THE JOSE MOLINA

Spanish Artist To Present Program Of Native Dances

Lovers of the dance, students of Spain, and anyone who enjoys an exciting evening out should enjoy the performance planned for Friday, Jan. 12 by Jose Molina's Bailes Espanoles.

Molina, who has already brought his Spanish dance troupe twice to Richmond for the Virginia Dance Society, will perform in Lexington and 17 other Virginia communities in January for the Virginia Museum Theatre Arts System.

It is VMTAS' second performing arts tour this season and the first dance tour since the program was established in the fall of 1966.

The Lexington performance will be given at Lexington High School auditorium and will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Latin and Math Speakers To Lecture on Lycidas And Algebra This Week

There will be two outside speakers on campus this week. The math department is sponsoring a talk by Dr. C. E. Hall of V.P.I. in New Science 201. His topic is designed for an undergraduate audience and his topic will be "Modern Algebra, Its Past, Present and Possible Future."

The Latin department will present Wendell Clausen, chairman of the Department of Classics at Harvard University. The talk will be entitled "Lycidas and the Pastoral Tradition," and it will take place Thursday evening at 8:15 p.m. in the duPont.

Professor Clausen is a noted scholar, and he has written numerous articles in the field of Latin literature.

Duetri Ensemble Presents Program Tomorrow

Tomorrow night the Duetri Ensemble will present a program of Mozart, Debussy, Milhaud, Brahms, and Bartok. The concert is the second in the Concert Guild's scheduled programs and is free to all Washington and Lee students.

The highly acclaimed trio will begin their presentation at 8 in Lee Chapel. The program consists of pieces for the piano, clarinet, and violin or viola.

The trio is composed of Irving Imer and Frank and David Glazer. Each of these men was a recognized soloist before coming together to form an ensemble that has been greatly praised on a recent European concert tour.

In a review, a newspaper in Cologne, Germany commented, "Temperament, faultless technique and creative power characterized the performances."

This is the first performance by this group on the W&L campus.

Molina, a young, handsome native of Madrid who is regarded as one of Spain's top dancers, will unfold a program of dances from many of the regions, eras, and moods of Spain.

Two of that country's most colorful dances, the "Fandango" and "Soleares," will be included in Molina's program.

Tickets are available from Viola Wise, 463-3191, Washington and Lee Bookstore and LeJeune Hall, VMI.

IFC Scholarship Awards Given For Last Semester

At a short meeting of the IFC last night, president Ellis Zahra told the group of upcoming seminars with Randolph-Macon Woman's College, and Bill Brown presented seven fraternities with scholarship awards.

Zahra said the W&L chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholastic honor society, was helping to work out a program of seminars to be held in conjunction with R-MWC.

The discussions would be conducted by two faculty members representing different departments each week. The topic, "The Aspects of War," is "not a peace movement or anything like that," according to Zahra. He said more information would be forthcoming, including the possibility of offering credit.

Seven fraternities scored above 1.6 to top the all-men's average in the last semester of last year, and were presented engraved certificates at last night's meeting for their achievement. They are: ZBT, SPE, DU, Delt, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, and Phi Ep.

At the IFC meeting to be held next Monday, Contact Chairman Stafford Keegin is expected to discuss the February program.

Wright Wins Second

Tim Wright, one of Washington and Lee's top freshman debaters, won the second place speaker award on the negative side of the question at the Morgan State College Debate Tournament in Baltimore on Saturday. Wright scored 99 points out of a possible 120. Further, Wright and his partner Stacy Eastland won 3 of 4 debates in this tournament that drew 25 teams from 20 colleges. Previously this fall Wright was chosen the top speaker on the affirmative side of the debate question at the Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha regionals held at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. In high school, Wright was the top Extemp Speaker in the nation.

Other debaters taking part in the Morgan State Tournament were Chip Chew, Joe Wich, Tom Hudson, Chris Herchold, Charles Smith and Anthony Coyne.

1968 Glasgow Symposium Planned On Various Studies Of Shakespeare

By PAXTON DAVIS

A three-day symposium featuring lectures by four leading literary critics will be presented at Washington and Lee University February 13, 14 and 15 by the Glasgow Endowment Committee.

Entitled "Approaches to Shakespeare," the symposium aims at reflecting the varying critical postures of the participants as well as developing specifically Shakespearean materials.

Stanley Edgar Hyman, author of "The Armed Vision" and "The Tangled Bank," will present a paper and serve as moderator.

Members of the symposium besides

Hyman are Kenneth Burke, C. L. Barber and L. C. Knights. The latter, King Edward VII Professor of English Literature at the University of Cambridge, will fly to the United States especially to take part in the panel here.

All sessions will take place in Lee Chapel.

The symposium will officially open at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, February 13, when the aims of the program will be outlined by Dr. Severn P. C. Duvall, head of the W&L Department of English and member of the Glasgow Committee. Then the first paper will be read.

Additional papers will be given at sessions at 3 p.m. and 8:15 p.m.

Wednesday, February 14, and at 3 p.m. Thursday, February 15. A concluding session at 8:15 p.m. Thursday will present a panel in which all four participants will take part. Professor Hyman will serve as moderator.

Students, faculty and guests will be able to meet members of the symposium informally at coffee hours at the Alumni House between 10:30 a.m. and noon both Wednesday and Thursday. Hyman, a member of the literature faculty at Bennington College, Vermont, is a graduate of Syracuse and author, besides "The Armed Vision" and "The Tangled Bank," of "Poetry and Criticism," "Nathaniel West," "The Promised End," "Kenneth Burke's Perspectives by Incongruity" and "Kenneth Burke's Terms for Order." A former staff writer for The New Yorker, Hyman has won various prizes.

Burke, translator as well as critic, is author of "A Grammar of Motives" and "A Rhetoric of Motives" in addition to his famous early "Philosophy of Literary Form." Malcolm Cowley has called him "one of the few truly speculative thinkers of our time."

