Miss Annie Jo White Suffers Heart Attack, Is in Critical Condition

A bulletin from Dr. Reid White late this afternoon stated that, although some improvement had been seen in her condition today, Miss Annie Jo White, aged founder of Fancy Dress, was in a critical condition with pneumonia after a heart attack.

Although she had been suffering from pneumonia for a week, no great fear was held until a sudden heart attack yesterday afternoon brought about a change for the worse. At midnight, however, she seemed to be resting easier, and Dr. White's statement gives her a good chance for recovery.

For many years librarian at Washington and Lee, Miss Annie is best known as the founder of "Fancy Dress," that dance having been first held thirty years ago at her home. Since then she has been, until recent years, in charge of decorations and a constant attendant and chaperon.

SDX Chapter to Initiate Douglas Freeman At Meeting in Washington

Ten members of the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity, will attend an initiation and banquet at the National Press Club in Washington, D. C., tomorrow night.

Douglas S. Freeman, editor and publisher of the Richmond News Leader, will be initiated into membership in the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi at 7:30 p. m. At 8:00 p. m. the chapter will hold a joint banquet with the Washington alumni association of Sigma Delta Chi.

Those making the trip from Washington and Lee are: Mr. O. W. Riegel, Mr. Harold Lauck, Robert Weinstein, John Eshbaugh, Wallie Davies, Latham Weber, Al Durante, James L. Price, Don Moore, and Lewis Cashman.

Seven W-L Men Named In College 'Who's Who'

The names of seven Washington and Lee students appear in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" for the year 1935-36.

The list includes Amos A. Bolen, Hugo J. Bonino, Norman P. Her, Edward Angus Powell, William Schuhle, Jr., I. Glenn Shively, and Herbert E. Sloan, Jr. Statistics show that the fraternities leading in representation are as follows: Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 34; Phi Kappa Phi, 31; Beta Theta Pi and Alpha Tau Omega tieing for third place with a representation of 23 each.

The representation of various colleges in the East is as follows: West Point, 7; Columbia, 3; Princeton, 1. In the Southeast: Washington and Lee, 7; Duke University, 7; Virginia Poly, 4; and Hampden-Sidney, 2.

Sophs Register For Next Year

Tucker Reveals Majority Of Class Has Made Up Schedules

Dean Robert H. Tucker stated today that over three-quarters of the present sophomore class has already begun work on the new educational planning system that is being tried out this year for the first time.

Commenting on the reasons for adopting the plans, Dean Tucker explained that with this as a basis, the chances of a boy's approaching his senior year and finding himself lacking in sufficient graduation credits had now been minimized.

"As the plan stands now," the Dean explained, "a boy charts his courses with his major professor at the close of his sophomore year. In this manner it is almost impossible for anyone to find himself lacking in graduation requisites through ignorance. It lends purpose to a boy's college career in that he has a definite idea of why he is taking such and such a subject."

"No longer will the old system of slot machine education, as I call it, exist. A college student will not enter his credits on the ledger as just so many points towards securing a diploma," he added. "He will realize that he is in college in order to prepare for something definite in life after he gets out."

Gaines Begins Speaking Engagements with Talk To Charleston Alumni

President Gaines returned yesterday from Charleston, W. Va., where he addressed the alumni chapter on April 24. The remainder of the President's speaking engagements will include speeches at graduation exercises and invitation orations at various educational associations.

Journeing to South Carolina on May 12, Dr. Gaines will speak at the graduation exercises of the College of Charleston. Immediately after, the President will leave for New York where he will be the guest speaker at the New York Lawyers' association on May 13. After a short respite of two weeks, President Gaines will resume his oratorical activities when he talks at the graduation exercises at the University of Chattanooga June 1.

The remainder of his speaking engagements is as follows:

June 2—Graduation exercises, Shorter college.
June 15—Graduation exercises, Drexel Institute.
June 24—Guest speaker, American Association for Engineering Education, Madison, Wisconsin.

Gilliam at Deans' Meeting
Dean Frank J. Gilliam left Wednesday for Philadelphia where he will represent Washington and Lee at the annual meeting of the National Conference of Deans and Advisors of Men. He will return to Lexington Sunday.

Dr. Van Dusen To Speak Here

Eminent Orator to Address Student Body On May 11

Dr. Henry Van Dusen, dean of the Union Theological Seminary of New York and one of the best known men in the field of religion today, will speak to the Washington and Lee student body on May 11, it was announced today.

Harry Philpott, president of the Christian council, under whose auspices Dr. Van Dusen is being brought here, revealed today that the council has been negotiating with Dr. Van Dusen for some time. Not until yesterday did he receive word of the speaker's final acceptance.

Speaking at Sweet Briar on Sunday, May 10, Dr. Van Dusen will come here the following day. This will be his second trip to Sweet Briar, where according to Dean Meta Glass, he proved to be the most popular speaker to address the student body this year.

Besides being a contributing editor of the "Christian Century," Dr. Van Dusen is the author of several noted books on the philosophy of religion and is professor of systematic theology and religious philosophy at the Union Theological Seminary.

The address will be delivered at a student assembly which will be compulsory for all students except seniors and law students.

Monument to Texas Is Installed on Lawn Of Fraternity House

A statue commemorating the birth of "Big Foot" Wallace, famous Indian fighter and Texas ranger, has been placed on the lawn of the A. T. O. fraternity house. Permission to place the stone on the property was granted by the fraternity.

Wallace was born in a brick house about a mile from the fraternity house. He went to Texas to avenge the death of a brother in the Goliad massacre, and remained to serve the state as a ranger, Civil War soldier, Indian fighter, and post carrier. He is buried in San Antonio.

The new monument is carved from a piece of native marble four feet high and bears a bronze tablet setting forth Wallace's history. It was erected with funds contributed by Virginia and Texas admirers.

