Net Star Plans To Make Home In Lexington

Visits City Between Stops On Current Pro Net Tour

Fred Perry, internationally-famous tennis player who in the spring will begin his second year as coach of W&L's varsity net team, has completed arrangements to make Lexington his permanent home, he said yesterday after a 24-hour visit during a "time-out" from his exhibition tour.

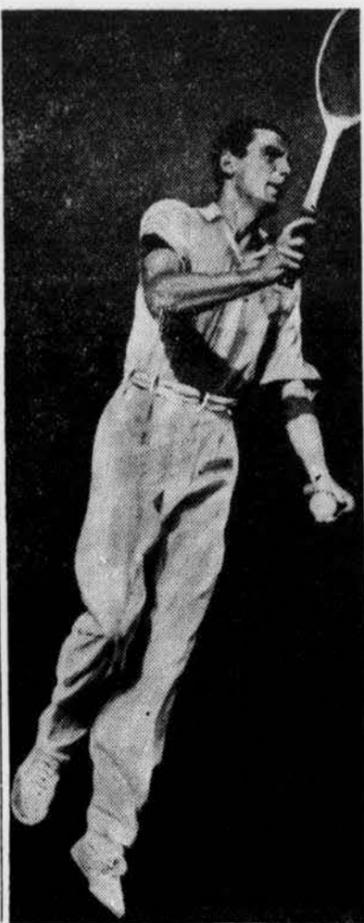

Renewing the vow that he would coach here until he has "a long grey beard," Perry said that he would return to Lexington as soon as he, Don Budge, Bobby Riggs and Frank Kovacs reach the end of their exhibition tour. No definite date has been set for the termination of the junket, which began in December, but the three-time world amateur champion said he probably would be free in time to resume coaching duties here before the start of the tennis season.

Commenting upon his plans to "settle down" in Lexington, Perry said that he and Mrs. Perry would spend more time here each year as the years go by.

"We shall probably divide our time between Lexington and Mexico City for the next year or so," he said, "but Lexington will be our home." The Perrys were in Mexico a year ago when he accepted the W&L coaching post, and returned this year prior to the organization of the exhibition company.

Perry purchased Virginia license tags for his car yesterday, and waxed enthusiastic when he talked of "settling down" here. "This jumping from one city to another and playing tennis every night is not for a man with a receding hair line," he mused.

The former British Davis Cup star, who last summer won the world professional title, gave no hint of giving up tennis. He said that he would continue to participate in tournaments and exhibitions, playing out of Lexington, and added that he wanted to get in a few rounds of golf "now and then."

Perry was disturbed when he learned that Jack Mallory, captain-elect of the varsity racquet team, and Bill Harrellson, number two man, would not be on hand for the 1942 squad. Mallory failed to return to school after the Christmas holidays, while Harrellson withdrew last week.

Perry drubbed Riggs last night, 6-3, 6-3, in their exhibition match in Roanoke.

Journalism Lab Gets UP Ticker On 20-hour Day

A United Press teletype installed last week in the Journalism Library began ticking early yesterday morning, bringing to W&L the full 20-hour radio wire service of that news agency.

The machine, a gift of an alumnus who prefers to remain anonymous, will be used primarily in copy editing practice by members of the copy reading and makeup class, but it is also available to non-journalism students, Mr. R. M. Hodges, journalism instructor, said.

While in former years the department has received only Associated Press reports, an AP teletype will supplant the UP ticker now in use late in March, Hodges added.

Besides its use by journalism students the ticker furnishes the campus with a source of up-to-the-minute news right off the wires. Especially during the critical Battle of Flanders in 1940, did students jam the Journalism Library, watching reports come in from the Washington AP office.

Several regulations regarding general usage of the machine have been posted. Students are asked not to attempt to read copy on the teletype during the 9:20 M-W-F block, at which time Journalism 202 meets, or during the class labs conducted four afternoons a week from two to four p.m.

Non-journalism students are also forbidden to lift the cover, tamper with the mechanism or switches, or to turn the ticker on or off. Any cases of jammed paper, twisted ribbon, or garbled messages should be reported to a member of the journalism staff, the poster adds.

