

FOOTBALL ISSUE OF "MINK" ON SALE FOR GAME

Dedicated To "Fighting Generals,"
Humorous Monthly Appears
In Fitting Cover.

Snap. Vim. Vigor. Charm. Beauty.
Color. Collegiate.

These phrases but half describe the "Football Number" of "The Mink", which appeared on the campus this morning.

The issue is being sold at the game this afternoon and has already attracted much attention and comment since its appearance. All subscribers will find their copies in the Post Office immediately after the game.

"Snappier than ever" was the expression of those who saw the second issue of this year's University humor magazine. The cover is skillfully carried out in four colors, resembling crayon work. A blue and white checked background, which is very appropriate for Washington and Lee's "Big Game" today, has surmounting it the fac-simile of a football with a beautiful girl's head in the center. A small pennant in the corner carries the words "Football Number" and the title of the cover is "Triple Threat!"

The cover was drawn in colored crayons by Leonard Glover, '31, and reproduced in a special photochemical process by New York engravers. Cluett, Peabody Company of Troy, N. Y., printed the cover.

The entire body of the magazine is printed in dark blue ink, also a very appropriate idea for the game today. The contents reveal very clearly the immense amount of work and time spent on getting out the issue by Editor Wilton M. Garrison and his staff. A dedication page, drawn by Marion M. Junkin, '27, editor of the 1927 Calyx, features the inside cover page. A patriotic and fitting foreword in a corner of the page dedicates this particular issue of "The Mink" to the Fighting Generals of Washington and Lee.

A glittering array of art work, sketches on the "Big Game" and football in general, cartoons, verses, jokes, skits, poems and witticisms fill the remainder of the 32 page volume in an interesting and well-planned arrangement. An exceptionally well-written editorial page and a double-page spread by "Dud and Bill" feature the center of the magazine.

Over 1700 copies of this issue will be distributed locally and nationally, George S. DePass, business manager of "The Mink" said this morning. The printing was done by the J. P. Bell Company of Lynchburg, and the engraving by the Lynchburg Engraving Company.

Manager DePass has organized his entire business staff remarkably well in regards to getting out the issue today, and its distribution both at the game and to subscribers will be attributed to this. The issue will also be placed on newstands here and throughout the country, and is expected to attract wide attention.

CAPT. "BICK" CARDWELL

"Bick", playing his last year with the Virginia gridders, has been showing up well at tackle all season, and will probably face Fitzpatrick in the line this afternoon. His home is in Hanover, Va.

Are Co-eds Human Beings Is Argued At Northwestern

The question, "Are co-eds human beings" was argued by two boys and two girls at Northwestern University recently and although no decision was rendered, both sides hailed themselves as victors. The following points, among others, were cited: For the co-eds: We are human because we are intelligent; if not, we could not make our boy friends spend their week's allowance on a week-end date; we are also aesthetic,—just watch any co-ed apply her cosmetics; and we have a soul or our eyes wouldn't sparkle when we walk across the campus with a football hero.

Against the co-eds: They are not human for they exist without human necessities, such as food, shelter and clothing. They live for a year on prune juice, stay out all night and as for clothing they are like olives and one has to cultivate with difficulty a taste for them.

"We are intelligent," said the girls, "because we can deceive the president who does not think we smoke on the campus."

"They are dumb," said the boys, "or they would smoke on the campus."

Katherine Hicks and Louise Starkey argued for the co-eds and Robert Howlett and Robert Hicks, brother of Katherine, upheld the affirmative.—(A.P.)

Alumni Gather For Game; Many Notables Here

From all corners of the country—Far West, West, North, East and South—alumni are returning to the scene of their most enjoyable days, to witness once again the struggle of their Alma Mater against their ancient rivals.

Scattered to distant points—many of them have travelled miles to gather today on old familiar corners and in dimly-remembered trysting places to recall numerous incidents hallowed by the passing of time. They are here with a keen anticipation of seeing their team, spurred on by a thus far successful season, gain full retribution for the calamity suffered last November at Charlottesville.

