

VIRGINIA GAME TODAY DECIDES LEAGUE LEADER

Washington and Lee Faces the Decisive League Game in Charlottesville

VIRGINIA IS NOW LEADING

Generals Have Chance to Displace Cavaliers in Pennant Race Today

With the first year of the Tri-State Baseball League of the Southern Conference coming to a close within the next few days, no one has the slightest idea as to how the final standings of the league-leaders will be. At present there are three possible solutions to the complicated problem. The winner is bound to be either, Virginia, North Carolina, or Washington and Lee.

At present Virginia is leading the field with the Generals tied with the Tarheels of North Carolina, for second place. If W. & L. beats Virginia today on Lambeth Field they will oust the Cavaliers from first place, but if North Carolina whips N. C. State in Chapel Hill on Monday the Generals will be in a tie with the Tarheels, for the league-leadership. If N. C. State triumphs over her traditional rivals, however, W. & L. will reign undisputed. A loss to the Cavaliers, and a win for Carolina will put W. & L. in third place, with Virginia leading and the Tarheels in the runner-up position.

The standing of the League inclusive of the Washington and Lee-Maryland doubleheader yesterday is as follows:

TEAM	Won	Lost	Pct.
Virginia	7	4	.636
W. & L.	5	4	.555
U.N.C.	5	4	.555
N. C. State	5	5	.500
Md.	4	5	.445
V. P. I.	3	4	.429
V. M. I.	3	6	.333

If W. & L. Wins from Virginia today the standing of the leaders will be:

W. & L.	6	4	.600
Virginia	7	5	.583
U. N. C.	5	4	.555

But if the Cavaliers are victorious today:

Virginia	8	4	.666
U. N. C.	5	4	.555
W. & L.	5	5	.500

Dormitory Dusties Outhit Phi Deltis in Baseball Classic

The hopes of the Phi Delta Thetas to become a crowd of great baseball players were shattered by the Dormitory Dusties Thursday afternoon on Graham field (in front of the gym) when the dormitory crew came out on top in a hard ten-inning struggle by the score of 16 to 15.

Leibowitz, on the hill for the winners, hurled air tight ball, limiting the fraternity men to 36 widely scattered smashes. Ed Miller did the flinging for the Phi Deltis, but weakened from the first inning on, under a shower of extra-base blows by the slugging Dusties. Ed White, who was having an off day with the stick, got only seven hits out of seven attempts, while Willie Chandler was the luckiest swinger for the Phi Deltis.

The players on both sides began to wilt after the fourth inning, and substitutes were rushed to the rescue, with the result that both teams were combinations of ringers when they decided that they had had enough.

Tip Gwaltney, with his decade or more of service at Washington and Lee, has rounded quite a ball team out of his assortment in Graham Dorm, and issues a challenge to any aggregation on the campus which will furnish the indoor ball and bat.

No Hygiene Exams

No examinations are being given in Hygiene 102 and 104 this semester. In its place Mr. Fletcher has given his classes a list of questions which they are to answer outside of class and hand in with their notebook this week.

OLD LINERS WIN

Maryland defeated the V. M. I. Key-dit nine this morning on Alumni field, 2 to 1.

Crews Hold Stiff Daily Workouts In Last Few Days

Stiff workouts are being held daily by the Albert Sidney and Harry Lee crews in preparation for the annual boat races. Harry Lee was victorious last year, and the Albert Sidney is working overtime to avenge itself in the coming race. Only a few days are left for practice, and the oarsmen are by no means in perfect shape. All of crews have been selected and should work well together by race day.

The first crew race will be held at six o'clock Monday, June 4. The second and freshmen crews' races will be held Saturday, June 2 at 5:30 o'clock. Fifty cents will be charged for admission to the island and to the road which runs parallel to the river. Dr. Reid White will act as starter, and Coach Forest Fletcher as judge at the finish.

The course is almost a mile in length. The finish line is just opposite the island. The record for the course is 4:38 which compares favorably with intercollegiate time.

The personnel of the crews are as follows:

Albert Sidney—First Crew: Garvin, 1; Bade, 2; Miller, 3; Gamble, Stroke; and Witherspoon, Coxswain. Second Crew: Holloman, 1; Shipman, 2; Madison, 3; Bolton, stroke; Waddell, Coxswain.

Fresh Crew: Nix, 1; Weichbrodt, 2; Tallan, 3; Exum, stroke, and Dixon, Coxswain.

