

Generals Lose When Wildcats Make Comeback

Kentucky Scores 19 Points in Final Quarter to Win 33-14

THIBODEAU, MATTOX STAR ON OFFENSE

Holstein, Sub Center, and Tilson Look Good In Line

Staging a great second half comeback, the Generals swept down the field to score two touchdowns to tie the score at 14 all, only to have Kentucky come back to score three touchdowns in the final quarter, to defeat a fighting General team by the score of 33-14 last Saturday on Stoll field, Lexington, Ky.

The Generals put up a great game against the heavier Kentucky eleven and fought them to a standstill except in the last quarter when the locals were battered down after fighting an uphill fight all during the game. They couldn't keep pace with the fresh men that Kentucky sent in. Coach Oberst left three regulars at home when he departed for the Wildcats' lair. Herb Group, varsity center, was unable to go on account of his bad shoulder. Gene Martin is now on the disabled list with a bad leg injury received when the line rod stabbed him in the leg when he fell over it Wednesday. Collins, fullback, received two broken ribs in the West Virginia game and Mattox was taken despite a deep gash on his eye, also received in the West Virginia game.

The Generals first marker came at the beginning of the second half resulting when Faulkner recovered Kelly's fumble on Kentucky's 35-yard line. Unable to make first down, Faulkner punted out to the one foot line. Phipps for Kentucky, then punted out to the 30 yard line. Mattox tossed Thibodeau a pass which was good for 20 yards and a first down. This carried the ball to the five yard line where Thibodeau scored on a fake reverse play around end which caught Kentucky flat-footed. Mitchell place-kicked the extra point.

Not to be out-scored the Generals came right back to score another touchdown. Faulkner got the best of an exchange of punts and Phipps and the locals had the ball on the Cat's 40 yard line. A pass from Mattox put the ball on Kentucky's eight yard line where Mattox carried it over on the third attempt on an off-tackle play. Mitchell again place-kicked the extra point. The score stood 14 to 14.

Kentucky scored their first two touchdowns in the first and second quarters. The first came as the result of a 59 yard sprint by Kelly, the Cats star half, who proved poison to the Generals all the way through the contest. Their second marker was the result of a fumble recovered by Rose of Kentucky on the local's 42 yard line. A series of plays put the ball on the one yard stripe where Spicer took it over. Phipps, and Spicer featured this drive.

The fast wearing Generals succumbed to Kentucky's attack in the last quarter when the Cats pushed over three touchdowns. Mattox had to be removed from the game. Kelly intercepted a pass on his 50 yard line where several plunges took it to the 35 yard line when Cavana, end, received a long pass from Kelly for a score. They scored again when Kelly returned a punt to the 11 yard line, but the General forward wall held for downs and Faulkner punted out to the 30 yard line where Kelly returned it for 22 yards and later scored on an end run. The last touchdown was secured when Phipps fumbled on the ten yard line and Spicer recovered it over the local's goal line for a touchdown.

For the Generals, the work of Thibodeau and Mattox in the backfield showed up and the defensive work of Holstein and Tilson on the line. Faulkner's punting was outstanding. One of the kicks soared 75 yards. Coach Gamage of Kentucky remarked "that Holstein played the best game at center that he had ever seen played by any man." Holstein sifted through the Kentucky forward line and threw the backs repeatedly for losses ere the game started. The tackling of Tilson also was excellent. Mattox received a great ovation when he left the field and his offensive and defensive playing was super-

James Fort Newton And Other Speakers To Talk This Year

James Fort Newton, regarded by many people as this country's foremost preacher, will be the first speaker of note on this year's Christian Association program.

This speaker was pastor of City Temple, London, England, for four years, and had as his associate pastor A. Maude Royden, the famous woman preacher of Great Britain. He will probably speak in November.

Francis D. Miller, Washington and Lee, '14, who received degrees also at Oxford, will speak the first week in December. At present he is the president of the World Student Christian Federation.

Other well-known speakers scheduled to appear here are Jack Hart, University of Pennsylvania chaplain, and Buel Trowbridge, connected with Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

Satan's Trial Stirs Interest

Famous Dog Will be Tried for Life Wednesday Morning

The case of Satan versus the Municipality of Lexington continues and on Wednesday morning Satan will go on trial for his life.

On account of the interest that has been taken in the dog by the senior law class, a stay has been granted Satan. Two members of the class last week interviewed H. Crim Peck, mayor of Lexington, who, according to the students, stated that Satan was vicious and would be killed for this reason.

Mr. Peck's latest statement, however, is that whether Satan has rabies, or whether he does not have rabies, will be the point on which the animal's life will hang. The latest statement has no reference to the previous one. Recently Satan got into a fight with a dog, and true to form, came out the victor. However, Officer Mason, of the police force, shot the beaten dog who it was claimed had the rabies. The dog's body was cremated without an examination being made. A warrant was then sworn out asking that Satan be killed.

