TROUBADOURS STAGE ELABORATE RATE SHOW

Various Features From Burlesque to Serious Drama Make Up Successful Performance; Musical Numbers Excellent

Lexington and the keen set of visitors were delighted and shocked, (which is much the same thing these days), when "Ikey's" asbestos rose on another successful Troubadour show. The romantic appeal of "back to nature," "Mack Senseless" bathing girls, lost on a desert isle, their hard life with the cruel sultan and remorseless camera man, and their thrilling rescue by the gallant tars of the destroyer, "Six Month's Rule," which, by the way, should have flown the black flag, kept the anxious audience in a continual state of nervous anticipation. One eminent member of the faculty is known to have imbibed a "dope" during the intermission as if it were a glass of water, to quiet his trembling system for the second act. The irresistible twanging of the mandolin club tickled the feet exquisitely, while that "Magic Melody" and the work of the orchestra did the rest. "Loose Hips" and "Big Head" took the crowd by storm, and the two act skit was replete with true Shakespearean tragedy. More than one briny tear was heard to fall with a melancholy splash. The confidential gossip of the hotel porter made the audience lean forward to catch each word.

After a very excellent overture by the twelve piece orchestra, Edgar Thompson opened entertainingly with a blackface monologue entitled "That Mule." He was followed by the Mandolin Club, introduced by "Charlie" Wright and "Ned" Graham in an original and pleasing manner. The players led by J. F. Somers, "teased the strings" until they cried for mercy. The selections were both wisely chosen and snappily done. "Back to Beale Street" followed, introducing "The W. & L. Blues," by G. H. Osborne, who took the part of "Big Head" with good results. O. W. McClintock, as "Loose Hips" was a scream, in the latest hit from Paris (Tennessee). More than one envious feminine eye was seen to rest upon his, or her, marvelous headgear. The songs of this pair were well rendered, and their jokes, while local, "touched the spot" and revealed abundant material for blackmail. This blackface act had a flavor all its own.

The first act was terminated by "Tex" Shelton and his Jazz Babies in the rendition of "Magic Melody—A Jazzical Jag of Sinful Syncopation," which it was, verily, and more than one dainty shoulder was observed to twitch, involuntarily. Danforth was good in a vocal number, and "Tex," Ward, Penn and Lockridge were unapproachable with "the instruments of Jazz."

SOPHOMORE AND COTILLION CLUB DANCES BRING WELCOME DIVERSION

Nearly 100 Girls and Weidermeyer's Orchestra Enliven Tired Campus; Cobb With Miss Michaels and Musgrove With Miss Maddox Lead Dances

The annual Thanksgiving dances are once again a thing of the past and the social functions for the first term are at an end. It is needless to say that this particular set of dances was a great success, and that the many fair ones who are leaving and those less lucky young men who are remaining to tackle the next big battle, the term exams, will always remember the 1923 Sophomore Cotillion and the Cotillion Club's Dance.

On Monday night the Sophomores opened the festivities with their annual dance. Forrest W. Cobb, President of the Class, led the figure, which ended with the formation of the numerals, "23," with Miss Louise Michaels of Baltimore.

The dansant was staged Tuesday afternoon, following the Troubadour Show, and then last night the Cotillion Club gave their first formal dance of the year, Lewis S. Musgrove, with Miss Lillian Maddox, of Birmingham, Ala., leading the figure.

Wiederemeyer's celebrated orchestra from Huntington, W. Va., furnished music for both nights. Their pep lasted throughout the festivities and to them is given a great deal of credit for the success of the dances.

The gymnasium was very attractively decorated with blue and white streamers hung gracefully over the track and ceiling. A large sheet with 1923 painted on in blue hung at one corner while a W. L. U. banner hung in the opposite.

Chaperons for the Sophomore Cotillion were: Miss Annie R. White, Mrs. Joseph R. Long, Mrs. R. Granville Campbell, Miss Nannie Larrick, Mrs. Harry D. Campbell, and Mrs. Norman Burgess.

Chaperons for the Dance last night were: Miss Annie R. White, Mrs. H. D. Campbell, Mrs. A. C. Lee, Mrs. R. H. Tucker, Mrs. R. W. Dickey, Mrs.

