SOUTHERN COLLEGIANS TO PLAY IN EUROPE FOR PATHE COMPANY

Orchestra Signs Contract With Foreign Line From June To August; Band Of Ten Will Perform at European Spas

It is a certainty now that the name of Washington and Lee university will be well advertised in European travelling and social circles during the summer months of 1928.

This became a definite fact this week when the Southern Collegians signed contracts with the French Steamship Line for the months of June, July and August.

For over a year this famous line has been endeavoring to get connected with the local orchestra, and through this year's management plans were completed calling for such an arrangement.

T. B. Thames, Jr., president of the Troubadours this year, will be the manager of the Southern Collegians. Ethan Allen, director of the Troubadour orchestra, will be the director of the travelling band. T. G. Gibson, business manager of the Troubadours this year and last year's director of the Southern Collegians, will be chief entertainer.

Ten men will compose the band. The orchestra is fast rounding into shape now, and practice throughout the year will bring to perfection a dance orchestra of a high degree of perfection, skill, melody and musical attainment. The personnel of the orchestra now plays 30 different instruments and boasts of three high class individual entertainers.

Classical concerts will be given, as well as popular music, jazz, dance and song hits.

The Southern Collegians will probably be placed on the "S. S. Paris." This fact is not definite, as the French Line has not completed its schedule as yet. The orchestra will probably go across about June 15, playing regularly on shipboard and giving concerts during the entire voyage.

From nine to ten weeks will probably be spent in Europe, with engagements being filled at Deauville, Monte Carlo, the Riviera, and many famous watering places and social centers in European countries, capitals, cities and provinces.

A two weeks' stay in Paris will also be on the program of the local collegians. Here the band will make exclusive records for the Pathe Company of Europe. Both classical and popular numbers will be recorded. Records made for this company in the past by Washington and Lee orchestras have proved unusually popular, and it is felt that the new ones will repeat the successes.

The orchestra will return some time late in August, being booked to play on shipboard for the return trip to America also.

The Southern Collegians at present boast of 12 pieces and will play for University informal dances during the 1927-28 session.

Compensation Even For Student Grinds

Even scholarship has its cash compensations, and the "grind" may turn out grist as good as gold-edged bonds. That was one of the suggestions of Dr. John M. Thomas, of Rutgers, in his welcoming address to the freshmen.

"A few years ago," he said, "Rutgers had a student who was called a 'greasy grind' by some of his class-mates. This was S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparations under the Dawes plan. He may have been a 'greasy grind' but at thirty-two he was earning $45,000 a year. And, according to Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric Company, Gilbert holds the most important political position in the world."—(N.S.S.)

General Health Good.

At the present time, the general health of our students as a whole appears to be very satisfactory. According to Dr. Davidson, there have been only a few minor cases of sickness which he has treated. The hospital has only one inmate, H. W. Gwaltney.

HOWE

Will be closely followed today and for the rest of the season. His sensational play against the Wildcats a week ago branded him as one of the South's best backs.

Student Requests Influence Choice Of Library Books

The best of those books which are marking new pathways in the contemporary thought of the age, and are leading the field in general literature are constantly being received at the University library. In selecting these books the librarians are taking many considerations into account, one of the strongest being the number of requests they receive from students for certain books.

Trader Horn, the romantic biography of an old time trader on the African Gold Coast is the latest book received. Not only has this volume gotten favorable mention from the critics, but it is the fastest seller of the new books.

Jahna, the Atlantic Monthly's $10.00 prize novel written by Mazo De La Roche is the latest addition to the fiction shelves.

Notre Dame Team Now Takes Dancing

Notre Dame football coach, Knute Rockne, requires all men on varsity football squad to take dancing lessons. He believes that dancing will teach co-ordination of mind and body. One who has mastered the art of the ballroom should increase in speed and accuracy on the football field.

Dancing is becoming recognized as an aid to various forms of athletics, and especially to the backfielders on the football team.

