

General Varsity Ready for Game With Lynchburg

Hard Scrimmages Getting Herron's Men In Shape For Saturday Tilt

RESERVE LINESMEN TO BE TRIED UNDER FIRE

Strenuous Schedule to Show Need of Reserve Material; Linesmen Scarce

Hard scrimmages have featured the early training for the Washington and Lees varsity football squad. Coach "Pat" Herron will ease up on the fast pace at which he has run his men on Thursday and only a light drill will be on the program for Friday in order that the team may be in proper shape to meet Lynchburg College in the opening game here on Saturday afternoon.

After three weeks of pre-season practice, Coach Herron expressed himself as well satisfied with the condition of the Generals as a whole. He first string eleven presents a very formidable appearance, and the backfield is seconded by a powerful set of alternates. In view of the strenuous schedule, much will depend upon the showing of the inexperienced reserve linemen when under fire.

Bad luck hit the varsity last week, for the first time this season, when Marcus Cohen, a strong bidder for the quarterback post, had his leg injured in scrimmage. He was back on the field yesterday afternoon, but took no part in the heavy work. It is doubtful whether or not he will get into the opening game.

While several new men on the squad have come to the front with exhibitions of varsity grade in scrimmage, the work of the veterans of last year and the season before can not be overlooked. These men include Captain Fitzpatrick, Groop, White, Lott, and Hawkins.

Fitzpatrick has been showing the same brand of football throughout the early workouts that brought him mention last fall on many mythical all-star selections. He is heavy and fast and is frequently seen going down under punts as well as doing his (Continued on page 3)

Debate Subject Before Council

Oxford Debaters to Return Here In November For Second Debate

Selection of a subject for debate with Oxford University debaters, when they visit this country in November, will be the principal topic before the debating council when it meets tomorrow night at 7:30 in Newcomb Hall.

The Oxford debating team is scheduled to debate with a Washington and Lee team during the week of November 25. M. G. Bauer, coach of debating started last night. Four subjects have been forwarded to this school and one will be selected for debate with the visitors.

The four subjects are: Resolved: That this house (the audience) believes in Duties rather than Rights. Resolved: America should join the League of Nations. Resolved: "That this house believes the best life is a public life. Resolved: Governments should adopt compulsory arbitration for settlement of international disputes.

Make Annual Visits The Oxford debaters annually visit America for debates with leading colleges and universities of the country. In 1926 they visited Washington and Lee and won many admirers with their peculiar form of English debating. They have visited this country for the past six years, but their appearance here will be the second.

An election of a debating manager will also take place at the meeting tomorrow.

In announcing the Oxford debate Mr. Bauer, also stated that (Continued on page four)

Executive Committee Will Raise Storm Relief Fund

Pass Resolution Asking Each Student to Contribute One Dollar

Students of Washington and Lee is the only representative university of the entire South, will have an opportunity to aid in the restoration of the Florida and Porto Rico stricken areas and in the alleviation of the suffering of the hard-hit residents of those sections, it was learned today.

Acting in its capacity as the popularly chosen governing body of W. and L. students, the Executive Committee of the Student Body unanimously adopted a resolution early this week calling upon students here for aid, and set the machinery of the appeal in motion by naming W. J. Dorsey, vice-president of the Student Body last year, and at present a senior in the law school, as chairman of a committee to direct the drive for funds.

Fraternities To Help Under the plan as adopted by Dorsey and his eleven aides, every fraternity and large boarding house in Lexington will be visited at dinner either Thursday or Friday evening, and every man given an opportunity to subscribe to the cause. A schedule of calls for these times was drawn up, and it is hoped that every student here will be seen during the course of the drive. Any man not reached by members of the committee will stop any of them on the campus Friday or Saturday, it is hoped, and give their cash donation to the cause.

"A Dollar A Man" Under the slogan of "A Dollar A Man," it is hoped that close to nine hundred dollars will be forth coming from Washington and Lee. Faculty members and administrative officers of the university, it is believed, will also make their contributions through the student body organization, to swell the total which can be credited directly to the school.

It is understood by those in charge of the drive here that similar efforts are being made at least two other Virginia schools, V. M. I. and the University of Virginia. It is hoped that, regardless of comparative enrollment figures, Washington and Lee will subscribe more than any other school in this area or in the South, since its student body includes men from every section of the South, as well as many from the more fortunate North.

Pass Resolution The text of the resolution adopted by the Executive Committee empowering the committee to act is as follows:

"The recent occurrence of severe storms in Florida has brought over-burdening damage and untold suffering to the citizens of that community. The only aid immediately obtainable may be had through a solicitation of funds from their more fortunate neighbors.

"The Washington and Lee Student Body has in the past endeavored to interest itself and assist in national affairs.

At no time has the need for assistance seemed more imperative. The suffering is in our of us even having homes in our own "Southland," many that state. The Student Body has been given an opportunity to help, and whereas the need is imperative, the suffering almost personal, we, the Executive (Continued on page 4)

Freshmen Will Present Heavy Team on Oct. 5

Coaches Jubilant Over Possibility of Vivacious Season

When the William and Mary Frosh invade Wilson Field on October 5, they will line up against one of the heaviest Little Generals teams in years.

Coaches Davis, Mattox, and Dorsey are jubilant over the prospects of the forward wall, which averages 185 pounds. There is an abundance of line material, and battle royal is going on for positions. Most of the candidates have had several years experience on championship prep school teams in different sections of the country.

