Candidates For Office Make Final Requests

Assembly Is Climax Of One Of Most Hotly Fought Campaigns

EIGHTEEN MEN ARE IN RUNNING

Record-Breaking Ballot Freely Predicted For Tomorrow's Election

A climax to one of the most hotly contested general elections Washington and Lee has ever witnessed will be reached tonight at the customary political rally to be held in Doremus gymnasium at eight o'clock. Eighteen candidates for office will make a last appeal for support, reiterate their platforms, and pledge to the student body that, if elected, they will carry out the duties of their office to the best of their ability. Persons other than candidates will have the privilege of addressing the rally if they wish to do so.

Candidates are again reminded that their first expense account must be handed in to the executive committee before six o'clock tonight, and another statement of expenses submitted by nine o'clock Thursday morning. The expense for cuts in this issue of the Ring-tum Phi is being borne jointly by the candidates and the paper. The candidates' share of this expense does not have to be entered on the required expense account.

Any number of predictions have been advanced as to the number of men who will go to the polls, but the general consensus is that the largest vote ever cast at a Washington and Lee election will be polled tomorrow. The record vote of 1928 was broken by one ballot last year when 789 men indicated a choice in the general elections.

No change or additions in the list of candidates has been made since the last issue of the Ring-tum Phi. Six offices are opposed and six men are running unopposed. None of the opposed offices have more than two men running, whereas three candidates for secretary-treasurer of the student body ran in last year's elections. All publication offices are unopposed with the exception of editor and business manager of the Ring-tum Phi.

The number of men running unopposed lacks one of last year's total when seven offices were without competition. Students are reminded, however, that every candidate must receive a majority of the votes cast in order to be elected, whether the office is unopposed or opposed.

Last minute "politicking" will take place after the rally, and political "bosses" will be up till the wee hours of the morning directing final efforts for their candidates. New cards will make their appearance the morning of elections, and "rounding up" parties will be out in cars getting students who have been slow in reaching the polls.

The polls will be open at Lee chapel from 8:30 until 2:30 tomorrow. A new ruling of the executive committee prohibits the passing out of cards in or in the vicinity of the chapel. This rule will eliminate the litter of cards which was always left in the chapel and outside on the campus and sidewalks. The executive committee will be in charge of the polls and will count the votes.

Opposed offices with the candidates are: For President of the student body, O. J. Wilkinson and T. B. Fitzhugh; Vice-president of the student body, Algy Speer and Fred Barron; Editor of the Ring-tum Phi, John Barger and Henry MacKenzie; Business Manager of the Ring-tum Phi Harry Burn and Morton Levy; and for President of Fancy Dress, Bill Tallyn and Bev Lambert.

Unopposed candidates are: for Editor of the Calyx Bill Thomas; Business Manager of the Calyx, John Devine; Editor of the Southern Collegian, Jim Crane; Business Manager of the Southern Collegian, Bob Louis; President of Fancy Dress, Charley Day; and for Head Cheerleader, Stuart Sanders.

In listing the many benefits of prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League should exploit the fact that it makes congress much more interesting.—San Diego Union.

NO SOFT JOB

Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, the president-elect of the University, was a welcome visitor to the campus this week. He made an extremely favorable impression upon all those who were privileged to meet him on his informal visit some time ago and as he meets more Washington and Lee men, he will increase the already large number believing that the trustees chose the best man for the position.

There are many college students and more outsiders who have the idea that the life of a university president is "easy." They picture the president as a man who has to do little beyond speak at assemblies, send out bulletins, and present diplomas. The college president does more than this, as many will testify. The position calls for great executive ability, superhuman tact, abundant energy, a winning and powerful personality, and a Job-like patience.

Washington and Lee has been a most fortunate University in having presidents who excelled in these points. Lee was the greatest but he had worthy predecessors and successors. Dr. Henry Louis Smith, now President Emeritus, was such a president and Doctor Gaines has been selected as one admirably fitted to succeed him.

