BOTH PARTIES TO NAME SLATES

The old Army game of wearing clothes several sizes too large receives the usual response from three ROTC Members who will attend summer camp at Ft. Eustis. Left to right are John Daniel, William Moore, and Harold Chenault. 17 ROTC Men To Get Taste Of Army Life

Training in the field will replace classroom tactics for 17 local ROTC students.

Colonel Richard W. Jones, PMS&T, recently completed a three-day conference at Fort Eustis where training plans were formulated.

The W&L students will join more than a thousand other would-be officers from colleges and universities who will attend a six-week course at the Army's transportation center from June 20 to August 1.

Subjects Studied

Port activity, convoy operations, marksmanship, bivouac training, atomic warfare, chemical warfare, supply and maintenance will be among the subjects studied by the future officers.

Transportation officers at Fort Eustis conduct the summer training program for ROTC cadets each year. The work in the field supplements subjects studied in the classrooms throughout the academic year.

While at Summer Camp, the students live in Army barracks and follow a rigid training schedule that normally lasts from 5:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A veteran of last year's camp was quick to point out to this year's initiates that "normal Army hours" are flexible. "Several times during our camp," said the veteran, "we were called out to load ships or trucks at 3 a.m."

14-Mile Hike

As a departure from normal camp routine, the trainees head for the field on a 14-mile hike with full pack to set up camp in a bivouac area. Combat marches with light packs vary the schedule from time to time.

Students who complete the Summer training and the four-year course in classroom instruction will be offered commissions as second lieutenants in the Army's Transportation Corps.

The 1953 contingent will be the second from Washington and Lee to participate in the field training which is held each summer for students in their third year of ROTC at Fort Eustis.

State Attorney General Backs Treaty Proposal in Chapel

A strong endorsement of the proposed Bricker amendments to the Constitution, which would limit United States treaty-making powers, was given today by J. Lindsay Almond, attorney general of Virginia.

Varsity Show Goes to Sem

SWMSFC's second annual Varsity Show goes to Southern Sem tonight and receipts from the performance should boost the Student War Memorial Scholarship Fund to within $200 of its $10,000 goal. Profit from Tuesday's Varsity Show performance at W&L, sale of Spring Dance flowers, and SWMSFC's share of the gate receipts at the Varsity-Alumni football game Saturday have raised the fund's present total to slightly over $9,700.

Almond addressed Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, this noon in Lee Chapel.

"Ours is a government of limited and delegated powers, except for the treaty making power," Almond told the law students, "and there is no other nation, with the exception of France, which makes a treaty self-executed without submitting it to its parliamentary body."

Ratification by Congress

The amendment, proposed by Senator John Bricker, of Ohio, would make it necessary for treaties to be ratified by the Congress, he said. The Bricker proposal seeks to amend Article Six of the Constitution.

Stating that he is heartily in favor of the United Nations, Almond said he nevertheless believes the UN is branching out beyond its scope of purely international affairs.

20-Year-Old Student To Have Novel Published

By JOE SCHER

A Washington and Lee University junior will be among the new novelists presented to the American reading public in 1954. Glenn Scott, a 20-year-old, crew-cut Virginian recently signed a contract with E. P. Dutton and Co., Inc., of New York for publication of his first novel, "A Sound of Voices Dying." Scott has aspired to be a writer since he was 15. His early writing consisted of mystery stories and while attending Smithfield High School he worked on his father's weekly paper, the Smithfield Times.

He wrote a radio adaptation of Edgar Allan Poe's short, "The Cask of Amontillado" which was broadcast over WRVA in Richmond by the Sound Stage radio group directed by Warner Twyford. The same group turned down another script by Scott which was a science-fiction story involving the assassination of the President of the United States. His story was written before the attempt on Harry Truman's life.

Journalism Major
At Washington and Lee Scott, a journalism major, has contributed short stories to the literary magazine, Shenandoah and to the student humor magazine, The Southern Collegian, of which he is now editor.

Scott wrote his 90,000 word novel during the summer of 1951 between his freshman and sophomore years at W&L. He worked on it only for two or three hours each night since his work on his father's newspaper kept him busy during the day. He averaged more than 1000 words a night.

In creative writing class at Washington and Lee under Dr. George Foster, who is now a script writer for the Walt Disney Studios in Hollywood, he revised his 366 page manuscript. Last year a vice president of E. P. Dutton and Co. came through Lexington scouting for manuscripts. Scott submitted his, and three weeks later received a letter saying that the company wanted to talk to him about his book. Subsequent talks led to the recently signed contract and a tentative publication date of February, 1954.