Two names, famous in W. & L. football history, are revived this year with the advent of "Tex" Tilson and "Monk" Mattox as aspirants for yearling berths. Both Tilson and Mattox have brothers of the same name who are W. & L. stars of other years. The elder Mattox is now assisting Coach E. P. Davis, in handling the destinies of the Frosh squad.

Students Gain Admittance To Grid Practices

Herron Lifts Ban On Visitors For Tuesday and Wednesday Sessions

As the Washington and Lee Varsity football team plays only three times on Wilson Field this season, Coach Pat Herron, in reply to numerous requests from students, has announced that the secret practice ban will be lifted on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of each week in order that the student body may get more opportunities to see the grid men in action.

Coach Herron has picked these two days because the team will indulge in the hardest and most interesting work at this time. Practically all the scrimmages between the varsity and second teams and between the varsity and freshmen will take place on Tuesdays and Wednesdays after the season gets underway. On Mondays there will be very light practice and it is very probable that the first team will not work out at all. On Thursdays there will be little scrimmage, while on

Liquor Law to be Enforced Equally Attorney States

Students Will be Regarded As Townspeople, Captain Ackerly Explains

RAIDS WILL FOLLOW OPEN VIOLATIONS

Enforcement Officer Has Sent Some Lexington Men To "Rock Pile"

Students will be considered as residents of Lexington in the enforcement of the Prohibition Laws stated W. W. Ackerly, Commonwealth Attorney of Rockbridge County, in an interview yesterday.

"The officers do not wish to cause any trouble for the members of the Student Body, but as they have a sworn duty to perform under the law they wish to go about it in a fair and impartial way," Captain Ackerly explained.

Captain Ackerly is an alumnus of Washington and Lee, having been graduated from the Law school in 1912. He is interested in the welfare of the university, and the members of the student body, and desires to do anything he can to help them.

Wants Cooperation

"I would like to feel that I had the sincere cooperation of the university and Student Body as well as the sincere cooperation of each member of the student body, in trying to make our community respectable and law-abiding, without the necessity of having any unreasonable interference by law-enforcement officers," said the official. "I think that every student at Washington and Lee university is here, or should be here, for the purpose of preparing himself to be a useful law-abiding citizen. Not only while here but wherever he expects to make his living after he leaves the university. I would like the members of this student body in their attitude and conduct towards the people of the town and local civil authorities to show the same consideration which they would want shown them if they were in their own home towns," he continued.

Lack of Interest Displayed in Fall Baseball Work

Only 20 men reported to Coach "CY" Twombly Tuesday afternoon for the first fall baseball practice. By Friday of last week 30 men had already signed up. If baseball men are going to take advantage of this fall training they will have to turn out in larger numbers than they did Tuesday, Coach Twombly said.

For the present the baseball men are using the field in front of the gymnasium, but it is possible that a larger place will be available in the near future.

The work Tuesday afternoon consisted only of limbering up exercises. Flies were hit out to the outfielders and pitchers, and grounders to the infielders.

Al Smith Elected President In Student Body Straw Vote

"The Happy Warrior"

ALFRED E. SMITH, the Democratic nominee for president proved to be the favorite of Washington and Lee students again yesterday when he polled 237 votes in the RING-TUM PHI straw vote. Last April he was nominated for president by the students in a mock Democratic convention.

Cotillion Club To Fill Office Left by Owen

First Informal To Be Held October 6 Following N. C. State Game

Due to the failure of President W. T. Owen to return to school, the Cotillion Club will hold a meeting Thursday night at 7:30 on the first floor of Newcomb Hall, for the purpose of electing a man to fill the vacancy.

Sometime after the election, at the pleasure of the president, another meeting will be called to elect new men to the Club. The new members will be selected from men put up by the various fraternities on the Campus, but at present it is impossible to tell how many will be taken in.

The first dance that will be sponsored by the Club will be the informal to be held in the gymnasium on the night of October 6, after the Washington and Lee—North Carolina State football game. The music will be furnished by the Southern Collegians' with eleven pieces.

$2,050 Goal Set By Y.M.C.A. In Coming Drive

Expect to Interview Every Student on Campus; Will Use 75 Canvassers

A campaign for funds to finance the 1928-29 Y.M.C.A. budget will begin at nine o'clock Tuesday night according to C. H. Patterson, local secretary.

There will be about 75 canvassers, and these men will meet at the Methodist Church for a supper and rally at eight o'clock. Following the rally every member of the Student Body will be interviewed, and it is urged that each man co-operate as much as possible.

Want $2,900 The new budget calls for $2,900.

Last year the budget campaign was anything but a success. The Student Body averaged about one dollar per member. This necessitates the clubs are named for famous alumni of the Law School such as John W. Davis, John Randolph Tucker, Graves, Brockenborough and others.

Democrat Polls Majority of 76 Over Opponent

VOTE DEMONSTRATES SOUTH STILL SOLID

Al is Personally Popular With His Supporters Ballots Reveal

The results of the straw vote yesterday proved the predictions of the Ring-tum Phi correct; the "solid South" remained solid!

All day yesterday students of Washington and Lee journeyed to the polls to express their opinion on who the next President of the United States should be. At the appointed time, 3:30 P. M., the polls were closed and the votes counted. The result was: 237 votes for Al Smith, Democrat; 161 votes for Hoover, Republican; and 1 vote for Norman Thomas, Socialist.

This was considered significant. If the educated class of a certain section support a candidate the chances are that the uneducated classes will follow its lead. Washington and Lee is representative of the educated class in the South, not to mention the North, East and West. The poll is, therefore taken as indicative that the "solid South" will not split in the coming election.

