

Rally Friday Night Will Send Off Team For Clash With VPI

Parade Cancelled As Faculty Rejects Shortened Classes

Rallying behind the victorious Generals, Washington and Lee's students will once more set the recesses of Doremus Gymnasium ringing with the now-famous battle cry of "On to Lynchburg" at a giant pep meeting Friday night when they gather to launch the somewhat dampened but still exciting program of the annual VPI-W&L weekend. On hand for the rally will be the band and cheerleaders, and addresses by Coach Riley Smith, Assistant Coach Tex Tilson and, possibly, Cy Young will feature the get-together.

Colorful and virtually complete plans for the more or less traditional parade of the band, the freshmen afoot and decorated student cars were cancelled last night after the Faculty Executive Committee rejected a petition for short enough classes to allow time for the students to make the trip to Lynchburg and participate in the cavalcade before game time. Dodo Baldwin, ODK president, and Student Body President Howard Dobbins, who have been working with the Lynchburg Alumni Association and the Chamber of Commerce of that city for the past ten days on plans for the affair, filed the petition asking for half-hour classes starting at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning. This was the schedule approved last year, and it would allow the students to leave school at 10:30. The Executive Committee approved a five minute cut in classes with the last one ending at 12:10.

It is not thought that this action will affect seriously the number of students who attend the game. Baldwin and Dobbins agreed that a larger crowd even than the 550 who made the trip last year is expected.

Tickets are on sale in the Co-op. Cap'n Dick Smith announced this morning. The price of a student ticket is $1.00 and the price of all other seats, those of dates included, will be $2.00. Since VPI and W&L alternate in sponsoring the game at the Municipal Stadium, W&L students must pay half of regular admission instead of being admitted on student association passes as last year.

The band will be at the game to aid in the cheering and provide music from the stands, and, in addition, the VPI Cadet Band and a Lynchburg Drum and Bugle Corps will provide a halftime show.

Following the game there will be an informal dance at the Oakwood Country Club sponsored by the Lynchburg W&L Alumni Association. Only W&L students or alumni and their dates will be invited.

Early Classes Saturday

In order to give all students the opportunity of attending the game in Lynchburg on Saturday, October 25, the Executive Committee of the Faculty has decided upon the following program for that day:

8:00-8:50
8:50-9:40
9:40-10:30
10:30-11:20
11:30-12:10

Attention is called to the fact that the first class begins at 8:00 a.m.

World Affairs Cause Decrease In Chapel Guests

Lee Chapel has felt a slight decrease in the number of tourists visiting the internationally famous shrine of Robert E. Lee during the past year due mainly to the critical conditions existing in the world. Mrs. Fitzgerald Flournoy, chapel custodian announced today.

Although there were several Englishmen, two Chinese, one man from Cairo, Egypt, and refugee missionaries from China, the war in Europe and Asia has practically eliminated the foreign visitors to Lee Chapel, Mrs. Flournoy pointed out.

Domestic gasoline shortage and defense work have also taken their toll of the annual number of tourists who visit the chapel. The family of Defense Commissioner Edward Settinus and the governors of Virginia, New Jersey and West Virginia were the only famous people admitted to the chapel during the summer.

A total of 25,536 men, women and children have been taken through the chapel since January which is a very slight decrease from the attendance over the same period last year. This number includes several parties of school children and college students touring this section of Virginia, and clubs and organizations from neighboring states.

Late spring and summer brought a larger number of tourists to the chapel than any other season in the year. With over 7,000 visitors. August proved to be the busiest month in the tourist season. Mrs. Flournoy said.

Admission receipts are used to defray the expenses of maintenance heat, light, insurance, and the salaries of attendants. Although the attendants during the school session are paid by the NYA, chapel and admission funds must cover the guides' salaries from June to the middle of September.

Sixteen Students Included In Collegiate 'Who's Who'

Sixteen Washington and Lee students will be listed in the 1941-42 edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," annual publication for recognition of honor students throughout the nation, it was announced this week.

Four other W&L leaders are to be included in a special section for those who have been selected in past years and are still in school. They are ODK President Dodo Baldwin, Student Body President Howard Dobbins, Charles Hobson, chairman of the Freshman Assimilation Committee, and Homer Jones, former business manager of the Ring-tum Phi.

Of the men named for their first inclusion in the new "Who's Who," which will come off the press in January, twelve are seniors, three are law students and one is a junior. They are Ed Boyd, president of the senior academic class; Soupy Campbell, freshman law class executive committee man; Tom Clark, secretary of the Student Body; Walt Downie, vice-president of the Student Body; Brad Dunson, president of 1942 Finals.

Soph Dues Drive Ends Tomorrow

No Sophomore dues will be collected after six o'clock tomorrow evening, Vernon Millisp, class president, announced today. Millisp urged that the remaining members of the class who wish to subscribe do so at once so that the order may be sent to the jeweler in time.

Ninety-five members of the class have already paid the dues, which are $2.25 and which entitle the sophomore to a place in the figure and a favor for his date at the Sophomore Prom, Friday, November 14. Millisp said that members of the Finance Committee, which includes David Embry, Donald Welch, Cliff Hood, Grant Mouser, Churchill Elmore, and Stan Sacks, will take all subscriptions.

The favors, which will be announced Tuesday, November 11, have been selected with the unanimous approval of the Favors Committee. "No Sophomore will want to be left out when the favors are distributed," he added.

In addition to the committees announced previously, Millisp made the following additions: Floor: Tyler Gresham, chairman, Tom Crutenden, Lynch Christian, William Babcock, Robbins Gates, and Tad Humphreys; Invitations: Ted Kahr, chairman, Dick Elgin, Al Clark, Jack Roehl, Ed Marx, and Henry Schewel.

IRC to Discuss War At Initial Meeting

The first meeting of the International Relations Club will be held Thursday night at 7:30 in the lounge of the Student Union, it was announced yesterday by the club's president, Marshal Johnson.

The program will center around a discussion of present world affairs with special emphasis laid on some phase of the war. Johnson said. He added that the club hopes to secure Dr. W. G. Bean of the history department to lead the discussion.

Included in the club's program for the year will be meetings with the International Relations Clubs of nearby girls' schools if present plans materialize.

Last year two meetings were held with the club at Hollins and proved so successful that plans are being formulated to include more schools in this year's program, Johnson said.

