Religious Week Opens March 8 With Assembly For Peace Talk

Dr. Edwin Poteat, Jr., Religious Leader of N. C. State To Speak

TUCKER STRESSES NEED OF RELIGION

Speech Will Open Week of Emphasis on Religious Matters

Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, Jr., N. C. State religious leader, will open Religious Emphasis week here at a compulsory assembly on March 8 at 11:30. His talk will be on World Peace. Dr. Gaines will introduce the speaker and Dr. Morton will give an outline of the week's work.

The purpose of the Religious Emphasis week and the visit of Dr. Poteat, who is under the sponsorship of the faculty and the Christian council has been made clear by Dr. Tucker, who says: "Religion is an essential element in the culture which all educational institutions recognize and endeavor to promote. Washington and Lee has always been definitely committed to non-sectarian Christian education. The administration is therefore happy to announce the inauguration of Religious Emphasis Week beginning March 8th. The leader for this year will be Dr. E. McNeill Poteat, Jr. We feel that this program is in every way worthy of the support and interest of the student body."

Foreful Speaker
According to a previous editorial in the Ring-tum Phi, Dr. Poteat "has a reputation for being a forceful speaker, well-informed on a large variety of topics, who brings to his discussions on religion an originality and clarity of thought which can not but prove refreshing to a student body whose religious interests have largely succumbed to a bored skepticism. The program of lectures planned should go far to clear up, for those interested enough to attend, what Dr. Gaines has termed "religious illiteracy."

Round Table Discussion
Following up his talk Monday morning, Dr. Poteat will at 3:30 on the same day conduct a round table discussion with the International Relations club in the circle room of the Student Union. Afterwards he will attend an informal reception from five until six, given by the faculty and their wives in the lounge of the Union. At 7:30 that night he will address the student body in Lee Chapel. A lecture on the English Bible Continued on page four

N.C.A. Will Close Year With Concert By Harms

Famous American Pianist To Play at High School Tuesday

William Harms, brilliant young American pianist, will be the last artist to be presented by the Lexington National Concert association. The concert will be held in the Lexington high school auditorium, next Tuesday night at 8:30.

Although Mr. Harms is very young, he has already made a name for himself in the musical world. He has appeared several times with the Philadelphia Orchestra, under the direction of Leopold Stokowski and has also added a radio audience to his rapidly increasing number of admirers before the CBS microphones.

He is noted for his brilliant technique and his richness of tone. The security and charm which he adds to the most difficult passages have caused many audiences to gasp at the ability of the young rising artist.

At present, besides being affiliated with the National Concert association, William Harms is the youngest member of the piano faculty of the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. According to all of his critics, he is destined to become one of the world's greatest pianists and is already placed in the forefront of the young American musicians.

Only members of the Lexington National Concert association will be privileged to hear Mr. Harms concert here. Mr. Arnold Lovejoy, manager of the NCA's main unit in Washington, will be present at the concert to take any subscriptions for next year. It is not known whether there will be a reduction in price for those joining the group at this time or not, but this will be discussed by Mr. Lovejoy.

Plans Pushed For School Band

All Efforts Are Utilized; Financial Aid Is Big Problem

Negotiations are still being pushed toward the organization of a University band, it was learned yesterday from Harry Moreland and Jimmy Ruth. Every effort is being made to contact alumni and men about town who might hold some interest in the matter. Through these men Moreland hopes to create and spread enthusiasm for such a movement. It is undecided when the next meeting will be called.

Financial aid is the main drawback. Advances along this line will remain at a standstill until the return of President Gaines. The University is in full support of the plans for a band organization.

Lack of interest among the students is another factor with which the organizers must cope. All students interested in the organization of a band are requested to cooperate when their services are called for.

Attempts are being made to round up missing property of the former University band. Any student who has, or knows the whereabouts of any of this equipment is urged to see Harry Moreland immediately.

Washington and Lee is the only large college in Virginia without a band. It is hoped that a band will be organized and fully equipped in time to lead the warriors of the gridiron onto Wilson field next fall.

Debaters Open Southern Tour

W. & L. Team Will Meet Duke, Wake Forest and Davidson

With one of the most promising squads in years, Washington and Lee's debating team swings into mid-season next Tuesday with the second extensive trip of the year. Represented by Hugh Avery, Captain James Blalock, and James Slavery, the team will make their annual Southern Tour, meeting debaters at Duke, Wake Forest, and Davidson.

On this trip the W. and L. debaters will uphold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved: that Congress should be empowered to enact minimum wages and maximum hours for industry."

This morning at 11:30 Marvin Collier and Stanford Schewel representing Washington and Lee met a debate team from William and Mary before the public speaking classes in Payne Hall. Schewel and Collier took the negative side of the same question as is going to be debated on the Southern trip. Decision was rendered by the vote of the audience.

On March 22, Washington and Lee will have its annual campus debate which will be open to the student body and the general public. Further details of this debate will be announced at a later date.

Dr. Poteat will lecture on the classes Tuesday morning at 10:30 English Bible to freshman English on the third floor of Newcomb hall.

W-L Students and Faculty Favor New Class Schedule

"I think it's fine."

"What's the difference, anyway. You gotta go to school anyhow."

Such were a few of the varied reactions to the new schedule of examinations, and the new class schedule, which were recently adopted by the faculty.

Fred Moran, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who approves heartily, had this to say, "The best doctors say that after dinner vitality is at its lowest, and we should have at least an hour's rest. Vitality is at its lowest, and mental concentration is difficult. With those hot summer days coming, morning classes are bad enough; in the afternoon it's plain hell."