Harry Lee—First Crew: Jenkins, 1; Pierpont, 2; Moffett, 3; Davis, Stroke, and Plummer, Coxswain.

Second Crew: Mercke, 1; McGinnis, 2; Hamilton, 3; Swink, stroke; and Webb, Coxswain.

Fresh Crew: Marshall, 1; Tillar, 2; Thornton, 3; Lewis, stroke, and Bowes, Coxswain.

Latane and Ainslie Will Speak at 1928 Finals Exercises

Dr. John H. Latane, head of the Department of History and former Dean of Johns Hopkins University, has accepted the invitation to deliver the Commencement address at Washington and Lee on June the fifth.

Dr. Latane is a Virginian by birth, a doctor of philosophy of Johns Hopkins, and an author of many leading volumes on history, diplomacy, and international law. He is a fellow of the Royal Historical Society and was formerly head of the History Department of Washington and Lee.

The Rev. Peter Ainslie will deliver the sermon at the Baccalaureate Service in the Lee Chapel, Sunday, June 3. Rev. Ainslie is also a Virginian, received his M.A. degree at Yale in 1911, and is now pastor of an Episcopal church of Baltimore. He has been the editor of the Christian Union Magazine for several years and is the author of several theological books.

The Finals program will begin with the annual Inter-Fraternity Dance, at nine p. m. on Friday, June 1, and close with the Final Ball on June 5. At noon June 4th, the Memorial Bridge will be formally dedicated to the classes of 1927-331.

Classes at 8:30 Total but Sixteen

The newly arranged class schedule for 1928-'29, in which classes begin at 8:30, shows many advantages over the old one. Of the 183 classes in the morning between 8:30 and 12:30, only sixteen begin the first hour. This leaves only 21 classes in the afternoon, and they are so arranged that practically none of them come on Saturday. It is expected that this virtual half-holiday on the week-end will greatly reduce cuts in Saturday classes. There are four classes in Chemistry in the afternoon, more than in any other one subject.

As it has been heretofore, the greater part of the laboratory sections are held in the afternoon. There are 28 after the noon recess and 13 in the morning. Of the 28 in the afternoon, 15 are in Physics.

EXAMINATIONS

The law school had its first Final Exam today. The "tests" begin in all other schools Monday morning.

MEMORIAL BRIDGE TO BE DEDICATED ON ALUMNI DAY

The dedication of the new bridge will be the feature of "Alumni Day," Monday, June 4. The address will be given by Thomas M. Glasgow, of Charlotte, North Carolina.

Mr. Glasgow, a native of Lexington, graduated from Washington and Lee with an A.B. degree in 1912, and a L.L.B. in 1916.

He is the son of Frank Glasgow, who was formerly a lawyer in Lexington. The elder Glasgow was a trustee of the University until his death this year.

The speaker was a very active man on the W. & L. campus. He was one of the founders of O.K.D., and won his monogram in track, basketball, and crew. In 1915 he won the orator's medal. Mr. Glasgow has a distinguished war record which he made while serving in the Twelfth Field Artillery. He was promoted to captain while in active service. At present he is president of the Glasgow-Stuart Co., of North Carolina, a wholesale auto accessories concern.

The response to his address will be given by E.H. Miller on behalf of the students who have provided funds for the bridge.

This dedication, taking place at noon, will be followed by an open-air buffet luncheon in front of the gymnasium portico for alumni and visitors.

HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET OF BIOLOGICAL SOCIETY

The annual banquet of the Biological Society was held Thursday evening in the Robert E. Lee hotel, with 23 members and guests present.

Dr. L. J. Desha, professor of Chemistry, was toastmaster for the occasion, while the arrangement of the banquet was in charge of D. H. Wice. The guests of the evening included members of other science departments in the university, Dr. B. A. Wooten, of the Physics department, Dean H. D. Campbell, Dr. W. D. Hoyt, head of the Biology department, and Professor R. P. Carrol, laboratory instructor.

ALUMNI SELECT THREE TO MAKE TRUSTEE RACE

The annual alumni meeting will be held in the alumni club rooms on Monday, June 4, at 10:30 A. M.

Several important matters of business will be taken up at this time, including the nominations of the alumni nominating committee.

The following three men were recommended by this committee for membership on the university Board of Trustees. The man who receives the highest vote in the alumni balloting will be the one to receive the support of the alumni for this honor.