Lefkowitz Contends 'Right Shall Prevail' In Vesper Address

Predicting that "the right shall conquer and the just prevail," Rabbi Sidney M. Lefkowitz asserted that America "has built her optimism on pacts and treaties instead of realities and the powers of God" in a talk at the first vesper service of the second semester in Lee Chapel Sunday afternoon.

In discussing his topic, "What Can One Man Do?" Lefkowitz, who is assistant rabbi of the Congregation Beth Ahabah, Richmond, said that "despite growing tendencies to the contrary," the individual still plays an important role in world history.

Many Biblical instances show the power of the individual in world events, and the present war will exert a tremendous force in making us realize that we are vitally effected by world conditions, he added.

The vesper, under the direction of Neal Myers and Larry Sullivan, was conducted by Seymour Smith, director of religious activities. Stan Carmichael read the scripture lesson for the service, and the Chapel Choir, led by Jack McCormick, rendered two musical selections.

To "recreate" the world and to turn defeat into victory, Lefkowitz believes we must feel that God is always with us.

'W&L Goes Sissy'

Washington and Lee's decision to admit co-eds to the special wartime summer session drew wide attention from Southern newspapers, with the Memphis Commercial Appeal presenting the story in the most novel fashion.

Over an Associated Press dispatch telling of the move the Commercial Appeal carried the following headline:

Darkness Still Prevails As 8:25 Classes Open Under New War-time

The first sign of spring broke over the W&L campus yesterday. It wasn't the song of the robins in the trees, it wasn't the first buds of wisteria or tulips, it wasn't the baby leaves on the trees—it wasn't anything so pleasant. In all its uncomfortable aspects, war time went into effect.

Designed to save needed electricity for the defense effort, the newly-baptized war time meant nothing more or less than an hour's loss of sleep.

Not only did students automatically give up a whole hour of rest, but occupants of the freshman dorm and most fraternity houses near the campus were awakened three times in the middle of the night by the doleful ringing of the bell atop Washington Chapel.

But pity the poor sophomore who, upon hearing the bell, jumped out of bed and rushed for his clothes, dreading the thought of being late again. And then there was that blase junior who set his clock back instead of up. But he had cuts.

He might well have emulated the example of the careful freshman without cuts who, undecided as to just which way the clock was supposed to go, set his time two hours ahead—"just to make sure." He got to his fraternity house in time to put the coffee on.

But complain about it as we may, in spite of its new name, in spite of the necessary condition which brings it about, daylight saving time is here to stay.

Civilian Pilot Training to Be Open To W&L Students In New Program

Under the Civilian Pilot Training Program, Washington and Lee students may begin to train immediately for service with the nation's air forces according to an announcement made today by Bob McDonald, student representative on the campus.

The flight course will be offered at the Roanoke airport, with classes meeting probably twice each week, and the entire period of training will be only three months long. College credit of three hours will be given by the University for successful completion of the course, which has received the sanction of the administration.

The net cost of the program to a student is approximately $10, exclusive of transportation between Lexington and Roanoke,

Cagers Meet Duke Quintet In SC Drive

Squad Faces Blue Devils In Tonight's Initial Battle Of Crucial 3-Game Series

Perched in fourth place after snatching a 30-28 triumph from Maryland Saturday night, Cookie Cunningham's cagers will begin a crucial week in their drive for Conference honors tonight when they take on the pace-setting Duke Blue Devils in Doremus Gymnasium.

The game, first of three important Conference tests on the Generals' list for this week, will follow a 7 o'clock preliminary between W&L's freshmen and Greenbriar Military Academy.

Winners of five of their seven Conference starts to date, Cunningham's passers will tackle a pair of tough, out-of-town assignments after tonight's game. They will invade Chapel Hill to meet North Carolina on Friday night, and the next day will move into Durham to stack up against Duke for the second time in five days.

