Political Board Calls for New Student Ideas

Report on Progress Declined by Sheffield

A call went out today from the Executive Committee's impartial review board for any additional suggestions from students regarding an improvement in student political elections at Washington and Lee.

I. M. Sheffield, president of the student body and chairman of the review board, also disclosed that the board had requested information from several other schools the size of W&L regarding their campus politics and election systems.

Sheffield refused to comment on the progress being made by the committee in its study of the Honor-All plan, the shake-up proposal that started the current investigation.

He added that no publicity of the board's decision would be forthcoming until a final ruling on future elections is made. He did not indicate when this ruling might be made.

The review board was organized October 28, several weeks after Junior Class president Robert P. Smith and eleven other juniors first introduced the Honor-All plan. The proposal was thoroughly publicized in The Ring-tum Phi, debated at Lee Chapel by its champions and opponents, and then referred to the Executive Committee with a request that the student body be permitted to vote on it.

Sheffield urged all students with further suggestions regarding party organizations and elections at W&L to contact him at once so these ideas can be brought before the review board.

Memphis Editor To Speak To Journalism Fraternity On Press Campaign Role

"The Press and the Presidential Campaign: Do We Have a One-Party Press?" will be the topic of a talk by Frank Ahlgren, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Washington Chapel. The lecture will be sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Mr. Ahlgren, editor of the Commercial Appeal since 1937, and a member of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, will follow his lecture with a short question and answer period with the members of Sigma Delta Chi.

The lecture, according to O.W. Reigel, journalism professor, is especially appropriate in light of the recent presidential campaign, as an overwhelming majority of the press endorsed Eisenhower.

Ilse Blumenthal-Weiss

Talk on German Poet By Noted Critic Set For Monday Night

Ilse Blumenthal-Weiss, internationally known writer and critic, will speak on the German poet Rainer Maria Rilke in Washington Chapel Monday at 7:45. Presented by the German department, the lecture is open to the public.

Mrs. Blumenthal's lecture will be given in English and will include remarks based upon her friendship with Rilke, an estimate of the poet's position in literature, and the reading of several poems in German. Copies of the poems to be read will be provided in German and in English translation for members of the audience.

A poet in her own right, Mrs. Blumenthal originally from Berlin, was the recipient of Rilke's Letters to a Young Woman, one of the most famous collections of letters in 20th century literature. Apart from her personal acquaintance with the poet, she has done considerable research on Rilke's work and published many articles of criticism.

Experienced in public speaking, Mrs. Blumenthal is well known for her activities as a radio performer both in Europe and in New York City. In 1951 she was guest of honor and principal speaker at the Rilke Conference held at Bradley University.

Concert Guild Plans Song Recital for November 24

The Washington and Lee Concert Guild will present Beverly Dame, soprano, in a recital in Lee Chapel at 7:35 p.m. Monday, November 24. The recital is open to the public.

Miss Dame has been active on the stage and in radio and television. She also appears in an important role in the Italian film, The Medium.

Freshmen Elect Dorm Council Representatives

Newly-Formed Group Has Advisory Duties

In an effort to improve dormitory life a special freshman advisory committee has been formed, according to Ruel Tyson, head counselor. The committee is composed of representatives from each section of the dorm.

Freshmen elected to the committee include Trev Armbrister, Clay Carr, Charles Dawson, Charlie Drum, Mike Earp, Jack Friedman, Dave Henderson, Henry Heymann, Bill Houston, Dick Johnson, Don McKaba, Bill McCandless, Ed Nulton, Bill Person, Sam Syme, Dan Thompson, Gordon Thomas and Lee White.

The primary purpose of the committee, Tyson said, is to offer freshmen a voice in dormitory problems through representatives. He added he hoped that the group will afford a medium through which freshmen can air their dissatisfactions concerning dormitory life as well as offer suggestions for the improvement of the dorm in general.

He pointed out that the committee was purely advisory and that it assumed no authority in enforcing dormitory regulations.

In regard to the present plan, Tyson said, "Since this is the first time we have attempted to have an advisory body, we will proceed on a strictly experimental basis. If it proves worthy of fulfilling the motives for which it was set up, it will continue on a permanent basis." (Continued on page four)

Christian Council To Open New Dinner Meeting Series At Virginia Cafe Tuesday

The Christian Council will hold their initial dinner meeting of the year at the Virginia Cafe Tuesday night at 6 p.m.

