

W&L Votes On 3 Posts Tomorrow

Goodpasture, Hutcheson, Sullivan Are Unopposed As Election Interest Ebbs

While interest in the campaign sagged to an incredible low and with the usual peacetime fire conspicuously absent, Washington and Lee students go to the polls tomorrow to elect a student body president, vice-president and secretary. Only one candidate has been nominated for each office—tantamount to their election.

Because of the shortened slate of candidates, the Executive committee, which is conducting the balloting, reduced last night the voting time. Polls will be open in the Student Union from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Applications for the three posts, only ones to be voted upon this spring, were submitted to Student Secretary John Zombro by the 6 p. m. deadline yesterday.

Frank Goodpasture, Sigma Nu junior from Bristol, Tenn., is the only candidate for student body president.

Lone entrant in the vice-presidential race is Larry Sullivan, Delt junior from Blackstone, Va.

Morrison (Doc) Hutcheson, Phi Kap junior from Richmond, Va., and current vice-president of the student body, is also unopposed for secretary of the student body.

Despite the lack of opposition, Student President Bill Noonan urged every student to vote. A majority of the total votes cast will give these three men victories.

Ballots, Noonan added, will be in printed form, and students, under constitutional voting privileges, may scratch out the name of any listed candidate if they do not choose to vote for him.

Tomorrow's balloting will be nothing like past spring election days at W&L. Missing completely will be the amplifiers, the handbills, the free cigars, the parades.

The pre-election campaign could hardly be called a campaign. The nominating convention which was set up originally for the purpose of narrowing down to two the list of candidates for any one office was abolished by the same amendment which limited spring election to balloting for the three student body posts. Everything was quiet—there was no interest and no excitement.

The three elected officers will appoint a four-man Executive committee to serve throughout the summer session. All three candidates are in Class V-7, USNR, and all will attend W&L's second summer session beginning in June.

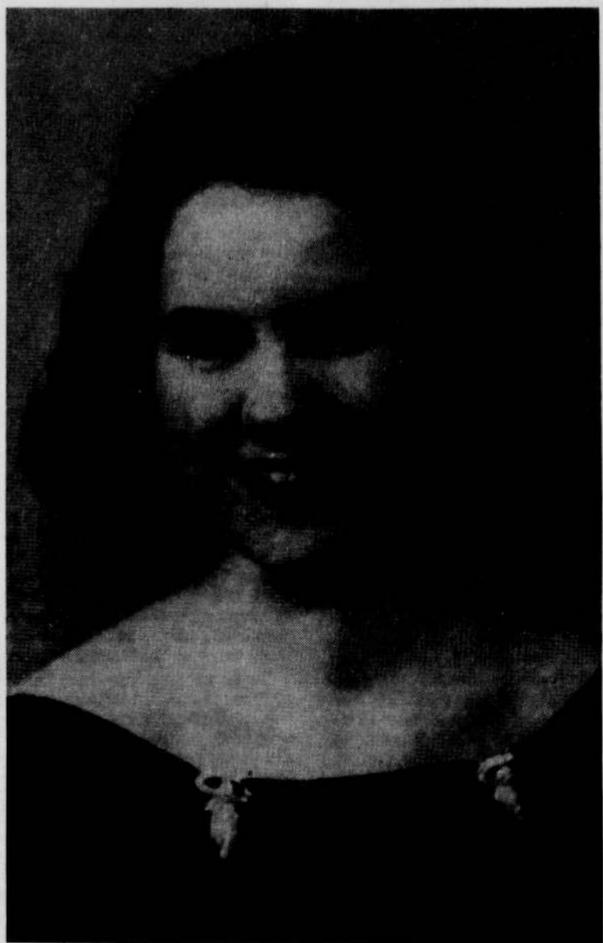

That the peacetime furor just isn't there this year was a sign of the times, and this was exactly what the Executive committee had hoped to achieve with its recent amendment, members indicated.

13 Marine Reservists To Take Test Tuesday

The Marine screening test given to all sophomores and freshmen in the reserve program will be practically the same as the one given to the Navy's V-1 reservists, Professor Earl Paxton announced this morning. The test is scheduled for 9:00 next Tuesday morning in Newcomb 36. Students taking the test will be excused from all classes for the time of the test.

Certain parts of the test will be for the Navy reservists only and they may be omitted by the Marines, Mr. Paxton added, but they may be filled in without hurting the final score. He said that any additional parts completed may help as a basis for an estimate of aptitude for further courses of study.

Those taking the test will be sophomores R. E. Bartlebaugh, R. K. Billingslea, J. H. Casey, W. W. Dutton, E. J. Gorman, H. L. Harner, R. S. Irons and H. E. Young and freshman G. S. Daniel, R. I. Faulk, R. W. Fraser, J. F. Niedecker and K. B. Wilson.

Miss Anita Wadsworth, of Gadsden, Ala., and Sweetbriar, who will head the figure at Saturday night's Cotillion Club formal with Spring Dance Leader Vernon Millsap.

