

RALLY STARTS HOMECOMING CELEBRATION

Informal Dance In Gym Tomorrow

Tommy Tucker And His Californians Will Furnish Music

Homecoming Queen Will Award Cups to Fraternities At Intermission; Affair Sponsored by Monogram Club; Admission, $1.50

Tomorrow night Washington and Lee students, professors, alumni, and guests will gather in Doremus gymnasium to dance to the music of Tommy Tucker and his original Californians in the crowning event of the Homecoming celebration.

The dance will begin promptly at nine o'clock and continue until midnight. Admission to the entertainment has been reduced to the low figure of $1.50 by the Monogram club, the sponsor of the event, in order that one of the largest groups of the year may assemble to celebrate the Virginia game.

Dance Informal
 The dance will be strictly informal in nature and the club has also decided to reduce the decorations to a minimum in order that the price could be as low as it is. The customary rules will be enforced by the floor committee of the student body. Freshmen will be required to wear their green ties if they attend this affair.

Members of the student body this year will be given an unusual opportunity to hear one of the premier orchestras of the country at a dance that has usually commanded no more than a band of second rank.

Last at Woodbury
 The orchestra will play at Woodbury Forest prep school on Friday night and Saturday morning and then come on to Lexington to play that night. They left a resort hotel in northern New York just a few weeks ago and are now on a trip through the South, playing for school dances.

The Californians were tendered the signal honor of being chosen as the orchestra to inaugurate the Lucky Strike cigarette program when that program was first started. They have also played an important part in many of the General Motors programs, as well as playing on ships of the National Tours line and at Savannah beach, Georgia.

Radio Stars Featured
 Patricia Clifford and Kerwin Summerville, the two vocalists that accompany the orchestra, are both radio artists of national fame. In the Californians' other appearance the charming little Bostonian has proved to be the orchestra's greatest drawing card.

Officers of the club which is sponsoring the dance are Amos Bolen, president; Harry Fitzgerald, vice-president; and Bud Hanley, secretary-treasurer.

Baby Generals Trim Maryland Freshmen, 13-6

Last Minute Score Breaks Tie, Wins Close Contest For Brigadiers

The Brigadiers defeated the Baby Terps from Maryland on Wilson field today before a large crowd by a score of 13-6. A last minute drive from midfield gave the Brigadiers victory.

First Quarter
 Moore advanced kick-off to mid-field. W.-L. carried ball on line drives to Maryland 10. Maryland stopped advance and Moore punted.

Owings blocked Gormely's punt and recovered on the ten. Mills, behind perfect interference, scored through right tackle. McIntosh failed to convert.
 Score: W.-L., 6; Md., 0.

Second Quarter
 Gormely punted to W.-L. 25, and Moore raced to mid-field. W. and L. advanced to the 35 on line crashes by Moore and Sample. Maryland braced, and Moore kicked to the 20. Daly passed and

Council Takes Steps to Cut Supply Costs

Committees Appointed to Consider Buying and Taxes

DEFERRED RUSHING BROUGHT TO FORE

Hawkins, Saunders, Cole Comprise Group to Study Changes

Acting on a report given by William W. Hawkins, the council's delegate, concerning the convention of the National Interfraternity conference held last month, Peyton Winfree, president of the local Interfraternity council appointed three committees to consider the questions of co-operative buying, taxes, and deferred rushing, at the regular meeting held last night in Washington college.

Following Hawkins' report, the general discussion centered chiefly on financial questions and deferred rushing. Measures of economy in house management used in other universities and colleges by co-operative buying, special rates on electricity and gas and special rates of taxation were the chief points developed. Collection of bills and the paying off of notes also played an important part in the discussion.

Several methods of co-operative buying, used in other universities, were pointed out; among them were the establishment of a commissary, lot buying, and a boycott of local stores.

Effective means of compelling payment of bills incurred by individuals were considered. A plan, in extensive use on other campuses, is co-operation with the administration in allowing no one to register, to receive a degree, or take a final examination until his bills are paid. There was also some discussion of the problem of financing houses, and the possibility of exemption from taxes or of their reduction.

Hawkins reported that there seemed to be little interest in other universities and colleges regarding deferred rushing, although strict pledging rules were in force at most of these schools.

Sponsoring of scholarship, by fraternities, and the creation of closer co-operation between the chapters, were also discussed.

Four Invading Cavaliers

CAPT. RAY BURGER, JOHN LEYS, TOMMY JOHNSON, SPENCER BERGER

CAPT. RAY BURGER, TACKLE, and Johnny Leys, sophomore end, have the task of trying to hold the charging General linesmen tomorrow, while their team mates, Tommy Johnson and Spencer Berger, will bear the brunt of the ball-toting when the Generals and Cavaliers meet for the twenty-first time.

Generals Enter Fray Saturday As Favorites Over Cavaliers

Tilson's Men Will Seek Third Straight Victory With Full Line-up; Martin, Visitors' Star, Unable To Play Because of Accident

With the determination to "beat Virginia," Washington and Lee's football warriors, feel ready to face the Cavaliers on Wilson field at 2:30 tomorrow, and believe that by putting out a bit more fight than their visitors, they can display their wares in victorious fashion before the returning General alumni.

Coaches Tilson and Young respect their Charlottesville opponents and even went so far as to state that "the teams were about equal." But "Tex" went further and added that in his opinion "the team that battles the hardest and fights the most will have the edge on the other school." He added that all week the Washington and Lee team had been putting out on hundred per cent and that the team attitude is one of keenest determination.

Virginia will be greatly handicapped by the loss of Harry Martin, sensational sophomore back, who is out of the game for the year as a result of an auto accident last Saturday night. In the early Wahoo games this season, Martin's consistent kicking, accurate passing, and hard driving have been the features of the Cavalier attack. His loss is a serious blow to the Blue and Orange team.

On the other hand, the sturdy Tilson line and the fast, shifty backfield are in the pink of condition. Joe Sawyers, hurt in last week's fray at Blacksburg, is in good form as his injury was of only short duration. A full strength team is at the command of the Big Blue football professors.

Tomorrow, five Washington and Lee huskies will fittingly climax four years of service by meeting their traditional rivals. Captain Amos Bolen leads the quintet that is prepared to make its final and lasting impression upon the Wahos. This is the third year that the Big Blue leader has played

Many Novel Features Included In Elaborate Program Of Festivities

Large Crowd Already Arriving; Several Thousand Persons Expected; Town And Campus Dressed In Festive Attire For Occasion

FRATERNITIES COMPETE FOR TWO AWARDS; CUPS PRESENTED AT DANCE

Decorations on Houses Judged Tomorrow Morning; Certified Registers Must be Turned in at Alumni Building by 8 p. m.

By BEN A. THIRKIELD
 (Ring-tum Phi Staff Writer)

A Homecoming celebration that promises to be one of the most elaborate and most spectacular in the history of the University will be officially opened tomorrow afternoon when pledges of the "13" club escort Her Majesty, Miss Rebecca Smith, Queen of the 1933 Homecoming, on to Wilson field shortly before the kickoff starts the Generals-Cavaliers football game. The big affair will reach its climax tomorrow evening with the informal dance in Doremus gymnasium, where Tommy Tucker and his Californians will supply the music.

More than a thousand returning alumni are expected to swell a holiday crowd of visitors which, it has been estimated, will reach a total of several thousand. Already several hundred persons have arrived in town, but the majority is not expected until tomorrow afternoon, in time for the game.