Sophomore and junior members of the Southern Collegian business staff will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Collegian office in the Student Union Building. Business Manager Bud Yeomans announced yesterday.

All students who have completed two full years of college and are rated as juniors or seniors, and those in advanced or graduate study are eligible for inclusion in the annual publication. The qualifications considered in selection are character, leadership, and potentialities of future usefulness to business and the nation.

The selections this year were made by a committee of leaders who were in last year's book and who are still on the campus. This group was appointed by Dean Frank J. Gilliam.

Purpose of "Who's Who" is to afford one national basis of recognition for students, devoid of politics, initiation fees and dues. The idea was conceived over five years ago and the volume has come to include many features in addition to the biographies of America's student leaders. Some of these supplements are a synopsis of each university and college, and a breakdown of the statistics on the basis of states, social fraternities, religion and vocational aims.

CC to Sponsor Forum Series In Fraternities

A second series of fraternity forums, under the sponsorship of the Christian Council, will begin soon after homecoming and continue for five weeks until Christmas holidays, according to plans announced today by Seymour Smith, director of University religious work.

This year's program for the forums will be similar to the system used before, Smith added. Letters which will explain the program will be mailed.

The fraternity presidents will then return the letters, designating their choices and the dates on which they wish to hold the forums. The speakers will be invited to the respective houses for dinner, after which they will start the group discussion with a brief preliminary talk on the subject.

"This program of informal discussion groups was one of the most popular activities of the Council last year," Smith said, and I feel certain that they will be received just as enthusiastically by the students this time.

The purpose of the fraternity forums, it was added, is to provide an opportunity for informal discussions of questions on school, personal adjustments, and problems of national and international importance on the part of the students, and to sponsor faculty-student relationships as well as those of the townspeople and local ministers.

Although definite plans for the forums have not been completed, council leaders expect that subjects for the discussions will include the present war and its after effects, humanizing of law, the religious implications of war, the draft and its effects on college students, problems in personnel, athletics and education, and aspects of religion in the college sphere.

The program of the forums will also include a series of discussions during the second semester.

Members of the Christian Council committee arranging the series are Aubrey Matthews, chairman, John Stowers, Howard Dobbins, Walt Downie, Bud Levy, and Joe Ellis.

195 Senior Degree Applicants Listed

One hundred and ninety-five seniors have filed applications for degrees, which is an increase of 13 over last year's 182, despite the fact that school enrollment has been reduced by 50 students due to the draft.

Three applications have been received for M.A. degrees as contrasted with five last year. Twenty-five seniors have applied for LL.B. degrees, a decrease from last year's thirty-two.

For B.A. degrees there are 103 applicants which is a large increase over 79 for last year. Applications for B. S. in Commerce degrees number 57, a decrease of two from last year. There are seven applicants for B.S. this session, the same as last session.

There is one application for a Commerce Certificate this year and there was one last year. In the 1940-41 session seven seniors applied for Certificates in Journalism and for the 1941-42 session six applications have been filed.

Tony Pastor Is Signed For Opening Dance Set, Homecoming Weekend

Tony Pastor, who will play at the Opening Dance Set of the year, in Doremus Gymnasium, November 14 and 15.

Advance Sale Of Tickets Set For Tomorrow

Tony Pastor and his orchestra will supply the music for Opening Dances, Set Leader Art Koontz announced today as Cotillion Club members made ready to start the sale of advance subscriptions for the November 14-15 set.

Pastor, whose company features Eugenie Baird, 19-year old vocalist, and Drummer Johnny Morris, writer of "Paradiddle Joe," "Knock Knock" and other hit novelties, will play for all three parts of the Homecoming Weekend set—Friday night's Sophomore Prom, Saturday afternoon's after-the-game dance and that evening's Cotillion Club formal.

Cotillion Club members will visit fraternity houses and eating places tomorrow noon to launch the advance ticket drive. Set subscriptions will sell for $6.00 during the advance drive, and will jump to $8.00 at the close of the campaign. IOU's and checks post-dated until November 10 will be accepted, Koontz said.

Pastor, billed as "the man who 'Pastorized' swing," divides his time among leading the band, playing the saxophone and handling a share of the vocals. Eugenie Baird takes care of the feminine vocals, while other featured personalities are Morris, star of a Paramount movie, "Drummer Man," the music for which he wrote himself; Johnny McAfee, who plays first sax and sings, and Stubby Pastor, Tony's "kid brother" who at 20 has established himself as a coming trumpet star.

Pastor skyrocketed to prominence last year after having led Artie Shaw's old band during its final days. Tony took over the leadership of the Shaw combination during Artie's illness on the Pacific Coast in 1939, and a few weeks later decided to organize his own outfit.

He had given Shaw his notice and was making plans for his start when Shaw left his own band without a leader in the middle of a run at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York. Pastor agreed to lead the band for the remainder of the engagement, and upon its completion began organizing his own crew.

Pastor took some of Shaw's musicians and arrangers, added others and began a long series of one-nighters which carried him from Virginia Beach to Hollywood.

It was on the strength of the reputation which that long road trip made for him that Pastor was signed by the Hotel Lincoln to follow Charlie Barnet last year. The Lincoln engagement ran for seven months and moved the Pastor outfit near the top, bringing NBC broadcasts five times a week, a batch of Bluebird record releases and a four weeks' run at the Paramount Theatre in New York.

VPI Tickets at Co-op

Cap'n Dick Smith, athletic director, announced yesterday that W&L student tickets for the W&L-Virginia Tech football game in Lynchburg Saturday afternoon will be sold only at the co-op.

Student tickets will cost $1, a 50 percent reduction over the regular admission price. Each student ticket will be for a reserved seat.

Laird Thompson, manager of the co-op has a block of 700 student tickets. There will be no more available after these are sold.

Football Pool Stopped

Operation in Lexington of the football pool which offered players a 100-to-1 return on a 1.024-to-1 bet, along with other "bookmaker's edge" odds, ceased last week.

The pool slips, distributed and collected by a local store which was serving as an agency for the enterprise's out-of-town promoters, became unavailable shortly after the appearance of the mathematical chances of picking the required number of winners.