The dinner meeting is a new innovation for the Council this year. The monthly banquets take the place of the weekly meetings of the group last year.

Speakers on the agenda for the meeting include Ben Martin, president and the Rev. Jan Owen, who was director of campus religious activities last year. Rev. Owen is scheduled to speak on "The Student and The Bible."

Leaders and participants in Bible study groups will review their study thus far, and students who wish to switch from one study group to another will be re-grouped.

Ruel Tyson, director of the Bible study program, will also outline the study plan for the coming month.

Weekend with Boyd Raeburn, Tommy Dorsey Bands Opens Beneath "Big Top" Tonight

Mayflower Party Honoring Set President Terry Whitman Held This Afternoon at 4:30

A festive Openings weekend beneath the "Big Top" will get underway tonight at 10 o'clock in Doremus gym with Boyd Raeburn and his orchestra. With "Circus Time" as a theme, this year's Openings set will also feature Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra, who will be here for tomorrow's concert and dance.

The weekend began unofficially this afternoon with the KA party honoring set president Terry Whitman in the Pine Room of Hotel Mayflower. The party was marked by a large attendance.

Boyd Raeburn and his orchestra will play for tonight's dance which will run from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. The Sophomore figure led by Larry Levitan and the sophomore class officers will begin at 10:30 p.m.

Raeburn was voted "Outstanding Band of the Year" at VPI by their college magazine last year.

Collegian Back After Absence

The Southern Collegian, Washington and Lee's student magazine, will make its first appearance today since it was banned from the campus last February.

Editor Glenn Scott says in an editorial which will appear in the magazine the "scope of the publication has been broadened." Formerly a magazine devoted exclusively to humor, the "new" Collegian contains a student short story and essays of both a serious and light nature.

In the Opening dance issue an essay will appear by James G. Leyburn on campus conformity.

Regarding circulation of the magazine, Si Galperin, business manager, said yesterday that every W&L student will receive a copy. He added that fraternity members will get the Collegian at their fraternity houses today, and that all non-fraternity and married students as well as those who have ordered additional copies will receive the magazine in the mail by Tuesday or Wednesday.

Galperin said that students failing to receive a copy should stop by the Collegian office between 2 and 4 p.m. Thursday.

In addition to the featured essay by Dean Leyburn, the Collegian will contain an article by Sweet Briar college students on how to act on a date with a Washington and Lee man.

Another highlight of the issue will be a picture story on the Faculty Talent Show which raised money for the Charity Chest.

The Collegian was allowed to resume publication this year on the condition that a censorship board including the president of the student body, the president of the Publication Board, the president of ODK, and a Lexington alumnus of W&L pass the content prior to publication.

University Dance Regulations

To help insure satisfactory conduct at Washington and Lee dances, The Ring-tum Phi prints the dance regulations. The Dance Board has announced that "these regulations are to be strictly enforced."

1. All Washington and Lee dances shall be free from intoxicants and the effects thereof.
2. Any person attending a dance in violation of Regulation 1 shall be removed from the gymnasium immediately and suspended from attending any further dances until his case has been tried by the Executive Committee of the Student Body.
3. The penalty for an infraction of Regulation 1 shall be exclusion from dances of a session, for drunkenness or other disorderly conduct. For VISITORS and ALUMNI, the penalties shall not be less than those provided for STUDENTS under similar circumstances.

4. Smoking is prohibited at all times on the dance floor and in the balcony. Smoking within the building is permissible at the west entrance to the dance floor in front of the office and in the smoking lounge.
5. General conduct shall conform to the commonly accepted standards of good society.
6. The Dance Floor Committee is vested with full authority and accepts responsibility for the enforcement of these regulations.

Dewey Says He Would Reject Cabinet Post

By SELDEN CARTER

General Eisenhower's meeting with President Truman has been confirmed for 2 p.m., Tuesday of next week. The expressed purpose of the conference is for the transfer of the Government from the old Administration to the new.

Meanwhile Governor Dewey has announced that he will stop by Augusta, Ga., where the Eisenhowers are resting up, for a conference with the General. Dewey will be on his way to Florida for his vacation, and his Friday stop-over will be at the invitation of Ike.

Subjects which will be discussed are the President-elect's proposed trip to Korea and high-level policy matters. Dewey has been favorably mentioned as Ike's choice for Secretary of State Acheson's job but the Governor maintains that he will finish out his term as Chief Executive of New York state, which will run two more years.