Rockne says that as teamwork is harmony, or rhythmic control of the body, a good dancer should furnish good teamwork. Therefore, he says, dancing is of especial value to football, where speed, accuracy, co-ordination, and teamwork are essential.

Frost To Meet Greenbrier On Friday, Nov. 4

The Little Generals will meet Greenbrier Friday afternoon, November 4, on Wilson field in their last home game of the season. The game will be played on Friday instead of Saturday morning as previously announced. The following week the Frosh will go to Newport News, Virginia, for a game with the Naval Apprentice school winding up their season. Southern Conference rules limit the number of engagements a freshman team may engage in to five.

So far the freshmen have a good record, having lost to only the V. P. I. Rats and having won decisively from Staunton Military Academy and yesterday from the strong freshman team of the University of Virginia.

The Cadets are reported to have a fast and heavy team and if the Little Generals win they are likely to complete the season successfully, Greenbrier being reckoned one of the strongest elevens on their schedule. The coach at Greenbrier is Adkins, who played for Hampden-Sidney last year, and was recognized as one of the outstanding backs in the state.

Short Classes For Nov. 5 Decried By Faculty Committee

"Ed" Miller, president of the Student Body, announced today that the executive committee of the Faculty will grant short classes, beginning at 8 or 8:30 o'clock, on November 5, the day of the Virginia game. A full holiday for the V. P. I. game, November 12, will also be granted if enough students sign up for a "special" to Blacksburg, where the game will be held this year. At least 125 students will have to signify their intentions of going, by signing their names on the sheets which will soon be provided, before the committee will grant the holiday.

Scarlet Journalism Scored By Speaker

"Scarlet journalism" was the name given this week to the new newspaper sensationalism by William Preston Beazell, assistant managing editor of the New York World. It was a term included in an address he was scheduled to make before the University Press Club at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, recently.

"Scarlet journalism" he said was not restricted to the tabloids. It was the journalism which had no regard for privacy and decency.

"I believe the scarlet press has gone further than the enemies ever thought 'yellow journalism' went," Mr. Beazell declared.

Mr. Beazell commented on the prosperous year being enjoyed by the American press and declared his belief that none of the newer methods of communication would ever menace the position of the newspaper.

General Bandmen Leave For Maryland Game; Will Perform Between Halves

The Washington and Lee band left yesterday afternoon for College Park, Md., playing there this afternoon for the game with the University of Maryland. Leaving Lexington on the bus at 2:20, they went to Staunton, going from there to Washington on train last night.

Forty-six men made the trip with the band. There are two alto and two bass horns, ten trumpets, seven clarinets, two baritones, six trombones, thirteen saxophones, and three drums composing the pieces for this trip. This is one of the largest bands which has made a trip for Washington and Lee in some time.

Meeting at the University gate, the band will march to the field. Between halves they will form a M for Maryland, and then a Wash-

Harriers Show Improvement: Off For Washington

With the squad in better shape than at any time this season, Coach Fletcher, Manager Harrison, and seven runners left for Washington Friday morning to race the University of Maryland harriers this afternoon. The meet will begin just before the football teams of Washington and Lee and Maryland lock horns, and will end during the half.

Coach Fletcher drilled his men hard this week, both on the cinder path and the cross country course and pronounced their condition much better than on their last appearance.

The Old Liners have strong inter-collegiate combination. They defeated the V. P. I. harriers on the latter's home course by the slim margin of one point. The Generals have their hands full in coping with them.

The Washington and Lee team will remain in Washington for three days, returning Sunday night. They will resume workouts on Monday to get in shape for the South Atlantic meet which will take place at the University of North Carolina three weeks from today.

The following men made the trip to Maryland: Captain Pilley, Nance, Butler, Johnson, Bailey, Junkin and Brock.

Only Seven Teams Still Undeclared In Grid Conference

When the smoke of battle had cleared from the various gridirons of the South last Saturday, only seven teams remained undeclared in the Southern conference. Among these seven, namely Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Georgia, N. C. State, Florida, and Washington and Lee, only two of the number had not been scored upon. These two were Washington and Lee and Vandy, both of whom are greatly feared by their future opponents as probable winners of the Championship this fall.

