

Monograms Awarded To 53 Athletes

Athletes Are Honored At Annual Banquet

Fifty-one athletes and two managers have been awarded Washington and Lee varsity monograms for participation in three fall sports, Athletic Director E. P. "Cy" Twombly announced today.

The awards were made at the second annual Fall Sports Banquet, held this week at Natural Bridge Hotel. Included were monograms for 25 football players and one manager, 15 soccer men and one manager, and 11 cross-country runners.

Football letters, presented by Coach Bill Chipley, went to Carl Bailey, Bob Blair, Lee Brantley, Corky Briscoe, Joe Cambria, Rupe Chisholm, Roger Doyle, Earl Gillespie, Fred Heina, Dickey Johnson, Paul Knox, Clark Lea, Greg McNeer, Dean McKnight, Marv Moreland, Barb Neblett, Pres Pate, Jim Perryman, John Pipkin, Tom Salsbury, Ira Samelson, Ike Smith, Don Stine, Glen Watring, and manager Phil Laughlin.

Coach Chipley also presented the Clovis Moohaw Memorial Award to senior Earl Gillespie as the outstanding blocker on the squad who also displayed high qualities of leadership and sportsmanship. The award is in memory of the 1911 General football captain who was killed in World War I. Gillespie was the sole member of the 1955 team who had lettered under Washington and Lee's now-abandoned subsidized athletic program.

Marshall Gives Documents For Library

By LASH LARUE

The George C. Marshall Research Foundation, Inc., a non-profit corporation is drafting plans for construction of a building to house the historical documents connected with General George C. Marshall.

The Library, which would be the nucleus for all research on General Marshall is to be located on the campus of Virginia Military Institute.

General Marshall, a graduate of VMI, has announced recently that he is willing to release his personal papers for use in writing a biography of him. These would be stored in the proposed Library and would be available for all legitimate research projects.

President Eisenhower has issued a proclamation that photostatic copies of all relevant government papers will be deposited there.

Mr. John C. Hagan, Jr., Richmond, Virginia, an alumnus of VMI and a former member of the VMI Board of Visitors, is the President of the Foundation.

Dr. Francis P. Gaines and General William H. Milton, Jr., Superintendent of VMI, as heads of the two respective institutions serve on the board as stipulated in the Charter of the Foundation.

The Foundation is now attempting to raise money for the construction of the Library.

Summer Study In England Is Announced

Six-Week Courses Offered Americans

Summer study at British universities is open to American students in 1956 according to an announcement made today by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

Six-Week courses will be offered at Oxford, at Stratford-on-Avon, and at the capital cities of London and Edinburgh.

Scholarships Available

A limited number of scholarships will be available to American students. Award and admission application forms may be secured from the Institute of International Education in New York City or from its regional offices in Chicago, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Washington.

Closing date for applications is March 26, 1956.

British Universities have combined annually since 1948 to organize a special program of summer schools. Courses are planned to serve the needs of post-graduate students, but highly qualified undergraduates in their junior or senior years will be accepted. Many American universities allow credit for attendance at these sessions to both graduate and undergraduate students.

Courses Offered

Courses to be offered next summer are: Shakespeare and Elizabethan Drama, the University of Birmingham course given at Stratford; Literature and Art from the mid-18th to the mid-19th centuries, including the intellectual background to the Romantic Movement, at the University of London; Literature, Politics and the Arts in Seventeenth-Century England, at the University of Oxford; and The European Inheritance given by the Scottish Universities at the University of Edinburgh.

Each of the schools provides a variety of excursions to places of interest in its area and very often arranges visits which are not open to the general public.

These courses are not designed primarily for undergraduates. In previous years, graduate students, teachers and mature people working in a variety of professional fields have attended the schools with profit.

Minstrel Dates Announced; Show Will Run Mar. 22-24

Show May Go on Road

The 1956 Minstrel Show will be presented March 22, 23, and twice on March 24 with tentative plans to put the show on the road, it was announced today by director Jack McQuiggan.

If the show this year is as big a success as last year's and if the cast is willing you may have to travel to cover the show, he commented.

"There are many positions available in the show itself and on the production staff. We have plenty of room for ability and enthusiasm," he continued. "A good example from last year's show is Ike Smith who had never been on the stage before." The Troubadour theatre will be used again this year in spite of the crowds turned away last year, he stated.

