MICHIGAN WILL ENGAGE IN TWO HECTIC CLASHES WITH THE BOLD GENERAL NINE

West Virginia Wins Both Games From Washington & Lee—Generals Play Weakly

Invading the south, the mighty University of Michigan team will arrive in Lexington tomorrow to engage in a two game series with Washington and Lee. Led by Captain McQueen, the Wolverines, twenty strong, will arrive tomorrow morning and engage in a preliminary practice in the forenoon. Michigan has one of the strongest college aggregations in the west and should present a bold front. Sisler, regarded as one of the most adept of college twirlers, will be seen in action either on the slab, or in left field. He is a star hitter as well as a winning pitcher.

The batteries that will face the Generals have not been definitely determined by the coaches, who will select the twirlers from Ferguson, Davidson, McNamara, Nichols, Caswell, Soddy and Sisler. Benton and Harshman will probably alternate behind the bat.

The probable line-up is:

Sheehy, cf.
Labadie, rf.
Nieman, rf.
McQueen, 2b.
Sisler, p-1f.
Brandel, ss.
Benton, c.
Harshman, c.
Maltby, 1b.
Waltz, 3b.
Ferguson, p.

The Generals will husband their full strength to battle with Michigan.

MONROE TO SPEAK ON EXPLOSIVES

Famous Chemist Will Make a Unique Address

The mighty implements of the warring nations will be revealed to Washington and Lee by a lecturer of international fame. The Chemical Society announces that Dr. Charles Edward Munroe, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies in George Washington University, will deliver a lecture, illustrated by stereopticon slides, in the chapel Friday night on "Explosives of the Present."

Dr. Munroe is regarded as one of the leading authorities of the chemical and military worlds on explosives. He was for some time professor of Chemistry in the United States Naval Academy, Chemist to the Torpedo Corps and has held other high positions.

His address should prove unique, as he will introduce, by the aid of a few startling experiments, some of his most interesting facts and illustrate others with slides. He is a forceful speaker and one who can present the facts in an intelligible manner.

COTILLION CLUB GERMAN OPENS EASTER FESTIVITIES

The Easter festivities were ushered in by the inaugural event—the Cotillion Club German last night. Though scantily attended, the German waxed keen with enjoyment and enthusiasm until the last strains of the Saxophone were heard in the wee hours of morn. The gymnasium, decorated in interweaving streamers of white and blue, was the scene of opening event. The seventeen girls attending the dance were figures of intense popularity, as nearly fifty students and fifteen cadets enjoyed the german.

Thomas Kirkpatrick, assisted by Miss Eutha Young, led the Cotillion club figure, a simple but unique maneuver which culminated in a cross section, forming the Washington and Lee monogram. Shortly after twelve o'clock, refreshments were served to the participants, but the dancing continued until the wee hours of morning arrived. Wright's Saxophone Orchestra of Columbus, Ohio, furnished the music.

The Thirteen Club dance tonight will mark the close of the festivities. Lynch Christian, the secretary, will lead the Thirteen Club figure, with Miss Percy Handy of Lynchburg, assisting him. Indications point to the fact that there will be an even smaller attendance.

Those dancing were:

R. S. Walker with Miss Lillian Cochran, of Baltimore, Md.
E. R. Pleasants with Miss Helen Pearce, of Philadelphia, Pa.
R. H. Gardner with Miss Nell Carrington, Lexington, Va.
W. C. Phillips with Miss Grace Gilliam, of Richmond, Va.
L. S. Anderson with Miss Ernestine Cutts, Savannah, Ga.
J. M. Schmoele with Miss Alice Armstrong, Portsmouth, Va.

TO GIVE RECEPTION FOR DR. DENNY HERE

President Smith Will Return From Inauguration With Dr. Denny

Washington and Lee will be represented at the formal inauguration of Dr. E. K. Graham as president of the University of North Carolina on April 21 by President Henry Louis Smith. There, also, will be Dr. George Hutcheson Denny, former president of the University. The two executives will be quartered at the home of Dr. J. B. Bullitt and will return together to Lexington, where Dr. Denny will make a farewell address to the outgoing Senior class, the last class to matriculate under his regime.

