Venable Takes First Prize In State Contest

Washington and Lee Man Wins Medal In Oratorical Meet.

STUDENT DUPLICATES FATHER'S PERFORMANCE

Is Second Member of Family To Win Same Speaking Prize.

W. W. Venable, of Norfolk, Virginia, a freshman lawyer, won the 39th State Oratorical contest held at William and Mary last Friday. The subject of his speech was "The Great Defender" which dealt with the work of John Marshall while Chief Justice of the United States. The contest was held in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial hall with nine schools represented: Washington and Lee, Roanoke College, Bridgewater College, Hamden-Sydney, Emory and Henry, Randolph-Macon, University of Richmond, William and Mary, and Lynchburg College.

Second place was awarded to Mr. Beacon of Randolph-Macon whose home is in India. He spoke on "Lest We Forget" which was about the caste system in his native country.

The prize was a large gold medal set with a diamond, and had been won in 1892 by Henry Venable, who is the father of this year's winner. This is the only case where a father and son have both won the prize. The older Venable was present to see his son awarded the prize.

The champion last year was also a Washington and Lee man, H. M. Platt. It is interesting to note that since Professor M. G. Bauer came here to head the Department of Public Speaking there have been four state contests, and Washington and Lee representatives have won three of them, the other man being a close second in contest.

The medal was awarded by George E. Brooks, professor of Public Speaking at William and Mary, on behalf of the State Oratorical Association.

Judges for the contest were Ashton Dovell, Frank Armstead, judge for the circuit court; and the Rev. John B. Bentley, assistant rector of Bruton Parish church.

Square and Compass Installs Officers At Annual Banquet

At the banquet of the Square and Compass last night the new president was installed and a scholarship presented.

Dr. James Lewis Howe presented McRee Davis with a past president's key. V. C. Jones, president-elect for 1930, made his acceptance speech.

Jones' speech was followed by the presentation to Meyer Seligman by Gray Funkhouser of the James H. Crift scholarship prize. Dr. W. M. Brown then traced the development of Square and Compass, showing its usefulness on the college campus.

Other speakers were Dr. T. J. Farrar, one of the original founders of Square and Compass, Dr. Granville Campbell, Major S. M. Heffin of V. M. I., Mr. Charles W. R. Dunlap of Lexington, and T. C. Nelson, grand lecturer of the Grand Lodge of Virginia, A. F. and A. M.

Cadets to Hear Dr. Ashby Jones

Rev. Ashby Jones of St. Louis, Mo., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the V. M. I. graduates this year.

Rev. Jones is an alumnus of Washington and Lee, being a member of the class of '91. He is a very prominent Baptist minister, and is well known for his oratorical ability.

As we understand it the ship-building race between the United States and Great Britain is the first slow-motion race in history. —Kay Features.

DR. R. H. TUCKER.

Dr. Robert H. Tucker, professor of economics at Washington and Lee, will be one of the principal speakers at the first all-Virginia conference at Virginia Beach, May 10-12.

The subject of Doctor Tucker's lecture will be "Next Steps in Taxation and Governmental Reorganizations in Virginia."

Doctor Tucker was chairman of the committee on taxation of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce under its old program and is recognized as one of the leading authorities on this subject today.

Student Group Holds Congress At Budapest

Students Of Thirty-six Nations To Meet At Eleventh Conference.

This summer an important international student congress will meet in Budapest, Hungary, from August 10 to 24. This will be the eleventh annual congress of the Confederation Internationale des Etudiants of which about thirty-six nations are members through their national unions of students. The National Student Federation of America is a member of this International Confederation of Students and will therefore be represented at the Budapest Congress.

Founded in 1919 at Strasbourg, France, because of the need for the cooperation of the youth of the world, the confederation convenes annually in congress to discuss concrete means of promoting international student cooperation. It is the belief of this student organization that the best way to further international understanding is through actual co-operative activities in which the students of various countries must work together. Such activities have been to promote student self-help, international students sanatorium, an international book bureau, international university games, and student travel. The two weeks of the annual congress are spent, therefore, not in theoretical discussion of peace or politics, but instead in promoting the activities which will create international understanding among the youth of the world.

Last summer the Tenth Congress of the C. I. E. was held in Paris; this summer the Eleventh Congress will be held in Budapest. The National Union of Students of Hungary will be hosts to the congress and in the program for the discussions and assemblies of the congress it is including ample time for excursions to sites of interest near Budapest. These excursions will visit Mezokovesd, famous for its ethnographical points of interest, to Debrecan, a university town, and the nearby plain called the Hortobagy, and to the Lake Balaton and some of the international baths.