44 Students in Naval Reserve To Take V-1 Test Next Tuesday

The qualifying examination for all men enlisted in Class V-1, USNR, who will have completed four or more semesters by July 1 will be given next Tuesday, April 20.

The test will be given at 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. in Room 36, Newcomb hall. It is imperative that students arrive at the examination room on time.

These announcements and the release of a list of students who will have completed the four semesters came from Dr. Allen W. Moger, new Navy faculty adviser. Dr. Moger—third, Washington hall—who was faculty adviser for the Army reserve and the Army Air Force reserve until these groups were called from school two months ago, replaced Prof. Lewis K. Johnson last weekend when Mr. Johnson received a commission in the Naval reserve.

The V-1 examination will be supervised by Dr. Moger, Prof. Earl K. Paxton, in charge of the Marine section, and Dr. Walter A. Flick, who gave the V-12 and A-12 exams two weeks ago.

Pre-Meds Have Option

Pre-medical students are not required to take the test, but they are urged to do so, Dr. Moger said. If they fail the test, they will continue in their pre-medical status, but "it would be to their advantage to take it in order that they qualify for deck officer training if for any reason they should not continue in a medical status," he added.

If the pre-med students fail to take the test and then are not selected for medical training, they will be called to active duty as

VMI to Take 159 Men In Army Program, May 1

VMI will absorb 159 students of the Army Specialized Training program on May 1, according to a statement released Monday by General Kilbourne, Superintendent of the Institute.

The training of these men in specialized work at VMI is part of the country-wide Army program which is being executed by the War Department.

While at VMI, the Army specialists will be treated as "college students," the General added. The length of their period of training was not announced.

enlisted men, Dr. Moger stated.

Students who are required to undergo the test or those who are taking it voluntarily were asked to watch all bulletin boards closely for more specific details concerning the qualifying exam.

Any students whose names do not appear on the list published today and who think they should take the test are asked to see Dr. Moger immediately. All students on the roll are requested to initial the bulletin board sheet before Saturday noon.

While it is not known exactly what the qualification test will cover, earlier statements from Washington indicate that mathematics, elementary physics and general vocabulary will be stressed.

Representative Here

Here yesterday to answer student questions about the Navy was Lt. W. F. Hazen of the Richmond Office of Naval Officer Procurement. All Naval reservists met in Washington chapel to hear him.

Those men who pass the V-1 test will be chosen for the Navy College Training program and will be placed on active duty, July 1. Those who do not fall under the special pre-medical ruling and who fail the test will be ordered to active duty as enlisted men in the Navy.

Any student now in the Navy reserve who wishes to transfer to Class V-5 should contact the Director of Naval Officer Procurement in Richmond now, Lt. Hazen announced.

When students are assimilated into the Navy college program on July 1, they will be ordered to a Navy-selected school in this, the Fifth, Naval District. It is possible, Lt. Hazen pointed out, that they will be given a preference for which school in this district they would like to attend, but "it must

1,795 Alumni in Service

Of the 10,000 Washington and Lee alumni now living, 1,795 are in the nation's armed forces, according to revised figures drawn up Monday morning by the Alumni Office.

The totals are: Army, 816; Army Air Force, 352; Navy, 434; Naval Air Corps, 82; Marines, 81; and Coast Guard, 30.

Satterfield's Orchestra To Play For 3-Dance Cotillion Weekend; Color, Simplicity Will Mark Set

Basic Courses Included in Program For Second W&L Summer Session

Emphasizing the fact that the courses selected are not to provide variety but rather to offer work needed by incoming freshmen and returning students as service requirements, Dr. R. H. Tucker, dean of the University, today released a tentative schedule of courses to be offered at W&L's second summer session beginning June 14.

The session will extend for two terms of five weeks each with classes meeting six days a week. There will be three periods each morning, beginning at 8:00, 9:30 and 11:00.

Students will be allowed to take two courses through the session with a full year's credit of six semester hours in each academic subject and eight hours in each laboratory science. The maximum will be 14 semester hours for all students. However, some semester subjects are being offered which will give three hours credit.

Following are the courses which will be given with the times of the class meetings. The number of credits given for each is in parentheses. If a subject is offered the first term it is preceded by an "a," and the second term by a "b."

Annual Hops Start Friday Under Millsap

After a chilly week of "March winds" and the usual April showers, Washington and Lee students were praying today for at least a trace of fair weather by 10 p. m., Friday when the smallest, most simplified dance set in recent W&L history gets underway in Doremus gymnasium.

With two formals and a dance weekend, the two-day Spring dance weekend, featuring the music of Johnny Satterfield's orchestra, is on the social calendar for Friday and Saturday, and "all indications point to highly successful affair," Set Leader Vernon Millsap declared last night.

