Students to Get Bonds, Stamps This Weekend

Program Will Continue During War Emergency

Bonds and stamps purchased by students and faculty members during the opening days of the defense bond enlistment will be distributed this weekend, the Faculty-Student Defense Bond Enlistment Committee announced today. The bonds and stamps will be distributed by the fraternity and non-fraternity committees which made the original sales.

The enlistment program will continue for the duration of the war, and the sales committees have been instructed to keep the program continually before the student body. Each student will be asked to save a definite amount regularly, and the committees will remind the student of the obligation.

"We would still like to get all members of the student body started on the project," Prof. A. R. Coleman of the Faculty-Student Committee said. "We are not trying for amounts; we want to get the men saving regularly," he added.

In placing the orders with the Post Office, the committee found that the 25c albums are in such great demand that it was impossible to get enough for all the students. Fifty cent albums were used for the stamps bought totaling more than 25c.

Mr. Coleman pointed out that there is no restriction on the use of the albums, as they are merely a "convenient place to put your stamps." The 50c albums can be used for 25c stamps, he added.

'Skippy' Henderson to Visit W&L To Interview Marine Applicants

John S. (Skippy) Henderson, 2nd. Lieutenant United States Marine Corps, will visit W&L's campus from February 7 to 11 for the purpose of giving information, interviewing applicants, and accepting applications for training through the Candidates Class which will lead to a commission as a second lieutenant in the United State Marine Corps Reserve.

Lieutenant Henderson, former captain of the W&L lacrosse team and a member of the All-Dixie team, graduated last June and has served with the Marine Corps since that time.

It is desired that students enlisted as juniors and sophomores remain on an inactive status and continue in college until they complete their college courses and receive their degrees. However, the exigencies of the service may necessitate their being called to active duty before graduation. In that event, at least six months notice will be given.

The general qualifications of applicants are as follows:

1. Be a male citizen of the United States and unmarried.
2. Belong to no other military organization.
3. Pass the physical examination required for appointment to commissioned rank in the regular Marine Corps.

329 Tentatively Sign For Summer Term; 70 Courses Planned

With 329 students indicating their desire to attend the Washington and Lee summer session, Dean Robert H. Tucker announced today that the "response to the acceleration program and the 1942 summer courses has been very encouraging."

According to the survey at the University assembly Tuesday, 188 of the 329 students signing up for the summer session are from Liberal Arts School, 117 students are in the School of Commerce and 24 students are in the School of Law. Figures for the Law School are incomplete and include 6 or 8 students who plan to take the A.B. or B.S. degree in combination with first year law, Dean Tucker said.

Totals for individual classes show that 122 freshmen, 110 sophomores and 73 juniors planned to attend the summer session in the liberal arts and commerce schools.

A tentative list of 70 academic and commerce courses for the 1942 summer session has been prepared by the Committee on Courses and Degrees. Interested students may secure mimeographed copies of the list by inquiring at the Dean's Office.

The list will be revised and extended to meet such additional needs as may develop and published later in a special summer session bulletin, Dr. Tucker said.

Calyx to be Issued in May

The Calyx will be published one month earlier this year, Cal Bond, editor, said today, in order that it may be ready for distribution in case of a shortened second semester.

Co-eds for Summer Session Receive Trustee Approval

W&L Goes on War Time

Washington and Lee University will go on Eastern Daylight Saving Time Monday morning in compliance with the daylight saving law passed by Congress last month. All classes will be held at the same hour and school will start at 8:25 a.m., EDST.

Lefkowitz Will Lead First Vesper Service Of Semester Sunday

Sidney M. Lefkowitz, assistant rabbi of the Congregation Beth Ahabah, Richmond, will conduct a student vesper service in Lee Chapel, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

A speaker at the University Religious Conference here last spring, Rabbi Lefkowitz will speak on "What Can One Man Do?" at the initial service of the second semester.

Stan Carmichael will read the scripture lesson as part of the service, according to plans announced today. The Chapel Choir, led by Jack McCormick will provide the music, with Bill Noll singing the solo parts.

The vested choir will be seated behind the pulpit. "O, God, Our Help in Ages Past" and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" will be sung by the congregation as part of the service program.