Barber, a native of California, was educated at Harvard and Cambridge and has taught at the former, as well as at Amherst, Indiana and Yale. His books include "Shakespeare's Festive Comedy," "More Power to Them" and "The New College Plan." He is now professor of English at the State University of New York in Buffalo.

Knights, at Cambridge and a fellow of Queen's College since 1965, taught previously at Manchester University, the University of Sheffield, Bristol University and the University of Pittsburgh. His books include "Drama and Society in the Age of Jonson," "Explorations," "Shakespeare's Politics," "Some Shakespearean Themes," "An Approach to Hamlet," "Metaphor and Symbol" and "Further Explorations."

The Glasgow Committee was established at Washington and Lee by a bequest from Arthur Graham Glasgow, who stipulated that his legacy be used "to promote the art of expression by pen and tongue." Since 1957 the Committee has brought

'The Once and Future King'?

Nixon Plans To Address ODK

Richard M. Nixon, former Vice-President and Republican presidential candidate in 1960, will speak January 11 at Washington and Lee.

At W&L, Nixon will be the speaker at the annual "Tap Day" ceremony for Omicron Delta Kappa.

Nixon was born in 1913 at Whittier, California. He attended Whittier College, and in 1937 he received his Bachelor of Laws degree from Duke University Law School.

Nixon's political career began in 1946 when he was nominated as a Republican candidate for the House of Representatives. He won the election and served as a House member until 1950, when he was elected senator from California. This campaign, in which he defeated the Democratic nominee Helen Douglas, "The New Republic" called "one of the best financed, well publicized and most underhanded campaigns in California's history."

In 1952 Nixon became Vice-President under Eisenhower. He served in this position until 1960, when he became the Republican presidential nominee. In a tight campaign he was defeated by John F. Kennedy, who received one tenth of one per cent more of the popular votes than did Nixon.

A Major Contender
As the 1968 presidential election draws nearer, Nixon appears to be one of the major contenders for the Republican presidential candidacy. Although Nixon has not yet officially announced his candidacy, it is very probable that he will do so.

The chances for Nixon's nomination rest largely on the results of the forthcoming political primaries, the first of which will take place in New Hampshire this March. If he can win big in all or most of the primaries, Nixon stands a good chance of capturing the nomination. According to the polls, Nixon is well ahead of Gov. Romney, his major political opponent, in most of these states. According to "Time," Nixon is leading Romney 3 to 1 in New Hampshire. In Wisconsin, likewise, he is ahead by ten percent.

Although he might win the primaries, Nixon's nomination is by no means certain. In a recent issue of "Newsweek" Nixon is predicted to have only 561 votes of the 667 needed to win.

FD To Feature Ryder & Duchin

Preparations are under way for Fancy Dress weekend to highlight this year's theme "High Society."

The weekend's activities will begin at 4 p.m. on Friday, February 2, with the cocktail party. The party will be held at the Mayflower Hotel and is financed this year from freshman class dues. Mixed drinks will be served with the Fabulous Five and the Parliament providing the entertainment. A surprise from Roanoke will also be at the party.

Peter Duchin
Peter Duchin and his orchestra will be presented at the Ball on Friday night from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Commons. The figure will be held including the fraternity presidents, Dance Board officers, and Fancy Dress officers.

On Saturday night in the gym Mitch Ryder and his Review will perform from 8-10 p.m. Fraternity parties will be held throughout the weekend.

Vice-Presidents
Ten Fancy Dress vice-presidents have been appointed this year by Luke Crossland, Fancy Dress president. They are: Buddy Atkins, SAE from Raleigh; Wick Vellines, Phi Kap from Norfolk; Reid Cox, Pi Phi from Metairie, La.; Nelson Head, Phi Delt from Birmingham; Bob Miller, SPE from Havertown, Pa.; Harold Stowe, Phi Delt from Belmont, N.C.; Steve

Ingoe Named New Editor For W&L's Law Review

Ronald K. Ingoe has been selected to serve as the editor of the Law Review for the Spring semester. The change was necessitated because William McC. Schildt, the present editor, will graduate in January from the law school.

The Spring issue will compose the second part of the twenty-fifth volume of the Washington and Lee Law Review.

Senior Student
Ingoe is a senior law student and plans to graduate in June. He is from Salem, Virginia and went to the University of Virginia for his undergraduate studies.

Ingoe is presently serving as Comments Editor of the Law Review. The outgoing editor selects his successor after eligibility of the members of the staff is determined by grades. The Law Review is one means by which law students can establish their reputation among the legal firms that hire students upon graduation.

Editor For Roanoke Newspaper To Serve As Visiting Lecturer

W. Howard Eanes, assistant managing editor of the Roanoke (Va.) Times, will serve as visiting lecturer in journalism and communications for the coming spring term at Washington and Lee University.

His appointment was announced by Dr. William W. Pusey III, Dean of the College and Acting President of the University.

Eanes succeeds William G. Leverty, assistant managing editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, who retired last May from the teaching post he held for 15 years.

As a visiting lecturer, Eanes will teach a course once a week in newspaper editing and design.

A veteran newsman, Eanes has held positions on the Progress-Index in his native Petersburg, on the Richmond Times-Dispatch, Lynchburg News, Newport News Press and Roanoke Times, which he joined in 1965.

Rumored Merger Between Sweet Briar College and W&L Is Declared False

Washington and Lee students awoke on Sunday morning to read in the Washington Post that Sweet Briar has asked two neighboring men's schools to join in what the Post termed "academic wedlock."

The Ring-tum Phi, in seeking to end rumors and get to the truth of the affair, contacted the assistant director of Public Relations at Sweet Briar, and she replied that to the best of her knowledge there was "no truth whatsoever" in the Post article.

Still questioning for the truth, the Ring-tum Phi contacted the acting president of the University, Dean Pusey. Dean Pusey replied that "We love them dearly" but to the best of his knowledge there is no proposed merger at all with Sweet Briar.