W. H. Moreland and Mrs. Andrew Estell.

Girls who attended the dance last night and their escorts were as follows:

Miss Elizabeth Adams of Lynchburg, Va., with J. F. Rushton, Jr.

Miss Leone Anderson of Lynchburg, Va., with E. W. Wiggins.

Miss Elizabeth Barr of Winchester, Va., with J. D. Owens.

Miss Iva Baugher of Staunton, Va., with D. B. Edwards.

CLASS FOOTBALL SEMI-FINALS OVER

Four Games Played; College Championship Game Between Seniors and Freshmen This Week

Wilson Field was the scene of a bloody struggle on Tuesday of last week when the referee's whistle announced the opening of the inter-class football game. A large crowd, a muddy field, and a cold day added just that zest needed to make the class 'huskies' fight to the limit, and this they did, putting up good exhibitions of football, considering their short practice.

Three games were scheduled for Tuesday, the first between the Senior and Junior Academics resulting in the score 3 to 0, in favor of the Seniors. Franklin Thompson kicked the field goal. The Seniors have a strong backfield consisting of Price, Spencer, Thompson and Harris, while at the ends are such speed demons as "Willie" Wisdom and "Tiny" Trotter.

FOOTBALL MONOGRAMS AWARDED

Sixteen Men Receive Honor; Webb Will Manage Team Next Fall

At a meeting of the Athletic Council last Tuesday, November 23, football monograms for the 1920 season were awarded, and football managers for 1921 were elected.

The following men received monograms: Capt. Moore, Sanford, McDonald, Herndon, Bemis, Arbogast, Barrow, Patterson, Raines, Paget, Henderson, Mattox, Silverstein, Cogbill, Tucker and Manager Bryan. Service monograms were also awarded Coach Raftery and Asst. Coach Shultz.

Wilfred B. Webb will manage the football team next fall. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, Treasurer of the Y. M. C. A., a member of the P. A. N. Ribbon Society and of the Cotillion Club, and advertising Manager of the Ring-tum Phi. A successful season for football next year is guaranteed as far as finances are concerned with Webb at the helm.

The council elected A. J. Lester and F. R. McKnight to be Junior Assistant Managers for 1921. Lester is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity, the P. A. N. Ribbon Society and the Cotillion Club. McKnight is a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity and the White Friar Ribbon Society.

FRESHMEN, 20; BLACKSTONE, 20

Freshmen Team Battles B. M. A. To Tie on Thanksgiving Day; Game Saved in Last Minute of Play

In a fast, thrilling, brilliantly played game, the W. & L. Freshman Team battled the strong Blackstone Military Academy eleven to a 20-20 tie last Thursday at Blackstone, Va. Both teams revealed unexpected power of attack and strength in defense, and several W. & L. men who attended the game pronounce it among the best they have ever witnessed.

The Freshmen scored first in the opening quarter when on straight plays they marched the oval down the field, and pushed it across the last white line. They failed to kick goal. Blackstone went into the lead immediately after through a series of long, spectacular passes. In the second period, the Freshmen came back strong and by line-bucks and short passes earned their second touchdown, making the score 13 to 7 in their favor as the half ended. At the opening of the second half, Blackstone tied the score by means of several superb passes, one of which was across the goal line. The final quarter witnessed a desperate struggle. Burnett provided a supreme thrill by recovering a fumble and scooting seventy-five

PHI-LINGS

SIDELIGHTS ON HISTORY

All Rome was resplendent with bright flowers and gay streaming banners. The streets were filled with Fords and laughing happy people. It was a great Roman holiday.

The immortal Caesar had sent word via Western Union that he would probably spend a few days in his old home town. Therefore the rejoicing.

Now, gentle reader, we will put on another record and change the needle.

In a dingy little saloon on the banks of the Tiber owned by one Slumgulus, two men in low muffled tones were discussing the prospects of the coming election. That is, one was trying to convince the other of his greatness. The speaker was a little dried-up insignificant runt, whom Caesar had once described as having a lean and hungry look, and his name was Cassius. The other man was a dumb-looking bird with a cauliflower ear by the name of Brutus. Caesar used to give him all of his old clothes and treat him to beer once in a great while.