Actually, Johnny Satterfield will not appear here with his orchestra. While the band still retains the name it had before the leader was inducted into the army several months ago, Bud Montgomery now fronts the 13-piece group. Anne Russell is the vocalist.

McKelway Leads Prom

The set opens Friday night with the Junior prom from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. The figure at 11 o'clock will be led by Junior Executive Committeeman Bill McKelway, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Frances Taylor of South Carolina.

Slated for Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 p. m. is the Kappa Sigma dansant. Millsap, a native of Evergreen, Ala., and Miss Anita Wadsworth of Sweetbriar and Gadsden, Ala., will head the Cotillion Club formal at 10 o'clock that night. The Saturday night session begins at 9 p. m., and ends at midnight.

Simplified But Colorful

Draped with green and white crepe paper will be Doremus gym, and while emphasis has been on wartime simplicity, the set leader emphasized that "there would be gaiety as usual," that the weekend would be as colorful as past ones.

Tickets for Spring dances are now priced at $6.05. Cost of the individual dances are: Junior prom, $2.75; Kappa Sigma dansant, $1.10; and Cotillion club formal, $2.20.

All IOU's not paid by Saturday night will be turned over to the Cold Check committee, Leader Millsap cautioned.

Spring dances—1943 version—is the first W&L dance set attempted since World War I with the student enrollment below the 350 mark. Favors, unnecessary expenses have been de-emphasized all along the line since the Dance board named Millsap to replace Army-called Leo Signaigo as director of the set.

Following Millsap in the Cotillion figure Saturday night will be Secretary Cliff Hood, chairman of the decorations committee, three other committee chairmen—Bill Allison, Harry Harner and Bill Sizemore—and the 17 remaining member of the war-riddled club and their dates.

VMI first and second classmen have been invited to attend under the reciprocal ruling reached several months ago. Special Service staff officers are being issued invitations also, Millsap said.

Satterfield's orchestra has been playing up and down the Atlantic coast for the past four years and has been featured at all neighboring colleges. The group held down one engagement at the Virginia Beach Surf club last summer.

Originally carded for April 2-3 when the Dance board used its emergency powers to elevate Millsap to the presidency, the Cotillion weekend was moved to April 16-17 because it conflicted with (SPRING DANCES, page 4)

Don't Overlook Liberal Arts, Dr. Mims Warns

The study of liberal arts during the war was defended by Dr. Edward Mims, national Phi Beta Kappa lecturer and eminent literary scholar, in an address last night in Washington chapel, as he closed his two day lecture series at W&L under the auspices of the national honor society.

Dr. Mims' first address was given before a student audience in Lee chapel Monday on the subject "Have You Discovered America?" This assembly also marked the 145th anniversary of George Washington's $50,000 gift to the school.

In his address last night Dr. Mims declared that "it would be an unspeakable calamity if, in our all-out war effort, we lose sight of the aims of liberal education." "Liberal education," he added, "means not merely studying the classics, but all the elements that are found in the well-balanced man."

Dr. Mims took issue with the advocates of wholesale conversion of colleges to war training centers, supporting his contentions with quotations from Wendell Wilkie's recent address at Duke university, in which he declared that "the destruction of liberal education would be a crime comparable to the burning of books by the Nazis."

He commended the recent decisions of Amherst and Haverford to continue the study of liberal arts during the war, declaring that "if this free people to which we belong is to keep its fine spirit, its high courage in the face of difficulty, it must continue to drink deep and often from the liberal arts."

Dr. Mims is a former professor of English at the University of North Carolina and at Vanderbilt and at one time was joint editor of The South Atlantic quarterly. He is an eminent authority on American literature and has been a visiting professor to the British Isles.

Plan For Housing Students To Be Presented By IFC At Meeting Tomorrow

Interfraternity Council President Lin Holton today asked all members of the council to be present at a meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Student Union when plans for an interfraternity house this summer will be completed.

An IFC committee has completed plans for the housing of summer students in fraternity houses but details will not be released until the entire IFC has discussed and approved the plans, Holton said today.

The group will also elect a secretary to replace Jim Priest, a V-7 senior who was called to active duty.

Well Done

The present editorial set-up, unique in the history of the Ring-tum Phi, ends with this issue. Caused by the unusual war conditions, the plan was different from anything ever tried before.

For the past eight issues, three boys, all sophomores, have done the majority of the work on this paper. Writing all of the main stories, doing all of the make-up and print shop work, Ed Jackson, Charlie Rowe and Dick Bartlebaugh have devoted three long afternoons a week to the publishing of the Ring-tum Phi.

True, the paper is not as big as in former years, and the issues aren't so frequent, but the work that these boys have had to do has doubled, or even tripled, in the past two months. It is no easy job to assemble and write the news of this war-depopulated campus; it is no cinch to follow that news to the print shop and correct and revise the copy; and it is oftentimes tough to have to write and set headlines, plan the make-up of the paper and, at the same time, strive to get the sheet out on time.