The president's job is a trying, tiring, and difficult job. We know some of this by observation and some by logic, but we have it all graphically pictured for us by an article in "Time" which retells a story as written by Dean Max McConn of Lehigh for the current North American Review. Dean McConn draws a picture of the college president as a harrowed executive plying a "dangerous trade" and holding down "a man-killing job." He outlines a sample day in a president's life:

"When he arrives at his office at 9:30 the architects are waiting for him with plans for the new botanical greenhouses . . . an enlarged swimming pool . . . a new set of roads and walks on the South Campus. All of these projects will cost more than previously estimated, but surely in view of their obvious desirability the president can find the money.

"Next comes the alumni secretary with the preliminary layout of a drive for an additional ten millions of endowment.

"Then perhaps the dean slips in with a particularly nasty case of student discipline, a case which must be handled firmly in the interest of student moral, yet discreetly if the name of the university is not to be smirched.

"After the dean Assistant Professor Jones, with the double purpose of pleading for an increase in salary and sowing a few innuendoes against the head of his department, whose responsibilities, it may be inferred, could be infinitely better discharged by Professor Jones himself.

"Jones is eventually thrown out, but is promptly succeeded by the director of athletics, with a subtle plan for so handling Sub-Freshman Day that it will attract the largest possible number to seek that end or drawing animadversions from the Carnegie Foundation.

"Meanwhile the president's secretary has brought in the morning's mail, including, beside seven questionnaires and ten advertisements of new educational treatises which no college president should fail to read, a request from a magazine editor for his views on the Younger Generation, three complaints from parents of the faculty instruction and unjust treatment their sons are receiving, two explosions from alumni who are rabid because the team lost the last big game, and a postal card from 'A Citizen and Taxpayer' denouncing the whole institution as a sink of iniquity and a breeder of irreligion and sedition.

"And all the time the poor president has been hoping against hope that he might get at least an hour this morning to tackle the tremendous job of assembling the annual budget. But now he must hasten away to the monthly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce and must make up his speech as he drives over, because last night he was entertaining a distinguished visiting lecturer who did not have sense enough to turn in until 1 a. m."

Further bewailing the lot of the college president, Dean McConn said that all of his assistants are "his own creatures, his own appointees . . . his yes-men, as are likewise the professors." And Dean McConn deduced that the strenuous life of the college president accounts for the fact that "within the preceding nine months (November report) 55 colleges and universities made changes in their highest executive officer . . . Since there are only about 750 colleges in the country, these changes represent a turn-over of 7.3 per cent in nine months. Surely this is an alarming rate of academic mortality."

Suggested administrative expedient to ease the college president's burden: "a board of twelve; six members of the faculty, elected by the faculty; three honor seniors, elected by the class; and three alumni elected by the alumni association."

Perhaps now we can appreciate what our former presidents have done and what Doctor Gaines will face. Any one who has seen and heard him feels that he is competent of caring for all his duties, large and small, with an energy that completes tasks, with an ability to complete them well, and with a tact that leaves everybody content and working together.

WRESTLING, A GOOD SPORT

We read in the Tulane Hullahaloo that intercollegiate wrestling will make its debut in that section of the country April 21, when a mat team representing Louisiana State University meets Tulane at Baton Rouge.

While Tulane and L. S. U. are the pioneers down there, it is expected that Georgia Tech, and Alabama will sponsor wrestling within a year.

Wrestling has taken a high standing in the institutions that make up the northern sector of the Southern Conference and we prophesy that its popularity farther South will gain rapidly. We are glad to see that colleges in that section have started the sport.

The sport is one of the best. To the uninitiated the game has not the appeal that other sports have because it is so highly skillful. A wrestling match may seem slow to those people who do not understand the intricacies of the game's maneuvers. But even for those who do not know the game thoroughly there is a strong appeal—that of witnessing hard, straining, and strong physical combat. The ancient Greeks knew the sport and loved it. The modern intercollegiate game is one of the best in the catalogue.

Professional wrestling is interesting but has lost any chance of ever reaching the heights of professional boxing. Charges and occasional proofs of crookedness have been largely responsible for its failure as a profession.

But intercollegiate wrestling has none of these defects. It is a healthy sport in which to engage and an interesting one to watch.

The success and popularity of the sport at many colleges and particularly at Washington and Lee, V. M. I., V. P. I., North Carolina University, N. C. State, Duke, and Virginia is an indication of what might be expected were all the institutions in the South to adopt it.