Ross V. Hersey, of New Bedford, Massachusetts, expressed the sentiment of the majority of his freshmen class when he stated: "I think that the afternoons off is well, and a step in the right direction. But I hardly think it is far to the freshmen, however, to put almost all of their examinations in the afternoon. It's far more nerve wracking to wait throughout the morning for an exam in the afternoon. And, furthermore, I think a person does his best work in the morning, and not in the afternoon."

F. E. Lund, faculty representative, stated in one of his classes, "It's a help to both the faculty and students, since it gives more free time for study and recreation."

The general attitude of both faculty and students, however, seems to be that this realignment of the class schedule will be a great help in abating everyone to budget his time more systematically, and achieve more by reason of it. The consensus of opinion as to the lopping off of five minutes from the periods, is that this loss of actual time will be amply taken care of by more efficient working in actual class time under the new system.

Rogers Elected ODK President, Replaces Bolen

Woodward and Beale Will Fill Other Offices Next Year

LIBRARY CONTEST AWARDS REVISED

Single Prize of $25 To Be Given In Annual Competition

James Rogers was elected president of Omicron Delta Kappa at the annual election of officers of the Circle held last night. Rogers succeeds Amos Bolen as head of the honorary fraternity.

Elections in the past have been held in May, but the change in the date of elections was made so that the new officers would be able to attend the national convention of the fraternity, held in the latter part of March.

Other officers elected last night were Fielden Woodward, vice-president, and Vaughan Beale, secretary-treasurer.

Rogers, who is a member of Kappa Alpha social fraternity, is a freshman law student. He is a member of the varsity track team and was elected to O. D. K. at the annual tapping last December.

At the meeting last night the conditions of the O. D. K. library contest were modified to provide for a single prize of $25 worth of books instead of the previous system of two prizes, one of $15 and the other of $5.

The fraternity library contest is sponsored annually by O. D. K., the prize being given to the fraternity that has made the most noteworthy improvement in its house library during the academic year.

'Pep' Telegram Sent Yesterday By 251 Students

In order to assure the basketball team that the Washington and Lee student body was behind them and ardently supporting them, a telegram signed by 261 students was sent yesterday afternoon to Raleigh and delivered to Coach Cy Young on the floor of the gymnasium where the Washington and Lee-South Carolina game was being played.

The pep telegram idea was conceived and executed by Arnold Matthews and Hugh Ashcraft, who collected five cents from each student who desired to have his name included, canvassing both the dormitories and numerous fraternity houses.

The actual wording of the telegram was as follows: "Washington and Lee is behind the best team in the tournament. Victory will be yours." This fifteen word message plus the 261 signatures cost $14.02, and Western Union officials announced that it was the longest telegram ever dispatched from the Lexington office.

Sent direct to Raleigh in order that it might be delivered during the game, the telegram was not relayed through Richmond, which is the usual route. The actual sending of the telegram took about thirty minutes.

Leading the long list of names was Hugh Ashcraft, and there was no charge for his signature as the telegram company allows one signature to be sent free with every message.

Reid Elected President Of Sigma Phi Epsilon

At a meeting Wednesday night, Sigma Phi Epsilon elected Jay Reid president of the fraternity for the coming year, replacing S. T. Cleveland. Other officers elected were: Jack Beecher, vice-president; Traynor, secretary; S. T. Cleveland, Interfraternity Council Representative; A. C. Krieger, historian; S. E. Tyler, Guard; and Charles Blackledge and Dabney Watts, marshals.

Dr. J. H. Matthews, University of Wisconsin professor, will speak on "Scientific Methods in Crime Detection" at the V. M. I. Chemical Laboratory, at 8 p. m. Thursday night, March 11.

W-L Splashers Upset By N. C. State Team In Conference Relay

Hollins Singers To Appear Here

Will Give Joint Concert With W. and L. Glee Club

The Washington and Lee Glee Club will hold a joint concert with Hollins' College Monday night, March 22, in the Lee Chapel, according to Prof. John A. Graham, director.

This concert will be the second of its kind on the campus this year, and several more have been planned through March and April.

The program will consist of several mixed choruses and several pieces by the separate glee clubs. The opening selection will be a mixed chorus of the two organizations by Gluck, "Orpheus." Selections by the male chorus will include: "Doctor Foster," by Hughes; "The Drinking Song," from the Student Prince opera; "The Lotus Flower," by Schuman, and "Ave Maris Stella," by Grieg.

The mixed choruses will be: "Try We Lifelong," from a Gilbert and Sullivan Opera, and "Land Sighting," by Grieg. Several pieces will be sung by the Hollins Club.

Tentative Date
A return engagement at Hollins has been tentatively set at a date after the spring holiday.

Ollie Ghuys, president of the glee club, declared yesterday that, "the Glee Club is farther advanced at this time than it has been all year, and I feel confident that the concert will be a success. The increased spirit and attendance at rehearsals is the direct cause of this. This year we renew the series with Hollins and I hope that after this year we will have a standing engagement with them."

Informal Dance Slated For High School Quintet

Officials of the South Atlantic Interscholastic Basketball tournament announced today that an informal dance would be added to the program planned for the visiting teams during the tournament. The dance will be held in Doremus gymnasium immediately following the final game Saturday night, March 13.

Those in charge of arrangements for the tournament also said that they hoped many Washington and Lee students would have dates for the tournament final and the dance.

Music for the dance, which will last until midnight, will be furnished by the Southern Collegians. The admission charge will be one dollar.

Lexington Democrats Celebrate Roosevelt Victory With Banquet

Lexington and Rockbridge county Democrats last night celebrated the overwhelming Democratic victory of last November and the completion of four years of the Roosevelt administration, and also paid tribute to Mrs. F. Cleveland Davis, of Lexington, who served as director of the women's division in Virginia during the campaign.

