

Homecoming Dance Plans Announced By Monogram Club

Informal Affair Planned; Southern Collegians to Play

Plans for an informal dance as one of the highlights of the Homecoming program billed for Saturday, October 12, were announced this morning following the passage Friday night by the Dance board of the Monogram club's petition for approval of the affair.

The dance will be staged in Doramus gymnasium by the Monogram club, and will run from 9 to 12. The football teams of Washington and Lee and George Washington university will clash on Wilson field that afternoon.

Music will be supplied by the Southern Collegians.

Tickets will sell for one dollar during an advance drive in fraternity houses and among non-fraternity students, while the price will be hoisted to $1.50 at the door the night of the dance. Proceeds will go into the varsity sweater fund, which last year failed to provide enough money to buy sweaters for spring sports monogram men.

Officials of the club emphasized today that complimentary tickets to the dance will be given only to members of the George Washington and W&L varsity football teams and to chaperones and their husbands. Members of the Monogram club as well as faculty members and student body officers must have tickets to be admitted to the dance.

Plans for the dance were drawn up at a meeting of the Monogram club last week. Officers elected for the 1940-41 session at that meeting were Jack Mangan, president; Dan Justice, vice president, and Howard Dobbins, secretary. The committee in charge of the Homecoming dance is made up of Al Snyder, Henry Roediger, June Bishop and Ken Van de Water.

The gym will be decorated by a novel plan whereby each of the 18 houses on the campus will contribute the services of a freshman.

The dance will be open to students, alumni and guests. A similar affair was held last year and was one of the features of the Homecoming program.

Final plans for the dance will be made at a meeting of the Monogram club at two o'clock Thursday in the hygiene lecture room of the gymnasium.

Applications for Degree

Each student who is an applicant for a degree of any kind, or for a certificate in the School of Commerce, must file an application for the degree or certificate. Blanks for applications may be obtained at the Office of the Registrar and must be returned to the Registrar not later than October 15. Do not wait until the last day. The diploma fee of $5.00 will be payable later in the session. E. S. MATTINGLY, Registrar.

W&L Helps With Draft Registration

260 Students Over 21 To Sign at Student Union on October 16

To facilitate the registration of students under the peacetime conscription act, the University administration plans to set up its own registration committee. Students, therefore, will not be obliged to go home to register, nor will they be required to register at the Lexington court house (registration place for regular residents of Lexington).

Registration will be handled by the faculty committee on national defense (Flick, chairman, Desha, Dickey, Crenshaw and Louis Johnson) at the student union on October 16 from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. This committee has studied the list of students enrolled at W&L and has determined that 260 men (out of 930) are within the age limits for the draft and must register. Each of these 260 men will receive an instruction sheet through the mails, telling him the details of registration.

Registration and identification cards for the students registering will be filled out by the official draft registrars at the student union. It is expected that registration will take about 15 minutes per man.

The registration cards will be sent to the home registration district of each student who registers. The local registration committee will NOT be a draft committee. All questions of classification and deferment will be passed upon by the local draft committee in the student's home town.

Plans for the University's cooperation in the registration program have been worked out with the state selective service executive officer, Col. Mills F. Neal.

The administration does not plan to make October 16 a University holiday.

Faculty members will register at the regular registration place in Lexington (not at the student union), since the registration of the 260 students will keep the registration committee busy.

IRC Members to Formulate Plans for Coming Year

The initial meeting of the International Relations club for the 1940-41 school year will take place Thursday evening at 8:15 p. m. in the lounge of the Student Union building.

Extensive plans are underway to enlarge this year's activities of the club, and a poll of several timely foreign questions which will be campus-wide is already being planned for the near future. The exact details will be ironed out at this week's meeting. It is also hoped, said Bob Sweeney, president of the club, that exchange meetings may be worked out with neighboring girls' schools. Prominent outside speakers will also visit the campus during the year.

Officers of the club for this year are: Sweeney, president; Dan Lewis, vice-president; Ned Burks, secretary, and Marshall Johnson, treasurer.

13 Club Announces Bids

The "13" club, honorary junior society, yesterday announced the names of members of the junior class who had been given bids to the society. Pledging ceremonies will begin this week.

Glee Club Ranks Swelled by 60 New Members

Approximately sixty new men, including forty-one freshmen, have been taken into the Washington and Lee Glee club, it was announced yesterday by Brad Dunson, president of the organization. Over 100 men are now in the club.

Members of the Glee club will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Troubadour theatre. According to Dunson the program this evening will include singing of a few familiar airs.

The Glee club concerts this year will be split into two parts. The first part will consist of selections of classical and semi-classical music, and the second part of modern tunes. The possibility of a jazz orchestra's accompanying the Glee club on its tour was mentioned by the president.

Robert Ewing, Douglas Easterburg, James V. Giles, Robert R. Giebel, W. B. Guthrie, Bryant W. Gillespie, G. Edward Hunter, Chadwick J. Johnson, Gene R. Johnston, John Craig Kammerer, Harrison B. Kenny, Jack Lanich, Bob Lauton.

Five Newcomers Given Parts In Troubs' 'Margin for Error'

Five newcomers joined the ranks of the Troubadours last night as the cast for "Margin for Error," announced yesterday by Director Fred Farrar, went into rehearsal at the Troubs' Main street theatre. Of the eight members of the cast, all but three will make their debuts in campus dramas when the curtain goes up on Clare Booth's story about the shooting in 1938 of a German consul.

