to register wins for the Generals were Slosberg and Robison, each obtaining a decision.

At Georgetown, Robertson, 115 pound, and Captain Black, 135 pound, were the only winners for the Blue and White. The former won by a decision and the latter won by a knockout in the first round. All the remaining fights went to the Washingtonians by decisions, the final score being 5-2.

Probably the best bout of the evening was that between Slosberg, 125 pound, and his inter-collegiate champion opponent, the decision finally being handed to the Georgetown puncher.

Generals And Alabama Lead In Conference

Monday's Report Shows Kentucky and Duke Third and Fourth

The Generals, with two conference wins for the week, and the Crimson Tide of Alabama with one conference victory, were in a first place tie for conference leaders in the southern conference rankings for the week as announced Monday.

The Blue and White had a close one last Tuesday night at Charlottesville but finally eked out a 36 to 34 decision from the lowly Cavaliers to keep their slate clean. Maryland hoped to wreck the Generals, who were playing without Leigh Williams, star center for most of the game, but were unable to hold the Generals to but a 36 to 21 score.

The Crimson Tide's only conference foe for the week was the Gobblers of V. P. I. who fell before the Alabama team 38 to 23.

The Kentucky Wildcats struck up to third rank by defeating the University of Georgia team 36 to 23 in Lexington Friday night. This win gave the Wildcats a record of seven wins and one loss for their conference play of the season.

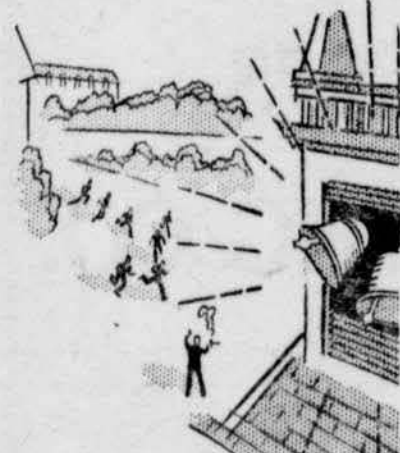

The Duke Blue Devils continued their winning ways during the week by trouncing the South Carolina Gamecocks 53 to 26 and cinched the State championship Saturday night by defeating the North Carolina Tarheels 37 to 36. The Blue Devils are credited with seven wins and one loss for the season.

The Tennessee Volunteers held their fifth place standing with five wins and two losses and remained inactive in conference play during the week.

The Sewanee Tigers came back strong in defeating the Vanderbilt Commodores, 40 to 35, and shoved Georgia out of sixth place in the ranking.

The team standing as of Monday:

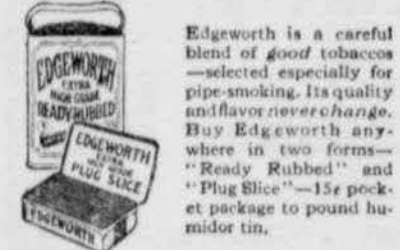

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington & Lee	9	0	1.000
Alabama	9	0	1.000
Kentucky	8	1	.889
Duke	7	1	.875

Injuries to the Tech team. The former played a splendid floor game for the losers while Baker dropped in three goals from the floor and one from the free throw line to give him high point honors for Tech.

Hanna was the Generals' bright light, both on the offense and defense. The lanky guard garnered high point honors for the game with six field goals and a free throw to give him 13 points. Leigh Williams, General center and scoring ace was forced to the background by the work of Hanna, Cox, and Martin, his teammates. The Blue and White pivot man failed to score for the first time this season from the floor and was credited with three free throw points.

Track Team Places Third At Virginia

Varsity Wins Two Firsts, Freshmen One, in State Meet

Saturday at the sixth annual indoor track meet held by the University of Virginia in the Memorial Gymnasium at Charlottesville the Washington and Lee freshmen and Varsity teams both finished third in their respective classes in fields of about ten teams from Virginia and surrounding states. The varsity gathered most of its points by winning the mile relay and the victory of Sheppard in the quarter mile run while the freshmen's only first place was in the high jump when Curtis won that event with a jump of 5 feet, 10 inches.

The high spot of the evening was furnished by Flippin, captain of the Cavaliers, and Speer, lanky hurdler wearing the Blue and White. The entries in this event were so numerous that each man had to run three races before the final heat was held. In the final heat the men broke the gun but as the supply of bullets was exhausted the starter was not able to call the men back. Consequently Flippin went tearing down the stretch followed only by a lone man from North Carolina. He ran the entire distance but was called back and the race was rerun, this time Speer and Finklestein, the two Washington and Lee men who had reached the finals, got into it.

In the second running of the finals the finish was so close the judges had a hard time picking the winner as was the case the last time these two men got together.

In the quarter mile Sheppard ran an excellent race to beat the field and win the first race of the evening for the Generals. The General's star middle distance man started off with a rush and led the entire distance. In the last lap Sheppard uncorked a brilliant finish to stave off several threats with a William and Mary man close upon his heels.

The mile relay team had things its own way in winning that event in slow time. Sandifer, the Blue and White captain led off and finished so far ahead that his team mates, Dickey, Broderick, Sheppard, in that order, did not have to extend themselves to hold their lead.

The freshmen's star performer was Curtis, who won the high jump. A team mate, Rivers, a newcomer to the ranks, tied for second place with a Virginia man.

The relay team of the freshmen bowed to Virginia in the last ten yards but beat North Carolina and last year's freshmen winners, William and Mary.

Midwinters Held At VMI This Week End

"Carolina Tarheels" Engaged to Play For Dances at Institute

"Midwinters" will be held at V. M. I. Friday and Saturday, February 21 and 22, according to Al Hawkins, President of the Hop committee. Three dances will constitute the set, two formals and one dansant.

The "Carolina Tarheels" have been engaged to play for the dances. Decorations will carry out the theme of George Washington's birthday. Festoons of red and white will be hung in the gymnasium.

In accordance with the agreement made between the Executive committee of the student body and the Hop committee of V. M. I., seniors of Washington and Lee will be eligible to attend these dances. Members of the first class attended Fancy Dress Ball.

Rumors that the dances were to be postponed seem to be without foundation, according to the O. D.'s office at V. M. I. A telephone call last night brought the following: "If they have been postponed, we don't know anything about it"

Works On War Among Recent Library Books

"Coronet" by Komroff Also Included in New Acquisitions

Several outstanding books are among the many new volumes recently acquired by the library. One of the most reviewed novels of the day is "Coronet," by Komroff, a story of the failure of aristocracy as an ideal in civilization.

Descendants of those who suffered in Sherman's march may wish to know what a renowned critic of war thinks of his tactics. To be found in Liddell-Harts "Sherman." Students interested in forming their own libraries should avail themselves of the recent publication of a one-volume edition, limited, of C. A. and M. R. Beard's "The Rise of American Civilization."

Amid the recent outburst of war novels, one stands alone. Mary Hamilton's "Three Against Fate," is not a tale of trenches, but of what happens to a man when he returns home after a war. It is one of the most penetrating studies in existence. A runner-up for "All Quiet On The Western Front" will be "All Our Yesterdays," by the author of "Gallion's Reach."

A life of the sculptor of the recumbent statue of Lee in the chapel here has also been acquired, called "Dawn To Twilight," by Valentine.