Neal Myers and Larry Sullivan, as co-chairmen of the University Vesper Committee, are in charge of the program. The series of services are under the supervision of the Christian Council.

In addition to his post in Richmond, Rabbi Lefkowitz has worked for the Boy Scouts, the China Relief Fund, and the Richmond Rotary Club.

VMI Alumnus Receives 1941 Lee Editorial Award

Carleton A. Harkrader, editor of the Bristol, Va. Herald Courier, received the 1941 Lee Editorial Award for daily newspapers at the Virginia Press Association meeting January 23 in Richmond. His editorial, "Tomorrow's Trigger Men," was the basis of the award.

Given annually for distinguished service in the newspaper field, the award, a certificate printed by the Journalism Laboratory Press is presented by the VPA and the Lee Memorial Journalism Foundation at W&L. Harkrader is a VMI graduate and is now serving in the War Department at Washington.

PiKA Names Wolfe

Naming Al Wolfe, senior academic student from Waban, Mass., the new house president, Pi Kappa Alpha also elected two other officers at its semester house voting last week.

Paul Gourdon, law student from Floral Park, N. Y., was selected vice-president, and Waller Dudley, junior from Alexandria, Va., was chosen secretary.

Beta Gamma Sigma Initiates Six Seniors

Six seniors, composing the upper tenth of the B.S. in Commerce classes, were initiated into Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity, at ceremonies held Tuesday night at the Student Union.

The new initiates are Tom Fleming, Pi Kappa Alpha from Yorktown, president of the Commerce Club; G. E. Kearns, Sigma Chi from Lewistown, Pa.; G. E. McKay, Pi Phi, Battle Creek, Mich.; Tom Clark, Atlanta, Ga., secretary of the student body.

M. T. Simon, Zeta Beta Tau, Natchez, Miss.; and E. O. Alevizatos, Baltimore. Kearns, Fleming and Simon have completed their work for degrees.

Dean Glover D. Hancock of the Commerce School is president of the local chapter.

Journalism Lab to Install Press Teletype Machines

News services of both the Associated Press and the United Press will be received by teletype machines installed in the journalism library this semester, a department spokesman announced today.

United Press service will be received from February 9 to April 18, and Associated Press service from March 9 to May 16. These tentative dates may be changed because of the shortened semester.

The United Press machine, which will be in service next Monday, was rented through the gift of an anonymous alumnus.

Record Concert to Feature 'Iolanthe' Music, Dialogue

Gilber and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" will be given instead of the program music originally scheduled for Monday evening's Hour of Recorded Music, Dr. John A. Graham, director of the programs, announced.

A copy or a half-interest in a copy of the words will be necessary for admittance to the concert, scheduled for 7:45 p.m. in the Music Room of McCormick Library and the program will be open to the public. About six copies are on sale in the Library at 30c each.

Music for the performance will be played from the recordings of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Co., and the intervening dialogue will be read by a cast including Prof. and Mrs. Almond Coleman, Major Dillard, Mrs. George S. Jackson, and Prof. and Mrs. Ollinger Crenshaw.

VMI Dance Feb. 20, 21

Music for the annual VMI mid-winter dance set, to be held Friday and Saturday, February 20 and 21, will be furnished by the VMI Commanders.

Observing the usual custom, only W&L seniors and law students will be admitted to the two evening dances.

Resolution Bars Girl Freshmen From Entering

In a special meeting today the Board of Trustees put its official stamp of approval on a faculty resolution recommending co-education for the 1942 summer program of Washington and Lee.

Bringing to an end a 195-year period of all-male student attendance at the University, the Trustees explained their precedent-breaking as being necessary "in light of the existing emergency."

The proposal had previously been examined and approved by the faculty, and during classes this morning a straw vote was taken to determine the attitude of the students now enrolled toward co-education. Several of the classes in all schools were polled, but the vote was not a deciding factor.

The resolution reads: "In the light of the existing emergency, the resolution submitted by the faculty recommending the admittance of women to the summer session of 1942 be, and the same is, hereby approved."

President Gaines pointed out that this resolution establishes "by no means a permanent policy." Women will be admitted to the summer session if they have previously attended college for at least one year. The total number accepted may be limited at the discretion of the administration, and all applications will be as thoroughly checked as are the applications of all students enrolling for a regular term.