Three men from the group below will be selected, at this same meeting to fill the expired terms of L. C. Witten, E. P. Davis, and Dr. William Allen as trustees of the Alumni Association.

C. T. Chenery, B. A. '09
Pres. Federal Water Ser. Corp.
New York City, N. Y.
John L. Campbell, B. A., '11
Attorney

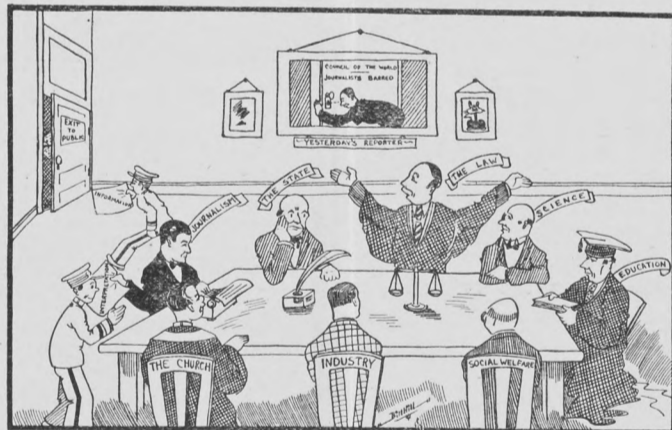

This committee has also made recommendations for resident and non-resident alumni members of the Athletic Council. Final choices for membership of this council will also be made at this meeting.

AL SMITH ACKNOWLEDGES NOMINATION

Joe Holt, who served as permanent chairman of the Mock Democratic convention here last month, and who was ex-officio head of the notification committee to appraise the successful candidates of their nomination, is in receipt of a letter from George R. VanNamee, chairman of the organization in New York City, acknowledging the notification which was sent to Smith following the convention.

The letter was written Holt at the direction of Governor Smith. VanNamee stated, and expressed the appreciation of the candidate for the honor conferred.

TODAY HE'S AT THE COUNCIL TABLE

"Today he's at the council table!" What a sententious caption for the above cartoon.

Away back in April, 1774, John Campbell, a New England postmaster, issued to a sparse reading public the first successful American newspaper—"The Boston News Letter." It was the birth of a profession destined to become one of the world's greatest social institutions—a profession that would form the liaison between problems of living together and the means of solving these problems.

Henry Ward Beecher once declared, "Every drop of our blood is colored by the newspaper." And he was right, for it is a known fact that the newspaper is the mold into which national thought is poured to cast future progress.

But the path to recognition has not been strewn with roses. It is only in modern times that the journalist has been accorded equal footing with the recognized professions. This recognition began when General Lee, in 1869, instituted the first program for collegiate instruction in the journalistic profession.

Even now, a reticent few, perhaps jealous, perhaps dubious, refuse to admit the universal significance and importance of the journalist. There is inevitably a lode-star to hinder every step of progress. There are still a few "stalwarts" at the council table of the world who would prefer that the journalist be barred, but they are in the minority. And the salient fact remains—he IS at the council table.

The reporter of yesterday was barred. The reporter of today has full recognition. He is the "news-reviewer" of the world. Just as the literary reviewer is supposed to form a point of contact between the mind of the author and that of the reader, so is the journalist of the day supposed to furnish the point of contact between the mind of leadership and that of the public. A gigantic responsibility—but responsibility breeds progressive accomplishment.

Is it but natural, then, that the journalist be a full-fledged member of the council of the world, and that deliberate refusal to admit this right is but an indication of short-sightedness, of bigoted prejudice?

Final Plans Now Near Completion By Howe and Gill

Invitations for visitors to the Final dances can be secured from either Frank Jones at the Beta Theta Pi house or A. Fisher at the Delta Tau Delta house.

Bob Howe, president of Finals, has stated that all those who are expecting visitors for the dances should see either of these in order that a sufficient number of invitations can be ordered. All visitors will be required to produce such an invitation before their entrance to any dance will be allowed. There will be no vouching at the door of the dance floor as has formerly been allowed.

The two sets of decorations, one for the first four dances and the other for the Final ball, have been completed under the direction of Prof. Carl Gill, and await only to be put up. Howe stated, "that in many respects they are the most elaborate ever designed for a W. & L. set of dances."