Preparations for Musical Comedy Nears Completion; Casting Begins

Pushing preparations ahead of the tentative schedule, Dusty Millar, who is in charge of the 1941 Varsity Show, spent this afternoon at Southern Seminary casting the four female leads for the musical comedy which will replace previous 1940 variety extravaganza.

Immediately following the selection of the female talent, Millar plans to begin casting male leads. This will probably take place within two weeks.

Tommy Fuller, who is writing the show, has progressed "more than half way" through the entire script, but was unable to say when the work would be complete.

Music for the show is being written by Bill Nutt and Paul Thomas, who will have their work edited when Millar and Fuller take the score to New York where John McLaughlin, musical director for George M. Cohan, will give a professional opinion on it.

Millar emphasized the fact that the new show will start with "absolutely nothing to work on." Costumes, lighting, and stage properties used in productions of the last two years are inadequate for the proposed musical.

Carpenters employed in the construction of the stage, which will be located at the west end of Doremus Gymnasium, will be paid with the lumber used in the building of the stage, in order to cut costs, Millar said.

The need for men to work on the production end of the show, especially electricians, is particularly pressing, according to Millar. At present the greatest need is for an assistant to Ed Boyd, stage manager. Millar requested that anyone experienced or interested in this phase of the show see him immediately.

Opening date for the 1941 production has not been set as yet, but it is being planned for sometime "early in December." There is a possibility that the show may run more than one night and be shown to an audience of VMI cadets.

Proceeds of the ticket sale will go to the Lexington Children's Clinic.

Recorded Concerts To Begin Monday In New Music Room

The first of the planned weekly concerts of recorded classical music will begin October 27 in the Anderson Music Room of the McCormick Library, from 7:45 to 8:45. Professor John A. Graham, head of the Fine Arts Department and originator of the concerts, announced recently.

The opening selection of the first concert will be Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, followed by scenes from Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Vaughn William's "Overture to The Wasps," and a work of Greig sung by Kirsten Flagstad, will close the program.

The records played will be chosen chiefly from the Carnegie Music Set given to Washington and Lee last year. Each program will contain both instrumental and vocal music. An attempt will be made to play at least one major work from the classical repertory for the lovers of familiar music, and at least one less well-known work to interest the more experienced listener.

The programs will be held every Monday evening at the stated time, and will not be classes in Music Appreciation. However, there will occasionally be some verbal explanation to take the place of printed program notes.

Mr. Graham has requested that those who want to take advantage of these concerts to please be prompt in attendance and be in their seats at 7:45.

Dan Lewis, president of NFU, announced today a meeting of the organization on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Forensic Union room. Plans will be discussed for the group's first dance to be held in the near future.

The Rifle Club will hold its organization meeting tonight at 7:30 on the third floor of Robinson Hall, instead of Monday night, as previously announced.

Final Drive Begins For Calyx Pictures

A final drive for Calyx pictures got under way this week with a determined effort being made to sign 90 percent of the student body.

With the addition of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the number of fraternities supporting the drive 100 percent was increased to eleven.

Although the drive this year has produced better results than ever before, the goal of the editors has not been reached, according to Bob Wersel, business manager of the annual. Students who have not made appointments for pictures were asked to do so immediately.

A call was made for all freshmen interested in trying out for the staff to appear at the Calyx office tomorrow at 2:15. Sophomore and junior members of the staff, as announced by Cal Bond, editor, are as follows:

'American Air Defense' Is Topic Of Congressman's Talk Tonight

"American Air Defense" will be the topic of the speech of Congressman Dow W. Harter, chairman of the Subcommittee on Military Aviation, when he addresses the fourth meeting of the W&L Defense Forum tonight at 7:45 in Lee Chapel.

Professor F. James Barnes, instructor of the Citizenship and Defense course, for which the forums are held, today emphasized that the meeting is open to all members of the student body and to all townspeople who care to attend.

In order to take care of the increased attendance, the forum was changed to Lee Chapel for this meeting he added.

Congressman Harter, father of Jack Harter, W&L sophomore, is now serving his fifth term as a member of the House Military Affairs Committee, having been appointed the post upon his arrival in Washington in 1932. He is also chairman of the special committee on Air Forces of the Military Aviation Subcommittee.

The speaker, who has recently returned from an inspection tour of United States defense bases in the Atlantic and Caribbean, is a Democrat and represents Ohio's 14th district. He is a former member of the Ohio House of Representatives and received his law degree in 1907 at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Barnes also announced today that Pierre De Lanux, French lecturer and author, who spoke here in November of last year, will be the speaker for next week's forum. The topic of his address has not been decided, Mr. Barnes added.

Going Up!

Washington and Lee's football stock is on the rise.

Saturday night's thumping of Richmond did several things. It gave the men of Riley Smith a victory, that because of honest effort expended, should have come sooner. They had seen victory snatched away in the waning minutes of the Sewanee game, they had staged a tremendous but losing battle against overwhelming odds in their meet with Kentucky, and they had fought for naught against George Washington.

But they tasted the proverbial sweetness of victory Saturday night, and their appetites have been whetted.

The victory over Richmond may help cause the "experts"—the fellows who didn't even mention Washington and Lee in their pre-season discussions of the Southern Conference race—to do some fancy word-eating. Not because some of them picked the Spiders to win—the result of that game alone is not enough to start the experts munching. But it gave the Generals a record of one victory and one tie in the Conference race, and moved them toward the front.

Games with VPI, Davidson and Maryland are still on the Generals' Conference slate. And victories in each of these would make a pretty nice season's record when it comes to listing the 16 Conference teams' order of finish.

But that's looking a bit too far to the future. The coming Saturday's game with VPI will be plenty tough, and the Generals will have to win it if they are to claim an upper berth in the Conference standings. They can win it, and the student body can help by making another "mass invasion" of Lynchburg. Increased support of the team is very much in order.

No Parade, No Nothing

The band, after all of its parading up, down and across the campus late yesterday afternoon, is not going to have a chance to march in Lynchburg on Saturday.

The boys who "love a parade"—and who doesn't?—aren't going to be able to parade this year.

The student body leaders who spent considerable time in making arrangements for this year's pre-game show at Lynchburg can catch upon their shows, now, comforted by the thought that they did their part.

The hundreds of Lynchburg alumni and the thousands of Hill City spectacle-lovers who last year and the year before lined the streets to watch W&L' forces roll into the city and go through their cheers and songs at Monument Terrace will be able to eat their Saturday lunches in peace this year.