That ends that rumor, maybe we'll have better luck next time.

Moot Court Team Loses

The W&L moot court team lost to a team from the University of Nebraska in their initial competition in New York over the Christmas holidays. The loss was by a two-to-one decision by the group of judges. The W&L team received favorable comments on their presentation.

Lectures, Game In Future Plans For W&L Radio

WLUR has planned several extraordinary broadcasts during the winter term. Station Manager Charles Winston said that several away basketball games will be aired as well as re-broadcasting the talks on major on-campus speakers.

On Saturday, January 13 the station will present the broadcast of the General's away basketball match against East Carolina. The station will be on the air from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. with the game starting at 8 p.m. Popular, "Top 40," type of music as well as news will precede the game.

WLUR will also broadcast the CAC tournament games on February 22 and 23 from Sewanee.

Former vice-president, Richard Nixon's speech will be broadcast Thursday night at 7:05. The station also plans definitely to broadcast the speeches of the major Contact speakers on the week after Contact. Mr. Winston also noted that, although formal arrangements have not been made, the station will broadcast the speeches of the Glasgow professors.

According to Mr. Winston, the station has many openings, after exams, for people to produce classical music shows, as well as engineers, and news personnel.

Lee's Birthday Observance Features Atwood Address

The annual Founder's Day assembly will present Dean Edward C. Atwood, as the main speaker. The assembly will be held on January 19 to commemorate the 161st anniversary of the birth of General R. E. Lee.

The required University assembly will be held in Doremus Gymnasium at 10 a.m. The Friday meeting will

Language Seminar

Washington and Lee University will participate again in 1968-69 in the Princeton University Cooperative Undergraduate Program for Critical Languages. A student with a distinguished academic record may be recommended by Washington and Lee to study Arabic, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Russian, or Turkish, and related regional studies at Princeton University during his junior year.

The deadline for an application to Princeton is February 15, 1968. Interested students should see Dean William W. Pusey III at their early convenience for details concerning the program.

Thursday Schedule

There will be an ODK Assembly at 12:00 noon on Thursday, January 11, in the gymnasium. Attendance is required. Mr. Richard M. Nixon, former Vice President of the United States, will be the speaker.

The schedule of classes on Thursday will be as follows:

B- 8:25- 9:05
D- 9:05- 9:45
F- 9:45-10:25
H-10:25-11:05
J-11:05-11:45
Assembly-Noon

It would be appreciated if students can be seated promptly by 11:55, so that the Assembly can begin on time.

REGISTRATION NOTICE

Changes in registration for second semester may be made today and tomorrow. Changes made after January 10, unless the consequence of first semester failures, will be subject to a $5 charge.

Dean Huntley

The pleasure of the Ring-tum Phi upon the nomination of Robert Edward Royall Huntley as president of Washington and Lee University is not easy to express. Rather than being so presumptuous as to proclaim in these columns our assessment of Dean Huntley's potential as president of the University, the Tuesday Edition is publishing today excerpts of remarks he made to representatives of the Virginia press last week shortly after the announcement of his election. One cannot fail, we think, to be impressed and gratified, enormously.

The Tuesday Edition is pleased to present a transcription of remarks made last week by Washington and Lee's president-elect, Dean Robert E. R. Huntley, in answer to questions to him in a press conference.

The conference was tape-recorded by station manager Charles E. Winston of WLUR-FM, through whose courtesy the following transcript was made possible. Acknowledgement with thanks is made to Robert P. Stuart and Philip Hubbard for typing services.
—Editor

Dean Huntley: I'd like to make one comment before you ask questions. I want to take this occasion to point out how glad I am, and everybody at Washington and Lee, that Dr. Pusey has agreed to go on as dean of the College, which is certainly the first thing I needed to know before accepting the election as president, and a critical factor in the future of the school. Of course we all owe him a great debt of gratitude in stepping into the breach during the last six months.

Reporter: Dean Huntley, what do you think is the growth potential of Washington and Lee?

Huntley: I suppose that if one set about to make a school as large as one could make it, over a period of years, there is almost no limit to the size that it could become. I don't anticipate that this will be Washington and Lee's goal.

Reporter: Do you think it would be good for Washington and Lee to strive to become as large as it could?

Huntley: No, I do not.

Reporter: Can you see any threat to small colleges in the developing community colleges?

Huntley: No, I don't see them as a threat. I think that there will be a need for some liaison between schools like Washington and Lee and the community colleges. I can't imagine that the needs in the educational world are so circumscribed that there is not considerable room for both kinds of institutions.

Reporter: Can you comment on the apparent trend toward an increasing demand for liberal arts education?

Huntley: I hope that you are correct that there is a growing demand for a liberal arts education in the country. Certainly Washington and Lee will continue to operate on the assumption that you are correct that a major need in higher education is for emphasis on quality liberal arts education. This has been the dedication of the school throughout, and will continue to be. I don't think that the "loose specialization" that occurs through the law school and the school of commerce is inconsistent with the continuing emphasis on liberal arts education. On the contrary, the more or less unique relationship between this "loose specialization" and the continuing central emphasis on liberal arts education are desirable both to the liberal-arts people and loose specialists.

Reporter: When will Washington and Lee's capital development program begin?

Huntley: Under Dr. Cole, the initial steps in mapping a development program were taken; a Development Office has been activated with Mr. Parsons as head; Mr. Farris Hotchkiss, the associate director, and Bill Washburn, the alumni secretary, all will be working closely together in this office. A number of steps have been taken under Dr. Cole's leadership, and it's clear that a number of additional steps will need to be taken. I think it's clear that Washington and Lee has development needs, and it's clear that they can be met.

Reporter: Do you have any timetable for reaching this goal?

Huntley: None as yet, but I assume there will be some kind of time-table before long.

Reporter: Some day, when you retire, some reporter is going to come to you and say, "What is your proudest accomplishment?"

