W. & L. DEFEATS WASHINGTON AND HOPKINS; W. & M. WINS

Percentage for Three Games Much Better Than Last Week; V. P. I. and Auburn This Week; Jinx Has Departed

With the close of the week, W. & L. seems to have shaken off the jinx, hard luck or poor play, call it what you will which was present in its previous start, and now is fast rounding into form. Whether this spurt is due to the change in line-up by Coach Raftery which has proved most effective, or to the acquisition of confidence by the men is of little import.

Thirty-two hits in the last two games is most gratifying to students, players and all W. & L. supporters alike.

The week of this issue finds one game with V. P. I. and a two game series with Auburn. Little is known of the Plainsmen, but the Coach, Student and Body players are fairly keyed up with the idea of revenge for the defeat inflicted in Birmingham last fall.

WILLIAM AND MARY GAME

Last Tuesday, April 12, at the hands of William and Mary, Washington and Lee suffered her fourth defeat of the season. The Generals had no claim to victory whatever as their loose fielding and scattered hits could not compare with the perfect fielding of their opponents and the superior pitching of Marshall which enabled the visitors to win, 5 to 1.

White's single with the bases full in the third gave William and Mary its first two runs, and Maben's wildness backed up by poor fielding virtually presented the visitors with their last three runs. The Indians did not earn a run. Except for these two innings Maben pitched excellent ball tho constantly forced to extend himself to the fullness of his ability to pull out of the hole in which his pass had put him. He yielded but six hits and none of them for extra bases, whereas the Generals four hits included a double and a smashing triple; the latter coming from the bat of Capt. Hisle in the fourth saved the Generals from a shutout when Pête scored on a squeeze play engineered by Hancock.

The brilliant shoestring catch by White of another of Hisle's drives and Hisle's great fielding featured an otherwise poor game.

THIRTY-TWO MAKE HONOR ROLL

Twenty-nine of Fifty-five Automatic Sufferers Reinstated

The Honor Roll which was announced recently contains the names of thirty-two men who averaged 90 during the work of the winter term. Two more men made the Roll of Scholastic Honor than was the case the first term.

The Automatic Rule was made fatal in its kick than is usual. This is probably accounted for by the raising of standards for exemption. The total number caught napping by the Automatic was fifty-five, this being 37 more than the first term. Twenty-nine of the fifty-five were reinstated.

The Honor Roll follows:

FRESHMAN TEAM TAKES SECOND GAME

Coach Brett's Team Outplays Fishburne Military; Score, 7-5

The W. & L. Freshmen in their second game of the season defeated Fishburne Military Academy at Waynesboro Saturday by the score of 7 to 5, thereby reflecting much credit on themselves and on the University, as the Fishburne team is reported to be one of the best prep school teams in the state.

The stars for the Freshmen were Gwaltney and Pointer, the wonderful fielding of Gwaltney and the home run by Pointer being the features of the game. Welford, the new pitcher from Johns Hopkins, showed up remarkably well, as did also Red Wilson who had to be taken out of the game after the second inning because of a bad arm.

REPORT OF DELEGATES TO INTERCOLLEGIATE CONFERENCE

Forty-Six Universities of East Meet at M. I. T., Discussing Undergraduate Government; W. & L. Well Represented

With four delegates from Washington and Lee taking an active part in the discussion, the first Intercollegiate Conference on Undergraduate Government at Cambridge, Mass., Friday and Saturday, was pronounced a big success. Forty-six colleges and universities throughout the East answered the call issued by Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and sent 130 representatives to discuss the problems of college life in all its phases. Washington and Lee's representatives were H. A. Holt, C. F. Currie, E. D. Campbell and A. M. Bernstein.

Because of the large amount of ground to be covered at the conference during the two days allotted to it, the delegates were divided into four discussion groups which met simultaneously. The largest and most important group was on "the Student Governing Body," represented by H. A. Holt for Washington and Lee; the other three divisions were Athletics, with F. C. Currie as W. & L.'s delegate; Publications, represented by E. D. Campbell, and Musical Clubs and Dramatics, with A. M. Bernstein in the discussion for W. & L.