Bill Bailey and Gil Bocetti Set As Cliques Presidential Nominees

The Student Body Nominating Convention opens in Lee Chapel at 7:30 tonight with both University and Independent Parties planning to offer full slates of candidates.

Bill Bailey, a freshman lawyer, will be the Independent Party's candidate for President of the Student Body. Gil Bocetti, an intermediate lawyer, will be nominated by the University Party for the same office.

Other members of the Independent ticket are: Vice President—Gordon Taylor, Secretary—Gray Castle, President of

*Fancy Dress—Steve Schlossman, and President of Finals—Dean Guy.

Doremus Showers To Be Renovated; Crusade Pays Off

Students returning to school next fall will find an improvement in Doremus Gymnasium. The Ring-tum Phi's long and fervent crusade for renovation of the showers has brought response.

Earl S. Mattingly, University Treasurer, announced today that as a result of a $10,000 donation by Will H. Smith, Ardmore, Okla., the shower rooms will be retiled and new fixtures installed.

Smith, a graduate of 1915 and a former W&L athlete, originally gave $7,500 during the Bicentennial for an extension to the gym then proposed. When the plans had to be delayed he was asked if his donation could be used for the shower room clean-up.

The ex-Mink not only agreed but chipped in another $2,500, "to do the job right."

Mattingly said the project is a big one. "We hope to start work in the near future and the showers should be ready next fall."

Notices

The two amendments to the Student Body Constitution will be voted on Friday at the same time as Student Body elections are held. Familiarize yourself with them.

The sophomore party will be held Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 p.m. at the DU house.

Col. Francis P. Miller will speak in Lee Chapel Friday at 8 p.m.

University Party

University Party nominees, besides Bocetti, are as reported earlier in The Ring-tum Phi. Vice President—Bob Paxton, Secretary—Jerry South, President of Fancy Dress—Beau Redmond, and President of Finals—Charlie Smith.

Despite reports to the contrary, Independent Party officials decided not to allow the Student Body elections Friday to go by default. Representatives of the various Little Clique houses met twice last night and decided on the slate headed by Bailey.

Big Clique spokesmen believe that the split in the University Party caused by the proposed EC political reform amendment has "practically healed" and are confident of victory in Friday's Student Body election.

Weak Slate

Despite continual defeats at the polls, Independents stressed their belief that this year's University slate was "one of the weakest in recent years." They believe this "is a factor which will work in

Johnson, Parsons, Dodd Win News Writing Contest

Winners of the Sigma Delta Chi news writing contest were announced yesterday by Roger W. Dudley, president of the professional journalism fraternity. They are William L. Johnson, Jr., Frank A. Parsons, and Harvey A. Dodd. Johnson placed first with a feature story on Mrs. Charles L. Green, wife of the W&L registrar. The story told of how her hand-weaving hobby had blossomed into a full-time business. Johnson is a senior journalism major.

Placing second was Frank Parsons with a story on a visit by Gen. James Van Fleet to a group of British soldiers in Korea. The entry was written while he was Korean bureau chief of the Pacific Stars and Stripes.

Parsons is a junior who intends to go into small town newspapering. He served for one year as news editor of the Clifton Forge Daily Review and is now a managing editor of The Ring-tum Phi. He was the only winner to turn in more than one entry.

Third place winner was Harvey Dodd, a senior journalism major. Dodd's story was a feature on the death of Joseph Stalin. Reactions of prominent Lexington residents to Stalin's death were recorded in the story.

Certificates will be awarded to the winners at the next Sigma Delta Chi meeting.

Judges were Professor O. W. Riegel, head of the Journalism department, Matthew W. Paxton, editor of The Rockbridge County News, and Dudley.

Commons Will Aid Non-Fraternity Men

The possibility of a new dormitory and common eating hall is not so removed from the present that it does not evoke imagination.

As presented, the idea can be separated—and already has been by some critics of the proposal—into separate projects, obviously one being the dorm and the other, the eating hall.

For the purpose of analysis, it's just as well that the separation exists. The dormitory, which will be self-liquidating as is the present one, will offer sleeping facilities for upperclassmen.

For those who are members of a fraternity, the dormitory provides the physical advantages of convenience and improved facilities.

Forced Isolation

Moreover, they will be able to join in more successfully with the existing common life of the university. At the present these men are relegated to a particular niche and undergo unnecessarily the disadvantages—often crushing—of forced isolation from the majority of the university.

As said, the dormitory will be self-liquidating, i.e., will pay for itself from the regular use of the rooms. From the standpoint of practicability, this factor weighs heavily in consideration.