Florida has amassed the highest number of total points, 65, while Sewanee alone has failed to count a single tally as yet.

College Is Meant For Mind Training

"Shall I send Johnny to college?" asks the mother of a four-year-old boy. Wait. When the boy is fifteen when he has become "Jack" or "John," let his temperament, his inclination, and his health, color the decision. That too many parents are blindly planning a college training for their children merely because it is the custom of the day, or because they themselves possess college degrees, is an opinion offered by Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton in an article, "Should Johnny go to college?" in Scribner's for October.

The true reason for the existence of colleges, says Dr. Gauss, is not to help Johnny form friendships, not to give him athletic prowess, or add to his social prestige—although these have their place—but "to train the mind by exercising it in study."

OLD LINERS GIVEN SLIGHT EDGE IN STRUGGLE AT COLLEGE PARK

Generals Ready For Game With All Men in Condition; Coach Herron With Twenty-Four Men Leave Friday for Washington

Facing one of the strongest teams in the Southern Conference today, the Generals left last night determined to come home with the bacon. Sport writers concede the Old Liners a slight edge in their fore cast of the game.

Coach Herron, graduate manager Dick Smith, manager Bill Ward and twenty-four players made the trip, leaving here via bus to Staunton and from there to Washington on the train. They plan to leave Washington around noon for College Park, Md., the scene of battle.

LATHAM

Who has been playing center for the Generals all season is playing in his own back yard against the Old Liners today. He is from Washington.

Alumni Building To Open November 5 With Luncheon

Three hundred guests, made up of Washington and Lee alumni and their wives are expected to attend the opening luncheon of the new alumni home here November 5, Vernon E. Kemp, secretary of the alumni association announced. The building, renovated for its new use, is the first building which the graduate organization has ever had for its exclusive occupancy.

Judge E. C. Caffrey of the circuit court of New Jersey will thank the donors who made the building possible and welcome the returning alumni in the main speech of the afternoon. Judge Caffrey is president of the association.

Accommodations in Lexington for next week end are being rapidly exhausted, Mr. Kemp said. Alumni of both Virginia Military Institute and Washington and Lee who are returning for the homecoming games will tax Lexington housing facilities beyond their capacity. V. M. I. will play North Carolina in the morning at 11 o'clock and Washington and Lee will meet the University of Virginia on Wilson field at 2:45.

Gene White Third In State Scoring

Individual scoring averages of Virginia colleges find Gene White, Generals' plunging bullback, in third place with a total of six touchdowns. Despite the fact that White has been out of the game a great part of the time, he is led only by Ab Barnes, star V. M. I. back, and Littlejohn of Emory and Henry with 42 points each.

The ten leading scorers are:
Barnes, V. M. I. 7 0 42
Littlejohn, E. & H. 7 0 42
White, W. & L. 6 0 36
J. Hale, E. & H. 5 3 33
Williams, Roanoke 5 0 30
Farmer, E. & H. 3 5 23
Mock, E. & H. 3 5 23
McLaughlin, Roanoke 3 0 18
Nabers, V. M. I. 3 0 18
Close, Va. 3 0 18

The Generals have been sent through stiff drills all week in preparation for the battle and are reported to be in fit condition for the fray. Lott, White, and Spotts, who a week ago were nursing injuries, are apparently in the best of condition and ready to deal the Old Liners some more trouble.

Tommy Stearns will be the only Marylander fighting against his own state. Stearns lives only a few miles from the sight of battle. Before entering Washington and Lee he had never played football and had seen few games, but after much laborious work he had made the team and is now one of the most valuable players to his team.

Latham, playing his final year for the Generals, will be quite at home as he hails from Washington. Up to the close of last year Latham had been playing in the backfield but on account of the dearth of line material was shifted to center. Here he was the understudy of Rector and when the latter failed to return to school this year Latham received the call for the pivot position.