The Finances of Finals have just about been molded into shape. The only thing lacking is that several have cold checks being held and several who have promised to subscribe have yet to do so. A last appeal is sent by the Finance committee for such delinquents to come through with their part.

The time of the dances as has been worked out by Finals officials with Dr. Desha, chairman of faculty committee on social functions, is as follows:

Friday night, the Interfraternity dance, begins at 9:30 o'clock and continues until 1:30; Saturday morning, the Pan-White Friar dansant, will start at 11:00 o'clock and continue until 1:00; Saturday night, the Sigma

Custis-Lee Society Ends Year and Elects Lowry New President

The Custis Lee Civil Engineering Society held its annual banquet last night at the Robert E. Lee Hotel. Jim Price Lowry was elected, by acclamation, president for the year 1928-29.

Col. Anderson, of V. M. I., who was the guest of the society, gave a short talk on the engineering profession, stressing the point that engineering is not an end in itself, but is merely a means to an end.

Professor Lyle made a few remarks about the society at Washington and Lee, and among other things emphasized that the society had been well represented at the spring meeting of the A. S. C. E., in Washington, D. C., by J. B. Ecker and C. W. Goff.

President J. B. Ecker introduced the new officers with a few appropriate remarks which were answered by President-elect, J. P. Lowry.

Music was furnished by R. C. Ammerman on the violin, accompanied by Miss Emily Penick at the piano.

The members of the society were mystified by some magic tricks by A. B. C., the "Mad Magician" (Alfred B. Collison) after which several musical numbers were given by a colored quartet.

Former Owner Red Sox Dies in Gotham

Joseph J. Lannin, wealthy real estate operator, and former owner of the Boston Red Sox, was killed instantly on May 15, when he either fell or jumped from a ninth story window in the Granada Apartment Hotel which he owned in Brooklyn, New York.

Lannin started his career as a bell boy, and at the time of his death, he was worth from seven to eight million dollars. He built up this fortune by investing his earnings in real estate and ball clubs.

He was owner of the Red Sox from 1914 to 1916, during which time the club won two World series.

He has also been the owner of the Buffalo Baseball club, the Newark Baseball club, the Boston Braves, and Providence of the International League.

CY SIGNS

Cy Twombly has been secured by the Covington baseball club for the summer. He is a former major league pitcher.

GENERALS SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH THE OLD LINERS

Blue and White Take Opener 7-0 While Maryland Wins 5-2 in Nightcap

SPOTTS IS BACK IN LINEUP

Babe Figures in Three Double Killings; Gets Doubled With Bases Filled

The Generals and Maryland divided the double header played yesterday on Wilson field, Washington and Lee copping the first by a 7 to 0 margin while the Old Liners came out on the big end of the 5 to 2 count in the nightcap.

Folliard's hooks were untouchable in the opener. The General captain let Maryland down with two harmless safeties while his backers pounded Madigan for seven runs and ten hits. The Washington and Lee infield was at its best in the first encounter and engineered three double plays to make Folliard's task easier.

The second game was almost the reverse of the first. Mace was on the hill for the Old Liners and had the Generals eating out of his hand throughout the battle. Although Radford, who hurled for the Generals, was touched for nine hits, he tightened up in the pinches. Only one earned run was made off his delivery, the rest coming when his support failed at critical times.

"Babe" Spotts, versatile General first sacker, was in the game for the first time in nearly two weeks. Blood poison in his leg having kept him on the sidelines when V. P. I. played the Generals last week, and he was not expected to take part in yesterday's battles. However, "Babe" fooled the experts and not only played, but was mixed up in all three double plays which the Washington and Lee inner defense pulled off. He soaked a two bagger with the bases full in the first game.

Johnny Jones had a banner day with the stick in the first game. Out of three trips to the platter, he garnered a double and a brace of singles. He drove in the first Washington and Lee run in the second stanza with the first of his blows, (Continued on Page 4)

New Theatre Lists Feature Pictures as Exam Diversion

The New Theater, realizing that students must have diversion and entertainment during the trying weeks of examinations, and anxious to make that entertainment here of the highest caliber possible, has booked some of the biggest screen hits of the year for Lexington during the next two weeks, Manager Ralph I. Daves announced yesterday.