These three boys have done most of that work, aided by a few loyal freshmen who, with no prospect of reward, have stuck with the paper merely because of their devotion to it and to the University. Never before have men with a year's experience, or a few month's experience, been asked to do such a task.

The greatest tribute that can be paid to this skeleton staff is the final result itself. Although continually hit by "low blows" the Ring-tum Phi has maintained its excellent reputation. Dr. H. B. Rathbone, dean emeritus of the N. Y. U. School of Journalism, has pronounced it "one of the finest school papers I've ever seen." We of W&L enthusiastically concur with this pronouncement.

Next Monday afternoon a regular editor will be chosen for the Ring-tum Phi. All of the aspirants are richly deserving of the honor.

What will happen after this year, no one knows. But we do know, that when happier days come again, the student newspaper at W&L will continue to maintain its remarkable traditions; traditions that have been made glorious by men like Bartlebaugh, Rowe and Jackson, and by their helpers, Jim Baldwin, Don Hillman, Fred Loeffler, George Stott, Don Murray, Bob Harter, Guy Hairston and Bob Burriss.

To these above men, and to Sports editor Earl Vickers and Columnists Al Cahn, Bruce Quayle and Hal Keller, the writer of this editorial extends his warmest thanks, reserving a word of praise for C. Harold Lauck, Andy Shannon and H. A. Westmoreland, the staff of the W&L print shop.

Think It Over

The newspapers all over the country are inaugurating this week a new Bond drive, a campaign to raise $13,000,000,000. The Ring-tum Phi is glad to join its small voice in the chorus.

To reach the present objective, every man, woman and child in the United States must buy $75 worth of bonds. Of course, this is merely an average, and many persons will buy far more than that amount. But likewise many Americans will not spend $75 to buy bonds. We cannot sit smugly by and expect the other fellow to buy enough to make up our share.

It is easy to rationalize ourselves into thinking that we'll be in this war soon, so why should we spend our money in buying Bonds. We won't go into the old, old arguments about this patriotic war-necessity. You've heard them all, and should know the excellent logic behind them.

We do not share the feelings of certain individuals who have created "tempests in teapots" by decrying the part of W&L students in the war effort. We know the students are faced by a continual chaos, by a continual psychological struggle.

So let's forget all talk of patriotism and look at the thing realistically. The show or party you miss now will be more than made up for later on, and the money you invest now will keep the world from being a living hell in the years to come. Think it over.

Wahoos Again: In spite of gas rationing, in spite of the heavy and complete courses which every lawyer is forced to take, T. C. Bowen and a few of his friends went over to Lynchburg the other night, just to relax and take their minds off Dr. Smedley's moron jokes.

T. C. (all the PiKAs call him T. C.) is very happy by nature, and is always laughing, always joking. So the happy party headed out to the club, where they found the room full of Wahoos. (They always travel in great numbers). But, with a noble spirit of live and let live, the few Minks decided to tolerate the less fortunate brethren and stick around awhile. So T. C. and his party found a table and settled down for a happy evening. T. C. re-told, for the fifth time, one of Dr. Smedley's jokes (the one about the war-minded worm who joined the apple-core). Getting a laugh, T. C. told it again. Everything was going very smoothly indeed.

Exhibiting his famous laugh, T. C. threw his head back and simply roared with glee. Still with his head thrown back, he saw, from that ridiculous position, a very angry Wahoo. And a very famous Wahoo, as Wahoos go. Tabb Gillette, the well-known catcher and what-have-you of THE University's baseball team was staring wrathfully at T. C.

"Whatinhell are you laughing at, punk?" Gillette asked, still staring at the happy Mink. Now this was too much for Bowen. It was bad enough being called a punk by Vaughn, but by a Wahoo—that was too much.

"I'm laughing at those big, funny ears of yours," he said. "Wiggle them again."

Happily, we're able to report that T. C. is still in one piece. True, 99 Wahoos immediately wanted to take a poke at T. C.—all at once, of course—but Bowen isn't a lawyer for nothing. Not quite as happy, and more of a Wahoo-hater than ever, T. C. Bowen came back to Lexington. Back to Vaughn, back to Dr. Smedley's jokes, back to peace and quiet, where a happy man can enjoy an innocent laugh.

FILM SHOTS: We promised Mr. John Edward Zombro, Jr., secretary of the student body, that we'd get off his back, but the following event is real news: the slickest operator in the Delt house had three (3) dates Saturday night. A regular date, a late-date, and a late-late date. One of them was even old enough to remember when Roosevelt wasn't president... Bobby Vaughn, whose late-date was late-dated by Zombro, has been re-classified to 1-A... Jimmy Hamilton has retired to his ranch... Jabo is still at the same old stand....

When is the University going to put the tennis courts in shape? We've only a month of school left, and the gravel courts are still in a rough and untended condition. Perhaps they will be taken care of, now that the Victory garden has been re-seeded. We're all praying for grass. Scoop Jackson should soon write another editorial on keeping off the grass. That's the same Scoop Jackson who may be seen any morning at 8:40, leaving size 12 foot-prints across the lawn....