The conference opened Friday with a short meeting of all the delegates, following which the body was divided into four groups for extended meetings. That night the delegates were guests at a dance given by Massachusetts Institute of Technology. On Saturday morning the conferences were resumed, continuing with little interruption through the entire day. A final banquet concluded the first Intercollegiate Conference on Undergraduate Government Saturday night.

An active part in the discussion was taken by the delegates from Washington and Lee, and especially in the department of student government was the W. & L. representative frequently called on for information as to the working of this University's student constitution, honor system and executive committee. Although in general it was found that Washington and Lee's general system of student government compared very favorably with that presented by most

TO ENDOW CHAIR OF INDUSTRIAL CHEMISTRY

Mr. Abram White, New York Business Man, Interested in W. & L. by Pres. Smith

Mr. Abram White, president of the Nofyre Product Co. of New York City has just telegraphed Dr. Smith in confirmation of his decision to endow a new chair of applied science, the White Chair of Industrial Chemistry. This means an endowment of at least $100,000. This decision is the result of an address, "General Lee and the Old South," made by Dr. Smith on April 2, at the annual luncheon of the New York Daughters of the Confederacy, at which Mr. White was one of eight or ten guests, all gentlemen of southern birth. The telegrams relative to the naming of the chair and the donors purpose follow:

Lexington, Va.

A. White, Esq.:

May I announce your chair Industrial Chemistry? Such publicity does much good as an example to others and as an inspiration to alumni and friends. Shall I use your whole name or simply the White Chair of Industrial Chemistry? Have informed faculty, but wish to announce at our next University Assembly and the public generally.

Cordially,
 HENRY LOUIS SMITH.

New York, April 15, 1921.

MARYLAND U. TAKES 101 TO 24 DEFEAT

Track Team Wins Every First Place; Thomas and Price Annex More Points than Entire Maryland Team

The Generals easily defeated Maryland University Saturday in a dual Track Meet on Wilson Field, the final score 101 to 24. Thomas led in the scoring for W. & L. winning two dashes and the broad jump. Capt. Price easily won both the high and low hurdles. W. & L. won every first place as well as nine seconds and four thirds, while Maryland took five seconds and nine thirds. The time in most of the events was slow owing to the wet track.

This week the team meets V. P. I. here and one of the fastest and closest dual meets ever seen on Wilson Field is expected.

Results of Saturday's meet:
 100-yard—Thomas (W.&L.) first; Penn (W.&L.) second; Byrd (Md. U.) third. Time—10.1.
 Mile Run—Stevens (W.&L.) first;

DIAMOND CUTS

THE WILLIAM AND MARY GAME

Monk White, William and Mary's center fielding Beau Brummel, was a star of Tuesday's contest. In the first inning, he made a beautiful running catch of Hancock's drive to right center and again in the sixth robbed Pete Hisle of a sure extra bagger when he sped toward the diamond and threw himself forward to pluck the sphere from the grasstops. He also poled out two singles that meant tallies.

Snake Maben pitched good ball and certainly deserved a win. In the face of rather ragged support, he refused to ascend, but characteristically thrust forward his nether jaw and proceeded to yank himself from several bad holes. He only allowed six clean safeties but an equal number of bobbles at crucial periods, notably the fourth inning, contributed to the fatal result.

That boy Marshall, William and Mary's pitching ace, was all he had been cracked up to be. He had steam, control, a fine change of pace, and received airtight support from his mates. He mowed down four in a row via the strikeout route in the seventh and eighth and looked good enough for the Cincinnati Reds who have recently purchased him.

Capt. Hisle caught one of Marshall's fast ones in the fourth and smashed it to right for three bags, scoring a moment later when Marshall perpetrated his team's lone error on Hancock's sacrifice fly.

THE WASHINGTON COLLEGE GAME

A rejuvenated and revitalized team laid for, saw, and conquered the scrappy gang from Maryland. With a re-adjusted batting order, a pitcher hurling remarkable ball, and an easily visible determination to win, the Generals have at last displayed their true ability and are now on the war-path.