"Now, listen here, Brutus," Cassius was saying, "somebody has got to get this Caesar guy and get him good. He aint safe."

Brutus shifted his tobacco from one side of his mouth to the other, and spat reflectively and with great accuracy at one of the sacred cats of Jupiter that happened to be asleep in the cuspidor. Observing the effect of his aim, he settled back in his chair with a smile and remained silent.

"I would do it myself," Cassius continued, "but as you know, I just got out of the cooler, and if they get me in court again, why it's the electric chair or a firing squad for me. Come on, now, be reasonable."

"What do I get out of it?" said Brutus as he assisted the unfortunate cat to effect a passage thru the side window with one of his heavily sandalled feet.

"You, why you are to be the big cheese," pleaded Cassius. "If you pull the job you have the world by the tail and a down hill pull."

After a long wait Brutus consented.

"Well, Cassius," he said finally, "you have the gang up there on the dot and start it and I will finish the job. Get in an argument with Caesar and hit him with a sap or some brass knucks and leave the rest to me."

Bing, fate pulls the curtain again and we find ourselves stepping off the elevator into the Roman Senate Chamber. Caesar is there inspecting the senators and telling them what he will do if they make him king. About a dozen reporters for the Evening Newspapers are swarming around him, and jotting down every word.

While Caesar is thus engaged, a messenger comes up and pages him.

"Well, my little lad," C. J. said smiling, "What is it?" Nothing pleased him more than to be paged when he was in a large crowd.

"There's a bunch of guys over there by Pompey's statue wot wants to speak to youse," said the boy as he pocketed the Roman dime (weight two pounds) which Caesar handed him.

Unsuspecting, Caesar greeted Brutus and Cassius with a smile and a nod. He was not acquainted with the others.

Tears fill my eyes as I attempt to record this sacred bit of history. Vile Cassius shoved a gat at Caesar's breadbox, while one of the thugs crowned him from behind with a piece of lead pipe. Another one of the villains kicked him on the shins, while a third inserted a cheese knife under his fifth rib.

Dumbfounded at such actions, Caesar reeled backwards. Having no means of protecting himself, he drew his fountain pen and made a murderous assault with it on Cassius. It was then that mighty Brutus delivered a crushing blow on Caesar's Roman proboscis. This blow hurled him to the ground.

Pulling himself up on his elbows and spitting out a mouth full of teeth, he looked appealingly at his murderers.

"And thou too, Brutus," he said weakly, and sank back in death.

All matter of business should be addressed to the Business Manager, and all other matters should come to the Editor-in-Chief.

We are always glad to publish any communication that may be handed to us. We desire to call attention to the fact that unsigned correspondence will not be published.

This issue of the Ring-tum Phi has been held over one day in order to contain a complete account of the Thanksgiving dances, shows, etc.

Other things which may or may not be of more interest to our readers have crowded out the Alumni Page this week. We will make way for it next week if we have to kill some ads.

The Troubadours are to be congratulated on the excellent show that they presented yesterday afternoon. The President, Managers, Actors and Musicians have been donating some strenuous afternoons and nights all this fall, and they may feel amply repaid. Their work and practice showed results, and everything went off without a hitch.

In another column may be found a notice from the Faculty Library Committee concerning clipping articles from newspapers in the Carnegie Library. It is natural enough, perhaps, for a new student to think that he is taking nothing of value when he clips an account of a football game or another article from a newspaper that may be bought for three cents, but the mere fact that the article is valuable to him shows that it is probably of more than general interest, and therefore valuable to the Library in its preservation of complete files. At any rate, the ruling of the Executive Committee is plain on the subject.

ANSWER SENT TO V. M. I.'S LETTER IN REGARD TO PAINTING OF COLUMNS

(We regret that lack of space forbade printing of this letter last week.)

Lexington, Virginia,
November 19, 1920.
To The Corps of Cadets,
Virginia Military Institute,
Lexington, Virginia.