In honor of the occasion, Lexington has donned its finest and most festive dress. Every one of the twenty fraternity houses had completed its decorations by five o'clock this afternoon, adding an entirely new feature to the annual celebration. Many of the business houses have also done their part in adding to the color of the occasion by special window displays, blue and white for the Generals, and gold and blue for the visiting Cavaliers. As a final touch to the decorative scheme which pervades the town and campus, Main street will be lined on both sides with flags.

The principal feature of the day's program starts at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the Generals face the Cavaliers in a renewal of a sixty-two year old rivalry between the two schools.

Twenty-two "goats" of Phi Alpha Nu and White Friars, honorary sophomore societies, contribute their bit to the celebration between the naives of the varsity game, with their opening "shine," a touch football game which will be refereed by pledges of the "13" club.

Another novel feature of the half-time is to be the introduction, by means of the loud-speaker system, of the twenty-four former captains of General eleven, together with several former managers. Many of these gridiron veterans are on hand for the rally tonight, which brings to a close the preliminaries to the big day.

The customary festivities accompany the rally, including the traditional freshman pajama-parade, by torchlight from the gym down west Washington street, Main street and Nelson street to "The Corner," where the hilarity culminates with a mad dash down the street to crash the show.

Reign of Queen Features Fete

Miss Rebecca Smith Will Present Contest Awards At Dance

The selection of a Queen for the 1933 Homecoming celebration marks the inauguration this year of another novel feature in the history of Washington and Lee Homecomings. Her Royal Highness, Miss Rebecca Smith, of Norfolk, Virginia, will make her first official appearance before the eyes of her awaiting subjects tomorrow afternoon when she will be escorted onto Wilson field by pledges of the "13" club just prior to the opening kickoff.

Miss Smith was chosen by the local circle of Omicron Delta Kappa to preside over the gala festivities tomorrow, and will take an active part in the entire celebration, which culminates in her presentation of a cup to the fraternity chapter having the greatest number of alumni registered, and another to the house judged to have the best decorations. This ceremony will take place during the intermission of the informal dance tomorrow night.

Miss Smith is a student at Randolph-Macon College for Wo-

Contests Add Spice
 Two competitions between the fraternity houses serve to add spirit to the occasion. Cups are to be awarded at the dance tomorrow night; one going to the house having the largest number of old grads returning, the other to the house judged to have the best decorations.

Every chapter has made unusual efforts to have its alumni back for the week-end, with each one sending out special invitations. A check-up last night revealed that about 300 alumni have already answered the invitations and will be on hand. In addition to those who have responded, a great many alumni are expected from nearby cities, according to Harry K. "Cy" Young, alumni secretary, who predicted that more than a thousand would be in Lexington Saturday. Many are bringing guests, and with a large crowd of outsiders attracted by the football game, one of the largest crowds in the history of Homecoming is anticipated.

Registers Due at 8 O'Clock
 All fraternities must hand in certified register sheets of visiting alumni to the Alumni office by eight o'clock Saturday night.

The incentive of a silver cup served to enhance the competitive spirit among the fraternities, and all of them have made special efforts in decorating their houses. Although the idea of house decoration is a novel one at Washington and Lee, several of the houses are proudly displaying clever and well-done schemes.

HOMECOMING OFFERS RARE OPPORTUNITIES

Homecoming Day this year will probably be the best in Washington and Lee history. Reports from the alumni office and from the various fraternities on the campus that have sent invitations to graduates indicate that a greater number of old men are coming back than ever before.

They have been active in arranging a program and planning festivities that cannot help but appeal to graduates of the University. But it should not be forgotten that the major attraction tomorrow is a winning Generals football team that alumni are anxious to see in action.

Several innovations in Homecoming Day activities have been made this year that seem worthy of perpetuation. Decorating the fraternity houses is a new idea on the Washington and Lee campus, and it appears to be a good one.

Another new idea is that of choosing a sponsor for Homecoming Day. This, too, is done at other universities and adds a welcome touch of color to the program.

With all this planning and activity in their behalf, it is good to see that alumni of the University are responding so well. Too often a man loses touch with his college after he graduates.

This year gives men who are still in the University a rare opportunity to get acquainted with graduates they have never met before.

STANDARDIZATION NEEDED IN GRADING SYSTEM

To some students, the announcement of mid-semester grades brought fulfillment of blithe hopes; to others, it meant blasted hopes; and to a few, perhaps, came success beyond their fondest hopes.

Authorities differ on this matter; some demand the total abandonment of grades; others are just as emphatic in propounding the importance of their retention; while the vast majority, perhaps, look on them as a necessary evil.

In view of these facts, it is alarming—and amusing to the cynical—to watch the blind worship of the Great God Grades on the part of the freshmen—although they are by no means the only salaam-ers on this or any other campus.

these elusive somethings, swear by them and swear at them; and indulge in other tragi-comic antics in their abject submission to this false deity.

But an intensive survey of the factors affecting grading will develop a deeper insight into the devious operations of the sometimes pernicious grading system, with the corresponding refutation of the fallacy of this belief.

Due to this inconsistency, one professor may grade his class on what is known as the "sliding scale", whereby the highest man in the group is awarded an "A" despite his possible deficiency in the total amount of work assigned.

But the difficulty lies in the fact that other professors grade on the basis of perfection, making an "A" tantamount to the highest possible attainment, regardless of comparative class standings.

A man graded under the first system—the sliding scale—may receive an "A"; while at the same time a man graded on the basis of perfection may also receive what purports to be an identical grade.

The injustice of this situation is obvious enough. The remedy too is obvious: adoption in its entirety of one or the other of the two conflicting systems, resulting in consistent grading of all students by all professors on the same basis.

POST-SEASON GAME UNLIKELY BECAUSE OF CONFERENCE RULING

As a result of the success that the Generals have experienced so far this season, many alumni in various parts of the country have been writing to Captain "Dick" Smith, graduate manager of football, asking him to investigate the possibilities of a post-season game with some nationally known team.

The great difficulty lies, not in getting a suitable opponent, but in the Southern conference ruling which forbids members of the conference to participate in post-season games.

Without a doubt Washington and Lee can give any team in the country a good battle, and the results of such a contest with a high-ranking team would be beneficial to the University because of the favorable publicity which would ensue.

If the Generals had not defeated Kentucky so decisively, or so clearly outplayed Princeton, they would have needed a post-season game to demonstrate their strength.

Had anyone suggested that Washington and Lee would be looked upon as a post-season attraction, when this season's gruelling schedule was first announced, they would have been laughed to scorn.

That these post-season game proposals are now being given any consideration at all shows how far the Generals have come in one year—a record of good football that needs no extra game to substantiate it.

KASSEL'S BAND HAS HIGH RATING

Last week the Cotillion Club announced the signing of Art Kassel's orchestra to play for the Thanksgiving dances. Since that time, there has been the usual student discussion—the storm of combined criticism and approbation that always follows such an announcement.

The orchestra which has been selected to play for the first big dance of the year, while it is not perhaps one of the finest bands of the country, is rated as a first class organization, and can be counted on to supply acceptable music.