Faculty Committee May Select New Valetictorian

In an attempt to settle the valetictorian issue once and for all, the faculty will meet on Monday to vote on the continuation of the Senior class honor position.

Dean Robert H. Tucker expressed himself as being hopeful that the faculty would vote for the retention of the office. "If the faculty votes that the office of valetictorian remain," Dean Tucker said, "it is very likely that a committee composed of faculty members will be chosen to select the senior."

Cy Twombly has been reelected a director of Tribrook golf club.

O.D.K. Initiates Drive for Funds to Furnish Room In New Building

Several Contributions From Old Members Already Received

ALUMNI REQUESTED TO SUPPORT PLAN

Room Will Be Used by All Organizations On Campus

As the first step toward raising funds for the furnishing of a student meeting room in the new student union, Omicron Delta Kappa announced today that it had sent letters to 275 alumni of the local circle of O. D. K.

O. D. K. is the first campus group to undertake furnishing a room in the union. In first announcing plans for the building the administration expressed the hope that various groups or individuals would contribute the furnishings for the rooms.

The room which O. D. K. plans to furnish will be a meeting room to be used by all campus organizations. Definite plans for equipping it will depend upon the response to the alumni campaign, officers of the honorary fraternity said today.

Letters requesting support for the plan have been sent to every alumni member of the local chapter during the past few days. Contributions have already been received from a number of the graduates.

If the drive for funds is successful, the student meeting room will probably be dedicated as the Omicron Delta Kappa Room.

Angus Powell, president of O. D. K., made the following statement today explaining the alumni campaign:

"A new student union is to be erected on the site of the building used as alumni headquarters for the past ten years, this building, standing, as you will recall, at the Washington street entrance opposite the Episcopal church. The University hopes that the furnishing of the various rooms in this building will be undertaken by individuals or groups, possibly as memorials. It is the aim of Circle to furnish completely one of the rooms in this union. The room will be used as a meeting place for our organization thus fulfilling a long-felt need. The room will be available for the holding of meetings of other organizations, but will be dedicated as the 'Omicron Delta Kappa Room.'"

Remodeling in Library Not to Hinder Students

Students engaged in research work will not be seriously inconvenienced by the work now going on in the library, Miss Blanche McCrum, librarian, said yesterday. No seminars will be moved, Miss McCrum said, with the exception of the history seminar, which has already been moved into the reading room.

Removal of books from the stacks has already begun, with the government publications, religious, philosophical, and general science books, which are seldom used, being moved first. These volumes are being placed on temporary shelves erected in the art gallery.

Miss McCrum states that at times it may be difficult for the library staff to locate some of the less used books, and students may occasionally be forced to wait several hours for them, but all the volumes in the library will be available.

Graham Elected Cotillion Club Prexy for 1936-37

Bob Graham was elected president of the Cotillion Club at a meeting of the honorary society last night. John Tomlinson was elected secretary-treasurer. Both men were elected by a unanimous vote.

Graham is a junior in the academic school and is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. Tomlinson, a junior, is a member of Sigma Nu.

Plans Nearly Complete For Mock Convention Scheduled for Tuesday

Until 1813, there was no president in this institution—instead, the chief official was a rector.

Angus Powell to Call Convention to Order At 2:00 p. m.

MUST GO TO THREE OF FIVE SESSIONS

Final Assignments to Be Posted on Bulletin Boards Tomorrow

With the opening session set to begin at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, plans for the mock Republican convention neared completion today.

Decorations were being prepared, contracts for a band and a circus elephant were being negotiated, and state chairmen were deep in politics and cigar smoke this afternoon.

Students have already been assigned to state and territory delegations. A few changes in these assignments will be made tomorrow to include any names that have been omitted, Amos Bolen, chairman of the committee arranging for the convention, said today. The final roster of all delegates will be posted on the bulletin boards tomorrow and in the gymnasium on Tuesday, the opening day of the convention.

Classes will be dismissed at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. Students are required to attend at least three of the five sessions of the convention. The state chairmen will check the roll of each delegation at every session.

The convention will be called to order Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock by Angus Powell, serving as chairman of the mock Republican national committee. Election of temporary officers will be the first business of the convention.

After the temporary officers have been elected, the temporary chairman will present the keynote speaker, Fred Hartley, Jr., Republican Congressman from New Jersey, Hartley, who is one of the youngest members of Congress, was selected to present the opening address because of his progressive ideas and popular appeal.

Committees to Be Named
Committees for the convention will be appointed following the keynote address. The temporary chairman will name the chairman of each committee, and one man from each state delegation will be appointed by the state chairmen to serve on the committees. The committees to be appointed include credentials, permanent organization, rules and organization, and platform.

The convention will recess until 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night to allow the committees to prepare their reports. The committee on permanent organization will bring in the first report at the night session, and the convention will elect the permanent officers. Reports of other committees will be given at this time, and the platform will be adopted.

The first nominating speeches will probably be given Tuesday night, with others expected on Wednesday morning. Speeches seconding the nominations will be given at the same time.

Three Sessions Wednesday
The sessions Wednesday will begin at 9:00 a. m., 2:00 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. The exact order of business to be followed at these sessions will depend upon the number of nominating speeches and the rapidly with which the convention can agree upon its candidate for the presidency.

To win the nomination, a candidate must receive 501 votes. This afternoon, Governor Alf Landon of Kansas was leading in the pre-convention scramble for the nomination, with slightly over 100 votes to his credit. Whether he will be able to muster the required majority remained in doubt, however, and all state delegations were grooming favorite sons to enter the race in the hope

Easter Dance Set Shows Record Profit of $131

Rueger Reveals Receipts Of $1,558.76 as Best In Five Years

A net profit for Easter dances of $131.06 was revealed by a financial statement of the dance set released yesterday by Sam Rayder, treasurer of the student body fund, and Bill Rueger, president of the Cotillion club.