Dr. Smith will leave Saturday for North Carolina, stopping off in Greensboro to visit his mother, Mrs. J. Henry Smith. He will return probably on Friday morning on the early

TED SHULTZ WINS INDIVIDUAL TROPHY IN LOCAL FIELD MEET

Starnes a Close Second—Young Makes 10 Flat in the Hundred

Under adverse weather conditions, which however could not prevent the bettering of most of the results of the interclass meet, the annual Field Day took place Saturday on Wilson Field. Handicapped by a killing wind during the earlier part of the afternoon and by a steady drizzle of rain during the latter part, no records were set, though the spirit of keen competition manifested showed that each athlete was keyed to his highest pitch. Though it was a handicap meet the winners of most of the events entered from scratch.

The feature of the meet was the close struggle for first honors which developed between Ted Shultz and Roger Starnes. Early in the meet it became apparent that the point trophy would go to one or the other of these two, but not until the next to the last event was the matter decided. Throughout the entire afternoon they ran neck and neck, never separated by more than three or four points. At the close of the Shot Put Shultz led by 1 point, the score standing 16-15 with the 220 Yard Low Hurdles yet to be run. In this Shultz took first place and with it the meet. Starnes finished second, making the final score 20-18.

Events which added special interest to the meet were the Invitation Hundred Yard Dash and the Interfraternity Relay. The former was a scratch event between Cy Young, Bob Curtis,

The final addition to the Washington and Lee faculty for 1915 was made at the last meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees when Dr. William D. B. from the University of Georgia in 1901; was Assistant in Biology in that institution for three years; and, continuing his studies in Biology Chemistry and French, received from it the degree of M. S. in 1904. He then entered the Johns Hopkins University as a graduate student and received from it the degree of Ph. D. in 1909 with Botany, Zoology and Geology as his subjects. During this time he held University Scholarships

PORTRAIT OF DOREMUS TO BE IN UNIVERSITY CHAPEL

Washington And Lee Art Treasures in New York City

The two most valuable portraits in Washington and Lee's art collection are in New York City. The two portraits, Peale's "Washington" and "Fafayette" have been sent to New York City to be worked over by the celebrated Hammond Smith of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. While no absolute value can be obtained on the portraits on account of their unique value, it is estimated that the two are worth over $100,000.

Mrs. Robert Parker Doremus, wife of the late benefactor of Washington and Lee, was urged to visit the University that the portrait of her husband, recently received, might be formally unveiled during commencement

Penny Bailey and Bob Schulz. Young won the race in 10 seconds flat, being followed closely by Curtis and Bailey. In the Interfraternity Relay, teams were entered by the Alpha Tau Omegas and the Phi Kappa Sigmas. The teams consisted of four men, each running one lap. Young, Bailey, Wadsworth and Gladney, running in the order named, won an easy victory for the A. T. O's. over Milner, Rivercombe, Gallagher and Hastings. Both of these events were from scratch and neither was considered in the individual scoring.

Shultz' ability to hurl the weights proved an insurmountable obstacle to all competitors. By winning both the Discus Throw and the Shot Put he obtained ten points, half of his total score. His other points were made in the Broad and High Jumps, in the 100 Yard Dash and the Low and High Hurdles. Starnes carried off first place in the Broad Jump and the High Hurdles. The remainder of his points were scored in the Pole Vault, the Discus Throw, the Shot Put and the Low Hurdles. Curtis and Showell ran third in the scoring with 8 points each, won in the 220 Yard Dash and the 100 Yard Dash. Crymble was fourth with six points obtained in the High Jump and Low Hurdles.

While weather conditions made fast time an impossibility, the results of the meet were encouraging and pointed to probable success in the approaching dual meet.

The summary:

Broad Jump—Starnes, first, 19 feet, 8½ in.; Seeley, second; Shultz, third. All jumping from scratch.

Mile Run—Adams, first, 5 minutes and 8 seconds; Sanders, second. Both from scratch.

