GEORGIA TECH TAKES TWO WELL-PLAYED GAMES

Tornado Annexes First, 2-0; Second Goes Twelve Rounds, Ingram Winning With Home-Run for Tech

Georgia Tech brought her northern invasion to a successful close when it defeated Washington and Lee in both games of the series played here April 29-30. The games were well played, and at no time in either contest was either team certain of victory, the first going 2 to 0, and the second 6 to 3 after twelve innings had been negotiated.

The first game soon settled down into a pitcher's duel between Thompson and McCallum. Neither side had succeeded in pushing a run across the plate through four innings. In the fifth Flowers doubled and went to third on Griffin's sacrifice. With two out and the pitcher up, it appeared that Tech would be retired without a score. Meanwhile Flowers who had been dancing off on third, and trying to draw a throw darted for home with McCallum's wind-up. Mac perceived the move, threw a bean ball which according to Hoyle, the batter would have evaded, Frew would have caught, and placed on the sliding Flowers for the third out. But none of this happened. Thompson stepped back reached up in the air, (he had to stand on his toes to do it) and gently urged the ball over the field wall by about three feet. These two markers were enough to win the ball game.

NO WINNER IN TRIANGLE DEBATES

Hopkins, N. C., and W. & L. Each Take One; Affirmative Wins In Each Case

Altho Washington and Lee won only one of her two debates with Johns Hopkins and the University of North Carolina in the Trinangular debate between these institutions, it is felt that she made a very good showing. In the debate against North Carolina at Baltimore, W. & L. was represented by J. G. Anderson and E. W. Poin-dexter, who had the affirmative of the question: Resolved that the United States should adopt a policy of further material restriction of immigration. This was the subject in the whole triangular affair. This debate was the one taken by the Lexington debaters.

W. & L.'s representatives against Johns Hopkins at Chapel Hill were

NON-FRAT MEN ATTENTION

There will be a meeting of all non-Fraternity at the Economics Room next Friday night at 8 o'clock. Membership in honorary and legal fraternities alone does not class a man as a fraternity man. It is very important that all non-Fraternity men be present.

ELECTION ON MAY TWENTIETH

Defeat of Amendment Leaves Everything Set for Usual Campus Politics; Several Candidates Predicted

With the annual election of Student-Body Officers less than three weeks off, politics is rapidly coming into its own, and occupying, for the time being, the chief interest and attention of students in general. At the Athletic Council Election, held last Friday, the students by a vote of 444-137 defeated the "No Politicking" Amendment, and this should give added incentive to the so-called "campus politicians" to solicit support for their various and respective candidates for the numerous offices.

While no formal announcement has yet been made, it has been generally rumored and pretty thoroughly understood that H. A. "Rocky," Holt will be one of the candidates for the Presidency of the Student Body. A number of names have been mentioned in connection with Holt's opponent, but it seems no agreement as to the other candidate has been reached. Dayton E., "Runt," Carter is expected to stage a strong race for President of Finals, 1922, while Louis Joel has been mentioned as a candidate for Editor of the Mink.

W. E., "Bill," Holt will probably

MCDONALD TO HEAD ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Thomas, Garard, McCallum and Herndon Elected; Mink Recognized

POLITICAL AMENDMENT GOES UNDER

At the Athletic Council Election of Officers for next year, held last Friday, J. W. McDonald, Jr., letter man in Football and Basketball, was elected President, having received a total of 338 votes, while J. R. Thomas was chosen as Vice-President and H. T. Garard Secretary-Treasurer. The two successful candidates for the office of Members-at-large were J. W. McCallum and J. M. Herndon.

The amendment to abolish "politicking," was lost by over three hundred votes, while the amendment making the "Mink" a campus institution to take the place of the old "Southern Collegian," was passed almost unanimously.

Unusual interest was manifested this year and a large vote was polled, there being no more than eight men who failed to exercise the right of franchise. The election was not as close as some of the "politicians" expected, the closest contested office being that of Vice-President, Thomas winning over Mattox by only eleven votes.

The result was as follows:

President:
J. W. McDonald .....	338
K. E. Hines .....	272
Vice-President:
J. R. Thomas .....	311
M. B. Mattox .....	300

Alumni Day---Monday, June 13th

PRES. SMITH URGES ALL ALUMNI TO RETURN FOR FINALS

Lexington, Virginia,
April 28, 1921.