Due to the fact that such a great deal of interest has been aroused, it may be necessary to hold the trial in larger quarters in order to accommodate the large number of students who are planning to attend.

South's Teams Proving Power

Georgia, Vandy, Kentucky, Tulane Among Best in Country

The Crimson Tide of Alabama has upset early season predictions by rising to the top of the Southern Conference standings. By rolling up a score of 18 to 6 over Tennessee, Alabama not only made history by giving the Vols their first defeat in four years, but proved that they have a line that will stand up against that of any team in the country.

Vanderbilt's victories over Minnesota and V. P. I. by decisive margins are also impressive as both Minnesota and V. P. I. have since proved that they are unusually good teams. The former held "Pop" Warner's mighty Stanford eleven to a scoreless tie, while the latter was turning back a fighting William and Mary team by the score of 7 to 6.

Kentucky and Tulane seem to have teams good enough to win the Conference if they don't hit a slump. Florida and Georgia Tech are both undefeated in the South but neither team seems to have the flash and power that has been shown by Georgia, Alabama, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, and Tulane.

In the Virginia standings, Washington and Lee and Virginia are on top, each with three victories and no defeats in state games. Monk Mattox added six more points to his credit by scoring a touchdown against Kentucky in Saturday's game, bringing his total to thirty-six.

First Cast Of Journey's End Picked Monday

Fitzgerald, Holden, Jones, Lamar, and Newland Selected

FORMER STUDENT DESIGNS SCENERY

Several Out of Town Trips Besides Local Production Planned

The first cast for the Troubadours' fall production, "Journey's End," was selected at a rehearsal held yesterday afternoon by A. U. Moore, director. The ability and past experience of the men chosen are such that at the present time it is impossible to designate them for specific parts as each is capable of representing more than one character. Mr. Moore said, "I feel that I have assembled some good men that ought to be able to produce an excellent performance of "Journey's End."

Those chosen to start active rehearsals are G. R. Holden, H. L. Fitzgerald, J. F. Jones, B. R. Hill, R. B. Sale, W. C. Johnston, W. C. Newland, and W. C. Capel. These men will be assisted by others who will be selected at a later date. Fitzgerald, Holden, Jones, Lamar and Newland have had one or more years of experience in previous Troubadour productions while the others come to Washington and Lee with good records. Johnston, of Richmond, Virginia, was in the dramatic society at Worcester Academy in Boston. Sale, of Pelham, New York, was active in the presentations of the high school there, and Capel appeared in several productions given by Morris Hill Junior College in North Carolina. "Journey's End" will be given in Lexington on the Wednesday after Thanksgiving. Both a matinee and evening performance are planned. Arrangements with Colonel Moseley, the faculty adviser of dramatics at V. M. I., are almost complete for the presentation before the cadets. Plans for presentations in Lynchburg under the auspices of the Little Theatre and the Sock and Buskin Club at Randolph-Macon are under consideration. A trip to Hollins College may also be made.

The designs for the stage effects and scenery are under the direction of a former Washington and Lee student, William Munford, who is a specialist in this line of work. Records have been secured from the Photo-Phone Company, a subsidiary of the Victor corporation, to provide the necessary noises heard on battlefields during raids. Colonel Dixon, of V. M. I., has assured the Troubadours of his cooperation in the selection of uniforms and other military equipment.

The complete redecoration of the Lyric Theatre as a University Theatre is also being contemplated. A combine of the Troubadours, the Glee Club, the Christian Activities department, and some other town organization may be made so that entire control of the new Lyric Theatre may be assumed.

If the theatre has been redecored by Thanksgiving, "Journey's End" will be given there.

Duke, Wahoos And Tech Win

Three Future General Enemies Are Winners in Games on Saturday

Washington and Lee fought the strong Kentucky eleven to a 14-14 tie throughout three quarters, only to see their efforts go for naught when "Shipwreck" Kelly and his teammates ran up three touchdowns in the final quarter. It was, however, the worst scare the Kentucky team has had in its Southern Conference standing, of which it is a powerful member, and favored by some to win the title.

Next Saturday St. John's comes to Lexington with a strong team, and their strength will not be underestimated. The University of Maryland and V. M. I. both hold victories over them, but by the bare margin of one touchdown.

Homecoming Day will witness an old rival, and should be a gala day for the returning alumni.

Compulsory Assembly

At the request of the Executive Committee of the student body, Doctor Gaines has called a regular student assembly, to be held in the gymnasium tomorrow morning at 11:30.

The regular schedule for assembly days will be adopted for morning recitations, with the bells ringing at forty-five minute intervals. The usual schedule for the afternoon classes will be followed.

Buccaneers to Furnish Music For Informal

North Carolina Orchestra to Play at First Dance of the Year

The Carolina Buccaneers have been signed to furnish the music for the first Cotillion Club Informal dance. The band has played at Washington and Lee before and has been well received. They played at one of the informals last spring and gave a very good performance. The students who heard them after the Hampden-Sidney game in Roanoke were very well pleased with their work.