John Foster Dulles, the other obvious choice, has remained singularly silent and no reference to him has as yet been made by Ike. Whatever the case Dulles is still the author of the foreign policy plank of the Republican Party platform.

Senator Taft has indicated that he will meet the General in New York sometime next week, probably after Ike's conference with President Truman.

Also there is a proposed meeting of Congressional Republican leaders in the offing—this to be announced by Representative Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Republican majority leader of the House. The General will carry on his official duties from his residence at 60 Morningside Drive in New York City, his residence while president-on-leave of Columbia University.

Joseph M. Dodge, Detroit banker and former fiscal adviser to General Douglas MacArthur, began his conference with budget authorities in Washington yesterday. He was named last Sunday by Eisenhower as his personal representative to the Bureau of the Budget—and is considered directly in line for the appointment as director of the budget.

It is known in the Eisenhower inner circles that the General plans to make that bureau a strong voice, if not the controlling voice among the federal agencies in his Administration.

General Eisenhower is not expected to name a United Nations representative until after he takes the oath of office on January 20. He will see Senator Alexander Wiley, presently of the American delegation, later this month.

Governor Stevenson, back at his desk in Springfield, at least until his terms runs out this year, had nothing to say on his plans for the future.

We think President Truman has been showing amazing party manners since the election results became official. We also go on record as saying that we do not think Mr. Truman is half the green-eyed ogre he has been made out to be—but simply a man who was not capable of doing the job of being President of the U.S.

It's a big job and let those who scream the loudest think of what they might do if they were in the White House; those who are positive Mr. Truman has no mind. Mr. Bierce said that to be positive is to be mistaken at the top of one's voice. Sounds logical in this corner.

At his final campaign speech in Boston Monday night of last week Mr. Eisenhower said in part: "This is no ordinary election eve. This is a troubled decisive moment in the history of man's long march from darkness toward light..."

We doff our tattered eyeshades to that one, General, and say a fervent "Amen." American battle casualties to date:

Wutopian

Wutopian Eyes Fraternity House Party Life

By HUGH GLICKSTEIN

Aaron Prufrock walked into the house and threw his overcoat over the chair near the door. It wasn't the first coat to be thrown or put there, nor was it the most expensive. In his right hand was a paper bag.

There were five or six people standing around with one foot out like the first step in a minuet. Three of them were girls. They either had paper cups or cigarettes in their hands as they spoke; some had both.

The boys standing there nodded to him as he came in; the girls waited to be recognized; but were disappointed—at least not spoken to. He figured they had enough to say to each other without him standing around on one foot with with them like the first step in a minuet.

In the room next to the foyer were groups of people talking. Paper cups were on the floor beside their chairs or on the window sill or in their hands. There were cigarettes crushed out by the chairs; plenty of them so it looked like each person had his own chips for a poker game. They weren't playing cards. They were laughing, most of them. He didn't go in here.

Instead he went where the music was—downstairs; Louie Armstrong and "Russian Lullaby." He liked primitive bass. It was noisy downstairs but he didn't mind it; he could still hear the music without doing the old dance. The stairs had people sitting on them, so he held the paper bag tightly as he maneuvered in between them. He kicked a girl accidentally as he went down. "Sorry."

At the foot of the stairs he stopped for a minute to look around the room. Standing there, he could see the room moving with the music. To the side a small group had formed around a couple doing the Charleston. The girl enjoyed the group more than she did the dance. The boy was going through the motions obligingly, an accessory to help out the picture.

In the center of the floor, four boys were standing around the phonograph listening. One of them was tapping his foot; another his fingers. The others smoked cigarettes and sipped their drinks.

The rest of the room was shifting through the smoke.

While he was standing there, a tall, badly combed boy walked up to him. "Come join the fun."

"Thanks."
 "Just being polite."
 "You needn't be. Got a date?"
 "Nope. You?"
 "Yeah, I'm carryin' her. Not a bad figure and all she does is listen."

"That can get monotonous, too."
 "I'll tell you later. I'm the optimist, remember."

"I almost forgot. Quite a crowd this weekend."
 "They look happy."

"Optomist and sociologist—nice combination. What makes you think they're happy."
 "You don't hear 'em complainin'."

I can't hear much of anything. My inner ear went numb an hour ago."