The three veterans are Ed Boyd, Esten Cooke and Jim Clark. Boyd, who will play the part of Carl Baumer, the consul, earned his spurs as a Troub last year, appearing as Shadow, a gangster bodyguard, in "Winter-set," and as Slim in "Of Mice and Men." Miss Cooke, who will be Sophie Baumer, wife of the Nazi leader, was cast as a communist leader for her Troub debut in the spring of 1939. She played the part of Tonya in "Squaring the Circle." Clark, who will be Thomas Denny, an American journalist, in "Margin for Error," first appeared on the Troubadour boards two years ago when, as a freshman, he was Ferraby in "Criminal at Large."

Three freshmen, a senior and a Sweet Briar graduate round out the cast selected by Farrar to open the Troubs' 1940-41 season late this month.

Bill Latz, ZBT freshman from Fort Wayne, Ind., has been given the role of Moe Finkelstein, a policeman. Another freshman, Jim Stanfield, will be Otto Horst, leader of the Nazi followers in America, while Jack Lanich, a Sigma Nu pledge, will handle the part of Baron Max von Alvenstor. Charlie Thalheimer, a senior in the academic school, will be Dr. Jennings.

An ability to speak German fluently helped Helen Anderson, a Sweet Briar graduate of last June, to clinch the role of Frieda, a German maid. Her lines are all spoken in German, and Farrar found Miss Anderson the solution to one of the play's greatest problems.

Dates for the presentation of "Margin for Error" have yet to be definitely set, but Farrar hopes to have the cast in readiness within three weeks. Rehearsals will be held nightly, and work on the set has already been gotten under way by Production Manager Ken Moxley.

Benny Goodman, Clinton Signed for Opening Dances

They'll Turn Autumn Into Swingtime

LARRY CLINTON (left) and BENNY GOODMAN, who will bring their respective bands into Lexington for the Opening dance set October 18 and 19. Clinton will play Friday night, while Goodman will let loose Saturday afternoon and evening.

Sickness May Prevent BG's Appearance

By NED BURKS

A brand new Benny Goodman band and Larry Clinton's orchestra are signed to play for Opening Dances, October 18-19, Dodo Baldwin, Cotillion club president, announced today. Advance tickets at $6.00 go on sale tomorrow at lunch time when all fraternities and eating places will be visited.

Advance tickets, which are available to Cotillion club members for $5.50, will not be on sale after Saturday, Baldwin said.

The "Ol' Dipsy Doodler" will lead off at Sophomore prom Friday night, and Goodman's swing crew are slated to take over for the afternoon and evening sessions Saturday.

Baldwin made one reservation on Goodman. There is a slim possibility, he said, that Goodman may not be able to play here because of his illness last summer.

However, Harry Moss, MCA agent in New York, assured Baldwin by telephone yesterday that Goodman would be here.

Benny is speeding up rehearsals on his new orchestra now, and several of the old Goodman favorites will be included in the new set-up. Helen Forrest may not be with the band, but Davie Tough on the drums and Teddy Wilson at the piano are lined up.

In Metronome magazine's band poll this summer, Goodman defeated Glenn Miller impressively and won out in the swing division and the favorite of all divisions. It was Benny's fifth straight victory as king of swing and "favorite of all" in Metronome's annual balloting.

Goodman downed Miller for the swing title 1703-740, and rolled up a 1375-864 victory in the all favorites' class. The swing king even placed fourth in the sweet band competition.

Benny broke up his band early in July to undergo a spinal operation but some former members will be signed for the new orchestra if they are available. Harry Goodman, Benny's brother, announced during the summer that Ziggy Elman, Lionel Hampton and Charlie Christian will remain with Goodman. If available, Toots and Artie Bernstein will be included.

Clinton and Goodman played in Lexington April, 1939, Larry playing at VMI and Goodman teaming up with Harry James to put on the hottest swing set in Washington and Lee's history.

Clinton's "Dipsy Doodler" music which was named after Carl Hubbell's famous "dipsy dew" screwball, will probably be featured in a short at the midnight show Wednesday night.

His band has been revamped considerably since his 1939 appearance here, and as yet Clinton has no girl singer scheduled to sing here at openings.

Baldwin said Fred Lynch of Philadelphia would probably handle decorations again.

Committees for the Cotillion club dance, and a list of girls walking in all the figures will be released Friday or early next week, Baldwin said.

Tentative individual prices are: $3.00 for each of the evening dances, and $1.50 for the tea dance. Admission to the balcony will cost 50 cents.

Inman Lists Committees

Finance Committee: Dan Wells, Joe Hellen, Al Darby, John Goode, Frank Bell. (No chairman.)

Political Pot Starting to Simmer

By BUD LEVY

The campus political pot is simmering, but not yet near the boiling point.

With voting for three Executive committee posts and 16 class offices less than a week off, indications are that spirited battles will be staged only in three or four instances. Five men have come out for the two Executive committee member-at-large posts, two are seeking each of two offices in the commerce school and two are in the race for the Freshman Executive committee berth, but candidates for other positions have yet to find opposition according to an unofficial list of entries.

Dick Day, Phi Delta; Charlie Hobson, Lambda Chi; Archie Hill, Kappa Sig; Pete Crook, Sigma Nu, and Ken Van de Water, Pi Phi, are the five who have entered their names in the race for the two Executive committee members-at-large posts. All seniors and freshman lawyers who did not vote for class officers last spring will have a say in next Monday night's voting for these offices.