A certain Keydet confided in Betty Bly last week. We don't remember the exact wording of the plea, but it seems that for three years this poor lad's room-mates had been fighting over a girl, and the boy was really getting awfully tired of it all. After the usual "Dear Miss Bly, what shall I do," the Times-Dispatch's lonely hearts correspondent advised the weary Keydet to either take the girl himself and be the "dog that walked away with the bone," or to be like Ferdinand and "just go out and smell the flowers." We advise the latter course. Bewildered....

Word is beginning to drift back from the seniors who went into V-7 school. The advice seems to add up to just three words: Study your Math. Och! Loeffler and Cahn each wrote a movie column this week. Wonder who will win out. Better let Brown loan Loeffler to you a couple of weeks, A. L....

Walt Browder, Mal Deans, Lloyd Ward and several other ERC boys are due in this weekend. Hope lots of them make it... Note to those who hate calendars: there is only about a month of school left... Al Darby's Handbook should be out soon... Several of the brighter lights at the Delt house are being bitterly called "Canvasbacks" by the loyal brothers....

Silver Lining Note of the Week: This column may be in need of an author in a couple of weeks. Make all applications in person to the Ring-tum Phi office.

FILMS

By Al Cahn

In answer to the hundreds of letters from Mother, Mrs. November and one other that we can't seem to remember at the moment, we just want to say that everything is smooth again after recent torpedos from the Cruiser Adams, which disabled us for a few weeks. Heaven help us on the exam.

If you haven't grown tired of war films yet, don't start now, because two of the better ones make their bow at the State this week and next. First is the British Columbia-produced "Commandos Strike at Dawn" which was made in collaboration with the Canadian government. In this film, as in few previous ones, there are scattered bits of realism that bring the war even closer.

In one of his finest roles, Paul Muni is excellently cast as a Norwegian who offers no resistance to the Nazi invasion and occupation—until he proves to himself that you can't do business with Hitler. Turning into a civil saboteur and murderer of the Nazi village commandant, he is hunted throughout the country while hostages are executed for his deeds.

He escapes to England and is put in charge of a commando raid on a Nazi airfield, which is destroyed by the successful raid. Anna Lee plays opposite Muni. This film also marks the return to the screen of Lillian Gish.

With the Canadian Commandos actually portraying themselves on the screen, John Farrow (successful director of "Wake Island") opens his story in the pre-Nazi gaiety of Norway, then increases its intensity, violence, injustice and terror to end it in tragedy—yet in glory.

Wednesday at the House of Serails is the confusing "Secrets of a Co-ed," which concerns itself with a criminal lawyer who leads the crime ring in his city, and his daughter. Otto Kruger and Tina Thayer handle their secrets as well as a hot potato.

Sunday and Monday is double feature day at the State. "The Meanest Man in the World" is a long short or a short feature—depending on which way you read parallel—with Jack Benny and Pricilla Lane. Not Benny's worst, it certainly isn't his best. Benny is a lawyer who steals candy from little children, throws penniless widows into the street and robs young girls in order to build up a name for himself. After he does land a rich client, the picture goes into a tailspin and ends with a shotgun wedding.

The best part of the program is the United States Signal corps' "At the Front" in technicolor. These are actual battle scenes of the landings in North Africa and of action on Tunisian battlefields. Cameramen went ashore on the barges along with the men. They photographed the stirring tank battle of Terbourba and they have recorded the authentic battle scenes—all in technicolor.

The second war picture is "Chetniks"—the living story of General Mikhailovitch's guerilla war deep in the mountains of Yugoslavia. With this almost completely documentary background, the story progresses until the General (Philip Dorn) faces the crisis of his career, which is between his cause and the lives of his wife and children. Anna Sten plays the wife who turns herself over to the Gestapo to save an army.

From the fatal crack of a patriot's rifle killing the Nazi commandant in the opening scene, "Chetniks" moves fast and will hold your interest—but not as much as "Commandos." Tuesday and Wednesday.

Monday and Tuesday at the Lyric... the East Side Kids in "Kid Dynamite," which is just about enough to keep us away.

Wednesday it's the "Mummy's Tomb," another ghost story that will probably do little more than scare the audience away, presuming of course that there is an audience. This brew is another in the horror cycle. Lon Chaney, Jr., having been dead for 3,000 years, is revived and brought back by a "high priest" to take vengeance on an archaeologist.

Lieut. William B. Morgan, '41, U. S. Navy, is now commanding officer aboard the USS Governor.

He enlisted in the Navy in July, 1941, and received his preliminary training at Northwestern. He then saw six months service with the Pacific fleet and later with the Caribbean Squadron of the Atlantic Fleet mostly aboard a mine sweeper. Morgan was commissioned an Ensign in January, 1942, and has only recently been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant (jg) and transferred to his present post.