Huntley: I would hope that I would be able to say that Washington and Lee has fulfilled its history as a unique higher educational institution, with continuing emphasis on quality education in the liberal arts, with student body and faculty drawn from all walks of life; and from across the country, strongly motivated young men who represent a cross-section of society; and highly qualified faculty members who are principally motivated to teach young men, with interest in research and independent scholarship important in their thinking, but secondary in motivation.

Reporter: Have you any notions for curricular innovation?

Huntley: No. The principal responsibility for curricular innovation will continue to be, as it has been, with the faculty and the deans.

Reporter: One thing that was a question a few years ago is the position of the University on athletics. What is your view?

R. E. R. HUNTLEY

Huntley: The position of the school in recent years on athletics is that it constitutes and will continue to constitute a major part of the liberal arts program at Washington and Lee. I believe that it is a strong program which has had a few rocky years. I hope that it has reached a maturing now upon which it will be able to build. We have recently named Coach McLaughlin as the new athletic director for next year, and I think his views are the same as those of the institution in this kind of program. I anticipate no change of direction in the athletic program.

Reporter: I don't know about Washington and Lee, but more and more, students throughout the country are asking for a greater voice in administration. What do you think about that? Is it true here?

Huntley: I think it's true that they more and more are asking for a greater voice in the administration. One point here is that for a long while, students at Washington and Lee have had a significant voice in nearly every aspect of the operation of the school. I think the legitimate demands which the students have made for an additional voice in the affairs of the school already are, to a large degree, a reality at Washington and Lee. Student government has always been in their hands, including the Honor System and the administration of student affairs.

In addition, students participate on some committees with faculty members. Student views are solicited both formally and informally on nearly all matters which the school has to confront. The decisions on matters of major policy will continue to be made by the Board and by the faculty. It is also true that much more decision-making has been entrusted to the faculty here than in many other institutions. That, it seems to me, is quite helpful, and there is no plan to change that, though often it is time-consuming to the faculty.

Reporter: It was mentioned in the Self-Study Report that Washington and Lee would be cooperating with VMI more in the future. What is meant by this? Are there any reciprocal programs now in progress?

Huntley: There have been occasional reciprocal arrangements between VMI and Washington and Lee with respect to certain courses that are taught at one place or the other but not at both. Facilities have occasionally been shared, and I certainly anticipate that this will continue and I hope that it will grow. I think each school has goals which it wishes to pursue independently, and I don't believe either school wishes to merge with the other. But I think there is potential for cooperation and I don't think there is any disagreement between the two schools concerning the areas of cooperation which can be developed.

Reporter: Do you have any plans for any more graduate work?

Huntley: No.

Reporter: Many alumni have criticized in recent years the student body and student newspaper for giving undue exposure to what they regard as a significant change in the character of the University, particularly to what they see as the falling of the conventional dress tradition, the demise of the speaking tradition, and last year's public Honor Trial. Do you see these things as drastic departures from what Washington and Lee has meant to the students in the past, as do these alumni?

Huntley: No, I see the same things they see, but I think I see them in a somewhat different light than some of them. I have talked with certain alumni about these matters, and I think the consensus among alumni is, in fact, not generally represented by the comments you have suggested. Certainly there have been some changes in student dress habits, and I suppose that there will continue to be such changes. I wish to make it clear that I would prefer students to dress in an appropriate fashion; it adds a good deal to the atmosphere of the school. But I would not anticipate that the faculty or Board would wish to make any change in the tradition here of allowing these matters to be determined within very broad limits by the students themselves. My own observation is that the students have shown a rather large measure of responsibility in deciding this for themselves. Dress habits on campus, while they have changed somewhat, seem to me to be rather good. The speaking tradition is still more apparent by its observance than by its breach. It may be that it has slipped somewhat, but by comparison with some other campuses, I think Washington and Lee measures up very well in both these respects. I don't think either of these matters is thought of by the students, the faculty, or the alumni, so far as I am aware, as matters which are critically important in themselves in so far as they reflect the school's success in fostering a spirit of close liaison between faculty and students and among students. And so far as they reflect that they are important.

As for the Honor System, in the past years since I was a student, the students have questioned the validity of the system repeatedly, and they will probably remain to do so. It has survived this kind of questioning with amazing vitality. I am confident it is working very well with the highest student support and control.

Reporter: Is any plan or study being made about independent study?

Huntley: There are no plans as yet but there is much consideration as the Committee on Courses and Degrees has repeatedly conducted studies along these lines. What steps will be taken in that direction I do not know, but it is not a subject of which the Committee is unaware. The faculty and student body have also set up special committees to solely study the curriculum, but I don't believe they have a timetable for their reports.

Reporter: The question of fraternities at Washington and Lee has been up in the air now for quite some time, do you have any special posture on this matter?

Huntley: I am a member of a fraternity at Washington and Lee and I certainly have no animosity towards fraternities. I don't believe the faculty as a whole has any such animosity. The question of how effectively the fraternities will continue to fulfill the role they have here to fulfill I think is one which remains to be answered by the fraternities and the school. I am aware there is no policy at Washington and Lee for abolishing fraternities.

Reporter: Do you think the influences from fraternities here are negative and will have to be changed?

Huntley: No I don't think it is entirely negative, but I think it will have to change as the times change. There is probably some room for change within the fraternity system, which I hope will occur as a process of evolution, rather than by means of some sort of fiat. And I don't anticipate this evolution will lead necessarily to the elimination of fraternities.

Reporter: Can you elaborate on the negative side of fraternities?

Huntley: It has been suggested from time to time by students, faculty members and alumni that the fraternity system has occasionally been a fragmenting influence on the student body. To some degree they divide the student body into small groups which are not related to the academic pursuits of the school. That, I suppose, is the negative side. Whether the advantage of fraternity life—social and otherwise—can be preserved without too much emphasis on the fragmenting aspect is the major question. It seems to me they probably can be.