A full house is expected to watch tonight's battle. Coached by Eddie Cameron, a W&L alumnus, the Duke passers have chalked up eight victories in as many Conference starts this season to set themselves up as top-heavy favorites to retain the crown which they won last year.

Veterans Clyde Allen, Hap Spuhler, Sam Rothbaum and Billy McCahan and Sophomores John (Bubber) Seward and Cedric Loftis lead the Blue Devil squad. Loftis averaged nearly 10 points a game in the Durham quintet's first dozen starts to pace his mates in the scoring column.

Tennessee, George Washington and Navy have been listed among the Duke victims during the past month, while an early-season setback at the hands of Temple is the only blot on the Devils' ledger.

Holding a 19-13 lead at the half the Generals held off a second half rally to defeat Maryland at College Park Saturday.

Harry Baugher was high point man for the Generals tallying for

Honor Roll Lists 74 Names; 153 Students Make 'B' Average

Seventy-four students made an honor roll standing at the end of the first semester this year, according to lists recently compiled by the University. The Honor Roll requires an A average.

The Dean's List, requiring a B average, contained 153 names both this time and at the end of the first term last year. This list contained 22 more freshmen this time than last, however.

The first semester's honor roll contains seven more students than it did at this time last year. Twenty-two freshmen had honor roll averages this time; however, at the first semester of last year only 12 new students were listed. Each time there were five of this group with an all A average.

The list contains a total of 19 students with all A averages. This total is one more than the number at this time last year, according to reports.

The upperclassmen making the honor roll all A's are:

W. H. Armstrong, C. W. Barritt, E. C. Burks, R. F. Campbell, Jr., J. W. Harman, Jr., E. E. Hunter, R. F. Johnson, R. S. Rosenfield, B. S. Stephenson, W. B. Van Gelder, W. S. Wilcox, T. C. Wilson, Jr., N. F. Wyatt, and E. A. Zelnicker, Jr.

Other upperclassmen making honor roll averages are R. F. Ast, A. C. Blocher, Jr., G. M. Brooke, Jr., W. R. Browder, R. E. Cooke, J. F. Ellis, Jr., D. R. Embry, S. M. Faison, T. O. Fleming, J. E. Foard, E. M. Fountain, D. E. Garretson, W. B. Guthries, S. L. Kopald, Jr., A. S. Lanier, D. C. Lewis, Jr., F. W. Lowry, E. P. Lyons, Jr., G. E. McKay, C. B. Myers, Jr., R. M. Nelson.

J. N. Peoples, C. L. Rast, Jr., C. L. Refo, P. G. Rembert, Richard Rockwell, J. N. Ryan, E. A. Samara, C. L. Sartor, H. H. Schewel, K. L. Shirk, Jr., J. A. Silverstein, M. T. Simon, N. C. Steenland, T. S. Sweeney, S. D. Tull, W. B. Van Buren, III, and H. M. Yonge.

'Generalizing'

The sports department having been deprived of the opportunity to offer editorial comment in its field for want of space, we have asked for the ball long enough to run a couple of plays.

All-out support is in order for "Cookie" Cunningham's basketballers, who tonight open an all-important two-week series of battles with Southern Conference foes. Six Conference tests face the Generals during the course of the next fortnight's play, and on their outcome hinges W&L's chance of landing a berth in the Raleigh tournament.

All six of the games will be tough ones, and four of them will be on out-of-town floors. Duke's league-leaders, top-heavy favorites to repeat their 1941 championship conquest, are in town to defend an unblemished Conference record against Cunningham's crew tonight. The Generals will hit the road for engagements with North Carolina and Duke at the end of the week, and next week will take on three more tough Conference teams—William and Mary, Furman and Richmond.

But Cunningham's gang has demonstrated that it can hold its own against formidable odds. Tabbed as a "weak sister" before the start of the Conference race, the blue-clad quintet currently stands in fourth place after winning five of its first seven league starts. The odds are still against 'em, but they've picked up a lot of supporters since the season's start.

And now a couple of paragraphs for a couple of W&L's sports world friends.