The profit this year is the largest in the past five years, comparison of financial statements shows. Last year there was a net loss of $266.11 on the spring set of dances, and during the three preceding years profits had ranged from $2.10 to $41.44.

The cost of decorations this year was almost twice the usual expenditure, because of the employment of a professional decorator, Rueger explained. This increase, however, was offset by reduced expenditures for services of electricians and janitors, who are usually hired independently but whose work was largely included this year in the contract with the decorator.

In recent years the total cost of decorations and of janitor and electrician's services has varied from $149 to $186; as compared with a similar expenditure this year of $195, when a professional decorator was employed.

The cost of the orchestra was approximately the same as in previous years. In 1935 the orchestra expenditure was $1,400, but in the three preceding years $1,000 was the minimum and $1,150 the maximum expenditure.

Receipts from the sale of tickets at the door and from the initiation fees of the "13" club, the sponsor of the Friday night dance, were the highest in recent years. In 1933 receipts totaled only $1,323.00, while the 1932 total of $1,525.75 most nearly approached this year's receipts of $1,558.76.

R. P. Carter Leaves For New York to Join Associated Press Staff

Richard P. Carter, for the past two years instructor in the Lee School of Journalism, left this morning for New York to join the staff of the Associated Press. Mr. Carter has been granted a year's leave of absence from the University and will return for the 1937-38 session.

"I am already looking forward to the time when I shall return to Washington and Lee," Mr. Carter told a Ring-tum Phi reporter yesterday.

Mr. Carter said he regretted it was necessary to leave before the end of the session. Owing to the fact that the Associated Press was unable to hold the New York position open, it was necessary for him to be in New York the first of May.

Student Writes Neighbor's Idea Of Alf Landon

Editor's Note: The following article was written by a student here who for many years has been a next-door neighbor of the present governor of Kansas, now pushed by many as the Republican candidate for president. He has known both the governor and his family well. This, in his opinion, is a picture of the man who might conceivably be the next president of the United States:

Landon—Governor of Kansas

Who is Alf Landon? Six months ago there would have been few people outside the state of Kansas who could have answered that question, but today practically every adult in the United States with any interest in politics knows his name and something about him. His record has been discussed so frequently and so completely in the past few months that more than a brief resume is unnecessary. He is in his late forties today and until two years ago he held no important public office nor had he been prominent in national politics. In 1934 he was elected governor of Kansas—that is his political record. But we must go behind the scenes to discover why he is so much in the public eye today.

In 1932 the Republican party in Kansas needed someone to oppose Harry Woodring, the Democratic governor, (now Assistant Secretary of War) and Alf Landon was chosen. It was only natural to reward the prosperous, independent oil producer who had done so much for the party and been a party horse for so long.

His election was not, in spite of the Democratic landslide, a tribute to his personal ability. Kansas is and always has been a Republican state, and when she favored Roosevelt in the presidential campaign of 1932 it was the first time in her history that she had chosen a Democratic presidential candidate. Alf Landon was, then, not swept into office because of his worth, but elected because he ran on the Republican ticket. To be quite fair to him, he has done a very good job in the governor's office. He has balanced the state budget with the aid of Federal relief funds and has established a fine record for honesty and political fairness. But even these qualities would not be enough to qualify him as a presidential candidate after his meagre political experience, and it is necessary to turn to the activities of William Randolph Hearst to find the answer.

Mr. Hearst has been an enemy of the Roosevelt administration

ORCHESTRAS, DECORATIONS, AND DANCE PROFITS

With the announcement that the largest profit in recent years was realized on the spring dances, the final touch is added to what was well-nigh a perfect Easter set. The news of the surplus is particularly gratifying, since this year the officers of the Cotillion Club employed a professional decorator instead of leaving the task of decorating to a group of students. The results were immeasurably more attractive this year, and best of all, despite the cost of employing a professional designer the dances still proved financially successful.

Both the officers of the Cotillion Club and the members of the Dance Control Board deserve credit for their excellent management of the dances. The high quality of the set and the resulting profits are a tribute to the efficiency of the Dance Board, which, although instituted less than a year ago, is already proving its worth.

The fact that the financial statement for the set shows a large balance on the credit side of the ledger proves rather definitely, we believe, that the way to insure the financial success of a dance set is to provide the best possible orchestra and to arrange the most pleasing decorations possible. Judging from past experience, we think that economy in the selection of a band or of decorations seems to have a rather unfavorable reaction on the profits of the dances.

And that profit of $131.06, incidentally, goes to a fund that is used for the improvement of the dances—or if necessary for meeting any future deficit of a dance set. Under the provisions of the constitution of the Dance Control Board, all surplus moneys from a dance set are placed in a reserve fund to be used for "permanent dance improvements." An emergency fund to make up any deficit also is to be built up from these profits, according to the constitution, while any surplus in excess of the amount required for the reserve funds reverts to the general student body fund.

A high quality dance set, therefore, seems to be a boon to everyone—the students find it highly enjoyable, the dance leaders need worry about no deficit, and the resulting profits are utilized in bettering future dances.

BANDS, BUNTING, AND BALLYHOO—THAT CONVENTION SPIRIT

According to all advance notices, this mock Republican Convention business is growing bigger every day. Brass bands, pictures of all the great G. O. Partymen from the time of Father Abraham on down, and all the ballyhoo that makes the real convention probably the most colorful spectacle in the contemporary American scene—all are going to be in Doremus gymnasium for two days next week.

The only doubtful quantity about the success of the convention rests in the delegates themselves. We shall, for two days, forget about everything but the fact that God made the Republican party, we are his chosen children, and we are gathered together to wreak vengeance on a horrible Grendel now holding forth from the very White House itself. We hate the Democrats, we honor and revere Mr. Hoover, (as long as he doesn't try to mess things up) and we are out for our favorite son to get at least a cabinet post. Incidentally, we wouldn't mind getting back that postmastership that we lost four years ago.