The local celebration was one of thousands of Victory Banquets held by Democrats in all parts of the United States prior to the President's nation-wide broadcast. More than 170 persons paid two dollars each for tickets to the local banquet, held at the Robert E. Lee Hotel.

Dr. Robert H. Tucker, dean of the University, spoke briefly and introduced the guest speaker, Horace H. Edwards, Roosevelt campaign manager for Virginia. Greenlee Letcher, local attorney, served as toastmaster. Entertainment included several musical

Assembly Day Schedule

Assembly day schedule will be followed Monday with a University assembly scheduled for 11:30 a. m. when Dr. E. M. Poteat will address the student body.

The address by Dr. Poteat will open the first annual Religious Emphasis Week on this campus.

Schedule of classes for Monday morning is as follows:

8:30 to 9:15
9:15 to 10:00
10:00 to 10:45
10:45 to 11:30

Lyric Theatre Control Upset

Warners Refuse To Relinquish Hold On Theatre To Weinberg

Although it has been reported locally that Dan H. Weinberg would assume control of the Lyric theatre here on Monday, it appeared today that Warner Bros. present operators of the house, would not relinquish control of the theatre immediately. However, as was revealed in the last issue of Ring-tum Phi, Mr. Weinberg last summer obtained a ten-year lease to the building. The lease was to have become effective on last September 1, but his occupancy of the building has been prevented by a court injunction secured, it is understood, by owners of the property following an offer by Warner Bros. for the building.

Showing of pictures next week by Warner Bros. have been advertised and Ralph Daves, manager of the house said today that he has "not been instructed by Warner Bros. in regard to any change in the management of the theatre." "Pictures will be shown as booked," he stated.

However there are several indications that Mr. Weinberg is attempting to carry out the terms of his lease and take over the theatre and that equally strong opposition to this is being exerted by other interests involved.

Mr. Wenberg, who operates the Rockbridge Theatre at Buena Vista and other houses at Bedford and Lynchburg, was in Lexington yesterday to work on the matter, it was learned, but he could not be reached for a statement. Previously he had visited in Washington, district headquarters for the Warner Bros. concern, according to newspaper articles, but no statement has been issued from that office. Mr. Daves is also understood to have been in Washington within the past few days.

Generals Nosed Out By N. C. State In Important 440-yard Relay

SIX W-L SWIMMERS PLACE FOR FINALS

Gil Meem Wins 220 and 440 Heats In The Preliminaries

Shutting out both favorites, W. and L. and William and Mary in a startling upset at 4:30 this afternoon, the relay team of North Carolina State took first place in the all-important 400 yard relay of the Southern Conference Swimming meet, being held today and tomorrow in the new V. M. I. swimming pool.

Payne of State came from behind to pass Gil Meem of W. and L. and finish a scant half yard in the lead. State's time was 3 minutes and 55 seconds. Washington and Lee took second, William and Mary, third, Clemson, fourth, and Duke, last place.

Lose Final Event
This was the only final event run off today. First place counted eight points, second scored six, third meant four and fourth place counted two.

Results of today's events, which were not completed until 5:30 this evening, give W-L a shade better than 50-50 chance to win, with the closest competitor being the surprise team from N. C. State.

Washington and Lee, favored to win, was counting heavily on the relay team composed of Wagner, Brasher, Funk and Meem, taking first place. Brasher came from behind to put the team three yards ahead and W-L was still half a yard in the lead when anchorman Meem began but was passed a few yards from the finish by the State man. State's team was made up of Reynolds, Whitton, Bailey, and Payne.

In the qualifying heats for tomorrow's finals W-L men qualified for the races as follows:

Tennant Qualifies
Only one W-L man qualified for the finals in the 200 yard breast stroke. Tennant of W-L will be matched against Goldberg of W. and M., Ingram and Chambers of Duke and Damman of N. C. State. The best heat time was 2:48:30.

Lavietes and Hart of W-L will be matched against Battle and Gard of Duke, and Rettew of N. C. State in the 150 yard backstroke. Lavietes won his heat today in 1:55:8.

In the 50 yard free style Brasher of W-L will be matched against McKibbin of Duke, Schuler and Brill of William and Mary and Irwin of VMI. Brasher's time was 26 sec. flat while the best time of the heats was 25.5.

Gil Meem won his qualifying heat in the 440 free-style in 5:32:4 while the best time of the second heat was made by Payne of N. C. State in 5:51. Other qualifiers for tomorrow were Walker and Shepard of Duke and Moore of William and Mary.

Brasher To Face McKibbin
McKibbin of Duke paced the field in the 100 yard free style with a time of 58:6. He also made the best time in the 50. Two W-L men qualified in this event, Brasher and Wagner. Other qualifiers were Reynolds of N. C. State and Schuler of William and Mary.

In the 220 free style two W-L men also qualified, Meem and Hart. McKibbin of Duke, Payne of N. C. State and Durban will be their opponents. Payne made the best qualifying time in 2:30.

Gaines Back
Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of the University, is expected to return to Lexington next Wednesday after a six weeks' vacation in Florida.
Dr. Gaines was urged to make the trip by his physician to recover strength following a period of illness.

War "Bury the Dead" To Be Read Sat. Nite In Browsing Room

"Bury the Dead," a long one-act play by Irwin Shaw, will be read in the browsing room of the library on Saturday, March 6, at 8:00 p. m. Admission will be free.