To Our Alumni:

I wish to extend, in the name of the University, to every alumnus, wherever he may be, and whatever may be his circumstances, a most cordial invitation to join the alumni reunion June 10th to 14th, which we hope will make the coming commencement a memorable occasion.

The Alumni, Inc., will meet this commencement under the shadow of a great and irreparable loss. Its devoted president, Mr. Ned L. Graham, was called to his reward on March 20, 1921, just as he was beginning to prepare for the coming re-union. His mantle has fallen on worthy shoulders, but no alumnus or group of alumni can replace his tireless energy, his heartfelt devotion, and his inspiring and forceful personality.

The past year has broken all records in student attendance, in increase of equipment and resources, in additions to the faculty, and in the launching of still greater plans for the immediate future. I shall send out before commencement a little bulletin to the alumni giving the more important items of our growth and development. The Million-Dollar campaign is drawing toward its successful conclusion, and already we have accepted another conditional offer of the General Education Board, and will soon be on our way toward a second million, which the rapid growth of the University now renders imperative.

The internal harmony, the general good order, and the universal optimism are everything that could be desired.

In the name of the faculty, therefore, as well as of the trustees, I cordially invite each of you to participate in the many pleasures of our commencement re-union, meet again your old friends and associates, and freshmen and brighten the bonds that unite you with your Alma Mater.

Sincerely,
HENRY LOUIS SMITH,
President.

MINK NUMBER SEVEN UP TO STANDARD OF CONTEMPORARIES

The seventh number of the Mink made its appearance on the campus last Tuesday night as the "Dormitory" number. With a very appropriate and snappy cover by W. K. Smith, the material in it shows that the magazine is steadily improving. There were fewer drawings this time than usual but those that are included show an improvement over preceding issues. The "Wash Lee Wash" contained an unusually good selection of jokes.

The "Finals" number is to make its appearance the latter part of May and plans are under way to make it a little more pretentious than the earlier issues, fitting climax for the year. Some excellent material has already been received. There are to be more drawings in this number than usual while an appropriate cover is to be done by an outside man. More good and original jokes is the particular cry at this time.

The popularity of Washington and Lee's newest publication is rapidly increasing. Besides its steadily increasing circulation, its exchange department includes a much larger territory than before. It contributed to the last week's edition of Judge and also had space in the Oregon "Lemon Punch." Exchanges are now being received as far north as Toronto, Canada, and as far west as Oregon.

Students Wanted for Summer Work

TENNIS TEAM ON TRIP NORTH

Five Matches to be Played in Maryland and Washington

The Washington and Lee Tennis Team left Lexington Friday night for College Park, Maryland, where they will play the first of a series of matches which are expected to be the hardest ever attempted by a W. & L. Tennis Team.

The team has only met two colleges so far this season and both of these were on the home courts. In very close and interesting matches George Washington University defeated the Generals, but the next day the team came back strong and won all the matches against Lynchburg College. The men who have played in the matches are Burch, Cohn, Snively, Mason and Tschudy.

The schedule as it stands at present is as follows:

May 2—University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

May 3—Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

May 4—Navy, Annapolis, Md.

May 5—Catholic, University Washington, D. C.

May 6—George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

May 9—University of Maryland, Lexington, Va.

May 18—University of North Carolina, Lexington, Va.

PRESIDENT SMITH TO REPRESENT GOVERNOR IN ENGLAND

President H. L. Smith has been appointed to represent Governor Westmoreland Davis in the presentation of the Houdon statue of Washington to England. According to plans announced by Colonel John W. Williams, clerk of the House of Delegates and secretary of the presentation commission, the commission will sail on the S. S. Lapland, June 11th.

The unveiling will be in Trafalgar Square, London, June 30th, according to advice received from the British embassy in Washington by Colonel Williams.

The monument will be placed in the shadow of the monument of Nelson, Britain's greatest sea warrior and near the shaft of Edith Cavell, the martyr nurse.

