Offense Bazaar Features Show, Fortune Tellers

Commanders, Collegians To Play at 7-Hour Event

State-wide interest was shown last week in the "Offense Bazaar" of the local "Bundles for America" organization. Thursday's issues of both the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the Roanoke Times carrying articles on the April 11 affair.

Plans for the bazaar are proceeding rapidly, according to Mrs. Gaines, chairman of the event, with attractive features being added to lend a cabaret atmosphere to the proceedings.

The dance and imported floor show will highlight the evening's activities, while various booths and exhibits will hold the center of attraction in the afternoon. The hours of the bazaar have been set at 3 to 6 in the afternoon and 8 to 12 in the evening. The Southern Collegians and VMI Commanders will play jointly for the dance.

Among the most attractive features will be the fortune telling of two Rockbridge County women, Mrs. Dillon of Eagle Rock, known throughout the state, and Mrs. Daura of Rockbridge Baths. Reservations are being taken for the fortune telling by Mrs. G. A. Derbyshire, Lexington.

As many students as possible are encouraged to get dates for the bazaar. Girls from neighboring schools will come with chaperones, Mrs. Gaines said, and stags will also be welcome at the program.

Letter to Fraternities Urges Consideration Of Summer Program

In a letter recently sent to the presidents of the 18 social fraternities, the Faculty Committee on Fraternities outlined the conditions under which the organizations could operate during the summer session.

The letter expressed the faculty desire to aid in any way possible all fraternities who wish to remain open and operate their house under the same conditions that hold during the regular session.

If any house remains open for any number of occupants whatsoever, the letter added, the general rules such as having a resident house mother and the responsibility of the fraternity for any events on the premises must apply throughout the Summer session.

Raising the question as to whether the houses could be run at a profit with less than eight or ten boys, the committee pointed out that light, telephone, water, janitor service and other incidentals would incur an overhead more than the means of the group, if less than this number were living in the house.

Designating May 15 as the deadline for the houses to notify the dean of Students if they wish to remain open, the committee urged a consideration of the plan as soon as possible.

Matmen Graham, Fuller Set Pace As 234 Students Pass Fitness Tests

Sammy Graham, wrestling co-captain, leads all juniors, seniors and law students taking the physical fitness tests required by the University with a score of 113, more than double the required minimum of 50, according to figures released today by Cy Twombly and Arch Mathis of the Physical Education department.

Graham's score, the highest to date, was built on 45 pushups, 35 chins, 100 body levers, a seven-foot broad jump, a five-foot-two bar vault and a time of 59 seconds for the 440-yard run. Graham, Phi Psi commerce junior from Far Rockaway, N. Y., wrestled at 121 pounds during the recent mat season. He is captain of the cross country team and a member of the track squad.

Close behind Graham with 107 points is Tom Fuller, Phi Psi academic senior from Catasaqua, Pa., captain of this year's mat team. Fuller scored 60 pushups, 28 chins, 50 body levers, an eight-foot broad jump, a five-foot-two bar vault and a 57.8 second time on the 440 yard run.

The third high score was made by Stan Sater, ZBT commerce senior from Danville. Sater did 46 pushups, 17 chins, 43 body levers, a nine foot-two broad jump, a five foot eight bar vault and a 61 second time for the 440. Sater's score was 95 2-3.

One-tenth of the upperclassmen taking the tests, 26 out of 260, failed to pass the minimum requirements of 8 chins, 16 pushups, 16 body levers, a six foot six broad jump, a four foot bar vault and a 70 second time for the 440.

The lowest score for a student taking all the tests was a 33 1-2. The person making the score did 7 pushups, no chins, 19 body levers, a five foot nine broad jump, a three foot six bar vault and a 82 second time for the 440. A 32 score was made but the student failed to take the running and broad jump tests.

All persons who failed the test or who did not take it will be required to attend classes twice a week for a minimum of one hour per class, according to Mathis and Twombly. Those with physical disabilities or with legitimate excuses will not have to attend classes until it is possible that they can take the test.