Voters Show Attitude

An interesting phase of the vote was the attitude toward the two candidates expressed by the voters on the ballots. Vote counters noted that practically all votes cast for the New York governor were for "Al" Smith, while those cast for the Republican candidate said "Hoover," "Herb," "Mr. Hoover," and other combinations. It appeared that the voters thought of Hoover as merely the candidate of the Republican party.

Plans Laid for Law School Clubs

M. M. Heuser Elected President and B. C. Rawlins Secretary

Plans were laid by the board of student advisers of the Washington and Lee Law Clubs, at a meeting last week to make them attain the usefulness and popularity such clubs have reached at other schools, notably Harvard university.

Establish here in 1926 under the direction of Prof. Light, these clubs have been under faculty supervision. In making them an extra-curricular activity. Prof. Light hopes to enroll an even greater number than signed up last year.

A board of student advisers was selected on scholarship basis from members of the second and third year law classes. Those from the Senior law classes are: M. M. Heuser, J. B. Towill, J. C. Wilbourn and R. D. Powers; those from the second year are: B. C. Rawlins, W. A. Plummer and R. C. Ammerman. Heuser has been elected president and Rawlins, secretary.

New Lawyers Interested

Thirty-one freshman lawyers have already expressed willingness to join. The number of clubs will be limited only by the number of men who desire to join, according to president Heuser. "These clubs plan several things," Heuser said last night, "first, to acquaint the student with the use of the library, second to give experience in brief making, and third, to furnish a means of practical application for

"Blindfolded You Can Tell'em." Professor And Students Say They're All The Same.

"This blindfold cigarette test is misleading. It doesn't work. Most cigarettes are alike except for the name anyway," William L. Mapel, assistant professor in journalism, told his class in newspaper reporting yesterday morning in giving results of a blindfold test made by eight journalism and advertising students Saturday night. The class in reporting looked skeptical. There is a difference in cigarettes the students argued. So Mr. Mapel sent to the Co-Op, bought a package of every brand kept, and gave the test to members of his class. Except for the label, all cigarettes are alike, they decided.

Eight Men Make Test "Come to my house tonight and we will conduct that blindfold test" Mr. Mapel told his advertising class Saturday morning. They were there. Eight members of this group, seasoned smokers all, took the test.

Old Golds, Fatimas, Camels, Lucky Strikes, and Chesterfields were on the table. The person to take the test sat at the table, was safely blindfolded, and given a cup of unsweetened black coffee which he sipped between smokes to supply a virgin taste for each cigarette. Another fellow shuffled the packs of cigarettes, selected one, and placed it in the mouth of the subject.

The smoker was asked to say whether he liked, disliked, or was indifferent to the fag he was smoking. He was also asked to give the brand. Results were astounding.

Subject "A," before the test, said his favorite brand was Chesterfields. He was given an Old Gold and he called it a Camel. Then a Camel he called an Old Gold. A Lucky Strike he called Fatima. Given his favorite, a Chesterfield, he smoked half of the cigarette, looked puzzled, and said "This one has me stumped. I never tasted one like it. I don't like it, either."

Subject "B" also gave Chesterfields as his favorite brand. Given an Old Gold he called it Fatima. Handed a Chesterfield he took four deep draws, emphatically said he did not like it, and called it an Old Gold.

He Could Tell Any Brand Subject "C" insisted he could tell any brand. He did show up better than the first two for he called a Lucky Strike a Lucky Strike. But he also called a Camel a Chesterfield, an Old Gold a Fatima, a Fatima "don't know," and a Chesterfield an Old Gold.

Only one member of the group, Henry Johnston, selected his favorite brand by name. Two others said they "liked" their favorite brand but called it something else. Even by the law of averages better known as chance, more than one smoker should have selected his brand by name if there is as much difference between cigarettes as is claimed, one of the party pointed out.

While the test allows for the exceptional smoker, who has a keen sense of smell and who has stuck to one brand until it is second nature for him to tell the difference between his and some other brand, it does show that an average smoker buys altogether by trade mark, Mr. Mapel explained. Smokers just imagine one kind is better than another and brand names provide the stimulus.

"There is another interesting point of psychology in this experiment," Mr. Mapel said and his journalism class agreed.

SATURDAY—FOOTBALL

"The record made by any athletic team depends almost entirely upon the support it gets from the student body."

This is the quotation once made by a famous southern grid coach at a student rally. For almost four weeks members of the 1928 Generals have been drilling laboriously on Wilson Field preparing for the football season. Whether or not the team is a winner remains to be seen—most of the success of the team depends upon the students.

To know that the students are behind a team, heart, body and soul is the most gratifying inspiration that the players can have. A player will give everything if he knows that a student body is on the line fighting to support him just as hard as he is fighting in the game for them.

Saturday the Generals meet their first opponent of the year in the Lynchburg college Hornets. Students should be out supporting the team every minute. The Blue and White is tackling one of the hardest schedules ever attempted by any Southern team. It is essential to show the boys in the blue jerseys that you are behind them—that your morale is high.

For years Washington and Lee has had one of the greatest college spirits in the country. We've got to keep that spirit.

In order that every member of the team will become familiar to all the students, Coach Pat Herron has declared Tuesdays and Wednesdays as "open practice" days. With the new Memorial bridge open, there should be several hundred students out each Tuesday and Wednesday—the days when the Blue and White have their hardest drills.