That boy Patrick pitched a superb game and never faltered. Perhaps his greatest feat was striking out fourteen men (count 'em) during the afternoon, five of them coming in a row.

Some beautiful drives were poled out Thursday. Hancock smashed one over the left field fence for a four-bagger in the seventh, scoring Hisle ahead of him. Cobb drove a screaming triple in the same direction. Seignefuse, Washington College's nifty catcher, sent a long triple to right in the second that Switzer made a hard but unsuccessful try to intercept, and again in the ninth, he caught one of Pat's twisters on the end of his club, dumped it neatly into the tennis courts, and leisurely circumnavigated the bases. Johnston, their third baseman punctured the right-field fence in the third for another circuit clout.

S. G. KELLER, '15, MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Nash F. Alexander of Gainesville, Texas, announce the marriage of their daughter, Pearl, to Mr. Samuel G. Keller, Jr., on Monday, April 11th. The groom graduated from Washington and Lee with a B. S. degree in 1915. He is at home at 915 E. 9th street, Okmulgee, Okla.

N. C. PROFESSOR ADDRESSES ASSEMBLY

Dr. Greenlaw of English Dept. • Delivers Excellent Practical Address on Choice of Studies

In spite of the fact that a great deal of what Dr. Edwin Greenlaw, Professor of English at the University of North Carolina, said in his address at Assembly on Thursday morning, conflicts with the ideas of a large number of students in regard to the purpose of studies at college, he gave a convincing address on "The Choice of Studies."

Dr. Greenlaw gave three ways as the principal means of approach to selection of studies. First, to approach a study thru the old idea of educational values, selecting first those courses which are considered of greatest intrinsic value. The second method of approach is thru practical values, which, too, is a false conception; for, it is not the idea at college to "cram up a lot of pigeon-holed knowledge, which we can withdraw and apply in case of need. The third improper attitude is that college ought to enable the student to discover his particular bent, to develop his genius. This seems an attractive theory, but the real thing is to keep the mind alive and awake, trying to find an interpretation of life. "The value of the university education does not rest on its ability to cure weak minds, or to add income, or on its success in entertaining the student, or even on its ability to produce great dramatists, poets, financiers, etc."

Dr. Greenlaw gave nature, mind of the past, and action, as the three things making a scholar, and the purpose of a college course as being to give an introduction to these three fields—to nature thru science; to the mind of the past thru history, literature, et.; to action thru the study of the world about him.

The speaker gave three attitudes which the student might take towards a college course; first, he may apply his knowledge gained; second, he may leave it to the professor with the remark, "Here I am; educate me; make it easy, jolly, entertaining and wheedle me into a little work if possible;" third, "he may take an attitude of mental activity, developing the sinews and steel of his mind and coming to an interpretation of life and its mystery. And this is the real purpose of the college course."

CHEMICAL FRATERNITY MEETING TONIGHT

The regular meeting of the Chi Gamma Theta Society was held Tuesday, April 12th, at which time an unusually interesting and well-prepared program was rendered. B. F. Partlow read a paper on "Selenium" which was an original treatise on the author's own research work. R. D. Howerton then talked on "Smoke Screens as used during the war" and his work showed signs of much careful preparation. At the close of the regular program, Dr. L. J. Desha and R. D. Hummel were elected as honorary members of the society.

The next meeting will be held this (Tuesday) evening, at which time the regular program will be given, after which R. P. Hanger and A. G. Harmon will be initiated into the order. Although one of the youngest societies on the campus, the Chi Gamma Theta is rapidly coming to be recognized as one of the leading honorary fraternities at Washington and Lee.

EXCELLENT SERVICE

APRIL CHURCH SERVICE
WELL ATTENDED

Baltimore Rector Has Message
For Young Men at Chapel
Sunday Morning.