One of the most colorful parts of Washington and Lee's football season program has been wiped out.

Those who were looking forward to the 1941 version of the show can get last year's Calyx off the shelf and get a glimpse of what it might have looked like.

For the Defense Program

The announcement that the Federal government is in need of economists, business analysts, administrative technicians, chemists, physicists and other trained workers and that Dr. Flick has detailed Civil Service information for the benefit of any students who may be interested in looking into such openings brings to mind a question and a suggestion.

The question is, what has happened to the placement bureau idea which occupied so much of the Commerce Club's time last year? A rather extensive student body poll was taken, the need for such a bureau was definitely established and it looked for a while as though such an organization would come into being. But it, like a lot of other campus movements, seems to have been abandoned while still in the idea stage.

The suggestion is this: set up, under a responsible clearing agency's direction, a special "National Defense Placement Bureau." The Government needs trained men for places in the numerous administrative units being established in connection with defense program. The various branches of service—the Army, the Navy, the Marines—need trained men for specialized work. Defense industries need capable men for expanding programs of production.

There are all kinds of opportunities for college men in the defense program. But the students know too little of the various openings, of the requirements and of the means of going about securing such positions.

A "National Defense Placement Bureau" could come to the aid of these students and to the aid of the Government program. The Commerce major who is graduating in June wants to know how he can best fit into the Defense program. He is equipped to play a responsible part in his Government's preparedness effort and he should know where and how to turn. He has heard that the Navy needs college men with special aptitudes; perhaps he can qualify for ordnance training. The proposed bureau would tell him if the Navy has a special need for his type of training, and how to go about taking advantage of its offer. Or he has heard that the Government needs men with business training, and he wonders how he could fit into its program. The proposed bureau would pass on the information which it receives from Civil Service headquarters.

The Science major could receive similar help; so could the Journalism major. The language major could learn about the Army's intelligence work. Others who are in doubt as to the part which they can best play in the present emergency could turn to the proposed bureau for enlightenment.

Time to Move

Borrow a red pencil from the nearest professor or from somebody with Communist leanings and go to work on your calendar.

Put nice big circles around four dates—October 21 (that's today), October 22 (that's tomorrow) and November 14 and 15.

And here, in non-chronological order, are the reasons for the importance of those dates:

November 14 and 15 are the dates of a weekend which nobody, with the possible exception of what Professor Flournoy would call a "professional sourpuss," will want to miss. It's the weekend which will bring Opening Dances and Homecoming together for the first time. There'll be dancing to the music of a top-flight band; there'll be a football game; and there'll be all of the "trimmings" which usually go with dance set and Homecoming program. It most certainly is a weekend which deserves a couple of big red circles on anybody's calendar.

October 22 (that's tomorrow) is the date for the launching of the sale of tickets for the dance set. Cotillion Club members will visit fraternity houses and eating places to offer subscriptions at the advance prices. As somebody was once heard to remark, "Why put off until the day after tomorrow what you can do tomorrow?"

October 21 (that's today) is the time for the boys who haven't lined up dates to start lining. Minerva may find something else to do if you don't get to her pretty soon, so write that letter or make that phone call tonight.

CAMPUS COMMENT

By Lou Shroyer

Big-Wig Department: Syd Lewis, local politician who operates from west campus, was relaxing at the House of Smart the other night enjoying a poker game with a shark of the same name. Not relaxing exactly, for Syd was standing on his head on account of the lousy hand he was holding, and not exactly enjoying himself, either, for he had already dropped about twenty rocks to his smiling and congenial Phi Delt hosts, who knew when they had a good thing. But Syd wasn't too upset. What's twenty bucks? He'd won that much last night, and probably win that much tomorrow, so I'll blow out of here after this hand, says Syd.

But as he was about to take his leave, a couple of uniformed G-Men appeared on the scene.

"We're trying to locate a certain Mr. Lewis," says the first visitor.

Syd looked the situation over. This didn't look too bad, probably want to ask me some confidential data.

"Im Syd Lewis," he says smilingly, stepping forward with outstretched hand. Which was bad.

"Happy to meet you, bud," says the cop, fingering his equalizer and watching Syd for a false move. "You can do us the favor of shelling out fifty bucks or accompanying us to Erie, Pa., where you seemed to neglect to square up with the judge for a parking ticket you appropriated there."

So I'm out seventy rocks tonight, thought Syd, as the Phi Delt disappeared noiselessly. What's seventy bucks? I'll get it back tomorrow night.....

Photograph Department: Freshman Bill Mowris left the sweetest little girl in the world when he came down here this fall, or that's what he kept telling himself. And she's there at home just a-sittin' and a-waitin' for me to come back to her, and last week I wrote her asking for her picture and it's due any day now.

And yesterday was the Great Day for Mowris. The picture arrived. It was such a pretty picture. And attached was the following little note:

"Dear Billy:
"Here is a picture of me. It did belong to Joe, but he has a much better one of me now, so I guess this one will be good enough for you.

I love you,
Helen
And so it must to all freshmen.
Publicity Department: And

while we're on the subject of letters, we regret to publish this excerpt from a letter Creepy La-Motte just received from the mother of his first heart-throb in four years of college. Poor Creepy, "...and I feel it my duty, after reading about your escapades in the smut column of the Ring-tum Phi, to ask you never to call, see, or write my daughter again. She's too fine a girl to be acquainted with you, you guttersnipe..."

Creepy's too young to contemplate marriage anyway...

Election Department: This column would like to undertake the task of determining just who is the most disreputable looking character on the campus. Last year it was pretty well accepted that Shabby Davidson was the man, but this season there has been much discussion on the subject, both pro and con.

The Sigma Nus, for example, are solid behind their own Rods Clayton, the guy who spent three hundred smackers on a girl this summer and has only received one letter from her. On the other hand, the Phi Kaps are pushing old Vince Ignico, and this entry looks like a pretty strong one. The Betas are still backing Shabby, while the Deltas have thrown their hat into the ring in the person of Cal Bond, who we must admit is steady-looking, but who doesn't seem to carry the all-round disreputability of Ignico, Clayton, and Davidson.

Dark horses in the race are Ralph Cohen and Bob Mooney, while the Phi Psis are still split in their choice between Bob Schellenberg and Bud Yoemans.