Realizing that Budapest is a very beautiful city and is one of the greatest resorts of Central Europe, the committee on international relations and travel of the C. I. E. is holding an international student camp near Lake Balaton for ten days simultaneously with the congress. This camp will be for the enjoyment of students from all over the world and will include in its program of games, yachting, hiking, etc., informal discussion teas on international student interests.

Committee Men Invite Girls To Informal Dance

Finance Workers Co-operate In Making Saturday's Affair Successful.

RECORD EXPECTED FOR ATTENDANCE

Southern Collegians Working On New Tunes For Saturday's Dance.

Forty-five members of the Finals finance committee, sponsoring the Finals Informal Saturday, are having at least forty-five girls over for the dance, and all preparations are being made for the most brilliant of Washington and Lee's informal's. Every indication points to a record attendance and to a large number of girls.

The Southern Collegians have been working on a number of new pieces—"Garden of Allah," "Mean to Me," "Rhapsody in Rhythm," and others—and are prepared to give their own interpretation of what a dance orchestra should be. They are playing at the New Theater tonight, and are preparing for a synopacted seance Saturday.

Finals Informal is sponsored by the Finals finance committee to which all proceeds go. "This year's Finals is still considerably undersubscribed," George Lanier, president of Finals, "and we are counting heavily on the Informal which has always been the greatest success in every way."

No Curtailing
Lanier stated that the Finals quota has not yet been reached, but that there was no intention of curtailing the dances in any way. Plans for decorations, favors, and for the dinner are rapidly being completed, and an informal as successful as Finals Informal is expected to be will put the finances over and insure Finals plans, Lanier said.

A large number of visiting prep school students here for the Southern Interscholastic Press Association convention Friday and Saturday will swell attendance at the Informal, and with the support of the Finals committees and various campus organizations the largest and best of the year's informals is expected.

Watch To Be Given To Best Headline Writer On Display

A great deal of interest has been aroused on the campus, especially among the students in the journalism school, over the recently announced contest in writing an advertising headline suitable for advertisement featuring a new watch that has been put on the market. Announcement was made in the Ring-tum Phi last week of the prize—a watch valued at $55—would be given to the student who writes the best headline. The deadline is set for June 25.

Hamric and Smith, local jewelers, are agents for this watch in Lexington, and will be in a position to give all those who are interested in the contest full information concerning both the watch and contest. They will have a sample of the watch in their store in a few days, and invite all those who would like to see this innovation in the watch field drop in and see it. The manufacturers for the watch are The Perpetual Self-Winding Watch Co., of New York City.

Dr. Smith To Give Winchester Speech

Winchester, Va.—Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, is to be the principle speaker at finals of Handley high school here the evening of June 13, when a class of about 75 will receive diplomas, it was announced today at the office of H. S. Duffey, superintendent. Dr. Smith has indicated his retirement from the university presidency next January 1st.

Faculty Adopts Changes in A. B. Degree Requirements

P.D.E. Sponsors College Contest In Journalism

Prizes Offered By Fraternity For Best News Stories And Editorials.

Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity, has offered a series of prizes ranging from $10.00 to $50.00 for editorials and news stories published in college journals throughout the United States during the current academic year. Both competitions are open to all colleges, and to men and women alike.

The same prizes will be given for editorials and news stories, as follows: First prize, $50; second prize, $35; third prize, $25; fourth prize, $15; fifth prize, $10. Nationally known newspaper men will act as judges, and the competition will close on July 1, 1929.

To be eligible for prizes, editorials or news stories must be submitted to the director of the competition, Henry G. Doyle, dean of men, George Washington University, Washington, D. C., in accordance with the following rules:

1. Editorials of news stories must have been written by an undergraduate, and must have been published in a college paper during the academic year 1928-1929. Monthlies, literary magazines, alumni publications, or "comics" are not included in the competition.

2. The entries must be submitted in duplicate, one copy in the form of a clipping to eliminate any indication of the source, and the other a marked copy of the complete issue of the publication in which story appeared.

3. A statement from the editor or some responsible officer of the publication must accompany the contributions, certifying that the author is a regularly enrolled undergraduate of the institution, and giving his name and address.

Upon receipt of the entries, they will be numbered serially, the same number appearing on both copies and the statement. The unmarked copy will be sent to the judges, while the other will be filed in the office of the director for use in announcing the awards. The decision of the judges will be final, and it is hoped that the winners may be announced on or before October 1, 1929. None of the material will be returned.

Last year the contest was divided between two groups, and the same prizes were given the winners as this year. Group A was open to all college journals and staffs, and Group B was for members of Pi Delta Epsilon on staffs of college journals in institutions where there was a chapter of the fraternity. The winner of the first prize in Group A was Charles Engwall, of the University of Minnesota, and in Group B was Louis H. Bell, Jr., of Pennsylvania State College.