"Bury the Dead" is a gripping and rather unusual portrayal of the horrors and recriminations that only war can produce. Irwin Shaw has succeeded in bringing to his audience a truly remarkable play whose action revolves around the thoughts and beliefs of a group of men killed in action who refuse to allow their bodies to be buried below the surface of the earth in the belief that they should not suffer for the doings of other men. The play was exceptionally well received by New York critics and audiences and it enjoyed a long and prosperous Broadway showing. The play has also proved popular with revival groups and college dramatic societies.

The reading Saturday night will be under the direction of Jim Andrews and will include Bill Karaker, Morton Brown, Charles Read, John Alnutt, Howell Roberts, Park Rouse, Jim Paera, Porter McCray, Stan Barrows and Misses Mary Barclay, Ann Brooks, "Bim" Moseley and Mrs. E. P. Tompkins.

A BETTER PROGRAM—THE NEW CLASS SCHEDULE

Several aspects of the recently announced change in the class schedule for next year have been brought to light since the faculty meeting last Monday. Aside from the bare mechanics of the change, its effect upon other activities has caused no little speculation and has raised not a few questions.

As far as conduct of studies is concerned, the change will have little actual effect upon classes, save to eliminate those deadly after-lunch lectures, in which the snores of students have so frequently competed with the droning voice of the lecturer. In study outside of classes, however, the revision of the schedule seems likely to have more important results. The elimination of the afternoon classes will release a number of hours which may prove valuable for informal meetings of professors and students. Conference sessions and discussion groups will be allotted more time, free from the possibility of conflict with any scheduled lectures. We can only hope that both faculty and student body will avail themselves of this new and promising opportunity for meeting informally.

The abolition of the afternoon lectures will likewise open up new hours for unbroken study in the library. A more efficient completion of parallel reading work should result. This new opportunity for serious use of the library by a large number of students may tax present facilities and may bring to a head the present agitation for a larger and more adequate library.

In fields other than the pursuit of learning, the change may have important results. In intramural athletics, to cite but one case, freedom from afternoon lectures will make possible wider participation by all members of the student body. The change might lead to something bordering on the English program of academic life, whereby most of the morning is spent in study, while a large part of the afternoon hours are devoted to sports.

Certainly the "free afternoons" should prove a boon to the editors and business managers of publications, for no longer need they worry about staff meetings and publication work conflicting with classes in the afternoon hours.

Above all the new program should enable any man to budget his time more carefully and to allow himself more hours for any endeavor, either academic or extra-curricular, unbroken by class recitations. The plan gives promise of making possible a more complete University life.

ODK POINT SYSTEM—WHY SO SECRET?

Every year, as the time rolls around for the annual ODK tapping ceremonies, there is general speculation as students attempt to guess what juniors and seniors will be selected. But it is almost impossible for anyone to say with surety whether a man should or should not have the honor, since no one knows just what the qualifications for ODK are. Although it is generally understood that the number and importance of a man's extra-curricular activities are the deciding factor, no one knows just how ODK goes about its task of grading the potential nominees.

With non-members completely in the dark as to ODK's procedure, there is almost certain to be some degree of disappointment and recrimination after each list is announced. This has resulted in the casting of many aspersions, of a rather serious nature, upon the integrity of ODK. In the absence of any proof to the contrary, it has sometimes seemed that men gained the honor through politics, and not through any inherent virtue of their own. Similarly it has been felt that students less fortunately affiliated, politically, were unjustly ignored.

The remedy is the obvious one—that ODK annually publish their point system, showing exactly the number of points for the activities and accomplishments which are considered, and the total necessary for membership.

This method, as employed at Lehigh and Carnegie Tech, could easily be instituted here. Moreover, it seems only fair, from the standpoint of ODK's position on the campus, and for the sake of aspirants to the honor, that the society should take this long-desired step. It could not but enhance the desirability of the ODK award, and should bring about a corresponding increase in effort, which, we take it, is what ODK wants.

CAMPUS 'BIG SHOTS'—POSITION VS. QUALITY

Speaking Sunday before the assembled students, faculty, and alumni of Union college, Dr. Tyler Dennett, president of Williams college made some very profound remarks about the ultimate fate of the so-called "big shot" of the college campus.

"After graduation," said Dr. Dennett, "the 'big shots,' at first important and remembered for the positions which they held in 'undergraduate estimation, retain their relative places for the first few reunions and then begin to recede into the background. By the time of the twenty-fifth reunion, life has shaken the class down and the difference between position and quality has begun to be apparent to every one."

From long years on the college campus, Dr. Dennett should certainly have had an opportunity to observe how this contention of his works out. And what is true of "big shots" on one campus is true of practically all colleges. The student with the glad hand, the universal well wisher, are all of the same order. While here they may be able, without ever having to show their intrinsic worth, secure campus positions and reputations because of fortunate fraternity affiliations, "knowing the right people" or simple lethargy on the part of the better element in the student body. Once out in business or profession, however, they will find such competition as occurs nowhere on the campus except in regard to studies and grades. They will scarce be measured then by the same standards that now motivate their conduct and, as Dr. Dennett remarks, the distinction between position and quality will become all too plainly evident.

THE FORUM

HOPKINS VS. VIRGINIA

Abolition of all entrance charges to its intercollegiate sports events has just been announced by Johns Hopkins university, effective next October. This is said to be a revolutionary step, since there is understood to be no other institution which undertakes to finance the entire cost of its intercollegiate athletics from university funds.

It is, however, merely a logical extension of the athletic policy introduced at Hopkins several years ago, officials said. The few athletic scholarships then in effect, were abolished, the university took entire control of the institution's athletic program, and intramural sports were given especial emphasis. Simultaneously, the intercollegiate program was expanded from six to thirteen sports, with the result that over eighty-five per cent of the students now take part in some form of athletics.