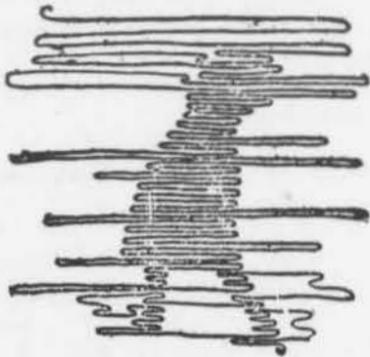

The statue is the gift of Virginia to the British empire as a token of friendly relations between the mother country and her oldest colony. It will be made from casts taken from the original statue of Washington by Houdon, the famous French sculptor of the colonial period which statue in marble is now resting in the rotunda of the capitol at Richmond.

The Gorham Manufacturing Company, of Providence, R. I., is making the statue to be presented England in bronze, and it is now at the factory being prepared for shipment. The Virginia legislature authorized presentation several years ago, but the world war interrupted consummation of the plans.

In addition to Dr. Smith, the other members of the commission are Lieutenant Governor B. F. Buchanan, of Smyth county; Speaker of the House of Delegates, Richard L. Brewer, of Nansemond county, and Colonel John W. Williams.

MATTERS OF INTEREST DISCUSSED AT STUDENT ASSEMBLY

A student assembly was held last Wednesday morning in the chapel, at which several matters were placed before the "sovereign voters." Dean Campbell explained the purpose of the meeting, which was then turned over to W. O. Burtner, President of the Student Body.

W. B. Webb was the first speaker and urged the necessity of paying Finals subscriptions at once, as only $700 of the $3,600 pledged had been paid in, and the President of Finals is being seriously handicapped by lack of funds.

The affairs of the Calyx were then outlined by Dan Blain, Editor of the Annual, who asked an increase of one dollar in the subscription price, on account of unexpected financial strain. The motion to grant the increase passed unanimously.

G. T. (Doc) Holbrook spoke next, impressing the need for cleaner cheering at the baseball games. Instances of personal "ragging" and insinuations have been noticed at the spring games, which is entirely out of accord with the W. & L. spirit of fair play and good sportsmanship.

The proposed amendments to the Constitution were read and explained by President Burtner, who emphasized the fact that a full expression of the Student Body should be had on them. As there was no discussion the Assembly then adjourned.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY DENTAL SCHOOL

For those who wish to specialize there are courses in Oral Surgery, Orthodontia (straightening the teeth) and other branches. Instruction by leading dentists of Boston and vicinity. ## FRIDAY'S ELECTION AND THE FUTURE

By an overwhelming majority the Student Body voted against the "No-Politicking" amendment at the A. C. Election last Friday. What does this defeat of the Executive Committee's attempt to stop the present system of selection of men show? Either that the Student Body does not believe that the amendment would stop politicking, or that the majority of men on the campus are in favor of a continuation of the present system.

We are inclined to believe that the latter is the answer to the question. The majority of men in the Student Body probably are willing to take the chance of occasionally, perhaps often, getting the less competent man for the position, in order that politics and its attendant relief to the monotony of college life may be continued.

The existing situation presents interesting complications. The polling of a larger number of votes than ever before in the Athletic Council election shows that the campus as a whole is probably more interested in student affairs than in former years. As was the case last year the non-fraternity element in the Student Body will control the election, and the two groups of Fraternities will probably continue the time-honored line-ups of previous years. Undoubtedly it will not take a Solomon from the tribe of Politicus to judge the outcome of the election a week before it transpires. Such is politics!

One comfort arises from the system which the campus has willed to select its leaders—both sides in the controversy will undoubtedly put good men in the running, and men will be elected who are capable of handling the work and shouldering the responsibilities. The only loss to the Student Body in the politics in vogue at present is in losing the difference in ability between a good man for the job and a better man. Often the man who deserves the position is not elected, but oftener the man, who does deserve the job and can handle it, is elected. It's better than fifty-fifty. Usually college boys or men, whichever they are, are not so conceited that they try to get some office that they cannot fill, anyhow.

The campus has decreed politics. Let's make the most of the spring political season. The situation might be better, we admit, but it also might be worse.