Bill Guthrie, non-fraternity, and Harry Martin, Sigma Chi, have come out for the freshman Executive committee post, and others are expected to join them in what usually turns out to be a wide-open contest. Among other members of the class whose names have been mentioned in connection with the race, but who have not yet announced their candidacy, are Frank Jarvis, Beta, and Bill Bancroft, Phi Gam.

The senior commerce group is the leader so far among the four groups which will name class officers in Monday's balloting, with four candidates already seeking the presidency and vice presidency. Al Fleishman, ZBT, and Herb Woodward, ATO, are both running for president of that class, while Jack Crawford, Deland Bob Sweeney, Kappa Sig, are after the vice presidency.

Fred Farrar, Beta, is unopposed to date as a candidate for the presidency of the senior academic class, while Steve Campbell, DU, enjoys a similar position in the run for the vice presidency of the same class.

Paul Gourdon, PiKA, has announced his intentions of seeking the presidency of the freshman law class, while Lester Dillard, non-fraternity, has come out for the secretary-treasurer's post.

Activity among members of the senior science class has been little so far, with the result that all four of their offices are still open to all comers. The science class, like the academic, commerce and freshman law groups, will elect a president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and historian.

Candidates must file their entries with Bob Van Wagoner, secretary of the student body, by 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Student Killed, Another Injured In Auto Wreck

The condition of Robert Smitherman, freshman from Shreveport, La., who was seriously injured Saturday night in an automobile accident in which a classmate, Chandler King, Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., and a University of Virginia student were killed, was described as satisfactory this noon by attendants at the University hospital at Charlottesville.

Smitherman is suffering from a severe brain concussion, a chipped bone in his right hip and minor injuries. He remained unconscious for several hours, but rallied last night and is expected to recover. He will be confined to the University hospital for several weeks because of his hip injury.

King, who was riding with Smitherman and three Virginia students when their car crashed approximately seven miles south of Charlottesville, is believed to have been killed instantly. He died of multiple head injuries.

Also killed in the accident was Robert Valentine, 18, of Charlottesville, who died while being taken to the hospital. Valentine is reported to have been driving the car, a steel-topped model.

Others in the car were Edgar Lawman, of Chattanooga, and Fred Wallace, of Arlington, Va., both students at the University of Virginia. Both were classmates of King at Macauley preparatory school.

NYA Men Meet Tomorrow

There will be a meeting of all NYA men in the lounge at the rear of the first floor of the Student Union building tomorrow afternoon at 5:45 o'clock, Dean Gilliam announced this morning.

New time report blanks, which must be properly filled out before any work will be paid for, will be distributed and explained at this meeting.

State to Show Vandy Pictures

Motion pictures of the W&L-Vanderbilt game will make up part of a special "midnight show" at the State theatre Wednesday night.

The show, sponsored by the University Athletic association, which will receive the proceeds, will be rounded out by "Brother Orchid," starring Edward G. Robinson, Ann Sothern, Humphrey Bogart, Donald Crisp, Ralph Bellamy and Allan Jenkins, and a "short" featuring one of the two bands scheduled to play for Opening dances.

The game films, taken by Jack Peacock in Nashville last Saturday, will run for approximately 40 minutes and will be accompanied by a running commentary by Lea Booth. The show, arranged through the cooperation of Ralph Daves, State manager, and Warner Brothers' Washington office, will get underway at 11:30 p. m. Tickets, priced at 40 cents, will be sold at all fraternity houses by varsity football players and managers and at the box office Wednesday night.

Observe Rules, Baldwin Warns All Freshmen

A warning that the Freshman Assimilation committee is preparing to crack down on violators of freshman rules was sounded by Chairman Dodo Baldwin after last night's meeting of the group in the Student Union building.

The committee will begin its weekly series of hearings next Monday night, at which time all freshmen against whom charges have been made up to that time will be summoned for appearances.

Baldwin, in announcing the drive toward complete enforcement of the rules, repeated an earlier plea for cooperation from upper-classmen. "We've heard lots of complaints," he said, "but the duty of making actual charges has been left pretty much to the members of the committee so far. We can centralize the work, but the seven members of the committee can't be expected to handle the whole situation alone."

Complaint cards and boxes for their deposit will be found in Washington college, Newcomb hall, the Student Union building, McCrum's, the State theatre, Corner store and at the two co-op stores.

Baldwin said that many of the with improper wearing of the freshman caps and with the failure of transfer students to speak. A number of freshmen, it was pointed out, have been wearing (See ASSIMILATION, page 4)

How Many More?

It is sad and selfish to hold up the death of a student as no more than an object lesson to the rest of us, in a spirit of "There but for the grace of God go I." But the lesson is inescapable, made more terrible by the fact that Chandler King was so promising a man.

It seems that despite Dr. Gaines' warning, and all the rest that we have heard, until the subject is no longer bearable, that no school year can start but one student must be sacrificed so that the rest of us may shudder, and lighten our feet a little on the accelerator.

Apparently we can learn no lesson well without being made in some way to suffer in the teaching. In this case it is another who lost his life that we fools might better learn a simple rule.

How many more of us must die before the rest pay heed?

Memo to Freshmen:

Perhaps it's worth a paragraph just now to remind freshman aspirants to anything at all that now is the time to get started.

All publications, the Glee club, band, Troubadours, Forensic union, Christian council, and the rest of the extra-curricular clubs already have their machines for the year in motion. Most of them, though, can find room for an extra man or two. Politics, incidentally, starts right now.