The arranging for the official band of North Carolina University to play, completes the plans for the dance, according to C. H. McMillan, president of the Cotillion Club. The dance will start at quarter of nine, after the reception in the Library. The admission will be $1.50.

The dance will climax one of the most eventful and important days in the history of Washington and Lee. The inauguration of Dr. Gaines in the morning, followed by the luncheon and the football game completes the program for the day. Many of the people who will be in Lexington for the ceremonies are expected to attend.

The girls from Hollins and Sweetbriar will invade Lexington for the first time this year. Arrangements for them have been completed. The dances of Washington and Lee are known throughout the South as being the best college dances. And according to those who are in charge of the Informal, this one will be no exception to the rule.

Swimmers Wait For More Rain

Twombly's Tankmen Already Have Three Opponents on Schedule

With three teams already scheduled for the varsity swimming season, Coach "Cy" Twombly is hoping for more rain. The pool is dry at present and will not be filled until there is a sufficient water supply.

William and Mary, Virginia and Duke will be the first three opponents for the Washington and Lee swimmers. On February 7, the Blue and White tankmen will meet William and Mary. It has not been decided where the meet will be held but it is expected to be here. Four days later, February 11, the University of Virginia swimmers will journey here for a meet in Doremus gymnasium. There is also a meet pending with the Duke Blue Devils, but the location of that meet has not yet been decided.

Coach Twombly is not certain just where the Southern Conference tournament will be held this season but Washington and Lee will be among the entries.

With 18 men reporting daily for cross country work until the pool is filled, Twombly is confident of a strong team. John Ericson, a former student of V. P. I., is one of the strong contenders for a berth on the team. At present he is assisting "Cy" Young with freshman football and will not be able to report for practice until the football season is over. Fall track is also holding three men from reporting to Twombly.

Among those turning out for daily work-outs are Stapleton, Rivers, Moreland, Nichols, Edwards and Harris. All these men saw service last season. Rudes and Zachary, who were both out of school last year, are also reporting daily.

Twombly remarked yesterday that "the weakest points would be the backstroke and the breaststroke but that we would improve in free style this season."

Valentine, Lee Sculptor, Dies After Illness

Studied Under Leading Sculptors of France, Germany and Italy

MODELED STATUES DURING CIVIL WAR

Artists Frequent Visitors to His Home in Monroe Terrace, Richmond

Edward V. Valentine, famous on the Washington and Lee campus as the sculptor of the "Recumbent Statue of Lee" in the Chapel, died in his apartment in Richmond Sunday, after an illness of several months. He was 91 years old.

His death ended a career the fame of which spread not only over Virginia and the United States, but throughout Europe. His immortal "Recumbent Statue of Lee" in the chapel brought art and history lovers from all parts of the world to view the marble splendor of the sculptured Southern chieftain.

Mr. Valentine was born in Richmond on November 12, 1838. His early academic education was under the direction of tutors. In his early teens he attended the Medical College of Virginia where he studied anatomy. He worked in oils under Hubert, an English artist who was then living in Richmond, and also under the German, Oswald Heinrich, with whom he studied perspective.

In September 1859, he left for Europe to study and until 1861 studied under Couture, of Paris. He then studied in Rome, Naples, Milan, and in Florence where Bonauiti was his teacher. After his stay in Italy he went to Berlin where he worked with August Kiss. While in Berlin he received four pictures of General Lee. From these he modeled a statuette of the Southern leader which was sold in Liverpool for the benefit of the Southern cause.

He returned to Richmond in 1865 after the death of Kiss and opened up a studio in his home. Later he moved to a remodeled old stable where worked daily until 1910.

His rise to fame was rapid and his "Recumbent Statue of Lee" is conceded by art critics to be the most perfect recumbent in America. Mr. Valentine, however, considered his "Andromache and Astynax" which is in the Valentine Museum in Richmond as his masterpiece. His statue of Jefferson Davis dominates the Davis Monument in New Orleans and his statue of James J. Audubon cast in September 1908 is in Audubon Park in the same city.

Mr. Valentine's fame was recognized not only in America, but was recognized as one of the world's leading sculptors. To his apartment in Monroe terrace came all the distinguished artistic visitors to Richmond for many years. His apartment was a veritable art gallery of rare objects and his study book shelves contained a notable collection of lore on Richmond and the State.

Little General Point For Virginia

Lattice Constructed In Front of Coal Bin

The University has recently completed the construction of a lattice in front of the coal house.

By this piece of construction one of the worst eyesores of the rear campus has been removed. The appearance of the power house and environs has been greatly improved.

Another improvement made in the rear campus is the covering of the back road with material from the road back of the chapel which was removed upon the construction of the continuation of Letcher avenue to Jefferson street. This last improvement is temporary and the road will in time be surfaced.

With the purpose of establishing a center of instruction and study with a view to introducing scientific methods in a field heretofore left to the teachers of gymnastics, the University of Paris has created an Institute of Physical Education.