AL FOR ALL; ALL FOR AL

Washington and Lee students stood behind their nominee and the "solid South" again remained "solid."

Governor Alfred E. Smith proved the choice of the campus in the straw vote just as he did in the mock convention last spring—he swept his opposition aside.

Although the outcome was no upset of predictions, it is indeed gratifying to know that the students, composed of the choice few of every section of America, stood so well behind the Democratic nominee. The outcome of this vote should be a fair estimate of the way the South will go in the November elections.

A New Yorker leading the party, seconded by a true born Southerner, Joe Robinson looks to be a "victory ticket." The results of the "laboratory election" indicate the students are fully disgusted with the religious issue thrown into the national campaign, and think little of the whiskey bunk.

Smith has shown that he is a square-shooter from his record as governor of the Empire State—he has let religion take no part in his political career, he promises strict enforcement of laws now in existence. What more could one ask of any candidate? While Smith has been outspoken on every issue his opponent has kept silent.

If the voting here is any indication, it is a case of personality plus vs. drabness. Practically every vote cast for the New York governor was marked "Al" Smith, while on the Republican candidate's ballots, they varied. Mr. Hoover, H. Hoover, Herb, Herb Hoover, and many other combinations were used by those choosing the Californian.

Just as personality won for "Al" in the Washington and Lee straw vote, it is going to coin many votes for him in the real election—and go a long way toward making him the next president of the United States.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE

Destruction, both physical and moral, pestilence, and acute illness and suffering are occurring today in parts of the South, and Washington and Lee students, always true to their reputation as upholders of the spirit and ideals of Lee, are called upon to assist in stamping out almost unbelievable conditions, and in restoring health and property throughout the stricken areas in Florida and Porto Rico.

The example set by the immortal southern leader in the upbuilding of this University after the war storm of 1861-65 will be followed, we hope, by the students here—his students—doing their share, wholeheartedly and gladly, in the upbuilding of areas just as devastated as those of the entire South following the war.

Never has such a disaster struck so close to the homes and hearts of students representative of the entire South. The situation beggars written description, we are told by those on the field, and even surpasses that existing following the storm of two years ago, when we thought the fury of nature had shown itself at its worst.

The action of the Executive Committee of the Student Body in adopting a resolution placing Washington and Lee students squarely behind all efforts for relief should commend itself to every man here, and should result in his willing contribution of a dollar as his share in this great work. No obligation is placed upon students to subscribe, the committee thinking this an unnecessary formality in view of the acute situation existing and the general knowledge of it held by students. The call to aid must be answered, and Washington and Lee must not fall down in its attempt to aid. Other universities throughout the country are conducting similar drives, and will report to the relief executives on their success. Shall W. & L., the one university representative of the entire South, fall down in its self-appointed task? We believe not.

Over a thousand deaths, other thousands homeless and without a change of clothes, immediate danger of further death and loathsome disease but a matter of a few days unless the relief is immediate and adequate—all these things should bring home the fact that action at once and unstinting is necessary if the aid is to be of the utmost value in preserving the persons stricken and in restoring them to a condition where they can rebuild and again be useful to society and the nation.

Greet the soliciting committeemen cordially, and do your share to nullify the effects of the disaster as much as is possible by the intervention of human agencies at this time.

A THING DECRIED

Last Saturday Hampden-Sidney college came to Lexington and played our neighbors, Virginia Military Institute, on Alumni Field. Many Washington and Lee students attended.

On one side of the field is a high bluff made by excavating when the field was constructed. At every game there is a sprinkling of negroes, with some few whites along the edge of this bluff watching the game. They had slipped in—had paid no admission. But last Saturday there were Washington and Lee students there too.

The fact that most of them were freshmen does not matter. They were reflecting just as much discredit upon their school as if they were upperclassmen. They had done a dishonest thing—something to give Washington and Lee a bad name. Every Key-det, every visitor, every Lexington citizen at the game saw them and thought less of the school for it.

When V. M. I. has to send a squad on that hill to clear it of our men who have slipped in, it is a disgraceful situation, and one that should never be duplicated. When the Key-dets come to our games, they do not slip in.

Freshmen should learn that every Washington and Lee student is expected to be a gentleman no matter where he is. Any repetition, in the slightest degree, of their conduct at the V. M. I. game is a matter that should come before the Executive Committee.

PRINTING OF TODAY

In the introduction to "Printing of To-day" by Oliver Simon and Julius Rodenburg, (to be published in August by Harpers) Aldous Huxley says: "The state of mind produced by the sight of beautiful letters is in harmony with that created by the reading of good literature. Their beauty can even compensate us, in some degree, for what we suffer from bad literature. They can give us intense pleasure, as I discovered in China, even when we do not understand what they signify. For what astounding elegances and subtleties of form stare out in gold and lamplight from the shop fronts and the hanging scarlet signs of a Chinese street! What does it matter if the literary spirit expressed by these strange symbols is only 'Fried Fish and Chips,' or 'A Five Guinea Suit for Thirty Shillings'?" The letters have a value of their own apart from what they signify, a private inwardness of graphic beauty. The Chinese themselves, for whom the Fish-and-Chips significance is no secret, are the most ardent admirers of this graphic beauty."

E-Senator Miles Poindexter, '91, once Washington's favorite son in a presidential campaign, is back home campaigning to regain his old seat in the senate, having resigned his position as ambassador to Peru, which he had held for five years.

BY the WAY

THEY CALL IT LOVE!

The saffron bulb of a June moon looked like a gold penny that had rolled in the rut of cloud drifts until it was worn into lopsided curves.