It is useless to begin to name all that are here. Since last Monday they have been drifting in and yesterday saw the first large influx. Today their numbers have increased until it is now estimated that the reunion exceeds by far that of any previous years.

A few of those that were registered Friday can be mentioned here: Sam and Phil Lauchlin, West Va.; Robert Hobson, Louisville; John Bell, Tampa; Sam Engleman, Montgomery; Leon Harris, South Carolina; Millege Mail, Memphis; Walter Bootay, Portsmouth, Ohio; John Edmondson, Memphis; "Cy" Young, Helena, Ark.; E. B. Owen, Daylesville, Va.; "Pup" Glover, North Carolina; Carlton Jewett, Richmond; Philip Gibson, Huntington; Allen Beall, Helena; and Otto Stumpf, Charlie Moss, and "Scram" Sale, all of Richmond.

Confidence Marks Camp of Generals As Game Nears

The Generals camp this morning was very reticent in its expression of opinion as to the outcome of the game. Remembering last year's set-back, most estimates made as to the final result were marked by conservatism, but the pervading atmosphere of the entire camp was one of confidence, backed by keen determination yet tempered by experience.

Coach Herron said, "We have the better team, should make the breaks, are in good shape, but we realize Virginia's strength and are taking nothing for granted."

"Captain Dick" Smith replied characteristically: "Tell you better tonight."

Assistant Coach Palmer would make no statement, but expressed confidence.

"Red" Gillam was the most outspoken of the authorities. The faithful trainer when interviewed replied: "Everything's copesetic; when this club of mine gets through with them they'll have to hock their shoes to get home on."

King Football Reigns As Lexington Celebrates Two Great Grid Battles

It is on the day of the king's coronation. King football ascends to his lofty throne today in Lexington. Thousands of lowly vassals bow to render homage unto him.

All the any-accounts, no-accounts, and discounts are here. Some are flecking their ashes into the receptacles provided by the local hotel; some are combing their hair in the bespeckled mirrors in the fraternity houses; others are sleeping, two in a bed in the dormitory, thereby proving that two-in-one means something besides shoe polish.

Everyone is happy — and if he isn't will be before sundown,—because celebrations will be in order for victor and loser in the great game to be played this afternoon.

Tickets may be procured at The Corner or at McCrum's Drug Store for those whose minds have been so occupied on celebrating over last Saturday's results that they have neglected to provide themselves with the necessary pasteboards.

A tremendous crowd is expected at Wilson Field this afternoon by the officials, and suitable arrangements have been made to accommodate them. Parking will not be permitted on the field, and only a limited number of machines will be allowed to park on the hill below the field-house. This will be enforced both during the game, and later tonight during the dance. Youth is so expressive, and should not be crowded. It will be a question of first come, first served.