VIEWPOINTS

By Barton

TOMORROW NIGHT will be a night of intense emotion. At Washington and Lee the campus will be the scene of profound feeling; Washington and Lee men will experience every sensation. There will be extreme happiness; intense desolation.

For, tomorrow night, the student body will have made its choice in selection of representative officers. Weeks of work, hours lost from sleep; plans, hopes, ambitions of an entire college career may be realized in victory, or crushed in defeat. Eighteen men face what, to each, seems a crisis in their college life.

So, after all, your vote does mean something; it may mean much more than you ever will know. Certainly, you may know that you're not voting for mere politics, nor for a mere office. When you go to the polls Thursday, think just how important your one vote is; just how much it may mean to so many persons other than yourself.

THREE CHICAGO motion picture theatres have notified the Chicago League of the Hard of Hearing that they will install equipment enabling deaf persons to hear talkies. The next step may be installation of equipment rendering talkies inaudible to that great army of persons with perfect auditory apparatus.

A PROFESSOR of Physics at Princeton university predicts that humans will develop some means of attaining speed of 50,000 miles an hour before the 21st century is very old. Such momentum, he explains, is necessary if we are ever to reach the moon. If we are ever fools enough to go that fast, we certainly go right on by the moon and through the Pearly Gates.

TWO PUGNACIOUS pups nearly spoiled Mr. Morton's opening prayer at the assembly Tuesday. They met under the temporary stands, and a few low growls broke the silence. With bristling necks and stiff legs they were about to make some real noise when students pulled them apart.

"SANTA CLAUS brought triplets — all girls — to Mrs. J. J. Riley. Alexander Jamie, chief of the Washington prohibition unit, has been in personal charge of the investigation with a dozen undercover agents brought here from all parts of the country," says a Pennsylvania paper. It would seem a little late for action by a prohibition unit.

What Other Editors Say

THE MARRIAGE RULE

It seems strange, doesn't it? Folks can now get married while attending Baylor University. A six-year old prediction has come true, for in 1924 a statement was published from the University of Texas commenting on the marriage rule of Baylor.

This statement gave the opinion that Baylor would sooner or later lift the marriage ban. The author of the statement cited references to incidents in student life where marriage was beneficial. According to the author, a number of cases had been brought to attention where students doing poor work in school entered the state of matrimony and began to improve decidedly in scholastic attainment.

When a student becomes of college age he or she naturally and instinctively in that period of life when the seeking of a life mate is a matter of great importance and concern. Much attention is taken in courting, and the time spent in "campus" would go a long way toward increasing efficiency in scholarship.

We do not know what motives prompted the lifting of the ban, but authorities doubtless considered the above facts. Then, too, it seems that public and student opinion opposed the marriage rule.

Courting on the campus will probably take on new meaning now. The restrictions on marriage being lifted the Romeos and co-eds will realize that it is not all in vain, and that they can tie the knot just any old time, instead of having to wait two, three or four years.

All right, Cupid, get busy—Baylor Lariat.

HONOR STUDENTS

Today the honor student received his recognition. There were no cheering thousands to acclaim his achievements, nor were there any student demonstrations in honor of his success. But the dignified approval of Chancellor Lindley, Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, and other men like them is more significant than the enthusiastic plaudits of a group governed largely by the rules of mob psy-

Election Cards Asking Votes Clutter Halls

Cards, cards, cards, pink cards, blue cards, yellow cards, thick cards, thin cards, plain cards, fancy cards, small cards, large cards, and blotter cards have their annual visit. "So and so would appreciate your support for such and such," they declared.

There are about 22,500 election cards in circulation on the Washington and Lee campus, in the fraternity houses, in the dormitories, in the boarding houses, and in the rooms. If all these were gathered together in one place and put one on top of the other they would make a tower twenty feet high if the wind didn't blow it over. They would cover the entire campus so that one could see no grass for the numerous impromptu support Mr. X.

There are more cards in the dormitories than any other place. Many boys have a collection of election cards stuck in the edge of their mirrors. Others are pasting them in souvenir books. One boy, whose brother made a collection several years ago, is collecting them for the purpose of comparison.