THE PARAPET

By HERBERT RUDLIN

For the first time in twenty years, the eyes of the Tammany Tiger bears the glaze of exhaustion and defeat. The mighty Tiger that reclined in glowing defiance over the largest city in the world, imposing in its gigantic reign, has been bagged by a stubby, burning-eyed, courageous little Italian who captured the support and hopes of the Tiger's former trustworthy cohorts.

And so the strains of "Sweet Adeline" are rising swifter and swifter from the valley of forgotten consignments.

When the Generals meet the Cavaliers tomorrow, there will be five veterans of the Blue and White who will tread no more on Wilson field as the final whistle blows.

When we first glimpsed the opening shots of Barbara Stanwyck's "Ever in My Heart," we briefly concluded: another insipid, dull, and tawdry concoction built around the tearful Stanwyck.

Ten little co-eds, standing in line. One said, "O. K., Big Boy" Now there are nine.

One went on a "week-end." Now there are five.

One of them had too much. Then there was one.

RADIO & RECORDS

Starting Saturday the NBC will carry a week of unusual broadcasts celebrating the occupancy of its new headquarters in Radio City.

While Byrd is on his Antarctic expedition, the CBS will try to reach him with a 25-piece orchestra under the direction of William Daly.

Did you hear Fred Waring's program Wednesday night? If you didn't, you missed what was probably the best program that has been on the air in many a day.

Aren't you glad Ed Wynn is back on the air? He was better than ever in his premiere.

For this week-end the following are recommended: Fred Allen over WEF, at 9:00 tonight...Leo Riesenman Orchestra and the Yacht Club Boys over WEF, at 9:30 Saturday night...

Here are a few of the orchestras that are permanent fixtures on NBC. Cut this out and stick it over your radio.

Rudy Vallee, from Hollywood, midnight, Sunday and Tuesday over WEF.

Paul Whiteman, from the Paradise, 11:30 p. m., Monday over WEF, and the same time Tuesday, over WJZ.

RECORDS:

Victor continues its recordings of songs from "As Thousands Cheer" with two versions of "Supper Time," a tune that has the haunting quality of "Stormy Weather" without its greatness.

Loud cheers can be heard from all sides this week. Casa Loma has put out another hit. This week they present "Not For All The Rice In China" and "Heat Wave."

Two more releases of old favorites feature the Brunswick releases of last Saturday. It seems that this year brings us a bumper crop of these reissues.

The other of these two is "Avalon" and "Nobody's Sweetheart". Both are by Red Nichols. "Avalon" hasn't stood the test of years as well as the other and perhaps some of our friends have forgotten it.

"Fancy Dress" Chosen Theme For 1934 Calyx

Marion Junkin, Alumnus, Will Do Art Work For Yearbook

Fancy Dress Ball, one of the outstanding social events of the South, has been selected as the theme of the 1934 Calyx, re-establishing the old custom of carrying a definite art theme throughout the entire book, it was announced today by Joel Snyder, editor.

Drawings and skilled art work portraying the themes of the famous dance, beginning with this year's Ball and running back irregularly to its founding in 1906 by Miss Annie Jo White, will serve as introductions to the various parts of the book.

The drawings have been completed by Marion Junkin of New York city, an alumnus of Washington and Lee and editor of the Calyx in 1927. Junkin has made a name for himself as an artist for school year-books, and due to his personal interest in the book and his alma mater, these pictures promise to be outstanding.

Snyder requests that any student having snapshots portraying various aspects of campus life or selections of girls' pictures to be put in the beauty section please hand them in immediately to him at the Phi Kappa Sigma house, so that they may be in the book.

He further added that any student in desiring his engraved cuts for any reason may obtain them by seeing him at the end of the year.

Juniors Begin Dues Campaign

Helmer Elected Secretary-Treasurer; Hamilton Heads Finance

Leslie Helmer, Beta Theta Pi, was elected secretary and treasurer of the junior class at a special meeting held Tuesday night in Newcomb hall. Rules and regulations for the Junior Prom, which is held during Fancy Dress, were drawn up at the same meeting.

The dues this year will be $3.00, and must be paid by December 10. By paying their dues, all juniors will be allowed to walk in the figure and will receive a favor. They also will be admitted free to all future Junior proms as long as they remain in school.

This year there will be an advanced sale of tickets for Fancy Dress. This will enable all juniors who have paid their dues to purchase their tickets at a large saving. Otherwise the tickets will have to be purchased separately, and will be more expensive.

C. W. Hamilton, chairman of the finance committee, urges all juniors to pay their dues as soon as possible. This will enable the committees to select the favors and plan the decorations much sooner. Post-dated checks will be accepted for dues.

The finance committee for the Junior Prom is composed of C. W. Hamilton, H. E. Harman, W. P. Diggs, Bob Mayo, Ben Towne, and Hugh McNew.

The other committees for the prom will be chosen by John Dean, class president, in the near future.

Naturalist Will Speak Tuesday

Archibald Rutledge, Author and Lecturer, Is Next Assembly Speaker

Archibald Rutledge, well-known writer and lecturer on nature, will address the student body next Tuesday, November 14, at the second of a series of regular University assemblies sponsored by the Christian Council. Dr. Rutledge, who is an instructor at Mercersburg Academy in Pennsylvania, will speak on "The Laws of Nature."

Immediately following the assembly lecture, Dr. Rutledge will be the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Christian Council in the alumni building. Old pupils of Dr. Rutledge who are now attending the University will be special guests.

Mr. Rutledge has written several books, most of them having a southern background. He writes regularly for the American Magazine, and contributes to several others. His most popular books, "Old Plantation Days" and "Plantation Game Trails," are in the University library.

Faculty Expresses Sorrow in Resolution On Death of Dr. Lyle

The Faculty drew up the following resolutions this week, expressing its sorrow and sympathy at the death of Prof. William T. Lyle:

Resolutions adopted by the Faculty of Washington and Lee University on November 6, 1933.

"The faculty wishes to express its sorrow at the sudden and unexpected death of our colleague, Professor William T. Lyle.

"He was born January 10, 1875, in Utica, New York, and died in Lexington, Virginia, October 30, 1933. After graduation from Princeton university in 1896 and teaching experience in the University of Pennsylvania, Lafayette college, and Rice Institute, Professor Lyle joined the faculty of Washington and Lee in 1921, as Scott Professor of Civil Engineering.

"No man in the faculty was more assiduous to his duties than was he. He always strove for the best interests of the institution and for upholding the high ideals and noble traditions of the college. His purity of life and consistent Christian character made themselves felt among his colleagues and his students. We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to his bereaved family."

Yale university students have launched a drive for $20,000 to be used to support charities in New Haven and educational projects aided by Yale in Labrador and China.

Freshman Pajama Parade Will Feature Gigantic Rally Tonight

"I've got to sing a torch song" will be the theme of the freshman class tonight. For well over 200 shrieking, multi-colored members of that class will pay a glowing, fiery tribute to the football team and coaches, as they parade in pajamas through the principal thoroughfares of Lexington. This parade will be one of the features of the gigantic pep rally that is being held in anticipation of tomorrow's homecoming game with Virginia.

At the rally, twenty-four captains and several managers of former Washington and Lee football teams, Dr. Gaines, and members of the coaching staff will be the featured speakers. There will also be the usual yells and songs. Immediately after the meeting in the gymnasium the students will gather about a bonfire at

R. DeVan Seeks Rhodes Award

Senior Commerce Student Is Third Washington And Lee Aspirant

With the announcement of the application of Rugley P. DeVan Jr., senior commerce student, for a Rhodes scholarship, the number of Washington and Lee men seeking awards, now totals three. Those previously announced are Claude A. LaVarre and Richard T. Edwards. It has also been announced that no applications will be accepted after Wednesday, November 15.