Two Debators Will Face Scotch Team Here November 10

The work of the Debating team is progressing well. Of the four remaining candidates, two will be selected to debate against the team from Scotland. Ross Malone, James Moore, Kempt Jennings and Thomas Davenport are all well qualified to bear the brunt of the attack but only two of these will have the honor. The team will be picked on Wednesday night.

The team is glad to announce that Dr. Gaines will act in the capacity of chairman during the coming debate with the Scotch. The debate will be held in Lee Chapel on November 10.

The question for debate is: resolved that in the interest of society, severe punishment is the best way to reduce crime. The Washington and Lee team will debate in the affirmative.

The team from Scotland is composed of several of the most outstanding scholars of the British Isles. All of them are noted in politics of their country and are among the foremost in education.

Band To Make Debut At Game

New Organization Now Numbers Between Forty and Fifty Men

The recently organized Washington and Lee band under the direction of professors Mapel and Shelley will make its debut for this year at the General-St. Johns football game on Wilson field on Saturday afternoon. Previous plans to play for the inauguration have been given up by the organization.

The reorganized band of the University held a rehearsal yesterday afternoon under the direction of its new leaders and will continue with rehearsals each afternoon this week until Saturday when the initial appearance will be made. The new faculty directors report splendid progress with the musical organization and while the time for the first appearance is earlier than they had planned, they hope to give a good performance.

The band now totals between forty and fifty members and contrary to the previous bands most of the members can play with some degree of efficiency on their instruments. Dr. Shelly reports that uniforms have been ordered for the organization and that only those of merit who will practice diligently will be held as members and given uniforms.

Professor Mapel, faculty director with Dr. Shelley, states that the band is doing well with the consideration of the small time they have had for practice since the organization and that with the rehearsals scheduled every day of this week that the organization will give a splendid account of itself in its first appearance. He urges that every member do his utmost to attend practice daily in preparation for the appearance at the game Saturday.

Little General Point For Virginia

The Little Generals, with almost two weeks left before their next game with the University of Virginia freshmen on October 31, are spending this week in hard practice.

Coach "Cy" Young was very much pleased with the improved showing of his charges in the Bluefield College game and also with the great offensive strength they displayed in scrimmages with the varsity last week.

Galyon and Wilson have been out with injuries, but Galyon should be in condition in a few days. Wilson, whose shoulder was badly torn in the Bluefield game, will not be able to play for three or four weeks. Either Rosenberg or Falk will fill the fullback position in the game with Virginia.

The Virginia frosh, who defeated the V. M. I. rats 18-6 last Friday, should furnish the Little Generals with plenty of opposition. Following the Cavalier game the yearling gridders will play Maryland and V. P. I. freshmen on successive Fridays.

Program Plans Complete For Inauguration

Installation of Dr. F. P. Gaines Starts Saturday with Assembly

J. W. DAVIS WILL SPEAK FOR ALUMNI

Luncheon, Football Game, Dance, Complete Social Activities

The program for the inauguration of Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines as president of Washington and Lee here Saturday brings to Lexington nearly a dozen nationally-known figures as speakers, and more than 200 persons of note as representatives of education and educational institutions of America.

Full Inauguration Day plans were made public today by Dean Henry Donald Campbell, chairman of the committee in charge of the occasion. These plans include inauguration ceremonies Saturday morning, two luncheons at noon, a football game in the afternoon and a reception and dance at night.

Delegates from nearly 150 American colleges and universities in academic dress will participate in the procession which will officially open Saturday's activities at 10:45 a. m. In this procession will be the President of the University, the rector of the board of trustees, the governor of Virginia, speakers for the occasion, trustees of Washington and Lee, representatives of other schools, the faculty of the University, and the senior class.

The President's oath will be administered to Doctor Gaines by George Walker St. Clair, rector of the board, in historic Lee Chapel, built by General Robert E. Lee when head of the school immediately following the War between the States. Doctor Gaines will be the fifth president of Washington and Lee to take his oath in the chapel. He is the thirteenth head of the school since its incorporation in 1782.

Because the chapel will seat only 700 persons, the rest of the program will be held in Doremus Gymnasium, to which the academic procession will move after the oath of office is taken. The program will include greetings from five speakers and a response by the new president. John W. Davis, former Democratic candidate for the United States presidency, will bring greetings from Washington and Lee alumni; Dr. William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education, will represent education; Chancellor J. H. Kirkland of Vanderbilt will speak for American colleges and universities; President Frank Graham of the University of North Carolina will represent Southern universities; and Maj-Gen. John Archer Lejeune, superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute will bring greetings from Virginia schools. President Gaines' response will precede the benediction by Dr. Walter Lapsley Carson, Richmond, a member of the board of trustees. The invocation will be given by Dr. William McClanahan White, Raleigh, another trustee.

Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock in the Washington and Lee dining hall and the Student Christian Center of the University. The former will be for delegates and invited guests, and the latter for alumni and friends of the University. Judge Charles J. McDermott, New York, member of the university trustees, will preside at the luncheon in the dining hall, at which Dr. John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times, will be the principal speaker. Additional greetings at that time will be brought to Washington and Lee and the new head by Governor John Garland Pollard, Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, President F. B. Robinson of the College of the City of New York, President Fred B. Ferry of Hamilton College, Dean J. C. Metcalf of the University of Virginia, George Bolling Lee and W. R. Perkins of New York, and others. Scrolls will also be presented at this time.

Washington and Lee and St. Johns College will meet in football at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon on Wilson field here. At 8 o'clock that night there will be a formal reception in the Carnegie Library, and after the reception the Cotillion Club of Washington and Lee will sponsor an informal dance, to which all visitors will be invited.

GLEE CLUB

Singing new songs under capable and efficient direction, the Washington and Lee glee club this year promises to be one of the finest college musical organizations in the State of Virginia. Early practices indicate a far better club than those representing the University in recent years.

If such anticipations materialize, and W. & L. does produce a really creditable singing organization, this success may in no way be attributed to support of the student body.

How many students realize that a good college glee club may gain beneficial publicity for its school second only to that obtained by major sport teams? And, not only will the publicity be beneficial, it will reach an entirely different audience than does athletic fame.

Washington and Lee is famous as the birthplace of the "Swing," "College Friendships," a song having nearly as much popularity as the "Swing," is hardly known beyond 50 miles from Lexington. As official singers for the University, the glee club has an opportunity to give the former song and "Fight, Fight, Blue and White" a reputation approaching somewhat the one they deserve.

A part of each concert given by the glee club this year will include a rendition of a medley of Washington and Lee songs. The club probably will sing in Staunton, Charlottesville, Richmond, and at Hollins College. This medley, properly sung, should become known throughout Virginia, and later might spread through the country, for the merit of the songs cannot be denied.

Therefore, with so valuable a means of publicity available to the University, the student body certainly should do its part by supporting the organization in whatever way it may be able. If a concert is given in Lexington, students should attend.

Give the organization some financial backing by attending whatever concerts are held near Lexington. Surely, each student attending a recital is doing himself a favor, and is helping Washington and Lee.

We support other organizations; why not support the glee club. Whole-hearted support can mean only one thing, and can have but one result: Washington and Lee will be helped, and because of this every individual connected with the University will benefit.

THE BAND

It looks as if Washington and Lee is going to have a real band this year. That is it will be a real band if the students turn out for it in sufficient numbers. There are still a number of instruments lacking, according to those in charge.

Work on the band started off with enthusiasm and we'd like to see that enthusiasm remain as high as it so far. Uniforms this year will lend dignity to the organization that it has lacked heretofore. A faculty member as director will give it a seriousness of purpose it has lacked heretofore. All that is needed now is the interest of the students.

All students who can play any kind of a musical instrument decently well should try out for the band. A gold key should not be the only stimulus for a student to try out. He should have the interest of the school in mind. The band is as truly representative of Washington and Lee as is any other organization on the campus. If the band doesn't make a favorable impression on people who hear it for the first time, neither will the school.

When the University of Illinois came east a few years ago to play football the sixty-five piece band was brought along. The band received as much press mention as the football team, if not more. The school became known for its band. It can be the same way here. With a good band at every home game and on several games away from Lexington, Washington and Lee will receive favorable advertising. But it can't be a good band if students don't try out for it. At the next meeting of the organization there should be at least a hundred men there ready to sacrifice a little time and in turn receive several good trips, a gold key, and the respect of the school.

MAKE THEM GOOD

Washington and Lee's formal dances are considered among the best in the South. Fancy Dress Ball is recognized as the outstanding collegiate social event of the South. But what about the informals?

Everyone considers the informals as dances that don't amount to a thing. Consequently there are few girls and perhaps not so many "stags." The dance is pronounced a failure and the idea has arisen that informals at Washington and Lee are dances you go to if you have nothing else to do and think you can get a late date.

These informals could be made into real dances if the students would get interested. The Cotillion Club is sponsoring a dance on inauguration day, October 25. It could be made into something big if students would take an interest and have girls over.

Girls make a dance. There is no denying that. It is a simple matter to have a girl over. Surely every student knows at least one girl close who would like to come over to the dance and who he would like to have over. We have very few dances the first semester and dance cuts would not interfere.

In fact that is only one set of formal dances during the entire first semester. Since there are so few dances they should be made as good as possible. It is up to the students themselves to make them good. Have girls to the dance on the twenty-fifth and see how good it is.....

CRASHING THE SHOW

It is the custom at Washington and Lee to crash the show the night before homecoming, the night before the Virginia game, and Freshman night. This is already known to the upper classmen and should have been understood by the freshmen. It was announced before the pep session Friday night that the show was not to be crashed.