Beneath the moon these nude, spectre-like telegraph posts flung gray, lean shadows across a road that glistened beneath the lunar orb like a ribbon of gold. Wavering across these lugubrious shadows was the more grotesque one of a low rumbling roadster that sped along as though its very life existed in its speed.

The gray-eyed driver at the wheel was seemingly only interested in urging the animal-like thing on to greater effort. In fact, his manner was obviously intended to extend to any observer the assurance that nothing else in all the world held any attraction for him.

The tiny mass of brown hair and violet eyes beside him stirred wistfully and then snuggled closer; but he seemed unaware of her existence. Faster and faster he urged his gasoline monster.

The girl's poem of a mouth drooped ever so little and she sighed deeply.

"George," she whispered, "George, I'm cold."

"Don't blame me," retorted her brother ungraciously, "I told you to wear a heavier coat."

HOW ABOUT EGGS?

Heard on the football field: Billy—How do you like your oysters? George—Raw! Raw! Raw!

AND HOW—

Of all the sad sounds, known to men,
How about the roar of the big Big Ben?

Tell us, Socrates, if a press agent works in a tailoring shop, if he is master of the gentle art of osculation, does he run the steam-roller?

The Eta Beta Pies have requested that we announce the fact that they will not be in the market for Christmas seals. SOME WEDDING!!!

The following extracts are taken from a society wedding story in a Southern newspaper: "Her veil of lace, which the bride brought home from a recent European tour, was confined with a three-tiered wedding cake to her hair by a slender wreath of orange blossoms." "The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and her father embossed in pink rosebuds and valley lilies."

SOME "AL SMITH PROPAGANDA"

After extended research a member of the reportorial staff of the RING-TUM PHI has discovered a hitherto unknown yet highly creditable phase of Al Smith's career as a national figure. "Al" is a journalist. He worked on a New York newspaper at the tender, budding age of 13. His position—oh yes—he was a newboy.

Would you say the Delta Taus are putting up a bold front?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Nothing is so refreshing and stimulating as a little constructive criticism. It is with this in mind that I make this public request through the columns of the RING-TUM PHI.

I think that it is the general opinion of the sober and mature judgment of this campus, both among the faculty and the student body, that W. and L. should have a Y.M.C.A. Circumstances have brought me back to my Alma Mater in the capacity of general secretary. I enjoyed my association here last year and fully expect to enjoy them more this year which will be my last at W. and L.

Here is the point to this communication: how can the Christian Association here directly benefit more men on the campus? As conditions now are the vast majority of the student body never knows there is a Y. Unless they are asked for money in a financial campaign or unless they have to attend some university assembly where there happens to be a noted speaker brought here under our auspices. Why is it that more members of the Omicron Delta Kappa do not take a positive and aggressive interest? Why do not more of the other men who are looked upon as leaders of campus thought and morale take an active interest? Why do not the responsible fraternity leaders and presidents and managers throw off their inhibitions and shake off the out-grown shell of indifference?

Is the trouble in the personality and purposes of the secretary? Is it that there is something wrong with the cabinet officers and leaders? Is it some other reason that might be remedied?

This letter come from me personally and in no way implicates any one else associated with me. I am trying to find a way to meet real needs on the campus, and it is my hope and purpose that some way, some how, the Student Christian Association may serve not 5 percent nor 55 percent but 100 percent of the Student Body.

Signed C. H. Patterson.

Gobblers Expect End Will Return For W. & L. Game

A pall of gloom hangs over the football camp of the Virginia Tech Gobblers, due to the first gridiron injury of the season, in which "Scrubbie" Nutter, veteran left-end, broke his arm during practice last Monday afternoon.

Nutter has been a trusty wingman for two seasons and it was his great defensive playing that aided the Gobblers in defeating the Generals last fall. Nutter distinguished himself by breaking through and throwing the W. & L. backs for heavy losses on several occasions.

It is feared that the injury will keep him off the team this fall, but physicians hold a faint hope that he will be able to make his 1928 debut in the Washington and Lee game on November 17.

Nutter is the only veteran end on the V. P. I. squad and his loss will be keenly felt in the early season games.

The injury was sustained during practice of receiving and breaking up forward passes, Nutter and two other players jumped for a pass, one of the other players striking Nutter's extended arm from above, the other from beneath. He was taken to the Jefferson Hospital at Roanoke for treatment.

Class Football Teams To Start Practice Monday

Intra-mural football will get under way next Monday. All men wishing to participate in these games will report as follows: Academic students to "Cy" Twombly at 5 o'clock in gymnasium, Commerce to Mathis at 3 o'clock in gymnasium and the Law students to Palmer on Wilson Field at the same time.

All men who have not made a monogram or numeral here in football are eligible for these teams. A definite practice schedule has not yet been arranged, however, it should be completed by Monday.

There will be four teams in all, including the Freshmen, who are already practicing under Coach E. P. Davis. Each team will play every other team once making up a twelve game schedule.

The winners of this program will be invited to the regular football banquet held at the end of football season. Last year the Commerce team won.

I. H. Elias, C. R. Fulton and J. R. Clack have been confined to beds in the Jackson Memorial hospital because of severe colds. Dave Nicholls has been in the hospital for four days on account of an injured leg.

Aquatic Practice Draws 50 Tryouts

The swimming teams—Varsity and freshman—are now practicing three times a week under the direction of Coach Twombly, at 3 o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Practice will keep up until the Christmas holidays and then daily workouts will be held until the season ends.