Maryland has a strong team this year and will send into battle, with the exception of two, the identical line-up that faced the Generals on Wilson field last year, holding the Blue and White to a meager three points, while they themselves were not able to score.

This fall Maryland has been cutting great figures in Conference football, having taken three of the four games played. The two teams are considered the outstanding ones of this sector of the conference. A victory for the Generals would do much to boost Washington and Lee stock for a conference championship and help enlarge the already mammoth crowd expected to witness the game here a week from today.

Coach Herron would not comment on his chances of victory before his departure last night, but it is understood that the team as a whole is confident it can handle the Byrds, but it expects a stiff battle such as it has met for the past two seasons. The probable line-up for the Generals will be—Ends, Spotts and Dorsey; tackles, Fisher and Fitzpatrick; guards, Tips and Groop; center, Latham; quarter, Stearns; halves, Lott and Howe; and fullback, either White or Barnett.

Team To Be Chosen For English Debate

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 a trial debate will be held in Tucker Hall between members of the debating squad. The final team, composed of three men, will meet the English debaters here on November 19th.

There were only two contestants in the tryouts held Thursday afternoon in Newcomb Hall. They were D. V. Conn, and D. Sherbey. The temporary debating squad was chosen from the two preliminary tryouts. Members of this squad are: W. H. Maynard; C. T. Scyphers; H. M. Platt; W. C. Wagner; R. A. Merritt and D. Sherbey.

Another opportunity to tryout will be given to any new men at the meeting Tuesday night.

FORGOT NEW RULES

The habit of a football lifetime cannot be broken in one short season. During the "pro" game between the New York Giants and the Frankfort Yellow Jackets yesterday, Hinkey Haines, former Penn State star, received a forward pass from a New York teammate eight yards over the goal line and tried to go the remaining two yards to the goal posts, forgetting the new rule that put the posts 10 yards back.

SUPPORT V. P. I. HOLIDAY

THE ultimatum of the faculty stating that in all probability no holiday would be granted November 12, the day the Generals play V. P. I. in Blacksburg, unless a certain number of students signify their desire to attend the game that day by signing the cards to be posted shortly, puts the initiative upon the student body to see that the desired respite from classes is granted.

The policy of the administration of the university has been to limit the holidays during the football season to one full day, and it is in line with this past custom that only the one day free from classes will be granted this year. The faculty also believes that there would be no point in granting the holiday unless the students intend to take advantage of it, and do not wish to cancel classes only to have student body lounging around Lexington all day.

If the students here really want a holiday on that day, they will sign the bulletin boards as soon as they are posted, so as to assure the running of the special train to Blacksburg and the attendant favorable action of the faculty in finally granting the one day vacation.

SHORT CLASSES FOR VIRGINIA GAME

SINCE the annual gridiron battle with Virginia will be played here this year, and in view of the fact that a full day holiday will probably be granted for the trip to the V. P. I. farcas, the faculty declined to declare a holiday November 5. They did agree, however, to run short classes only that day, starting at either 8 or 8:30.

If the choice of the student body is made, we believe that the first class will start at 8 o'clock, and not wait until half an hour later. The chief reason for the request for the full cancellation of classes was to enable the student body, or those who wanted to, to attend the V. M. I.—North Carolina game at 11 o'clock, and the battle between the local freshmen and Greenbrier Military school at nine. Since the plan for short classes only make impossible attendance on the yearling game, campus sentiment deems it only logical that classes should start at eight and be short enough to enable those holding tickets to the 11 o'clock game to get there for the kick-off.

Half hour classes, starting at 8 o'clock, would make this possible, and appear to be the best solution of a problem which the student body realizes faces the faculty. Under this plan the last class would be over at 10:30, thus allowing time to get to Alumni Field in time to get seated before the chief morning attraction opens.

ESSARY AND JOURNALISM

IN retrospect, those who were fortunate enough to attend the banquet at which J. Fred Essary spoke early this week feel that the remarks made by the speaker there hold more real wisdom the more they are pondered. Essary, a journalist, was speaking primarily to journalists in the making at that time, and depicted clearly the many little incidents and daily happenings so dear to the newspaperman, and yet which, if not properly dealt with, result in errors far-reaching in their effort.