ONE WORTHY SUGGESTION

Notwithstanding the fact that the "No-Politicking" Amendment failed to become a part of the Student Body Constitution the Ring-tum Phi expects to take it upon itself to carry out the method of publicity for candidates advocated by the clause in the would-be amendment which read that the candidates for all offices might publish their qualifications on the Bulletin Board or in the Ring-tum Phi. We expect to set forth the qualifications of the candidates in an impartial manner, stating only those things which will be of advantage to the Student Body in choosing the most capable man. Let every candidate therefore feel himself obligated to personally state, or have stated for him, his qualifications, his affiliations, his platform, if he has one, and his record since he has been at the University. Reporters will interview candidates.

Candidates, it will be to your advantage to avail yourself of this opportunity to present your case to the Student Body. Just two more issues until the election. Get your qualifications in one—preferably the first.

FEELING OF FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY NEEDED

Isn't it easy to sign a card promising to pay a certain amount three or four months from date? Of course we mean to pay and we will when we have the money. But it is so simple just to let things slide and keep putting off obligations to student organizations, until finally so many of us practice financial procrastination that the organization concerned lies on the rocks.

But to be more definite. Finals 1921 has subscriptions amounting to over $2,000 due, the Calyx has not yet received several hundred dollars representation dues, and the Managers of the Mink and the Ring-tum Phi don't mind telling their close friends that scores of student subscribers have not yet paid for the issues of 1920-21. It is necessary for those in charge of the arrangements for Finals to know soon just how much they can count on for all the features and attractions of Final Week, so if you are delinquent in this respect, you are expected to tell the man who solicits your subscription whether you intend to make yours good, and if so, when.

The subscriptions to the publications of the Student Body have always presented difficulties to the Managers. Students who subscribe undoubtedly expect to pay subscriptions but there has never been any means of enforcing payment, so Managers have always been liable for any deficit which may arise, due to non-payment of subscriptions. We shudder to think of the business futures of those members of the Student Body who will pay no more attention to the notice from the bank of a note due than they now give to notices and solicitations from Finals, the Publications, and other Student Organizations.

This may sound like a paradox or an impossibility or some such thing, but Finals and the Publications need the money worse than you do.

We haven't advice from 'Y' headquarters on this point, but we expect that some of the things said above about unpaid subscriptions will apply to the Association.

CREW MAN OF 1910 SPEAKS

Before the days of automobiles and modern dances, the Albert Sidney-Harry Lee Boat Race on North River was one of the big events of the year. On the campus and at "Willis's Pool Room" the fights and bets were very much in evidence.

On all the streets of Lexington the Red and Blue flags were displayed from every house, and small boys thought, talked and fought about nothing else. The county people always took a great interest in this event, and brought their sweethearts from far and near to witness the scantily clad oarsmen faint or smile, depending on whether they won or lost.

It is a distinct disappointment to the men who witness the above outlined facts to see the interest in the old Albert Sidney and Harry Lee Crews wane, and it is the sincere hope of the writer that the old spirit can be revived.

Harry Lee, 1910.

R. T. PENN STRONGEST MAN IN CLASS OF '24

Each year the Department of Physical Education from the results of the Freshmen physical examinations, compiles statistics as to the strength of the class. The records for this year show that R. T. Penn with a total strength of 37,170 is the strongest man in the class of 1924. His closest second is J. G. Elms with 33,180.

An interesting method is used to calculate a person's strength. The strength in pounds (as shown by apparatus in the gym) of the back and legs, and of the right and left fore-arms is added to one tenth of the person's weight. This resultant, multiplied by the arm flexors plus the arm extensors gives the estimated total strength. This same method is used at Yale.

The following is a list of the first ten men as shown by the list:

R. T. Penn	37,170
J. G. Elms	33,180
D. T. Cowart	32,880
P. D. Gwaltney	31,712
C. L. Riley	31,584
J. W. McCartney	31,408
W. T. McGowin	30,884
L. M. Turner	29,736
C. H. Minnich	27,244
W. T. Holt	26,712

SPEAK IN CHAPEL NEXT SUNDAY

The last monthly preaching service for the session 1920-21, will be held next Sunday, May 8, in Lee's Chapel.

Dr. J. R. Howerton will preach, taking the engagement of Dr. Martin P. Hardin of Ithaca, N. Y., who was prevented from coming by an operation which is keeping him in the hospital.

This is a Student Body service and is intended to be along lines that especially pertain to the student's relation to religion. It is hoped that a large number will attend.