"We thought about using a larger auditorium but no other place in Lexington has the color that the Troubadour theatre does, and the SWMSFC agreed that they'd rather have a better show, one which is more fun for the actors and the audience that to maximize on ticket sales," he added.

Theme Not Announced

McQuiggan had no word on the theme of the Minstrel Show but stated that "it is different from any Minstrel Show you've seen before. The setting alone is Out of This World."

Rehearsals will begin as soon as exams are over. They will be conducted here and at the various girl's schools.

This year's show should be more fun than last year's, he stated. Anyone interested in any end of the show should contact me or one of the SWMSFC men.

Last year's "showboat" minstrel drew capacity crowds. The success of the event led the SWMSFC to initiate it as an annual affair, the proceeds of which go to their War Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Generals Bow To Cavaliers In Tough Game Last Night

By JERRY SUSSKIND

Led by star guard Dom Flora, Washington and Lee's fast fading 5-Star Generals lost to the University of Virginia 73-71 last night at Charlottesville.

Flora led both teams tallying 34 points with 12 field goals, a good comeback after the Davidson game. Barry Storick and Milt Winawer were the only other Generals in double figures—they hit for 13 and 10 respectively.

Lee Marshall was held to 7 and Barclay Smith again played his usual game going scoreless.

McCarty paced the Cavaliers with 24 points but it was sophomore Bob Hardy's fine foul shooting that made the difference. The young guard hit four for four from the free throw line in the final minute to gain the win for Virginia.

After trailing 30-35 at half time the Generals stormed back and with 1:30 to play Flora pounded in a field goal moving the Blue within two points 69-67. Virginia then froze the ball and in a desperate effort to get possession Hardy was fouled. Clutch shooting gave a 71-67 lead but a tap-in by Lee Marshall cut the lead to two again. Hardy once more went to the foul line and iced the victory for the Cavaliers.

Flora's last minute goal wasn't enough and the Blue lost another Big-Six game.

George S. Wilson Picked To Fill Senior Law EC Post

George S. Wilson, III, senior law student from Owensboro, Kentucky, was named last night by the Executive Committee of the Student Body as the temporary appointee for Executive Committeeman of that class, Student Body President Ellis Drew announced today.

Wilson, who served on the EC two years ago as the representative of the freshman law class, will fill the post until the regular committeeman, Bev Stephenson, recovers from a recent illness.

Drew mentioned that Wilson, in addition to his previous service on the EC, is Editor of the Law Review, a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Beta Kappa, and Phi Delta Phi honorary fraternities. He is a member of Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

Drew announced that the Athletic Policy Committee which was an-

'Wizard of Oz' Is Beginning To Take Shape

By FARRIS HOTCHKISS

"The outstanding social event of the South," Fancy Dress, is nearing the final stages of completion. "Practically everything is in readiness, with the decorations having been begun," stated Henry Heymann, president of the dance set.

The theme of the dance set will be the Wizard of Oz. The figure will be centered around the characters appearing in this immortal novel. This year the figure will assume the procedure of a pantomime, with the girl, Dorothy, entering through a giant story book, and following the familiar yellow brick road to seek the Wizard of Oz who will release them from the land in which they have been placed by a tornado.

Storybook Characters

Along the way they meet the famous characters: the Scarecrow, the Tin Woodman, the Cowardly Lion, with many adventures ensuing. Henry Heymann and his date will portray the Wizard and Princess of Oz. The vice-presidents and their dates will assume the roles of the companions of Dorothy.

Yellow Brick Road

Entrance to the gym will be through the farmhouse of Dorothy. Then a removable yellow brick road,

one of the innovations of this year's dance set, will lead from the entrance to the throneroom of the Emerald palace of the Wizard. In addition to the innovation of the above mentioned floor decorations, the ceiling will also be decorated.

Les Elgart and his orchestra will provide the musical side of the make-believe land. On the second night Johnny Long will play for the informal dance. Long will also present a concert in the gym Saturday afternoon.

Costumes

The costumes, "of a type never before seen at Fancy Dress," will provide that measure of the "fantastique" that Heymann hopes to incorporate in the set this year. Munchkins, witches, wizards, animals, and supernatural characters will be seen occupying the dance floor. Van Horn's, the supplier of the costumes, stated that to their knowledge the Fancy Dress ball is the only event of its type among college functions.