This column would appreciate any comments which would assist us in choosing the winner.

Cheap Talk: Has anybody seen Burly?... What were Nutt and Alexander doing Saturday night while their friend Paul Thomas was having his lip lacerated?... The DU house party this weekend looks like a good one.... Stinkaroo of the season and many more is "Navy Blues"... Gregg Burger is another who owns barbells.... George Neofotis wants his name mentioned.... If the Generals get some of the breaks that Virginia got against VMI, they'll take the Wahoos by two touchdowns.... Famous Last Words: "It takes a moron to bust out of this place.... I can always make Sweet Briar in half-hour"..... Paul Baker and Hugh McClure are nice assets to VMI's Commanders, a good band, judging from Saturday night....

PREVIEWS AND REVIEWS

By Marshall Johnson

NAVY BLUES

The sorriest show to hit Lexington in many moons was burst on an unsuspecting public yesterday and today at the State in the guise of "Navy Blues." Not only that, but the picture has another day to run.

Ann Sheridan looked her best and did her best, but it was lost in this stinker to end all stinkers. Outside of a little atmosphere by the Navy Blues sextet, there was no resemblance to a movie.

Jack Oakie was worse than we've ever seen him, Jack Haley was worse than tha, Martha Raye was terrible, and Herbert Anderson wasn't even a convincing farm boy lost in the navy.

If you haven't seen it, stay away. Ann Sheridan isn't worth the sacrifice.

WHEN LADIES MEET

That much talked-about comedy, "When Ladies Meet," invades the State Thursday and Friday to satisfy those who haven't seen the picture but want to.

Before it even gets here, we're turning thumbs down. In the first place, we don't like Joan Crawford. In the second place, we don't like Greer Garson. In the third place, we're not crazy about Robert Taylor. And if that isn't enough, we don't like Herbert Marshall.

If you still wonder why we're not going to enjoy the picture, come to see us after we've seen it and we'll give you ten more reasons.

You'd better take your gas masks. You'll need them if you see it.

THE BRIDE CAME C. O. D.

The Lyric's Wednesday attraction is a lot better than usual. In fact, it's reported to be one of the better shows of the year, "The Bride Came C. O. D."

Starred are Bette Davis and James Cagney. If that isn't a castful of dynamite, we don't know what is. Helping the plot along are Stuart Erwin and Eugene Pallette.

We haven't seen it, but we intend to. We advise you to do the same.

MOON OVER MIAMI

(The opinions on this picture belong to our assistant, Frank Flanagan. We disagree with these. The picture's nothing but a sexhibition with Don Ameche added. That makes it next to nothing, but here's the other side of the argument, as presented by Mr. Flanagan.)

Another one of Darryl Zanuck's musicals plays a return engagement Thursday only at the Lyric. "Moon Over Miami" passes better than its predecessors.

Maybe it's because of the sun-tanned pulchritude of Betty Grable, but it couldn't be because of its jumbled plot or Don Ameche. Bob Cummings and Carole Landis add to the entertainment, especially when Carole starts dressing La Grable style.

Charlotte Greenwood and Jack Haley manage to brighten up what the gaudy technicolor of palm trees fails to do. But we must recommend Corbina Wright, Jr., who in our eyes will be on top one of these days. She's in only a few scenes, but it doesn't take that red dress to find her.

It's good entertainment and if you've planned on seeing it, see it. If you haven't, there's always Betty Grable to induce you.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

According to all reports, "Bad Men of Missouri" at the Lyric wasn't bad at all. Maybe we made a mistake in going to the State.

"Hold That Ghost" was the best laugh riot we've seen in a long time. Thinking back, it doesn't seem possible that people can laugh at the nonsense handed out by Abbott and Costello, but they do.

For four days next week, you'll be privileged to see "Sergeant York" at elevated prices. Which only goes to show you, they give you a picture of what you're in for and charge you higher just to see it.

The Governor:

The University sent the band and a crew of cheerleaders to Washington on a school night when the number of students who might attend the GW game was severely limited by University regulations and student common-sense regarding driving at night. To the Richmond game on a weekend night the University sent no band and no cheerleaders. "It's fun to be fooled, but it's more fun to know."

Generalizing . . .

By MAL DEANS

Sectionalized journalism is a funny thing indeed. When one or more newspapers get together and form a coalition with the intent of either boomer or defaming one certain thing, no one can tell what will happen; and when newspapers in the same section form one of these coalitions they will leave no stone unturned to reach their ultimate goal.

The papers in the state of Virginia have very obviously become obsessed with the idea that the Wahoos' Bill Dudley is the greatest back in the game today, and so they have decided that they will make him an All-American. They are doing a A-1 job of boomer the "Bluefield Bullet," too, and at the rate they are pouring it on right now, it wouldn't be surprising to see Dudley wind up on more than one first string All-American when the selections come out within a couple of months. But the whole point is that Bill Dudley is not an All-American.

Anyone who has seen Frankie Albert play ball will tell you how much better the Stanford boy is. Anyone who has seen Navy's Bill Busik or Georgia's Sinkwich will tell you how Dudley rates in comparison. In fact any impartial spectator who saw the Virginia-VMI game this past Saturday should be able to tell you that Dudley's no All-American.

From the accounts that appeared in every newspaper in this section about the Keydet-Wahoo battle, you'd think that "Bouncing Bill" has stolen the show in every sense of the word. Dudley didn't steal the show. He wasn't even the featured character. He let his 165-pound junior running mate, Eddie "Flash" Bryant, take the spotlight right away from him. It was "The Flash" who made beautiful run-backs through the Keydets to set the stage for the Wahoo scoring. Dudley even stepped in front of Eddie to take a kickoff once, but even that didn't keep everyone's eyes from being glued to Bryant. In a nutshell, they went to see Dudley, and came away talking Bryant.

Now Bryant is not a better back than Dudley. He can't do as many things. However, he did steal the show, and All-Americans just don't let people do that. We firmly believe that Dudley is a very much overrated ball player—a fine back, but still overrated. It's the fleet ends, steady line, and unerring blocking by his fellow backs that make him what he is. If the Old Dominion sports scribes can put Dudley on the nation's mythical first eleven, more power to them, but if that fellow makes All-American, then Case School of Applied Science has every right to expect a Rose Bowl bid.