CIRCLE SERVING UNIVERSITY

The Washington and Lee Chapter of the Circle has recently sent out, and will send out in the near future, students to speak at the principal preparatory schools in the state.

The two aims of the Circle are the recognition of campus leadership and the promotion of the best interests of Washington and Lee.

The purpose of the visits of the students to the neighboring preparatory schools is first, to interest the students of the schools in higher education, and, secondly, to show them the advantages that Washington and Lee has to offer.

Although last fall the University turned down several hundred applications for admission and will undoubtedly turn down many more during the coming fall, the Circle hopes, by keeping in touch with the neighboring preparatory schools, to enable the University to admit the leaders, at least, from these schools, thereby making for a bigger and better Washington and Lee.

The cities already visited by representatives of the Circle are: Richmond, Alexandria, Roanoke and Woodbury Forest. The following places will be visited next week: Staunton (S. M. A.), Danville, Winchester, Waynesboro, Fort Defiance (A. M. A.), Lewisburg, W. Va., Harrisonburg and Clifton Forge.

THE OGLETHORPE GAME

All doubts as to whether the Rafterites are capable of swinging a wicked bludgeon were entirely, totally and satisfactorily dispelled in this fracas.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Sam Raines uncoiled his steel whip twice in the second, when perfect pegs from deep left annihilated two would-be scores.

—Generals We're Behind You—

McCallum's ability as a pitching ace was clearly revealed. He allowed ten bingles but kept them so well scattered that they resulted in only three hostile tallies.

THE TECHNICAL DEFEATS

The gentlemen from Georgia were here—it must also be confessed that they were there in more ways than one.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Pitcher Thompson was the pivot around which a one man victory revolved in the Friday contest. Besides holding the locals to three hits, one of which was a scratch, he pulled a George Kelley-Babe Ruth with one on, and literally won his own game.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Curley Burke's jam-up game at second was a thing of beauty and a joy thruout the game. He handled everything that came in his general direction without the semblance of a bobble, and nipped many would-be occupants of the bag. His batting eye is sharpening in a satisfactory manner.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Flower's attempted steal home in the seventh was frustrated by the thoughtlessness of a team-mate, Pitcher Thompson, who was at the plate, and wildly swinging his club, stepped into one of McCallum's fast ones with enough steam to kiss the horsehide for four bags.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Frew is rounding into big league stuff. His three bagger in the second Georgia disaster was a screaming success, since it relieved the bags of two runners, and his own tally a moment later sent the game into extra innings. Incidentally he is the bane of all high-foul hitters.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Ingram was more or less personally responsible for all six of Tech's counters. In the fourth he clouted the sphere over the left field fence and followed two runners over the plate. He also broke up the first extra inning game of the year on Wilson Field, when, in the twelfth, he proved the theory that history repeats itself by slamming another circuit smash, again scoring two teammates before him.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Charlie Terry is blossoming out into a veritable Hal Chase. Errors to him are forbidden fruit, but his bat seems to have fallen into devious ways.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Along this line we might say that a ball sent to center field falls into devious ways in the folds of Ty Cobb's waiting glove.

—Generals We're Behind You—

Captain Pete Hisle stands out as a miniature beacon at third. He radiates pep, and consistency in every encounter, and his stick work is more dependable than any of the rest of Raftery's crew.

—Generals We're Behind You—

If any of the players or the bleach-rites ever feel even the slightest diminution in fighting spirit and enthusiasm, they would do well to emulate the steady confident example set by Coach Raftery.

—Generals We're Behind You—

The Lapidary (Scandinavian equivalent for Diamond Cutter) wishes Raftery's Raft Bon-Voyage on the troubled Southern Seas, and regrets that his exchequer is investigating the peanut situation in Mesopotamia, thereby preventing the presence of his judicious eye and leather lungs at any of the potential victories of the trip.

NO WINNER IN TRIANGLE DEBATES

F. C. Parks and W. M. Tuck. These men upheld the negative side of the question and lost by the margin of a three to two decision.

Johns Hopkins and the University of North Carolina debated here, the University of North Carolina winning the decision four to one. Messrs. B. C. Brown and D. L. Grant of North Carolina upheld the affirmative; Messrs. A. D. Emmart and A. E. Diamond spoke for Johns Hopkins.