Mr. Fancy Dress

The president of the ball, Henry Heymann, has become to be known to W&L students as Mr. Fancy Dress. Previous to the direction of the 1956 Fancy Dress ball, Heymann has been vice-president in charge of decorations for the past three years.

The vice-presidents for the dance set are Butch Callaway, Joe Chatman, Jim Lewis, Sandy Maslansky, and John Candler. Curly Greenebaum is in charge of costumes, and Jack McQuiggan is the announcer.

Maryland Bids Tatum Farewell

The University of Maryland newspaper, The Diamondback bade farewell to their head football coach Jim Tatum last week and said that his departure to take over coaching at North Carolina marked the end of a "cart-before-the-horse" era at Maryland.

"It was an era in which an inadequate stadium became ultra-adequate and an inadequate library became more inadequate," The Diamondback said. "It was an era in which those academic programs common to other universities were called off at Maryland due to lack of student interest. . .

"It was an era in which our accreditation was partially threatened because of an over-emphasis on athletic scholarships."

After praising Tatum for having done a good job during his stay, the paper commented: "But we do not feel that his leaving means the end of the University of Maryland. It may mean an opportunity for us to direct our interests and our money toward other things. It may mean a pause in athletics which will give us time to develop more of the academic fundamentals for which the university exists."

One point emphasized in the editorial (titled: "Time Out to Change Goals") was that other colleges and universities regularly provide students an opportunity to hear prominent speakers on their campuses. "Maryland has not had a nationally known speaker for some time" . . . "The eight miles between College Park and the nation's capital has become greater than the distance to the Orange Bowl . . ." the editors stated.

On our campus many students are tired of the wrangling and discussion over athletics, but at Maryland the issue is just opening up.

Thus, we can see clearly an example of the danger of over-emphasis of athletics. Our course is chartered away from this position and as such is a wise one but let us not sit on the other point of the compass. We believe firmly that there is a "middle-way" which is to be sought at W&L in our athletic program.

The Minstrel Is Rolling

We are following with acute interest and much anticipation the plans and prospects as put forth by the SWMSFC in regard to their 1956 Minstrel Show.

Last year's production represented to us one of the most successful extra-curricular activities ever undertaken by members of the undergraduate student body. In keeping in tone with its initial success, we expect to see the Minstrel become an intrigal part of student activities and social functions.

The reasons for wishing them continued success are numerous but we feel that one or two of them in particular bear considerable weight for both the students and the University.

Much hue and cry has arisen of late, on and off the campus, concerning student apathy in any non-required social or educational activity. It is not our purpose at this time to state a pro or con position of this criticism but we do see activities that have met with such overwhelming success as the Minstrel to be possible immediate answers to this perplexing problem of apathy.

The auditions alone last year represented anything but an apathetic view on the part of the students. Few students out of the large cast involved dropped out during the rigorous rehearsals that were required in preparing for the Minstrel. Student reception to the production was equally as impressive as the initial tryouts.

Another immediate question of concern to the student body is the present lack of publicity for the University which has been labeled a possible negative result of our present athletic de-emphasis program and again we see the Minstrel, if it fulfills our expectations, as a possible answer for immediate favorable publicity.

Our point is well illustrated by the publicity received by the many northern schools who annually put on shows very similar to the SWMSFC Minstrel.

To particularize, we have in mind the "Triangle Show" at Princeton, the "Mask and Wig" at the University of Pennsylvania, and the "Hasty Pudding Show" at Harvard. All of these student productions have been invaluable in publicizing student spirit and also the good name of the respective school.

As we anticipate the 1956 SWMSFC production, we feel that a good Minstrel plus enthusiastic student interest will equal good publicity.

"Vive Le Cinema"

Lyric Shows Flick Without Lana—

By Philippe Labro

Ho-hum, another week, another column.

Pardon the seeming lack of enthusiasm in this week's movie review, but this is only because I am completely unenthused with the cinematic events of the past seven days.

LET'S SEE, what was there? Oh yes, first there was "Target Zero." Something about a "gallant nurse," who helped save ten GI's from destruction at the hands of 10,000 Chinese Communists, and still had time to make love to the leading man and— Well, let's skip it. Enough said, enough written about that.

Next on Father Daves' firing line was "Court Martial of Billy Mitchell." This time we watch the story of the "gallant soldier" who throws himself before the wolves to prove that he was "right." The only word I could find to describe this movie was gung-ho. An in-antimate performance from Gary Cooper, who has seemed in a daze since winning the Oscar for "High Noon."