That great document, the Constitution of these glorious United States is being violated. We, for two days, are going to protest, view with alarm, and quote from Abraham Lincoln.

It really ought to be a lot of fun. We have some competitors in other schools this year who are copying us in this convention idea, therefore it behooves us to rise to the occasion and have the most colorful, the most glamorous, the best mock convention that Mother Earth has yet seen.

For once, but just once, shining should prove a virtue.

STUDENT BODY FINANCES—ALWAYS IN THE DARK

A better understanding of the functions of the student body government would result from the publication at regular intervals of the budget and financial statements of all organizations receiving support from the campus tax. The average student has only a vague idea of where the $8.75 he pays each fall actually goes. He hears of surpluses and deficits, reads that ten cents from every campus tax is given to the band and forty-five cents to the Executive Committee fund, but there is never any definite statement of the disbursements of the various organizations or of their financial condition.

The constitution of the student body government provides that the treasurer shall keep an accurate record of all transactions involving campus tax funds, and that twice during each college year he shall submit to the Executive Committee detailed statements of the financial condition of every organization embraced under the student body fund. These financial reports are made in February and in May each year. Would it not be to the advantage of the students to have at least a condensed report of the next statement published?

Shortly after each of the dance sets, the treasurer of the student body fund publishes a complete financial statement for the dances. Even a freshman who has never been inside the accounting building can grasp the salient facts of such a report and can understand, to a certain degree, the reason for the cost of the dances.

But no such report is published for the other campus organizations. Every government—national, state, or municipal—regularly publishes its budget. Its financial condition is a matter of public knowledge. Should the student body government be any exception to this rule?

THE FORUM PERSONALITY IN TEACHING

(The Kentucky Kernel, University of Kentucky)

Colleges and universities of today are coming more and more to realize the value to the institution of men on the staff who possess striking or captivating personalities. In a recent report, Dr. Walter Albert Jessup, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, stresses the value of teachers who are "artists" rather than scholars.

Doctor Jessup brings out the fact that the survival of any college over a period of years is due largely to the men who have lived in it. These men are difficult to classify; sometimes they are "willing conformers who fit easily into college patterns," conventional students; "more often they are individualists themselves who find it difficult to conform to set procedures."

In their attempts to arrive at recognition in the field of academic rating, many colleges and universities have placed altogether too much emphasis upon the external attributes of scholarship. The fact that a professor possesses one or more doctor's degrees or was the author of numerous "publications" has tended to blind the authorities charged with the selection of the teaching staff to the fact that personality is often a more effective element in the raising and maintenance of an institution's prestige.

The depression, with increased enrollment, has especially taught institutions of learning the value of outstanding men of personality. As the various schools have vied to maintain their quotas of enrollment they have found that prospective students are much more impressed by the number of men on the staff who have gained recognition through their participation in everyday affairs or the fact that they are "regular fellows" than they are by the number of Ph.D.'s and LL.D.'s that grace the roster of the faculty. The same is true of those who graduate from an institution of learning—ten years later they remember much more distinctly those men who talked with them and offered solutions for their own personal problems and the general problems of life than they do those who tried strictly to impress them with their scholarship and knowledge in the field of "book larnin'."

Although it might appear that the controversy at hand is one of scholarship versus personality, we do not believe such to be the case. We believe, rather that real scholarship is closely aligned with personality. The true scholar will attempt to coordinate and adjust his knowledge with current events and individual situations which present themselves. He must teach according to humanity as well as science.

Those professors who maintain their positions by scholarship alone are sadly lacking in one of the essentials of a truly great teacher, but they may, through effort in the right direction, acquire those graces and understanding of humanity which make for the outstanding professor. By contact with and interest in the activities of the students they may come to have a firmer understanding of their problems as related to life itself as well as the academic world. Also, by extensive reading and conversation they may "keep abreast of the times" and thus place themselves in the category of something more than a scholar.

BETWEEN SHEETS

By BOB INGRAM

"College men are the most selfish and egotistical creatures on earth!" screamed questioned co-eds at the University of North Carolina last week. "They get drunk too often; they lack respect for girls and older people; they have no sense of responsibility for their social obligations." Their table manners are "lousy." They are rude, insincere, disrespectful, inconsiderate, impolite, and discourteous.

In other schools, too, co-eds are inclined to agree with the Carolinians.

"The thing that gets in my hair most," declares a Syracuse University girl, "is when boys won't stand when a girl enters a room; and I could scream when my partner keeps bumping into other couples on a dance floor. I hate unnecessary profanity, and I don't like loudness in a boy either." In short there's not a whole lot that is good about the American male as he is found in college.

From the University of Indiana comes the opinion that "the most common failing of college boys occurs in the fraternity houses after dates. There each boy openly and rudely classifies each girl. 'Sometimes a girl doesn't have a chance to live down a reputation after a boy has branded her.'"

But there is hope, however. There is a market for the campus Romeo, but his character and activities must be modified. A sense of humor, ruggedness of feature rather than good looks, ability to know when he's had enough to drink, a little athletic ability, and above all consideration and politeness are components of the "ideal" co-eds agree.

Perhaps the most energetic of statisticians attend the University of Wisconsin. Last month a self-appointed authority declared that "following careful investigation" he had computed that the average female college student uses enough lipstick annually to paint the side of a barn.

Last week a colleague made an even more startling announcement. A girl chews her gum approximately 93 times a minute, he said, while a cow chews her cud only 54 times a minute. During the average life of a stick of gum—two and a half hours—a girl's jaw moves through a distance of 860 feet; a man's through 1010 feet, and a cow's through 3,520 feet. The total for all students for a year is 16,800 miles, or over half-way around the world.