Bringing a powerful message especially, as he said, to young men who are to go out and help rule the destinies of the near future, Rev. Arthur Kinsolving, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Baltimore, spoke to a fair-sized crowd at the regular April church service last Sunday morning. He impressed upon his audience the seriousness of our present era, and the need that each student now in the pleasant season of youth, when hopes beat high and ideals are born, to realize something of what life really means and what each one can do.

After the impressive Episcopal service, including a solo by Mr. E. S. Matingly, Dr. Kinsolving presented his message, based upon part of a verse in Acts: "And your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions." He divided his message into a discussion of the world of to-day and the call of the life of tomorrow.

"The curse of materialism is at the bottom of conditions to-day," Dr. Kinsolving said, "Fear and distrust of nations, and of labor and capital and most other organizations for each other have led to great suffering and distress, and to an insecure and unsettled world. Greece declined and fell, as recently did Germany, because material considerations were substituted for love and passion and pity and sympathy for one's fellows, and so will any human power, however powerful it may have become, when not based upon such considerations."

"The vision of life's call," Dr. Kinsolving said, "can only be revealed thru the Spirit of God in prayer, and only thus can one work out his highest aspirations and desires. It is necessary to form good habits and never get into the drifting habit, to always be true to your duty, not to outlive the ideals of to-day, but constantly return to the early fountains of youth for new strength and Christian fellowship." The call of life will be clear thru the daily task of "letting our lives be played upon by Christian ideals."

telegram. You may announce my chair "Industrial Chemistry," using simple name of White. I was inspired by your wonderful address here and deeply impressed as a result of meeting you which made me feel very proud of my Southern nativity. I shall also endeavor to interest others in this much needed and important work as it will develop in our bright young men of the South inherent industrial talents and afford opportunity for their application in a very large field. The South possesses the natural chemical resources for supplying the most essential elements required for fire proofing such highly inflammable products as paper cloth, wood, and jute bagging used to cover cotton and the southern products properly combined can put an end to the enormous fire waste and afford universal fire protection when applied. I expect to meet you in May and arrange definite details.

REPORT OF DELEGATES TO INTERCOLLEGIATE CONFERENCE

institutions, here delegates felt that there were a number of valuable suggestions presented for possible improvement of the present system at Washington and Lee. Brief resumes of the principal matters discussed in the various groups are appended below.

The following colleges and universities were represented at the conference: Amherst, Bowdoin, Brown, Carnegie Institute of Technology, University of Chicago, Columbia, Connecticut Agricultural College, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Illinois, Iowa State, Lafayette, Lehigh, Maine, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio State, Pennsylvania State, University of Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Purdue, Stevens Institute of Technology, Trinity, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and Lee, Wesleyan, West Virginia, Williams, Wisconsin, Yale, Boston University, Tufts, Tennessee.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The conference on student government was the largest of the four gatherings, containing some fifty-five delegates gathered around a huge U-shaped table like that used in the drafting of the Versailles treaty. It was presided over by Mr. Telmose of the University of Pennsylvania, who conducted the affairs in a most business-like manner.

In the problems presented before this body Mr. Holt of Washington and Lee was called on for a large share of discussion in connection with the construction and operation of the student constitution. He made reports before the delegates on the organization of the student body executive committee, the operation of the Honor System at Washington and Lee, auditing of the funds of Student Publications, of the classes and of the President of the Final Ball and the fraternity rushing system.

The organization of the Washington and Lee Student Executive Committee was fairly typical of that obtaining in the majority of the colleges represented. However in many institutions the governing committee is composed of class presidents, publication editors, athletic managers, etc., who hold office automatically because of their special positions. In some colleges faculty members sit with the council and share in the decisions of the body. At Cornell it is specifically provided that certain non-fraternity men shall be on the council.

At a number of institutions the student governing bodies have somewhat larger original powers than those residing in the Washington and Lee Executive Committee. At Columbia the student council has already authority to call up and discipline a student guilty of any kind of reprehensible conduct. At the University of Pennsylvania the student council investigates any charges of bad conduct preferred against students by the faculty and reports back to that body. However, in most institutions the faculty has a final veto power on all action taken by a student council, and Washington and Lee, Virginia and North Carolina are unique in having the final control of their Honor System cases vested in the hands of the student governing body without review by the faculty.