DeVan is applying for the scholarship from Charleston, W. Va., where the state committee meeting will be held on January 2. The regional session for the states of West Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey, will convene at Philadelphia a few days later, at which time two men from each of the six states will participate. From this group four men will be finally elected to attend Oxford.

DeVan is the president of the Commerce club, and a member of Phi Kappa Sigma social fraternity. He won his numerals in wrestling last year, starring in the 145-pound class. During his freshman year, he worked on the Ring-tum Phi staff. He expects to enter the insurance field after completing his education.

Dr. Will Speens, vice chancellor of Cambridge university, England, last week was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Columbia university.

Alumni Elected As Democrats Win in State

George C. Peery, '97, Is Named Governor of Virginia Tuesday

Two former Washington and Lee students will hold high positions in the State of Virginia, the voters of Virginia decided in Tuesday's hotly-contested gubernatorial race. The overwhelming majorities piled up by the Democratic machine in this state gave George C. Peery, '97, the governorship of Virginia and James Hubert Price, '09, the office of lieutenant governor.

An interesting angle of the campaign was the fact that the Republican standard bearers, Fred W. McWane, '13, and J. Powell Royall, also attended Washington and Lee before they entered public service.

Peery received 104,820 votes to McWane's 38,322, bringing to a close a bitter and exciting campaign in which the Republicans, always the underdogs in Virginia elections, exhibited more strength and carried on the most extensive campaign since 1929. They bitterly attacked the records of the Democratic nominees and attempted to reveal evils which they claim resulted from the long-continued one-party rule. In answer to these attacks, the Democrats charged their opponents with mud-slinging and destructive criticism, and further asserted that no remedies had been offered for the conditions which they criticized.

Both candidates for the gubernatorial seat are active alumni of the University. Governor-elect Peery serves on the board of trustees. He received his LL.B. degree here in 1897 and was a member of Kappa Sigma social fraternity. He was awarded a B. S. degree at Emory and Henry college. Mr. Peery took his degree here while John Randolph Tucker was a law professor. Mr. McWane, the defeated candidate for governor, is a Lynchburg business man, received an A. B. degree in 1913 after a colorful and varied undergraduate career. He was a member of Sigma Nu and Phi Beta Kappa, manager of the football team, and president of the athletic association.

Lieutenant-Governor Price, who graduated from the law school in the class of 1909, was re-elected to the post, repeating the victory he won in the party primary last August.

Peery represented his district several times in Congress, while McWane has been a Republican candidate for the House of Representatives on several occasions. The future governor won the nomination only after a heated three-cornered contest in the Democratic primary, and McWane was unanimously nominated by the Republican convention delegates.

Generals First Played Virginia 62 Years Ago

Big Blue Has Won Six Games Out of Twenty-One Since 1871

A football rivalry dating from 1871 will be renewed Saturday afternoon on Wilson field when the Generals meet the up-and-coming Virginia Cavaliers, in the twenty-first meeting between the two teams.

The first game in 1871 was an informal contest at Charlottesville resulting from a challenge issued by the Cavaliers. No record of that game has been kept and it is not known what the score was. The first recognized game was in 1890 when Virginia won by the largest score ever to be amassed by either of the two rivals, 46-0. The next game was not played until 1900 and again the Wahos were victorious to the tune of 28-0. The boys from Charlottesville also won the next five games and after a two-year lapse the Generals won their first victory by a 6-5 score. After the first General victory, the sons of Thomas Jefferson decided that they were no longer in Washington and Lee's class and so relations were discontinued until 1922, when the first game of the present series was played. This resulted in a 22-6 victory for the Charlottesville boys.

In 1923 a new coach, Jimmy DeHart, came to Washington and Lee, and under his tutelage the Generals enjoyed a three-year reign over the Wahos. However, in 1926, when DeHart went to Duke, the Big Blue team started a five-year losing streak, broken only by the 13-13 tie in 1929. The Cavaliers resumed their winning streak in 1930 when they copped a 21-7 decision in a close game. In 1931 Jimmy DeHart came back to coach here and the result was an 18-0 victory for the Big Blue before a large homecoming crowd. Last year the Generals traveled to Charlottesville to spoil the Wahos' homecoming and win a 7-0 victory, their only victory of the year.

In 1922 a home-and-home agreement was reached and has been kept ever since. The Wahos will be out for revenge this year and with a fast, tricky team that has been progressing rapidly as the season has advanced, a close game is expected.

Their New Deal Brings Happy Days Here Again!

Alumnus Tilson, '24; Alumnus Hostetter, '31; and Alumnus Young, '16, who have, in the space of one year, brought the Generals up from the sloughs of football depression to the spotlight of national fame. Hostetter sent his first year men against Maryland here today, and Young and Tilson are whipping the varsity into shape to make it three straight over the Cavaliers tomorrow.

Eddie Mincher Takes On Visitor, Finds His Foe "A Professional"

"My name is Billy Titus and I would like to know if the University needs a boxing coach," asked a slender, smiling youth of Coach Warren Tilson in the office of the latter one day this week. "I wouldn't know whether the athletic department wants a new man now or not," replied the mentor, "but you might ask Captain Dick Smith, I'm sure he could tell you."

Despite the fact that Capt. Dick was impressed with Titus' account of his long string of victories, and his varied knowledge of the sport, the graduate manager found it necessary to inform the newcomer that the University was very well pleased with the present mentor, but invited the youth to make himself at home in the gymnasium while the boxers were working out.

It happened that boxing captain Ed Mincher had overheard a portion of the discussion. "Would you like a few rounds?" queried the General ringman, in an effort to determine whether the stranger was really in earnest as to his pugilistic ability.

"You bet," retorted Titus as he removed his coat. "But I just had a siege of sparring a moment ago and besides, I'm not in shape."

"Well," answered Mincher, "that makes us even," as he removed his shoes and entered the ring. "By the way, what is your name?" questioned the local swinger. "I'm Billy Titus," replied the visitor as he parted the ropes, his loud suspenders, neatly pressed trousers and shined shoes in the pugilistic setting.

Mincher's opponent was then introduced to the interested bystanders, including a Ring-tum Phi reporter, who was familiar with Titus' record, and knew that Mincher would have his hands full in the combat.

The reporter had knowledge that Titus had fought on the University of Pittsburgh mit team several seasons ago, and had since faced a number of opponents in the professional ring of the Smoky City and other Pennsylvania cities.

The engagement finally got under way late in the afternoon, in fact as the other mitmen, already dressed after their workouts, were leaving the gymnasium.

Mincher tried several of his chilling right jabs, but found the swings surprisingly ineffective against Titus' clever defense. After a bit of maneuvering, during which the Washington and Lee boxer had taken a few on the chin, Mincher came into his own and landed a number of telling blows to the head and body of his opponent.

Only one more round was necessary to convince Mincher that by all means, Mr. Billy Titus, of Pittsburgh, was in dead earnest as to his boxing experience and knowledge of the art of leather hefting. Titus had won the respect of a man who knows the ring game from every angle, this fact being evident when Mincher invited the Pennsylvanian "to come back tomorrow and show my boys all about that right jab."