Further information concerning the contest may be secured from H. P. Johnston, or by writing to Henry G. Doyle, dean of men, George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

1930 Officers Are Formally Sworn In

The successful candidates in the recent campus elections were formally sworn in last night by John Bell Towill, president of this year's student body.

The oath was administered to the newly elected student body officers, editors and business managers of publications, dance leaders, cheer leader, members of the athletic council, and the executive committees chosen in the class elections.

VAN GILBERT.

Wider Fame Planned For Fancy Dress

Students To Be Requested To Vote On What Orchestra Plays.

By A. M. HARVEY.

Wider fame and publicity for 1930 Fancy Dress ball will be the aim of Van Gilbert, newly elected leader of next year's ball. He stated last night that he did not think the ball itself could be much improved, but that for its importance as a social event it was not known as well as it should be. Gilbert also plans to bring in a new orchestra and "give new blood" to the dance. Cards will probably be sent out to each member of the student body with a return card attached for the purpose of finding out what orchestra is most desired. The band for which the most votes are received will be secured, if possible.

The theme for the ball has not been chosen. This and the decorations are mapped out by Professor C. E. L. Gill with the help of the president of the ball and they have not been decided. Mr. Gill is the main originator of the theme and decorations and has been responsible for the success of Fancy Dress in the past.

Fox Movietone is interested in getting pictures of the ball and although they did not appear this year it is hoped that a man will be down to "shoot" next year's dance.

Cuts will be rushed out immediately after Fancy Dress and will be featured in all the rotogravure sections. Gilbert plans to get the Associated Press or some similar organization to distribute them. Advance stories about the ball will be sent out either right before or after Christmas. Gilbert stated that the social prestige of Washington and Lee rests on the dances and that it is up to the leaders to get the publicity due them.

Phi Alpha Delta Holds Initiation

Phi Alpha Delta, national honorary legal fraternity, met Monday night in Washington college for the formal initiation of the following men: M. Watkins Ewell, Thomas D. Shumate, Hubert L. Echols, Robert J. Thrift, Jr., C. H. Paddock, W. W. Venable, Jr., B. Martin, F. W. McCluer, Jr., H. M. Mabry, Ethan Allen, E. J. Bostwick, and A. M. Vickers.

Walter Ritchie, president of the local chapter, presided at the initiation.

5031 VISIT CHAPEL.

Five thousand and thirty-one visitors registered at the Lee chapel during the month of April. This number shows an increase of almost two thousand over the 3378 visitors during the same month last year. Forty-four states and four foreign countries were represented in this group.

2 Years Language Now Needed Instead of Four

Classes To Run On Semester Basis For Credit—Three-Group System Discarded.

Radical changes in requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree at Washington and Lee were adopted at a special meeting of the faculty Monday afternoon.

They will become effective with the opening of college in September and will affect all classes now in the University with the exception of the senior class.

(1) That two years of language be required instead of four, for students entering with four years of high or preparatory units in language.

(2) That in the requirements for the A. B. degree the word "major" be used in lieu of the present word "certificate."

(3) That the present three-group system be replaced by a four-group system.

(4) That 126 hours be required for graduation instead of 124.

(5) That so far as practicable the semester be made the basis of courses and credits instead of the term or two semesters.

Committee Appointed.

The new requirements for the degree, which the institution has been conferring for the last 179 years, were formulated by a special committee of the faculty appointed by Dr. Henry Louis Smith last spring. The committee was composed of Drs. H. D. Campbell, William M. Brown, Robert H. Tucker, Thomas J. Farrar, and Professors R. B. Ellard and Earl K. Paxton.

The Washington and Lee curriculum, the last general revision of which was in 1893—thirty-six years ago—was specially studied last spring by three educational authorities employed by the University. The report of these three men, Dr. M. V. O'Shea, University of Wisconsin, Dr. M. R. Trabue, University of North Carolina, and Dr. A. Monroe Stowe, Randolph-Macon college, were considered by the faculty committee in arriving at its recommendations.

Brought Up Before.

The changes for the degree were brought up earlier in the year and were tentatively passed, subject to several minor substitutions. The faculty has been working for some time to iron out these minor changes and it was not until Monday afternoon at the special meeting that an agreement was reached.

The new requirements provide that four groups replace the old three-group system. Under Group I are placed languages with twelve hours being required instead of twenty-four. Group II consists of education, English, journalism, philosophy, psychology and public speaking, with eight-hour hours being required. Group III, requiring eighteen hours, includes accounting, business administration, commerce, economics, history, political science, and sociology. The final group lists twelve hours as required and includes: biology, chemistry, engineering, geology, mathematics, physics, and astronomy.