In regard to control of objectionable features at College dances, most institutions met with the same problems as those which exist at Washington and Lee, and attempted to solve them in much the same way. At Kansas Agricultural College the student body employs paid outside supervisors to look after conduct at social functions. Virginia maintains pledge dances conducted under her Honor System.

At a number of institutions the Student Body has attempted to solve its financial difficulties by levying a blanket tax on all men at the beginning of the year. The proceeds of this tax are distributed among the various classes and publications according to budgets submitted by these organizations and approved by the student governing body. Columbia was the most conspicuous university adopting this plan. Even in the institutions with such a system, canvassing for Y. M. C. A. and benevolent funds is conducted separately.

Out of the forty-three colleges represented, twenty-one have honor systems, eleven reported that they were successful, two of these being institutions of over 5,000 students. These colleges reported that they once had the Honor System but had abandoned it. It was the general consensus of opinion that the Honor System could be very successfully applied in smaller colleges with high traditions, but its practicability in larger institutions was questioned by the delegates.

Some college governing bodies have taken steps toward the raising of scholastic standing on the campus. At Illinois, a fraternity whose grades do not average C is dropped from the Pan Hellenic Council and is not permitted to initiate anyone until its average has improved. Various systems were presented for aiding athletics in their studies, such voluntary coaching by members of Scholastic Honorary Societies.

ATHLETICS

The first matter to be discussed under this head was the organization of athletic associations. Most of these were similar to that at Washington and Lee, though at Massachusetts Tech the manager of a sport was always a junior, competition for this office beginning in the Freshman year. In all the colleges there were two years competition before the final selection of manager.

In regard to final control of athletics the delegates were almost unanimously of the opinion that the balance of power in the athletic council or governing body should be in the hands of the students, with alumni and faculty representation also on the board.

Athletic associations are generally supported by a campus tax, averaging fifteen dollars. At Williams they have a novel system of charging students for athletics in proportion to their room rent, the average cost per student being $25. At West Virginia books are sold to students, at a cost of $8, while the state appropriates $12,000 a year for this cause. The conference was interested in Washington and Lee's practice of giving dansants at a profit for the athletic association.

Cornell has an athletic council independent of the executive committee, similar to Washington and Lee. It is composed of the managers of the major sports who elect a president from their own group. This committee chooses one member of the faculty in an advisory capacity. However, the graduate manager has final control on all matters relating to athletics.

Most of the colleges require satisfactory grades from all athletes as a prerequisite to participation in intercollegiate contests. Harvard's representative produced statistics showing that in the past twenty-five years her athletes had almost as high a scholastic standing as the general average of the student body.

Many colleges were opposed to the election of athletics to the athletic council.

In regard to methods of interesting students in athletics, Brown has the captains of all teams urge students to come out in order to find talent material. Most colleges had compulsory athletics for Freshmen.

At Vermont each of the four colleges give a smoker to rouse enthusiasm in the games, each college taking pride in the best smoker. The delegates were interested in the rally method used at W. & L. as explained by our delegate.

Most of the Northern colleges had rules that prevented their athletics from taking part in summer Baseball. The advisability of making summer Baseball allowable was discussed but no definite conclusion could be reached. The delegate from Washington and Lee expressed the opinion that an athlete should be allowed to commercialize his athletic ability, especially since in a good many cases the money was to aid him in going to college the following year. This idea met with loud approval.

A good many of the colleges were sorry to say that they did not get the proper support from members of the faculty. W. & L. was glad to say that she got fairly good support from her faculty.

In most all of the colleges the coaches were put in complete control of the food of their athletes.

The final discussion was over the idea of putting Major sports and Minor sports under one head and call them just Sports. It was brought out that this idea would lessen the enthusiasm shown in the now major sports and would force the Universities to award far too many standard monograms.