And the varieties of cards. One voter made the crack the other night, "I'll vote for the man who puts out the prettiest card." Of course the politician laughed at this feeble jest because it might mean a vote. One candidate for dance leader gave a card in the form of a program. Several candidates distributed blotters to fit in check-books, a very convenient size. One candidate put out a small card which, appearing at breakfast tables all over the University, gave morning greetings.

The waste matter of the dormitories was greatly increased by the election cards. Each morning no less than 750 cards are swept up from the floors of Lee and Grasham and deposited in the ash can. One of the janitors said that the cards were a nuisance because they made the broom slide and fail to get the dirt.

The election cards made their first appearance on the tenth but it will be some time before the last card disappears.

Chology.

Recognition as an honor student means more than that a student has a certain amount of brain fiber. It means that he has accomplished something through perseverance, concentration and rigid self-discipline. Many students who never make the honor roll probably are endowed with just as great natural talents as those who do, the difference is simply the difference in application to the task before them.

Is it not, then, probable that the students who have succeeded in applying themselves to their tasks when in school will be the ones who will be most capable of concentrated application in mature life? Indeed it is highly probable that in the serious business of life, the honor student will still be leading us. Hail to the honor student, then! Although we do not acclaim him with rallies and cheers, let us at least thank God there is someone in this world who is willing to concentrate on the serious business of life.—Daily Kansan.

LIP FUR

Every campus has its traditions which are held sacred by the student body. Most colleges and universities have means of enforcing these traditions in no gentle manner.

Purdue is no exception as far as having the traditions go, and it is also supposed to have ways of enforcing them, namely: the Gimlet club, and Reamer club and the Student council.

Apparently these organizations are not functioning as they should, for we have noticed, among other infractions of the campus rules, a great number of freshmen and sophomores wearing mustaches. We remember that last year, a campaign was started against the wearers of high school sweaters on the campus. Men were posted at all the gates and chaps who tried to enter clad in the tabooed garment were told to go home and take them off.

It seems to us that the time is now ripe to launch a campaign against the wearers of facial adornments, and we look forward to the Gimlet and Reamer clubs and the Student council to take the initiative.—Purdue Exponent.

Button down collar attached
Shirts of Fine Oxford

The button down collar attached shirt is now enjoying a wide vogue and is increasingly popular with practically all types of well dressed men. Eastern university students have adopted it as practically the standard on-campus shirt and frequently wear it with the collar pinned as well buttoned down. In the fine quality of Oxford cloth in which we present it, it is an ideal sport shirt for all types of men.

GENERAL GOSSIP

Richardson, who has been leading the General batters since the early part of the season in the matter of hitting the apple, saw his average take a slump when he failed to connect on six official trips to the plate.

Everett Cross, batting in ninth position, hit .500 per cent against the offerings of the Carolina hurdlers with three safeties out of six attempts.

If the dope runs true to form Washington and Lee should defeat Virginia today without much trouble as North Carolina defeated the Wahos last Saturday 8 to 5.

Either Williams or Wilson will be on the mound against Virginia as Coach Smith sent his two aces in against the Tarheels of Carolina Monday.

Visiting teams leave Washington and Lee with great respect for the rifle-shot arm of Monk Mattox. The General catcher takes great delight in seeing an opponent get on the paths and then flagging him down at the keystone sack.

The frosh had a scrimmage with the varsity Saturday and the big Generals had a tough battle getting a 7-6 decision over the little Generals. Methvin started on the hill for the frosh followed by Painter and Blakemore. Schuchart did the throwing for the varsity.

Everybody got a chance in the frosh-varsity battle even Malone, Oberst, and Coach Smith got into the fray. Captain Dick wore the red and white uniform of the St. Louis CARDINALS which he just received from Branch Rickey.

"Red" Phillips threw the javelin in the North Carolina State meet for the first time he had ever been in actual competition and hurled the spear 140 feet beating several of the Wolfpack representatives.

Last year in the Virginia game Gene White was on third and April, Wahoo backstop, decided he didn't like the ball that the teams were using and threw it into the dugout, allowing White to score. He accidentally threw the ball game away for Virginia as the final score was 4-3.