DR. SMITH URGES MEN TO WATCH PURSE NOT STYLES

Dr. Henry Louis Smith addressed the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Tuesday night on "The College Man and His Money." The speaker warned his hearers against extravagance with the advice of "watch your pocket-book and not the styles." He further stated that the rigid honesty of the commercial world might well be carried out in all phases of college finances, congratulating the student body on the recent amendments to the constitution requiring the auditing of all class accounts. "No money belonging to another person should be mixed with funds belonging to the individual to whom the money is entrusted, as no system of book-keeping is sufficient to prevent mistakes."

The speaker concluded by asking that the men present cultivate these ideas of correct dealing with money among all the members of the student body.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET SUBSCRIPTIONS SLOW

Alumni Are Responding to Call For Funds Rather Slowly

Contributions from the Alumni to the support of the Annual Washington and Lee Interscholastic Track Meet have been coming much slower than anticipated by the committee in charge. Over 400 letters have been mailed to the Alumni who are supposedly interested in the welfare and athletic success of the University and only about 20 replies have been received to date. Some of the contributions have been very substantial but the total is a small fraction of the $500 required to run the meet. There is no doubt but that the Interscholastic meet is one of the best advertising features of the University and draws many choice athletes and students from all over the South. It has hitherto been supported by various local alumni associations, but this method has proved uncertain and on this an appeal has been made to the alumni in general. Two local organizations, Lynchburg and Roanoke, are working among themselves and hope to add a substantial amount to the fund. Carter Glass, Jr., has charge of the subscription in Lynchburg, while John Izard is the moving agent in Roanoke.

The following are the contributors to date.

- M. P. Andrews, Baltimore, Md. ; C. R. Breckenridge, H. Smith, Ark. ; Dan E. Brown, San Marcos, Tex. ; J. R. Caskie, Lynchburg, Va. ; H. N. Collins, Marion, Va. ; W. B. Aiding in the Choice

THE choice of a career is one dilemma that presents itself to every student before he grapples with the world. There is a decided penchant on the part of the colleges to aid their undergraduates in making a choice that they will not regret. In the South, Sewanee has adopted the plan of scheduling a number of lectures dealing with the different professions, showing the opportunities and setbacks to be experienced.

Yale has followed step. A series of lectures on "Careers Open to College Men" has been inaugurated. The Yale programme, containing the names of prominent men in the various professions, includes talks on: Journalism; Advertising; Teaching; Preaching; Business; Law and Medicine. Thus men who have achieved renown in following the aforementioned professions have addressed the undergraduates and given them a comprehensive idea of what hopes they may aspire to in the respective works.

Such a schedule is bound to be a benefit to a vast number of students, who are wavering between one calling or another. We feel that the adoption of such a scheme at Washington and Lee would be decidedly beneficial and one that would be appreciated by the dubious ones. The value of hearing a man rich in experience and reflections gained from battles in the business worlds is inestimable. It would not be extremely difficult to secure able speakers to address Washington and Lee gatherings on the hopes and problems following the decision to engage in the many professions.

By presenting the facts, gained from first hand knowledge the speakers could exert a powerful influence over many students, as few of them have definitely determined their future vocation.

Harrah for the Grinds

CENSURE has often rewarded the efforts of the "crammers" and the "grinds" but now it is approval. In President Henry Louis Smith the "crammers" have a champion, while the "grinds" have been ably defended by Dr. D. B. Easter. In some quiet little tete-a-tetes with the aforementioned authorities, we have found that there was much to commend in both classes of these college pests, despite the unfavorable points that arise from the issue.

"A good 'crammer' should have no difficulty in succeeding in life," Dr. Smith stated. "The leading men of today are those who have mastered the art of assimilating and getting at finger tips a vast amount of fact and statistics for a short while. Perhaps it is forgotten in a short time afterwards, but nevertheless the art is invaluable. As a speaker, a lawyer, a teacher or a politician, the expert 'crammer' will achieve success. Indeed, education is for the purpose of systematizing the brain that it may accomplish these feats."