That all goes to prove that Eddie has his whole heart and soul determined to develop and get the men under his charge in readiness for Coach Tilson's call when the football season has ended.

Ed is making steady progress, and is being ably assisted by Harry Robertson, mainstay on last year's freshman team, and Gus Ashley and Bill Fitzsimmons, now working on the frosh squad with a well-rounded knowledge of the manly art acquired in preparatory school prior to entering Washington and Lee.

The squads have now had over a week of extensive training, and beginning Monday the boys will get a taste of "rough stuff," in addition to the usual routine of the mile run, punching the bag, and sessions of calisthenics. The runs from now on will be mile and one-half sprints, however.

Even though it is a bit early in the season, it was plain to the reporter that the hard and conscientious efforts of Captain Mincher to have his teammates in readiness for Coach Tilson will have the team in such fine shape that the mentor should meet with success in the boxing campaign, as he has in this year's football success.

The 1933 team, with nearly a half-dozen lettermen from last year's aggregation on hand, as well as the steady performers from the freshman team a year ago, should find the going good throughout all of this season. The team will also be strengthened by the presence of five of the 1932 intramural performers who collected laurels in the sport.

Goats Prepare For Grid Tilt

P. A. N. and White Friar Pledges Meet on Field Tomorrow

Spectators attending the University of Virginia-Washington and Lee football game will be treated to a rare and enlightening spectacle when twenty-two pledges of Pi Alpha Nu and White Friars, sophomore honorary societies, take the field to demonstrate how touch football should be played during the halves of the Homecoming attraction.

A secret workout in the twilight behind Liberty hall last night aided Tom Alden, White Friar prexy, in bolstering the weak spots among his charges. Alden forced his players to forego their nightly strolls about Lexington in search of diversion. "Rest up, fellows," he urged, "we have got to win this game; my contract depends upon the outcome of this fracas."

On the other hand, according to latest reports from the opposing camp, Pi Alpha Nu supporters are confident of a victory, although they enter the fray as the underdogs. Harry Rhett sent his squad of approximately fifteen aspirants through a gruelling period of stopping the vaulted plays of the White Friar aggregation last night before a small crowd of rabid supporters.

Although Rhett, who is guiding the destinies of the P. A. N. eleven for this all-important game, refuses to announce his starting line-up, experts along the local Sports Rialto are of the opinion that his beginners will undoubtedly include Jim Walker, Anderson Browne, Robert Brown, D. S. Mullin, H. C. Pitcher, James Price, Bruce Lanier, Tom Martin, Warren Wright, John Cover, and John Capito.

Alden will send his strongest team on the field, which will include the following men: Robert Mertz, Matthew Duffy, Herbert Sloan, Arthur Pope, Howard Melton, Bob MacLaurin, Hardwick Stuart, Charles Wilkerson, William Wigglesworth, Frank Crew and I. G. Shively.

State Ranking Still in Doubt

Generals, if Victorious Tomorrow, May Have to Share Honors

Playing their fourth and final state game tomorrow with the University of Virginia Cavaliers, the Generals seem to be headed for at least a claim to the state title. If Virginia is beaten, Washington and Lee will have three victories, no defeats, and one tie game to its credit. In view of this, however, it looks like the title will have to be shared with V. P. I., this due to the deadlock battle played between the two teams last Saturday over in Blacksburg.

At the present time, Emory and Henry's unbeaten, unscored upon, and untied Wasps are breezing along at the top of the pack, but they might run into trouble down at Williamsburg tomorrow in their battle against the Indians. This game will have an important bearing on the Virginia conference race.

In the Southern conference, the Big Blue still has a perfect percentage, but have played only one game with a Southern conference foe, that being last Saturday with V. P. I. If the Generals manage to defeat Maryland and Virginia, they will wind up their Southern conference campaign with two victories and no defeats, but this would hardly warrant a claim to the championship. It is unfortunate that more Southern conference games are not on the schedule because this year's Generals rank right along beside the other conference teams. This was shown by the magnificent playing in the victory over Kentucky three weeks ago, which is one of the best in the Southeastern conference.

Every woman ought to own a red hat for the stimulation of her spirits.—Catharine Oglesby.

Tribute to Veterans Features V M I Program

A special tribute to V. M. I. men who served in the World War will feature the joint celebration of Armistice day and Founder's day tomorrow at the Virginia Military Institute. The ceremonies will not be elaborate, consisting only of a review and an address by Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, editor of the Richmond News-Leader, Richmond, Virginia, at an assembly in Jackson hall at 11:45 a. m. tomorrow immediately following the parade. Dr. J. J. Murray of the Lexington Presbyterian church, will lead the cadets in prayer, after which the band of the local veterans' post will play a medley of World War airs.

To me the sweetest sound these days is not the clatter of factory wheels so much as the din of broken shackles falling from oppression and the sight of a people freed from slavery of greed.—Dr. Earl Hoon.

Following the Big Blue

By ANDERSON BROWNE

WITH FRATERNITY HOUSES GAILY BEDECKED, BEAUTIFUL girls in town, and students happily smiling, everyone is all set to welcome alumni and the visiting Virginians tomorrow and enjoy one of the most successful Homecomings in the history of Washington and Lee. The football team, though tied last week by an apparently weaker V. P. I., has had a glorious season up to this point, and every indication seems to show that the Generals will finish the remaining three games without a blemish. However, Virginia ruled a heavy favorite last year and the Generals walked off with a 7-0 win, spoiling their Homecoming—let's not hope that there will be any outstanding upset this season.

STUNNED BY THE LOSS OF HARRY MARTIN, WHO WAS very legitimately released from the squad following a severe automobile accident, the Cavaliers are coming over to Lexington a somewhat broken-in-spirit team. Martin was a great help to the Wahoos, and one whom they'll miss tomorrow when the going gets to be a little tough (and it will). But broken as they are, the Cavaliers are gunning for one goal—revenge on the Generals for winning their only game of the season in 1932 and that against the hapless followers of Thomas Jefferson's institution. That was a bitter pill for the Charlottesville boys to swallow, particularly after they had just defeated Maryland 7-6, and then Maryland closed the season on Wilson field a week or two later by trimming the Generals. Somehow a Wahoo, like an elephant, never forgets.

DUE TO THE FACT THAT THE CAVALIERS AREN'T SO VERY hot when it comes to booting extra points, the Albemarle News, weekly publication of Charlottesville, is offering a silver loving cup to that varsity player who makes the best practice record of drop-kicks. Out of sixteen touchdowns scored by the varsity and freshman squads this season, only five have been converted into extra points. Comparing this with our one-man booting show, Mr. Samuel Crawford Mattox, 3A, Leesville, Va., who has yet to miss an extra point, we should say that the Cavaliers need just such an inducement in the form of a silver loving cup to prompt better extra-pointers. Perhaps they had better throw in a blonde with every place-kick to liven things up a bit. Well, perhaps not.