Lieut. Kerwin Butler Adams, '41, Army Air Force, is stationed with General MacArthur's forces in Northern Australia. He received his wings in May, 1942, and saw duty at Maxwell field, Carlstrom field, and Camp Williams. Before joining MacArthur, Lt. Adams was part of the AAF force which flew American troops to scattered Pacific bases.

Joseph T. Lykes, '41, U. S. Navy, was recently commissioned a Lieutenant (jg) and has been assigned to shore duty in London. He had been aboard the USS Rapidan since November 1941.

John F. Tatum, '44, is attending the Naval Air Corps pre-flight school at Del Monte, Calif.

Lieut. George T. Clark, Jr., '25, U. S. Navy, has been transferred to the Naval Air Station at Miami after completing his indoctrination course at the NAC school at Quonset Point, Rhode Island. He was sworn in last November as a member of the USNR and reported on December 22 to the Quonset Point school. Lt. Clark reports that while there he met several W&L men of other years who were also taking the course, notably Max Allen, '23; John Hendon, '24; Bill Cluverius, '25; Harry Burn, '31, and Joseph Birnie, '27, all of whom are lieutenants in the Naval Air corps.

Lt. John D. Battle, '34, Naval Medical corps, has been serving with the Marine corps in the southern Pacific for the past eight months. He was previously attached to the Marine base at New River, N. C.

Lt. M. A. Saunders, '41, U. S. Navy, is currently aboard the USS Beryl and has been in the Navy since June of 1941.

Pfc. Frederick N. Sager, '34, U. S. Marine corps, was a member of the first marine battalion to land on Guadalcanal when the American forces began their operations in that theater of the war.

Ralph E. Lehr, '41, U. S. Army, is attached to the Headquarters Armament Section of the 33rd Bombardment group currently stationed at Barksdale Field, La.

George M. Bohman, Jr., '39, is a private stationed at the AAFTTC Basic Training Center at Miami Beach, Fla.

Pvt. James E. Godfrey, '30, is undergoing detailed training at the Quartermaster corps replacement center at Camp Lee, Va. Two W&L men are seeing duty in North Africa with the U. S. Army Signal corps. They are Lt. Charles G. Hooks, Jr., '41, and Sgt. Francis C. Bryant, '34. Lt. Hooks entered service in June of 1942, and Sgt. Bryant enlisted on April 11, 1942.

Colin T. Baxter, '42, U. S. Marine corps, was commissioned in February as a Second Lieutenant at the Marine base in Quantico and is currently going through an advanced training course which will be completed in May. Intramural Baseball Tourney Postponed By Successive Rains

For the second successive day the rains came and intramural baseball went—to the showers. Downpours and generally unsuitable weather forced postponement of the opening of the I-M baseball season, with the KA-SAE and NFU-PIKA games being set aside until today at four o'clock. Because of the delay Cy Twombly stated that he would try to work in four games today, time permitting. (The diamond was covered with a light snow this morning). This would include the Delt-Beta game and Sigma Chi-Phi Psi tilt. However, if a shortage of playing time permitted only the first two games, the other two would be played on Thursday, and the Mohican-Sigma Nu and Phi Kappa Sigma-Phi Delt games would be played Friday afternoon. Because of the upset of the schedule caused by the weather, games to be played next Monday have not been announced, but will be soon.

When and if the weather decides to permit the I-M teams to get into action, the story will be told on just how badly the AERC, Army Air corps, Navy and poor grades have affected intramural baseball. Of the twenty men comprising the first and second all-intramural teams last year, only four are left. These are: Clancy Ballenger, PIKA third baseman, Vernon Millsap, Kappa Sig right fielder, Myron McKee, Sigma Chi right fielder, and Jack Cancelmo, DU shortstop. The others are either in the armed services or did not return to school at the beginning of the year. Last year's champions, Phi Kappa Sigma, have been hit especially hard.

Nevertheless, while the quantity of competition may be lessened, the team that wins the crown this year will have to fight for it, because each team in the tourney can make the going difficult for its opponents. The Deltas, Sigma Nus, Phi Psis, and PIKAs are not going to be push-overs, and the addition of the "Mohicans" to the field may mean trouble for the opposition. The NFU, with plenty of reserve material to draw upon, will put a good team on the field.

Delts Capture Wrestling Title With 55 Points

Friday night saw the finals of intramural wrestling with Delta Tau Delta winning the tournament with 55 points and Phi Psi and Sigma Nu placing second with 24 points each.

The Delts led the scoring all through the tournament and placed six men in the finals. Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Nu each had two champions, while Beta, NFU, Phi Psi, and PEP had one each.

In the 121-pound class, Jim Berry, Sigma Nu, successfully defended his championship by defeating Keebler, Phi Psi, and by pinning Jim Holloran, Delt, in the finals in 59 seconds.