Dr. Easter brings forth facts that we seldom seize for consideration. "Although the grind commonly aluded to is a student who devotes virtually all his time to his studies and neglects other activities, if we glance about us we will find that Washington and Lee has many grinds. There are the athletic grinds, those who devote the better part of their college career to athletics; then there are the 'pool and billiard grinds,' those who yield every spare moment to jostling the ivories about the green covered tables. In every phase of collegiate activities, you will find grinds. Why should the book grind be placed under the ban and the others stamped with approval?"

Verily, there are many topics that are discussed in class rooms that are supposed to be saturated which information on a lone subject.

DR. STEVENS HAS LECTURE

Dr. Stevens delivered a private lecture to some of his friends of the city and a few students of the Physics department last Saturday night in his lecture room in Reid Hall on Optics.

Professor Stevens outlined the various errors of refraction and illustrated these by slides. He showed several views that have never before been shown on the screen in Virginia among this was on showing the axis and poles of the eye taken from the retina of a fish.

In showing these slides Dr. Stevens used an apparatus sent to him by his friend, Professor Gage of Cornell University.

MICHIGAN WILL ENGAGE IN TWO HECTIC CLASHES

Buck Sweetland, the speedy receiver who was retired from the fray as the result of a cracked hand in the Cornell game, will catch. Lefty Jennings will probably twirl the opener, while Mercer Graham will labor for a clean sweep Thursday.

FIRST WEST VIRGINIA GAME

After maintaining a fast pace for eight sessions, Mercer Graham, making his collegiate debut on the mound, faltered in the ninth inning and endowed West Virginia with a 7 to 3 victory in the opening game Thursday. During the first eight sessions, the youngster held the Mountaineers to two singles, one of them being an infield hit. By the aid of a series of bobbles in the third and fifth, West Virginia scored three runs, as many as Washington and Lee registered off Southpaw Barrow. But in the ninth, after two were down and Morrow was on first base, three successive wallops gave West Virginia four runs and the decision.

Faulty movements on the bases and inability to hit timely prevented Washington and Lee from clinching a victory in the earlier sessions. In the second, the Generals gained the fore by scoring two runs. The Mountaineers scored a single tally in the third without the aid of a hit, and forged into the lead in the fifth a hit and three errors netted two runs. Gallagher evened up accounts in the fifth with a home run drive.

Although the Generals erred but three times, these came within one inning—the fifth. West Virginia's three errors occurred without cost, for in the two innings the Generals scored Barron received perfect support. Timely hitting by Payne and Gallagher enabled Washington and Lee to get the three runs. A running catch by Young of Ayres' line drive in the fourth was the fielding feature.

In the second, Bailey drew a base on balls. Smith struck out, but Brown singled against left field fence. Bailey and Brown effected a double steal of third and second base. Payne poked a grounder past first base for a single and both runners scored.

West Virginia countered in the third with one run. Hersey and Leatherwood walked. Fulton lifted a high fly to center, which looked like an easy out. Young muffed the ball, but recovered in time to peg Hersey out at third. At this juncture, Graham made a wild pitch and Leatherwood scored from second base.

Errors Aid Mountaineers

A series of errors enabled West Virginia to swoop ahead of the Generals in the fifth. With one out, Leatherwood singled to center. In attempting to nip the Mountaineer off first, Graham threw erratically and Leatherwood continued to second. Gallagher fumbled Fulton's grounder and pegged low to first. Bailey retrieved the straying pellet and attempted to head Fulton off at third, but his return was ill timed and carried into left field. During this melange of errors, both runners scored.

With a mighty line drive that carried over the left field fence, Johnny Gallagher tied the score in the latter part of the fifth. Though Washington and Lee gained access to the paths in each of the three succeeding innings the necessary punch was not forthcoming and the Generals were held scoreless. Graham mowed the Mountaineers down in order in the sixth, seventh and eighth, but met with defeat in the ninth.