Recommendations Follow.

The complete recommendations as presented to the faculty and adopted by that body follows:

The following recommendations of the special committee on requirements for baccalaureate degrees were presented to and approved by the faculty at its meeting Monday, May 6, 1929.

"1. That, so far as practicable, the semester be made the basis of courses and credits.

2. That in the requirements for the A. B. degree the word "major" be used in lieu of the present word "certificate."

3. That a one-semester survey course in mathematics be offered for the first semester of the freshman year, to be followed in the second semester by any one of the following: College algebra, plane trigonometry, solid geometry, commercial algebra.

4. That the freshman year consist of one year in English, one year in a foreign language, one one-semester course in each of two sciences, one year in mathematics, one year in con-

Work On Finals Decorations Is Almost Ended

Elaborate Effects In Store For Final Ball—Scene Is Garden.

Finals decorations for 1929, being constructed under the direction of Carl E. L. Gill, will be completed this week, George Lanier, president, announced today.

The scheme for initial dances will be much the same as formerly, the blue and white color idea being carried out. Fraternity freshmen have been assisting in construction with carpenters and property men erecting the heavier materials.

For Final ball, the scheme will be that of a wistaria garden. Decorations of pastel colors in purple, green and yellow with special crepe ordered from a New York concern will drape the Doremus gymnasium floor. Arches constructed so as to give an effect of a shady lane, will run around the floor, under the track. Blue curtains and other materials will form the background.

"I think the decorations this year will be among the best ever constructed for a Finals set of dances," Prof. Gill said today, in commenting upon the work.

Billy Mumford is assisting in arrangements.

Collegians Play At Rotary Parley

The Southern Collegians, Washington and Lee's dance band, furnished all the dance music and a good part of the general entertainment for the Rotary club convention held in Lynchburg last Wednesday and Thursday.

The Collegians entertained the Rotarians for a short while last Wednesday evening in the lobby of the Virginia hotel and followed this immediately with a dance in the same place. Thursday afternoon found them playing at a private home, still for the benefit of the Rotary club, and that night at the Lynchburg Country club for a dance.

WHAT CAUSES POOR SHOWING OF W. AND L. TEAMS?

Two disgusted students walked side by side Saturday from the baseball game. Several couples proceeded many more followed. All carried a frown of disgust.

"What in the world is the matter with our baseball team? It seems we are losing about every game this year."

"That's true and what is the matter with all athletics here? For the past two or three years we have had only one team which I am proud of claiming as belonging to Washington and Lee, and that was the basketball team this year."

"Yeah, it does look like we have had some mighty poor teams recently. They aren't like the teams we hear old grads talk about. Wonder what's the matter?"

"I dunno. Some claim it is because of poor coaches, others say it is because of inadequate material, and still others say it is a combination of the two, and they may be right but my belief is that it is on account of not training."

And so it is the belief of the RING-TUM PHI, too, that Washington and Lee's utter failure in baseball for the past three years can be attributed to the players not abiding by training rules. This also applies to all athletics here.

We have learned from good authority that some members of the baseball team have remained up all hours of the night before games, and some have even been drunk before a game.

It is generally known that baseball players and even a great number of trackmen smoke regularly and consistently. This is not done at other schools. It is not permitted. And these other schools have repeatedly defeated Washington and Lee with ease in football and baseball for the past two years.

Students here have shown great spirit this year in supporting the athletic teams. Win or lose they have backed the players. But can one expect a student body to continue to support an athletic team that is not keeping training and is losing every game with great consistency?

Baseball and football coaches, with track boxing and wrestling mentors, place their men under training rules. They are expected to train and are left pretty much free to abide by the rules, but in the past and, in the present, players are not heeding the rules of training, though their violations of these rules are unknown to the mentors.

Far be it from us to try to dictate the policies of coaches in selecting players for the various teams. Such is by no means our intention, but it seems to us that the coaches might place their training rules on a sounder basis and, if necessary, have each participant in a sport sign a pledge to train.

Washington and Lee has some great athletes, but no team can be a success with a few good athletes training and the rest violating every rule. So after all it isn't the lack of ample coaches, the lack of material, or the combination of the two that causes us to make such poor showings in many cases, but a general tendency to violate training rules.

HOW DRY IS HOOVER?

If a law is wrong, its rigid enforcement is the surest guarantee of its repeal. This is Herbert Hoover's latest pronouncement on the "noble experiment." The statement, made during the course of an address on law enforcement, brings to light a new angle of the prohibition problem. If President Hoover was referring to prohibition, which he obviously was, several deductions can be made from his statement.