But our freshmen, to them what was a little thing like an announcement? They rushed right ahead and crashed the show. They carried on in just the same spirit that they have carried on all the Washington and Lee customs and traditions this year. They Di.

The New Theatre does not operate so that the students can come and crash the show whenever enough of them get together to rush the gates. It is imposing on good nature and abusing a privilege to crash the show on any other night than those which are customary. We suggest that the entire freshman class be sent to the VC as a payment for their spree at the show.

FRESHMEN AND PIPES

We can't help it but something ought to be done about it. In case it is not understood what we are talking about it is these freshmen who are smoking their pipes so promiscuously in public. There is no clause in the freshman rules which prevents this but there ought to be. Most of the freshmen look awkward enough smoking cigarettes, let's not even mention their swaggering around with a quite collegiate air with a pipe hanging out of the corners of their mouths. Notice! They are always quite careful not to inhale. They are wise enough to know that to do such a thing would make them quite ill. But getting back to the point the Ring-tum Phi suggests that the Freshman Council add to the freshman rules: "No freshman shall be allowed to smoke a pipe at any time in public, much less on the campus of Washington and Lee."

THE PEP SESSION

The pep session Friday night was about as lively as a funeral. And it was nearly as lively as the average Irish or negro wake. The cheers sounded like the groans of the injured after a big train wreck. The Swing sounded like "Good-Byes Forever."

We don't know whether the fault is with the cheer leaders or with the student body. But something is wrong! The freshmen failed to take off their caps when the Swing was sung. When they cheered they nearly moved their jaws half heartedly. There will be another pep session Friday night. Let's vindicate ourselves.

Did you know.....that Joe E. I ask you, in the end, is he so much of a fool,
If he leaves his studies to bull all night.....
When by doing it, he learns what otherwise might

The Critic's Seat

The statement was made last week in this column that Ronald Coleman was charming in "Raffles." The same statement is repeated this week and then the review proceeds. "Raffles" is one of the shows which should not be missed. It is a crook story, but not a gang story or an underworld story. Our crook is none other than a very polished gentleman, Mr. Coleman. Mr. Coleman is just as clever as he is charming. His charm captures the heart of a most fair lady, Kay Francis, and his cleverness enables him to outwit the mastermind of Scotland Yard, Earnest Torrence. This picture has no beautiful choruses, no theme song, and best of all Ronald does not stop to sing a song when the police are hot on his trail. All these atrocities the movie fan is spared in this picture. It is just exactly like the stage production was. "It is a picture to be placed in the class with "The Last of Mrs. Channey." It is the same type of story and is just as well acted.

"Bad Man" is an adoption to the screen of the late Hobbrook Blinn's famous vehicle. The story is all laid on a ranch somewhere below the Rio Grande and incidentally the ranch has oil on it. And when man smells oil there is always going to be a fight or some villainy. After many complicated incidents the Bad Man, Walter Huston, saves the ranch for its poor owners in time for James Rennie and Dorothy Revel to go into the final clinch toward the end of reel eight. It is a show very much like "In Old Arizona," Guin Williams and Marlon Byron furnish the comedy and all together it is very good entertainment.

"Soup to Nuts" is a comedy with some wise cracks and some amusing incidents. It is just the ordinary garden variety of mediocre shows. It would probably be enjoyed by some and be boring to others. It is nothing for the fan to go out of his way to see. "The Office Wife" is a triangle story in which the boss, Lewis Stone, falls in love with his pretty secretary, Dorothy Mackall. The boss's wife doesn't mind because she has fallen in love with another man. The picture is taken from the book by Faith Baldwin, in which she warns all wives to see that their husbands don't have pretty stenographers. It is a good show and is the same type as the "Divorcee."

"Eyes of the World" by Harold Bell Wright will be shown at the New theatre on Monday. The cast includes Una Merkel, Nance O'Neil and John Holland.

Hoot Gibson has returned to the Lyric and will play Saturday in a hard riding two gun show as all the rest of those famous cowboy shows are.

Our Contemporaries

Colorado University students can "Park and Putt and Pet" all in the same place, says an advertisement for The Winter Green, indoor miniature golf course of Boulder, Colorado.

The Harvard Crimson recently brought out the fact that fifty-seven per cent of the Radcliffe graduates who marry take Harvard men for their husbands. This isn't so bad as it sounds when we consider that ninety-five per cent of Radcliffe's graduates do not marry at all.

This week's issue of The Gamecock, student publication of the University of South Carolina, contains a large picture and write-up of their varsity football squad of 1909. We gather from the picture that those were the good old days when noseguards were the most important bit of football paraphernalia and substitutions were almost unknown.

Cambridge, Mass.--Hollywood, as well as Broadway, has sought and been refused permission to inject a dash of Harvard atmosphere into its product.

After denying Rudy Vallee the privilege of crooning "The Crimson" and "Fair Harvard" over the radio, the Harvard University Publicity Bureau vetoed the requests that Charles "Buddy" Rogers, film star, be allowed to lead the Harvard University band in a talking picture sequence at Cinders Theatre, where Harvard graduates receive their diplomas.