One is for Cawthon Bowen, who last week cleaned out his sports editor's desk at the Roanoke Times and headed for a job in Nashville. Bowen won a host of Washington and Lee friends during his four years in Roanoke. Fair-minded and accurate, he gave to W&L teams attention that others denied. "Bo" won a special measure of friendly feeling from the members of Ring-tum Phi staffs because of a constant willingness to be of help. The Ring-tum Phi called upon "Bo" for favors a number of times this year, and the response each time was heartening. Bowen's writings will be missed a good deal, but his friendship will be missed to a greater measure.

The other is for Fred Perry, a top-notch among tennis players and among men, who yesterday revealed the fact that he plans to make Lexington his home. His enthusiasm for his job as W&L's tennis coach has increased in the year that has elapsed since he first became acquainted with this campus, and those who visited with him and Mrs. Perry during their visit to Lexington this week have come into possession of an increased enthusiasm for the Perrys as people of the type that fit in perfectly with the Washington and Lee atmosphere.

"It is a paradox more puzzling than any other so far, that as long as the United States was really isolated with a minimum of international trade, no cables, no telephones, no radio, no steamships, no airplanes, every well-educated man was trained in the foreign languages. Now, with 20,000,000 daily radio listeners, with 10,000,000 more in daily contact with foreign languages, with all the modes of contact, just mentioned, schoolmen insist that foreign languages are not important. They are taught grudgingly, therefore poorly, and then it is declared that the results do not justify them. In a day of motivation' the educators provide none and say it is the fault of someone else. The cold fact, stripped of all wishful thinking, is that the 'common man' has more direct contact with foreign languages today than ever before in history. If education does not see that, it is a blind spot."—Henry M. Wriston, president of Brown University.

TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE

Campus Comment

By Ty Tyson and Shabby Davidson

Vital Defense Jobs: Lou Shroyer left several things behind him. The most outstanding things he left were memories. Memories of raucous nights at the Good Inn and Dock's Tea Room, to say nothing of Mike's and the Southern Inn. He left Esten Cooke—but then that's another story. In short, he left.

We may report now that he's doing his bit for Uncle Sam as an air corps mechanic, and favorable reports are coming in from the Philippines to the effect that our Air Corps is doing very well. Shroyer is stationed near New York.

And so, as our contribution to the defense effort, we're going to attempt to carry on the glorious work started by Yardbird Shroyer right here in this little community. We won't leave Esten Cooke.

Mouser Department: This column used to have a Donnie Scott department and Donnie was quite proud of that very fact. This doubtful honor is conferred only on a chosen few whose meritorious deeds really warrant exceptional notice—and Miss Scott really warranted exceptional notice. That is, until the Fiji's Grant Mouser came along and distinguished himself beyond recognition on the field of battle.

He has done what few other men can boast of. He has realized his one dream in this world that is much too full of books and 8:25's. He has made the Phi Gams proud of him. He has made us proud of him.

For business reasons we can't print the lurid details, but we can say that he has kissed W&L's newest sweetheart. "Build a better Mouser, and we'll beat a pathway to your door."

The Norfolk Napoleon: Amid all the pomp and ceremony that invariably surrounds the Fancy Dress Ball stood one voice that destroyed completely the respect due such an aspicious dignitary as Napoleon Bonaparte Spindle, runner-up to Cal Bond for the Title of "the Delt Dictator."

The voice was one of those sultry southern ones that we all know so well and came from the direction of the Sullins campus. A couple of Fancy Dress dodgers were roaming said campus when they were approached by wisp of a thing, who seemed thrilled that they were from W&L.

With honey dripping from the corners of her mouth she drawled, "Do you all know Dickie Spindle? He's just the cutest thing in all Norfolk and I'm just crazy about him. Why didn't he ask me to Fancy Dress?"

Okay, Napoleon. There's that Waterloo you've heard so much about!