Students at Baker University have finally won a 42-year fight to permit school dances, banned since the university was founded. Last week the inaugural dance had to be called off. Reason: lack of interest.

Thirty years ago Dr. H. Babcock, professor at the University of South Carolina, attended historic William and Mary College. During his college career he occupied the same room used by Edgar Allen Poe many years before.

While exploring under the floor one night, he discovered a secret tunnel running to all parts of the campus. At last, the source of Poe's mystery stories was found! For weeks he spent many happy hours exploring this strange passage; then one day he learned that it was an abandoned sewer.

Why I Never Joined a Sorority: I didn't want fraternity boys calling me at night.

I had never danced with a man in my life and I didn't want to start.

I hated the thought of dormitory life and having to crawl over a lot of sisters to get to bed.

I didn't like the idea of rooming with one girl for a whole semester.

I don't look particularly well in sleeveless, low-cut gowns.

I'm a boy.

Statistics: In America last year there were 1,150,000 men and women attending colleges, universities, and normal schools... One out of three college students is a girl... There are 38,260 law students in the nation... The most heavily endowed school is Harvard with $128,000,000... The total living membership of Phi Beta Kappa is 58,000... Correspondence schools last year had a total enrollment of 208,000... There are 81 men's undergraduate Greek letter social fraternities and 35 women's sororities... Yale graduates have 13 children... Vassar graduates have 1.7 children.

March winds caused a record run on the Ohio State infirmary, 2927 students appearing for treatment.

Could You Use Thirty Dollars? If you know that there is a senior library contest you probably also know that a prize of thirty dollars is being offered to the winner. But it seems that that thirty dollars will go begging due to lack of applicants for the prize. This is the first year that such a prize has been offered. It is made possible through the generosity of Dr. John G. Herndon, Jr., an alumnus, now a professor at Haverford.

Briefly, the rules are these: all books owned by seniors since the junior year in high school are eligible; merit will be judged on the size, quality, and representation of interest; the contestant will explain his method of selection to the library committee; he must submit an alphabetical list of his books; the books must be exhibited in the library. The last rule states that in any year when the judges feel that no senior has a worthy library, the award will not be made.

To date there are few or no applications for the prize. This does not, we must admit, speak very well for the gentlemen who pride themselves on their reading and interest in books. It does not speak well for a University which cannot dig up from its senior class at least a half dozen men who own a library of sufficient quality or size to compete for the award. It is, obviously, a rather embarrassing situation.

Would-be contestants are naturally handicapped by the fact that though they may own a good library, a library is not a thing which can be transported in a vest pocket like a miniature chess-board. This is an advantage to the local men who need not undergo the necessary expense and trouble of bringing books from a great distance. As the contest does not close until June 1, there is still time to arrange for the shipment of books.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Disillusioned Readers... This "Disillusioned Female" business seems to have quieted down a bit—we haven't had any more letters on the subject for several days. And honest, public, contrary to some opinion, the letters printed in this column were all genuine, not a product of this writer's imagination. The letters caused some repercussion as far north as Mary Baldwin, and as far south as Randolph-Macon, mostly from town girls away at school. Most of them sided with "Disillusioned Female," while a few thought that she was wrong. It was an interesting discussion and if you have any more ideas on the subject, let us know.

Landed Gentry... Up at the court house square the other day, the sheriff was auctioning off some land. The bidding was slow, starting off at about a dollar. A farmer pushed it up a couple of cents. Rollie Rimmel, the Arkansas traveller, decided to have some fun, so he put in a bid. The farmer bid again, and Rimmel became interested and made a bid of about $1.75. That clinched the deal, and he now owns an acre of property out on some creek. Who knows, maybe he'll hit oil or gold—or sumpin'.

Bartender's Dictionary... From the wilds of New York we get a touching bit of whimsy called "The Bartender's Dictionary." Here are a couple of excerpts: Absinthe—cutting class. Fizz—type of hat worn by the Asiatia. Goblet—small sailor. Kummel—large desert animal with humps. All right! All right! That's enough for a general idea. Maybe we've got something there.

Short Shots... The Troubadours have abandoned their plans to present "Twentieth Century"... latest news indicate that "Laburnum Grove" will be the play presented in about two weeks... Tim Landvoigt has the nearest idea for the mock convention to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday... he wants to blacken his face and go as a South Carolina Republican... The New York Herald-Tribune reports that at an old-fashioned English breakfast ride in Central Park, the thing started off "as the cornet sounded the hunting call and the band broke into the 'Washington and Lee Swing' played in gallop time"...

Electrical System May Be Installed For Ringing Bell

The grasping tentacles of the machine age have reached into the last stronghold of manual labor on Washington and Lee's campus. Ed Walker, the man who hourly rings the bell, is in grave danger of losing that job if the architects and faculty succeed in finding an electric clock that will be a fit substitute for Ed's arm.

The bell is supposed to have been installed in Lee chapel when it was built. Sometime after Lee's death, it was moved to the top of Washington College from which it has rung hundreds of students to classes in the past sixty years. During all these years, except for an occasional freshman, no one has tolled that bell but professional ringers. Now it is to be profaned by an electrical device.

Jack Gooch and Ed Walker are the only two living men whose job it has been to ring the bell for every class. When Ed was notified of the proposed change, he appeared to be shocked.

"I'm glad to be getting out of the work where every minute I have to watch the clock. But the old place won't seem the same," Ed added. "I don't see any need for a change, I'm always right on time, and that's all that can be expected. What I want to see is how they're going to fix it to ring all night after football games, and how they're going to run it on assembly days."

Old Jack Gooch looked up from his work in the chapel and cried, "Well, they have sure done it this time. Why I worked twelve years at that job. I taught Ed how to ring the thing; you know there is an art to it? I surely hope they don't work out a way to use a machine on that bell."