The Harvard Crimson, university daily, in an editorial entitled "Lilies of the Vallee", said the college Publicity Bureau had passed up two golden opportunities to put the university in a class by itself for unparalleled astinuity." It referred to Rudy Vallee's proposition as an "offer to raise 'Harvard' to the basis of the "Stein Song."

Concerning the Rogers incident, it said that "from purely altruistic motives, a young man came out of the west and offered to brandish the baton for the university band."

"The spectacle of 'America's sweetheart' cavorting at the head of the Harvard band in every movie theatre and 'Fair Harvard' crooned and moaned to the accompaniment of the saxophone's bleat in every radio is overpowering."

AS MOUNTAINEERS DEFEATED GENERALS

A scene during the first quarter of play in the annual gridiron battle between West Virginia and Washington and Lee here Saturday afternoon at Laddley field which the Mountaineers won 33 to 13. The picture shows Sebulesky, West Virginia quarterback, punting the ball to Washington and Lee. The two teams were practically in mid-field on the punt. The players in the striped jerseys are Generals of the Lexington school.

GENERAL GOSSIP

One of Cy Young's most promising yearling quarterbacks is none other than Howard Smith from Pelham Manor, New York, who is pushing Dixon for the regular assignment at signal calling.

Not until the spark plug of the Washington and Lee attack had left the game did the Kentucky machine get the advantage. With Mattox gone, due to injuries and excessive pounding, the General attack sagged and then snapped.

West Virginia spent their power against the Generals and made only three first downs against 21 for Detroit last Friday night, fumbles keeping the score from being higher than it was. And, Detroit wanted to play Washington and Lee this year!

Gene Martin, Nace Collins and Herbie Groop did not make the trip to Kentucky because of injuries. Groop's shoulder would not permit him to snap the ball back from center, having injured the member in the West Virginia game.

The only non-fraternity club in the intramural football league is Theta Iota (ourist Inn) with "Wop" Walton as manager. Included in their line-up are Everette Cross, Fred Swink, Earle Richmond, Glenn Givens, Jay Painter, Norbert Gladden, "Deacon" Armour, and Ben Ayres.

While winning from V. M. I. the Cavaliers from Virginia did not look any better than the cadets, Thomas and his cohorts got all the breaks.....holding V. M. I. for downs on the 1 yard line, and Thomas getting a 75-yard kick off from his own goal line when the cadets were threatening.

Faulkner can never hope to have a better day kicking than he had against Kentucky Saturday. Not only did one boot go almost 80 yards in the air, but two of his kicks went out of bounds almost on the goal line. The Kentucky populace wondered where the punting marvel had been in hiding.

Sweet Briar hockey team has a training table like any college team. However, members of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools are not allowed to have such. Apparently Sweet Briar is not a member of the association from which West Virginia University was expelled two years ago.

Highlights from Lexington! The outstanding punting of Johnny Faulkner.....Thibodeau playing his best game of the year and displaying some of the form that he flashed in his sophomore year..... Mattox's sensational passing and running which gained him a tremendous ovation when he left the field.....Holstein outchargin' and out-smarting his bigger and heavier opponent at center..... "Shipwreck" Kelly living up to his advance reputation by running wild.....Spicer not far behind Kelly in ability.....the fight that the General line displayed although outweighed nearly twenty pounds to the man, and holding their own.

Highlights of the opening intermural football games: due to the size of the field and the ability to gain ground only via the air route, scoring in the initial games was held to a minimum. "Stu" Sanders passed to "Doc" Hudson for the only score in the Arcades-Sigma Chi game, for both the touchdown and the extra point. Sanders' passes were going far enough, but his men couldn't get them. Jones dropped one with a clear field ahead. Both teams enjoyed a smoke between the quarters. Walt and Tim Cremin along with Reiser and Kirkland did all the ground gaining for Sigma Chi. Delta Tau Delta and Phi Delta Theta played a scoreless tie despite the lanky men in the Phi Delta Theta line-up. The team with the best short passing attack will win the intermural cup.

Famous Alumnus Visits Sig Eps And Tells Tales

Capt. Paul Ayres Rockwell, of the French Foreign Legion, was a guest of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity last week. He was a member of the chapter while at Washington and Lee in 1909 and 1910. Rockwell with his brother, Kiffin, were the first Americans to join the French Army during the World War. When the United States entered the war they were among the founders of the famous Lafayette Escadrille. Kiffin was the first American to bring down an enemy plane. Both brothers were made knights of the Legion of Honor and were decorated with the Croix de Guerre.

Mr. P. A. Rockwell, whose home is in Paris, was greatly pleased with the progress of the University since he was here last. He congratulated the school on having secured the services of Dr. Gaines. During the Riff War in Morocco Rockwell was a captain in the French Air Force and engaged in numerous fights with the tribesmen of Abd-El-Krim. For his services he was decorated with the French foreign operations Croix de Guerre, the Moroccan Campaign Medal, and the Spanish Moroccan Medal.