ROD STEIGER put in a few convincing minutes as the prosecution lawyer, although undoubtedly somewhat amused by the ridiculousness of the whole affair. I hope that Elizabeth Montgomery will get another chance to redeem herself; from her performance in this particular film she showed that she inherited little of her father's talent.

The bright spot of the evening though was a remarkably striking and realistic short about the "gallant men of the Air Force," helped in their job by our old friend Jack Webb, the man with the monkey face and the big intelligent grin. It turned out that Webb came to the jet base right in time to convince the mayor that those people (the pilots) were doing a good job and were defending America. But the people (the townie) were not quite sure Webb was right. Thank God the Mayor was lost in the fog and a jet pilot saved him. So that opened his eyes, see? Everybody from there on loved everybody else. The pilots started dating the townies and Jack Webb went away to save some other town and some other people. I thought for a while that he would start chasing Red spies in his Ford convertible but without Frank Smith he was too handicapped.

And then we had "Diane" and I did not go see it because I knew it would be what it was and although my friends told me to see it because it was so bad, I had too much worries and was already too depressed. So I missed Lana.

And then I tried the Lyric, and Tyrone Power, young and cute as a Red Square freshman, appeared on the screen, a modern Robin Hood, a young daring swashbuckler. He was helped by Betty Grable, a rare blond beauty . . .

"THE BLACKBOARD JUNGLE" was on. I had seen the movie last year and, the effect of surprise and suspense lacking, I was not so much impressed. After all, it's a pretty nice piece of propaganda and the "shocking" qualities of the film are conventional. Still the high-school crowd is funny to watch and then again the photography is fair. Glenn Ford will pretty soon gain the title of King of the Soap Opera, while June Allyson is still ahead in the female section, followed closely by Lana Turner, my idol.

FRENCH FLICK AT THE LYRIC. I DON'T THINK JACK WEBB IS IN IT.

Caskie Examines the Exams in His First Regular Column

By Max Caskie

The exam schedule is posted, printed in The Ring-tum Phi, and circulated generally. From many corners of the fraternity houses rise triumphant huzzahs, and four hundred men rush out to make train reservations—they won. From other quarters (Doc's, the Liquid Lunch) burble up the doleful sounds of another four hundred crying in their beer—they lost. 'T'd have a whole week off except for that damned economics."

Dry your eyes, gentlemen; you can all have a week off, if you really want it.

FOR MANY OF US the present examination period, extended as it is over almost two full weeks, is a time of uneasy boredom, a trial, and a waste. Given two or three days between examinations we are inclined to explore the limits of procrastination and to devote ourselves to such diversionary experiments as how much beer can be consumed before the comatose state is attained, or how many successive hands of Crazy-eights are necessary to reduce a sophomore to the same condition. Seldom does poetry get memorized before the dialogue of the latest class D flick has been more or less permanently enshrined in our subconscious.

For the vegetated element (and, I am informed, for law students) the extra days and hours are a godsend, an opportunity to read the textbooks; but for what I optimistically term the majority, they are merely a opportunity to go slowly insane.

Then why not reduce the exam period to one week by the simple expedient of eliminating the consolidated examinations (which are mere conveniences if the honor system really works) and running the exam schedule parallel to that of the regular classes, two a day, right up from A to J? Such a schedule would require only five calendar days. Then we'd have our week between semesters.

BUT, YOU PROTEST, such a system would delete more than just the surplus days; it might mean some of us would have five exams in two days. We would have no time to study adequately for any of them. That is quite true; for you'd not—at least, not according to the prevalent conception of pre-exam study.

What, after all, is the purpose of an examination? Is it merely to provide the professor with a standard by which to grade you? If so, you should have all the time you want. But you had a semester.

But, on the other hand, is it a device to provide you with a final, integrated picture of the matter you have covered? If so, then its effect on your grade-point ratio is only a by-product, and should not be considered as an end in itself.

I AM NOT SO NAIVE as to assert that students are not vitally interested in the grades they receive—I am myself. But I contend that there is a better and farther-reaching way to exploit this concern for the purposes of education than by allowing them to cram.

The practice of cramming, which a long term period encourages, permits the student to gorge himself with facts one night and regurgitate them promptly the following morning, without their having had any permanent effect on him. I believe that cramming is a moral dishonesty.