Selected Short Subjects: Orchids to Pardee for still being fairly acceptable to his Fancy Pants date after a week's extended stay. Lieutenant John "Skippy" Henderson of the Marines very much in evidence over the weekend plus his very cute bride. The Marines certainly looks like our branch of the service... From the DU house came the report that Cliff Muller recently received his wings from the Air Corps and is ferrying P-39's to Hawaii. Last year at this time that would have been all right... Pete Day got his pin back very quietly... Frank Jarvis is the latest victim of Polly Morrissey, Sullins Late Date Queen. Johnny Goode says that he is going to be severely "Jap-ordized" in his work with the Marines. Why can't we ever say anything funny like this?... Adolph Hitler wants his name mentioned.

Borrowed Briefs . . .

"It has just been learned that a citizen was jugged for calling the Japanese Emperor a moron. He was booked on two charges: one, slander; two, revealing government secrets."—Rider News, Trenton, N. J.

On the front page of a Washington paper soon after the Pearl Harbor attack the following headline appeared: Hitler Declares War on U. S. and down at the bottom in small type, Me Too—Mussolini.—The Virginia Tech. VPI.

R.S.V.P.

Question: "What do you think of the proposal for a voluntary program whereby service-bound students could determine how they measure up to Army, Navy and Air Corps physical fitness requirements with a view to 'getting in shape' before starting their periods of service?"

Answers:

Hal Keller (U. S. Marine Corps, P.L.C.):

In view of the fact that the University has adopted a speed-up program to mentally prepare its students for war, why shouldn't we, as students, adopt a voluntary physical development program, and make it an all out effort?

As a member of the Marine Corps Reserve, I can truthfully say that physical fitness plays a large part in military preparedness. You might sit back and figure that the government will fit you for military service after you have been called to active duty. That's quite true, but the government doesn't do things by halves. They literally whip you into shape and it's a mighty painful process. What you and I call good physical shape, and what the armed forces of this country call good shape, are two different things.

Lt. "Skippy" Henderson (U. S. Marine Recruiting Officer):

"As far as getting in shape for the physical exams before entering the active service, such a program would be a good thing. However, no one need worry about getting in shape after they have entered, for that will take care of itself."

Doug McCammish (V-5, USNR):

"Any man who is interested in giving his best to his country should be anxious to get in good physical condition. The requirements of college life, with long hours of studying, cause us all to become soft. If there is one thing we all need, it is a good toughening up program."

Bill Brown (undecided as to service):

"This voluntary training idea seems to be a very good proposal because good physical fitness is a prime necessity from reports that come out of camps. I expect to be drafted and so I'm in favor of this preliminary training set-up."

Adrian Bendheim (V-5, USNR):

"I think a physical fitness program at W&L would prove most advantageous to all of us. Although we are presumably able to meet the general requirements as far as mental ability goes, there is no assurance of passing the physical fitness exam given upon entrance into any branch of the service. Some effort should be made to help us out along this line, so that when we do apply for military positions, we will qualify in every way."

Pete Pridham (V-7, USNR):

"There's no doubt that the majority of us are soft when judged by the standards expected of pilots, naval officers and soldiers in the U. S. armed forces, and it will be a lot easier on us to get ourselves in shape here in school rather than wait until we're actually inducted into training."

"Even participation in certain sports doesn't get a fellow into condition in the same way that an all-round program or regular physical exercise would. Most of us have fair builds, but what is lacking is wind, stamina and toughness and these are vital in any form of engagement in this war. I'm all for the voluntary training program outlined in the last Ring-tum Phi."

Matmen Trounce Wildcats, Eke out Win over Tarheels

Having conquered North Carolina and Northwestern in their week-end matches, Washington and Lee's Southern Conference wrestling titlists began preparations for their invasion of Davidson, N. C., to meet the fighting Wildcats of Davidson College Saturday.

Although Davidson is not ranked as a conference wrestling power, they possess a record of three wins against a single loss to VPI this season. The Wildcats have whipped Duke, 21-11; NC State, 17-11, and Maryland, 22-10, while losing to the Gobblers, 21-9. Tomorrow they face VMI here in Lexington.