"Then you're missin' all the fun. Why don't you get in there and have yourself some fun. You're forgettin' how to relax, friend."

"Maybe you're right. Guess I'll go dance."

He turned around and went back upstairs. The girl he had kicked coming down didn't notice him as he passed her. When he got to the foyer, the group that was there before was gone. All that was left were ashes. He picked up his coat with his left hand. In his right was a paper bag. Downstairs, somebody had put on "Dancing in the Dark."

Les Minkserables: The Success Story of an Expelled Student

By JOE SCHER

LES MINKSERABLES—It is recorded in the registrar's office on the hill that in 1847 Jean Valjean enrolled at Washington and Lee. Jean was an average student, making dean's list his first semester but alas, a black mark is by his name. In February, 1848, Jean Valjean was drummed out of the University for stealing a loaf of bread from the beanery.

"It was for my sick roommate," was his sickly excuse. "Clear the room. Next case," thundered the dean. Thus ends the first phase in the story of Jean Valjean.

The return

In the years that followed, Jean led a noteworthy life, and in an attempt to clear his name he re-entered the university in 1852 under an assumed name. Jean had changed. He had grown taller, stronger, and he had changed his shirt.

No one recognized him. No one ever suspected for a moment that he was the former Jean Valjean who had been expelled—until one day!! Dean Javert saw something familiar about the way the new student drank the others under the table. Max (for this was Jean's new name) excelled in every field.

He won every honor, made Phi Beta and as the crowning glory, he was elected president of the junior cave explorer's guild. Thus ends the second phase in the story of Max, I mean Jean Valjean.

The Girl

Max had befriended a homeless waif named Cussit. Cussit passed her time in Lexington as a bar maid at McCramps, a local tavern, while her guardian attended classes. In fact, it took every cent

Cussit earned to put Max through college.

Max lived in constant fear that Dean Javert would discover his true identity and have him kicked out again. If this happened, Cussit would be left without a guardian and more important, she would give her money to some other bum.

The Revelation

Max decided to run for president of the Student Body, and it was during the heat of the campaign that his opponent, an ex-circus clown named Sebastian O'Toole, revealed to the dean that the honorable Max was none other than Jean Valjean himself.

Dean Javert realized he had been made a fool of. No one makes a fool of the dean and gets away with it, for long. Javert went to Max who was behind a barricade at the freshman dorm making an impassioned plea for votes.

"I've got you now," snarled Javert as he hurled a political science book at the dumbfounded Max. "I'll teach you a lesson for making an ass of me," hissed the dean.

The Climax

Max realized his goose was cooked. If the dean got him he would be expelled and Cussit would disown him. If only there were an avenue of escape, but wait! The sewers of Lexington!

Taking his soapbox over his back, Max dashed to the nearest manhole and jumped in head first. He fractured his skull. The manhole cover was still on. "Damn conventions," muttered Max as he climbed stealthily into the swirling waters of lower Lexington.

Dean Javert was close behind. Max trekked for miles through the muck and mire, but still the ever-persistent Javert was breathing down his neck. Finally a light loomed ahead.

Max stuck out his head and breathed the fresh air of his expected freedom but alas, he was not free. For Max had followed the sewer and was now in Buena Vista! "This is too much," moaned Max as he surrendered to the waiting Javert.

"I'll have your scalp now," screamed Javert, resplendent in his ultimate victory. "Make a fool of me, will ya. You'll be dragged before the Executive Committee and expelled once and for all."

Valjean sneered a sneer, for he knew, that justice had triumphed. For among his many honors, Max had been elected chairman of the Executive Committee and he knew he wouldn't expel himself.

Thus ended the last phase in the crazy story of Jean Valjean.

3 Professors Attend Knoxville Meeting

Drs. Ollinger Crenshaw, William A. Jenks, and Allen W. Moger, from the W&L History Department, attended the annual meeting of the Southern Historical Association in Knoxville last Thursday through Saturday. Dr. Crenshaw sat in on meetings of the executive council, of which he is a member. All three men attended meetings of the various panels and groups.

The Southern Historical Association is composed of writers and teachers, most from the South, who are interested in history of the South. There are panels in other fields of history but most of the activity was devoted to Southern History. Next year's meeting of the Association will be held in Jacksonville.