PUBLICATIONS

The discussion under this head, which was conducted by Mr. T. C. McEachin of the Daily Princetonian, included all types of college literary and journalistic efforts, and a lively discussion of university press clubs and press associations as well.

The problems of the literary magazine came up first, and were particularly pathetic. Many of them were in the condition of the late lamented Southern Collegian, while a number had taken steps somewhat similar to those of the Editor of what is now the Mink, and had changed, at least partially, the character of the magazine, in order to make it more readable and hence more salable, even if somewhat less literary. This seemed to be the only solution for this problem at an institution not large enough to support a purely literary magazine for the benefit of its purely literary readers.

The problems of the editors of humorous publications were in themselves often humorous. The Editor of the Yale Record told the story of how, when a very rash joke had escaped the eyes of the makeup editor and had been included in the magazine, the entire editorial board was called together before any copies of the Record had been distributed. Each was armed with ink bottles and after strenuous efforts the joke actually blotted out from every copy of the magazine. The next day there was a run on ink eradicators at the New Haven book store.

Some editors told sad stories of faculty censorship of their humorous publications, and Michigan seemed hurt because it was obliged to pay a member of the faculty twenty-five dollars to censor each copy of its magazine, according to a rule of that all-powerful body.

The troubles of the editor and manager of the yearbook and the college newspaper were taken up and discussed in detail, but as they are rather technical it is not thought worth while to discuss them here.

The majority of institutions represented at the conference had some sort of supervisory board for all publications, to approve the budget submitted by the manager, etc. Often the editor and manager were elected by this board rather than by the student body at large. The board itself was generally composed of representatives from both students and faculty, and sometimes with alumni also. Where the board had authority to elect the editor and manager of a publication, the student body generally controlled the election of most of the members of the board.

THE KU KLUX KLAN

A Word of Counsel from Pres. Smith

Night after night our town and campus are besprinkled with bombastic circulars extolling the lofty aims of the revived Ku Klux Klan and seeking to entrap the ignorant and emotional into the mystic circle, at ten dollars per head.

The original founders of the original Klan, in the harassed and stormy era of reconstruction, acted from patriotic motives, with no thought of fees and money-making. They sought to justify the forging of such a dangerous and crime-breeding weapon on the plea of dire necessity. Yet the dragon's teeth they sowed soon grew beyond their control and filled the South with lawlessness and racial hatreds.

Do not, therefore, be misled by patriotic catchwords and high-sounding phrases. A secret, oathbound organization of masked night riders, by whatever name called, is a tool ready-made for the devil's own hand and will soon be utilized for his purpose. It has no place or function in a law-abiding community.

It is especially opposed to everything Washington and Lee stands for and lives for, and if any W. & L. student is so misled as to invest ten dollars in the privilege of Ku Klux Klan membership, I hope his next and far wiser investment will be in the purchase of a ticket home.

(Signed) HENRY LOUIS SMITH, President.

THE Y. M. C. A. CRITICIZED

In times past the Y. M. C. A., on our campus has been criticized as being in the hands of a few individuals who work things to suit themselves.

Two weeks ago a form letter was sent to every member of the student body requesting all who were interested in promoting a Christian program on the campus to meet at a given time and place, and from those that assembled a promotion force was formed. To become a member of this organization two things are required: first, daily devotion and second, attendance upon devotional meetings. Nothing could be more democratic than this organization and it will practically control the association program at Washington and Lee.

The next meeting of the promotion force will be held on Thursday, April 21, at 7:45 in the 'Y' room and any wishing to become members are invited to be there.

FRESHMEN ELECT OFFICERS

At a recent meeting of the class of '24, President and Vice-President for the remainder of the college year were elected. O. F. McGill, formerly Vice-President of the class was made President, while W. S. Foreman was elected Vice-President. The vacancy in the class officers was due to the withdrawal from the University of F. P. Morris, who was elected President of the Freshman last fall.

Thru oversight the name of J. D. King was omitted from the list of Phi Delta Phi initiates announced last week.