It is in a further effort to deflate the commercial aspects of intercollegiate athletics that Johns Hopkins has now entered upon its far-reaching policy of charging no admission to games. No guarantees will be paid visiting teams by the university, and its own competitors will receive none.

It is interesting to contrast this trend at Hopkins with that which has just manifested itself at the University of Virginia. The Baltimore institution is seeking to lessen the emphasis placed upon intercollegiate athletics, whereas the Charlottesville institution has frankly announced that it will permit alumni henceforth to send young men who are suitable from the standpoint of character, personality and scholarship, to Virginia—and no questions asked.

We do not know which of the two represents the most prevalent trend in collegiate circles today. Hopkins officials say "a number of colleges recently have made significant moves" in the same direction that it has taken, and "several institutions and at least one informal group of colleges are now considering seriously the elimination of gate receipts." Such being the case, it may be that Hopkins has begun a nation-wide movement against commercialism. — Richmond Times-Dispatch.

BETWEEN SHEETS

By ALEX LOEB

Red Flannels . . .

Co-eds at the University of California have recently been advertising the fact that they can take it better than the girls at Stanford. When the recent cold wave hit California, the clothing stores did a rush business in winter underwear. However, the California co-eds point with glee to the fact that while the stores in Palo Alto completely sold out of women's red flannels, not a pair was sold in Berkeley. Stanford students only reply was, "Our scarlet scratches insured us a hot time . . . something they haven't experienced at U. of C."

Tire Trouble . . .

One college has been having its perennial parking trouble again this year. Finding that placing a small monetary fine on illegally parked cars didn't phase the students, they tried chaining the wheels of all automobiles parked in the wrong places. This worked for a time; until the president of the school happened to be the violator one morning. Now the college is trying this method:

- First offence . . . Air will be let out of one tire.
Second offence . . . Air will be let out of two tires.
Third offence . . . All tires will be deflated.

Get Your Sleep . . .

A professor interested in stories of great men who rose to the top recently made a survey of 500 successful men. He found that the majority of these admitted they had never done without long rest periods. The others said that although sometimes they were forced to go sleepless, they always experienced ill effects.

Flu Woosers . . .

Even a high temperature can't down that spirit that comes in the spring. At Minnesota the girls' ward, filled with spring fever and flu victims, decided to cut out paper dolls and send them to the equally sick boys across the hall. Not to be outdone, the boys phoned the nearest drug store and had ice cream cones sent to all the girls.

Hash . . .

Here at Washington and Lee, where we have a tradition for every act, we are shocked to find one or two that we have left out. There is one at St. Mary's University that no student can get a haircut, take a shave, or bathe during examinations. . . Northwestern emulating Iowa's example has established a non-alcoholic student night club in one of the dormitories.

Rice Institute recently gave a dance at which a refund was made on all boys' tickets according to the color of the dates hair. Blondes got a dime reduction on them, brunettes fifteen cents, and red-heads a quarter. . . At another Texas school recently a professor walked in to give his students their mid-semester quiz. He said, "I hate giving these math exams as bad as you hate taking them, so just take this one simple problem." The question was very simple and the answer was 100. When everyone had finished, he said, "Now take the times you were absent from this class, multiply it by two, and subtract it from your problem answer." Nearly half the class failed. . .

A new course in "Charm Technique" has been instituted at the University of New Mexico. The first lecture was on why girls shouldn't roll their stockings below their knees.

THE EASY CHAIR

By STANFORD SCHEWEL

A Phenomenon

A current trend which has approached the range of a phenomena, is the remarkable upswing in the participation and interest in intercollegiate debate, not only here at Washington and Lee but in universities and colleges all over the country.

This trend began to assert itself last year when the number of boys out for debate and the number of students attending debates out-reached anything that has been seen in many years. The increase in the number of students who came out for debate at the beginning of the season last year was 100 per cent over the previous year. At last year's campus debate with Yale, the eyes of the debate coach and managers nearly popped out of their heads when over a hundred people appeared for the occasion.

Trend is Nation Wide

Washington and Lee is not the only school where this condition is being noticed. If anything Washington and Lee is lagging a little behind other schools in the country. On this year's Western tour, and on last year's Southern tour, the debaters reported audiences the size of which surpassed their utmost optimistic expectations.

The mid-West and the Far West have always been great debating regions, but when the South and East follow their example it may be a fair indication that debating is returning to the position of prominence it held when our parents attended college.

Several Causes

What is the cause of this sudden return of interest in debate and forensic activity? First I think it is partly due to the fact that the college student of today is becoming a little more serious minded than he was ten years ago, and is much more interested in current affairs and problems.

Also I believe that debates are becoming more interesting from an entertainment point of view. Speakers are not so long winded and dry. Their talks are crisper, wittier, more to the point. Debaters are learning lessons in showmanship that are proving quite advantageous. No longer is the appeal solely to the judge but the audience is also taken into consideration when the speeches are made up.

Individual Advantages

Another reason why debate is attracting more participants (this year 50 students came out for debate at Washington and Lee) is because the advantages of forensic fray to the individual are becoming more and more apparent. A student who has debated for two or three years in high school or college develops a certain poise, a definite ability to express himself, that proves beneficial no matter what he does when he leaves college. Students are beginning to realize this and to take advantage of the opportunities thus offered.

Administrations are also beginning to take cognizance of this trend. More money is being appropriated for debate, longer trips are being taken by debate teams. The Washington and Lee debate teams, for instance, visit territories that the athletic teams never reach. One year they went as far South as Atlanta, another year as far West as Chicago, a third year to New York and New England.

College debate is definitely returning to its own.

CAMPUS COMMENT

No Courts . . .