Classes are scheduled to start Tuesday, March 31, and any person who wishes to practice for the maximum requirements may attend the class. Students who are required to attend and who have absences without excuse can have their grades suspended, Mathis and Twombly warned.

Tests were given this afternoon to all upperclassmen whose last names range from U to Z in the alphabet. Classes will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons beginning at 4:30.

17 Law Students Initiated Into National Legal Group At Banquet Last Night

Seventeen W&L law students were initiated into Phi Delta Phi, national honorary legal fraternity, at a banquet held at the Southern Inn last night.

Harry Mason, outgoing president of the group served as master of ceremonies. The evening's program was highlighted by a series of impromptu addresses.

Mason announced early today that new officers of the organization will be elected at a session in the Law School tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Law students initiated last night are: Charles Larence Wilson, Paul Emile Gourdon, Jr., Paul Douglas Brown, Charles William Swinford, Robert Turnbull Vaughn, Frederic Kennedy Rippe-toe, Alexander Marrs Harman, Jr., William Russell Kiser.

Grades Issued in Week

Mid-semester grades will be due in the registrar's office Saturday, March 28, Registrar E. S. Mattingly, announced today. Reports will be ready for students about the middle of the following week, Mr. Mattingly said.

AP Ticker Installed In Journalism Lab Will Supplant UP

Full eight-hour daily Associated Press newspaper teletype service has been installed for the fifth consecutive year in the Lee Journalism Foundation Library for the duration of the current semester. Mr. Robert M. Hodges, instructor in journalism, announced yesterday. This will supplant the United Press radio service for the past ten weeks, he said.

The W&L teletype is on the Tri-State trunk line, which radiates from Baltimore and has regional sending offices both in Roanoke and Richmond. The Tri-State trunk line serves all AP members in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Since the evening Associated Press newspaper service is in operation only from 6 a.m. to 3 p.m. the machine operates at a speed of about 60 words a minute, while the UP ticker, which will be withdrawn Sunday, moved at a rate of only 40 words per minute.

While other opening days for the AP service here have been marked with a degree of pomp and ceremony, yesterday's opening was noted only by family sentiment when a short one-way communication was sent by J. P. Rowe, managing editor of the Fredericksburg Free Lance Star, to his son Charles, a W&L freshman.

Big Majority Passes Amendment to Alter Political Convention

Only 12 dissenting votes were cast against the student body constitution amendment which is designed to eliminate red tape from the annual spring political convention as the forces backing the change rolled to an overwhelming victory in the Friday-Saturday campus-wide balloting.

The final tabulation, released by Howard Dobbins, president of the student body, today, showed 393 for and 12 against the amendment.

The new ruling, sanctioned by the entire student body, states:

"There will be allowed for each nominee one nominating speech of no more than three minutes and one second from the floor. Floor will be thrown open for discussion of nominees if number of nominees warrants such action.

"No vote will be taken in Convention for unopposed candidates, where there was no more than two candidates nominated for a single office. Balloting will be by roll call for all offices for which there are three or more candidates."

Fitzpatrick Enters FD Contest; Finals Draws No Aspirants

Supplying what promises to be plenty of excitement in an ordinarily "cut and dried" race, John Goode, SAE rising senior, yesterday morning threw his hat in the ring for the presidency of the W&L student body with an announcement that he would definitely oppose Syd Lewis, PEP law student. With Goode's entrance into the number one race, the slate for the April 10 elections began to shape up fairly well, but no candidates have come out yet for Finals and only one definitely for each of the other three campus-wide offices to be filled—Student Body vice-president, Student Body secretary and Fancy Dress president.

For the past two years there has been no race for the presidency. In 1940 Al Snyder was unopposed and last spring Howard Dobbins, present president, was the only candidate to seek the post.