LYNCHBURG LEGAL LEADER DELIVERS ADDRESS

Judge Frank Christian of Lynchburg was the speaker at the 'Y' meeting last Thursday night. Judge M. P. Burks introduced Judge Christian as a man who has made a success in his profession and in life.

Living is the greatest thing in life, said Judge Christian, and the Bible teaches us how to live. He went on to say that the law is not in the statutes, but in the personality of the people. Times are 'out of joint' at present, he said, but this is not the first time this has happened. The same thing was true before the birth of Christ but the Lord did not change the laws of the times, but sent an ideal personality into the world.

Judge Christian then compared a hall of mirrors, with the different reflections of the convex and concave mirrors, to the diverse personalities of men.

He then said that there is no greater truth in the world than: "Your life is a picture of your creed. The tendency of men, is to adjust environment and circumstances to conditions of life. We should, on the contrary, get the power to master our environment."

"There is no harm in liquor," said Judge Christian, in the course of his talk, "but the harm is in the container. If liquor is put in a fool he will run amuck, and you can't put liquor into the stomach of a sensible man."

At the end of the war, people thought that the world would be in an ideal position, but they came to the conclusion that the idealistic "costs too much." The idealistic is the effective force of life. Men either paint pictures in life of the idealistic or of the brute, and it is for them to choose which.

"Young men," said Judge Christian in closing, "should stand up boldly and speak their feelings of truth. The ideal thing for a man to do is to spiritualize the material, the mission of his life, and his everyday tasks." It is, in short, to "follow the gleam."

WORLD PROBLEM CLASSES INTERESTING

The first meetings of the World Problem classes were held on Monday and Tuesday of last week, there being a large number present at the meeting of each of the classes and a great deal of interest manifested.

The class on the "Near East," led by Professor Brown, studied the territorial redistribution of Europe.

The class studying the "Far East," took up the relation of Japan and Korea to the whole eastern question. Dr. Howe is the leader of this class and China was the subject of discussion last night.

"Negro Problems," led by Col. Kerlin, proved especially interesting and to aid the discussions, the leader has left a number of books and magazines from his own library to show those who are studying the question just what the negro is thinking about. Those books and magazines can be had at the "Y" reading room.

These classes will continue for four weeks and all wishing to enroll are invited to do so.

S. E. Standrod, J. W. McCartney and B. H. Arbogast were numbered among those who spent Sunday outside the confines of Lexington. They were in Richmond.

J. H. Bryan spent last week-end in Charlottesville visiting at the University.

RICHMOND COLLEGIAN PLANS INTERCOLLEGIATE ASSOCIATION

The Southern Intercollegiate Newspaper association will be formed at Richmond University next Friday and Saturday. The Richmond Collegian has been working for some time arousing interest in the formation of such an association, and has taken the initiative by issuing invitations to all Southern colleges and universities to send representatives to Richmond, and by working up an attractive program.

It is now planned that Dr. Douglas Freeman, editor of the News Leader, will deliver the opening address. The Dean of the Columbia School of Journalism will also address the gathering. Editorial and Business Problems will be discussed by the delegates.

FLOURNOY AGAIN TO REPRESENT W. & L. IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

On last Friday evening the tryout was held to select a speaker to represent Washington and Lee in the coming State Intercollegiate Oratorical contest.

Due to several unexpected circumstances, Fitz Flournoy was the only contestant and was unanimously awarded the decision by the Judges, Dr. Easter and Prof. Long.

The title of his latest oration is "The First Duty of the Southern Man of Today," and is, without a doubt, one of the greatest masterpieces of Oratorical Art that has ever been delivered by a W. & L. man, and should compare very favorably with those of the other contestants.

W. S. Foreman is in the hospital with an attack of the flu.

TENNIS SEASON OPENS

George Washington and Virginia Christian Here This Week

The 1921 Tennis Team opens its schedule here this afternoon with George Washington University immediately before the V. P. I. baseball game. The hour has not been set as yet but it is expected that the first match will start about two o'clock in order that it may be run off before the ball game.