Rockwell is a writer by profession. He has contributed to a number of French and English publications. His latest book, "American Fighters in the Foreign Legion," will be published this fall.

Three Students Are Now in Hospital

Three students are now confined to the hospital, D. S. McDonald, Hugh Taylor, and R. B. Armistead. Taylor and McDonald have been confined for some time, the former suffering from injuries sustained in football practice, the latter with knee trouble.

Faculty Changes Rules

The regulation that students in the Arts or Commerce schools who have once made a passing grade in any course shall not be permitted to take the course again, was removed from the catalogue by the faculty yesterday afternoon.

The faculty passed the following resolution as presented by the Committee on Courses and Diplomas.

"The Committee recommends that Section 7 page 84 of the 1930 catalogue, which reads as follows:

"If a student in the Schools of Arts, or Commerce, attains a passing grade in a course, he will not be permitted to repeat the course in order to raise his grade."

be repealed, and that the following paragraph be substituted therefor:

"A student who has received a passing grade on a course is not permitted to raise his grade by re-examination, but he may repeat his course for that purpose."

This original rule was passed when the regulations for diplomas demanded that only half of the grades be C or above. With the new rulings now effective that the student shall have C or above on all his courses, this former regulation has proved inapplicable. Since much of the work of the Commerce School is required, and students in the Arts School must make as many quality credits in their major subjects as the number of hours spent in those courses, this action of the faculty will facilitate the work of men who desire degrees or certificates.

lative calibre. Thibodeau, at half also played a good game. The Kentucky men were trained to cover Williams on the passing plays and Thibodeau came through by catching several long passes, resulting in the scoring for the Generals. His running also was good. The whole General forward line showed up well, and kept its own against the heavier Kentucky line. Kentucky failed to make any consistent gains through the line, most of their gains being end runs and passes.

For Kentucky, the redoubtable "Shipwreck" Kelly was the outstanding man. Spicer, at quarter, Phipps at fullback, Rose at guard, and Captain Forquer also were outstanding.

Line-up and summary:

Ken. 33	Pos.	W. & L. 14
Yates	L.E.	Williams
Wright	L.T.	Bailey
Forquer (C)	L.G.	Nesbit
Williams	C.	Holstein
Rose	R.G.	Tilson
Kipping	R.T.	Faulkner
Andrews	R.E.	Bledsoe (C)
Spicer	Q.B.	Schuchart
Kelly	R.H.	Thibodeau
Urbaniak	L.H.	Mattox
Phipps	F.B.	Mitchell

Score by periods:
W. and L. 0 0 14 0--14
Kentucky 7 7 0 19--33
Scoring touchdowns: W. and L. Thibodeau, Mattox. Ky.: Spicer (3), Kelly, Cavana. Extra points, Mitchell (2) place kick, Spicer (3), drop kick.

Several freshmen have been seen strolling in the lower extremities of East Lexington, from which they are excluded by the prerogative of the upperclassmen.

With his line outplayed Saturday, Branch, of North Carolina, was only an ordinary back. Another reason was one, "Catfish" Smith, at right end.

There are lots of people who committed crimes during the year who would not have done so if they had been fishing.

We now know that thrift can be very wasteful.

Duke, Wahoos, And Tech Are Winners

The Generals hold a slight edge over V. P. I. this year, as Tech was hard pushed to earn a one-point victory over William and Mary Saturday. It will be the first encounter this year with one of the state Big Four, and the first barrier for the state title.

The Generals go to College Park on the next Saturday to meet Maryland. Their strength can best be judged by their game fight again North Carolina, when the Tar Heels won by a margin of one touchdown.

The University of Virginia showed great power both in scoring and on the defense Saturday when they defeated V. M. I. 13-0. Thomas and other backfield aces will find harder going on November 18, when their line will be just as busily occupied in trying to stop "Monk" Mattox, Thibodeau and other aces of the General backfield.

The Generals will bring the season to an end on Thanksgiving day at Durham when they meet Jimmie DeHart's strong Blue Devil Duke team. The Blue Devils walloped Virginia 33 to 0 and Davidson 12 to 0 on successive Saturdays and made it three in a row when they annihilated the Navy Middies at Annapolis Saturday by a 18 to 0 score.

Freshmen Practice Formation Thursday

Freshmen will be required to assemble on Wilson Field Thursday at 4:00 o'clock to practice a formation that will be used on the gridiron between the halves of the Generals-St. Johns game.

Stuart Sanders, head cheerleader, also has some new cheers which will be tried out at the rally Friday night in the gymnasium. There will be a short meeting and all men are expected to attend.

The Kentucky "pep" meeting proved to be the most spectacular one so far this season, and Sanders is hoping that the rally Friday night will not be an anticlimax.

God must find the U. S. a rather difficult country to please.