"There are two things on this campus that I like better than all the rest; they are Old George and that bell. They took Old George and treated him like a chunk of wood, and now they are going to treat the old bell just like any other bell."

"Well, Jack," we broke in, "don't you think the bell will be just as effective with the new clock added?"

"Of course not," he replied, "no machine ever did the work of an artist as well as the man himself could. I hope they keep the old thing just as it is."

However, despite these futile hopes, contractors and engineers are trying to devise some feasible plan to put into effect this fall. The tident of the times has caught the old school.

Delta Tau Delta Winner in Track Tournament By Slight Margin

Phi Kappa Sigma Takes Second Place With 28 1-2 Points

LEW MARTIN WINS INDIVIDUAL HONOR

Delts' Relay Team And Rothert in Javelin Shatter Previous Records

The Delta Tau Delta's won a closely contested intramural track and field meet on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons from the Phi Kappa Sig's by a one and a half-point margin, amassing 30 points. The Delts were accorded the usual five points, which go to the winner, to widen their lead in the intramural race.

Two records were shattered, one in the relay and the other in the javelin. Bill Rothert, Phi Kap weight man, bettered his record set last year in the javelin by a foot and a half, hurling the spear 159 feet and two inches. The crack Delts relay team cut down the record set last year by the Sigma Chi's by six seconds, being clocked at 3:55.5.

Individual scoring honors for the meet went to Lew Martin, who hung up all but one of the Kappa Sig's thirteen points. He took first in the shot and discus and placed third in the javelin. Roger Williams, Kappa Sig, fell a half a point short of tying with Martin with firsts in both hurdle events and a tie for third in the high jump. Williams was injured in the meet but not seriously.

Other leading scorers were: Wes Heath, Delt; Frank Crew, Beta, with nine points; Bill Rothert, Phi Kap, Paul Darsie, Touring Tiger, and Ray Craft, Delt, with eight points; Hart Baker, Delt, and Jim Griffin, Phi Gam, with seven; and Bill Daniel, Sigma Chi, with six.

As a whole the time recorded in the running events was rather slow, especially in contrast with Bobby Fields' times last year. Fielden Woodward won a closely contested hundred from Bill Daniel in 1:13 seconds. Jim Griffin paced the field in the 220, running the distance in 26 seconds. Ed Shannon won a 2:15.4 880, and Hart Baker took first in a 58.4 quarter mile. Paul Darsie took an early lead in the mile run and held it throughout. His time was 5:16. The team scores are:

Following the BIG BLUE

By The SPORTS STAFF

It's often a snap judgment which changes the course of a man's life. Coach Forest Fletcher, Washington and Lee's beloved director of athletics and track coach, tells an interesting story of how he got started to college:

Fletcher and a friend of his, two years out of high school, were working in a Chicago business concern. Oftentimes Saturday they would get leave to run in track meets. But one Saturday their request for leave was refused, so that decided to give the boss one more chance and if he didn't let them go to the meet, they were going to quit and go to college. They were refused, and a few weeks later the pair of them ended up at Notre Dame, where Fletcher later became track captain.

Fletcher, who was a member of the 1912 Olympic track team, is quite proud right now of his star pupil, Billy Schuhle, a candidate for this year's Olympic team. Schuhle, who is said to have looked less like a hurdler than almost any man who ever came to Washington and Lee when he first arrived some five years ago, yesterday jaunted the 440-yard three-foot hurdles in fifty-five seconds, two seconds faster than the time recorded for the event in the Penn relays last Saturday.

Roy Dart, freshman pitcher, who chalked up his fifth win of the season on Wednesday by shutting out the strong V. P. I. team, says he has been pitching ever since—well, he just can't remember. Dart, who is a hardy lad, is remembered for his bare-foot football playing in the intramural league last fall.

Spiders Take Two Straight

Lacy Stars in Perfect Day At Bat With Two Homers

Richmond made it two straight by defeating the Generals, 8-4, Tuesday afternoon. The two defeats dropped Washington and Lee below the five hundred mark. George Lacy, who drove out two homers and enjoyed a perfect day at bat, was the individual star of the game. Herb Hash twirled in fine style and set the Generals down on seven scattered hits, while striking out 13 men.

Chip Jones paced Washington and Lee's batting attack by hitting a home run to deep left-center in the eighth inning. Jones was again at first base, handling twelve put outs without an error. Mac Pitt's nine took the lead in the second and managed to hold it throughout the game. Home runs by Lacy and Hash and a single by Buck Jacobs put the Spiders three runs out in front by the end of the third inning.

Washington and Lee broke into the scoring column when Preston Moore singled down the third base line to drive in Layton Cox. The Spiders retaliated in their half of the fifth to score two more runs on Lacy's second home run and singles by Pete and Buck Jacobs. Lacy drove in his fourth run of the day in the seventh inning to bring the Spider total to six. Moore, Breckenridge, and Iler collaborated in the seventh to put over two runs. Jones' homer in the eighth completed the Generals' scoring.

Two bases on balls and a passed ball gave Richmond two more runs in the ninth.

Strong Brigadier Team Primed for Win Over Gobblers in Final Meet

Washington and Lee's consistently successful Brigadier track squad will run onto Wilson field tomorrow afternoon with the idea of making it three straight dual meet wins. Their opponents will be the Techmen from V. P. I. who defeated V. M. I. last Saturday by a sizeable margin.

Leading the Brigadier's drive for victory will be Flash Harvey, Bob Allen, and Heartsill Ragon. Harvey is favored in both the middle distance events; Allen holds the edge on Mathews of Tech in the sprints; and Ragon is looked to be the winner in the mile as well as for a place in the half mile.