AMONG THE OTHER THINGS THAT THE UNIVERSITY OF Virginia is wont to boast is their ultra-hefty quarterback, Tommy Johnson, who is believed to be the biggest quarterback in the South, if not in this here entire nation (of free souls, LaGuardia, and legalized beverages). Measuring 75 inches in height, which is (in the language of Paxtons and Roystons) exactly six-feet-three, the youngster in question weighs a shade less than 200 pounds (which is heavy in anybody's language) and he is reported to be quite fast for a man of his size. But Tommy, being a big fellow and very desirous of the self-sacrifice, does most of his work by calling signals and blocking the way for other Wahoos, primarily among them are "Red" Fryberger, Spencer Berger, Vincent Cardwell, and the late Mr. Harry Martin.

LET US DWELL, FOR A SPELL, ON THE CONTINUED STORY of Tommy Johnson, for this should be the boy who will give the Blue and White their greatest headaches tomorrow. Boasting a "Dean's List" record in the scholastic end of Virginia's proud state school, Tommy is rated as one of the more brainier and heady type of signal jarkers. Yet, all this doesn't come natural to him as he was not called on to lead the Wahoos until the closing games of last year's season. He was somewhat responsible for the Cavalier's win over North Carolina last Thanksgiving, another game the Wahoos annexed after losing to the Generals. Sportscribes even alibi that Virginia would have won over V. M. I. if Johnson hadn't been confined to the bench after an injury in the second quarter—however, they don't go on to explain the "moral victory" that Ohio State won, and at that time, little Tommy was hale and hearty. Enough of Tommy.

THE RIVALRY BETWEEN WASHINGTON AND LEE AND VIRGINIA is one of the most glamorous in the country (and not to be outdone, we shall also say it is one of the most clamorous). Sometime during 1874, the Wahoos and Generals met for the first time in a new-fangled game someone decided to call football chiefly because it was something of an art to boot the other fellow on the chin and get away with it. The score of that first meeting, as well as the participants, is unknown, but in 1890 the first official game was played and Virginia took the game, 46-0. Since then, the two rivals have met eighteen times, with Virginia winning 11 fracasas, the Generals six games, and one affair resulting in a deadlock. Freddie Dawson, erstwhile a football coach and now employed by the Virginia trustees to teach the study in their university, is hoping to mar the splendid record of "Tex" Tilson by pulling an upset and place his eleven on the long end of the scoreboard when the game has ended.

AS IS USUALLY THE CUSTOM DURING THE INTERMISSION in night clubs, cabarets, and the like, Washington and Lee will present a little ground show tomorrow afternoon during the halves while the teams are resting. Convinced that the freshmen give a very poor snake dance, the band a less impressive parade, and the Lexington urchins who usually swarm over the field during extended rest periods a poor exhibition of passing and kicking, Omicron Delta Kappa has decided to take matters in hand and provide a little amusement of their own with a special program. Henry St. George Carmichael (we sound like a train announcer!) will introduce several captains and players of about 27 former football squads, and among other things, the Pi Alpha Nu and White Friar pledges will run through a brief touch-football game, with pledges of the "13" club acting as the officials. No cover charge at any time.

IN THE LAST ISSUE OF THIS PAPER THERE APPEARED A letter from J. Franklin Jones, Washington and Lee, '33, who urged that a post-season game between Washington and Lee and Fordham be arranged to bring prestige and a bit of cash to the good campus and athletic funds respectively. We are heartily in favor of Mr. Jones' proposal, but we fear, like a number of you, that such an encounter is just an empty dream. We should like nothing better than sitting atop the Polo Grounds watching the Generals fight the Bucking Ram to a deadly finish, but although the proposal was made in good faith and utter earnestness, it still looks like an empty dream, an empty dream. However, let's pull for it in the worst way and maybe a kind Providence will smile benignly enough to grant such an impossibility. However, to make such a thing at all possible, the Generals would have to win their remaining games by imposing scores, and in the meantime Fordham must meet N. Y. U. and Oregon State. Personally, we think Fordham will trim both squads, but nonetheless, let's build up this empty dream and fight to see it fill up with the fruits of realization. On to Fordham!

WELL PLEASED WITH THE RESULTS THAT HIS STOOGEE picked in winning last week, the herr professor returns today to resume his post as official dopester for this column. The professor has just returned from New York much chagrined because his nerves were not quite good enough for a cigarette endorsement (evidently healthy nerves not being a pre-requisite for contributing to a sports column), and although he has secret hopes and designs of making the grade someday, he confesses at present that he will be content to sit around and await his chance. With his hat hanging from one ear and a well-charred pipe dripping from his mouth, the herr professor sat down for a moment and gave out the following predictions: Washington and Lee to out-Wahoo Virginia by at least two touchdowns and then play Fordham; Michigan to continue winning by trimming Iowa; Alabama to trounce V. P. I. most severely; Army to bombard Harvard quite effectively; Auburn to clip Oglethorpe; Navy to win again and this time over Columbia; Duke to carry on against Maryland, dropping the Turtle Backs by a large margin; Kansas to down Nebraska; Kentucky to finally win a football game, this time against V. M. I.; Fordham to ram its way through to a victory over N. Y. U.; Hunk Anderson's proteges to wallop Purdue, but this is far from a sure thing; Princeton to legitimately defeat Dartmouth by something over fourteen points; Pitt to topple Duquesne; St. Mary's galloping Gaels to sweep little Pacific College back into the ocean; Southern California to lay one on Stanford; Tennessee to down Mississippi, a sure thing; a stiff battle between Emory and Henry and William and Mary for their conference title; Yale to down Georgia, not such a sure thing; West Virginia to lose to Wisconsin; and Bridgewater to lose, opponents unnamed.

Tiger's Alumni Admit Defeat

Princeton Man Praises Generals in Graduate Weekly

That the Generals won a great moral victory over Princeton has been admitted by Princeton itself!

A copy of the Princeton Alumni Weekly for November 3, received here, admits that the Generals were the best team on the field on that memorable day at Palmer stadium. An excellent write-up of the game is given and also an account of the two General touchdowns which were disallowed.

Praises Generals

The article, written by Frank D. Halsey, Princeton graduate, says: "Washington and Lee brought to Palmer stadium a fast, powerful and tricky team that proved to every one's satisfaction that the Princeton team of this year is not unbeatable." He praises the Generals highly and admits that they were robbed of victory by the bad judgment of the referee. However, Mr. Halsey does say that the Tigers were suffering a let-down and that only one man on the squad played up-to-par football, but that man was LeVan—Princeton's big threat and All-American candidate.

Further proof that Washington and Lee's two touchdowns should have counted is seen in this article when the author writes of Dyer's recovery of Kaufman's fumble: "Kaufman, after being tackled, blindly tossed a lateral right into the arms of an opponent (Dyer) who trotted un-molested over our goal, but fortunately for us the whistle had been blown too soon."

Fears For Game

About the much discussed touchdown that Sawyers made, the author writes: "On the first play Sawyers picked up a short lateral off the ground and crossed the goal-line standing up, and I kissed the game good-bye. The officials, however, called it an in-

Twombly Sees Good Season For Frosh and Varsity Swimmers

Cy Twombly expressed his confidence in a good swimming team for the coming season Tuesday after the finals in the intramural swimming meet. He was pleased with the showing of the first year men, but he was disappointed in the back stroke as he had expected to get some good prospects to bolster his weak back-stroke branch.

"Men who did well in the different events are Brazier in the 100-yard dash and dives, Lund in the 50-yard dash, Daniels in the dashes, Taylor and Magoon in the breast-stroke and Sanford in the 220. These men with a little more practice should enable us to mold a good freshmen team that will go far in the meets that we have scheduled with Augusta Military academy, Staunton Military academy, Massanutten, and University of Virginia freshmen," said Coach Twombly.