It is interesting to note that the affirmative won in every case, so that each university won one debate and lost one. This would seem to indicate a degree of unfairness in the question, which was chosen several months ago and tho it may have been fair at that time, the change in internal conditions has changed its aspect.

At the debate in the Chapel, Dean H. D. Campbell presided. Professors Shannon, Farrar, Paxton, Williams and Stevens had been chosen as judges. The affirmative contended that statistics of even a few years ago could not apply now and that many immigrants were coming to our shores in spite of present restrictions and that many more were only awaiting an opportunity to come. They stated that the idea was to help the immigrant himself and not to discriminate, and that a scientific system of control was necessary from a social and economic viewpoint.

The negative opposed the plan on the grounds that it was unnecessary and undesirable and stated that there is a demand for immigration labor and for unskilled labor in the West and South. Both sides put up very good arguments and the decision was closely contested, but the affirmative had the edge, and had the additional advantage of the superb debating of Mr. Grant, undoubtedly the best speaker of the four.

BLOCK G DRAWN

The Registrar announces that Block G was drawn for the first of the spring exams. This means that the classes meeting Monday, Wednesday and Friday at twelve will be the first to stand examinations for the spring term, and that the classes, including Logic and Chemistry one, which meet Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at eleven will have their chances to fall or stand on the last day of the examination week.

In the seventh inning McCallum's deceptive delivery which had his opponents guessing at all times, and holding them close to the bag accounted for two outs, as two Techmen started to steal from first only to find the ball waiting for them via the McCallum, Terry, and Burke route. Thompson's pitching for the visitors and Curly Burke's sensational fielding were easily the features of the game. Thompson allowed only three hits, one of them a scratch, while Burke got 6 assists, 1 putout and converted 2 hits over second into outs.

SECOND GAME

April 30 the Generals met their second defeat at the hands of the Golden Tornado, 6 to 3, but only after they had battled twelve innings through a three all tie. The game was won by one man, Ingram, left fielder for the visitors, who accounted for every run scored by his team with two timely homers in the third and twelfth innings with two men on each time.

Georgia Tech scored first. In the third inning Raines dropped Bratton's fly, giving him a life, Collings walked and both scored when Ingram lifted the ball over the fence. The Generals, however, came right back with three more in the same frame. Raines singled cleanly, Cobb beat one out to the pitcher, and "Student" Frew drove a screaming liner between right and center that went for three bases. Frew scored a minute later when Flowers threw Burke's slow roller wide and Curly did an Annette Kellerman for the bag.

This ended the scoring for eight innings. In the twelfth Bratton's third strike went through Frew, placing him on the bags, Hancock bobbled Morgan's grounder and the already distinguished Ingram became more renowned by a clean home run which rolled to the tennis court after hitting just to the right of the fence.

Several times W. & L. threatened to score and twice had three men on, but nothing came of these rallies.

VACHEL LINDSAY WELL RECEIVED

Popular Poet Interprets Own Poetry in Two Lectures

Nicholas Vachel Lindsay, one of the best known of the modern poets, delivered two lectures at the Carnegie Library last Friday and Saturday, interpreting his poetry and reading various selections. He came to Lexington under the auspices of the English department of the University.

The audience, although small, were appreciative and were very much pleased with Mr. Lindsay's lectures. He is a unique man with a pleasing personality and striking histrionic powers. His voice is expressive and sonorous, and he is capable of putting real music into the rendition of poetry. A well-developed sense of humor aided him in keeping his listeners with him.

Mr. Lindsay showed great interest in Southern traditions;—especially in the story of Pocahontas, and he read his poem about the Indian maid, which was very effective and musical. He also read a poem from manuscript called Johnnie Appleseed, which he said was still in the process of evolution.

Very striking was Mr. Lindsay's reading of his best known poem, The Congo, which is a study of the Negro. With vocal and physical gymnastics he brought out the jazz and also showed a deeper element of literary worth and value. The effect was very real and entertaining.

While on the campus, the poet visited several of the English classes where informal discussions were held, allowing the youthful students of literature to come in contact with a successful poet for the first time.

be an aspirant for the position of Manager of the University Weekly, or semi-weekly, as it will probably be, and L. G. "Baldy" Benford hopes to take over the managerial reins of the Mink. These are but a few of the many names that have been suggested for the various offices, many of the would-be candidates preferring to avoid publicity until they see "how the wind's blowing." It is expected that the usual amount of politics will enter into the election with the various fraternal and non-fraternal organizations combining with others to elect their candidates.