Over the weekend, which saw considerable activity among the candidate possibilities, Bev Fitzpatrick, Kappa Sigma junior, moved from the vice-presidential tilt into the Fancy Dress race. Felix Smart, Phi Delta law student mentioned earlier as a likely presidential candidate, came out for the vice-president's post.

Apparently the 1943 Finals presidency is attracting very little attention from W&L's vote-getters, for at press time not a single junior had expressed his intention of seeking this office, usually a much-sought-after position.

Larry Galloway, non-fraternity junior, is talked of as a possible candidate for the office of secretary of the Student Body Association. John (Zeke) Zombro, also non-fraternity, will probably come out against Galloway for this post, but no comment was forthcoming early this afternoon.

All evidence seems to indicate that competition for the class offices and presidencies of the various honorary societies, which are filled in the spring after campus elections, is having considerable influence on the student body races.

War Efforts In General

The results of the few collective efforts which have been organized on the Washington and Lee campus for the purpose of contributing to the nation's war effort could not, even by a propaganda agent's stretch of imagination, be termed overwhelmingly successful.

The Stamp and Bond "enlistment," designed as a continuous process, got off to a fairly decent start, but slowed down to a walk a few days after the starting gun had been fired and now appears to have drifted into a state of complete lack of activity.

The collection of used razor blades, toothpaste tubes and what not is still going on, but sans enthusiasm. The "Victory Book Drive" netted a half-decent stack of volumes, most of which would make a good dose of required reading for any prisoners of war who seemed deserving of especially poor treatment.

Those efforts have failed to reach the level of success. Some of the blame lies with the student body at large for a general lack of interest in the nation's needs, especially in the "tremendous trifles." Few of us offered even a minimum of cooperation with the leaders of the various campaigns.

But those responsible for the conduct of the campaigns are equally to blame. The leaders of the Stamp and Bond enlistment let sparks of interest die during the two weeks which it took to get stamps to the boys who paid for them on the first day of the drive, then, from all appearances, let the matter drop. The initial sales effort was good, but whatever follow-up there may have been was feeble in its coverage.

Lack of interest in the salvage collection may be due to the fact that the saving of used postage stamps and tin foil has been termed "not worth the effort" by radio and newspaper announcements. The directors of the W&L campaign listed these articles among the half dozen that were desired, and the student body, like the general public, has lost considerable faith in the worthiness of such collections.

What this campus needs in connection with war efforts of the class of those commented upon is just what the nation has been needing in connection with the problem of civilian war efforts: more genuine leadership and the realization by the "average citizen" that there is a mighty big job to be done and that seemingly trivial parts of that job must be undertaken in a spirit of all-out cooperation if the whole effort is to succeed.

... And In Particular

The student body will get a chance to give all-out support to a community war project on April 11 when Lexington's "Offense Bazaar" is staged in Doremus Gymnasium.

Mrs. Francis P. Gaines and other members of the town's "Bundles for America" organization are providing the leadership, and are appealing to the student body for cooperation.

The event, featuring seven hours of afternoon and evening entertainment, including the music of two dance bands, will make a real contribution to the supply needs of America's fighting forces, and will furnish a good deal of enjoyment for its patrons—but only if it is generously supported by those who are asked to lend a hand.

Campus Comment

By Ty Tyson and Shabby Davidson

Not Too Startling Discovery Department: Washington and Lee has turned out several fine scientists in the last few years. Foremost among these men was the now-famous, Porky Dickinson, who made the startling discovery that by simply hiding behind the sofa at a girls' school that you can learn infinitely more about life than you can by reading "The Grapes of Wrath."

This discovery was hailed by reformers all over the land as a definite contribution to the study of female behavior. They even gave Dickinson a law degree to get rid of him.

But, since then, science has been at a low ebb at W&L. The trend slipped even further over this past weekend when our own little group of "pre-meddlers," who some day hope to work their way up to being doctors in some of the country's best meat mending establishments, crawled out of Steves, dragging their test tubes behind them and made their way to the insane asylum at Staunton.