The Board further approved the recently announced plan for acceleration of the second semester and the opening of a summer session, and announced that the University would go on War Time on February 9.

No definite plans have been worked out yet for the method of handling of women students during the summer term, but it is expected that arrangements for enrollment, housing and boarding will be worked out by the University administration and released at the earliest possible date.

Several times before in the history of W&L the proposal for co-education has come before the Trustees—once it was introduced as a permanent measure—but on these previous occasions it was not thought that conditions justified such a step. During the last war in 1917-1918 co-education was not considered.

Tolley Named Instructor At Air Navigation School

Appointment as instructor in the Navigation school of the U. S. Army Air Corps is the latest honor to be conferred upon B. C. Tolley, Jr., former W&L student, according to an army bulletin.

Tolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Tolley of Lexington, will assume his duties at Mather Field, Sacramento, Cal., where he also recently received his commission as 2nd lieutenant.

Fit to Fight?

We're getting ready to fight a war.

Most of us, convinced that we should go ahead with our preparations for future usefulness, have elected to try to stay in college until our work here is done, but have not lost sight of the fact that we shall have duties to perform in connection with America's conduct of the war.

We are getting ready to take our places in the battle machine which America is gearing for her drive to victory. Many of us have already selected the branch of service of which we will become a part as soon as we leave the campus, and are getting ready for the performance of wartime duties at the same time that we go about the business of preparing for future work as business executives, lawyers, newspapermen, educators and what not. Others have yet to set their course for the duration of the emergency, but are coming to realize that they would be wise to begin preparing themselves for a definite phase of the service.

The boys who have an idea of what is ahead have been making alterations in their academic programs to take advantage of the University's offerings in pre-service training. Those who are headed for the Army are spending some of their afternoons in the study of military fundamentals, or are taking courses in military geology, military photography and other subjects designed to help train men for specialized wartime work. Those who have enlisted in the Navy's officer training classes have adjusted their college schedules so as to include trigonometry and Naval History. Many of those who plan to enter one of the flying services have made arrangements to receive some instruction before beginning their Air Corps careers.

All of which is well and good. The boys who are making preparations for their days in the armed services ought to be able to move ahead more rapidly or more easily than will those who make no effort to prepare themselves.

But there's one angle which is being neglected.

It is one of the most important requirements for success in any branch of the service: physical fitness.

What kind of shape are you in?

Can you do eight pull-ups? Can you run a quarter mile in 65 seconds? Can you swim a hundred yards in 75 seconds? Can you do 10 sit-ups without breaking in half?

The University of Virginia recently inaugurated a voluntary physical training program for service-bound students, the like of which might well be adopted on this campus.

The program does not call for classes or group calisthenics. It works on an individual basis, and it's something which each boy decides whether or not he wants.

It works along these lines: The Athletic Department, after consulting Army and Navy officials, prepared a series of tests designed to measure a man's strength, stamina and endurance. A student can take the tests at any one of several times during the week to see how he stands in relation to Army and Navy requirements. If he falls down on any parts of the test, he can take advantage of a training program offered for the benefit of those who fail to meet the test's requirements. The training is designed to meet individual shortcomings.

Such a program would enable a boy to determine just how he stacks up physically. A lot of us go through four years of college without paying much attention to the maintenance of our physical machinery. Muscles get rusty, and endurance becomes a thing of the past.

Physical examinations such as are given by the Army and Navy upon enlistment or induction do not determine what "shape" a man is in. They uncover organic defects, but do not test the condition of a man's "wind" and his muscles.

But "wind" and muscles are of vital importance to success in every branch of the service. A recent Navy Department release had the following to say on the subject:

"While medical examinations given to recruits prior to enlistment are designed to discover organic defects which are likely to militate against a man's reaching his 'peak of physical fitness,' the examinations, per se, do not reveal the actual strength of the man. Of two men whose medical reports are equally identical in every respect, so far as the negative physical findings are concerned, one man might be five times stronger than the other according to objective tests of physical strength. A man's actual strength cannot be inferred from his physical examination nor can the relative strength of recruits be determined so that all recruits may be classified according to their demonstrated strength. While a knowledge of a man's physical condition is indispensable, it is equally important to know how much physical stamina a man has... the demonstrated muscular strength and endurance of each recruit—a sine qua non for Naval Military success."