One inference that can be legitimately drawn, is that it is doubtful whether prohibition is right. The noble experiment may be wrong after all. The next and more interesting inference that can be drawn is that if prohibition is wrong it is not being rigidly enforced, else a repeal would have been effected sometime during the last ten years. The question is not settled after all, the pronouncements of Bishop Cannon, other holy men, and zealots to the contrary notwithstanding. These last named patriots triumphantly proclaimed a complete and final victory for prohibition sentiment last fall when the defeat of Al Smith was accomplished in the Electoral College. Could Bishop Cannon have been wrong? It is possible that the "wets" may yet get the upper hand, even after Al Smith, the Pope, Tammany, and the "liquor interests" were thoroughly defeated in the presidential election of last November? Maybe Mr. Hoover, the hero of the "drys," doesn't agree with Bishop Cannon and his henchmen. It certainly must be annoying to those saviors of the people to learn that Mr. Hoover does not regard his election as a momentous victory for prohibition sentiment.

Mr. Hoover's belief that rigid enforcement of a wrong law is the best means of repeal, although it is a tacit admission that his predecessors in office have not enforced the law, is undoubtedly correct, and historical precedent can be found for such belief. Oppressive and unjust laws caused the Declaration of Independence and the Revolutionary War. If prohibition laws are rigidly enforced and applied to the Country Club crowd, the so-called leading citizens and the "dry" legislators, no doubt a great hue and cry would come forth from all over America. If these citizens had a taste of the Jones Law, which, by the way, Mrs. Willebrant suggests be applied "discreetly," a strong and effective movement toward repeal would be started over night.

Another inference to be drawn from the above quoted statement is that if prohibition is wrong it should be repealed. This would probably be startling to many zealous advocates of compulsory abstinence. Is Mr. Hoover even in position to suggest repeal for any reason? Is it fair to the holy men who saved the South from Al Smith and his "liquor program"?

THIS BLUFFING STUFF

"Define 'psychoterminality.'"
And in a class of twenty-nine students at the University of Pennsylvania twenty-one gave an answer to Prof. S. W. Fernsberger's request. Not a single answer was correct. There is no such word in existence, but these students, evidently, did not want their professor to know they were so "ignorant" as not to be thoroughly familiar with its meaning and derivation.

Some statically rabid individuals have used this example and others to prove "our educational system trains young men and women to be dishonest—to maintain a false assumption of knowledge and conceal ignorance."

Isn't it funny that all these statistically inclined individuals chose college students to center their volley of fire upon? They never take traveling salesmen, auto salesmen, clerks in stores or employment bureaus as examples of bluffing. It is always the student.

Students in colleges, in high schools, and in grade schools bluff. Many bluff their way through their first semester in college, but after that it generally takes knowledge to get through. Many salesmen start bluffing at infancy and die bluffing.

The whole world is a bluff, but if you will meet everyone face to face with a stiff upper lip and with determination and satisfaction that you are equal, if not better than the next man, you will succeed in spite of the bluffing statisticians who claim students bluff in excess.

Reports of the "White House Spokesman's demise" were exaggerated. He has turned up in Northampton as the "spokesman of 21 Massasoit Street."—New York Post.

What Other Editors Say

NO MORE EDITORIALS

One of the contemporary collegiate daily publications, situated in the far west, has announced the adoption of a new policy by its managing board. According to the new policy the paper will contain no more editorials, and the space which was formerly allotted to them will in the future be devoted to communications addressed to the daily by any undergraduate who cares to write upon any subject.

While this idea, first sponsored by the Boston Transcript, admittedly has several good features, it also has some which may prove unsatisfactory. The western daily admits that the plan can only be worked out in an advanced community where intellectual life is above the average, but even in such communities there are people with radical ideas and with pens always ready to condemn with bitter invectives some fancied or minute grievance. If allowed to write with unbridled enthusiasm, this class of people would fill the columns of the paper with communications and editorials which, contrary to giving a true picture of the undergraduate life on the daily's campus, would give a false or at least distorted view of college life and college men.

It is undoubtedly true that student opinion is a vital part of a college daily, but communications, often written in haste and without a careful search into the facts governing the situation, should be accompanied by the efforts of a regular staff of editorial writers who have at least made some investigation into the facts and causes of the matters about which they write. A college publication should voice student opinion, but the hot-headed and unreasoning editorial of a man who is particularly incensed at some supposed wrong is certainly no evidence of student opinion.

ELEVATION OF COLLEGE PLAYS

With recent years collegiate skits, movies, plays and musical comedies have enjoyed a popularity unrivalled in history. "There is no sale for a college play" was an unwritten rule on Broadway for many years. "Brown of Harvard" was popular about 30 years ago, but that like "The College Widow" and a few others, was a rare exception.