The Student Body acknowledges the receipt of a copy of the resolutions passed by the Corps of Cadets in regard to the deplorable incident of the night of November 15, 1920, whereby the property of Washington and Lee University was defaced and the rights and feelings of the Student Body deeply outraged.

The Student Body is gratified to have from the Corps this expression of its regret at the unfortunate occurrence and its eagerness to co-operate with the Executive Committee in its endeavor to apprehend the guilty party or parties.

It would seem from the evidence gathered by the Honor Court and the Executive Committee and presented to the Student Body by its Executive Committee that there is strong evidence tending to implicate members of the Corps in this very serious occurrence. The Student Body feels that the corp of Cadets is anxious that the instigators and actors be ascertained and brought to justice, whoever they may be. Hence the Student Body feels that in co-operating with the Executive Committee, the Corps and its representatives should and will use every resource at their command to ascertain whether any of the Corps were involved in this incident.

The Student Body awaits with confidence the result of the thorough investigation which the Committee of the Honor Court has informed the Committee of the Executive Committee is being made.

The Student Body of Washington and Lee University.

FACULTY LIBRARY COMMITTEE CALLS ATTENTION TO INFRACTION OF RULES

The Faculty Committee on the Carnegie Library wishes to call attention to the following resolution:

"We, the Student Body Executive Committee of Washington and Lee University, notify the Student Body that we shall assume jurisdiction and shall punish offenses in the following cases below. We give this notice with the understanding that it shall not be taken in any way to limit or define the Honor System, but shall be considered merely a partial list of cases or applications which the Executive Committee will handle thereunder, to wit:

Use of Libraries

"Removal, concealment, or mutilation of books or any other printed matter, contrary to the rules of the respective libraries. Such recommendation shall be construed to cover all libraries, including the Carnegie Library."

Within the last few weeks West Virginia papers containing accounts of the W. Va.-W. & L. game were taken from the Carnegie Library, and accounts of others games were clipped from the New York Times and the Lynchburg News. As such removals and mutilations destroy the completeness of the library files and to that extent render them less useful, it is earnestly hoped that such practices will be discontinued.

EDGAR F. SHANNON,
Chairman of Faculty Committee.

P. A. N. GOATS' ANNUAL SHOW

The P. A. N. Ribbon Society Goats gave their annual show at the New Theater on Monday afternoon. As has been the custom in past years, the performance bordered on the burlesque variety, although there was much originality and a number of very clever sketches. "Senator" Osborne in the foreign role of "Lefty" headed the entertainers, and was very ably assisted by Messrs. Lynn, Carr, Hussey, Thomas, Garrett, Riggs, Fountain, Greiner, Cranford, Elliott, Holt, Hall, Rosamond, Corbett, and Allen. The chorus of East Lexington bathing beauties was made up of Messrs. Brown, Lambert, McCallum, Steer, Yates, Childs, Lester and Robinson.

B. "Rawhide" Carr, as Uncle Josh, proved himself to be a comedian of more than average ability, his witty remarks bringing long and continued applause. "Liza" and "Rastus" in the persons of Riggs and Fountain also came in for their round of applause—some of their jokes might well have been omitted, however. The "Interpretation of W. & L. Jazz Hounds" by Messrs. Hall and Rosamond was well carried out, as was also "A Wild Night on East Lexington Beach" by Messrs. Hussey, Thomas and Garrett. An orchestra known as the "Happy Four" furnished the music for the show, which more than added its share to the entertainment. The "Happy Four" included Messrs. McClintock, Breazeale, Lockridge, and Ward.

ON OTHER GRIDIRONS

Probably of greatest interest to Washington and Lee students of the games of Thanksgiving Day, was the Georgia Tech-Auburn game, in which the Plainsmen were no match for the famous Golden Tornado, and the game resulted in a 34-0 victory for Georgia Tech. Despite the one-sided score, from accounts of the Atlanta papers, every inch of ground lost by the Plainsmen was stubbornly contested, and twice they held Tech within the 14 yard line.

The Institute across the way held up to its reputation, met Va. Tech in Roanoke and downed them for the second time in 20 years. The score was 24-7. Poly's only touchdown came after a bad pass by the V. M. I. center, which went over the head of the waiting back, and rolled behind the goal line, where a V. P. I. man fell on it.