What would happen if students didn't have time to cram, if they had only enough time to run over their notes once or twice before the exam? Obviously the trains to Charlottesville would be crowded at the end of the first semester, but the survivors would remember more about their courses than the catalogue numbers.

I ADMIT that such a system is a bit radical as presented, but its effects could be moderated by the introduction of that much scorned (by the faculty) practice of review. If the courses were to move quickly along for seven weeks and then be subjected to a point by point analysis in class, there would be no need for any student who had stayed awake to do more than refresh his memory via notes when the exam came around.

Some faculty members oppose the principle of review on the grounds that it coddles students and robs them of the opportunity to arrive at conclusions independently—college men should be on their own. I shall not attempt to refute this logic any more than to suggest that it presents a strange paradox when one considers the Final Absence rule and a few other points of faculty policy.

But I might point out to them that under my proposed system students would feel the necessity of attending classes, cuts or no, and that grades and attendance records might show a remarkable parallel (they already do under some professors, but not for the same reason).

SO THERE YOU ARE, gentlemen, the method by which every one of you can get a week off between semesters. Do you think it's worth it?

Wrestlers Smash UNC 26-10; Tie West Virginia

McSPADDEN WORKS FOR A PIN in the North Carolina Meet

Generals Gain First Win; McSpadden Remains Undefeated

By BOB SHEPHERD

The past week was a comparatively good week for the W&L grapplers as they won their first match, 26-10, against North Carolina, and tied the powerful West Virginia matmen, 14-14. The Junior Varsity lost their match to UNC, 24-8. The Generals made an excellent showing despite the fact they had two matches in two days.

North Carolina fell easy prey to the Generals as the W&L matmen won every event except the 157-lb. class and the Heavyweight class. The Generals won four events by pins and the other two were by decisions, 7-4 in the 123-lb. class, and 13-0 in the 147-lb. class. Gibby McSpadden once more pinned his man, this time in 5:15, to remain undefeated.

Washington and Lee had the potentially powerful West Virginia grapplers on the ropes but the Mountaineers won decisions in the last two events to gain a 14-14 tie. This tie gave the Generals a record of 1 win, 3 losses, and 1 tie. Once more, the seemingly invincible Gibby McSpadden won his match by pinning his man, this time, in 1:58.

The Junior Varsity wrestling team lost their match against UNC's JV, 24-8. Although the team defeat was rather decisive there were several encouraging matches. The most optimistic point was Hank Bohlman's pin of Boyette of UNC in 5:30 in a well-fought match. The only other W&L win was Nuenreiter's 8-0 decision over Powell in the 120-lb. class.

The grapplers have a rest until after exams when they will meet Appalachian State Teachers College on February 9th away from home.

Tankers Trip Davidson 46-38; Lead in Southern Conference Race

Washington and Lee's undefeated* swimming team upset Davidson, 46-38, in their home pool Saturday, January 14. Southern Conference breast-stroke champion J. Fox set a new pool record 2:33.0 in his specialty breaking his own record of 2:34.5 set earlier this year.

In the 300 yard medley relay and in the 400 yard relay the Generals were victorious. Swimming for the Blue in the 300 yard medley, Duncan, Fox and Morris compiled a time of 3:01 while in the 400 yard relay Morris, Guenther, Aliotti, and Glauser won in 3:32.4.

Richardson and Smith captured 1-1 and third respectively in the diving event. Aliotti of W. and L. won both the 220 and 440 free style races. His time for the 220 was 2:28.8 as Clark and Shepard of Davidson followed in second and third; for the 440 the clock was stopped at 5:50 with Clark and Shepard again grabbing second and third.

The Generals also captured first place in two other events, the 200 yard breast stroke and the 50 yard free style. Gunther won the 50 yard free style with a time of 23.9 as Davidson's Rivers and Osher came in second and third. With a winning time of 2:39 Fox and Gold placed first and third in the 200 yard breast stroke.

Davidson won the 200 individual medley with Glauser and Fox grabbing second and third places. In the 100 yard free style and the 200 yard back stroke Davidson men seized both first and second places.

Generals Bow To Davidson; Face Virginia Tech Thurs.

On Saturday night a poor Davidson team defeated an even poorer Washington and Lee five, 71-65. Spectators witnessed some of the most lackadaisical, sloppy basketball ever seen in the Lexington area.