The common dining hall will be used to serve the freshman class during their entire first year. From the standpoint of the freshmen it will give them the opportunity for class unity and spirit derived therefrom.

Sound Advice

The dining hall will give these men the opportunity to develop worthwhile relationships. Upper-class counselors and perhaps bachelor professors will take their meals with the freshmen, who will have the opportunity for sound rather than glib advice as well as intelligent sociability.

From the standpoint of the fraternities, friction will be caused in two respects. There will be a loss of revenue due to the dining room. It is certainly true that costs have gone up since the war; therefore the loss is important.

By Hugh Glickstein

The University's holding of the fraternity mortgages will work to the benefit of the fraternities; as it has in the past—particularly in the past war.

The University's holding of the fraternity mortgages will work to the benefit of the fraternities; as it has in the past—particularly in the past war. In another respect of the dining hall, the question has been brought up as to the status of first year men in regard to the fraternities.

'Combined Effort'

The project should be a combined effort, i.e., if the dormitory is to be built, the dining hall should be constructed also. Once more, as in past questions during the year, each interested student—that is, each man who considers himself a part of the University—must face up to the dual role which he plays if he is in a fraternity.

NEWS BRIEFS

Deferment Test

Dr. William Hinton, today reminded students taking the selective service college qualification test that they must report to the foyer of Washington College not later than 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

Dr. Hinton, supervisor of the Washington and Lee testing station, said the student's admission card would serve as his absence excuse for classes missed Thursday morning.

In addition to their admission cards, students taking the test must bring an official Selective Service document such as their Notice Classification (SSS Form 110) or their Notice of Identification (SSS Form 391).

A fountain pen or No. 2 pencil will be needed to fill in certain informational items on the test blanks. The test proper will be marked with a special pencil which will be supplied by the examiner.

Dr. Hinton said no special preparation for the test was necessary but urged students taking it to get a good night's sleep and to report on time.

The test is expected to be finished by 12:30 p.m.

Best Drilled Cadet

The winner in the ROTC Department's week-long contest to determine the best drilled first year cadet will receive an award tomorrow at the Corps Day drill.

Preliminary selection began last Monday when squad leaders, assisted by their platoon leaders, started picking the best-drilled first-year private from each squad.

By the end of the week the best man from each company had been picked. Final judging will be completed tomorrow shortly before the presentation of the award. The company of the winning cadet will receive five points in honor company competition.

Fishwick Attends

Dr. Marshall Fishwick, associate professor of American Studies was elected president of the Faculty Episcopals of the Diocese of Southwest Virginia at the group's annual meeting in Lynchburg last weekend.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Dr. Gordon K. Chalmers, president of Kenyon College.

Members of the organization include teachers and administrators from schools and colleges in the western part of the state.

Col. F. Miller Will Speak At Steak Fry

The Christian Council's annual steak fry at Goshen Pass Saturday will feature an informal discussion of the practical aspects of Christianity led by Col. Francis P. Miller, long-time leader of the "anti-Byrd" faction of the Virginia Democratic Party.

After speaking in Lee Chapel at 8 p.m. Friday on "Christianity, Democracy, and Capitalism," Col. Miller will be the guest of honor at the Christian Council's Goshen retreat. He will give members of the Council his views on Christianity as applied to politics, journalism, education, and other fields with which he has had experience.

Roy Herrenkohl, president-elect of the Christian Council said students wishing to go on the retreat should contact Monte Pearse at the Sigma Chi house before noon Friday.

Officers for the coming year will also be formally installed at Saturday's retreat. Besides Herrenkohl they are: vice president, Bob Paxton; secretary, Monte Pearse; and treasurer, Bob Whitaker.

Chairmen of the Council's various committees are: mountain missions, Joe Gardiner; church relations, Charles Drum; freshman work, Bob Smith; Boy's Club, Frank Giddon, Jim Howe, and Dick Rosenberg; Religious Emphasis Week, Bill Guthrie, and publicity Clay Carr.

Harry Porter is chairman of the Bible Study Group. Other Bible leaders are: Pete Doyle, Art Williams, Joe Gardiner, Bob Whitaker, Monte Pearse, Bill Craig, and Bob Smith.

NOTICE

The Christian Council Bible Study Group will hold its regular meeting tonight at 9 p.m. in the Student Union.

W&L Alumnus John W. Davis Made Knight by Queen Elizabeth

By DAVE CLINGER

John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924 and member of the class of 1892, has been appointed an honorary knight Grand Cross of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire by Queen Elizabeth II. In making the announcement early this week, the British Embassy said the decoration was the highest rank of the order and was the highest civilian distinction the Queen can bestow on a United States citizen.