The nature of the practices now is on the fundamentals such as form, turns and starts. Indications are toward a good team. Approximately fifty men are out.

Letter men and numeral men who are back this year are: Captain Moffatt, Smith Swink, Ayars, Fangbner, Cook, Harberson, Jahncke, Zachary, Luria, Martin and Burn.

Big Planes Seen Over Town Sunday

Seven Keystone bombing planes of the United States army passed over Lexington Sunday shortly before noon. The planes were flying in an easterly direction.

Keystone bombers are among the largest type of air-craft in army use. The planes seen here were flying from Cincinnati, where they stopped Saturday night, to Langley Field, Va. They made a complete cross-country flight from Los Angeles in short hops.

The arguments are to be presented as before an appellate court. There will be no jury, the judge rendering the decision.

An elimination is being considered to narrow down the contesting attorneys so that at the end of the year a public argument before the student body can be given by the two best men. Some question of law involving general interest will be used in the contest.

Joe Holt was elected President at a meeting of the Freshman Council, Thursday night. Bill Tallyn was appointed secretary.

General Varsity Ready for Game

share of the heavy work around the left tackle position.

One of the main props of the Washington and Lee line for the last two years has been "Heinie" Groop who will certainly be heard from during the coming campaign. Groop has played guard on the short side of the line since he made the varsity, and a play run over his position is one of the surest ground gainers in the Generals' bag of tricks. Groop's work has never been spectacular as he is usually buried in the play, but with a line-driving set of backs behind him as he has this year, he is going to come in mighty handy in opening up the center of the line.

Bill Hawkins is the second reason why the Generals have about the nearest pair of tackles in the state. Last year, while only a sophomore, Hawkins divided the time at right tackle with Fisher, while this season, with one campaign of varsity experience behind him, he should be one of the outstanding men in the line.

Although Gene White reported late for practice and was therefore slow in getting into condition, the veteran General fullback has finally come into his own and has been showing his younger competitors a few things about line-bucking during the past week. White was one of the high scorers of the state last season, and is ready to renew his battering tactics against the Hornets next Saturday.

The 1928 varsity is lucky in having an experienced field general left to the team from the wreckage caused by last spring's graduations. This man is "Billy" Lott, veteran halfback of the last two years. Lott is particularly valuable behind the scrimmage line because he is a triple-threat man. He has exhibited the same form throughout pre-season scrimmages that he has for the last two seasons and is slated to run the team from the left half-back post on Saturday.

Coach Herron continues to juggle his first string men around in an effort to strike the best combination before the season starts, and the exact personnel of the team will not be known until the whistle blows for the opening game.

Powers Asks For Calyx Complaints

All those who did not get 1928 Calyx must make complaint to Bob Powers at Book office in the Law Building this week—from 9:30 to 12:30 in the morning. Also there are a few Calyx for sale. No claims will be recognized after Saturday at 12:30.

GENERAL GOSSIP

The Generals are certain to open their gridiron season with a victory, if the exhibition which the Lynchburg College Hornets put on under the flood lights at William and Mary Saturday is any criterion of their football ability and strength this year. A three or four touchdown victory for the Indians was to be expected, but a 41-to-0 track meet was scarcely anticipated by Bocock, Gooch and Company, the old colleges new control board.

Do not, however, expect Coach Herron's men to pile up six or seven touchdowns against the Hornets Saturday, as that will not be the object of the battle on Wilson Field. If we size up strategy aright, the starters will play much longer than many believe though, as most of them have a lot to learn about activity under fire before the hard grind starts the following week.

The loss of Grant must have damaged the Westover machine greatly. It was his punting that prevented the Blue and White from running up more than four touchdowns here in 1927, and his toe was also mainly responsible for the two points scored by the losers.

Not only is Grant absent this year, but several stars on the Lynchburg eleven which started against William and Mary are freshmen, and will not play Saturday unless some special agreement is reached in the light of unusual conditions. Pete George, halfback upon whom Hornet fans pin much hope for gains this fall, is a yearling, and much of the attack has been planned with him in mind, it is understood.

An injury to the invaders' captain in the W. and M. battle will probably keep him on the sidelines this week, and this but accentuates the belief that the Generals are in for a big victory, with plenty of men seeing action.

Remember the crowds that invaded Lexington November 5, 1927, when V. M. I. played North Carolina in the morning and the Generals played host to the Cavaliers as the sun went down, with two games of minor importance thrown in for good measure on Lexington's big bargain day? This year will see no such influx as that, but with Richmond playing the Cadets Saturday on Alumni Field at 2:15 and the Generals opening against Lynchburg at 3:30, more than the student bodies will be in the stands.

For the first time in eleven or twelve years, West Virginia will not be able to claim the championship of the Mountaineer State. Davis and Elkins, tucked away in the mountains in the eastern part of the state, swept into Morgantown Saturday and toppled Homer Martin's proteges for a 7-0 loss. Each of the previous three years had seen close scores, but this year Henderson's machine came through and checked every effort W. V. U. could make.

Substitute after substitute, all through the line and spotted among the backs, was rushed on the field, but Henderson's heavies kept up their defense, and should take the state title with ease now.

Who would have thought it—seriously?
Andy Gustafson, director of grid destinies at V. P. I. had another worry added to his string last Friday, when Scrubie Nutter, veteran end and a much respected one at that, broke his arm when he collided with two other Gobbler aspirants in trying to catch a pass. This will keep him on the bench most of the season, but the Techmen hope—and we believe—that he will be at his flank on Wilson Field November 17.