W&L led at the half 30-25 mainly because Davidson seemed to care even less about the outcome than did the General. In the second half the "Blue Comet's" shooting, poor in the first half, got even worse, and the Wildcats hustled to a ten point lead with four minutes to go. After Smith, Storick, and Flora had fouled out, the Comets stormed back to come within three points of Davidson, but some clutch foul shooting gave the decision to the "Redmen."

Marshall High

Dom Flora, closely guarded most of the way, was held to his all-time low at W&L, six points. Lee Marshall was high man for the "Blue and White" with 18 points, but his shooting, as was the rest of the General's, was far below par. Milt Winawer and Barry Storick chipped in with 14 and 13 points respectively. Barkley scored six, a little better than usual, and held Davidson's Hobby Cobb to 24 points, high for the game.

Rifle Team Drops Match; Loses to VPI, West Virginia

This year, for the first time, Washington and Lee University is represented by a fully accredited rifle team. For the past few years, it has been under the control of the ROTC Department, but in September of last year, it was placed under the University Athletic Department, and received membership in the Southern Conference.

So far this year, the team has entered 9 postal and 2 shoulder-to-shoulder matches. Their Southern Conference record is 0 to 2, having lost to West Virginia and VPI in the match held at Blacksburg on January 14.

The Senior members of the team are: John Aurell, James Marvin, and Don McArthur. The Juniors are Oscar Bing, James Davis, Karl Funkhouser and Gordon Tyler. The Sophomore members are Howard Brants, Glenn Fahrenthold, William France, Archie Jenkins, and Avery Juhring, with Irvin Ebaugh, Harold Jenkins, and Merritt Pizitz as the freshmen team members. The team is managed by William K. Hughes and Guy Smith, Jr. Of the fifteen, only Davis, Fahrenthold and the announcement of the surrender of the Confederate army.

Music in the program includes the Union's "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "Farewell Mother" (a comic commentary on desertion), and "Lincoln and Liberty." The South will be represented by "Lorena," "Blue Star Flag," and "Old Soldier," among others.
The show's producer, Bill Grigg, admits that "by putting Northern and Southern songs in the same program may well anger some who feel their side is not properly represented, but we feel that Lee would like what we're doing."

or professional fields by February or March, the Commission said. Similarly, those passing the February 10 examinations should be eligible for a job offer by spring. It is estimated that 7,700 Federal openings at salaries ranging from $3,670 to $4,525 annually will be available during 1956.
Persons who cannot meet the January 18 deadline should file as soon as possible thereafter to obtain consideration for future examinations in this continuous program, the Commission said. Those who filed after November 18, the deadline for the first examination last month, need not file again and will be notified where to report for the written test.
Details of the program will be explained by special Federal teams which plan to visit many college campuses before February 10. Inquiries may also be made and application blanks obtained at the W&L placement office.

Students and postgraduates interested in Federal management internships should file for the February 10 examination, stating their interest. They will be permitted to take an additional written test on February 10 and an oral test later.

His program will include: "Sonata in A minor" by Schubert; "Suite" by Milhand; "Sonata in E flat, opus 120 No. 2" by Brahms. This Brahms sonata has been recorded on Westminster.
There have been several commentaries on Mr. Doktor and several of the country's newspapers have given him most favorable reviews, Stated Stewart.
The New York Herald Tribune said "Dokot is for this reviewer's money, the most impressive violinist around."
The Washington Post ran a criticism saying "Doktor's mastery was apparent at every point in the program. He is an artist of the highest attainments."
"Dokot is one of the top violinists in the country," stated the Detroit Free Press in a recent review.

Generals Defeated

Frank Hoss, in the few minutes he played, scored four points and rebounded well. However, he was soon replaced and his cheers from the bench were to no avail to the cause.
Washington and Lee meets V.P.I. Thursday at 8 p.m. in Doremus Gym. The Gobblers, recent conquerors of George Washington, are currently on a winning streak and should strongly test the Generals. V.P.I. is sparked by its "big three" John Quillan, Clayton Coates, and high-scoring Bill Matthews. Unless W&L returns to its hustling form of old this should be another dark day.

Library Hours Announced

Because of the Founders Day holiday the library will open at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. on Thursday, January 19, it was announced today by Mr. Coleman, university librarian. He added, however, that the Owls' Nest will be open at its usual hours.

Reserve books checked out after 8:30 p.m. Wednesday need not be returned before 9:30 Friday morning.
Beginning Saturday Jan. 21 the library will be open until midnight every night for the duration of the examination period.