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps all find it necessary to put new men through long periods of physical conditioning before the recruits can measure up to service standards. Pre-service physical preparation would help speed up the training of our fighting forces, and would make the first weeks of service a lot easier on recruits. The fellow who is "in shape" when he begins his period of service will find his new life a lot happier than the one who is not in condition and who has to extend himself to the limit to meet minimum tests of physical performance.

No man, regardless of the branch of the service for which he may be headed, can afford to neglect physical fitness. We do not propose the introduction of a compulsory program of physical training, but we do suggest that the University consider the merits of a plan by which the Athletic Department, through standardized tests and supervised training, can offer assistance to the boys who are getting ready to serve their country.

By RAY WHITAKER

Scoop: Joan, the sweater girl of El Patio fame, will resign her duties at the well-known Main Street establishment on March 1 to assume a somewhat similar position at the State Drug Store. The question naturally follows as to whether her talents which sold beer so well at the El Patio will prove as successful in peddling ice-cream at the State. Offhand, though, she appears to be competent enough to sell ice-cream...

Pete Day is a puzzling young man. Most any day you can see him at McCrums in the vicinity of the cashier. The cashier has a dog named Raffles which Pete fondles occasionally. What baffles the Lexington cafe society is whether Pete seeks a date with the cashier. Raffles, or whether he just hangs around there to read the magazines free...

The disreputable set on the campus had a sorry Fancy Dress. The crowd received a bad blow, especially Shabby Davidson, with the departure of Lou Shroyer. Seedy Cal Bond was down to short strokes as he presided over an un-spiked punch bowl at the Delt lodge. To top it off, Rods Clayton comes up with a date—a cute one even. This was too much for the Phi Kaps' Ignico. He shaved and left town...

Wolf Martin was awfully chummy with Marshall Steves during Fancy Dress. Nothing is too good for Marshall's Buick Convertible personality thought Wolf, so he introduced Stag Steves to his girl and literally begged Marshall to have a good time with the babe. And that's what Marshall did.

Sunday afternoon rolled around and Wolf's date had to get back to Macon. The always gallant Steves kindly offered to drive them over. Wolf, as expected, accepted without much ado.

Reaching Lynchburg and Macon, Wolf ruefully thought of spending just a few precious more hours with his o-so-swell date. But the worst was yet to come.

"Would you like for me to get you a date, Wolf?" the girl asked. "No, you'll do," said Wolf.

"But I have a date with Marshall," she pointed out.

So Wolf spent Sunday night drinking beer in the White House and mumbling about how women were fundamentally bad and how much bigger Steves was.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Films...

In case you are interested, Don Ameche is at the State tomorrow in "Confirm or Deny." As he is definitely on the black-ball list we can't give this one a very good recommendation because he is the show or rather tries to be. It's too bad Joan Bennett has a place opposite the heel because she deserves a much higher place.

It's the melodramatic type with a war background in London. The bombardment scene is the most realistic we've seen in some time, but even this and all the other action put together can't have our stamp of approval...

Rating: 1 out of 4 stars.

Speaking of the "Corsican Brothers" at the State Monday-Wednesday—it's at the top of the list for an action thriller on an extravagant scale as are most of Ed Small's vendettas of the past. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the star or should we say stars—as he plays a dual role which is nothing new for trick photography but always supplies an interesting effect. Lovely Ruth Warrick (Citizen Kane) plays the Countess Isabelle whom both brothers fall in love with. From all reports of those who have seen it, the "Corsican Brothers" is something you will want to take time out for. Worth mentioning are the excellent jobs of acting turned in by Akim Tamiroff and H. B. Karner...

Rating: 3 stars.

Mermen Face SC Competition With Potent Carolina Team

Coach Cy Twombly's inexperienced varsity swimmers meet the first of six consecutive Southern Conference opponents tomorrow afternoon when they match strokes with a powerful North Carolina State tank team in the local pool. The meet is scheduled for 4 o'clock.

With only five lettermen back for action this season, Coach Twombly has been faced with a shortage of speedy freestyle material, but through tough daily practice sessions he has produced a potentially-strong aggregation of mermen of mostly sophomores who will face their initial test of the current campaign tomorrow afternoon.