The fellows who in the next two or three years will be leaders are invariably those who make a good beginning early in their freshman year.

There is hardly need to mention that future Phi Betes are already on the books.

CLUMP PRINTS on the Sands of Time . . . By ED TRICE

It seems to us the rush week stories were a little better this year or maybe it was just that there were so few of them they got a little more polish in the constant retelling. We still like the folk lore Ted Lawrence left hanging around from final exams last spring. It seems that the Satch decided to be a conscientious objector during the exams and picked the press box on Wilson Field to serve as a hide-out after buying $15 worth of sandwiches from the Southern inn to stock him. Every morning from 5 to 6 o'clock he'd come out to stretch his legs around the track and then retire again. Why didn't he just go home? We don't know.

Then there was Porky Dickinson's faux pas at Sweet Briar last year when he squatted behind a couch in a reception room to overhear what his approaching date might have to say to another girl in the room. However, what she says is strictly off the record stuff, and when Porky finally has to come out on account of his losing the crease in his pants, all parties are very embarrassed indeed. But some people think that Dickinson's hiding behind a mere couch is the most phenomenal part of the story.

This week we offer the excruciatingly touching little rendition that follows. We didn't have the nerve to dignify it with a title but it might go something like "The Summer Flame Who Got Us Hot and Bothered in July and Burned Our Fingers in September."

Dreary Autumn takes the setting on the endless stage of Time;
Gone the sultry summer breezes southward to a gentler clime,
Gone the blissful summer pleasures into
Memory's golden chest,

THE FORUM

FINDING OURSELVES

Take a deep breath, boys and girls, and dive in; there are things out yonder for us and this country—if we can see what's about us.

The country is moving, changing, doing. It's all a-scramble defense-wise, and sometimes even cross-wise.

But, regardless, there is a vigor and movement about the country. If this surge has meaning, then it should be understood. If it is merely a mass movement, undirected, then as a rare phenomenon from a too-long phlegmatic people it should be taken and moulded and directed.

What is our stake in this?

We've got to stop walking through the motions here, not seeing and not thinking. We've got to look about us; to re-examine rigorously and ruthlessly. And if we like what we see, these things we've taken for granted—this freedom, this all-too-human stab at liberalism, this way of life—then we must needs like it with greater vigor and spirit, and, in logical procession, we must infuse these institutions and this way of life with this renewed spirit.

If, however, we find fault, then we must cast about for new and truer principles.

But it is vital now as never before that we think and learn the lessons that have heretofore, for lack of implementing, been little more than wax figures in the sanctum of this University, which perhaps for all these years has been sharpening its minds and building its liberalism for just this great moment of change.

For these techniques and implements of progress forged here have, in great part, fallen on deaf ears—not because of any essential lack of truth, but because of the general lethargy.

But now, catching us of the late 'teens and early 'twenties squarely in its middle, this stirring of the country, prompted by the war crisis but by its very nature destined to have results that overshoot the mark of mere preparedness, offers in an aroused and examining people unparalleled channels for the carrying of ideals of liberalism and democracy and social justice toward some real consummation.

Ours, then, is the opportunity and adventure of being in the middle of this change.

But ours, too, is the responsibility of being awake and of being a genuine part of this movement.

So as a plea to upperclassmen and as advice to freshmen, we say go off to Stowd Hill or somewhere and look at the University. See if you like what it is, what the years of striving have made it; if you like its liberalism and general direction; see, then take it and use it. Let it help you to think and study and examine.

Take a flyer at the essence of progress and truth of the University—an essence that is not found in the doldrum rounds of dormitory-classroom-eating place. Because, boys and girls, this country needs you and your vigor and the faith Carolina can give you.—Daily Tar Heel.

CAMPUS COMMENT

By PETE BARROW, JR.

PHI PSI DEPARTMENT: A few evenings ago, Tommy Fuller, finding himself in Roanoke without a date, called up a girl whom he knew definitely to be in love with him.

"Oh dreadful," she moaned. "Of all the evenings . . ."

It seems she already had a date. But glorious solution! She had a sister who did not have a date. Fuller being a Phi Psi and a gentleman, (quite a combination) . . .

When he showed up, the sister had a friend who didn't have a date either. Resolved to carry the thing through to the bitter end, he loaded them both in the car and started out in search of adventure. (i.e.—The nearest beer joint.)

Comfortably settled in said beer joint, the two young ladies began a conversation, while Fuller watched. After a while he grew bold.

"Would either of you like a beer?" he asked.

"No," they said. "We don't drink beer."

"Mind if I have one?"

"Oh, no."

So he did, continuing to watch them and trying to follow the conversation at a distance. After a while, this process was repeated.

"Sure you won't have a beer?" he asked.

"Positive," they said.

"Sure you don't mind if I have another?"

"Oh, no."

So he did, again. An hour or so passed, during which time he managed to slip three words into the talk.

After a while, the inner man revolted.

"Look," he said. "Do you want to go home?"

No, they didn't want to go home.

"Well, er, do you mind if I go?" he asked.

They mumbled something that sounded like, "Glub."

"Goodnight," he said as he walked out of the door.

The last time we saw him, he couldn't say for sure whether that girl was still in love with him or not.