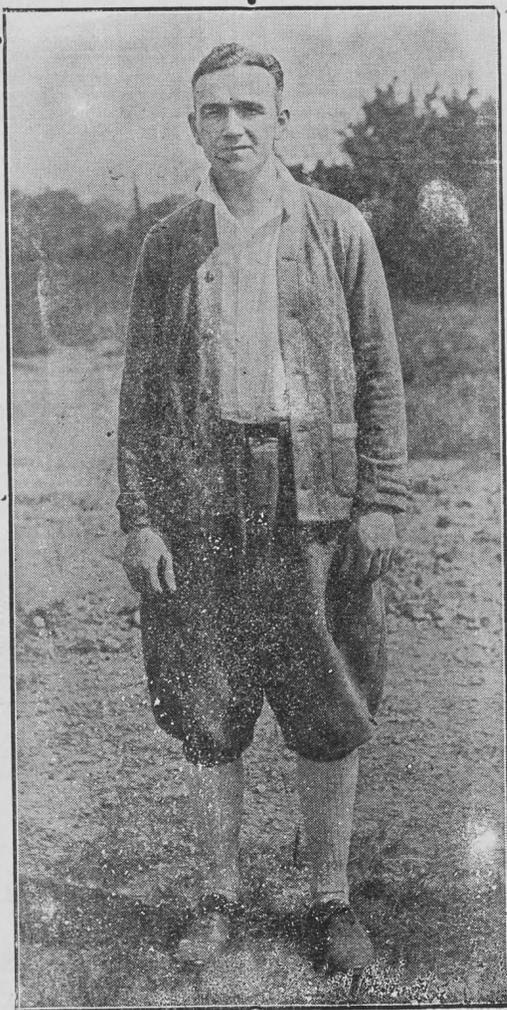

A great many of the out-of-town cars will be parked on the V. M. I. parade grounds during the fracas at 11 a. m. and will remain there for the day. This idea is recommended to facilitate traffic handling.

LEAVE CARS HOME

Students and townspeople are earnestly requested to refrain from using their machines today and to leave them parked at home. This will facilitate the handling of the large crowd a great deal.

FRESHMEN

By order of the Freshman Council, all Freshmen will be allowed to stay the full time at the dance tonight; however, they will have to wear green ties and green socks as heretofore.

COACH J. P. "PAT" HERRON

Herron, while in only his second year as coach at Washington and Lee, has produced the best team the Blue and White has sported for some years, if not in all time. So far his proteges have conquered opponents both within and without the conference, have tied West Virginia, and have lost only to Princeton, rated as one of the best three elevens in the East. His objective this afternoon is to scuttle "Greasy" Neale's crew of Cavaliers.

People Must Stop And Allow Engine The Right-of-way

A rule of conduct for automobilists and others who cross railroad tracks was laid down recently by the Supreme Court in a case appealed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

In setting aside a judgment in favor of the estate of Nathan Goodman, killed at Whitfield, Ohio, the court, through Justice Holmes, declared that "when a man goes upon a railroad track he knows that he goes to a place where he will be killed if a train comes upon him before he is clear of the track. He knows that he must stop for the train, not the train stop for him."

"In such circumstances, it seems to us, that if a driver cannot be sure otherwise whether a train is dangerously near, he must stop and get out of his vehicle, although obviously he will not often be required to do more than stop and look. It seems to us that if he relies upon not hearing the train or any signal and takes no further precaution he does so at his own risk."

The court announced it laid down this rule of conduct for the control of all courts, "Once for all."—(A.P.)

Brand of Play In Intra-mural League Improves

The improvement in the brand of basketball, displayed in the intra-mural league, is surprising, according to the officials in charge. During the early weeks of training Coach "Cy" Twombly's proteges showed a form that was far from polished, but now after several weeks of play in the league each team has developed a smooth offense and an equally effective defense. Team work seems to be the key note of most of the play, though individual stars are not lacking.

Each of the seven squads is fighting hard for the handsome medals to be presented the individual winners of the league champions. Less than a month remains until the final standing will be issued.

Coach Twombly states that at the close of the present league, a race similar to the one in football will be held between the various schools of Law, Commerce, Academic, Freshmen, and Engineers. This league will be under the same direction as the present football race.

A list of the men on each team and the standings including games of Monday is as follows:

Team 1—Bowen (Capt.), McMillan, Barron, Smith, Holden, Busold and Lowrie. Team 2—Hardwick (Capt.), Leibowitz, Fleece, Clay, Beard and Crane. Team 3—Trail (Capt.), McKenzie, Leverett, McComas, Street, Freeman and Mahler. Team 4—Gordon (Capt.), Towler, Hill, Gillock, Williams, Tarrant and Davis. Team 5—Wilcox (Capt.), Bashwitz, Robertson, Brown, Sikes, Kaetzel and Parker. Team 6—Scott (Capt.), Patterson, Bowes, Thrift, Edmondson, Simmons and Sutherland. Team 7—Gwaltney (Capt.), Tyler, Ruff, Wagner, Halpern, Levin and Calhira.