Virginia met its time-honored rival, U. of N. C., and defeated the Tarheels by the score of 14 to 0. The scores were made in the first and fourth quarter, and at nearly all times the ball was in the center of the field.

West Virginia met her match in Washington and Jefferson and went down before the stronger eleven. The score was 20-0, but the game was fought hard from start to finish.

WHITE FRIARS GIVE BANQUET

The White Friar Ribbon Society entertained the fair visitors with an elaborate banquet at the Washington and Lee Dining Hall Monday night, immediately preceding the Sophomore Cotillion. Excellent music was furnished by Weidmeyer's Orchestra, and "Skinny," the incomparable artist, put lots of life into the party with his songs.

The supper that was served boosted the reputation of the Dining Hall some hundred per cent. The party adjourned in favor of the dance about nine thirty.

SEVEN MEN MAKE STAFF

Press Club Competition Ends; Campbell Sends Individual Writeups of Students To Home Papers

After several weeks of strong competition, the Press Club Staff has been chosen. All the candidates have done some good work and the President of the Press Club, E. D. Campbell, wishes to thank all the men who tried out for the staff. Out of about twenty-five men, seven have been picked. The successful candidates are:

H. Gray Funkhouser, '21.
Marion B. Alexander, '22.
Louis S. Joel, '23.
George W. Loving, '23.
H. D. Leake, '24.
J. C. Morrison, Jr., '24.
Edgar S. Thompson, '24.

These men are to be congratulated on their success and it is felt that they will compose a most efficient and hard-working staff.

The scope of the Press Club is being enlarged this year. It exists primarily for the purpose of disseminating knowledge in regard to the University and of securing space and advertisement in the various newspapers thruout the country. A special part has to do with individual writeups of students here, who have become prominent on the campus. These are sent to the home paper of the student.

How They Get It

Time was that college presidents,
 Engaged in seeking contributions,
 Enlarged upon the excellence
 Of their scholastic institutions,
 On magnates they paid frequent calls
 And long and earnestly they pleaded
 For dorms and labs and lecture halls
 And other things the college needed.
 And, when their story all was told,
 They found it left the magnates cold.
 But when a millionaire today,
 A college president approaches,
 The only words he has to say
 Relate to costly football coaches.
 He tells the captain of finance
 That if he'll only hark to reason,
 The team may have a bully chance
 To be the champs the coming season.
 And without parley or ado,
 The gentleman of wealth comes thru.
 For it is not the college which Keeps bright the lamp of knowledge burning,
 That's looked on by the idle rich
 As a deserving seat of learning;
 An institution may begin
 Its work of uplift in a shanty,
 But if its football team can win,
 The gents with cash will always ante.
 Which proves that in these glorious days
 The strong arm stuff is all that pays.

'Y' ROOM FULL AT OLD-TIME PARTY

Ladies' Auxiliary Responsible For Thanksgiving Party's Success; Fortune Teller Rushed

Last Wednesday night the Y. M. C. A. held an "old fashioned" Thanksgiving Party in the 'Y' Room from eight until ten o'clock. Scores of students, some faculty members and about twenty ladies and girls of Lexington were present.

That the party was a successful affair and that it was enjoyed to the limit by all who attended in due largely to the work of the Social Committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The refreshments were excellent and in abundance.

Before the pleasure of the evening and the games had begun, everyone was furnished with a paper cap on which he was asked to inscribe his name, so that formal presentations would be unnecessary.

The evening's fun started with the Virginia Reel and included spectacular contests such as pinning the tail on the Donkey, peanut racing, cracker eating for speed, not endurance, and bobbing for apples in a tub of water. After the contests, apple cider, cake, popcorn and candy were served.

The Y. M. C. A. had in some mysterious way procured the attendance of a real Gipsy Fortune Teller for the evening, and according to all reports she was no novice at reading the palm. She was compelled to tell one fortune after another during the entire party, and the long line waiting outside her booth after it was closed attests to the fact that W. & L. is nothing if not superstitious.