The announcement came on the eve of Davis' 80th birthday Monday.

Davis served as United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James from 1918 to 1921.

He received his A.B. degree from Washington and Lee in 1892 and his LL. B. in 1895. He holds honorary degrees from Princeton, Brown, Yale, University of Glasgow, Dartmouth, and W&L.

While here he was a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa.

Davis was elected to the 62nd and 63rd Congresses and was Solicitor-General for the United States from 1913-1918. In 1918 he worked on the treatment and exchange of prisoners of war at Berne, and in 1922 he was elected head of the American Bar Association.

In 1924 he ran against Calvin Coolidge for President of the United States.

According to a report in Fortune he is "famous for his calm, gracious, and modest elucidation of complex matters" and has "been before the U. S. Supreme Court oftener than any other lawyer in history." He is senior partner in the firm of Davis, Polk, Wardell, Sunderland and Kiendl of 15 Broad Street, New York.

He was mentioned often in headlines last December when he represented the State of South Carolina in the Supreme Court hearing on racial segregation in the state's schools. Davis gave his services free of charge for that case.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina was one of the many who visited Davis as he celebrated his 80th birthday last Monday.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"LISTEN, BIRD-BRAIN, don't get soar, but I cooed never love you," said Sheedy's little chickadee. "Your hair's strictly for the birds! Better remember the tree cardinal rules for social success so you won't be an also-wren. 1. Hop to a toilet goods counter. 2. Peck up a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's Favorite Hair Tonic. Contains Lanolin. Non-alcoholic. Grooms the hair. Relieves dryness. Removes goose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. 3. Use it daily and people will love you." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil for himself and a diamond wing for his tweetie-pie. Better buy a bottle or tube today. Or ask for it at your barber's. If you don't you're cookoo!

Alumni Defeat Varsity 19-13 In Downpour

If Saturday's football game between the Varsity and Alumni is an example of what's to come this football season then head Coach Carl Wise has something to smile about.

Saturday Wise watched his 1953 varsity "one-platoon" style all but make off with a deadlock in its battle with a star-studded alumni outfit. The final score read Varsity 13 Alumni 19, in the contest which marked the end of W&L's spring drills, and in which the entire second half was played in a steady rain.

The Wisemen, whose schedule is anything but easy this fall, turned what looked a rout into a good ball game in the second half. The passing of quarterback Joe Lindsey and the running of Harvey Hill, the Arkansas Traveler, sparked the varsity effort.

Guard Jack Kibler, end Ken Groeneveld and captain Bill McHenry were also outstanding for the Varsity.

Guard Dick Schaub pulled the game out for the Alumni as he grabbed a Varsity fumble in the last quarter and raced 30 yards for the final TD.

Wise must have been exceptionally pleased with his defense after last fall. Despite the fact the Alumni picked up 223 yards rushing, the defensive outfit effectively contained their scoring potential.

Included in the offensive lineup for the "old grads" were Gil Bocetti, two-time all-Southern quarterback; Wes Abrams and Randy Broyles, the top runners in the conference last season; Jim Stark and Walt Michaels, from the 1950 eleven and Charlie Harrington. The 1950 club won the Southern Conference crown and went to the Gator Bowl.

For a time it looked like the game would go as predicted.

Broyles raced 42 yards from scrimmage to the varsity eight. Abrams, after a penalty carried the pigskin back to the 13, went through the middle to pay dirt.

In the second quarter the Alumni scored again as Bocetti hit Stark in the end zone on a 17-yard pass.

However, after the half, the picture changed as the Varsity racked up two quick tallies, almost enough to win.

Tennis Team Bows 6-3 to W. and M.

W&L's tennis team took it on the chin for the third time this year, dropping a 6-3 verdict to William and Mary at Williamsburg yesterday afternoon.

Hampden-Sydney visits Lexington on Thursday and takes on the racketmen at 2:30 p.m.

Coach Jim Farrar said yesterday's loss was a "bitter defeat," and that he "didn't want to talk about it."

Dave Murphy, Pat Patterson and Art McCain won the single matches for the Blue. The doubles team lost. The cold wind and wet courts spiced up the play a little.

Cindermen Prepare for WVU After Roanoke Loss

The track team, with two losses and one win in the young '53 season, is working hard this week in preparation for its trip to West Virginia University Saturday. A strong Roanoke College track team dumped the Generals on the home cinders Friday, by a score of 75-47. Roanoke had too much speed and too much depth in the running events, taking first in all runs except the hurdles. W&L looked good in the field events. The Blue was one-two-three in the pole-vault, one-two in the discus and had second in the shot, broad jump and high jump.