24 Participate In Annual Handball Tournament In Gym

Twenty-four men are participating in the annual handball tournament now being conducted in the gym. Although handicapped by the inadequate court space, the matches are being run off in fast order. To date, seven of the preliminary rounds of singles have been played and two of the first rounds are over. This leaves just two more first round matches before the semi-finals and final matches. Players competing in the singles are: Evans, W. A. Bowes, Brown, Robinson, McDill, and Grashorn.

As soon as the single matches are completed, the contestants will begin play in the doubles, for which pairings and drawings have already been made. They are as follows: C. A. Bowes and W. A. Bowes versus Bigham and Jahncke; Brooks and Stevens, by; Chapin and Black versus McDill and Grashorn; Evans and Brown versus Mike Palmer and Shumate; Luft and Waxburg, by; Malone and Hoffman versus Broadus and Len Davis; Wright and Venable, by; Mitchell and Merrick versus Liebowitz and Fred Palmer.

Meet Will Be Held Saturday With Richmond

Strong General Varsity and Freshman Teams Meet Spider Trackmen

The University of Richmond will send both its varsity and freshmen track team here on Saturday to engage in a dual meet with the Generals, who have yet to lose a meet this year. The Spiders have lost two meets this season, taking second place in a triangular meet on their own field with Lynchburg College and Hampden-Sidney, and losing to Wake Forest in a dual meet.

The Spiders have suffered from the loss of several letter men of last year, and their star, Onesty, has been laid up with an injury received during basketball season. Richmond papers report that the Spider freshmen have two fast sprinters, but are weak in the quarter and the half as well as the hurdles. The baby Generals have a strong team this season, having already downed a strong Staunton Military Academy contingent by a comfortable margin.

Williams was unable to show his best stride last week in the meet with North Carolina State on account of injuries in his leg. These are now healed and he is in good shape. The showing of the weight men last week was very encouraging. They won every event but the shot put.

Coach Fletcher is planning to start the meet earlier than usual to accommodate those who may wish to leave town for the holidays.

Plans Formed For Successor To Old YMCA

New Organization Formed by Faculty Is Called 'Christian Activities'

The Washington and Lee Y. M. C. A. which is now no longer in existence, as a result of a decision made by the faculty board of advisors recently, has been succeeded by a new organization called "Christian Activities."

The old policy of the 'Y', a traditional and inherited institution, was that of an organization looking for something to do. The new "Christian Activities" supplies a means of organizing to do something when it needs to be done. The faculty advisory board will continue to direct the new organization, and Munsey Gleaton, director of the former Y, to direct the new "Christian Activities," is retained. His work will be to make an intensive study of what religious activities need be pushed upon the campus.

"Christian Activities" will continue to bring to the University the best speakers to be obtained. Plans are already being made to insure the securing of several of the most noted authorities in the United States for next year. The organization will also conduct the freshman camp, as before. Some form of religious worship, for university students, will be held in Lee chapel next year, the service being made as beautiful and attractive as possible.

Vocational counselling will be the great aim of the new organization, with the assistance of the faculty committee, now at work upon it. Dr. Flick at the head of this committee.

The board of advisors consists of Professor Gilliam, chairman, E. S. Mattingly, treasurer, and Dr. Howe, Dr. Shannon, Dr. Hoyt, Mr. Paul Penick, Professor Houston, Dr. Tucker, and Professor Latture.

Seventeen of Cleveland's thirty-seven players are former college stars.

In listing the many benefits of prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League should exploit the fact that it makes congress much more interesting.—San Diego Union.

C. & O. Railroad Puts In New Schedule Of North Bound Trains

On March 30 the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad put into effect a new schedule on passenger trains between Staunton and Washington which affects students of Washington and Lee who travel north. The train leaving Staunton at 11:17 a. m. was especially convenient for those going to Washington and beyond because the Baltimore and Ohio train and the bus from Lexington made close connections.

Under the new schedule this train leaves Staunton at 10:18, but the bus and train leave Lexington at 9:35 and 9:20 respectively, as formerly. The result is that the only way to reach Washington by leaving here in the morning is to go by automobile to Staunton or by bus all the way to the city. The trip on the bus takes about one and a half hours longer, but costs less.