EXCHANGES

Cornell

Powerful searchlights have been erected on Schoellkopf Field by the General Electric Company for the use of Cornell football teams. Cornell teams have been handicapped in the past because of short practice time due to the fact that darkness comes so early in the fall. Under the new system it is hoped that practice can be carried on until late in the evening.

Rice Institute

The students have a band aggregating thirty pieces. Accompanying the student-body on their recent trip from Houston to Dallas where the team played S. M. M., the band became so popular that recruits all along the way brought the number of musicians well past the 100 mark.

Georgia Tech

The three Atlanta sport writers have offered to give a medal to each player who makes the All-Southern team. All the leading newspapers throughout the South are to pick an All-Southern team. Then these three sport writers will get together and decide which eleven men get the most votes.

Johns Hopkins

The student body recently unanimously adopted a resolution petitioning the Board of Trustees to establish a fee of $10 to be devoted to non-athletic activities. This fee is to correspond to the Athletic fee and is to be paid by each student upon entrance to the University.

University of Virginia

"The Virginia Reel" is staging a contest to get suggestions for an appropriate slogan for the magazine. To stimulate interest an award of fifteen dollars is offered for the best, which is expected to be on a par with those of "Life" and "Judge."

yards for Blackstone's third touchdown. They failed to kick goal. The Freshmen then gritted their teeth and in the last two minutes of play pushed the ball the length of the field for the final touchdown and kicked goal as the referee's final whistle blew.

For the Freshmen, McVay, H. A., Hall, Stolz, Howe, and Thomas were particular stars. For Blackstone, Salmon, the diminutive quarterback proved himself a broken-field runner of remarkable ability and a field general of collegiate skill, leading his team with excellent judgment. Captain Barton and Burnett also displayed an article of football unusual on prep gridirons.

The reception accorded the Freshmen by Blackstone was most cordial and hospitable and all who made the trip are very audible in their praise of the gentlemanly conduct and clean, hard, football displayed by the Blackstone team. The Freshman team consisted of Thomas, R. E.; Pierson, R. T.; Beaudoin, R. G.; Stolz (Capt.), C.; Pruitt, L. G.; McKnight, L. T.; Howe, L. E.; W. R. Hall, Q. B.; McVay, R. H.; Switzer, L. H.; H. A. Hall, F. B. Wilson, Brown, Harrell, and Hatcher alternated with some of the foregoing during the game.

NOTICE

Due to absences on football trips of both Ted Shultz and W. B. Webb, Treas., some subscribers may not have found it possible to pay their Y. M. C. A. subscriptions at the 'Y' office. There will be someone in the 'Y' office daily from 9 to 2 from now on, so that all subscriptions may be paid. Subscriptions are all due or past due, and promptness in paying them will be much appreciated. The status of the fund to date is:

Cash in Bank	$1,328.00
Subscriptions unpaid	428.50
Total subscribed	1,756.50

By 453 subscribers.

There are a good many individuals unavoidably missed on the initial night of the campaign. The campaign was for $1,972, which leaves a deficit of $215.50 to be raised if the program outlined is not to be curtailed in any respect. Anyone wishing to subscribe to this deficit may do so at the 'Y' Secretary's Office.

CHANGE IN FACULTY REGULATIONS

Except in unusual cases, leaves of absence will not be granted to students, whose standing is below C on more than half their courses, or whose grade is U or E or F on two of their courses, on their last previous reports.

This, however, shall not apply to students who are members of organizations, and representing the University as such; these cases are covered by other faculty regulations.

The Automatic Rule has also been changed. Heretofore, it has been required that a student must make above E on at least one of his courses in order to remain in the University. Now it has been changed so that a student must make above E on two of his courses. This new Automatic rule goes into effect at the beginning of the new year.

LITERARY SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Thirteen Fortunes Honored; McKinnon President for Winter Term

Amidst a storm of applause and on a flood of oratory thirteen members of the Graham-Washington Literary Society were borne into office for the winter term Saturday night. The waves of enthusiasm beat high around the faithful number present and very few who followed the full moon of office seekers were drawn upon the breakers and lashed in the foam of keen disappointment and illfortune. There came from every corner gusts of eulogy and commendation in the form of nominating speeches, which usually drove the craft of the nominated one into the haven of unanimous consent, after which he would accept the honor with as much ado and consistency of expression as lately came from the front porch of our friend from Marion.