In swimming against the Wolf-pack, the General strokers will be seeking vengeance for a 25-50 setback at the hands of the Carolinians in Raleigh last spring. At that time, W&L's flashy sophomore medley relay trio of Bill Webster, Lyn Murdock and Don Garretson splashed to a new conference record.

Captain Evans Jasper's forced withdrawal from regular practices because of excessive afternoon labs has dampened the squad's hopes, but Coach Twombly's star distance swimmer is expected to compete in tomorrow's meet in the final freestyle relay.

In the dashes, Twombly will probably swim Garretson and Webster, two of the five lettermen, and Bill Babcock, last year's outstanding frosh sprinter. Sophomores Bill McKelway and Lynch Christian will take over duties on the 220-yard freestyle, while Jim Priest 1941 letterman and Marion Scott are expected to swim the 440 grind.

Murdock and Soph Bob Mehorter are counted on for stellar performances in the 200-yard breast-stroke event, while Webster, Twombly's chief hope for conference honors this year, and McKelway will be strong contenders in the 150 backstroke.

With Soph Frank Goodpasture the lone diver on the squad, this stands as the Generals' weakest point, even though Goodpasture has shown much improvement and is counted on for many points.

After tomorrow, the Blue nators meet five other conference tank squads in rapid succession. They hit the road for meets with William and Mary Wednesday and VPI next Saturday, return to take on Duke's array of stars February 17, travel to Chapel Hill to meet North Carolina the 20th, and get back for their final dual match with South Carolina here, February 23, before the conference meet, March 5 and 6 in the VMI pool.

Three Quintets Gain I-M Wins

Playing opening round I-M basketball games, the Kappa Sigs, Betas, and SAEs defeated Lambda Chi, DU, and Pi Phi respectively last night. All of the victories were by very wide margins with none less than 25 points difference.

The Betas defeated the DUs 44-16 sparked by the play of Jack Barrie who scored 16 points. He was followed closely by Stuart Faison with 14 points. LeRoy Stephens led DU, scoring six points. The victor's starting lineup consisted of John Barrie, Ed Boyd, Stuart Faison, Bob Schultz, and Bob Tyson.

Ab Rhea, scoring 12 points for SAE, led his team to a 38-13 victory over the Pi Phis. Jay Cook scored ten points for SAE, and John McCormick scored eight points. Colin Baxter, with six points, led the losing team's drive. SAE's starting team was Ab Rhea, Jay Cook, John McCormick, Bill Naylor, and Joe Bagley.

Lacking two stalwarts of last year's team, the Lambda Chis fell (See I-M BASKETBALL, Page 4)

Generals Seek Repeat Triumph Over Maryland

After defeating Maryland 51-42 and then dropping a 51-38 decision to Wake Forest, Washington and Lee's blue clad quint will travel to College Park tomorrow for a return game with Maryland.

Led by Leo Signaigo, Cunningham's men outplayed Travis, outstanding sophomore who starred at center, and the Maryland team Tuesday for their fourth victory in five Southern Conference starts.

In the Wake Forest game at Lynchburg Wednesday, the blue quint led by W&L's outstanding center, Leon Harris, held a 23-19 lead at the half. Apparently worn out by the Maryland game, the cagers collapsed in the second frame as the Deacons dropped in enough baskets to defeat the Generals 51-38.

Easily the two most outstanding players in the last few games have been forward Leo Signaigo and center Leon Harris. Harris has done a wonderful job of guarding from the center slot and has really been connecting with his hook shot. Signaigo, who is the team high scorer, dropped in 17 points against Maryland. Harris tallied for eight.

KAs, ZBTs, Phi Psis, Delts Score Victories In Ping-Pong Round

The Delts, ZBTs, Phi Psis, and KAs led the field into the second round as play got under way in the Intramural Ping Pong Tournament Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Displaying a well-balanced team, the Delts crushed the Phi Gams 5-0. All five Delt netmen were in such top form that they romped through the match with the loss of but one game, and thereby established themselves as formidable contenders for the championship won last year by the Betas.

W&L Wrestlers Seek Victory Over Tarheels

Face Northwestern Monday Evening

Coach Archie Mathis' varsity wrestlers face their big test of the 1942 season this weekend when they meet North Carolina, one of the Southern Conference stalwarts, tomorrow night in Doremus Gymnasium, and battle Northwestern's Big Ten representatives Monday night on the same mat.