OFFHAND: Washington and Lee has now scored 13 more points than have their opponents this season "Gate" Atwood, who'd even be a welcome addition to the Brooklyn rooting section, led the attack on the Wahoos by the W&L section here Saturday. Grandstander Bryant got more assorted jeers and cheers than we've ever seen accorded to one man. Hampden-Sydney held William and Mary scoreless during the entire second half. Riley seems to have uncovered something in Harry Baugher. Frank Socha missed all the extra points at Richmond, but even things up nicely with a well-kicked field goal. "The Bull," by the way, is a cartoonist of no mean ability. Ask him for a demonstration some time. Frank Neofotis, the fastest man at Steve's. (See GENERALIZING, Page 4)

Smith Gives Blue Good Chance With VPI After First Win of Season Against Spiders

H. Baugher Sparks Generals to Victory In Richmond Tilt

Riley Smith got his first victory as Washington and Lee's head football coach Saturday night—a reward for a series of well-planned backfield changes, one of which uncovered Harry Baugher, 155-pound sophomore who personally sparked the Generals to a convincing 21-0 route of Richmond under the Richmond City Stadium lights.

Harry, younger brother of Senator Joe Baugher, who played at fullback Saturday night, got the Big Blue away to a 6-0 lead in the first period when he got away from the 15-yard line after Roy Fabian had recovered a blocked Richmond punt, then added another touchdown in the second half when he gathered in a Spider kickoff and reeled off an 85-yard runback.

Frank Socha completed the scoring with a field goal from the 15-yard line and a nine-yard buck through the Richmond line for the third and final touchdown. All of those points came in the third quarter.

Homecoming crowd of 6,000 got an indication of what was to come when, on the second play of the game, Harry Baugher scampered 27 yards to the Richmond 38. The Riley Smith attack floundered at this point, however, and Pres Brown punted into the end zone.

Richmond's Remine attempted to punt out on third down but Brown blocked the kick and Fabian fell on the ball on the UR 15. One play failed to gain, and then the younger Baugher scored his first touchdown. Socha's kick for the point was unsuccessful.

A pass interception by Jack Roehl, the first of eight W&L interceptions, paved the way for a later drive into Richmond territory but this one was stopped by a bad center pass on the UR 15.

In the second quarter the Spiders' attack came to life for one brief period after Richmond had received one of "Big Buck's" punts on the UR 35.

Two running plays and a pass by Tom Nichols, the Spiders' sophomore star, carried 40 yards to the W&L 25, the nearest to pay dirt this lethargic men advanced all night, but here Paul Skillman intercepted a UR pass to end the threat.

Smith's Blue team scored more points in the third period Saturday night than they have during any previous 15-minute span this season, as they averaged a point-a-minute including their scoring for the evening Harry Baugher scored on the kick-off, traveling unmolessted the last 50 yards to open the third quarter. A few minutes later Teddy Clesla, set up the third score by intercepting a UR aerial on the Spiders' 40. With Clesla and Socha carrying the ball, and Clesla passing once to Brown, the Generals moved to the UR eight where the offensive again was stopped by the Richmond line. Socha dropped back to the 15 where he booted a field goal to make up for three extra-point misses.

Later in the third quarter the Generals came thundering back for their final score when Harry Baugher returned a Richmond punt from the UR 35 to the 12 after Lillard Ailor had demoralized the Spiders by blocking an earlier kick.

Ed Marx picked up three yards to the UR nine and then Socha bulled through the Spider line nine yards for the final score.

Saturday night's victory was the Generals' first in 364 days. After the Generals beat Richmond last year, 3-0, they lost to VPI, West Virginia, Virginia and Sewanee, and then tied Maryland in 1940. This season they lost to Sewanee and Kentucky and tied George Washington before defeating the Spiders again.

W&L Tied With W&M in State; Stay in Top Third of Conference

Washington and Lee's Generals are tied with Virginia and William and Mary for Big Six honors as a result of their convincing 21-0 victory over Richmond Saturday night.

Saturday the Generals meet Virginia Tech, defeated by W&M, 16-7, in their only Big Six start, in one of the two Old Dominion clashes of the week. The other game finds VMI and Richmond meeting in the State Capitol.

Virginia is idle this week-end and the Indians face George Washington in a night game at Norfolk.

The Standings:
Team	W L Pts. Pts.
Virginia	2 0 71 7
W&L	1 0 21 7
W&M	1 0 16 7
VPI	0 1 7 16
VMI	0 1 7 27
Richmond	0 2 0 65

Washington and Lee's Generals took a place among the top five teams in the still-young Southern Conference race when they drubbed Richmond's Spiders Saturday night.

That victory and the previous week's scoreless deadlock with George Washington leaves the Generals as one of seven teams who have yet to dip their colors to a Conference foe. Three schools—Clemson, Duke and William and Mary—stand alone in the undefeated, untied class as far as the 16-team league race goes.

Wake Forest nipped North Carolina State, 7-0, Citadel and Furman battled to a 13-13 draw and VPI topped Davidson in Saturday's other Conference games.

Standing of the teams:

Clemson	2 0 0
Duke	2 0 0
William and Mary	1 0 0

Delts Defeat PiKAs By One First Down After Tied Score

A single first down pushed over in the closing minutes of the last period enabled the Delts to gain a hard fought decision from the PiKAs yesterday afternoon. First downs favored the Delts 3-2. The score was tied 2-2.

The Delts scored first in the second period when Lester Dillard's kick was returned from the 20 to the 10 by Bob O'Leary, Delt back. On the next play O'Leary's pass was intercepted behind the goal line by Bob Howard who returned it to the one. The Delt line then broke through to smear Howard before he could get a pass off.

A few minutes later found the PiKAs deep in Delt territory. A long pass from Howard to John Preston was intercepted by Charlie Lewis behind the goal for the other safety.

Lewis and O'Leary were the outstanding performers for the winners. Dillard and Bob Walker played a good game for the losers.

Brig Game With Virginia To Decide Big Six Chances

With an enviable record of two wins and a tie behind them, Washington and Lee's undefeated freshmen gridders will make their final bid for top Old Dominion football honors Friday afternoon when they play host to Virginia's yearling outfit on Wilson Field.