Jon Hemann, also a Sigma Nu, won the 128-pound championship by defeating Delts Sullivan and Rowe, and by pinning Jug Nelson, Phi Psi, last year's champion, in 1 min., 10 sec. of the third round in the finals.

The 136-pound championship was won by Cullen (Spike) Wimmer, NFU, a finalist in the 128-pound class last year. He defeated Goodpasture, Sigma Nu; Vaughn, NFU; Kennan, NFU; and pinned Harry Wellford, Delt, in the finals in 1 min., 4 sec. of the third round.

Fred Vinson, Beta, won the 145-pound championship by defeating Noonan, SAE; Hairston, Sigma Nu; Kaplan, PEP; and by defeating Dick Jeffrey, Sigma Chi, in the finals, 5-1.

Jack Crist, Delt, won the 155-pound title by defeating McClintock, Sigma Chi; R. Cook, Delt; Babcock, Phi Psi; and Bauer, NFU, in the finals, 6-5.

The 165-pound championship was won by Rick Kiendl, Phi Psi. He defeated Johnston, Sigma Chi; Huntley, Delt; Mullon, Sigma Nu; and last year's champion, Bill McKelway, Delt, in the finals in 1 min., 36 sec. of the third round.

Dyke Norman, Delt, won the heavyweight title by defeating Givens, SAE, and by pinning Lud Michaux, Phi Kap, in the finals in 1 min., 6 sec. of the first round.

Blue Nine Tramples Wahoos In Slugfest After Close 6-5 Loss To VPI Gobblers

Washington and Lee's baseball team played a split bill at home last week, losing 6-5 to VPI on Wednesday but trouncing Virginia on Friday, 15-8, and the Big Blue team was out in front against Virginia yesterday in Charlottesville when the game was called in the fourth inning because of rain.

W&L takes to the road this weekend, playing Richmond on Friday in Richmond and William and Mary on Saturday in Williamsburg.

Washington and Lee dropped a close game to VPI last Wednesday as both clubs pounded out nine hits. Two homers by Johnson and Bushkar gave VPI the winning edge. Most of the scoring was done in the third inning when Johnson's homer for VPI chalked up three runs.

The Generals countered with four runs in the bottom half of the third on a single, two doubles and a beautiful triple by outfielder Bill Van Buren. The Big Blue fielding and batting were up to par as they committed only one error, but pitcher Jay Cook did not have the spark that he has had in practice sessions and had weak control throughout the game.

Longworth carried the mound duties for VPI and allowed nine hits.

With freshman fireman Nelson Newcomb leading the way, W&L's fighting nine last Friday came from behind to whip the University of Virginia Wahoos, 15-8. Virginia leaped to an early lead in the first two frames by picking up 2 and 5 runs respectively, aided by 3 General errors in the second frame, while a double by Jay Cook and a single by Harry Baugher netted W&L one tally in the initial inning.

After the Virginia team had paused at the end of the second, Cap'n Dick Smith sent in Newcomb to put out the fire and sent Pitcher Cook to left field to replace Jack Roehl who was bothered by an ailing arm. Newcomb proceeded to strike out the first two Virginia batters and yielded only three hits during his seven inning stint on the mound.

In the home half of the third inning Freddie Vinson led off with a base on balls. This followed by a single by Cook, a Virginia mis-cue on Baugher's drive to short, and right fielder Bill Van Buren's prodigious four-master to deep center field netted W&L four runs. After Newcomb set down the Wahoos in the first of the fourth, first-sacker Bill McKelway's single, a base on balls to Vinson, a single by Cook plus two Virginia bobbles tallied three more runs for the Generals.

Washington and Lee led by a score of 8-7. The Virginia starting pitcher Latchum had meanwhile been replaced by bespectacled "Junior" Nables in the fourth. In the last of the sixth inning three free passes brought Kirk to the mound for Virginia and sent Nables to the showers. Baugher then laid down a beautiful bunt which brought Newcomb romping in with another tally, sending W&L further into the lead.

After Virginia picked up one run in the first of the seventh, W&L bounded back in the second half to garner six runs on four hits plus two errors, two walks and some weird fielding by the Virginia team. In this inning Jack Crist replaced Van Buren in right and contributed a single to the attack. Newcomb set down the Wahoos one-two-three in the next two innings to complete an excellent pitching job for the day.

Highlights of the game were the pitching of Newcomb, who limited the visitors to three hits while striking out four, the fine hitting of Jay Cook, who had a perfect day with four-for-four, and the third inning homer of Van Buren. The third Virginia pitcher, Kirk, contributed a better performance than the score would indicate, striking out four men in three innings.

It seems that, although Cook didn't quite have his stuff on the mound, as long as he wields such a powerful war club at the plate, he is the big gun of the General attack.

Generally Speaking . . .

By Al Darby

Earl Vickers missed the only two athletic events here since last Wednesday because of illness and asked us to attempt to do the column just this once.