The outstanding performers of men eligible for the varsity were Berrien and Rhett in the breast-stroke. These men were out for the varsity last year, but illness caused the withdrawal of Rhett, and Berrien left school in the middle of the year.

Regular practice for the first meet to be held with William and Mary, January 13, will begin after Thanksgiving.

"A great deal of work will necessarily have to be accomplished between then and the first competition because there are so many breaks in that time that it is hard to hold practice regularly," stated Coach Twombly. "Experimentation for a relay team will have to be carried on because a new Southern conference ruling has changed the distance from 200 to 400 yards. This will require each man to swim 100 yards."

After Thanksgiving holidays the freshmen and varsity will hold regular meets.

D U Swimmers Triumph Again

Brasher, Berrien, Lund Tie For Scoring Honors In Intramurals

Delta Upsilon won the intramural swimming meet Tuesday with a total of 32 points. Alpha Tau Omega was second with 13 points, Sigma Nu third with 10 points and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fourth with seven points.

This is the second time in as many years that D. U. has captured the swimming championship. Three men were tied for high scoring honors. Brasher, D. U.; Berrien, Sigma Nu; and D. Lund, D. U., each scored 10 points.

Delta Upsilon broke records in the relay and in the 50-yard dash. The time for the relay was 1:45-3-5, smashing the old record of 1:48, made by the Touring Tigers in 1930. In the fifty-yard dash, D. Lund, of D. U., set a new record of 24 4-5, breaking the one held by Williams, Sigma Phi Epsilon of 25 flat.

Summary:
Dives—Won by Berrien, Sigma Nu; second, Brasher, Delta Upsilon; third, Hecker, Phi Gamma Delta.

Relay—Won by Delta Upsilon; time, 1:45 3-5; second, Alpha Tau Omega; third, Touring Tigers.

50-yard dash—Won by D. Lund, Delta Upsilon; time, 24 4-5; second, Daniel, Sigma Chi; third, Laird, Alpha Tau Omega.

100-yard back stroke—Won by McCauley, Delta Upsilon; time, 1:17 2-5; second, Doane, Alpha Tau Omega; Weinstein, Zeta Beta Tau, third.

50-yard breast stroke—Won by Berrien, Sigma Nu; time 1:15 1-5; second, Rhett, Phi Delta Theta.

220-yard dash—Won by Sanford, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; time, 2:43 1-5; second, D. Lund, Delta Upsilon; third, Cushion, Touring Tigers.

100-yard free style—Won by Brasher, Delta Upsilon; second, Daniel, Sigma Chi; third, Sanford, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Dr. Gaines And Alumni Leaders Welcome Grads

Cordial Greetings Are Extended to All Homecoming Visitors

Cordial welcomes to all Homecoming visitors were expressed today by Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of the University; H. K. (Cy) Young, alumni secretary, and Walter A. McDonald, president of the Alumni association. The messages follow:

"In the name of the University I offer a cordial welcome to all visitors of this week-end.

"Homecoming Day is one of the most attractive features of the pageantry that gives charm to University life. It brings the excitement of athletic contests and of social diversion, and the pleasant mood of happy visitors. But it seems to me to have a deeper significance in that it is one day designed primarily to renew old associations and deepen campus spirit. Students of the long ago and students of the present year alike find this day as a fountain of enthusiasm from which to drink deep in pride and loyalty.

"FRANCIS P. GAINES"

"As your alumni secretary, it is needless for me to say that we are very happy to have you back on the campus.

"I would like to greet each of you in person, but of course this would be difficult under any circumstances and is wholly impossible in view of my duties as a member of the coaching staff. However, I hope that all of you will come to the alumni building and make this your headquarters.

"In view of the large number of alumni returning, it is not possible for us to have the usual alumni luncheon this year, but I am sure you will be well entertained by the meeting of so many friends and class-mates of former years.

"CY YOUNG, Alumni Secretary"

Walter A. McDonald, 1910, of Cincinnati, president of the alumni association, arrived in Lexington this morning for the fall meeting of the Alumni Board of Trustees and Homecoming. He made the following statement:

"I am expecting a full meeting of the Alumni Board of Trustees, with the exception of Mr. Lee, of New York, who was unable to come, and Mr. Jahncke, of New Orleans. Mr. Carmichael, of Kentucky, Chairman of the Alumni Committee on University Affairs, and his committee, will meet with the board Friday evening after the rally at alumni headquarters.

"This has been arranged in order that the serious business of the board can be taken care of and the whole of Saturday given over to the celebration of the annual event of Homecoming.

"It is my privilege as well as my pleasure, not so much to express to the alumni who are returning, the hospitalities of the alumni office as to congratulate them, as I do myself, upon being able to be here, as one among a great many others who feels revived and stimulated always to be upon this campus again among so many old friends.

"The feeling in the alumni office for several weeks has been that this is going to be the greatest Homecoming that we have ever had, and there is evidence, not only of a larger number of alumni returning than ever before, but with an enthusiasm that seems stronger to me than I have ever known.

"Cy Young has been almost swamped with all sorts of this evidence, and how he has been able to give full time to his coaching duties, as he has done, is hard for me to understand.

"The class-agents, who are the key men in our organization, and responsible for the new life that has been put into our association, are going to be well represented in the testimonial. I might say, that this crowd of alumni back for Homecoming will pay to the greatest football team we have had in many a year and to the all-alumni coaching staff that has created this team. They are getting cordial and whole-hearted support and we have the greatest confidence in them tomorrow."

A big job was completed when the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas published a thousand-page volume on all the present known rock strata of that state.

Big Blue Picked To Take Cavaliers

against Virginia. Bud Hanley, end; Bill Grove, tackle; Tom Boland, guard; and Joe Sawyers, halfback, complete the group that is bidding adieu to Wilson field as a scene of battle.

Two years ago Sawyers and Hanley, aided by "Little Tex" Tilson, younger brother of the present varsity coach, each crossed the Cavalier goal line to register 18 points in the favor of the Big Blue. On this occasion, Sawyers slipped off tackle in the initial period to race 36 yards to a score. Hanley and Tilson both intercepted passes to make substantial runs for touchdowns. The visitors tomorrow have not forgotten this trio. As Tilson has been graduated, the Cavaliers will be watching for the remaining flank man and ball carrier.

Grove and Boland will be recognized by the Charlottesville veterans. Although Boland was forced to be idle last year due to a broken leg received early in the season, he has caused Virginia line men great trouble on former meetings. Both of these men have been receiving extensive call this campaign. Grove suffered from asthma early this fall, but has been in perfect shape for the past several games.

Besides having grudges against these seniors, Virginia men who played varsity last year hold little love for a pair of Lexington gridmen. This pair is Billy Seaton and Charlie Smith, who teamed up in a pass combination to upset the dope in the 1932 game and down the Orange and Blue, 7-0.

Heading the Virginia team is the brilliant Ray Burger, tackle, who like Captain Bolen of the locals, boasts an enviable scholarship record as well as a colorful record on the field. Burger is an honor student and a member of the honorary Raven society. Bolen is on the Washington and Lee dean's list.

On the other side of the line from the Cavalier Captain will be George Coles, also a veteran and a letter earner. In the center position will be Gene Wagner, formerly a guard, and man of experience and possessor of a "V."