Washington and Lee tennis players will have to struggle for another year playing on the battle field the catalogue calls tennis courts. With the Doremus bequest, we thought that the acquisition of new tennis courts would be assured. But such is not the case.

The committee in charge of building new tennis courts does not want to act in haste. In time, lord knows how long, there will be new courts provided. By the time you're an alumnus, at any rate.

But be reconciled to the fact that under the guidance of Mr. Veech, a true tennis lover, the old courts will somehow be whipped into shape for the approaching spring season. Intelligent labor for the courts would be a good point to start on, Mr. Veech, and also a couple of good markers.

Rarely does a mechanical member of the "Fourth Estate" crash into print. They remain obscured behind their bulky linotype machines and type cases until they die or perhaps move away. This time, however, a beloved silent Ring-tum Phi man is leaving, and too much space so far as we are concerned could not be given. Al Jones is his name and for seven years he has operated the linotype machine in the dusty print shop.

Al's workmanship with the powerful machine has been above reproach. We who read proof were able to toss it off lightly for Al was never one to make many mistakes. He was a sloppy reporter's best friend. When the deadlines drew near and every second counted to get the sheet up to the post office, we hardly ever skimmed the "galleys" but just said, "Look it over Al, will you? We're in a hurry." And it was always done, Al deciphering the messy copy.

To those of us who were in any way close to Al, he was a sincere, kind friend. Always, he toned up the atmosphere of the shop with his casual, caustic remarks that were so characteristic of him and his kind. Ring-tum Phi men always have a certain sense of superiority above the rest of the student body and it's due mostly through acquaintance with men of the Al Jones type and a chance to learn a little about their philosophy.

S'Long Al, and lots of luck in your new job.

PREVUES

The Lyric

The Lyric Theatre is still owned and operated by Warner Brothers, and Ralph Daves will continue as manager. The pictures originally scheduled for next week will be shown without change.

Saturday brings "Dangerous Number," starring Robert Young and Ann Sothern, an amusing light comedy about a young couple that get married after an acquaintance of twelve hours. The result is not marital bliss. The principals fight through four-fifths of the picture but finally make up and live happily ever after. Good performances and good dialogue.

George Arliss is with us again, this time in "Man of Affairs," a standard little picture with a routine plot. Arliss is, as usual, a meddling old gent, given to philanthropy and the solution of young people's love affairs. Your enjoyment of the picture depends upon how well you like Arliss: he is the entire picture.

Tuesday and Wednesday Paramount presents "College Holiday," a second-rate musical, starring Jack Benny, Burns and Allen, and Marsha Hunt. The individual acts are enjoyable, but the plot is badly put together. It concerns a dowager who converts a summer hotel into a eugenics experiment, and her manager who imports young stage talent to attract paying customers.

Generals Beat South Carolina, 42-22, In First Round

SCORE 19 POINTS IN TEN MINUTES

Spessard, Iler, Borries, and Carson Divide Scoring Honors

Washington and Lee's favorite Generals swept through the first round of the Southern Conference basketball tournament at Raleigh yesterday by overwhelming South Carolina with a second half rally to the score of 42-22.

Tonight the Blue and White will meet the powerful Wolfpack of North Carolina State in the semi-final round. Early in the season the Generals won a one point overtime victory from the North Carolina State five.

Spessard, Iler, Carson and Borries each piled in four baskets during the game with Spessard taking high point honors on three additional free throws for a total of eleven points.

Rally in Second Half
The rally which brought victory to the Blue and White began five minutes after the start of the second half when South Carolina had pulled up to within three points of the lead. Inside of ten minutes Captain Iler, Spessard, Borries and Carson had piled up nineteen points to give the Generals a commanding 40-19 lead.

With the beginning of the second half Iler dropped in a long shot. Then South Carolina rallied to score two baskets and a free throw in quick succession and bring the count to 19-16. Carson again put the Generals ahead with a five point lead, but Huttox tallied his fourth basket. Then Washington and Lee took time out with fifteen minutes still to play.

Here occurred the brilliant nineteen point rally which put victory safely in the hands of the Blue and White. In the last five minutes the General reserves held the Palmetto five to three points while collecting a pair of scores on a basket by Crane.

Blue Trackmen Enter Maryland Meet Tomorrow

Coach Fletcher Takes Seven Men on Baltimore Trip

A squad of seven trackmen will leave Saturday morning to take part in the University of Maryland indoor meet, which will be held in the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore March 6. Accompanying Coach Fletcher and Captain Kingsbury are Rogers, Harvey, Ragon, Thurman, Allen, and Gwyn. Most of the champions in last week's Southern Conference indoor games at Chapel Hill will be on hand to add class to the meet. Jim Rogers, the Blue's hurdling champion, will be on the mark at the start of the 70 yard high hurdle event. Graham of North Carolina, who finished second to Rogers in the Conference meet, is entered as well as Reavis of Duke, third place winner.

Ragon Enters Mile
Ragon is entered for Washington and Lee in the mile event, which promises a fast field. Gammon of North Carolina, who won the mile run at Chapel Hill, will be entered. A number of ace distance men outside of the Southern Conference luminaries will likewise compete.

A feature of the Baltimore meet is the 600 yard invitation event. Flash Harvey will be entered for Washington and Lee against a selected group of first class runners. Captain Kingsbury in the half mile will face stiff competition from a strong entry list, which includes St. Johns of Virginia, and Gammon of North Carolina, who paced the half-mile field at Chapel Hill last week.

Thurman, who will probably enter the 440, will run against several good quarter-milers. Most of the men who placed in the Southern Conference meet, besides a number of crack quarter-milers outside of the conference, will be in the event.

The Blue's entry in the sixty-yard dash is Allen. As in every other event, the field in the dash will be an outstanding array of sprinters.