In avenging their 1941 loss to the Tarheels, the Blue grapplers of Coach Archie Mathis had to depend on Ed Waddington and Lillard Ailor, wrestling at 175 and heavyweight, respectively, to break an 11-all tie and give W&L a 17-11 victory in the most exciting series of matches contested on the Doremus Gymnasium mats in several seasons.

The Generals' "Little Three"—Sam Graham, Bud Robb and Captain Tom Fuller, who continued unbeaten in the two week-end matches, gave the Blue what looked like a commanding 11-0 lead in the first three matches against Carolina. Graham decided Bill Redfern, Robb pinned Hobie McKeever, last year's runner-up in the conference finals, and Fuller decided John Robinson.

In the next three matches, Tarheel stock took a rise as Gene Davant took a decision from W&L's Dave Embry, wrestling his first varsity match. Sam Mordecia pinned Doug House in the 155-pound scrap and Frank Mordecia took a decision from Bob Schellenberg. These three matches tied the score at 11-all.

Then Waddington gained a 3-2 decision from Joe Gibbons of Carolina, and Ailor concluded the program with a rather decisive decision over John Sasser.

Last night the Blue met a Northwestern machine that was hitting on only six of its eight cylinders as the result of thumpings at the hands of Franklin and Marshall and Navy on Friday and Saturday, and Coach Mathis' boys walked off with a 27-3 win.

Only Ed Waddington, who after trailing 8-2, came within a point of tying the score on Co-Captain Dick Trubey of Northwestern, lost Waddington at 175 pounds rapidly added five points to his total, later trailed 10-9 and finally went down 12-10, in the feature match of the evening.

W&L piled up a 24-0 lead last night in the first six matches. Northwestern forfeited to Graham in the 121-pound class and Embry in the 145-pound bracket. Fuller gained W&L's only fall when he threw Myles Taylor in 2:33 of the first period in the 136-pound settoo and Robb, House and Schellenberg won decisions over Ned Nethercot, Maury Stern and Dave Allen, respectively.

In the preliminary matches Saturday night, Carolina took the last five frosh bouts after Charley Stieff opened with a fall for W&L's yearlings in the 136-pound match. George Bird and Bob Crockett lost by decisions but Roger Kimball, Holly Smith and Jack Burger were pinned in the other matches. Final score was 21-5.

Delts Beat Betas to Enter Ping-Pong Quarter-Finals

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity moved into the quarter final round of the Intramural Ping-Pong Tournament last night by trouncing the Beta quintet, 5 to 0. The match was high-lighted by the brilliant play of Bob Gaines and Ed Cuttino of the Delts and Jack Barrie of the Betas.

The Delts clinched the match when Bill McKelway beat Ed Boyd to make the score 3-0. This defeat broke a three year reign of the Betas as Intramural champs.

In other matches during the week, the Betas beat ATO, 3-2, Friday night, to earn the right to meet the Delts. Howard Dobbins and Don Johnson were outstanding for the ATOs.

The PEPs also won a match on Friday night by beating Lambda Chi, 3-2.

On Saturday night, Sigma Nu defeated Phi Delta Theta, 3-2, in a very close match. Marshall Steves for Sigma Nu and Bill Allison for the Phi Delts were outstanding.

Another match on Saturday night, saw a strong Pi Phi team blank a game Kappa Sig team, 5-0. Art Hack and Dick Dreux were the mainstays of Pi Phi.

Three Fraternities Win In Intramural Basketball

After displaying a flashy first half attack, Pi Kappa Alpha coasted in the second half to an easy victory over the KAs last night, 37-14. The one-sided conquest put the Pi KAs in the third round of the Intramural Basketball Tournament after they had drawn a first round bye.

On Friday night the Phi Delts and Sigma Nus both advanced to the third round after reaching the second round via byes. The Phi Delts scored at the expense of the PEPs, 27-15, while the Sigma Nus were victorious over the Phi Kaps, 25-14.

The game last night was featured by the first half play of the PiKAs. Led by Tyke Byran and Warren Stuart, they scored soon after the opening whistle and thereafter made points almost at will.