SECOND WEST VIRGINIA GAME

Though not possessed with dazzling speed or curves, Fulton held Washington and Lee in check at threatening stages, while West Virginia, by virtue of two errors, scored two runs and blanked the Generals, but the misplays of the Generals allowed Dille and Fidler to tally in the second and seventh innings. Fulton yielded six hits, but was unfathomable in the pinches and was favored with luck, for often line drives were directed right into the eager clutches of his support.

The Generals could not grasp frequent opportunities to tally. Failure to sacrifice at timely moments proved costly, and the timely hit failed to come. In the first inning, Young and Colville were on the bases without an out, but the three following batsmen did not advance a runner past second. In the next session, two hits were annexed without a General arriving at the third sack. In the fourth, with Bailey on third and Rives on second, Harrison, Brown and Payne were retired on strikes. After this inning, Fulton grew stronger and held Washington and Lee in the palm of his hand.

Battery and infield errors defeated Jennings. In the second inning, Dille larrapped the first offering to center field for a single. Ayres sacrificed him to second with a bunt to Jennings. Fidler hit a grounder to Gallagher, who fumbled the ball and then pegged over Rives at first base. The wild throw enabled Dille to score without a challenging throw.

The last tally came in the seventh.

Fidler reached first when he spun a slow fizzling grounder off the handle of his bat down the third base line. Morrow sacrifice neatly, Jennings to Rives. Flinn advanced Fidler to third with a grounder to Jennings. When Payne allowed one of Jennings' twist-ers to escape his mitt, Fidler took advantage of the misplay and scored the second run.

Three fielding feats enlivened the contest. Bailey made a sensational recovery of Simon's line drive to light field in the sixth inning, when he sprinted with his back to the batsman and caught the drive. Brown robbed Fidler of a hit in the ninth inning when he fielded his grounder back of first base and threw him out at first. While Morrow made two errors, he also effected brilliant stops on two plays during the contest.

The struggle was marked by the fielding of many sharply hit balls. During the last four innings, West Virginia fielders captured five line drives which, had they been a foot to either side, would have gone for hits. In the sixth inning, with men on bases, Gallagher and Harrison were retired on sizzling liners to the out-field.

Catcher Sweetland, after an enforced absence resulting from a cracked right hand, caught the last two innings in fine style. Both Jennings and Fulton had splendid control and retired 10 batsmen on strikes.

ORTH LEAVES FOR NEW YORK FOR FINAL INSTRUCTIONS

In fine trim for the opening of the National League season as the result of umpiring several collegiate conflicts, Al Orth left Friday for New York, where he will report to John Lener, President of the National League, for final instructions. The genial arbiter umpired the first game with West Virginia, but left before the last encounter.

When the majors begin operations, Orth will be alert and on the job. He reduced his girth slightly by fungo hitting and jogging during his sojourn in Lexington, while he umpired a sufficient number of games to make his eye keen for the closest decisions. When he left, he did not know where he would be assigned for the first series.

His efficient umpiring divested the collegiate battles of the usual rounds of wrangling and protesting that is usually in evidence in the spring.

SUMMER LAW SCHOOL TO HAVE FIFTH TERM

Professors Moomaw and Moreland
Will Have Charge of Work

Announcement has been made within the past few days that the School of Law will hold its annual summer session this year as usual. The courses offered will be the following: Pleading, Real Property, Criminal Law, Torts, Contracts, and Negotiable Instruments. An opportunity will thus be given to any student to secure credit on any of the above tickets, on which he has failed. Also, the full summer course will be counted as one term of resident study for all those who desire to receive credit towards their degree.

The approaching session will be the fifth annual year of the summer law school. It will be under the direction of Professors Clovis Moomaw and W. H. Moreland. The term will last about six weeks, beginning June 21 and closing August 6. Every session, the summer law school is attracting a greater number of students and it seems as if there will be the usual quota this year. Professor Moreland will teach the Senior law tickets, while Professor Moomaw will instruct in the Junior subjects.

In 1914, Professor Moomaw, assisted by C. E. Williams, directed the work.