WOLF DEPARTMENT: Sonny Heartwell had a very attractive date for the Washington and Lee-Vanderbilt game and dance. He thought she was fine. She thought he was too. Everything was lovely, until, just as they stepped on the dance floor, she informed him, confidentially, that she's been going steady with the captain of the Vanderbilt freshman football team. "He might be here tonight," she explained. "I just wanted you to know in case there's any trouble."

"Oh," said Sonny.

The evening went smoothly for a while. Sonny met the gentleman, and while there was no warm friendship established, neither was animosity apparent.

A week or so before, Sonny's date had promised her football player the third no-break dance. She forgot to tell Sonny about it. In fact, she and Sonny forgot to show up for it.

When they returned an hour later the Vanderbilt lad was waiting for them at the door, resembling nothing so much as a bull with injured feelings. Sonny sort of lurked in the background while she tried to explain.

When she finished, the young man raised his eyes and crucified Sonny with a look.

"Clarabelle," he said to the young lady, never once taking his eyes from Sonny, "you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

Sonny felt called upon to say something. A crisis. Something to be Dealt With.

"You're exactly right," he said. "I think so too."

PATTER: "Tiny Tim" Wall, the pride of KA, went to Lynchburg to a wedding recently. . . . The wedding guests, (male), were given a separate cottage . . . someone, however, had forgotten to make up the beds . . . an abundance of mattresses and pillows, but no sheets or blankets. . . . Brother Wall passed the evening, (temperature 40 degrees), in his clothes, lying between two mattresses. . . . You might be interested to know that Al Snyder can do 50 push-ups. . . . and that after dinner too. . . .

Art Smith was in Lynchburg recently, to see the Fair. . . . when the Fair was over he was tired and bored, nevertheless, he had to keep a date he'd made at Macon. . . . After nearly going to sleep three times, he perceived that the young lady was damned bored with him. . . . in a sudden spurt of attention and interest, he stood on his head twice just to entertain her.

TORRINGTON DEPARTMENT: On a recent trip Bill Torrington was battling along a Pennsylvania highway some seventy miles an hour when he came upon one of those long slow curves. He made the curve all right, but on the other side, in the middle of the road, was a huge pig.

Willie managed to miss the pig by a hair and continued on his way.

Half a mile down the road, he began to feel sorry for the pig. Probably get killed, he thought. Probably has a wife and kids at home. Probably someone loves him . . . or her. So he turned around and drove back to where the pig was still sitting in the middle of the road. He parked the car and got out.

"Here pig," he said. "Nice piggy. Come here."

The pig raised its head and looked at Torrington suspiciously, (which was nothing new to Torrington.)

"Oink," it said. "Oink, oink."

"Oink, hell," said Torrington. "Get out of the road."

"Oink," said the pig. "Oink, oink, oink, oink, oink. . . ."

"Now look, damn you," said Willie. "It's for your own good. Beat it. Go away."

"Oink, oink, oink, oink, etc."

"Moron," said Willie. "Fool. You look like all the capitalists in the world dumped together. You're not a pig, you're a hog. . . ."

This went on for half an hour. Some hundreds of cars passed. A few of them slowed down and watched, trying to figure out what the deal was. He didn't look like a farmer. Come to think of it, he doesn't look much like a humanitarian either. (Or an animalitarian, if there is a distinction.)

This story has no catch line. No point. We just like to think of Torrington spending part of an afternoon somewhere in Pennsylvania trying to lure a resentful hog out of the middle of a cement highway.

Good old Torrington.

Previews and Reviews

By AL FLEISHMAN

We watched "The Ramparts We Watch" last Friday, and we were awfully impressed . . . Several humorous suggestions came our way, one of the most impressive was to the effect that the army ought to have a recruiting station at the door after the picture was over . . .

We were most interested in the historical pictures which we saw . . . Of course, the acting was awfully rough; but the Ramparts was a different sort of picture anyway . . . The sight of the characters of Dr. Bean's American History moving about the screen made the whole thing more sacred . . . All in all, in spite of the somber, patriotic mood, we liked it.

"The Man I Married" at the State Saturday past fooled ye olde correspondent more than can be mentioned in good taste . . . Lloyd Nolan was tops . . . He is always great in tough guy parts, but did even better as an American correspondent in Germany . . . And, of course, there was Joan Bennett—no more need be said . . . She has what it takes, plus . . . The only thing we found hard to overlook was Francis Lederer—he's a bum from way back and should have stayed in Europe or wherever he came from.

The Howards have one more day left at the State—and there's something to that show . . . We enjoyed Martha Scott and Richard Carlson in feature parts . . . But that Mr. Grant (Cary, we believe) can't be beat . . . The fact that the picture is laid in our own adopted Virginia makes the interest run higher . . . Matt Howard, frontiersman, (as played by Grant) wins the heart of Martha Scott, tide-water aristocrat; and together they begin to carve a home out of the wilderness . . . Matt has trouble in the first place winning his wife from her Torcy family, but he manages . . . Comes the Revolution (American—1776 vintage) and Mr. Howard goes to war, splitting up his former happy home . . . His two sons back him up . . . The Revolution subsides, with the colonists on the winning side; and that is that . . . Acting splendid, story good, picture better than average, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke is an old man.

Incidentally, Mr. Daves of the State is going to be nice enough to run the pictures of the entire W&L-Vanderbilt football game of last Saturday in connection with a midnight show on Wednesday night . . . The doors open at 11:15 p. m. . . . Starting off will be a couple of shorts, one a band short by one of the Opening Dance orchestras . . . The feature will be "Brother Orchid," which is worth seeing again—if you have . . . We labeled Robinson's work in this show as the best of the summer, and believe it might be worth missing a little sleep.