Reporter: What do you feel is the major purpose of the college president, besides raising money?

Huntley: That is a very good question. Raising money is a major function, but for Washington and Lee it is harder to answer than it would be at some schools, and it is good that it is hard to answer. The bylaws of the University do entrust most of the significant decisions, that is those related to the educational enterprise, which are certainly the significant decisions, to the faculty with the Board in ultimate authority. The President is thought of as acting as a leader of the faculty, bringing up matters he feels important, advising when he has advice to give, stimulating and leading if necessary faculty committee activity and maintaining proper liaison between the faculty and the Board and the students and the Board. That is a nebulous task but it seems to me to be an important one.

Reporter: Do you believe past fund-raising has been successful, and is there room for improvement?

Huntley: There is room for improvement, but it has been successful. Washington and Lee has never become poverty-stricken and it is not now. That statement would not be true if fund-raising had not been successful in the recent past and over the long haul. The organization of these efforts has taken nearly every pattern you can imagine, depending on the needs and the times. The president certainly needs to take a position of leadership in this area, and our presidents always have. I don't think Washington and Lee has ever considered for a moment abdicating its decision about its goals to any source of funds, private or federal. I don't think it has ever been called upon to do so.

Reporter: Last year was the first year for Negroes to attend Washington and Lee; are there plans to seek out qualified Negroes to attend?

Huntley: There are certainly plans to increase the program of making contact with potential students at Washington and Lee. It is quite clear that this recruiting campaign, as all other aspects of the operation here, will be conducted in a non-discriminatory fashion so that qualified applicants will be sought from all races.

Reporter: How do you feel the dormitory housing situation will be settled?

Huntley: The means are available and within the next year a part of the decision will be made.

Reporter: Does the University have the necessary acreage available which would be required for extensive expansion?

Huntley: Yes, it does own a considerable amount of very lovely property just across the ravine beyond the athletic fields. It is true there is a geographic problem presented by the ravine and the athletic fields, but I don't believe that anyone has used that as a permanent obstacle to building new facilities, once the agreement has been made on what is needed.

Reporter: Do you think there is any possibility any building on campus may be removed and replaced by a modern structure?

Huntley: I doubt very seriously if this will come up [laughter]. Certainly buildings on the Colonnade have been rebuilt inside before, and I am sure that will happen again. The one most immediately needing internal remodeling is the Commerce School; obviously it needs a great deal.

Two Debts

We succumb, however, to the desire to comment on two related matters. Firstly, the Board of Trustees receives the thanks and renewed respect of the Ring-tum Phi and, we think, of everybody else for acting as quickly as it did and in the manner it did, as well as for the particular choice it made. It is already apparent that there will be no element of the University community that will be unable to work with Mr. Huntley with the greatest effectiveness, in an atmosphere of understanding and sincere amiability.

Secondly, the interim presidency of Dean William Webb Pusey III must not be allowed to pass unnoticed and unthanked. In his first University appearance as acting president, he said: "We will move ahead as best we can. It should be realized, however, that common sense dictates that it will be necessary to postpone some decisions until the new president is appointed. . . His choices must not be unduly circumscribed by interim decisions."

Moving ahead, and at the same time not unnecessarily limiting the scope of Mr. Huntley's choices, was to prove no easy task. Yet Dean Pusey has been overwhelmingly successful in fulfilling each of those pledges while not denying the other. He worked long; lights often remained on in one or the other of his offices when everybody else was long gone home. His Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations were a great deal shorter than those of the rest of the University community. He made a point, too, of not disassociating himself from the students and the faculty; he found time to talk with them when he met them on the Colonnade or in the co-op or anywhere else, and to listen to people; he was at all times accessible to all comers in either of his offices. He gave enormous amounts of time helping the Ring-tum Phi, for example, whenever we requested him to, even when we stepped out of our proper bounds in asking. Even the fine touches were superb, as when he attended the Trivia Contest as "Grand Prize-Awarder" and produced his own finale to the program. Mrs. Pusey, who has always been recognized as pre-eminent in the art of gracious hostessing, was a magnificent first lady; faculty, distinguished visitors and other University guests came away from the Puseys' social gatherings marvelling.

Dean Pusey has shirked nothing and yet has interloped nowhere. For four months he has exercised the responsibilities of the presidency, and the particular responsibilities of the acting presidency, with the highest distinction. Washington and Lee is grateful.

The Tuesday Ring-tum Phi

B-ball Team Wins Ninth Straight; RPI Win Brings Record To 11-1

While most of us were on our way home for Christmas vacation, the basketball team was on its way to North Carolina to continue on its winning way. They rolled over North Carolina Methodist 91-71 as Neer led in scoring with 20 points. Two days later they took up where they left off, beating N.C. Wesleyan 89-61; Cartwright led the scoring with 22. The next night they took on U.N.C. at Charlotte, the final score; W&L 85, U.N.C. 65. Cartwright again led the scorers with 22. With their record 8-1 they went home for a well deserved rest.

Last week they returned to turn back a short but scrappy Milligan team 94-65 and won a re-match with U.N.C. 91-60. Neer led the scorers in both contests with 34 and 16 points respectively. Against Milligan the Generals looked somewhat cold as they didn't play a very tight defense in the first half and allowed Milligan the lead for about the first ten minutes. By the half the Generals managed a nine point lead and in the second half they caught fire and expanded their lead. The General's big men did a fine job on offense as Neer got 34, Wesselink 18, Cartwright 17, and Fauber 9.

Saturday night saw the second string playing a good portion of the game as U.N.C. at Charlotte didn't provide very good competition. Charlie Stone turned in a good performance at guard collecting 10 points and setting up some good plays to the big men. Saturday night was the General's eighteenth consecutive victory at home and boosted their season record to 10-1.

Last night the General's downed Richmond Professional Institute for the second time this season by a score of 64-46. Wesselink had 18 points and Neer 16 to lead in the scoring department.