Mr. Williams has not as yet announced the men who are playing on the team but they will probably be picked from the following: Burch, Cohn, Snively, Mason, Tschudy, Rice, Sternberger and Meeker.

George Washington comes here as one of the best in its section, having gone through the season last year with few losses and many wins to their credit. The local team should, with three letter men and many new players, be able to give the visitors a run for the match. On Friday Virginia Christian College will be here for the second match.

ALL-STARS DEFEAT BUENA VISTA

The Inelligibles Baseball Team on last Saturday, not to be outdone by other teams representing the University, journeyed over to Buena Vista, where they engaged the strong team of that town in an interesting and wellplayed game, winning by the score of 7-1.

The lineup for the All-Stars, as they are called, was as follows:

Tucker, rf.; Ballard, ss.; Leake, 1b.; Lubliner, 3b.; Ward, c.; Dupree, 2b.; McDonald, p.; Ward, lf.; Falkner, cf.

Score: R. H. E.

MODERN POET COMING TO CAMPUS

Vachel Lindsay, one of the best-known of the present day poets, who has just returned from a successful lecture tour in England, will be at Washington and Lee on the 29th and 30th of this month.

Mr. Lindsay, whose poetry is attracting a great deal of attention, has also the reputation of being an interesting and unique speaker, and the University is fortunate in being included in the poet's tour of this section of the country. The time and place of the lectures will be announced later.

SIGMA UPSILON INITIATES THREE

Three new members were initiated into the local chapter of Sigma Upsilon at a meeting held last Wednesday night, April 13. They are: George T. Holbrook, T. J. Ellis and G. E. Harriss, Jr. During the year the Society has made an intensive study of the short stories and short-story writers of the world. It is planned that the feature of the present team will be original work by the members.

R. S. Reed, who withdrew from the University last week, left a bequest of several dollars to be applied to the creation of a "Cigarette Fund," at Washington and Lee Dining Hall Annex. Thus far the fund has grown instead of diminishing. Dick may have a fortune when he returns next fall.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE GAME

The Generals emerged from their shell stepped into their stride, and assumed the appearance of a real ball-club Friday afternoon when they defeated Washington College, 7 to 3, bearing out all the promise which they gave on paper before season.

In this game the team looked almost like a different aggregation than had previously graced the field. The almost listlessness of the earlier games was supplanted by a pep and ginger which proved contagious enough for the whole student body to catch.

W. & L. jumped into the lead in the first inning and increased it steadily throughout the game, their efforts culminating in a grand swatfest in the seventh when an avalanche of hits, including a home run, a triple, a single and a double following one another in dizzy succession. In this period the attempts of Schelburg to stem the tide were as ineffective as a baby's and he was completely at the mercy of his opponents.

Washington College fought hard to overtake the Generals in the early part of the game and Siegenfuss contributed some great hitting, but Patrick held them in the palm of his hand. While on the subject of Patrick it is necessary to expound somewhat. This youthful moundsman allowed but six scattered hits and retired 14 batsmen over the strikeout route, at least one in each inning and all three in the fifth. At no time was he in danger and proved particularly potent with men on the bases.

Johnston of the visitors, first man up in the sixth drove the ball over the right field wall, a feat which has not been accomplished in years. Robins's score in the seventh brought the visitors nearer to victory than any other time, but their hopes were short-lived.

HOPKINS GAME

The Generals seem to have struck their true stride last Saturday in Baltimore in the first game off the home field. Outpitching, outpitching and outplaying the Baseball Team representing Johns Hopkins University, the Lexington team took the game from the Maryland Club by the conclusive score of 18 to 7. Raftery's men seem to have found their batting eye or to have had an extreme liking for the offerings of the Hopkins twirlers, for they garnered 22 hits, including two home runs, one by Hisle and another by Raines.

At the end of the fourth inning Hopkins had the lead by the score of 7 to 3. The Generals did not tie the score until the seventh, altho the Baltimore Club failed to score after the fourth frame. Hayter and Knecht of Hopkins also received a four bagger apiece.