WORK ON DOREMUS GYM IS PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Steel Girders Are Being Erected—Now
at Work on Main Floor

Work on the Doremus Gymnasium is being pushed rapidly ahead. The clear weather has enabled the workmen to increase their efforts and visible progress has been made in the last two weeks. The exterior walls of red brick and the interior white brick walls have been completed above the first story. At the present time the steel girders which will furnish the support for the main gymnasium floor are being placed and the ceiling over the first floor of the left wing of the building is nearing completion.

As soon as the first floor is covered, so as to protect it from rain, work can be started on the concrete work in the basement and all of the lower portion of the building practically completed, if need be, before the upper portion is started should bad weather ensue. The contractor, however, does not anticipate any such need. When seen recently, Dr. H. L. Smith expressed himself as being highly pleased over the manner in which the work is progressing. He said that the contractor ought to be able to deliver the gym completed on contract time, or perhaps before December 1, 1915.

GREER IN PROMINENT LAW FIRM.

The Newport Times notes that E. M. Greer, '14, has formed a partnership with Judge H. N. Cate, an Ex-Judge of the Court of Civil Appeals, and a former partner of Ex-Governor B. W. Hooper of Tennessee. Judge Cate will, on May 1 become a member of one of the best law firms of Knoxville, while Mr. Greer will be in the Newport office.

"Greer" will be remembered as one of the hardest working soldiers of the '14 Army, and when not on duty at Tucker Hall, he was usually found arguing East Tennessee politics, consequently his friends have always been confident of his legal and political success.

ONE QUALITY—THE BEST

NEGATIVE GETS DECISIONS IN LITERARY SOCIETIES

Graham-Lee Decides Not to Meet G. W. U. Society—Programs Interesting

The negative won the decisions in both debates of the Washington and Graham-Lee literary societies Saturday night. In the Graham-Lee, the Elective system of Washington and Lee was endorsed, while the Washington decided against municipal ownership of natural monopolies.

The Graham-Lee

The place made vacant by the resignation of R. G. Hundley as final orator was filled by the election of T. McP. Glasgow. As Mr. Glasgow had been earlier elected to act as Chief Marshal for the Final Celebration, L. W. Harris was chosen his successor. The society decided not to accept the offer of the Columbian Debating Society of George Washington University in regard to a debate between the two organizations to be held at Washington, D. C., owing to financial difficulties and shortness of time. The program for the evening was opened by an oration by S. L. Robertson, who had for his subject, "Why America should have a better Literature than at Present." Mr. Robertson told of the great need of the South for literature and particularly emphasized the value of writers to any nation.

Samuel Wofsy and G. B. Lampton for the affirmative debated against T. McP. Glasgow and E. S. Smith on the negative on the question, Resolved, "That the Elective System at Washington and Lee should be Abolished." The judges, J. W. Blake, L. W. Harris, and Homer Powell decided that the present system was the most satisfactory that could be gotten and accordingly gave their decision to the negative.

The Washington

With characteristic force of delivery and knowledge of his subject, W. J. Cox opened the program for the evening by an oration on "The Real Source of the Nation's Greatness." He was followed by C. P. Heavener, who with his usual strength of argument and smooth speech, declaimed on the subject of "How to Drive a Pig." The sole extemporaneous talk was made by F. T. Cole on "Operations in the Dardanelles and their Efforts."

While the debate for the evening was not characterized by pep and life, many good arguments were advanced on both sides, clearly illustrating that the debaters had made careful preparation on the subject. K. L. Shirk and E. L. Junkin argued aptly for the affirmative against W. C. Bleight and W. W. Sager for the negative. The question under discussion was, Resolved, "That Municipal Ownership of Natural Monopolies, such as Lighting and Water plants, is Desirable."

Although many benefits result from the municipal ownership of such monopolies, the upholders of the affirmative failed to sustain their burden of proof, and consequently the judges, H. M. Shumate, G. E. McCluer and S. P. Hileman, gave an unanimous decision to the negative.

"Dr. Munroe is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on explosives," said Dr. L. L. Howe, in regard to the lecture, "and will deliver an address that will be thoroughly interesting. No chemist has a greater knowledge of explosives than has he, and, in view of the widespread usage of these engines of death in the European theater of war the topic is one that should interest any auditor."