Mr. Daniel Prather McKinnon of oratorical fame was chosen to guide the Society's destiny during the next term, and great things are expected of him. The Vice-President will be Mr. J. H. T. Sutherland, who expects to profit by the examples of all his predecessors in that office to some advantage. And Mr. J. W. Bowyer as Secretary will give an assurance that future members will read the minutes of next term with profit and delight while the Treasurer's business will be looked after by Mr. A. J. Lubliner.

The Chairman of the Judiciary Committee is Mr. Philo Coco, and his assistants will be Messrs. K. D. Abbott, B. H. Hampton, C. A. Joyce, and V. Messino. Mr. F. E. Pass will report the meetings to the Ring-tum Phi, after they have been thoroughly and helpfully criticised by Mr. B. F. Howard. The members elected to the University Debating Council were Messrs. Boone Dawson and W. M. Tuck.

The Juniors put up a good fight but were handicapped on end runs by the condition of the field.

The second game between the Sophomore Academics and Junior Lawyers ended in the score, 6 to 0, in favor of the Lawyers. The Sophs put up a good fight, runs by Thomas and the defensive work of Penn being features of the game. Cy Hall and Potts were stars for the Lawyers.

The last game of the afternoon, between the Freshman Academics and Senior Lawyers ended 19 to 0, in favor of the Freshmen. The Freshman "Varsity" played good steady football throughout the game, McVay and Switzer playing best.

In the semi-finals Wednesday, only one game was played. It was between the Senior Academics and Junior Lawyers, and ended 12 to 0, in favor of the Seniors. Both scores for the Seniors came as the result of long runs for about 45 yards by Spencer and Thompson. For the Junior Lawyers, Cy Hall showed himself especially good on defense. The Lawyers at one time worked the ball to the Seniors' one yard line, where it was lost on fumbles.

The finals between the Senior and Freshmen Academics for College championship will be played sometime during the present week, probably Saturday.

TROUBADOURS STAGE ELABORATE SHOW

After another pleasing overture by the orchestra, the act was opened by "Commotion Pictures — Lost and Found". Stuart Moore alias Cecil B. De Miley, Camera man, and Matt Henderson, "prop" man, acted as any other two normal young men would have, when they almost took the "Hatem Pills." Kallapasha, the king, otherwise C. E. L. Gill, ruled in true oriental splendor, but was unable to win the affection of Phyllis Haver, Essie Stevens, Babe Daniels and Marie Prevost the beautiful sirens of the beach, known in "cits" as Thomas, Cochran, Roundtree, and Carter. McClintock made as alluring a Nubian slave in this act as he had a dusky damsel in the first, and beguiled the gay old king with "sinuous movements and suggestive gestures." McCallum, as Ben Turpin, in the part of Jack Dalton, and Wright again, who played weird music for "Troubadora" left little to be added.

"The Horrors of a Hotel Lobby" were told to the audience very confidentially by J. C. Morrison, and various was the scandal he divulged. The latest song hit "Ja Da" was interpreted into characteristic characterizations with telling effect.

"The One Way Out" a skit in two acts by J. L. Peck was ably presented by J. W. Dupree, as Walton Moore, and actor, J. L. Allgood as Laura Scott, a girl—H. K. Gibbons as Louie a valet, and F. W. Nullmeyer, as Adrian Dennison, Laura's fiancee. This is the first attempt at serious drama by the Troubadours, and was well up to expectations. It shows what can be done in other lines besides the usual lighter parts.

Next came several well-received selections by the seventeen song-birds of the Glee Club, headed by O. M. McClintock, Glee Club Vice-President of the Troubadours. All their selections left a pleasant taste and a desire for more.

The show closed with a grand ensemble by the entire company, and passed off with a snap and smoothness that made one sorry when it ended. The coming tour to be made by the organization will surely boost the reputation of Washington and Lee, as the Troubadours have a real show to be proud of.