Everything points to an election of unusual interest, with close and hard-fought races for all positions. The Student Body has flatly turned down the "no politicking" amendment, which would seem to indicate that politics will hold sway, which, after all will mean more business for all the soda fountains, and the cigar and tobacco counters.

The following eleven offices are to be filled:

President, Vice-President and Secretary of Student Body, Cheer-Leader, Editor and Business Manager of Ring-tum Phi, Mink, and Calyx, and President of Finals.

PROMINENT ENGINEER SPEAKS ON CHRISTIANITY AND BUSINESS

Mr. B. L. Snead, Chief Draughtsman of the Virginia Bridge and Iron company, gave a very interesting talk at the Y. M. C. A. last Thursday night on the teachings of Christ as applied to modern business. He said that some persons had the idea that to be successful in business would mean a policy and such methods as are opposed to the principles of Christianity, but that experience had proved to him that such is not the case. Instead there is being substituted the idea of cooperation and mutual understanding for the suspicion and antagonisms of former days. Companies of all kinds are no longer closely guarding facts of organization and operation, but are striving to render better service and look at other peoples' policies and aspirations sympathetically and with a view to helpfulness.

"Service is indeed the watchword of efficient business," Mr. Snead said. "One cannot look to pecuniary gain and personal aggrandizement alone, or even primarily, if one would attain to a high pinnacle in the world of business success—rather one must apply Christian principles ever and anon to all industrial tasks and win thereby the goal of happiness thru service."

Mr. Snead gave an excellent set of modern "Business Commandments," which would indeed make the world a better place to live in if they were universally observed. These commandments are now effective in the Christian business man's life, and he is trusted and so successful just because every one knows how to take him and where he stands. In business as everywhere else, confidence and good will, along with real service through the observance of Christian principles, are the things that really count.

K. A. HOUSE PARTY DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

Among the notable social events of the season was the recent house party given by the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. The three days of "joy unconfined" were very auspiciously inaugurated by a five-course luncheon on Friday followed by a dance that evening during which delightful refreshments were served. Another feature of the party was the dance given on Saturday evening, and the music, which was furnished by the "All-Southern Seven" on both occasions, added much to the enjoyment of the event.

Among the guests were the following young ladies from Hollins: Misses Elizabeth Dowd, Margaret McIntyre, Mabel Satterwhite, Margaret Walcott, Vincencia Allen, Margaret Hunter, Elizabeth Bowles, Isabel Steele. Among the local guests were Misses Anne Derbyshire, Emily Penick, Sara White and her visitors, Miss Mary Lynnes and Miss Lois Virginia Moore, Miss Letitia Lewis and her visitor, Mrs. Ada Ashley. There were included also several young ladies from Staunton.

The chaperones for the house party were: Prof. and Mrs. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Burgess, Mrs. Derbyshire and Miss Nannie Larick.

LYCEUM COURSE SECURED FOR NEXT YEAR

The Y. M. C. A. announces that the Lyceum Course for the 1921-22 session will be given by the White Entertainment Bureau, of Boston, the same company that provided the excellent programs of the present session. Three high class musical numbers have been contracted for, and Lexington will look forward to these with interest.

Miss Melvina Passmore, soprano, will render the first number of the entertainments. This should be one of the best programs, since Miss Passmore is an artist of such rank that she has been recently engaged by the Chicago Opera company to take Galli Curci's place at the first of the year.

The Harp Trio, which won such approval at their program here during the present session, has been secured for a return engagement as the second number. One of the attractions of this number will be the appearance of Mr. Raymond Simmonds, tenor.

A violin wizard in the person of Crawford Adams will give the last number of the Course. This young man is both a freak and an artist in his performances on the violin, and his program should be most delightful.

The generous Lexington music lovers have already engaged 110 of the Course tickets for next year, and doubtless many more will take advantage of them. The students will have the privilege of attending these concerts either free, or at a nominal price, if increased expenditures make this necessary. These concerts are provided to secure first class music for Lexington, such as might otherwise be impossible.