Non Fraternity, Pi Kappa Phi In I - M Finals

Pi Phi's Defeat Sigma Chi In Semi-Final Round

With the playing of Tuesday night's games, the Intramural basketball tournament advanced to the final round and will wind up with the championship game between the Non-Fraternity Union and Pi Kappa Phi next Monday night.

In the opening game of Tuesday evening's schedule, Pi Kappa Phi moved into the finals by beating Sigma Chi 29 to 16 in a close battle. At the end of the first quarter the Pi Phi's were trailing Sigma Chi by two points, but this lead was overcome early in the second quarter.

Sigma Chi Unable to Score
The Sigma Chi's failed to score during the second period and at the half the Pi Phi's possessed an 11 to 7 lead. The second half was more or less a Pi Kappa Phi run-away with Campbell, Smith, and Myers scoring repeatedly and rolling up the Pi Kappa Phi score. After all was said and done, Pi Kappa had 29 points to Sigma Chi's 16.

Pi Kappa Phi's line-up consisted of Campbell, Arnold, Smith, Baker, Shively, and Myers. Playing for Sigma Chi were J. White, Kennan, Dudley, A. White, and Powell. The high scorer in this game was Andy White with 12 points. One of White's field goals was dropped in from the mid-court stripe. Campbell and Smith of Pi Kappa Phi made 8 and 7 points, respectively.

The second game of the evening turned out to be a general slaughter when the Non-Fraternity Union tossed off Phi Gamma Delta, 37 to 12.

Phi Gam Takes Lead
Early in the game Phi Gamma Delta showed promises of an upset and they had a slight lead over the N. F. U. However, this threat was quickly squelched and at the half the score stood N-F. U. 12 and Phi Gamma Delta 6.

Not content with this two to one lead over Phi Gam, the N-F. U. boys began to strut their stuff and roll up points. The final story was Non-Fraternity Union 37 and Phi Gam 12.

Representing the Non-Fraternity Union were Ammerman, Castiglione, Darsie, Prater, and Crocker. The Phi Gam quintet was made up of Arnold, Vandling, Wilson, Griffin, and Parrish.

Hard Hitting Features First Outdoor Practice Of W-L Baseball Team

Hard hitting by Mike Tomlin and Al Davis featured the baseball squad's first outdoor workouts Wednesday and Thursday, as the team began intensive drill for the opening game with Ohio State University on March 22. In the absence of Coach Smith the team was directed by Professor Martin, former General star.

Five players have yet to report for practice. Of these, four are absent because of basketball while one is confined to the hospital with the flu. Iler, Cochran, Myers and Frazier are the quartet who are in Raleigh, while Don Dunlap, sophomore catcher, is convalescing from a recent illness.

Practice sessions have been devoted to batting practice and setting up exercises to get the squad in good all-round shape before the heavy work of the next two weeks.

Wolfpack Whips Maryland in Rough Contest, 42-35

MARYLAND GUARD PUT OUT OF GAME

Four Other Players Leave On Personals and Injuries

In a game featured by its roughness and fighting North Carolina State won over Maryland 42-35 last night in the first round of the Southern Conference basketball tournament. Five men were forced to the sidelines for roughness and fouls.

Shortly after the beginning of the contest Referee Proctor banned Keller, Maryland guard, for slugging Connie Mac Berry of the Wolfpack. A few minutes later Thomas of Maryland had to drop out of the contest when he fell to the floor from an accidental blow to the face. Three other players were asked to leave the contest because of personal fouls.

Mann, Berry Outstanding
Mann and Berry led the N. C. State five to victory. The star forward picked up fifteen points on seven baskets and a free throw while Berry was piling in seven points.

During the first half the Old Liners carried the fight to their opponents and trailed only by one point at 21-20 when the first period ended. Immediately after the start of the second half Maryland forged ahead on a basket by Allen. Shots by Dalrymple and Mann finally gave the Wolfpack a lead they never relinquished and they ran on to win 42-35. Maryland kept pecking away in the closing minutes but could not connect often enough to break down

Richmond Falls Before Wake Forest, 33-24

Wake Forest College, newcomer to Southern Conference circles advanced to the semi-finals of the conference basketball tournament yesterday by defeating Richmond University, 33-23. The Deacons led 18-13 at the half.

Richmond, who was the underdog in the contest, fought gamely in the first half as Bucky and Pete Jacobs paced the way. Bu near the end of the period, the Deacons, led by Waller who scored ten points in the game, opened up and widened their lead to 11 to 13.

Richmond came back strong at the start of the second half to pull up within two points of the leaders, but Waller again led his team to the fore by flipping in a couple more baskets. And after twelve minutes of the half Wake Forest led 31-18. In the remaining time Richmond played a great defensive game, but couldn't score enough to cut the Deacon's lead.

N. C. Comes Back To Stop Blue Devils, 36-30

North Carolina University opened the defense of its Southern Conference title last night by defeating Duke University in a closely contested game 34-30. Three baskets by Mc Cachren in the last five minutes provided the margin of victory.

The outstanding star of the game, however, was Kenny Podger of Duke who scored six baskets despite the fact that his right arm was bound to his side with a brace. Both teams used long shots with effectiveness. North Carolina was led by Bershak, McCachren and Potts who made twenty-two of the Tarheels points. Bershak was high man with eight.

Tonight the Tarheels will meet a strong Wake Forest five in the semi-final round.

Wrestlers Name Shively, Thomas As Co-Captains

Braun Is Elected Frosh Captain; Broders Is Senior Manager

Chester Shively and Calvert Thomas were elected co-captains of next year's varsity wrestling team at the annual banquet held Wednesday evening in the University Dining Hall. Shively and Thomas will replace Carl Arenz, the present mat leader.