Assisting these three who have consistently won their events this season will be Joe Ochsle, a fifty-foot shot putter; John Beaire, pole vaulter and high jumper; Butch Thurman, who has run second to Harvey in every quarter

That man Lacey sure worked havoc with the W. & L. pitchers in the recent series on Wilson field. But big George can be excused since he was being watched by two St. Louis Borwn scouts, who it is believed, signed him up. Who wouldn't after Lacey cracked out six safeties in nine turns at the plate including three circuit blows? One of the homers landed in the track the other side of the football field and now takes precedence as Wilson field's longest homer.

A flash from Philadelphia tells us that Russ Peters, former W. & L. star, slammed out four for four in behalf of the Athletics last Sunday. Which is not so bad in any man's league.

Just for fun we're playing the Kentucky Derby tomorrow—and not Brevity. Personally, we like the silks of E. R. Bradley and have laid our meagre money on Bien Joll and Banister, the green-and-white Bradley entry. Just as a cover-up, we took Indian Broom to show. And now we're praying it doesn't rain; for all our picks like a fast track.

Just as a final gesture we like to laugh up our sleeve a bit at the Richmond Times-Dispatch, who featured Dick Todd's forty-two-foot try in the shot put last week-end by giving the Richmond star a big picture on the sports page. Although Tubby Owings tossed the sixteen-pound ball two feet further he received little more than notice of the fact he had beaten Todd. Owings' heave displaced the old W. & L. record of forty-four feet, ten inches, set by E. L. Stevens in 1930.

W-L Trackmen Ready for V P I

Thinclads Enter Final Meet Against Strong Competition

Washington and Lee's varsity track squad, after training all week to meet the destructive running of Captain Ivan Mothershead of Virginia Tech, will enter Wilson field tomorrow determined to score a victory in their final dual meet of the year.

To realize their determination the Generals will have to score heavily in other events than the distance runs where Mothershead holds court. Only last week the V. P. I. star came home in the mile, half mile and two-mile runs against V. M. I.; and in every case he toured the distance in record time.

Several other Tech men who are likely to cause the Generals' ambitions to be upset are Pritchard, a sprinter and low hurdler; Turner, a quarter miler who has been clocked in 51 seconds; Rollins, a high jumper and broad jumper; and Shockey in the weight events.

Men whom Coach Fletcher expects to turn the tables in favor of the Blue and White are Jimmy Rogers, the speedy sophomore hurdler; Tubby Owings, shot putter who last week set a new record of 44 feet 6 inches for Washington and Lee; Bill Higgins, pole vaulter; Lang Skarda, dash man; and a trio of quarter milers in Browning, Funk and Wharton.

Against the mighty Mothershead will run Price Davis, who is expected to push the Tech man under 4:30 in the mile run; Bob Kingsbury, the Generals' spectacular half-miler; and Warren Edwards and Charles Prater, two-milers who look to give Mothershead and his running mate, Carter, a hard race for victory.

Last season the Generals scored a 67-59 win over the Tech team, with "Iron Man" Dunaj and Billy Schuhle leading the way to victory; and the Blue and White will be out to make it two straight when the two squads run Saturday afternoon.

mile this year; Hillier and Nielsen, who have backed up Ragon and Harvey in the distance runs; and Chester Collier, whom Fletcher has developed into a low hurdler and who won this event against Richmond last week. To defend the victory they won last year over the Brigadiers, the Techmen will bring a strong team paced by Al Miller, all around field man who chalked up fourteen points against V. M. I. last week. Besides Miller, Grubbs, a miler, and Mathews, a sprinter and low hurdle man, head the V. P. I. squad.

Generals Play Tech Today At Blacksburg

Gobblers Have Good Team Despite Early Season Reverses

Washington and Lee's baseball nine traveled to Blacksburg today to meet V. P. I. in the opener of a two-game series. The games mark the third and fourth Southern Conference tilt for the Generals.

Chip Jones probably will draw the first base assignment on the strength of his work in the two Richmond games. Mike Tomlin will handle the receiving department with Eddie Hiserman in readiness to relieve him.

The infield and outfield will be practically the same as in the last two Richmond encounters. Max Breckenridge and Mickey Cochran may split time in left field, depending upon the Gobblers' pitching.

Captain Joe Pette and Emmy Dickman, as usual, will carry the burden of the pitching assignment. Captain Dick Smith had not decided upon the order in which he will use his two pitchers when the team left early this morning.

After playing two good games against the University of Virginia and North Carolina, the Generals wilted in the last two Richmond games, losing both tilts by a wide margin.

The Gobblers present a well-balanced nine even though they have lost six of their ten games this season. V. P. I. has lost three out of four games to the Indians, all of which were decided by a one-run margin.

V. M. I. holds the short end in a four-game series with the Gobblers, losing three games all by top-heavy scores. Virginia and Roanoke are responsible for the other two V. P. I. defeats.

With a pitching staff of "Wild Bill" Saunders, Ruffner Murray, and Lake, V. P. I. presents a very strong mound corps. Jones, Gobbler football captain, is rounding out his third year behind the plate for the Blacksburg cadets.

In the Southern conference ratings, V. P. I. has won three while losing two. The Generals, on the other hand, have a clean slate in conference games with two victories.

There are 175,000 attorneys in the United States, 38,800 incubating in the law schools. Too many, say authorities.

Iler Hits Hard to Take Batting Lead; Dickman Second, L. Cox Third

Norman Iler, Generals' second-sacker, took the lead in the team batting averages by hitting safely five times in his last thirteen trips to the plate. He has been at bat 56 times and has 20 hits to his credit for a .357 average.

Emerson Dickman, leader a week ago, closely presses Iler for individual batting honors with a .354 average. Layton Cox remained in third place, batting at a .315 clip.

Max Breckenridge showed the greatest single improvement by raising his average from .091 to .211 to take fifth place. Chip Jones boosted his average over fifty points, advancing from ninth to seventh place.