Saturday night's bouts will start at 7:00 p.m. when the freshmen of UNC and W&L collide and the starting time Monday night will be 7:45 o'clock.

Two changes in the W&L line-up that defeated North Carolina State three weeks ago, are anticipated. Dave Embry, a sophomore who won all three of his dual meet bouts as a freshman last year and took an exhibition match at Apprentice School last month, will be in the line-up at 145 pounds and Bob Schellenberg, who wrestled at 175 pounds in the Apprentice match will compete in the 165-pound class in both week-end matches.

Embry will replace Co-Captain Charley Lanier, who quit the wrestling team because of the stress of class work, and Schellenberg will be inserted in place of Roger Soth.

The other W&L starters will remain the same. Mathis' "Little Three," Sam Graham, at 121-pounds, Bud Robb, in the 128-pound class, and Captain Tommy Fuller, in the 136-pound bracket, will defend conference honors undefeated in dual meet competition at W&L, having won a total of 42 successive matches. Robb, with two falls to date, is the team high scorer this season.

The other W&L starters in the Carolina and Northwestern bouts will be Doug House, unbeaten in two matches this year, who will defend W&L in the 155-pound class, Ed Waddington, a sophomore, who will compete in the 175-pound category where he won his first varsity match against NC State, and Lillard Ailor, the Generals' conference heavyweight champ, who will attempt to return to the victory column after a surprise setback in the State match.

Seven of the eight men who put up such a game fight before dropping a 16-14 decision to VMI last Saturday are expected to compete against the Blue. Only change in the Tar heels' line-up will be George Penick in the 128-pound class, according to information received from Chapel Hill. Northwestern's grapplers open (See WRESTLING, page 4)

Students who enlist for this training and who fail to successfully complete the required training or who otherwise fail to attain the commissioned rank will either be transferred to another class of the Marine Corps Reserve and continued on active duty as enlisted men, or be discharged. Approximately 75 percent successfully complete the training.

Men enlisted for training with the Candidates' Class are trained for general duties only. The Marine Corps is essentially a combat organization and there is no training offered by the Candidates' Class for Aviation, Quartermaster, Engineering, or other special branches. Marine Corps Aviation Cadets are trained by the Naval Reserve.

Notices as to specific time will be posted in the near future. Further information can be had at the Registrar's office from W. Magruder Drake.

Tomorrow night the Wildcats battle Navy at Annapolis, Md., and then complete their Eastern stay with the W&L bouts on Monday night. Coach Wes Brown's men have split even in a pair of matches this season. After blanking Bradley Tech, 30-0, in their opening match, the Wildcats were stopped by the University of Chicago, 22-10.

Six-man wrestling will be inaugurated at 7 o'clock Saturday night when W&L's yearlings meet the Carolina frosh in the preliminary matches. Because the Brigs have no 121 and 128 pound contestants, Carolina has agreed to wrestle only six weights, 136-pounds through heavyweight.

Wrestling for the frosh who lost to Petersburg, 16-14, will be Charley Stieff, 136-pounds; George Bird, 145; Roger Kimball, 155; Bob Crockett, 165; Holly Smith, 175; and Jack Burger, heavyweight. All but Kimball and Smith won against Petersburg.

found in the latest Dorsey release on Decca. "Not Mine" would be merely a pretty tune if not taken care of by Helen and Bob. They come through with one of their duets, however, that is typical of other successful Dorsey, Eberly, and O'Connell sides. The reverse is "Arthur Murray Taught Me Dancing in a Hurry," a novelty number sung by Helen alone which ought to completely establish this disc as a best seller.

Benny Goodman continues to turn out some of the best of the releases each week. The best of his recent ones are "Clarinet a La King," "Where or When," and "Somebody Nobody Loves." The first is strictly a show piece for BG's clarinet, and can therefore be dropped without further comment. "Where or When" features some beautiful Mel Powell piano and equally fine Peggy Lee singing that grows on you after each hearing of the record. "Somebody Nobody Loves" spots Benny and Miss Lee to good advantage while that potent rhythm section gives a tremendous beat.