Starting with the feature "Walking Back", starring Sue Carol, which played the house today, there follow two of the best bets next week, each of which will have a two-day stand here. "The Gaucho", with Doug Fairbanks in the title role, will be the headliner Tuesday and Wednesday, while Friday and Saturday local fans will have the opportunity to see Charlie Chaplin's latest release, "The Circus". The remaining pictures of the week are listed as "above the average", being "Hangman's House", with Victor McLaglan, on Monday, and "Good Morning Judge", with Reginald Denny, Thursday.

The chief attraction of the second week of exams is William Aldrich's "A Trip to the Hawaiian Islands", accompanied by the Imperial Hawaiian Singers. This show was featured recently with Paul Whiteman's Orchestra at the Paramount.

Pictures will play simultaneously with the Hawaiians, and on Monday theater goers will have their last opportunity to see the comedy team of Tom McNamara and Sammy Cohn. McNamara has died of pneumonia, since the filming of this picture, "Why Sailors Go Wrong", and it is expected that few fans will miss the opportunity to see the last film made by these stars of "What Price Glory." Other leading releases complete the week's program, and as a final feature of the year the management is attempting to book Joan Crawford in "Across to Singapore."

"QUO VADIS?"

CLASSES ARE OVER for this year, and nothing remains but to pass examinations, live through a set of Finals dances, and get home for the rest that is always welcome after such a strenuous two and a half weeks as these next will be.

Seniors have sat through lectures for the last time, and no more will they be frantically attempting to borrow a pen from a neighbor as a professor happens to drop a few words of wisdom which his subjects feel will be heard from again during examinations.

The notebooks which have been grudgingly lugged from class to class have suddenly become things sacred, and during the next two weeks are to be treated with a deference and respect which would do credit to a Washington and Lee freshman meeting the dean of a nearby girls' college.

Libraries will be jammed at all hours of the day and night so long as the lights remain on, as students hastily look up the "missing link" in their attempt to make a coherent whole out of some of their courses. These same libraries have been sadly neglected by the majority of men here during most all year, and it will not be unusual to hear queries regarding the location of some particular book which was "assigned" to be read currently with the class text.

The proverbial "midnight oil," or, as we prefer to call it in this twentieth century, the twenty-four-hour incandescent, will be burned over time, and it will not be unusual to find lights in some rooms burning all night quite frequently during the twelve-day grind.

Every day a part of more than 120 seniors will go into examination rooms, hoping, some against great odds, that they will make a grade sufficient to pass that particular course. After they have handed in their paper to that professor, all thought of his course will be pushed out of mind, and the concentration will be upon the next test of ability.

Truly, a veritable renaissance—a "revival of learning"—has hit Washington and Lee. Not for the first time, however, for it is a semi-annual occurrence. Notwithstanding its frequency over a long term of years, each arrival comes with a seriousness, an application to study, and a degree of worry "greater than ever before," especially in the case of seniors.

Utopia from an instructor's stand-point is at hand. He sees his proteges, after four months of "guidance" and "instruction," at last digging out the facts from "HIS" valuable course. Why do they wait until now to realize the extreme importance of the course? Do they realize it now, or is it merely a desire to pass the subject and get the hours credit that is the controlling motive? Personal inquiries concerning the meaning of phrases, extra efforts to pick up a personal acquaintance and contact with the professors, and interested questions regarding the correctness of impressions gathered from courses are in order, and are seeing extra use as the time of trial approaches.

What is the meaning of it all? What is the worth of an education after all? Why do men want to pass courses?

These are questions for the individual to answer for himself. No two men have the same reasons for attending college, notwithstanding the general classifications of purpose which are so often made by educators regarding the value of this or that type of education.

Will the liberal arts education do the man the greatest amount of good in after life? Will a general knowledge of the workings and organization of commercial enterprises as taught in specialized schools result in the best citizen? Is a lawyer the best equipped man to take his place in the world, or is the engineer the man who will do the most to aid the progress of the nation?

Does the journalist exercise the most potent influence upon his fellow men? Are traditions and impressions made upon a man's character the greatest aid to worth?

It is too late now for the senior, about to graduate, to mold his college career from a study of these questions. Undergraduates as a whole cannot form a real decision as to the best curriculum from the contemplation of them. The individual about to select his courses for next year and his remaining years on the campus can, however, gain something from a consideration of them in connection with his personal qualifications.

Why is a college education?

INSTALL A JOURNALISM DEGREE

NUMEROUS STUDENTS here are enrolled in the Lee School of Journalism for the sole purpose of fitting themselves for newspaper or other publication work in after life. At present those studying journalism can hope for nothing more than an A. B. degree with a certificate in journalism—a certificate which merely states that they have "taken" a required number of courses in that department of the University.