The Generals have been playing outstanding ball recently with their average margin of victory around twenty points. They are nationally ranked in both team defense and field goal percentage. The Generals' big men have been doing a fine job underneath the basket and outside Norwood Morrison, Jody Kline and John Carrere have been working the ball well and keeping up a good pressure defense. Reserve guard Bill Rhyme and Charlie Stone have shown good speed and aggressiveness on defense and have demonstrated their ability to score when necessary.

Thursday night the Generals take on Bridgewater College at 8:00 p.m. in Doremus. This promises to be a good game as the Eagles defeated Macon last week. Jim Upperman and Jay Cook have always been rough against the Generals and a good job of defense will be necessary to win this one. The attendance at the last two home games has been low (606 and 542); it is hoped that more people will be able to find time to support the Generals Thursday night.

Player of the Week

Too often in evaluating the performances of a basketball player the scoring average is the only criteria applied. Overlooked are such things as turnovers, assists, defense and rebounding which can make or break a team effort. On the basis of these vital but un-noticed qualities in a ballplayer, this week's Player of the Week is Mel Cartwright.

Mel is currently leading the team in rebounding and is tied for the lead in assists (Jody Kline is the other leader). Mel is one of the most unselfish people ever to step foot in Doremus Gymnasium as he is constantly passing up the "good shot" in order to give someone else a better one. Mel's scoring average has stayed about the same although he is taking fewer shots per game. Mel exemplifies the true team player as he is constantly foregoing personal glory for the more important goal — a winning team.

Matmen Back In Action

After running up against some rather stiff competition in recent weeks, W&L's wrestling team will entertain R.P.I. here at 7:30 tonight. Although R.P.I. is not a particularly strong team, injuries and flu have caused several changes in W&L's starting lineup. Tonight's starting lineup is the following:

Weight	Wrestler
123	Chuck McAfee
137	Mark Hendrickson
152	Capt. Bob Payne
160	Jack Ross
167	Dave Higgins
177	Dan Webster
191	Dave Copenhaver or Jay Clarke
Hvy.	Jay Clarke or Waugh Crigler

At present, the wrestling team has beaten Gallaudet College but has succumbed to Towson College, University of North Carolina, and West Virginia University.

NOTICE

The home wrestling match previously scheduled for January 19 has been changed. The Generals will entertain the Indians on January 12.

Records Broken As Swimmers Beat R-M

William Edward Brumback has proven over the last weekend that he is, indeed, the fastest swimmer ever to haunt the Doremus pool. Saturday he set the record in the 50 yard freestyle with a blistering 20.4 seconds which broke the oldest standing pool and team record of 21.0 seconds set in 1940. Yesterday, Brumback garnered his 15th and 16th records in the Generals meet against Randolph-Macon at Ashland.

In that meet, the General's triumphed with a sound 56-39 victory. In a J.V. encounter Saturday against Staunton Military Academy, the Generals won by a 55-40 score, ending SMA's six year winning streak against W&L. In a pre-Christmas meet the Generals lost to a tough Catholic University team by a 62-42 margin. In the Catholic meet, Brumback set a new pool and school record for the 100 yard freestyle in the Catholic 20 yard pool with a 49.5 second performance.

Other W&L winners in the Catholic meet included Billy Ball in the 200 yard individual medley; Brumback again in the 60 yard freestyle; and Pat Costello in the 200 yard breaststroke.

Record Fest

In yesterday's meet against Randolph-Macon at Ashland, Virginia, the natators played with the R-M record board. Six new records were set by the W&L swimmers under the guidance of Coach William Stearns. The 400 yard medley relay of Billy Ball, Pat Costello, Dave Kympton, and Ross Forman set a new record with a time of 3:58.7 seconds, defeating a record established by a previous W&L team. Brumback set new pool records in both the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 1:59.5 defeating the old record of 2:03.3, and the 100 yard freestyle with a time of 52.1 seconds. Chuck Garten came in second in this event.

Billy Ball won the 200 yard backstroke setting a new pool record of 2:15.7 which broke the record of 2:15.9 which he set at an earlier R-M meet. Bill Kimmel captured a second in this event.

Dave Kympton smashed the record in the 500 yard crawl by 5 seconds with a winning time of 5:46.8 seconds in this long event. Scott McElroy was able to come in third in this race. The General natators won the one-two spots in the 60 yard freestyle (the Randolph-Macon pool is a scant 20 yards). Ross Forman won and Buddy Miller came in second. Forman's winning time was 30.2 seconds. (Continued on page 4)

CAC All-Star Football Team Named

Sewanee's once-defeated football Tigers, champions of the College Athletic Conference for the fourth time in the league's six-year history, placed seven players on the 26-man all-star squad announced Saturday by the five CAC had football coaches.

Pre-season pick Centre College, which tied Washington and Lee and Washington University of St. Louis for runner-up honors, took second in the balloting by gaining six berths.

The Generals placed five men on the unusually large team, while Washington and last-place finisher Southwestern at Memphis each earned four spots.

There were five unanimous selections named, including three from W&L—offensive tackle Phi Thompson, defensive end Scott Mackenzie, and defensive middle guard John Harris. Centre halfback Ben Boone and Southwestern linebacker Mike Lewis were the other players getting the maximum four votes each.

According to CAC balloting instructions, each head coach names a 22-man squad, but he cannot vote for his own players. A performer who gets four votes, then, is considered a unanimous selection.

Perhaps the most surprising feature of the All-CAC team is the presence of two quarterbacks and a tailback in the offensive backfield. The pass-minded trio includes Centre's Joe Lamonica, Sewanee's Charles Gignilliat, and Southwestern's Randy McKean, who finished 27th among the nation's small college total offense leaders with 1,584 yards.

McKean, who passed for 1,569 yards, tossed 13 touchdown strikes this past season in completing 103 of 180 tosses. He was responsible for the Lynx's 31-16 victory over Sewanee, the Tigers' only league defeat in four games.