Cach Hennemier's men are at present just a shade behind W&M's Fabulous Frosh in the current State title race. The Paposes have registered three victories against no setbacks in State competition thus far to hold an edge over W&L's brace of wins and a tie. These two leaders are not scheduled to clash in what would undoubtedly determine this year's champion, but Friday's tilt with the Wahooslets will definitely settle W&L's chances for the State crown.

The Virginia, VMI, and VPI frosh have all tasted tie or defeat in Old Dominion play this season, with the Techlets accounting for the 6-6 deadlock on the Brigs' record two weeks ago, W & M trouncing the VMI yearlings, 25-7, and VPI handing the Little Cavaliers a 17-0 licking in Charlottesville Friday.

With no more State engagements after meeting Virginia Friday, the Brigadiers' lone hope of capturing the 1941 State title hinges on W&M suffering a tie or loss in one of its final games. That's taking for granted, of course, that we emerge victorious Friday.

Although pre-game dope would tend to set up the Little Blue as definite favorites over Virginia by virtue of VPI's easy conquest of the Wahooslets after W&L had tied the Techmen the week previous, Friday's test promises to be an unpredictable battle in which anything can happen. The UVa. frosh will be out for revenge of beatings received from the Baby Generals in the last two years.

Both forward walls of the two squads shape up pretty evenly, with Coach Hennemier's line averaging 174-pounds to hold a slight three-pound edge over their opposition. Fine backs are to be found on each team, both combining speed and power in their attacks.

The Virginias frosh boast ball carriers Leo Falk and Weir Sargent, whose punting featured the VPI game, and other backs Jim Fray, George Grimes, and George Neff. Ends John Varner and Don Warner will bear watching, while Charles Pillion and Henry Stewart fill in the tackle slots. The center of the forward wall finds Robert Hurt and Frank Myers at guard, with Jim Harry, 160-pounder, taking over center post.

Coach Hennemier will probably start the same lineup that has proved so successful in the initial three games.

Sam DiBlasi, dropkicking artist "who never misses," and Russ Malmquist hold backfield blocking duties with Jack Tucek and Harry Harner handling the pigskin. It was Tucek's last-minute pass interception touchdown that insured victory over Richmond, while Harner's desperate aerial to Pinky Norman that netted a 70-yard score gave the Blue a tie with VPI.

Wingmen Pinky Norman and Joe Recchie, tackles Harry Kelly and Jack Coulter, guards Bill Otter and Bob Crockett, and center Dyke Norman form a fast-charging line that has had only 13 points scored through it in three games.

The Brigadiers wind up the current campaign by meeting Maryland at College Park, November 15.

40-41 Trackmen Continue to Run, Win Over Texans

Washington and Lee's 1940-41 relay and cross-country teams may be gone from this campus but they are not forgotten—neither are they out of action. Last Saturday at Goodfellow Field, San Angelo, Texas, former track and cross-country captains, Bill and George Murray, W&L mile Record-Holder Cliff Muller, and speedy Jimmy McConnell, all of the class of '41, composed the entire 440 yard relay team, which took first place for the basic flying school over a visiting aggregation from Curtis Field, Braby, Texas, by the score of 70-51.

The 440-yard relay was the longest event run; the time was 47 minutes and 5 seconds. In the underclassmen's run Bill Murray was nosed out for second place in the 100-yard dash.

Last year the team's chances for Big Six and Southern Conference laurels were muffed, partially due to the illness of George Murray and because Muller had one of his "off days" at the SC meet. W&L was beaten 4-2 by Maryland in the Big Six meet, and placed ninth out of 13 schools in the SC meet.

The four former Generals, together with six other alumni, are taking ten weeks' instruction at Goodfellow Field, a secondary training center, before going on to a final ten weeks' advanced training and the wings of an aviation officer in the United States Air Corps Reserve.

Forensic Union Plans Changes In Entire Debate Organization

A motion to amend the constitution to the effect that subjects for debate be decided upon a semester in advance was tabled by the Forensic Union at its meeting last night in the literary society room of the Student Union.

The amendment, suggested by Professor George S. Jackson, Union adviser, and made by Jerry Biddison, would in effect change the entire debate setup of the Union. It was tabled so that the Union and the executive committee of the group could study its implications and decide on the greater matter of a complete change of the debate setup.

Biddison, in making the motion to amend, pointed out that the amendment would allow sufficient time for the Union to invite faculty members to attend meetings and take part in the debate. As the setup stands now, he said, the Union can give faculty members only a week's notice, which is insufficient in most cases.

Robert S. Irons, in proposing an amendment to the amendment that would reduce the time to six weeks instead of a semester, pointed out that six weeks would allow sufficient time to invite faculty members and would also guard against the fact that the subject chosen may become out of date. Mr. Jackson said that efficiency in Union work was his reason for suggesting the change.

Votes Against Defense Strikes

A vote of 33 to 23 registered the Union's favor of the Federalists in supporting the motion, "Resolved, that the government should outlaw all strikes in defense industry." The affirmative side, led by Robert Frazier, pointed out that at least one half of the strikes are jurisdictional arguments and not for better working conditions.

Frazier said that strikes in times like these "might even be termed un-American." He added that the only way to get the defense job done is to outlaw strikes.

H. E. Young, leading the Whigs in the negative of the debate, claimed that the present facilities of stopping strikes are sufficient. He said that hours lost in industry through striking dropped 40 percent in the first month after the National Labor Mediation Board was created and that the percentage of jurisdictional strikes has been dropping since the beginning of the emergency.

Young pointed out that the cost of living is gradually rising, and he said that the laborer must have the facilities to get increases in wages to equalize this rise.

Emphasizing the unconstitutionality of the measure, Robert Irons, Thomas Kaylor, Linwood Holton, and Ken Shirik spoke against the resolution.

Support of the move was given by James Harman, Haller Jackson, Robert O'Leary, Raymond Prater, F. W. Lowry, Charles Rowe, and Paul Shamhart.

The Federalists, after winning the debate, chose "Resolved, that the neutrality act should be repealed" as the topic for next week's discussion. Barry Wright offered to lead the affirmative, while Philip Page was chosen to lead the negative side of the resolution.

Other resolutions that were proposed for debate but lost were "Resolved, that college athletics are being commercialized," "Resolved, that the government should declare war on Germany," "Resolved that ice cream is the best desert," and "Resolved, that the government should subsidize radio."