If Washington and Lee is to claim the distinction of having founded the first unified school of journalism in the United States, and if it is to appeal to those interested in journalism to donate to the establishment of such a school here, and to boys with the aim of making that their life work to come here to study, why should those enrolling or aiding in establishing or maintaining the school have to be satisfied with the giving of only a "certificate" instead of a B. J. to those completing the requisite courses?

As things stand now, a man wishing to go into journalism with a fitting degree must go elsewhere for his last year of study. That is not just, nor is it for the best interests of Washington and Lee.

"Where did you get your B. J.?", a man might be asked. He cannot reply "At Washington and Lee", although the majority of his specialized work in that line may have been taken here. The University is not only failing to recognize a powerful source of free advertising, but it is estranging many, who would otherwise be enthusiastic alumni, from its potential supporters.

The more progressive members of the administration and faculty recognize the need for such a degree here. Of course, requirements of an enlarged faculty and more courses may have to be met before the degree can be conferred, but if the faculty supports the idea, money will be forthcoming for the support of the added facilities.

Washington and Lee's School of Journalism cannot grow much more without the offering of a degree. Outlined requirements for background studies in the arts, history, politics, and social sciences have been drawn up, and it remains for the faculty to realize the need and authorize such a degree in order to establish the School of Journalism upon a footing which will enable it to rank with the best in the country.

The Gray Phantom

Students who bemoan the lack of femininity in Lexington may be numerous in the student body, but they do not compose that group exclusively. There is one who has more contact with the gentler sex than he wants. Sad indeed is his plight!

Joe has been called bashful but is a constant attendant on all the dances the school has to offer and has even been known to dash over to Staunton for the week-end. When his "fans" interrupt his studies by their attentions, he will avoid them in the future.

A few nights ago three young ladies lured our hero from his books to go for a ride through the shady streets of historic Lexington. He only agreed when two others professed their willingness to go with them.

That would have been all right, but when all of the boys except Joe got in the front seat, and put all the girls in the back, on each side, around, and even on Joe, it became a difficult matter. Our hero objected to this move in no uncertain language and became almost hysterical when the car proceeded down the brilliantly lighted Main Street, with the occupants shouting, "Here's Joe! Here's Joe!"

Publicity is the price of greatness.

The board of trustees unanimously elected Dr. Henry Louis Smith, President of Davidson College, North Carolina, to fill the place left vacant by former President Denny, on Wednesday, January 24, 1912. The board convened its meeting at 3:30 P.M., and announced its choice at 4:00 P.M. The board's decision was immediately conveyed to Dr. Smith.

An article was published in the Ring-tum Phi announcing the board's decision and giving the President-elect's record as an educator and administrator.

The President-elect accepted the position by wire on February 26, 1912. The delay in his acceptance was caused by the great pressure brought to bear on him to stay at Davidson.

The Fancy Dress Ball of 1912 was held in the old skating rink and was declared to surpass "all expectations in beauty and brilliance."

A Woodrow Wilson club was organized at the University in anticipation of the coming mock convention.

The record of the 1912 base ball team was as follows:

TILLAR PRESIDENT
ALPHA SIGMA 28-29

D. P. Tillar was elected president of Alpha Sigma, honorary freshman English society, at the annual banquet of the organization held last night in the Dutch Inn.

W. V. Rucker was elected vice-president, F. R. Bigham, secretary-treasurer, and A. R. Ramirez reader of the society.

A gold Alpha Sigma key was awarded to H. R. Mahler, who submitted the best composition, "A Parody on Kilpling's 'On The Road to Mandalay'".

ONLY TWO STUDENTS CONFINED HOSPITAL

As the weather continues to grow milder, the list of student patients at the Jackson Memorial Hospital continues to grow smaller. At present, two students, M. B. Cox, and Duncan McConnell, are confined with the grippe. McConnell has been sick for a little over a week, and there is a possibility that he will be kept in the hospital through the first part of the examination period. Cox was taken to the hospital yesterday morning and it is impossible to tell how long he will be kept in.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, Princess Paul Chavchavadze selects OLD GOLD

"I was much intrigued by the invitation to make a blindfold test of your leading brands of American cigarettes, to see how they compared with each other and with those I had smoked abroad. Could one really taste the difference? I wondered.