Lamonica and Gignilliat were just as effective in the air, but added running power, too. Lamonica completed 63 of 127 passes for 1,041 yards and 10 TD's, then gained 170 yards on the ground for a 1,211-yard total offense output.

Gignilliat provides balance to the All-CAC backfield. A shifty runner who picked up 443 yards this season, the Tigers' tailback added 623 more in the air for a 1,066 total offense figure.

Altogether, the three accounted for 3,861 total yards this past fall.

The selection of four extra men to the all-star team was the result of ties at offensive tackle and in the defensive backfield, and a quirk at end. (Continued on page 4)

BITS AND PIECES

By RIC BERARD

Whoever is responsible for the installation of the complete arc-lighting system for the basketball court, the new metal stands and the renovations of the handball courts deserves the thanks of all the W&L community. These improvements, following the new scoreboards and refurbished pool, really brighten up the place. Now all we need . . .

I was watching a football game on TV the other day, and I couldn't get over the bush-league performances of the supposed "star" on one of the teams every time a penalty was called against himself or his team. Nothing is more ridiculous than to see a "class" ballplayer hurt himself and his team by hamming protests to the officials. While not every call by an official is going to be the right one, making an exaggerated protest to all humanity about every penalty only detracts from the ballplayer. Fortunately, we don't have anyone at W&L like that yet, although it's an easy habit to fall into.

If there is one wish I have for the new year in terms of W&L athletics, it is that Coach Mac "Nubie" McLaughlin devote his full time and activities to instilling an increased sense of pride and initiate a period of growth across the board in W&L athletics. When Coach Mac assumes his new position as Director of Athletics next fall, I seriously question that he is going to have the time to perform as well as he would want to the duties of both head football coach and Director of Athletics.

At W&L, athletics are a potential source of great school pride, and, with the change of administrations within the Doremus staff, I hope serious consideration is given to answering this need. However, in spite of the best of intentions, an effective job cannot be done by only off-season attention to the task ahead.

Finally, I believe that in the coming year one of the most noble uses ever made of athletics will be witnessed this summer in Mexico City when the United States' Olympic teams find that America is indeed a bi-racial society that cannot perform at its maximum unless all its minorities work as one. Should America's dynamic essence as a "melting pot" be disavowed because of a color bias? I think not; I believe the reason will be made abundantly clear in Mexico.

Overflow Crowd Expected

MR. NIXON visited Roanoke in 1965 on behalf of GOP gubernatorial candidate Linwood Holton. W&L graduate which is responsible for arranging Nixon's visit here day after tomorrow.

Thursday's address to Omicron Delta Kappa by former Vice-President Nixon is expected to attract an overflow crowd, which University officials have arranged to accommodate in Lee Chapel.

The entire address will be relayed to the Chapel, where it will be broadcast over the public address system.

The public, which is invited, will be asked to adjourn to the Chapel, since attendance at the function itself is compulsory on the part of the student body and administration.

Arrangements are being worked out whereby all visitors will be invited to Doremus Gym for the less formal question-and-answer session with Mr. Nixon following his speech.

Broadcast and print news media from Virginia have indicated they will cover the speech in depth, although Mr. Nixon is not expected to make a major announcement. Advance copies of his speech will not be made available, a departure from usual procedures of political candidates for political office. No details of his lecture's contents will be made beyond its subject matter: "Leadership."

The address will be broadcast live over WLUR-FM (91.5) and by WREL-AM (1450).

A special closed reception for Mr. Nixon has been planned for Thursday morning. Because of a commitment to speak later Thursday to the Chamber of Commerce in Richmond, he has said it will be impossible for him to remain in Lexington more than an hour beyond the beginning of the ODK assembly.

Faculty Promotions

The promotions of two members of the Washington and Lee University faculty were announced Thursday by Dr. William W. Pusey III, Dean of the College and Acting President.

Dr. William G. Heigold becomes an assistant professor of romance languages, and Maj. Gerald E. Poudrier is an associate professor of military science.

A graduate of Washington University, Dr. Heigold joined the Washington and Lee faculty as an instructor in 1965. He received his Ph.D. last month from the University of Illinois.

Maj. Poudrier joined the W&L staff in 1966 as a captain and assistant professor of military science. He has since been promoted to major and become executive officer of the Reserve Officers Training Corps unit at W&L. He is a graduate of Indiana University.

Dean Atwood Expected To Address Assembly

(Continued from page 1) mark an official holiday for the University as the last classes of the Fall semester will be Thursday. Except for the assembly, Friday will be a reading day before exams begin on Monday morning.

Faculty Speech
It is traditional that a member of the faculty or the University president be called upon to present a speech at this assembly. Last year President Fred C. Cole made a speech on the future of the University.

All faculty members are required to attend by the Board of Trustees and an academic procession will be held featuring a color guard of ROTC students.

All-CAC Team For Football

The All-CAC defensive backfield includes five players, instead of the usual three. Washington's fine safety Sam Williams poled three votes to lead the bunch, but four others—the Bears' Jeff Jones, W&L's Charlie Freret, Southwestern's Sam Cooper, and Sewanee's Jim Beene—tied with two ballots each.

A strange situation developed at end, where Sewanee's versatile two-way star Mike Knickelbine got a single vote on the offensive platoon and two on the defensive unit. He was placed on the defensive team because he drew more votes there.

Offensive Team

Ends—Boon (Sewanee) and Arnold (Southwestern); Tackles—Thompson (Washington and Lee), Smith (Centre), and Kelly (Washington); Guards—Sheehan (Sewanee) and Thompson (Centre); Center—Underwood (Sewanee); Backs—Boone (Centre), Lamonica (Centre), McKean (Southwestern), Gignilliat (Sewanee).