We're ignoring the Lyric this week, until Thursday anyway . . . "Money and the Woman" was there Money (ouch) and Tuesday . . . "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby" tomorrow with Johnny Downs and Peggy Moran, also smells . . . Thursday brings "Pride and Prejudice" on a return engagement . . . And it's a swell show—very dry humor, but very humorous . . . It's a stiff show, but not stilted—more fun.

And the State has for its regulars on Thursday and Friday, "He Stayed for Breakfast" . . . It's another shot at the "Ninochka" type picture, but not nearly so good as Garbo's first screen laugh . . . The same Melvyn Douglas is around, and he's just as funny as ever . . . There's Loretta Young in one particular gown that gives one the willies—in fact, she always gives us the willies (to put it in presentable language) . . . Una O'Connor is funny as Loretta's maid; Eugene Pallette rets into everybody's way effectively, bustles his three hundred pounds about like a good-sized elephant; and Alan Marshall is just background, but a smoothie . . . The story concerns a Communist (that's Douglas), a capitalist (that's Pallette) and the capitalist's estranged wife (Loretta, no less).

An attempted assassination by the Communist throws the three together, with amusing (hilarious is the word) consequences . . . The Communist goes capitalist and heads for America with the famous line that he is going to vote for Roosevelt . . . To which his friend replies, "But it takes five years to become a citizen" . . . Douglas nonchalantly remarks, "That's all right—he'll still be running" . . . Laugh you Willie-kites . . . If we forget to mention it, the scene of the whole works is laid in the Paris of normal times—and provides a beautiful satire on Paris before Hitler came and on Communism generally . . . We're amazed by the number of good pictures in the past week . . . It's the first time it's happened in our four years at W&L . . . Looks like we're on the upgrade.

The Fifth Quarter . . .

By DICK WRIGHT

The Commodores kind of took Tex Tilson's warriors into camp last Saturday afternoon, but only after a stubborn Big Blue defense forced the Vandy muscle men to fill the air with footballs in an attempt to override the strong W&L line. Evidently the Generals were simply outclassed against a team that is drawn from some five or six thousand students, but that's the chance a small calibre college football team takes in going against a rugged team like Vanderbilt, and take it from the men on the Big Blue football team they're rugged.

According to reports from Southern newspapers, "Lugger" Ligon and Pres Brown gave mighty good accounts of themselves in the booting department, although Brown's first kick started a Commodore drive toward pay dirt.

The board of strategy met yesterday in an effort to formulate plans to combat the best Kentucky team in the past five years, and the Generals will not be spared in practices the slightest bit this week as Tex Tilson and Riley Smith look forward to another week-end which may find the Generals out-classed again.

Two years ago the Big Blue, led by Captain Joe Oshie and Dick Boisseau, dropped down to Louisville and knocked off the high-riding "Wildcats" 8 to 0 in a spirited battle. This year the Kentucky lads have one of the lightest and fastest teams in the South-eastern circuit. According to "Cookie" Cunningham, when that backfield starts a sweep around one of the ends, it takes a ten second man to even come close to nailing the runner. Start praying for the Generals now because they're really going to need it this week-end.

The Brigadiers looked mighty impressive in stopping SMA last Saturday, in a game which found Ed Marx, one of the Baby Generals' hottest backfield men, breaking his right leg in two places. It was really a tough break for the Frosh as Ed will undoubtedly be out for the remainder of the season.

Tennessee Jeff Puckett gave a good performance in the backfield and was responsible for a number of long gains which culminated in touchdowns for the Brigs. How Boy Neyland let Mr. Puckett get out of Tennessee is a hard one to figure, especially since Tennessee practically puts their thumb on potential football greats before they're out of short pants.

Frank DiLoreto, (the guy who bought a nine year subscription to "American Boy") and his roommate, Paul Cavaliere, were the bulwarks of a mighty good Brig defense, which also found Bill Furman rising up time and time again to throw the Keydet backs for losses.

Hampden-Sydney rose up in all their glory Saturday and dumped the Maryland Terps by a close 7 to 6 count. This should go to prove that Washington and Lee is better than the Terps by about 20 points, but come Thanksgiving or whenever the ball game is played, and Gus Phan will find the Terps as tough a team as Vanderbilt was. It happens every year.

Virginia came up with another Gillette according to newspaper reports in the form of Eddie "Flash" Bryant. "Flash" did right well by himself against Lehigh, and along with Dudley, Neusteter, and Cardozo rounds out a backfield that may come mighty close to putting the skids under Eli's Blue and White this Saturday. Just another headache on the W&L schedule. The season will be continued on page four

Vanderbilt Passing Attack, Stellar Play of Rebrovich Lead to W&L Defeat, 19-0

By BOB STEELE

Vanderbilt's Commodores, one of the "weaker sisters" in the ultra-tough Southeastern league, made Southern conference grid play look like ring-around-the-roses by comparison in Nashville Saturday when they roughed up, mixed up, and pretty thoroughly beat up Washington and Lee to the tune of a 19 to 0 victory.

The Generals, already riddled by injuries before the game started, couldn't stand the heavy casualties during the game and cracked late in the second quarter to allow a Vandy score and eventual defeat.