Harry Kennedy was again high point man for the losers, taking both hurdles.

Doc Elliott: Time Out Yankee Myth Over Shadows Other Clubs

The Yankee myth. It was started in the 1920's by a fellow named George Herman Ruth, and it has been plaguing baseball ever since.

Yes, Ruth, the Red Sox pitching sensation who came to the Yankees and began a new trend in the national pastime. Ruth was the first man to take the game away from the pitchers and hand it to the hitters—the power hitters.

When Ruth, with all his color came to New York, the Yanks were just another team. As his feats increased so did attendance at Yankee Stadium. It can truly be called "the house that Ruth built!" This man was the greatest drawing card in the history of baseball, and he gave the Yankee front office the much needed funds to establish the greatest farm system in the majors today.

After Ruth there was Gehrig, after him Dimaggio, and now the lad who is holding up the myth is Mickey Mantle. There is no question as to the greatness of the aforementioned, but Mantle is another story.

Through smart publicity and lots of it Mantle has become the most overrated player in the majors today. Already, so they say, he is better than Dimaggio ever was—and even Dimaggio admits it, which is ridiculous. If some writers had their way, Mantle would already be in the Hall of Fame along with his bat and ball of 562 feet glory.

The big question still remains, could Mantle become the Bomber Bust? Perhaps the best phrasing is found in the Camel ads—"how can they tell so soon," and the same thing applies in Mickey's case. The kid has been up all of two and one-half seasons and he is all ready to break Ruth's record of 60 homers, Dimaggio's 54-game hitting streak and numerous other all time highs of baseball.

It is almost impossible to find a baseball magazine without Mantle's picture on the cover or without a story about him. According to the "experts" he is the greatest outfielder in baseball today. No one can compare with him.

But what, aside from smart publicity, keeps the myth alive? That's right, the baseball fan, or in this case the Yankee fan, a person who falls in an entirely different category.

The average Yankee fan has no knowledge of baseball whatsoever. Ask any girl, your next date for example, who do you like in the American League, or name five major league baseball clubs. Nine chances out of ten she will answer: I like the New York Yankees; or five teams? ... "well there are the Yankees and ... and ... and." In some instances she may be able to name the Dodgers.

Ask any small child what baseball player he wants to grow up and be like. The answer will probably range from Babe Ruth to Yogi Berra—all Yankees.

From childhood the myth is born, and it has become so entrenched over the years that people seem to have forgotten that other major league clubs exist.

Then we have the other type of Yankee fan. The man who knows something about the game, but still gives his all to the Bombers.

As an example lets take a citizen of a medium sized east coast Virginia city. He is "a typical" citizen—an insurance salesman—he lives comfortably with his wife and two children; that is when the Yankees are winning, but when they loose, look out. Every chance he gets he travels to Washington, and sometimes to New York to see them play, and there is nothing better than to come home like the great victor after a Yankee win.

But when they loose... well, last season in August the Detroit Tigers, then the worst club in the league, handed the Yanks four straight setbacks and took a five game series four games to one. What did our fan say? "Well you can't win 'em all." Naturally there was much sulking for several days.

The Tiger victories came as a result of "luck." But take the case of the Yankee 4-3 win over Chicago last season when the game was called on account of rain. The White Sox had scored two runs in the eighth, but the score reverted to the seventh. This was skill says our Yankee fan.

And so it goes, the Yanks con-

 Sigma Nu, Phi Epsilon Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Delta Theta, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Upsilon, and Phi Kappa Psi will furnish approximately an hour and a half of varied entertainment at the Sem beginning at 7:30 tonight. Gray Castle, chairman of SWMSFC, urged students who missed last Tuesday's performance here to take in the Varsity Show in Buena Vista tonight. "The show is too good to miss. You'll be helping us reach our goal and at the same time have a very entertaining evening," Castle said. Saturday's Varsity-Alumni football game netted approximately $575. Of this, $200 will be used to give the team a banquet at Natural Bridge. The Scholarship Committee receives $225 and the Athletic Association $150 of the remainder.

Nothing-no, nothing-beats better taste and LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!
 Cleaner, Fresher, Smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?
 You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.
 Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.
 So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—for the cleaner, fresher, smoother taste of Lucky Strike...

Be Happy-GO LUCKY!

The echo's heard the campus round, So here's a tip from me: It's Luckies for their mildness and For extra quality!

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER LUCKIES IN NATION-WIDE SURVEY!
 Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. Survey also shows Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.