Tickets For V. P. I. Game Ready Monday Smith Announces

Tickets for the V. P. I.—Washington and Lee game will go on sale Monday morning at the Co-op and the Corner according to graduate manager R. A. Smith. The tickets will remain on sale until the end of the week.

It was also announced that there are a limited number and all those intending to make the trip are urged to purchase his ticket as soon as possible. All tickets will be $2, no student rates being made.

A special train is to be run leaving Lexington Saturday morning and reaching Blacksburg, the scene of the battle, in time for the game. The train will leave after the game arriving at Lexington some time early Sunday morning or late Saturday night.

Four Students Visit Hospital.

There were four students in the Jackson Memorial Hospital during the past week: H. W. Gwaltney, W. C. Drewery, F. L. Smith, and W. C. Wagner. The only one of these men still in the hospital is W. C. Wagner.

RALLY DRAWS 500 STUDENTS AND ALUMNI

Herron and "Bullet" Silverstein
Speak to Students; Freshmen
Parade Town With Band.

Five hundred students, alumni, and visitors attended the student body rally held last night in Doremus Gymnasium. The W. and L. band was present, and opened the rally with a selection. "Ed" Ould, head cheer leader, next led a number of cheers. Ould then introduced Coach "Pat" Herron.

Coach Herron thanked members of the student body for their support in the past, emphasizing its great importance on the morale of the team, and then stated that the old Washington and Lee tradition of beating Virginia could be realized if the students stood behind the team.

Ould next introduced "Cy" Young, one-time sixteen letter man, and captain of four major sports at Washington and Lee. Young stated that he had never seen a Virginia team beat W. and L., and that he had come back for the game this year with the belief that his record would not be broken. He then stressed the influence on a team of a supporting student body. He said that an overconfident student body caused an overconfident team, but if the students stood behind the team he had no doubt as to the result.

A collection was next taken up to send the band to Blacksburg for the V. P. I. game. Ould then introduced "Bullet Joe" Silverstein, captain of the Generals in 1918. Silverstein explained the psychological effect of a student body supporting the team in the right spirit. He closed his talk by asking the students to go to the grandstands with the purpose of helping the "Fighting Generals" beat Virginia this year.

Ould and the assistant cheerleaders introduced a number of new yell to be used today, and after the "Swing" had been played by the band the rally was adjourned. The freshmen assembled outside the gymnasium and from there marched through the town, led by the band and the cheer leaders.

8,000 SEATS READY

Fans attending the Generals-Cavaliers battle this afternoon will find about eight thousand seats available. The new bleachers hold 4,000, the grandstand 2,500, and the end bleachers about 1,500.

CAPTAIN "HORSE" TIPS

Tips, All-American mention last year, has so far improved over his 1926 form that he will probably secure a berth on the All-Southern this year. His work has stood out in every game.

WELCOME, VISITORS

WASHINGTON and Lee will be host today to what will probably be the largest crowd of visitors ever here to witness an athletic event of any character. The annual game with the University of Virginia never fails to provide six of eight thousand persons with entertainment for the afternoon, but, with Virginia Military Institute playing North Carolina University in a homecoming affair in the morning, and with the Generals-Cavalier battle also carded as a homecoming event, between ten and twelve thousand people from outside Lexington seem assured.

This campus will have the opportunity to make many new friends before nightfall, and it is hoped that the conduct and spirit of the entire student body will be such that this desired result will accrue. Many of the visitors have never been in Lexington before, and are attracted here by one or both of the greatest games in the South Atlantic area. State and sectional championships might be decided between now and nightfall, and the hopes of many undergraduates and alumni of two schools are due to crash when the final scores are announced.

Both Virginia Military Institute and Washington and Lee, the two host schools, will be fighting to wipe out the stains of past defeats, and have at least an even chance to avenge themselves for past losses at the hands of today's opponents. It is hoped that the day will serve to further cement the growing friendship between the two institutions, and, while the corps of cadets from V. M. I. cannot attend the afternoon game here, yet fully half the local student body is known to be planning to attend the battle with the invading Tarheels.