A deadly passing attack which thrived on a weak W&L aerial defense, combined with the rough play, brought about the Generals' downfall. Long passes in the second and third quarters clicked for scores and an end sweep late in the final period wiped out all sign of resistance.

The Generals never seriously threatened the Commodore goal. An outbreak of wild passing in the final moments might conceivably have scored, but aside from that the Blue team was on the defensive most of the day.

A pair of sophomores, Rebrovich for Vandy and Rulevich for W&L, nearly stole the show with their inspired play. Rebrovich passed and ran the Generals ragged, scored once on a pass, once on a run, and flung the ball for the other marker. Rulevich's play at tackle kept Vandy back in place most of the afternoon. On many occasions he crashed through to throw the fast Vandy backs, and started several running plays with his 225 pounds of muscle.

Washington and Lee received the opening kickoff; Ligon returned the ball from the 5 to the 26. An exchange of punts and a 15 yard penalty on Vandy gave

"BIG JOHN" RULEVICH, sophomore tackle, who shone against Vandy.

W&L the ball in midfield, but a fumble by Dick Pinck was recovered by Vanderbilt.

The Tennesseans loosed a passing attack which carried the ball to the W&L 25, but Pinck intercepted a Vandy pass to check their first scoring threat.

A series of punts gave Vanderbilt the ball on her own 39. From there she opened with a whirlwind passing and running attack which eventually netted a first down on the W&L 29 yard line. Rebrovich smashed through the line for six yards, Davis picked up another, and as the quarter ended Huggins missed a first down by inches. W&L's Rulevich smashed this threat the first play of the second quarter when he threw Huggins for a three yard loss and gained possession of the ball on the Generals 23 yard line.

Brilliant kicking by Lugger Ligon kept the Commodores at bay for most of the second period. One punt boomed down the field for 67 yards. A fighting line and a hard charging backfield kept the play about even until, late in the half, Pres Brown was rushed on a punt and the ball trickled outside to his own 48 yard line.

Vandy took advantage of the break by opening a powerful passing attack which culminated in a 36 yard pass from Flanigan to Rebrovich for the first touchdown. Jenkins converted to give the Commodores a 7 to 0 lead at the half.

The Blue team kicked off to open the second half. Vandy started rolling again, but Bishop intercepted a pass on his 27 to stop the march. Brown's punt and a 15 yard holding penalty pushed Vandy back to her 20 yard line. Hard-running plays with Flanigan and Rebrovich gaining consistently brought the ball to midfield.

From here Rebrovich gathered in a pass on the W&L 19, and on the next flung the ball to Left End Hiestand for the second score. Jenkins failed to convert.

Play see-sawed back and forth for the remainder of the period.

The fourth quarter saw the two teams continue their kicking duel with lengthy punts by the General backs offsetting Vanderbilt gains through the air and line.

Back on their own 23 with four minutes of play left, the Generals started a passing attack which led to Vandy's third and final score. Ligon had just completed a 12 yard pass to Hogan for a first down on the 35 when Jenkins intercepted for Vandy.

A brace of line plunges had little effect, and then Rebrovich broke loose around end and swept over the goal line to bring the final score to 19 to 0. Jenkins again missed the extra point.

W&L received the kickoff, and was slowly advancing the ball via the air when the gun sounded.

Banquet, Sightseeing Are Offered Those Attending Kentucky Game

By DICK HOUSKA

In making the trip to Lexington, Kentucky, "heart of the Bluegrass," to sit on the East side of Stoll field and see the 18th clash between the football teams of Washington and Lee and the University of Kentucky, visiting students will find a hospitable town with more than enough going on to keep them busy before and after the game.

On the Friday night preceding the game the Central Kentucky Alumni Association will give a dinner in the Phoenix Hotel for all alumni, faculty members, and students of Washington and Lee.

Sight-seeing Saturday morning may be done at Calumet and Idlehour, two of the largest horse raising farms in the country. Near Lexington also is the home of Man of War, biggest money-winning horse in the world. With horse-raising so large a part of life in and about Lexington, W&L's Traveler II will probably undergo a thorough scanning by critical judges of horse-flesh when he trots around the field Saturday afternoon.

W&L's hosts at UK, who pride themselves on being students at the second most social-minded school in the country, will give a dance in their gym on Saturday night. W&L students are invited to attend and jitterbug to the music of the Beaters, Blowers and Bowers of the Bluegrass, whose swing slogan is "nothing slower than 'White Heat.'" When these boys have packed their instruments, any members of the Dawn Patrol whose thirst for amusement is still unsatisfied may find further attractions at Joyland, the local "George's Place" which is often visited by such bands as Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, and Tommy Dorsey. There are other joy joints far too numerous to mention, but if you care for more specific information see Charley Hobson.

Brigadiers Display Power In 13-0 Trouncing of SMA

Performing brilliantly in every position, Washington and Lee's freshman gridgers opened their 1940 season auspiciously Saturday when they battered their way to a 13-0 victory over Staunton Military academy on the losers' field.

Despite the fact that the Baby Blue eleven had little time for private practices, since most of their workouts had been devoted to scrimmaging the varsity, they went about their duties like veterans, and had little trouble in subduing the Cadets, who were outweighed and outclassed in every department. Cy Young, who coached the frosh at the game, stated that "they have possibilities of being one of the best freshman teams W&L has had in recent years."

The victory proved to be costly, however, for Eddie Marx, first-string fullback and one of the most able line-plungers on the squad, suffered a broken ankle in the opening quarter and will be lost for the remainder of the season.