Don't let the remark be heard, for fear of bringing on the General's Jinx, but the Big Blue has been singularly fortunate as far as injuries are concerned during the pre-season training grind. In previous years, it will be remembered, one or more men virtually certain of being listed as "regulars" have been incapacitated before the opening game, upon several occasions being forced to the bench for the entire season.

Get your season admission coupon book now, and carry it with you Saturday if you want to get in for a thin one. If you are something of a dopester, write your prediction of the Lynchburg score on a slip of paper and drop it in drawer 899 at the post office before noon Friday. Needn't sign your name, but let's have a line on the collective opinion of the Minks on the strength of the Generals in their first battle.

Freshmen Learn Football Yells

Songs and Cheers Taught to Frosh at First Rally of the Year

Freshman who will see their first Washington and Lee Athletic contest Saturday filled Do-remus gymnasium last night with the sounds of songs and yells in the first rally of the year. Led by Cheerleader Graham Morison, the frosh swung into the yells and then were taught Washington and Lee's old songs—the "Swing" and "College Friendships" by Professor John A. Graham. Miss Emily Penick assisted at the piano.

Morison, as cheer leader, is organizing a freshman cheer section for the game Saturday, and expects to have his charges seated near the middle of the field. Friday night at 7:30 the entire student body will meet in the gymnasium for a short rally preceding the game.

Following the session last night Harold Slanker, director of the band, called for all tryouts, and announced a practice today at 4:30 in the gymnasium. Slanker expects to have a 75 piece band this year, attired in entirely new uniforms. His group will make

OLD GOLD bats 1000% as Hornsby takes the Blindfold cigarette test

ROGERS HORNSBY... capable manager of the Boston Braves... captain of the 1927 New York Giants... manager of the 1926 St. Louis Cardinals, who won the World's Series.

Mr. HORNSBY was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked... "Which one do you like best?"

What gives OLD GOLD this winning charm?

Here is the answer, in three words... heart-leaf tobacco. No coarse, heavy top-leaves of the tobacco plant... for they irritate the throat. No withered ground-leaves... for they are lacking in aroma. Only the cool and fragrant heart-leaves... golden ripe... can give OLD GOLDS their honey-like smoothness. That's why you can tell them in the dark.

SMOOTHER AND BETTER—"NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD"

Liquor Law to be Enforced Equally

houses and dormitories are raided will depend entirely on the conduct of those occupying them. If constant noise is made or those drinking make themselves noticeable, raids will have to be made as the townspeople will hold the officers responsible. Therefore, no steps will be taken by the authorities unless the law is violated openly. They cannot give the students permission to break the law, and they cannot stand by and see it broken with impunity, as that would cause them trouble.

"There are a few men at Washington and Lee who have the idea that the townspeople and local authorities 'have it in' for the students. This certainly is not true. The unfavorable sentiment is toward a small group of students at Washington and Lee who have from time to time acted in apparent disregard of the rights of others. Most of the citizens of Lexington have a very kindly feeling toward the Student Body," Captain Ackerly emphasized.

"There is a strict law in Virginia against the driving of automobiles while under the influence of liquor. Several Lexington men have been put to work on the 'rock pile' for infracting this law. Therefore, students cannot be allowed to drive cars while intoxicated and go without jail sentence as townspeople have been dealt with very strictly," Captain Ackerly said as a warning to violators.

Captain Ackerly thinks that the honor system at Washington and Lee is a fine thing but that it does not go far enough.

When a member of the Washington and Lee Student-Body continually breaks the gentlemanly traditions which are so prominent on this campus, he should be taken into consideration by the Executive Committee as a violator of the Honor System, and be given a public trial if he thinks himself innocent," said Captain Ackerly in concluding the interview.

The Jones family bought the auto they did because the earnest young salesman:

Laughed at all Mr. Jones' jokes. Told Mrs. Jones she couldn't have a daughter that old.

Told Susie she looked like Mary Pickford, and dated her for a dance.

Told Willie Jones he had a build like Dempsey.

Said the Jones baby took after both parents.

And only smiled when the Jones Airdale nipped him.—"The Retailer."

FOUR GRID COACHES SEE V.M.I. GAME

An unusual occurrence marked the opening of V. M. I.'s football season Saturday. Four of Virginia's leading football teams and their coaches were gathered in the school's stadium.

On the field V. M. I. under Coach Bill Rafferty battled with Hampden-Sidney under Coach Charlie Bernier. In the stands sat Coach Andy Gustafson with the V. P. I. Gobblers and Coach Pat Herron with the Washington and Lee Generals.

V. P. I. will meet Hampden-Sidney Saturday and will close the season with V. M. I. Thanksgiving Day. Coach Gustafson thought the 200-mile trip from Blacksburg would prove valuable to his men.

Expect Heavy Freshman Team

school eleven that made an enviable record last fall, meeting such strong teams as the Army Plebes Navy Plebes and Penn State Frosh.

A Prep Star
Mattox was an end on the Fishburne Military school football team and was favorably mentioned for all-state honors. In the practice sessions both Mattox and Tilson have showed to advantage and it is predicted that they will follow in the footsteps of their older brothers.

Stevens, Long and Wilson have also displayed exceptional ability as wingmen and under the tutelage of Bill Dorsey, are expected to develop into ball-hawks.

Porter At Center
Porter and Egbert are the leading candidates for the pivot position. Porter is getting the call regularly, but Egbert is pressing him hard. Porter was the center on the DeWitt Prep team which won the District of Columbia championship. He was chosen as all-district center.