Last year, John Lays played freshman end, but this year he has been molded into a first string varsity wingman. The man on the other end of the line, Ken Morton, is also from the 1932 frosh eleven. Morton played center for the yearling outfit but in view of the fact that Coach Fred Dawson already had a star center, this new Cavalier was assigned to the end position.

Jene Stocker will probably start at left guard tomorrow. He is also a sophomore and was key man in the frosh attack of last season. Gene Munger, left half, is the fourth sophomore scheduled to be in the Virginia starting line-up.

The other five men due to be in action for the visitors at the time of the opening kick-off are all letter winners. John Dial should start at guard. The three regular men who will share the ball carrying task with the less-experienced Munger are Tommy Johnson, Buckey Harris, and Spencer Berger.

For Washington and Lee, the foursome of Jack Bailey, Sam Mattox, Bill Seaton, and Joe Sawyers probably will be placed in the first play by Coach Tilson. At center, George Glynn has played consistently steady ball all year and will be on deck tomorrow afternoon.

Captain Bolen and Tom Boland will start as guards, while Hugo Bonino and Bill Dyer will fall in line at tackle. Bud Hanley and Bill Ellis are the prospective ends.

All of the ball toters are letter men. On the line, every man is owner of a monogram except Bonino and Ellis, sophomores, whose outstanding work to date has placed them among the veterans.

As Washington and Lee and Virginia have had no rivals in common this year, comparative scores render little towards determining the relative strength of the two aggregations. However, the season's records favor the Big Blue Fighting Generals.

Virginia has taken two games. The Cavaliers won 39-0 over Randolph-Macon and 6-0 over Maryland. However, the Cavaliers stuck out their necks when they played Ohio State, and the Buckeye machine made the Blue and Orange look like a prep school team on its off day. Piling up 75 markers to the Old Dominion's none.

Hampden-Sydney held Virginia to a 7-7 tie. V. M. L. Columbia, and Navy all accomplished the ambition of the Generals and ran the Virginians into bitter defeats.

Homecoming Has Many Novel Features

9:30 o'clock, the judges will make their rounds to determine the winner of the decorating contest. Their decision will not be announced until sometime during the dance. The judges are: Mrs. Charles R. McDowell, Professor Charles P. Light, and Dick Peyton.

The program will enter its final stage tomorrow evening at 9 o'clock, when the music starts in the gymnasium, signalling the opening of the informal dance sponsored by the Monogram club.

When the clock strikes twelve, and the dance ends, the gala celebration will come to its official close.

The entire affair is under the direction of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership society, assisted by the Alumni association, and the Monogram club.

men, and is well known on this campus, having led the Interfraternity ball at Finals here last spring.

The announcement of this added feature has provoked a great deal of favorable comment, and plans are being considered to make it a permanent and integral part of future celebrations. It has been suggested that to increase interest, the Queen be elected by vote of the student body. Campus opinion is unanimous in its approbation of this new idea of sponsorship by a Queen, and it is expected that more elaborate celebration of this particular feature will occur in future years.

Pictures Show Past Grid Glory

Local Window Displays Again Bring Football Heroes to Fore

Shadowy memories have been dug out of the past and brought to life. From somewhere back in the dim, dark shadows of long ago the football heroes of Washington and Lee have marched forth and are again before the eyes of the University and the people of Lexington.

This is not an image cast upon a screen by a medium, but only a part of the great Homecoming celebration set up for the old grads to welcome them back to Alma Mater; to make them forget the present; and to live once more the happy-carefree days of their college life.

Over at the Corner a galaxy of pictures in the Lee street window show some of the past football history of Washington and Lee.

A group of giants from 1890 occupy a prominent position and in the center of this group looms Bob Lee, grandson of General Lee, who, if size counted for much, must have been a holy terror. In the center of the window is the football used in the Generals' first win over Virginia, back in 1907. The score painted on the ball shows the tightness of the game—W. and L. 6, Virginia 5. This ball rests on an old sweater that has become a tradition at Washington and Lee. It belonged to the captain of that great team of 1907 and ever in the past it has been the custom to present it to the captain of the last team to win over Virginia.

At present it belongs to Bob Morris, who captained the Generals to a seven to nothing victory over the Cavaliers last year. Should the Generals win tomorrow the sweater would pass in to the hands of Amos Bolen, present captain. In case of a victory the presentation will be made at the dance tomorrow night.

The great championship team of 1915 and 1919 are prominently shown and three players of the 1915 team have individual pic-

Moore ran to Maryland 30, but attack failed on Maryland 10. Lowery returned Gormley's punt to the Maryland 35. Brasher took Sample's pass on the 10, but the Maryland line held. Gormley advanced to his 40, then kicked.

Score: W. and L. 6; Maryland, 0.

Third Quarter
Gormley returned kick-off to his 40. Gierkson passed to Rusos on the W. and L. 43. Hedley went through right guard to the 35.

Gierkson passed to Gormley on the 10. Munnhall spilled Daly for 10-yard loss. Gierkson passed again to Gormley on the 10. Moore stopped Daly and then punted to Maryland 30.

Maryland lost the ball on the W. and L. 30. Moore fumbled and Carr recovered. Gormley ran to W. and L. 12. Gormley passed to Gierkson, who scored. Conversion blocked by McIntosh.

Score: W. and L. 6, Maryland 6.

Fourth Quarter
Sample scored in off-tackle plunge, following pass and run by Moore.
Final score: W. and L. 13; Maryland 6.

tures. These men are Sweetland, halfback, Barrett, halfback, and Shultz, tackle. A picture of the 1914 squad is also shown. Four photos of post-war teams are displayed, the teams of '21 and '22 and the teams of '25 and '26. Tex Tilson, present coach, is in the latter two pictures and there is also a picture of him when he was captain in '24.

A picture of Eddie Davis, freshman coach for a number of years and one of the most popular men on the campus, is displayed, as are many stars of other days whose names are not listed.

In McCrum's window are pictures of the teams of '94, '95, '96, and '97, all decked out in nose guards, shine protectors and other impedimenta used in the old days. The giant team of 1905 is shown also. Several old Calyxes are in the window and in one of them, is a full page picture of Miss Annie White.

● A SUDDEN NERVE-RACKING swing upward from a racing auto into a hurtling plane... It's all in the day's work for Mary Wiggins, famous stunt girl who also dives on fire into fire and does the suspension glide in mid-air while hanging only by her teeth. It means something when she says, "Camels never give me edgy nerves even when I smoke a lot."

JOE: I'm so glad to see you, Sue. Were you nervous during your first flight?
SUE: Not a bit. I smoked Camels all the way, and I never felt better! I haven't worried about nerves since I took your advice and changed to Camels.

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

LISTEN TO MARY WIGGINS, greatest of all girl stunt performers, as she tells of her discovery that one cigarette is different from the others! She says:

"I have to be sure my nerves are healthy to do my stunts, changing from a speeding auto to a plane, the high dive on fire into fire, wing walking while up in a plane, and the high-altitude parachute jump. As to smoking, I've found that Camels don't interfere with healthy nerves. I've tried all the brands. Camels are milder and better in flavor. They do not give me edgy nerves even when I am smoking a lot."

You'll like that rich Camel flavor and mildness. And your nerves will tell you the difference there is in Camel's costlier tobaccos.