In this connection, we hope that no incidents, however small, which tend to obstruct or hinder the development of further amity between the two schools, will crop out in town or at Alumni Field in the morning, for the forward march of both student bodies can be greatly aided by the continuance of such a feeling of oneness and of common interests which has secured a good foothold already.

AN EVEN BET

STUDENTS should realize that the seemingly impossible happens more often in football than in any other realm of sport, and what might appear a certain victory or loss from pre-game dope might turn out to be just the opposite due to some uncontrollable force or break of the game.

Old men at Washington and Lee realize this fact only too well, when they recall the terrific upset which occurred at Charlottesville last year. A Blue and White team, rated to down Virginia by two touchdowns, went down to defeat by a margin of four touchdowns, and many men who had attempted to emphasize their belief in a Generals' victory by "so many points" returned home broken in many ways besides in heart.

Today's battle promises to be close, and each team will put forth its utmost efforts to win. The annual game is the high-water mark on the schedules of both elevens, and regardless of past performances, especially the more recent of these, the two elevens appear at this time to be about evenly matched. Both squads have one or more men who are not in the best of shape, and while the Generals won over Maryland last week, it was a hard fight. Virginia, although losing by seven touchdowns to Tennessee, did not keep its regulars in the lineup throughout the game, and some of them who were being saved for today's fray did not see service at all.