The train leaving Washington for Staunton at three in the afternoon has not been changed. Students have been asked to notice this, as Easter holidays are next week and a considerable number going to Washington and New York and other points, might be inconvenienced due to planning according to the old schedule.

Half Of Finals Money Obtained

Final Drive for Subscriptions to Start After Easter Vacation

Although barely half the necessary money for the 1930 Finals has been subscribed so far, no further work on collection will be made until after the Easter holidays. R. K. Sutherland, president, has announced. The unusually active political campaigning carried on for the last two weeks has caused the members of the finance committee to pause in their efforts.

Another plea has been issued for delinquent subscriptions. All men who have not paid yet are asked to have their money ready upon their return from the Easter holidays when the finance workers will again call on them.

There will be no additional copies of the invitations ordered, Sutherland said. The only order that will be made will be sent Saturday and all who have not posted the number they desire will not be able to get any later.

Work on the decorations, while it has been considerably retarded on account of a scarcity of freshmen, has been going on daily. Fraternities have been asked to work out a schedule for their freshmen whereby each fraternity will have at least two working every afternoon. No work is done on Saturdays and Sundays but the regular afternoon work will be held tomorrow and resumed next Thursday.

Williams made only two hits in the doubleheader with North Carolina, but they were hits that really counted and won the second game.

Williams And Atwood Lead To Two Wins

Generals Take Doubleheader From N. C. U., Monday, 10 to 2 and 7 to 6

LOCAL BATTERS GET TOTAL OF 20 HITS

Six Home Runs Are Knocked In Heavy Day Of Batting

Featuring Leigh Williams and Tom Atwood in outstanding performances the General baseball team defeated the North Carolina University nine in a double header Monday on Wilson field. In the first contest, with Atwood on the mound, the Generals earned a 10 to 2 victory. The General hurler was given excellent support by his team-mates and limited the Tarheel nine to four hits while the Blue and White hit safely ten times. The second game saw Leigh Williams relieve Radford on the mound with the score 5 to 1 in the visitors' favor. The lanky General hurler stopped a Carolina hitting barrage and won his game by clouting two home runs in his last two trips to the plate. The final score was 7 to 6.

Atwood worked well on the mound in the first game, being nipped for only four safeties and those being well scattered throughout the game. Luffy, North Carolina third sacker, hit a home run in the first game to give them a lead which was soon overcome when the Generals got on to Fleming for six runs in the second inning. Five singles, two doubles, two triples and a home run by Hanna completed the Generals' bat work in the first game.

The Tarheel team showed renewed life in the second game and hit Radford freely to gain a 5 to 1 margin at the end of the fourth. Williams relieved Radford and held the scoring down to one run in the remaining five innings. With the Carolina nine four runs ahead at the beginning of the fifth the General hurler and first baseman started a hitting spree by clouting out a long home run which was followed by six singles to give the Generals six runs in the inning.

Williams led the batting order in the sixth and hit the first pitched ball for another homer to end the General scoring for the day.

The General batters secured twenty hits in the two games while the Carolina nine got thirteen safe blows off Atwood, Radford and Williams. Six home runs marked the hitting for the two frays. Twelve errors, four by the General players and eight by the Tarheels were registered in the play of the afternoon. Two doubles and two triples, all by General players, made up the extra base hitting besides the home runs of the two contests.

A Last Minute Request

Today and tomorrow students will hear many last-minute requests not to forget certain candidates. May we add one more such request, one that is not made in behalf of anybody's candidacy but for the best interests of the University? It is this—vote for the men you think are best qualified.

When men like Doctor Farrar, and the alumnus who wrote last week's open letter to the student body, ask you to refuse to follow orders as to how you shall vote they are not preaching disloyalty to your group but loyalty to your University.

If you vote for the men you, yourself, consider the best you are serving your University and yourself. After the election you can feel a sense of pride that your individual vote was cast as you thought best, that it was your vote and yours alone.

The right of franchise is sacred and every man should take pride in his voice in the government. This is as true in a student election as any other. Let no man nor group dictate how you shall vote and you and the University will be the winners no matter who is elected.