The intramural wrestling tournament was a boost to the student body in numerous ways. Cy Twombly, who directs the intramural program, called it the best tournament we've had here. Then, too, considering that there is such a lack of outside activities here anymore, the tournament was an interest producer for all of us. Conversation at the Corner turned to picking intramural champions.

That wrestling should be popular on a campus like ours is somewhat puzzling in itself. Possibly it stands as a tribute to Archie Mathis. The point is that about 30 per cent of the students entered the tournament and possibly another 40 per cent constituted the audience at the five sessions.

Biggest upset to our way of thinking was Phi Psi. Rick Kiendl's win over Bill McKelway, one of the 18 Delt contestants, Mac was ahead 2-0 in points and needed only to keep from getting pinned when Kiendl did just that with 24 seconds remaining in their 165-pound title clash.

Before the tournament started we couldn't see how Fred Bauer, NFU, could get past the quarter-finals and then when it was all over it amazed us how he had been defeated in the final 155-pound bout. Bauer was leading Delt Jack Crist, 5-2, when he was reversed and rolled into a near fall to lose.

6-5. With the exception of the 121-pound final, where defending champ Jim Berry of Sigma Nu pinned another Delt, Jim "The Dwarf" Holloran, in 59 seconds and in the heavyweight clash where Delt Dyke Norman shouldered (The Mouth) Michaux in 66 seconds, the finals were all as even as one would expect in collegiate wrestling.

Sigma Nu Jon Hemann in the 128-pound final, Spike Wimmer, NFU, in the 136-pound final and Buddy Morris, PEP, in the 175-pound test, all had rather insubstantial point leads when they gained last period falls. Freddy Vinson, the Beta athlete, and the third fresh champ, got the jump on Jeffrey, Sigma Chi, and took the decision.

"Would be nice if the students would display as much enthusiasm over the remaining sports as they did during the wrestling sessions."

Washington and Lee men everywhere were rejoicing when they heard of Cap'n Dick Smith's boys' 15-8 mauling of the Wahoo baseball team last Friday. The way it all came about makes the victory the more enjoyable.

When we got to Wilson field last Friday the Wahoos were ahead 7-1 and it looked like an unhappy day for W&L. Typical antics by Wahoos like the short-stop who threw away three balls and then yelled at the umpire and the left fielder who knocked over a other Charlottesville flychaser and then complained (SPEAKING, page 4)

Spring Dances

Spring vacations at nearby girls' schools.

All members of the Cotillion club are asked to meet at the west end of the gym at 10 p.m., Saturday to walk in the figure.

Chaperones for the Saturday night dance, announced by Millsap today, include Mrs. Gaines, Mrs. Lammers, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Adams, Miss Margaret Wilson, Mrs. Latture and Mrs. Gilliam.

The set leader added that many members of the Army Enlisted Reserve corps, called in February, will be in Lexington for the weekend. Leo Signalgo, president of the set before his induction into the army, told Millsap that he and other AERC men from Fort Eustis and Camp Pickett will be on hand.

117 Girls to Attend Spring Dances This Weekend

Two girls from the Pacific Northwest will be among the 117 girls attending W & L Spring dances this weekend. Leading all other fraternities was Sigma Chi, with Sigma Nu and Delta Tau Delta close behind.

The list is incomplete—three fraternities have folded and three others did not submit names of their dates—and it is conspicuously small.

Following are the girls who will attend the Friday-Saturday dance set:

BETA THETA PI (8)—Molly Crosby, Natchez, Miss.; Martha Scott, RMWC; Joyce Cissel, Washington; Martha Morris, RMWC; Gertrude Wright, Farmville; Anne McCluen, Hollins; Sara Macelhanon, Mary Baldwin; Ann Parker, Hollins.

to the umpire didn't hurt our chances.

However, it also took some timely hitting by the Generals, principally Jay Cook, and a fine turn on the mound by Freshman Nelson Newcomb to accomplish the victory. Newcomb's three-hit, one-run performance in the final seven innings wasn't the kind of a show his namesake, who is president of the Wahoo school, would like.

The most spectacular play of the game came when Carl Johnson General center fielder made a beautiful one-hand running catch off the toe of his shoe.

What with the Generals losing, 6-5, to VPI and then thumping Virginia and VMI's victory over the Gobblers and corresponding loss to the Wahos the Big Six baseball race is certainly a merry scramble at this stage. The Generals' trip to Richmond and Williamsburg this weekend should prove a decisive factor in the final outcome.

We will have to disagree with one observation made by Vickers in his last column. Jim Wheeler is a good catcher but, Wahoo or no, Tabb Gillette is a better man behind the plate. Gillette has a fine arm and, wonder of wonders, is even a good Wahoo. More like him would help Charlottesville.

There will be an important meeting of the Southern Collegian Art and Literary staff tomorrow afternoon (Thursday) in the Student Union at 4 o'clock. It is imperative that all members be present.