The general team batting has dropped, because of the failure to hit in the two Richmond games this week. As a whole averages fell about fifty points per man.

The complete averages are:

Player	ab	h	av.
Iler	56	20	.357
Dickman	48	17	.354
Cox	54	17	.315
Pette	56	16	.286

Netmen to Play Four Games on Five-Day Trip

After an unsuccessful stand on the local courts, Washington and Lee's varsity tennis team will leave Lexington on a five-day road trip during which they will play four matches.

The netmen open their trip at Williamsburg this afternoon when they battle William and Mary college. Tomorrow afternoon they journey to Richmond where they will meet the University of Richmond. On Monday the squad will cross rackets with the University of Maryland at College Park; and the trip will be concluded with a match with Georgetown university of Washington on Tuesday.

The team as announced by Coach Ollie Crenshaw will include the following six men: Radcliffe, McCordell, Reynolds, Garber, Kramer, and Meier.

Brigadiers Blank V.P.I. As Dart Strikes Out Ten

"Ace" Dart, Brigadier pitcher, shut out the Little Gobblers of V. P. I., 2-0, at Wilson field, Wednesday afternoon, allowing only four hits and striking out 10. Dart had perfect control and V. P. I.'s four hits were well scattered.

The Little Generals collected seven hits off Garber, V. P. I. hurler, and registered tallies in the second and seventh inning. In the second frame Busby singled down the third base line and scored on Dunlap's three-bagger to centerfield.

The final score came in the seventh when Dill bounced off a double, advanced to third on Year's error, and scored on a well-executed squeeze play.

Delts Bunch Hits To Beat SPE's

Phi Delts, A T O's, Pi Phi's Also Win I-M Baseball Tilts

Second Round Results
Phi Delta Theta 20, Lambda Chi Alpha 9; A. T. O. 10, P. E. P. 9; Pi Kappa Phi 9, Kappa Sigma 7; Delta Tau Delta 6, Sigma Phi Epsilon 2.

Games Next Week
Pi Kappa Alpha vs. Beta Theta Pi; Delta Upsilon vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Sigma Nu vs. Zeta Beta Tau.

Despite the fact that they could only collect five safeties off the slants of the S. P. E. hurler, Delta Tau Delta yesterday hit at the right time to beat the Sig Eps 6-2 and thereby advance to the third round of the intramural baseball tournament. Other winners for the day were Alpha Tau Omega, Pi Kappa Phi and Phi Delta Theta.

The A. T. O.'s went into the third round when they pushed the deciding run over the plate in the last of the seventh on a squeeze play. In the first half of the inning the winners turned away two Phi Ep runs by catching men at the plate.

Kappa Sigma, fielding sloppily in one or two innings, could not give Luke Martin enough power at the bat to make up for their fielding errors, and the boys from the end of town dropped their game to Pi Kappa Phi who played a steady game behind the pitching of Jack Arnold.

The Phi Delts and Lambda Chi put on a slugfest of twenty-nine runs of which the fraternity row team got twenty. Several homers and many extra base blows featured the game.

Landon

Continued from page one almost since the inaugural day, and it was his purpose to find someone who represented the antithesis of the president in political policies. As the only Republican governor elected in 1934 and as a man who had followed an entirely conservative policy and was definitely anti-Socialistic, even the mild Socialism of the president, Governor Alf Landon filled the bill. When Mr. Hearst learned of this answer to his prayers he hastened to spread his name and his success as governor over the front pages of his great chain of newspapers. This started the stampede to the Landon standard which has grown ever since.

Today Landon has over 100 of the Republican convention votes pledged to him with every indication that there are more to come. The Middle West is mainly Republican and it is almost sure that that section of the country will support him if he is the candidate, but his strength in other sections has not yet been accurately determined.

On May 15 the members of the T. K. I. honorary biology fraternity will meet at their annual banquet to be held at Forest Tavern. At least forty members are expected to be present.

Tom Alphin, president of T. K. I., will act as toastmaster at the banquet, as is customary for the retiring president.

Law Fraternity Holds Initiation

Thirteen Men Taken Into Phi Delta Phi Monday Night

Thirteen men were initiated by the local chapter of Phi Delta Phi, national legal fraternity, at a banquet held at the Dutch Inn on Monday night. Dr. Raymon T. Johnson was the principal speaker.

A completely new program of activities has been prepared by the legal fraternity. The society has decided to do away with their annual "shine," and to institute a program of talks and smokers concerning the profession of law. In addition a number of "mute trials, stimulating actual court procedure, are to be held in the future. It was stressed by Phi Delta Phi leaders that these trials will not be a continuation of the mock trials held in the past, but will be serious attempts by the lawyers to gain a knowledge of court procedure.

New officers for the fraternity are: Joe Arnold, president; Stanley Higgins, clerk; George Pittcher, exchequer; Bill Higgins, historian, and Bill Robinson, sergeant at arms.

Men initiated at the banquet last night were: Dan Wilkerson,

Candidates Report Small Expense Accounts Due To Lack of Opposition

Candidates for the student body offices this year spent much less than candidates of the elections of the past years, according to Ajax Browning, secretary-treasurer of the Executive committee.

The lack of expense this year is due probably to the steam roller opposition by the Big Clique. The opposition numbered seven last year, but this year there was only one independent.

Article VII of the by-laws of the constitution of the student body stipulates that all campaign expenses be sanctioned by the Executive committee. Those candidates who have submitted their expense accounts are: Latham Weber, $4.75; Joe Taylor, $4.00; Fletcher Maynard and Ross Crom, $1.20; Norman Iler, George Gil-land, Bill Hudgins, Jack Simmons, Ernest Barrett, Cowi Rider, King Jones, Bob Spessard, Fielden Woodward, Emerson Dickman, Preston Moore, and Frank Frazier, $1.15.