After the inmates had gotten over the shock of seeing this maudlin group of characters, Doctors Lau, Michael, Parton, Jasper, Atwood and others made themselves quite at home. Lau immediately sought solace in some guy that thought he was Hitler.

Parton got tangled with a retired Sweetbriar girl that kept trying to drag him into the Dell. Michael went to sleep. Atwood couldn't stand to have people staring at him and went home.

But, to W. H. Jasper, who has always been used to twin-billings, went the not too startling discovery of the day. Passing by the women's ward, chewing on a pair of galoshes so that he wouldn't attract attention, he heard screams of that familiar refrain—"Wahoo-wah, Wahoo-wah."

Aghast, but not surprised, Jasper listened as the cheer finished with the whole group slobbering, "Rah, rah, UVA."

We will attempt no explanation; as a matter of fact it needs none. In fact, we don't even know why we bother telling it to you except that it actually happened. Why not just forget that we even mentioned it, and let science stagger on by itself???

Trivia Department: Friday evening's blackout was a tremendous success any way you look at it. The El Patio Grillers mobbed the joint led by Bobby Watkins, and it's a wonder Watkins wasn't mobbed himself. Is chivalry dead?

If you didn't know it "Private Snuffy Smith" is playing at the Lyric for the last times tonight. You'll just have time to miss it. We wish this grand comedy with Edgar Kennedy would be here tomorrow so that those who didn't know would now know and thus more people would get a satisfaction out of missing it.

"Nazi Agent" at the Lyric Wednesday is one of the better pictures that the Lyric sometimes happens to get. This is a movie about espionage centering around the Panama Canal. Conrad Veidt plays a dual role of two brothers—one, the Nazi consul in the U.S., the other brother is the one who sabotages the saboteurs (internal rime). Ann Ayars, whom Dr. Kildare wouldn't, has been added to the intrigue of this vehicle.

150 Grapplers Enter I-M Tourney Tonight

Steves, Rhea to Defend Crowns in Meet Tonight

Intramural wrestlers will hit the mat tonight at 7:30 in the first round of the tournament with the Deltas defending their championship. 150 grapplers weighed in yesterday headed by the champions who entered 23.

Two champs from last year who are entered again this season are Marshall Steves, Sigma Nu 175-pound king, and Ab Rhea, SAE and last year's 128-pound winner. Three of last year's runners-up who weighed in on Monday are Cullen Wimmer, NFU, 121-pounds; Bill McKelway, Delta, 165-pounds; and Chuck Jackson, Sigma Chi, heavyweight.

Cy Twombly, intramural director, said that the great interest taken in this season's matches should make up for the decline in entries. "This interest," he said, "should bring about harder-fought matches."

Four Frosh Tennis Stars Show Pre-Season Promise

Paced by several net stars of the future, the General frosh tennis squad will command a good share of Coach Fred Perry's attention when the W&L mentor returns to the campus after the Easter recess.

During the fall practices, the professional ace commented on the abundant material which he found among these newcomers, and Jim LaPlante, varsity manager, has noticed the same spark during daily practices this month.

Especially noted have been the performances of Bill Clayton, Dave Smith, Bob Gaines and Neel Walker. Several other freshmen are counted on by LaPlante to bolster these netmen in the coming matches.

Grid Drills Termed 'Successful'; Roehl Shows Most Improvement

Looking back on four weeks of hard spring football practice during which time he has had a chance to form some idea of what Washington and Lee's gridiron fortune's will be next fall, Head Coach Riley Smith paused today to comment on the team as a whole and more specifically upon his freshmen candidates.

"In spite of bad weather, which kept us indoors for ten days during the first three weeks of practice, I would say that we've had a pretty successful spring session," Smith said. "It's hard to tell very much about next year, because so much will depend on how our freshman backs come through as sophomores in the fall," he added.