THE TEAM THAT WILL DEBATE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE

Bell and Worth Hope to Gain Decision

In an endeavor to make a clean sweep on the intellectual grid-iron, the Washington and Lee Varsity debating team, composed of C. E. Worth and N. M. Bell will leave for Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday to meet the University of Tennessee squad to debate on the question: "Resolved, That All Railroads (Both Steam and Electric) Doing Interstate Business Should Be Owned and Operated By the Government." The debators will be accompanied by P. D. Converse, the coach.

N. M. Bell will deliver the opening argument, while C. E. Worth will close the debate. Washington and Lee will support the negative of the question. The debators have worked energetically to get formidable arguments to win a decision, and

TRACK MEET WITH V. P. I. ON APRIL 27

Coach Fletcher Expects to Win Dual Meet From Cadets

Although the dual meet with Georgetown, which was to be held at Lexington on April 10, had to be cancelled, arrangements have been completed for the dual meet between Washington and Lee and V. P. I. to be held at Lexington on April 27. The track squad has improved greatly since the indoor meets and shows promising form. By taking advantage of the good weather, they are being drilled every day. In the two field meets held recently, several of the members of the squad loomed up unexpectedly as winners.

Adams won the two mile run by a good margin over Johnson, while last Saturday, Fox left Johnson behind in the final sprint for the two mile. Hallman has gone farther and now holds the record in the pole vault at Washington and Lee. Many of the other members of the squad have shown that they can be depended upon, and V. P. I. may expect to find a close contestant in Washington and Lee for largest number of points in the meet.

Recently V. P. I. won a dual meet from Richmond College by a score of 76 to 36. While Coach Fletcher believes that the coming event will be a close meet, he is fully confident that his squad will make a larger scoring than the Techs. Under his admirable training the squad has developed wonderfully, and the admirers of the cinder path artists must expect them to do much for Washington and Lee.

The men who will be entered in the events for Washington and Lee are as follows:

100-yard dash—Curtis, Young and Myles.

220-yard dash—Curtis, Young and Myles.

440-yard dash—Gladney, Schulz and Rogers.

880-yard run—McNitt, Wadsworth, Hastings, and Englebert.

Mile run—Adams, Sanders and Hastings.

Two Mile run—Johnson and Fox.

120-yard High Hurdles—Starnes and Shultz.

220-yard Low Hurdles—Starnes and Shultz.

High Jump—Shultz and Crymble.

Broad Jump—Starnes and Seeley.
Pole Vault—Hallman and Hansel.
Shot Put and Discus Throw—Shultz, Myles and Miles.

There will be also a relay between the two institutions. Coach Fletcher will probably enter Young, Gladney, Starnes, Wadsworth and Rogers in this event to contest for Washington and Lee.

ENTRIES ARRIVING FOR INTERSCHOLASTIC

Entries for the third annual interscholastic track meet to be held on Wilson Field May 1, have begun to come in and everything points toward a big meet. The University of Virginia has changed the date of its interscholastic meet from May 1 to April 17, so there will be no conflict of dates as there would have been prior to the change by Virginia.

Several new features will be added to the regular track and field events in this year's meet, chief of which are the interscholastic pentathlon, and the javelin throw. The pentathlon will include the 100 yard dash, the running high jump, the javelin throw, the 12 pound shot put and the 880 yard run. This is decidedly a new feature for an interscholastic meet and a number of entries for it have been received.

Among the schools that have signified their intention of sending contestants to the big meet are: Bloomfield, N. J. High School, the New Jersey interscholastic champions; Detroit University School, Detroit, Mich.; Central High School, Detroit, Mich.; Roanoke High School, Lynchburg High School, Woodberry Forest Prep. School; Knoxville, Tenn., High School; Staunton Military Academy; Staunton High School; Fishburne Military School, Augusta Military Academy, Greenbrier Presbyterial School, Cluster Springs Academy School, Lexington High School, Bristol High School, and others.