Gaines Speaks At Banquet Of Phi Beta Kappa

President Elect of the University Here for the Initiation of 16 Men

Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president-elect of Washington and Lee, spoke at the Phi Beta Kappa dinner Monday night, and attended the initiation ceremonies preceding the dinner.

Commenting upon the general conception that intellectual attainment is incompatible with vigor of personality, the speaker made a plea for education which results in capacity to appreciate as well as that which results in capacity to command. The latter gives to life its power; the former brings richness of personality coupled with charm and grace in the pure art of living. The power to command which is the basis of Phi Beta Kappa recognition makes the scholar, sensitivity of appreciation makes the gentleman.

Dean H. D. Campbell presided at the dinner. E. S. Graves, senior in the academic school, was the first speaker. He gave a response on behalf of the incoming group of student initiates.

Other speakers were Mr. W. R. McCain, of Hartford, Conn., and the Hon. J. H. Price, of Richmond, Va., both of the University.

The students initiated at the meeting were D. B. Cook, D. C. Eberhart, E. S. Graves, B. L. Rawlins, R. C. Ammerman, J. R. Roberts, J. P. Lynch, R. E. Clapp, M. H. Kaplan, C. I. Lewis, A. M. Harvey.

The alumni who were elected to the society are Col. W. D. A. Anderson, of Mobile, Ala.; C. T. Chenery, of New York; R. A. Lewis, Jr., of Chicago, Ill.; W. R. McCain, of Hartford, Conn.; J. H. Price, of Richmond, Va.; R. H. Spahr, of Flint, Mich.; L. T. Wilson, of Annapolis, Md.; and Samuel Young, of New Orleans, La. Mr. Young was unable to attend the meeting.

Article Given To Periodical

Stories on Dr. Smith and Dr. Gaines Sent to Review of Reviews by Ellard

The journalism department of Washington and Lee received a letter some time ago from the Review of Reviews magazine, requesting an article on Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, Washington and Lee's new president, and the retired president, Dr. Henry Louis Smith. The story was written and forwarded by Professor Roscoe Ellard, head of the journalism department here. Since then a letter has been received from the magazine stating that the story was exactly what was desired and that it would be published in either the May or the June number.

The article consisted of an outline of the life of Doctor Gaines, his schooling, and his educational experience. Doctor Smith's career as an educator and scientist was described as well as the remarkable progress that the University made under his guidance. Authorization of the statement that Doctor Smith was one of the first scientists in the country to use the X-ray for surgical work was presented.

The Review of Reviews is well-known as a monthly periodical which gives a summary of the current events of the world and public opinion on matters of national importance.

Great Ovation Given Gaines by Student Body

Speaks on "The True Significance of the Campus Experience"

STATES LOVE FOR NATURE OF SCHOOL

Accumulation of Knowledge Only a Part of Life of Man at College

Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, who will assume his position as president of Washington and Lee University next year, was greeted with an enthusiastic reception by the students at the assembly on Tuesday morning.

Doctor Gaines addressed the student body for the first time at the assembly, discussing his "convictions of a program of possibilities for Washington and Lee."

As a general topic, he chose "The True Significance of the Campus Experience." He mentioned a certain school of thought that believes through the increasing number of modern correspondence schools, and other means of spreading information such as the radio and libraries, that colleges will eventually go out of existence. In this way we would lose the significance of the campus and some of the most invaluable elements of education.

On the campus men are offered the influence of personal contacts, the chief compensation of life. By contact with the various types of students they are fitted by the campus experience for the swirl of fellowship of men.

An opportunity to live in a pattern of a wider world is found in campus life. The self-control and freedom indispensable to tomorrow's men are developed by self-government in college. Here we learn a higher civilized life in gracious, courteous, and friendly living.

The campus experience further teaches men discipline in the establishment of life's loyalties. College spirit is actually training in devotion to group ends rather than one's own ends.

In closing Doctor Gaines said that he "loved the nature of this school, its emphasis and objectives"; that its future would be insured if personality is exalted and friendship has its full play, if the boys govern themselves in a rich and full student life, and if they may have discipline.

When asked to comment on his visit, Doctor Gaines said, "I am grateful for the courtesy, thoughtful and generous shown to me by every member of the faculty and student body. The visit has been delightful in itself and has greatly encouraged me for the future relationships."