His words were an inspiration to his hearers, and the appreciation to those responsible for getting him here to address the gathering is still voiced among the scribes when they are gathered together. Informal speeches from one living in the practical world of a profession at the time are always interesting, and add greatly to the zeal with which a student goes at his work of preparing himself to enter the same field.

TRUE SPORTSMANSHIP

IT'S a word we usually hear at basketball and football games, but we don't necessarily have to go to games or play in them to be good sports. Everyone has some game to play and his life happiness depends on how well he plays the game and his fairness to his opponent.

The greatest joy in life does not always come in winning the game, for there has been many a person who has lost the material victory but has obtained more profit and honor than the winner.

If you've longed for victory and won, don't put too much pride on your own skill. Don't hold all the honor to yourself for we all are dependent on some one else and there's nothing we can do that some one else hasn't had a share in, or helped us along.

How little would any of us win if our fortune were not better than what we deserved!

ACTIVITIES

IT doesn't matter a lot just what line your talents may lie in. Years hence, should someone say to you, "What did you do besides your school work?" you would like to say, of course, that you played on the varsity football team. But lacking that distinction you would rather like to say you engaged in dramatics, glee clubbing, banding, writing, or what not, so long as it was for the university.

STUDENTS FILE APPLICATIONS FOR DEGREES

B. A. Has 49 Applicants; Commerce, 40; Law, 23; and M. A., 5.

From the report from the Registrars office, 128 men have filed applications for degrees, showing a decrease of seven from last year's figure. There are 49 applicants for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, while last year there were 57. The Commerce school has also suffered a loss, there being only 40 applicants this year, as compared with 42 last year.

As last year, there has been only one application for a Certificate in Commerce. Twenty-three men have applied for the degree of Bachelor of Law as compared with 26 last year. The only increase over last years applications for degrees is that in Master of Arts, five having applied this year, and only one last year.

The following are the applicants for degrees:

Va. Students Must Be Vouched For At Informal Saturday

"Bobby" Howe, president of the Monogram Club, today announced that every visitor, including all University of Virginia students, who wish to attend the Monogram Club dance the night of the Virginia game, will have to be vouched for by some Washington and Lee student.

There is a general notion among the students that the visitors from Virginia will be exempt from this requirement, but if the Dance Regulations are to be respected and enforced at all times, there can be no exceptions made for any one dance.

Restrict Scandal News, Says Director

Restriction on news of scandals would be welcomed by many persons, in the opinion of Dr. John W. Cinliffe, director of the Columbia University School of Journalism. His annual report, published today, says:

"Many newspaper men and a host of newspaper readers would no doubt welcome any provision which directed that the dirty linen of distinguished citizens, or citizens distinguished only by linen or exceptional filth, should be washed in private, even when it became a matter of legal inquiry.

"If the public interest in these things did not exist, the newspapers would cater to it in vain; but it is obvious this kind of interest can be, if not created, at any rate, encouraged and developed by the satisfaction of an appetite for sensational and scandalous.

"It must always be remembered that by the side of newspapers which exploit these notorious cases we have always newspapers which treat them with a sense of responsibility for the public welfare and with the restraint that sense of responsibility implies."

Square and Compass Initiates Four Men

Four men who have been wearing the pledge ribbon of Square and Compass for the past three weeks were initiated into the Washington and Lee Square of the Fraternity this week. The neophytes are Charles L. Clauch, of Jonesboro, Ark.; McRee Davis, of Garland, Texas; Virgil C. Jones, of Gordonsville, Va.; and William H. Maynard, of Clarksdale, Miss.

Jairus Collins, Jr. was chosen to direct the activities of the Square as president for the year. Edwin H. Howard was elected vice-president.