The Cadets fought stubbornly and kept their goal line unviolated for three periods, rolling back several W&L threats. But in the final frame they could resist the Baby Blue's thrusts no longer, and after a sustained drive down the field, Paul Cavaliere smashed his way into the end zone from the one-foot line for the first General touchdown.

W&L pushed over its second score in the closing moments of the fray when Harry Baugher, substitute halfback, tossed a long aerial bomb into the arms of Don Johnston, in the end zone. Baugher then converted with a place kick.

SMA threatened in the second quarter when Jones and Harner worked the pigskin to Blue four-yard stripe. The Baby Generals stiffened here, however, and drove the Cadets back to the 15 in four downs. Jeff Puckett, who did the kicking for W&L, then punted out of danger and SMA never again neared pay-dirt.

Concentrating their attack off-tackle for the most part, the Generals outgained their opponents by a wide margin, and with Baugher, Puckett, and Dave Russell doing the greater part of the ball-toting, advanced to SMA's 20-yard line on several occasions. The play of the entire line was outstanding and, with Bill Stephenson, Bill Furman, and Marshall Steves leading the way, more than held its own against the scrappy Cadet forward wall.

Accident

Continued from page one King, Smitherman and their Virginia companions had attended the Virginia-Lehigh game in Charlottesville Saturday afternoon and were headed south on Route 29, in the direction of Lynchburg, when the accident occurred.

Both King and Smitherman were pledged by Kappa Alpha social fraternity a week ago last Sunday. Funeral services for the former will be conducted in Chattanooga.

Candidates for the editorial staff of the Calyx are asked to meet with Editor James McConnell tonight at 7:30 in the Student Union.

Bowling League

All fraternities interested in forming an inter-fraternity bowling league, have been asked to send a representative to the ZBT house at 7:30 Wednesday night to discuss plans for the organization of the league.

EC Lists Rules For VMI Set

Rules regarding the attendance of Washington and Lee students at VMI dances have been set forth by the Executive Committee in the following letter to the Student Body, which will be mailed to fraternity houses this week.

This is to bring to your attention regulations concerning attendance of Washington and Lee students at VMI dances. In accord with an agreement between VMI and Washington and Lee, only seniors and law students are privileged to attend VMI dances.

More specific interpretations of this ruling should be unnecessary. However, experience has proven it expedient to warn that escorts of house mothers or other guests must be either seniors or law students.

The Executive Committee regrets that in the past several students have knowingly or otherwise violated this ruling to the discomfort of all concerned. Consequently, we desire that publicity be given this notice and that it be posted upon your bulletin board.

5th Quarter . . .

Continued from page three a success in the event that we lose all the rest of the ball games, if the fighting Generals can beat the damned Wahos.

Cy Young seems to think that Bill Stephenson, the Brigadier center, is one of the hottest ball players to hit Washington and Lee in some time.

According to the tentative plans, Twombly said that football will begin next week.

Frosh Council Planning Picnic

A large percentage of the eighty-five enrolled members of the recently organized freshman council were to be taken on a picnic-hike at 4:30 this afternoon by the Freshman work committee of the larger Christian Council.

This is the second of a series of Christian council sponsored freshman projects. An organizational meeting for the freshman council is planned for the near future at which time they will select their officers and committees and become an organization entirely separate from the larger council except for occasional supervision of older men.

At present plans are being made for a second freshman trip to Mary Baldwin College in Staunton for Saturday night, October 5. A similar trip was held last weekend when about sixty freshmen enjoyed the hospitality of the freshman class at the girls' school.

A retreat meeting to the cabin, which was recently acquired for the use of the Christian council through the efforts of John Weathers, for all members of the Executive Committee is to be held on the Friday before Homecoming.

I-M Managers to Meet With Twombly Thursday Night at 7:30 in Gym

Cy Twombly, director of intramural athletics, announced yesterday that representatives of all 18 fraternities and the non-fraternity union will meet in Coach Fletcher's office in the gym at 7:30 Thursday night to plan the 1940-41 intra-mural season.

According to the tentative plans, Twombly said that football will begin next week.

Collegian Editor Calls For Staff Assistants To Try Out Wednesday

All men, whether freshmen or old students, who are interested in trying out for the editorial staff of the Southern Collegian, campus literary magazine, are asked to meet in the Student Union lounge Wednesday afternoon at 1:55, Latham Thigpen, Collegian editor, announced this afternoon.

Those trying out are urged to bring along samples of their work, Thigpen said, but added that this was not imperative. "Men with previous experience in magazine or other literary writing are especially needed," the Collegian editor explained, although "there is still plenty of room for men who have what it takes, no matter what their experience."

Tryouts for the Southern Collegian art staff were held Monday at the Student Union under the direction of Art Editor George Harrison.

House books will be handed over to Sam Rayder, student body treasurer, for balancing between the 5th and 15th of each month, as he calls for them. If house bills are not paid by the 15th, a letter will be sent to the student; if not paid by the 20th, a letter will go home to his parents; and on the 25th, if the bill is not paid, the matter will be put in the hands of the university.

One of the main things which will be discussed by the managers will be the formation of a co-operative among the fraternities. Such a plan has been discussed before, but no action has been taken.

Stow to Address Frosh

Dr. Marcellus H. Stow, head of the Geology Department, will speak to the freshman class in Lee chapel at 7:30 on Thursday night. The subject of his speech will be "The Scenic Features of the Lexington Area."