The greatest improvement last week was shown by Jack Roehl, a former back who is now holding down an end position. While the end situation is still the biggest problem on the team, Roehl's play, along with that of Roger Soth, Pinky Norman and Lettermen Jim Daves and Jim Wheeler, has been encouraging to Smith and Coaches Art Lewis and Jack Hennemier.

From tackle to tackle the line appears to be well fortified. Four lettermen, Frank DiLoreto, Lillard Ailord, Bill Furman and John Rulevich, are back to claim their tackle positions. DiLoreto was especially praised by Smith for his recent improvement. Captain Bill Gray, Roy Fabian and Bev Fitzpatrick are the experienced guard candidates, backed by Bill Otter and Bob Crockett from the freshman team.

The center position is one that caused considerable worry among the coaches during the earlier practices. Now, however, Dyke Norman and Art Milona, freshmen, along with Ned Lawrence have developed so well that Smith considers the center slot fairly strong.

It is in the backfield that the freshmen are expected to play an important role in next year's plans. Dave Russell, Harry Baugh-

Noonan Reports For Golf Drills

Strengthened by the return from the hospital of Captain Bill Noonan, the golf team has been holding daily workouts in preparation for its first match with Georgetown.

Captain Noonan, who is the team's best player, has been gradually getting into shape since his recovery from an appendectomy operation. The highlight of last year's season was his victory over Dixon Brooks of Virginia who held the national intercollegiate title.

The biggest problem this year, Coach Cy Twombly said today, will be to develop two golfers to play number three and four positions to support Noonan and S. L. Kopald. At the present time, Gordon Sibley and Felix Smart are showing up well, but they are being hard pressed by Al Sharitz, Bull Simmons, Frank Goodpasture, Larry Sullivan and Bill Guthrie.

er. Ted Ciesla, Frank Socha, Ed Marx and Paul Cavallere are the only veterans returning, and Smith is counting upon Harry Harner, Sam DiBlasi, Dick Working, Jack Tucek, Ben Kaplan and Ray Prater to fill gaps caused by graduation and losses to the armed forces.

Baltimore AC Will Replace Middies on Lacrosse Card

Co-captains Ed Boyd and Frank LaMotte announced today that the Naval Academy has dropped its game with the Blue lacrosse team and arrangements are being made to play the Baltimore Athletic Club April 4 in place of the Navy match. The Baltimore A.C. team is composed of former college All-Americans and is considered one of the best teams in the country.

Pointing toward their game with the Johns Hopkins stickmen April 6, the Blue team has spent much of the last week concentrating on defense and this week will switch to attack.

"The squad is stressing team play and spirit this season," co-captains La Motte and Boyd added, "rather than having to rely on any individual stars." All the veterans from last year's squad, as well as freshmen Frank Markoe, Roy Witte, Jack Brooks and Wally Dutton have turned in "fine" performances during drills this week, they continued.

The close defense is especially strong this year with Larry Galoway, Bob Schultz, Joe Keely and Wally Dutton battling for the positions.

The defense quartet is expected to be strengthened considerably when Lud Michaux reports within the next two weeks. Michaux has been engaged in spring football practice since the lacrosse ten-first began conditioning themselves.

Frank Markoe is doing outstanding work in the midfield as are Co-captains LaMotte and Boyd. Freshman Charley Stieff also is a candidate for the midfield.

The close attack is developing much better than expected with veterans Pete Pridham, Carter Refo and Gordon Long as well as Bob Tyson, Jim O'Connor and Brooks fighting it out.

Veteran Bob Leake is scheduled to play the goal position, although Bill Davidson is developing into good material.

LaMotte and Boyd have been playing together for seven years, both having prepped at Saint Paul's in Baltimore.

Hank Young has been appointed freshman manager to assist manager Phil Sellers. A vacancy caused by the resignation of sophomore manager, Dick Watson is still open, and all candidates for this position are asked to get in touch with any member of the squad.

World Christian Secretary Will Visit Here Thursday For Student Discussion

Robert Mackie, secretary of the World Student Christian Federation, will be at the Student Union at 5 p.m. Thursday for a discussion with students, Seymour Smith, Director of Religious Activities, announced today.