Several influences have contributed to the recent vogue for collegiate entertainment. The wide-spread interest in colleges since the World War may have been responsible for the change. Student theatricals have improved greatly since the introduction of professional coaches as faculty members and more students have pursued stage careers. Within recent years several university jazz bands stepped into high-salaried positions and made successful tours in the United States and abroad. Their popularity may have created interest in college entertainment in general.

At present we have "Good News," "The Poor Nut," "Hold 'Em Yale," "Six Minutes to Play," a modern version of "The College Widow" and "Brown of Harvard," "The Freshman" and a score of other plays still running on the stage and screen, as well as vaudeville acts in motion picture houses. The "finds," young men selected from American universities for the movies, were featured in several different college story films last season.—Indiana Daily Student.

U. S. A.

Gentlemen:
While in Banff, Alberta, in 1909, I climbed Tunnell Mountain. On top of this mountain there is a cairn of stones where tourists leave their cards with remarks about the scenery, etc. Not having a card with me, I left a tin of Edgeworth's Mild, and my name and address on a piece of paper, and said, "Have a fill on me."
I have kept up a haphazard correspondence with one of three who wrote me thanking me for the Pipeful of Edgeworth. What makes me write you is that today from Australia I received two slices of Edgeworth with the words, "Have a fill on me," so you see Edgeworth keeps friends friendly.

Yours sincerely,

WELCOMED VISITORS

It was indeed a pleasure to have the members of the Senior Class of Washington and Lee at the Easter Dances this past week-end, and these gentlemen had a large part in making the dances successful. The members of the First Class at this school enjoyed very much the Washington and Lee dances several months ago, and it is sincerely hoped that the gentlemen from Washington and Lee enjoyed these dances of ours.

The Cadet is entirely in sympathy with the exchange of bids for these two dances among the upper classes at these two schools. It is hoped that the practice will be continued in the future.—The V. M. I. Cadet.

Track Season Ends On Saturday When Generals Meet Blue Devils Here

Backus And Janney See Careers End

Close Contests Expected When Sprinters and Middle Distance Men Hook Up.

Taps will be sounded on the current track season this Saturday when the Duke Blue Devils meet the Blue and White on Wilson field in the latter's final meet. The competition will bring to a close the running careers of Captain Ed Backus and Janney, the two veterans being slated to receive their sheepskins in June.

With five of the outstanding distance runners in the conference, the Generals will be hard pressed to gain points in races above the quarter mile. Backus, whose performance of last Saturday in winning both the mile and 880 in the state meet proves that he is a match for his hardest race of the year. Woodward of the Carolina team won the mile in the North Carolina state meet last week in 4 minutes 32 seconds and then placed second in the 880 which was won in 1 minute 58 3-5 seconds. Doxey and Simon, both members of the Duke successful cross-country squad, are entered in the 2 mile run, while Ashworth, runner-up to Woodward in the mile in the state meet, will again start in his specialty.

In the field, the visitors hope to gain laurels in the shot with Brummit heaving the ball over 43 feet; in the pole vault where Turner hovers over 11 feet, and in the high jump with Roberts and Freeman clearing 5 feet 8 inches.

Unless they represent Washington and Lee in the conference meet May 18, Janney will be throwing the javeline for the final time in his collegiate career, and Backus will be ending his sensational year with the 880.

Century Record Still Good After Hectic Week-End

The world's record of 9 3-5 seconds for the 100-yard dash which was set in 1905 withstood the assault of another week-end. Simpson, the Ohio State flash, was clocked at 9.5 seconds and Sweet of the Olympic club stepped the distance in 9 2-5 seconds, but both records were disallowed.

It was found on investigation by A. A. U. officials that there was a strong wind at Sweet's back when the race was run. The former University of Montana flyer has been running close to the record throughout the season and experts on the Pacific coast believe that he has an excellent chance of shattering the mark before the season is over.

Simpson's time of 9.5 seconds may yet receive the sanction of United States officials and go on the books as a national record, but international authorities do not recognize records made on a 1-10 second stop watch, so as far as world records are concerned, Kelley's 1905 time still stands.

TAR HEELS CLINCH TRI-STATE PENNANT

The University of North Carolina, although idle last week, clinched the Tri-State title. N. C. State and V. M. I., the only teams which had a chance to catch the leader, saw their hopes fade as each lost two contests during the week.

N. C. State, Virginia, and V. P. I. are waging a hard fight for second honors, the outcome of games to be played this week determining the winner.