Once-Beaten Bearcats Play Host To Crippled Generals Tomorrow

A crippled Washington and Lee football team leaves here today by bus for Roanoke and then a train trip to Cincinnati where they will meet the once-defeated University of Cincinnati. Finishing last week's game with the Wolfpack with ten men on the injured list, the Generals' prospects don't appear bright.

Most of the injuries are in the defensive team, the latest being big Harold Brooks, a 230-pound sophomore tackle. Brooks, who has been playing most of the year with a broken bone in his wrist, had a tooth knocked out against State and in the process his mouth was badly cut. Being one of the Generals' best defensive men, his loss will be costly.

Also lost to the Generals' defensive team is Bill Rawlings, regular defensive guard from Newport, Ky. Rawlings has been out of action since October 18 with a leg injury. The 190-pound senior was one of Coach Carl Wise's key men on the defensive team.

Offensively, the Generals are in fair shape with the return of half-back Randy Broyles, who is expected to bolster the W&L attack. Broyles is second to teammate Wes Abrams in the Southern Conference rushing statistics, having gained 553 yards in seven games for a 5.8-yard per carry average. Just how long the speedy halfback will remain in the game remains to be seen. Sophomore Carl Bolt will likely alternate with Broyles, who has not practiced in two weeks and is therefore not in tip-top shape.

Abrams, SC leader with 604 yards gained and a 7.1 average, along with Ciro Barcellona, who has gained 385 yards on the ground, will be expected to bear the brunt of the attack. Another top offensive threat is Captain Bob Thomas, All-Southern selection in 1951, who has a record of 25 passes caught for 449 yards and six scores for the season.

Besides Thomas in the forward wall will be Irving Pratt at the other end, Dan Popovich and Roger Hagy at the tackles, Tom Fieldson and either Jack Kibler or Bob Lafferty in the guard positions, and Bill McHenry over the Playoffs in 3 Sports Started in IM Loops

Interfraternity competition in football, tennis and bowling has been completed and playoffs between leaders has begun.

On November 11, the Phi Kaps, League A football champions, crushed League B winning KA by 34-0. Next afternoon, Phi Delt, League D's top team, won first downs in a tied 7-7 contest against League C's leader, SAE.

KA's Tackle Phi Delts

Today KA will take the field against the Phi Delts, who will clash with the Phi Kaps on Monday in other football playoff competition. On Tuesday, KA will tangle with SAE in the last playoff.

All league winners in tennis have been decided. Phi Kap took League A honors, while League B's champions are the Phi Delts. League C and D are led by Kappa Sigma and SAE, respectively.

League bowling matches have been completed also; results show that Lambda Chi topped League A with a 3-0 record, Sigma Chi in League B with 3-0, Phi Gam (4-0) in League C, and PiKA in D, (4-0).

Today's playoff bowling matches are Lambda Chi-Sigma Chi and Phi Gam-PiKA. On Monday, Phi Gam faces Lambda Chi and Sigma Chi goes against PiKA.

Booters Oppose Cavaliers In Last Contest of Season

Action will be the order of the day when the University of Virginia's booters meet Washington and Lee on the Generals' field today in the last game of the 1952 soccer season.

The Generals will be out to avenge their 2-0 defeat at the hands of the Cavaliers earlier in the season, which the winners gained on penalty shots. Both teams stood out on defense but neither could get its attack rolling. W&L will be working with a new defense and offense as the team is suffering from many injuries.

Last Wednesday, W&L's booters succumbed to Duke, 9-1, at Durham, N.C.

A bright note is that Carl Rump, who at the first of the season was a potential All-American goalie but who received a severe knee injury in an early game, may be able to take over his old duties for the last game of the season.

Injury Jinx Rough on Generals; SWMSFC Gives Morale Assist

By HARDIN MARION

At this time with the season's final football clash so near at hand, I feel that it is only proper to give a deserved bit of commendation to the Student War Memorial Scholarship Fund Committee for its showing last night of the movies of the 1951 Washington and Lee-University of Virginia football contest.

The film of the startling 42-14 General upset victory, although very worn from constant showings by various school-spirited Minks wishing to refresh their memories of the tilt which, following the '51 season, was called by the Associated Press the "Upset of the Year," proved to be very popular, especially among the freshmen, who were unable to witness the great event first-hand.

If there is anything that the '52 edition of the Blue and White needs at this point it is certainly morale. There seems to be no end to the injury jinx which has ridden the Generals during this entire season. At one time or another throughout the year 15 starters have been hurt. Of these 15 eight play on the defensive platoon.