"But when I was handed these cigarettes, one by one, I realized at once that there was a difference and that the test was conclusive. One cigarette was so much more appealing, so much more delicate in flavor. Oh, and so much smoother!

"When the test was over and I was told that the cigarette of my choice was OLD GOLD I understood at once why this cigarette is so popular among my American friends."

Nina Chavchavadze

PRINCESS PAUL CHAVCHAVADZE, Sister of Mrs. Wm. B. Leeds

How Test Was Made

Subject was blindfolded, and, in the presence of two responsible witnesses, was given one each of the four leading cigarettes to smoke. To clear the taste, coffee was served before each cigarette. The Princess was entirely unaware of the identity of these cigarettes during test. After smoking the four cigarettes, the Princess was asked to designate by number her choice. Without hesitation she replied, "No. 3", which was OLD GOLD.

Larus & Bro. Co.,

Gentlemen:
I've done a lot of pipe smoking. There's hardly a brand or a brand that I haven't tried out at some time or other.

But speaking of smoking tobacco that brings real enjoyment, and never changes, I want to say that there is just one tobacco that gives me real enjoyment in my pipe—Edgeworth. I have used Edgeworth Ready Rubbed and Plug Slice for over five years, in all climates and under all conditions, and I find it always the same. It is always mellow and moist, and its genuine flavor lasts. There is no bite or parch in Edgeworth, and the quality, whether you buy it in small or large quantities, is always perfect. Thanks to the manufacturers for their wonderful product, and I hope that Edgeworth can always be obtainable by the undersigned.

GENERALS DIVIDE TWO WITH MARYLAND

and registered himself after each of the succeeding two. Eiglebach also hit 1,000 for the opener when he got two bingles and a walk in three unofficial appearances at bat. "Are" Folliard connected safely twice in three attempts. Hickman, out of six trips to the plate in the course of the afternoon, reached first on an error once, grounded out once, received one walk, and was hit by the opposing pitchers three times.

The feature fielding act of the day was Eiglebach's stop and throw of Madigans' drive in the second inning of the first game. It was a hard smash with "hit" labeled all over it, going between short and third. The Generals' shortstop dashed back to his right, trapped the ball while moving at full speed on the edge of the outfield grass, and threw his man out at first; Spotts making a nice pickup of the long throw. Slanker made a pair of pretty running catches in center field.

The Generals scored first in the second inning of the first game. Hickman was hit for the first time. He reached second on Warthen's sacrifice, moved to third on an in-field out, scoring on Jones' smack to left. After resting for a couple of innings, the Generals solved Madigan's delivery completely in the fifth. With one way, Jones got his second single of the game, advanced to third on Folliard's one-sacker to right. Slanker walked, filling the bases. Jones and Folliard scored and Slanker reached third when Spotts doubled to left. Eiglebach hit to left scoring "Babe" and then completed the circuit himself while Higgins was bobbling Tips' single into right.

The second affair lacked the dash and fight of the opener. Maryland scored once before Radford could settle down in the first inning and again when Spotts threw one into the stands in the fifth. After Hickman had pegged Tansil out at second as the latter attempted to stretch his single, Maryland filled the bases on two hits and a walk sandwiched around a strikeout. The parade over the plate began when Tips' throw to catch Leschensky off third went into left field, and before the excitement had subsided, Maryland had three more tallies on its side of the ledger. The two Washington and Lee runs came as the result of a streak of wildness on the part of Pitcher Mace and some loose backing by his mates.

The results of the double bill left Washington and Lee on the very heels of Virginia in the race for the Tri-State title. At the end of yesterday's games Virginia was leading with seven wins and four losses with the Generals second with six wins and four defeats. Everything hinges on the game between the Generals and the Cavaliers this afternoon.

Quality sent P.A. to the head of the class

YEARS ago, P.A. showed a clean pair of heels to the field of smoking-tobaccos. It has maintained its lead ever since putting more distance behind it every year. There must be a reason why P.A. is the world's largest-selling brand.

There is! Open a tidy red tin and get a full breath of that class-by-itself fragrance. Then tamp a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. The first puff tells you why more men smoke P.A. than any other brand. Cool and smooth and mellow and mild—not for one pipe-load, but always. Try this long-burning tobacco, Fellows. You'll say so!

PRINCE ALBERT

If you vibrate to quality, you'll gravitate to P.A.