Part of Nelson Street Closed For Repairs

The street department of Lexington has ordered the road from Nelson street culvert to Wilson field closed for repairs. How long it will be closed is not definitely known, but it will be opened in time for the Virginia game November 5. The school has nothing to do with the closing of the road, it being in the hands of the city.

"DAFFODILS" TO BATTLE F. M. S. AT WAYNESBORO

The "Daffodils", or the eleven made up of the third and fourth teams of the Generals' squad journeyed to Waynesboro today to battle the Fishburne Military school eleven. Jim Rainer has been elected captain of the "Daffodils" and is certain that his team will give the Cadets a real battle. The starting line-up cannot be given definitely as yet, but it is probable that most of the men who didn't make the trip to Maryland will get in the game.

Ward Morehouse, of the dramatic staff of the New York Sun, and Mark Barron, of the dramatic department of the New York Herald Tribune, are collaborating on a newspaper play called "The Lobster Trick."

MODIFIED HUDDLE MEEHAN CALLS IT; SCORES 213 POINTS

The secret of the most striking football maneuver seen in the East this season was told Tuesday by Chick Meehan, the fiery little New York University coach who invented it.

In Meehan's hands the weapon has turned a football team into a projectile and carried N. Y. U. to the top of Eastern eevens in scoring with 213 points thus far to 19 for its five opponents.

Meehan calls it a modified huddle, but it looks like the charge of the light brigade.

On every offensive play the linemen in a row turn in their tracks two paces to the rear of their playing positions with their violet backs to the enemy. The four men in the backfield face them.

A low-voiced signal and some finger sign language by the quarterback, then it's "wheel-get-set-charge," with a measured interval between the movements.

To make the rhythm perfect the 11 men count "whun, tuh, three, four." It is their battle cry. On four the ball snaps and the team drives forward like a 16-inch shell. (AP)

Mink Football Number Promises Snappy Feature

All present indications point toward a successfully carried-out theme and a most attractive issue of "The Mink" in the form of the "Football Number" which will appear on November 5, the day of the Virginia game here, according to Wilton M. Garrison, editor.

The Virginia game is "The Big Game" at Washington and Lee, and this particular issue of the University humorous magazine will appropriately carry-out this idea. This theme, in fact, runs all the way through the issue, and is carried out in prose, verse, and art work of both a serious and light nature.

Business manager George S. DePass believes that a very successful sale of copies of the issue will take place at the game. Over 1600 copies of this issue the second of the magazine this year, will be distributed here and throughout the country.

Editor Garrison announces that the third issue of "The Mink", which will appear about December 20, will be the "Holiday Number" or "Christmas Number". This theme—of Christmas, holidays, parties, New Years, et cetera—will be followed. Contributors are asked to make material conform accordingly. Editorial try-outs will extend through this issue. Material may be handed to the editor or mailed to "The Mink", at P. O. Box 895.

College History Dean's Subject At Frosh Meeting

A meeting of the Freshman class was held in Lee Chapel Thursday night. Dean Campbell was the speaker of the evening, and gave a most interesting history of the founding of Washington and Lee.

Beginning with the original Augusta Academy, Dr. Campbell related the events concerning the changes which were made from time to time in the name of the institution. He also discussed the former presidents of the University, giving some incident which occurred during the presidency of each.

According to Dr. Campbell, the best way to insure long life for the widow is to leave your money to the University. It appears that there have been very few exceptions to this rule.

Dr. Campbell also "admitted" that he and his brother had practically run the University for many years.

STAFF DISMISSED

Bryant Hale, editor of the Wampus, collegiate magazine of the University of Southern California, summarily dismissed his entire staff, giving as his reason lack of interest in the publication.

FRED GRANT, Prop.

President's Paragraph

No. 6—1927-28

If you've so far neglected this course.

The most valuable and profitable "course of study" or "campus activity" in your four-year college residence is an intensive study of your self and your possible vocations and opportunities, resulting in the wise selections, as early as possible, of your preferred line of future life-work. This, in my judgment, outranks every other undergraduate "course" or "activity" at W. & L. as a preparation for future success and happiness.