At the same time, Compton Broders was named senior manager and Henry Braun was honored with the position of freshman captain.

The banquet officially brought to a close the 1936-37 wrestling season which was marked by a record of five wins and one defeat. Victories were gained over Waynesburg, Duke, N. C. U., V. P. I., N. C. State, while the lone setback came from the claws of the Princeton Tiger.

Shively and Thomas are both members of famous Washington and Lee mat families; their brothers Glenn and Rowland were co-captains of last year's team. Shively compiled a record of four wins and two defeats while Thomas, a latecomer to the squad, won three and lost one.

Generals' Title Hopes Depending On Meem

Chances for a Washington and Lee victory in the Southern Conference swimming meet today and tomorrow rest largely on the broad and sturdy shoulders of the versatile Gilbert Meem.

The star General swimmer must win two races on his own and insure a relay victory in the 400 yard free style event if the Blue and White tankmen are to defend successfully their Southern Conference crown.

Meem Is Confident
Meem, however, was quite confident about his chances in the meet. When questioned early this morning, the distance flash said, "If I can just get some good steak before I swim, a few records ought to fall."

About McKibben of Duke, Meem had this to say: "I beat him once; and I reckon I can do it again." Thus Twombly's leading swimmer, who has won two races in every meet this year in addition to anchoring an undefeated relay team, awaited the trials of this afternoon.

Coach Twombly himself had this to say about his star: "Meem is a boy who is in excellent shape besides being a natural swimmer. He is so versatile that I could use him successfully in both the backstroke and breaststroke races as well as his own events."

Some of the color about the General swimmer has come from his large appetite which claims at least half-a-dozen eggs per day. He is said to be the first to sit down at the dining table and the last to get up at every meal. Before a meet his favorite meal is a beef steak and four to six poached eggs.

In the 440 yard race Meem has never suffered a defeat in his career, which began when he was twelve years old. The biggest afternoon in his life came at the age of fifteen when he singlehandedly won a team trophy from the University of Virginia by taking five firsts and a second in an AAU meet.

Ten Veterans Now Out For Spring Grid Work

Of the thirty-six candidates who reported for the initial workout in spring football, ten of them have had previous experience on Big Blue gridiron squads.

Led by Captain Will Rogers, these veterans include Craft, Harper, Allen, Long, Brown, White, Alexander, Parrish, Howard, and Moses. Joe Ochsie and Charlie Lykes will report for practice at the end of the wrestling season, while Don Dunlap is out because of sickness.

Bob Spessard, Frank Jones, Haskell Dickinson, and Al Szymanski, regulars from last season's squad, are not required to participate in spring training.

"In my new picture 'Swing High, Swing Low' I sing a song for the first time since I have been on the screen. To do this, I spent months taking singing lessons. And with this added strain, my throat was not in good shape. My singing coach suggested that when choosing cigarettes, I select a light smoke. And so I changed to Luckies. ### Moseley Talks On Roman Art

Ancient Architecture Is Subject of Second of Lecture Series

With the aid of lantern slides, Col. T. A. E. Moseley of V. M. I. gave the second of his series of lectures on Ancient and Medieval architecture last night. The talk embraced the forms and structures of Roman Architecture. The assembly room of the Engineering Hall was amply filled with professors, townspeople, and students.

Colonel Moseley started his lecture with an explanation of the five orders of Roman Architecture. By means of the slides, he explained the construction of the Roman, aqueducts, colosseums, and theaters. He pointed out the Yale bowl as a modern example of Roman Architecture, which has been imitated from the Verona Amphitheater in Italy. Another feature of these Roman theaters, Col. Moseley said, is the way in which they obtained the correct acoustics. Good acoustics were made possible in these open air theaters by burying filled urns under the seats.

One of the most interesting parts of the lecture was the explanation of the construction of the Roman bath houses. Col. Moseley pointed out their resemblance to our modern club houses. These famed bath houses, besides having places to bathe, were surrounded by recreation rooms.

The speaker devoted the concluding part of the lecture to a comprehensive explanation of the Roman Cathedrals. These magnificent structures are the most famed examples of Roman architecture and construction which have been copied by modern architects.

The next lecture will be given Tuesday, March 9. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Informal Talks Given By Members of I. R. C. At Tuesday Meeting

At the meeting of the International Relations Club last Tuesday night, several informal talks were given relating to the topics discussed at the Round Table Conference held in Auburn, Alabama, last week.

Various members of the club who had attended the Conference spoke on subjects, in whose discussion they had participated at Auburn. Edgar Shannon spoke on the subject of "The American Policy" and Morton Kelsey on "Problems of the Far East." Bill Wilbur, president of the club, summarized two topics: "The League of Nations and the International Labor Office" and Major Booth's speech on "British Foreign Policy." Charles Williams then spoke on "Dictatorship versus Democracy."

The entire meeting was held in informally. In closing, a discussion of the choice of future speakers was held.

Return Performance Of "Ah Wilderness" Postponed By Troubs

The Troubadours' return performance of "Ah, Wilderness" has been postponed because of the illness of Mrs. Cronin, an important member of the cast, Mr. Watkin, the director, announced last night.

The play, which was to be given this Saturday night, will be presented at a somewhat indefinite date after Spring Vacation. This special return performance of the popular production was to have been for the benefit of Southern Seminary, which had planned to send a number of girls to Lexington to see the play.

Executive Committee Notice
A fine of five dollars will be imposed upon any student who fails to appear at a meeting of the Executive Committee after having been summoned to appear before that body, according to a resolution passed by the Executive Committee Tuesday night.