Jack Gonzales and H. E. Young were named by Speaker Clancy Johnson to serve as members of the executive committee at-large. In addition Johnson named Gonzales to head a nominating committee composed of Frazier and Shirik to fill the vacant post of Assistant Speaker of the Union. The vacancy was caused by the failure of William Murchison to return to school. All the other offices of the group are now filled with active members of the group.

Students Can Finish Year Under Proposed Draft Bill

Here is good news for all men expecting a call from Uncle Sam. Although college students today are deferred only if the training they are now receiving is essential to national defense, there is a ray of hope for liberal arts students.

The Langer Bill, now pending before Congress, would defer all students until the end of the academic year, thus giving at least temporary reprieve to the 85 percent of the seniors and 45 percent of the juniors who are eligible for the draft.

This bill would enact into law President Roosevelt's plea that all men enrolled in college be allowed to finish their education so that the country might have "men and women of broad understanding and special aptitudes to serve as leaders of the generation which must manage the post-war world." Draft boards have repeatedly violated this plea by sending out "report for induction" slips to college students.

Generalizing

(Continued from Page Three) did another darn good backfield job as Lexington High murred Lee High of Staunton here last Friday... Shroyer's beat-up fedora, now in its seventh year of service, is the first sign of cool weather. That hat is an infallible weather indicator, so be ready to wear a coat to the Tech game this weekend... W&L students who talked to George "Bad News" Cafego between the halves at the pro game in Roanoke Sunday, say that the former Tennessee All-American is one fine guy, and not a bit cocky like a great many of them are likely to be... That contraption which "Dusty" Millar wears on his neck, which he wrecked in 150-pound ball, is the wierdest thing yet... Congrats to the whole team for a swell job on Richmond....

Dr. William Lloyd Evans To Address Joint Session Of Local Chem. Groups

Dr. William Lloyd Evans, professor of chemistry at Ohio State University and President of the American Chemical Society, will address the Chi Gamma Theta chapter of Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society in joint session with the VMI chapter. The meeting will be held in Washington Chapel at 8 p.m., Friday, October 31.

Dr. Evans, an international authority on sugar chemistry, will speak on certain phases of the chemistry of sugars.

This will be the third time in recent years that Chi Gamma Theta has brought a president of the American Chemical Society to the campus, the others being Dr. Frank Whitmore and Dr. Samuel Lind, a W&L alumnus.

On Saturday, November 1 at 8 p.m. in Washington Chapel, Dr. Evans will address the Virginia Blue Ridge section of the American Chemical Society, which meets in Lexington on that day. His subject will be "Behavior of Simple Sugars in Alkaline Solutions." The meeting will follow a dinner at the Dutch Inn given by the Section in honor of Dr. Evans.

Collegian to Feature More Illustrations, New Cover Design

"A new and better" Southern Collegian was promised today by editor Tommy Fuller. The magazine, which is issued four times a year, just before every dance set, is contributed to entirely by students.

Highlights of the next issue will be a feature article on Mexico by Editor Fuller, a story on W&L men in the Air Corps by Lew Rehr, and short stories by Bob Shellenberg, Harrison Kinney and Wally Clayton.

Fuller said that an entirely new cover design had been planned, and that many more pictures and cartoons would be in evidence. Charlie Bartenstein, who was on last year's Collegian staff, and is now a staff artist with the Washington Star, will draw another one of his "Bartenstein Girls" which proved so popular in the last Finals issue.

Another innovation by Fuller is the appointment of Jack Peacock as Photographic Editor, and future issues of the magazine will devote more space to pictures of college life.

Illustrations of some sort will decorate every page, thus breaking up the monotony of the make-up in other years.

Poetry by Fuller and many freshman contributors will take its place in the magazine, rounding out the fiction, the articles and the picture which go to make up the Washington and Lee Southern Collegian.

Mary Baldwin Entertains W&L Freshmen Again

The second in the series of dances given by Mary Baldwin College for members of the Freshman Council was held this evening at the Staunton school.

Approximately 40 members of the Council attended the informal affair.

The dances are given annually and constitute the first social events on the council's calendar.

The first of a series of meetings for students who are planning to enter the ministry will be held next Friday evening at 9:30. Seymour Smith, director of the council stated that the purpose of the meetings is to give students who are considering this work an opportunity to discuss subjects of mutual interest together.

Lynchburg

In commenting on the decision of the Executive Committee to deny the petition and thereby cancel the parade, Dean Frank J. Gilliam pointed out that the custom of short classes and the parade was started only two years ago, and at that time it was done in an effort to contribute to the dedication program of the then new Municipal Field. "Last year the game was considered to be one of our three home games, and for that reason the Executive Committee felt it should make special concessions in the matter of class cuts," the Dean added.

"However, this year the game is being sponsored by VPI, and the committee feels that the benefits derived from the parade would in no way compensate for the loss of time from classes."

Student reaction varied.

Bud Bell, head cheerleader: "We want a hundred percent turnout for the rally Friday night and for the game Saturday afternoon. We naturally regret that the parade had to be called off, but I hope that this will keep no one from going to Lynchburg. A survey of the fraternity houses seems to indicate that every available car will make the trip, so there should be little difficulty in obtaining a ride."

Dodo Baldwin: "Riley's boys showed that they have the goods last Saturday when they handed Richmond that 21-0 licking. With a little more student support at the rallies and games, they should be able to take their next two games hands down. ODK is expecting everyone out for the Friday meeting."

Christian Council Conducts Mountain Mission Services

Cal Bond addressed the congregation of the Clark Mountain Mission in the absence of the regular minister during church services last Sunday. The worship service was conducted by Holly Smith. Howard Brooks is the leader of the Sunday School class for boys.

The mission is situated near Buena Vista and is under the direction of the local Presbyterian Church.

The Christian Council will conduct these services, Seymour Smith, director, said today, until a new minister can be obtained.

Regal-Aire

But, Sir, when you said "Dress Right," I thought you meant my "Regal-Aire"

Stylish in the English tradition is "REGAL-AIRE." And everyone likes it because it is as fine and dependable a fabric as the brave men of Britain who weave it and bring it to America.

Blending and weaving secrets, centuries old, handed down from father to son, give "REGAL-AIRE" its sturdy character, its beautiful texture, and its rich colorings. ADVERTISED IN LIFE