The standing today is as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
North Carolina	8	0	1.000
N. C. State	6	4	.600
V. P. I.	4	4	.500
Virginia	4	4	.500
Maryland	4	5	.444
V. M. I.	2	4	.333
W. and L.	0	7	.000

Generals Drop Loose Game To Maryland Nine

Five Runs In First Put Old Liners In Lead For Entire Game.

Maryland invaded Wilson field yesterday with a crew of heavy sluggers to score enough runs in the first inning to lead the Generals for the remainder of the contest and a 10-5 victory, the tenth defeat out of the last twelve starts for the Blue and White diamond representatives. Captain White and Boulblitz were the mound choices for the rival coaches, but both were driven to cover before the first inning was over. Williams for the Generals and Milburn for the "Old Liners" opposed each other over the remainder of the eight innings.

McGann, first man up for Maryland, singled to left and reached second on Lowdon's error. Tansill scored the Maryland backstop with another hit in Lowdon's direction, a double. Radice walked. Higgins hit to Williams, who threw wild to second trying to catch Radice, and Tansill scored. Kessler reached first when Williams dropped White's short throw after fielding his grounder, filling the bases. Hetzel came through with a single to right, scoring Radice, Higgins and Kessler. White was taken out at this stage and Williams went to the box, White playing first. Gaylor was the first man to face Williams. White got Gaylor unassisted. Derr walked on four pitched balls. Boulblitz lined into a fast double play, Smith to White.

Washington and Lee nearly balanced the five runs with four in their half of the first inning. Jacob got the first of his three walks. Hanna and Slanker singled to center, scoring Jacob with Hanna reaching third. The bases were filled when Boulblitz kicked Williams' roller around. Lowdon singled to left, scoring Hanna and Slanker. Derr threw out White with Williams scoring on the out. Lowdon tried to score on Taliaferro's tap in front of the plate and was out: "Yachty" over-ran first and was caught between the bags to end the scoring.

There was no more scoring for either side until the fourth stanza when both sides dented the plate for a score. Milburn walked to start the Maryland marker around the sacks. McGann was safe when Williams was slow in fielding his roller along the foul line between first and home. Tansill popped to Williams. Radice walked, filling the bases. Higgins flied high to Hanna and Milburn scored after the catch. Williams threw out Kessler.

Taliaferro hit to Gaylor to start the fourth and reached second when Gaylor threw the ball over Hetzel's head. Wright batted for Smith and Milburn threw him out. Thibodeau popped to Radice at second. Jacob walked. Hanna stretched out and hit a pop fly just out of reach of Derr at shortstop, scoring Taliaferro. Slanker ended the inning by flying to Tansill.

Williams and Milburn settled down for a hurling duel until the eighth frame when three "Old Liners" crossed the plate. Jacob fumbled Milburn's grounder and then threw wild to first in trying to head the Maryland pitcher off. McGann got a free ticket to first. Williams tried to nail Milburn at third on Tansill's bounder, but his throw was late. Jacob threw out Radice as Milburn scored. White threw out Higgins. Kessler singled to left, scoring McGann and Tansill, but was out trying to take second on the throw-in, Williams to White.

Another run crossed the plate in the Maryland half of the ninth. Hetzel walked and stole both second and third. Gaylor struck out. Derr flied out. Milburn walked. McGann singled, scoring Hetzel. Tansill ended Maryland's scoring by forcing McGann at second.

Generals Take Second Place At State Meet

Trail Virginia By Five Points And Lead V. M. I. By One At End Of Events.

FROSH GIVEN THIRD PLACE

Weakness In Field Prevents High Scoring—Backus Stars In Mile.

Outscored in the field, Washington and Lee varsity tracksters dropped the state meet to the University of Virginia last Saturday at Charlottesville by a five-point margin. Virginia scored 50; Washington and Lee, 45; Virginia Military Institute, 44; Virginia Poly, 26. The Little Generals, with 23 points, finished third in the freshman division. Captain Backus furnished the thrill of the day when he came from behind to outspurt Captain Penn, V. P. I., in the final 200 yards of the mile. Backus ended the day by winning the 880 in 1 minute 57 3-5 seconds. Grant, winning both dashes, scored the Generals' only other firsts.

The Blue and White garnered only four tallies in the field with Janney scoring second in the javelin and Fangbner placing third in the same event. Sandifer gained a second in the broad jump while Herms tied for third in the high jump.

With Holtzclaw and Upson of V. M. I., placing one-two in the 440 the Generals were forced into a third and fourth in that event in the biggest upset of the meet.

The mile relay, the final race of the day, was won by the Washington and Lee quartet composed of Sheppard, Simmons, Dickey and Williams. V. M. I. was second with the Cavaliers ending in third place.