Mackie, who has been working with the World Federation of College Christian Associations for a number of years, has recently specialized on work with student prisoners of war in France and Germany.

"Student Christians in the Crisis" will be the core of the discussion, which will be open to all students who wish to attend, Smith said.

In the junior class elections Bill McKelway, Delt; Bill Sizemore, Sigma Nu, and Bob Taylor, ATO, are all good bets to shoot for the number one and two offices—president and executive committeeman.

Bob Crockett, KA, will more than likely seek the sophomore presidency. Other houses have not yet put forward men for these offices, but they are certain to develop into closely-fought affairs during the next month.

Lexington Officials Report Blackout 'Great Success; Airplanes Fail to Arrive'

Pronounced a "great success" by town officials, Lexington's first blackout of the war was held last Friday evening, the alarm lasting a little over half an hour.

With the first sound of the fire siren, all lights in the town were immediately cut off, and with the turning off of the street lights and the illumination along the W&L colonnade a few minutes after the siren stopped, Lexington was in complete darkness with only the dimmed lights of the army ambulances, the firetrucks and the pale blue flashlights of the wardens occasionally visible.

Members of the defense auxiliary police, among them many faculty members patrolled the streets in an effort to ascertain if any lights were left burning, but only one real violation was reported.

VMI cadets and police guarded all entrances to Lexington and stopped all incoming traffic.

Although it was reported army planes would be above the city in an effort to check on any light, none were heard throughout the whole blackout. However, planes were reported over Glasgow.

Lexington, close as it is to vital defense areas, is subject to blackouts at any time.

Pre-Med Society Initiation To Be Conducted Tonight

News Bureau Affiliates With College Press Group

Mr. Robert M. Hodges, instructor in journalism, announced today that the Washington and Lee News Bureau has affiliated with the American College Publicity Association, which is now entering its twenty-fifth year with more than 550 members.

The ACPA, a national college publicity organization, publishes the monthly Publicity Digest for the benefit of its member bureaus and issues an annual book of suggestions based on the national convention under the title of "Publicity Problems."

New Alumni Issue Shows War Attitude, Outlook for Future

Washington and Lee through three great wars is the theme on the covers of the March issue of the Alumni Magazine. The front cover shows a picture of General Lee beside the Washington Hall bulletin board which contains news of the present war. On the back cover is a picture of the 1917 students drilling for service.

This issue, cut from 32 pages to 24 because of the national emergency, reflects the spirit of the school toward the present situation. President Gaines, in addressing the alumni on the opening page, says that the time has come for the institution, as well as those connected with it, to draw upon its reserves of faith.

In keeping with Dr. Gaines' commentaries on the University outlook during these times, the article, "Facing Our Third Century," explains the view of the faculty in voting for co-educational summer school. In times of necessity there must be some departure from established tradition, it states. We have made that departure; however, the entire plan is a temporary one and will end with the conclusion of the present war.

Departing from the regular war trend, the magazine also contains a tribute to the late Thomas James Farrar, '95, first editor of the Ring-tum Phi, manager of football and noted author.

Along with the regular features are surveys of wrestling, basketball, swimming, fencing and articles on the retirement of Coach Archie Mathis, the drafting of eight faculty members and Dr. Gaines' connection with the war.

Kappa Alpha Plays Host To Seven Other Chapters In Founders' Day Event

Washington and Lee's Alpha chapter of Kappa Alpha played host to visiting representatives from the seven other KA chapters in Virginia and from the alumni offices of the fraternity in a special Founders' Day ceremony here Saturday which saw the dedication of a memorial and a model initiation ceremony.

Charles Tebbs was initiated at the model initiation ceremony held in the Episcopal Church Saturday night, after a memorial to S. Z. Ammen, prominent early member of the fraternity, had been dedicated in the local cemetery earlier in the day.