Tennis Team Is Victor In First Match Of Year

Hampden-Sidney Beaten 4-5 in Match Played Here Saturday

Captain Gooch led his racquet-ers to victory in the initial tennis match of the season with a 5-4 victory over the team from Hampden-Sidney, here Saturday afternoon. This marked the beginning of the most difficult schedule any tennis team representing this university has ever engaged. Beginning with play at home, the netmen will launch a campaign that will not only carry them to the courts of some of the most outstanding southern universities, but will carry them to the lots of many eastern schools that undoubtedly have the most outstanding netmen in undergraduate teams.

This week-end Coach Williams' men will invade the University of Virginia courts, and on the following week end, will begin their eastern trip which will keep them away for a week's stay with matches every day.

The results of the meet with Hampden-Sidney Saturday follow: Singles; Thomas, H-S, beat Gooch, 6-2, 6-3; Talbot, H-S, beat Shields, 6-4, 8-6; Humphrey, H-S beat Pilley, 9-7, 6-1; Bready, W. and L. beat Sloan 6-2, 6-2, 6-1; Cox, W. and L. beat Thomas 6-4, 2-6, 6-4; Paulette, H-S beat Clapp, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Doubles: Bready and Gooch, W. and L., beat Sloan and Thomas, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4; Pilley and Shields, W. and L. beat Humphrey and Talbot, 9-7, 6-3; Cox and Clapp, W. and L. beat Paulette and Thomas, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Final score, 5-4.

William Brown Made President Of New Atlantic University

Dr. William Moseley Brown, former professor of psychology here and last year a candidate for governor of Virginia, was recently named president of a large university to be established at Virginia Beach which will be known as Atlantic University.

Foundations for the two buildings which will form the first temporary unit of the university are being laid and plans for the other buildings will soon be submitted to contractors. Doctor Brown has announced that at the start ten departments will be established, each with a full professor.

Members of the board of the new university are: M. H. Blumenthal of New York, chairman; F. F. Bradley, of Chicago, vice-chairman; and T. B. Brown, of Dayton, secretary. Others announced thus far are E. D. Blumenthal, of New York, Edgar Cayce of Virginia Beach, D. E. Kahn of New York, W. R. Ashburn of Virginia Beach, and Doctor Brown.

FRESHMAN NIGHT COMING FRIDAY

The annual Freshman Night will be held Friday, according to an announcement made yesterday by W. H. Hawkins, president of the Freshman Council.

No painting of walks or buildings will be allowed this year and freshmen will keep away from the grounds of the Virginia Military Institute. The only painting that will be permissible will be the annual coat to be given to the wooden statue of George Washington atop the Washington 'College building.

The freshman class will be held accountable as a whole for any violations of these rules and any individual action necessary will also be taken, Hawkins stated.

Routin Gets Pass To Show From Daves

"Big Island" Routin, who scored four hits out of eight times at bat in the double-header with N. C. U. Monday, is the current holder of the pass given by Ralph Daves, manager of the local theaters.

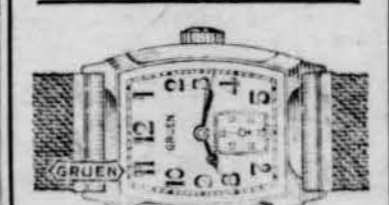

Each year Daves offers a pass to the baseball team, to be held by the man who secures the greatest number of hits in a game. This man holds the pass until the next game when it is given to the player who leads his team in that one.

The pass changes hands often and has already been in the possession of five men on the 1930 team.

Students Begin Holiday Exodus

Classes to be Resumed at 8:30 Thursday Morning; Cuts Count Double

With many students already departed, last plans and preparations are being made by the remaining students for the Easter holidays which start Monday, with classes resumed at 8:30 Thursday morning. Because of the discontinuing of the annual Easter dances this year, few students are expected to remain in Lexington during the vacation. The decision not to hold the dances this year was brought about by the poor attendance during the past few years.

Students leaving early or returning late are warned to watch out for the rule governing cuts before and after holidays which states that "four days before and after, cuts count double in so far as being placed on probation is concerned, but shall count only as one absence in so far as quality credits are concerned."