Finklestein was high point scorer for the frosh with first in the century and 220 low hurdles. Hargrove tied for honor in the pole vault despite his withdrawal from the event after dislocating his arm when he cleared eleven feet.

Princeton Pitcher Claims Record

Lasts Sixteen Innings and Does Not Issue Single Free Pass

Princeton, N. J., May 4.—Herman Heydt of New York city, who pitched Princeton to a 4 to 3 victory over Cornell last Saturday in a game lasting sixteen innings without issuing a pass, established an intercollegiate record, according to Coach Byrd Douglas of the Tigers.

In reviewing the contest, Douglas declared that the performance of Heydt in the box has not been exceeded as far as he knows. The Nassau twirler did not allow any of the fifty-nine batters who faced him a free trip to first base either by a walk or by being hit by a pitched ball.

The major league record for most innings pitched without issuing a base on balls is held by Babe Adams, former star pitcher of the Pirates. In a game against the Giants on July 17, 1914, Adams went twenty-one innings without walking a man. Cy Young, pitching for the Red Sox against the Athletics on July 4, 1905, went twenty innings without giving a base on balls.

Heydt formerly pitched for the Horace Mann nine. He is now in his third year on the Princeton varsity.

temporary civilization, and one year in hygiene.

No freshmen except students registered in the School of Applied Science and premedical students will be exempt from any course prescribed for the freshman year.

5. That the present three-group system be replaced by a four-group system in which the subjects shall be arranged as follows:

Group I—French, German, Greek (except course 107), Italian, Latin (except course 108), Spanish.

Group II—Education, English, Greek 107, Journalism, Latin 108, Philosophy, Psychology, Public Speaking.

Group III—Accounting and Statistics, Business Administration, Commerce, Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology.

Group IV—Biology, Chemistry, Engineering, Geology, Mathematics, Physics and Astronomy.

6. That the requirements for the A. B. degree shall be as follows:

From Group I—For a candidate with two entrance units in foreign languages eighteen semester hours, including six in advanced courses.

For a candidate with four or more entrance units in foreign languages twelve semester hours, including six in advanced courses.

From Group II—Eighteen semester hours in at least two subjects, including six in English and six in advanced courses.

From Group IV—Twenty semester hours in at least two subjects, including six in mathematics and eight in one science (Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Physics) beyond the freshman course in that science.

In fulfilling these requirements no credit is allowed for repeating work which has been counted for entrance.

"Advanced courses" are those for which at least six semester hours of college courses are prerequisite.

The course in contemporary civilization shall have a value of three semester hours in history and three semester hours in economics, political science, or sociology.

A major must be completed in one department.

Four semester hours must be completed in hygiene and physical education.

Electives must be completed sufficient to make a total of 126 semester hours.

Courses prescribed for freshmen in the sciences and in contemporary civilization may not be taken for credit after the sophomore year.

The provisions of this report shall become effective at the beginning of the session 1929-30.

Respectfully submitted,
COMMITTEE:

W. M. Brown, H. D. Campbell, R. B. Ellard, T. J. Farrar, R. H. Tucker, E. K. Paxton.

Finals Bid Goes To Wrong Girl

Following the generally conceded biggest "shine" pulled by a W. and L. student this month, the student who pulled it is sitting up nights worrying.

He is sitting up nights trying to think how to get rid of a girl he invited to Finals.

It all happened this way: Last week he wrote two letters to as many girls at the same time. One he urged to come to Finals on his bid. The other was just a plain letter written to non-tootery friend of the family.

Then the same old story. He put the wrong letters in the wrong envelopes. The wrong girl got the Finals invitation and adding to the dismay of the student, she has accepted!

The unfortunate student has called in the best advisors in domestic problems of the University without avail. Neither they nor he can think of an excuse that will go. The girl must come, they say, unless the student is rude. He can't be rude to a friend of the family.

Why one-way Street?

"Well, I'm only goin' one way!" replied the legendary motorist to the amazed John Law.

A laudable principle—if applied in the right direction... exactly as our long experience in cigarette making assures us that the only avenue to enduring popularity is a one-way street.

All the arrows along Chesterfield's route, from plantation to pocket, point directly to taste. No left turns into insipidity—no detours around the plain duty of good tobaccos—to SATISFY.

An overdose of analogy, perhaps, but you get our drift: Chesterfields are mild—but mildness is not overdone; they're never flat. Naturally smooth, aromatic tobaccos are so blended that every last atom of their flavor is delivered to the smoker.

Here is that very rare bird, a cigarette that does satisfy.

CHESTERFIELD

MILD enough for anybody..and yet..THEY SATISFY