At the end of the half, the score stood at 24-0 with the PiKAs in the lead. The second half was a different story, however, as the KAs, led by Earl Alverson, surged back to outscore their opponents for that period.

In spite of Alverson's 11 points, high for the night on both teams, the PiKAs managed to protect their lead so that it was never seriously threatened.

Besides Byran and Stuart, the victors also used Bob Howard, Red Gorman, Paul Gourdon and John Benting, while the KAs started Tom Ford, Buddy Long, Thornton Beale, Bob Crockett and Alverson.

Mermen Meet W&M After Losing Opener To NC State, 39-36

After dropping a thrilling 36-39 meet to North Carolina State's swimmers in the final freestyle relay last Saturday in the local pool, Coach Cy Twombly's varsity tankmen will meet their second test of the current season in William and Mary tomorrow afternoon at Williamsburg.

The Indians are again reported to boast a strong array of swimmers this year, and the Blue mermen will be pushed to the limit in registering a Southern Conference win.

In Saturday's meet, State's freestyle power won out over the Twomblymen in the final event. W&L had swept the two preceding events when Lyn Murdock and Sophomore Bob Mehorter finished first and second in the 200-yard breaststroke, and the Generals' Jim Priest and Lynch Christian turned in identical performances in the 440 freestyle grind, to give the Blue a 36-32 lead going into the 7-point final relay.

But the Wolfpack quartet covered the 400-yards in a fast 3 min. 41.2 sec. time to edge out Bill McKelway, Bill Babcock, Don Garretson and Captain Evans Jasper.

W&L copped firsts in five of the nine events, but State gained enough second and third place points to offset this.

Twombly's stellar medley relay team of Bill Webster, Murdock and Garretson turned in a fine 3:05 min. in the meet's 300-yard opener to start the Blue off ahead. After yielding both first and second in the 220, Babcock splashed to a fast 24-1 sec. time and first place in the 50-yard dash. Frank Goodpasture was nosed

With the running score standing 14-27 against them, W&L's mermen copped three consecutive firsts. Bill Webster came within two-tenths (.2) sec. of the local pool record in winning the 150-yard backstroke in 1 min. 38.4 sec., with McKelway placing a close third behind Hilker, NCS.

nine points in the low scoring contest.

Captain Ed Cuttino held Gene Travis, sophomore sensation at center, to his lowest score this season. Travis did not drop in a single field goal until the final eight minutes of play. Clancy Balleger tallied for six points while Cuttino connected for five and Leo Signaigo was held to four points. Leon Harris, high scoring center for the Blue, was held to three points.

Mont of Maryland was the high scorer of the game with eleven points. Mont and Travis scored more than half of Maryland's total, collecting 21 points.

Led by Harry Harner the Brigadiers defeated Staunton Military Academy 53-44 Friday night in Doremus Gym.

Ligon Advanced to Cadet As Hogan Joins Air Corps

One W&L alumnus was advanced to the rank of a Naval Aviation Cadet and one other was sworn in to receive preliminary training in that branch of the service this week.

Johnny Ligon, former W&L football and basketball star who left school this fall to enter the Naval Air Corps, was advanced in his training to become a Naval Aviation Cadet and will be commissioned as an Ensign after seven more months training at Jacksonville, Fla.

Curg H. Hogan of Grand Rapids, Mich., also a W&L man, has enlisted in the Naval Air Corps and is receiving preliminary training as an Aviation Cadet.

University of Pa., W&L Debate Meet Cancelled

The Washington and Lee-University of Pennsylvania debate scheduled for last Friday was cancelled because of unforeseen developments at the Pennsylvania school. This was to have been the first inter-collegiate debate of the year for the W&L team.

Lyn Holton and Dick Bartlebaugh were to have upheld the negative side of the subject: Resolved, that the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions in this country.

Both debaters are freshmen with no previous experience in intercollegiate debating, although both were on high school teams. The W&L team held a final practice against Jerry Close and Phil Page yesterday afternoon under the supervision of Debate Coach George S. Jackson. Joe Ellis and Ken Clendaniel acted as critics for the debate.