After graduation virtually wrecked the defense of last season, missing these invaluable men during the current campaign has shown up to the tune of 251 points which have been tallied against the Big Blue in the eight games played thus far.

Those who have fallen prey to injuries are Bill Rawlings, Don Weaver, Bill McHenry, Roger Hagy, Bill Trollinger, Irving Pratt, Harold Brooks, Connie Flanders, Jim Main, Ciro Barcellona, Randy Broyles, Noel Spence, Jack Kibler, Ken Groenveld and Dan Popovich.

Hagy, Barcellona, Broyles, Spence, Kibler, Groenveld, and Popovich have been used solely on offense, while McHenry and Pratt have been forced at times by the number of men benched to play on both offense and defense.

W&L Coach Carl Wise is having to leave behind four of these grid-ers when the General squad travels to Cincinnati for the contest with the University of Cincinnati tomorrow. These four who are currently sidelined with injuries are Kibler, Pratt, Popovich, and Weaver.

While on the subject of tomorrow's game, it is interesting to note that the University of Cincinnati is the only school on the 1952 slate which the Generals have never met before on the gridiron.

Only five of this year's opponents were on the schedule last season, Davidson, Richmond, West Virginia, Virginia Tech and Virginia. All four of the teams which administered defeats to the '51 Generals—Maryland, Tennessee, Louisville, and the University of Miami—were dropped from the slate, in addition to Furman.

The last meeting between Washington and Lee and North Carolina State was back in 1930 when the Blue and White took a 27-6 verdict. Looking back upon last Saturday's tilt, it seems, however, that the Wolfpack had quite a long memory while biding its time over the 22-year interim.

Dr. Gaines' Son Installed Head of Wofford College

Inauguration of Dr. Pendleton Gaines, son of Washington and Lee President Francis P. Gaines, as president of Wofford College was held today.

The W&L president was speaker at a luncheon for honor guests following the ceremony in the college's Memorial Auditorium.

The younger Gaines assumed the presidency of the South Carolina school on August 1, succeeding Dr. Walter K. Greene, who retired.

"The most distinguished group of visitors ever to assemble on the Wofford campus in her 100-year history" was expected by Dean C. C. Norton. Principal address was to be delivered by Dr. Umphrey Lee of Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Tex., the school where Gaines Jr. was previously dean of students.

189 AWARDS LAST YEAR!

Write a Lucky Strike jingle!

No box tops! NO ENTRY BLANKS! It's easy!
 Just write a 4-line jingle based on the fact that

LUCKIES ARE MADE BETTER TO TASTE BETTER!*

Here's your chance to make yourself $25. Just write a 4-line Lucky Strike jingle, based on the fact that Luckies are made better to taste better.* Then, if we select your jingle, we'll pay you for the right to use it, together with your name, in Lucky Strike advertising... probably in this paper.

Read the sample jingles on this page. Then get the gang together, break out the rhyming dictionary, and start writing. It's fun! And we're buying jingles by the bushel!

Hint—if you can sing your jingle, it's a good one!
 Hint—the more jingles you write, the more money you have a chance of making.
 Hint—be sure to read all the instructions!

HERE ARE THE INSTRUCTIONS

1. Write your Lucky Strike jingle on a plain piece of paper or post card and send it to Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y. Be sure that your name, address, college and class are included—and that they are legible.
2. Base your jingle on any qualities of Luckies. "Luckies are made better to taste better," is only one. (See "Tips to money-makers.")
3. Every student of any college, university or post-graduate school may submit jingles.
4. You may submit as many jingles as you like. Remember, you are eligible to win more than one $25 award.

TIPS TO MONEY-MAKERS

To write a winning Lucky Strike jingle, you're not limited to "Luckies are made better to taste better." Use any other sales points on Lucky Strike such as the following:
 Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco
 Luckies' cigarette-tearing demonstration
 Luckies taste cleaner, fresher, smoother
 Be Happy—Go Lucky
 So round, so firm, so fully packed
 So free and easy on the draw
 Buy Luckies by the carton
 Luckies give you deep-down smoking enjoyment

*I've heard the same in every class—
 In history, psych, and ec—
 For cleaner, fresher, smoother smokes,
 It's Lucky Strike, by heck!*

*I like a better-tasting smoke
 And mildness counts with me.
 So when I buy I keep in mind
 That L.S./M.F.T.!*