Defensive Team

Ends—Mackenzie (Washington and Lee), Grantz (Washington), and Knickelbine (Sewanee); Tackle—Hubbard (Sewanee) and Edwards (Centre); Middle Guard—Harris (Washington and Lee); Linebackers—Lewis (Southwestern), Wolf (Washington and Lee), and Silvey (Centre); Backs—Williams (Washington), Freret (Washington and Lee), Jones (Washington), Beene (Sewanee), Coper (Southwestern).

1968: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

Are you still writing "1967" on your papers and letters? I'll bet you are, you scamp! But I am not one to be harsh with those who forgot we are in a new year, for I myself have long been guilty of the same lapse. In fact, in my senior year at college, I wrote 1873 on my papers until nearly November of 1874! (It turned out, incidentally, not to be such a serious error because, as we all know, 1874 was later repealed by President Chester A. Arthur in a fit of pique over the Black Tom Explosion. And, as we all know, Mr. Arthur later came to regret his hasty action. Who does not recall that famous meeting between Mr. Arthur and Louis Napoleon when Mr. Arthur said, "Lou, I wish I hadn't of repealed 1874." Whereupon the French emperor made his immortal rejoinder, "Titi que nous et tuler tu". Well sir, they had many a good laugh about that, as you can imagine.)

But I digress. How can we remember to write 1968 on our papers and letters? Well sir, the best way is to find something memorable about 1968, something unique to fix it firmly in your mind. Happily, this is very simple because, as we all know, 1968 is the first year in history that is divisible by 2, by 5, and by 7. Take a pencil and try it: 1968 divided by 2 is 984; 1968 divided by 5 is 393.6; 1968 divided by 7 is 281.14. This mathematical curiosity will not occur again until the year 2079, but we will all be so busy then celebrating the Chester A. Arthur bi-centenary that we will scarcely have time to be writing papers and letters and like that.

Another clever little trick to fix the year 1968 in your mind is to remember that 1968 spelled backwards is 8691. "Year" spelled backwards is "raey". "Personna" spelled backwards is "Annosrep". I mention Personna because I am paid to write this column by the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and they are inclined to withhold my check if I omit to mention their product.

Not, mind you, that it is any chore for me to sing the praises of Personna, for it is a seemly blade that shaves you cleanly, a gleaming blade that leaves you beaming, a trouble-free blade that leaves you stubble-free, a matchless blade that leaves you scratchless. If you are tired of facial slump, if you are fed up with jowl blight, try Personna today... available both in double-edge style and Injector style. And if I seem a bit excessive in my admiration for Personna, I ask you to remember that to me Personna is more than a razor blade; it is also an employer.

But I digress. We were speaking of the memorable aspects of 1968 and high among them, of course, is the fact that in 1968 the entire House of Representatives stands for election. There will, no doubt, be many lively and interesting contests, but none, I'll wager, quite so lively and interesting as the one in my own district where the leading candidate is none other than Chester A. Arthur!

Mr. Arthur, incidentally, is not the first ex-president to come out of retirement and run for the House of Representatives. John Quincy Adams was the first. Mr. Adams also holds another distinction: he was the first son of a president ever to serve as president. It is true that Martin Van Buren's son, Walter "Blinky" Van Buren, was at one time offered the nomination for the presidency, but he, alas, had already accepted a bid to become Mad Ludwig of Bavaria. James K. Polk's son, on the other hand, became Salmon P. Chase. Millard Fillmore's son went into aluminum siding. This later became known as the Missouri Compromise.

In Missouri, or anywhere else, there is no compromise with quality in Personna or in Personna's partner in shaving pleasure—Burma-Shave. Burma-Shave comes to you in regular or menthol. Try it. You'll find it soaks rings around any other lather.

Uses of Poll On Ring-tum Phi

Editor, The Ring-tum Phi:

There has been some confusion regarding the recently distributed "Independent Poll" which was mailed to all faculty members and to one-fifth of the student body. Some clarification of the intent of this poll is justified.

The use of the responses to the questionnaire is intended solely as indicators of how people feel about The Ring-tum Phi. Access to the completed polls is limited to one student, whose interest is academic; results will be made available to the management of The Ring-tum Phi once tabulation is completed.

Although there is neither connection with nor control over this poll by The Ring-tum Phi, the paper has indicated an interest in the results, a request which will be honored.

Sincerely,
Independent Poll

Swimmers

Mike Berry won the 200 yard breaststroke even with a time of 2:39.6 which, sadly, did not break any of the Yellow Jacket records. Co-captain Pat Costello swam unofficially in this event.

Hal Catlin tied a pool record in the 200 individual medley, but a R-M swimmer broke the record, so Catlin only captured a second. Another school record was broken in the 200 yard butterfly in the record fest. This record was set by a Yellow Jacket swimmer who broke a record set by last year's captain Bill Wildrick. Gil Campbell came in second in this, the most grueling of all swimming events.

JV coach Ed Allen led his team to a decisive victory over Staunton Military Academy by the score of 55-40. In a JV meet all swimmers are eligible except those that have won their varsity letters.

It was in this meet that Brumback set the new pool records for the 100 yard freestyle and the 50 yard freestyle. Brumback's 50 yard time was 20.4 seconds and Buddy Miller captured the second in this event. Brumback's 100 yard record is 46.9 seconds while Joe Phillips won the second in this event.

A new record was set in the 200 yard freestyle relay by Bill Brumback, Buddy Miller, Joe Phillips, and Hal Catlin. Their winning time was 1:29.5; this broke a record set last year by Roger Martin, Dave Patton, Dave Kympton, and Terry Austin.

Dave Frankstone won the 200 yard freestyle while Jeff Grossman came in third. Frankstone's winning time was 1:56.7. Mike Carrere captured a first in the diving.

Hal Catlin won the 100 yard backstroke with a winning time of 58.8 seconds. Catlin also captured a second in the 200 individual medley. Chuck Garten won the 100 yard freestyle to complete the General's collection of firsts.

The Generals have an away meet against Duke this Saturday before the exam break, and their next home meet is February 16 against Loyola University who defeated the natators last year.