Bailey, Rosenberg, Tonsmeire and Tilson are the linemen of Team "A". This quartet are working well together, but Wilcox, Montgomery, Harris and Woodcock of team "B" are leading them a merry race for the initial call.

As a whole, the line shapes up as a fast, though heavy string of gridders that will give the opposing squads plenty of trouble this season.

The backfield situation is troubling the coaching staff, there being a dearth of material. Mitchell, Smith, Cross, Guyol and Martin are the outstanding backs after the first weeks of preliminary training. Smith and Martin were members of two Southern prep school elevens that had excellent seasons last fall.

Smith was a scoring ace of A. M. A. while Martin was chosen as all-Maryland half-back after a successful year with Baltimore Poly.

Mitchell was a line-plunger and consistent ground-gainer of Portsmouth, Ohio, High team and in the short scrimmages that the Little Generals had, Mitchell has plowed through the opposing wall with ease. Guyol, the field general barked signals for the Portland, Maine, High school eleven and he is taking that roll with the frosh.

The mentors have hopes of building up a scoring combination, that coupled with the heavy experienced line will have excellent chances of going through a victorious season.

Over seventy-five men are still reporting for practice, and although the cut system will not be played, the squad will gradually fall away till three of four full teams will be organized.

Schedule Complete
The opening battle will be watched with interest because Cy Young, another football hero of W. & L. who is now coaching at William and Mary, will bring his charges over to Lexington, determined to administer a beating to the Little Generals.

The schedule is as follows:
Oct. 5—William and Mary frosh at Lexington.
Oct. 20—V.P.I. Frosh at Blacksburg.
Oct. 27—Greenbrier at Lewisburg, W. Va.
Nov. 2—Virginia Frosh at Lexington.
Nov. 1—Maryland Frosh at Washington.

and a few of these comments are reproduced here as interesting sidelights.

"Every Smith should be for Smith."

"Herbert Hoover, the people's choice. A jag with Al, a full dinner pail with Herb."

"Al Smith. All the blind owls say Hoo—Hoo—Hoo—for Hoover." Alfred Emanuel Smith the elected candidate was born December 30, 1873, in New York City. His father died when Al was thirteen leaving the boy's mother and younger sisters under his care. He sold papers, worked in the Fulton Fish Market, and was a laborer in the employ of a steam pump company during his youth and young manhood. He was married in 1900 to Catherine A. Dunn and has five children.

First Elected In 1903
He was first elected to the New York Assembly in 1903, where he served in the Legislature for twelve consecutive terms until 1915. During this time he was majority leader in the assembly, floor leader in the minority, and speaker, besides serving on many important committees.

He was sheriff of the county of New York from 1915 to 1917 at which time he was elected President of the Board of Aldermen. In 1918 he was elected governor of the Empire State. He was defeated in the presidential year of 1920, but re-elected in 1922 by receiving 1,397,670 votes, a figure never before attained by any candidate for state or local office in the United States. He has served New York as governor ever since this election.

Governor Smith has been noted throughout his long period of public service for his thorough understanding of the problems of government and his consistent liberal policy in the field of administrative reform.

Social Season To Open at V. M. I.

Three dances will be held by the cadets of the Virginia Military Institute this week end when they open their social activities. Bob Euler's orchestra of Baltimore will furnish the music.

The "Keydets" are expecting many girl visitors for their dances together with a large number of alumni. The first dance will be held Friday night, the second Saturday afternoon following the V. M. I.—Richmond football game, and the third Saturday night.

for the year and crippled the work considerably. The main reason for the failure was that the campaign was poorly organized, and many men were not seen.

Expect Success
This year it is expected that better success may be had. Each student will at least have a chance to add his support.

It will be noted that some of the money in the budget goes to causes off the campus. In former years it was the custom to have special campaigns for money for various international projects, but in recent years this has been objected to by the students. It has, therefore, been necessary to include foreign work in the budget. Part of every subscription will be distributed among students in the State of Virginia, in the South, and throughout the world, unless otherwise specified on the individual subscriptions.

The announced budget is as follows:

Dares Fate for Favorite Pipe Tobacco

Darby, Pa., November 12, 1926.
Larus & Bro. Co. Richmond, Va. Gentlemen:
I have a mania for crawling through a number of unexplored caverns between the towns of Woodstock and Mt. Jackson in the Shenandoah Valley. One cave was exceedingly dangerous with its tight passages, etc. I spent three hours in this cavity, groping blindly with a "dead" flashlight and a severed guiding string.
To cut my story short, I was finally rescued by a searching party after a terrible experience. It was a wonderful feeling as I sat at the mouth of the cavern telling my friends that I would not go back in there for love nor money. I meant it—until I reached for my can of Edgeworth. It was gone, and I recalled dropping something during the excitement in the cave.
It is queer what a man will do when his favorite tobacco is concerned. I realized that without my tobacco it would be as bad as being lost in the cavity—so I crawled back.
It was a grand and glorious feeling as my hand came in contact with the Aristocrat of Tobacco.
Yours very truly,
Joseph P. Fink, Jr.

Adopt New System
A new system of selecting debating teams will be in force this year. Tryouts will be placed in squads to debate a certain subject. Several days before the debate a practice session will be held between the squads and the best debaters selected.

"The new system will be very similar to the method used by athletic coaches in selecting their teams," explained Mr. Bauer.

In order to get the new method underway the coach has asked all men interested in debating to get in touch with him immediately.