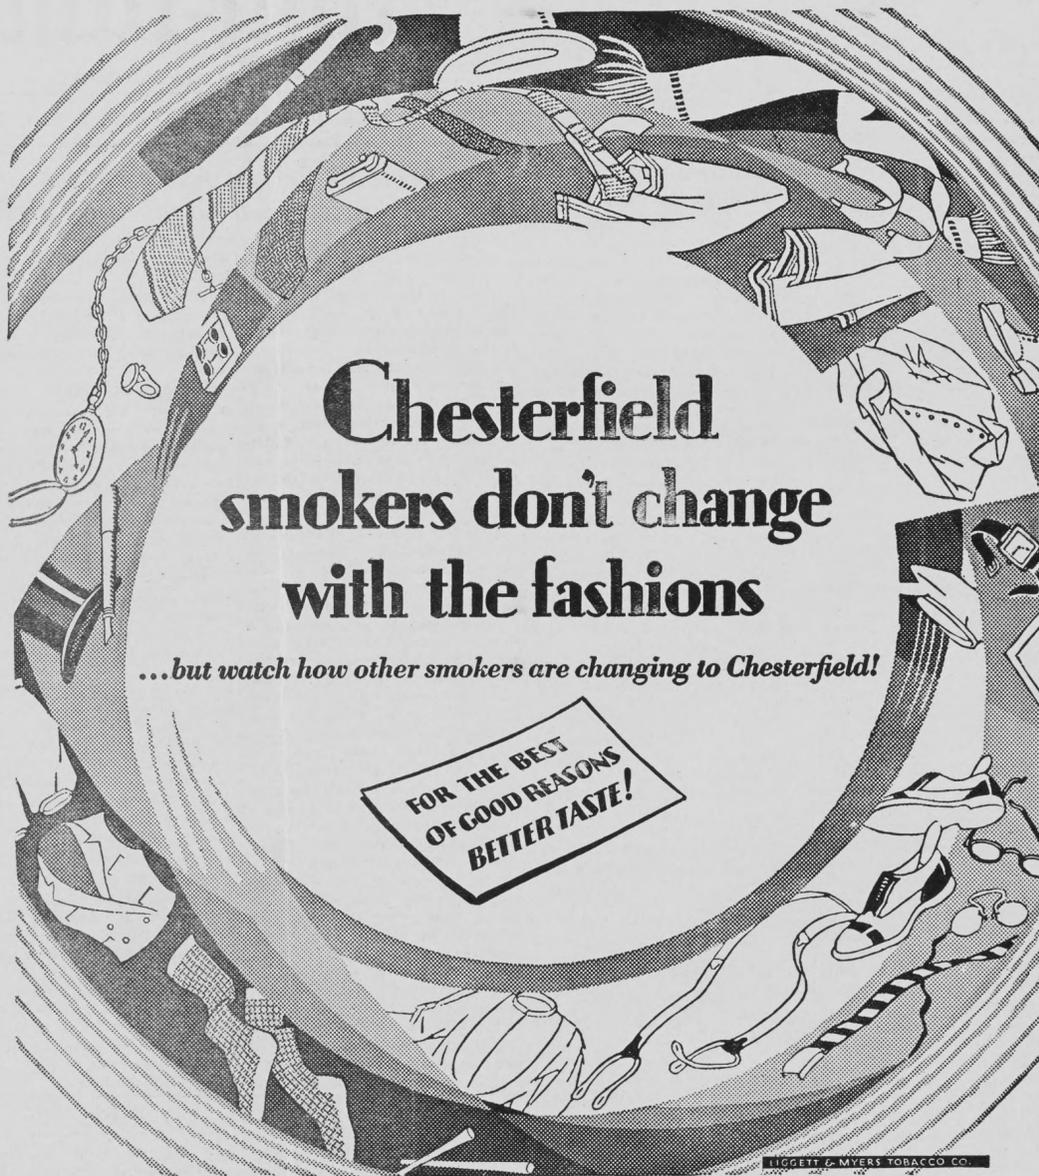

Rumors aside, no odds appear to justify lie on either team, and, while the dope on the surface appears to favor the Generals to win, only a rash man would back up his contention with any kind of a one-sided argument.

THE LAST WORD

WHETHER or not the Generals are successful in their attempt to turn back the invading Cavaliers this afternoon and avenge the upset which resulted in such a decisive victory for Virginia last year, students should remember the dance regulations when they enter the gym tonight for the Monogram Club dance.

Not only should the personal conduct of each member of the student body be above reproach, but they should realize that the visitors for whom they vouch at the door hold just as much power over their punishment for violation of the regulations as do they themselves. In order for dances to continue in charge of student body appointees throughout the year, it is necessary for drinking to be strictly taboo, and the only feasible way found to enforce this was to make every man personally accountable for any misconduct of alumni or visitors vouched for at the door.

Let everybody have a good time, regardless of the outcome of the game, but let it be an orderly time, making any regulatory action on the part of the floor committee or faculty committee on social functions entirely unnecessary.

WINTER SPORTS SCHEDULES ARE NEAR COMPLETE

Varsity Menu About Finished But Several Open Dates For Freshman Teams.

Approximately all the Varsity winter sports schedules have been completed. The basketball and wrestling schedules for the freshmen are yet incomplete.

The University of Alabama is scheduled to meet the Generals quintet this year on January 28. This will be the first contest that the Generals have had with the Crimson Tide in this sport, the Athletic Association files show.

Most of the basketball games will be played at home this year, giving Captain Spotts and his men an advantage over their opponents and also giving the Student Body an excellent chance to see their team in action.

$15,000 SPENT ON REMODELLING THEATRE

Approximately $15,000 has been spent in modernizing and remodeling the New Theatre of Lexington, according to its manager, Ralph Daves. The whole theatre has been repainted and remodeled, inside and out. Extensive preparations for a new organ, costing around $15,000, an entirely new projecting room with two new machines, a new screen, and modern stage settings are some of the improvements.

There is also a new ventilating machine, capable of cooling the theatre in summer and heating it in winter, and an entirely new system of lighting.

COACH OF BACKFIELD SUGGESTS DRASTIC MOVES, OHIO STATE

Ohio State grads at a meeting Monday at which Sam Williams, backfield coach of Ohio State University spoke, suggested at the close of the meeting that two-thirds of the Ohio State players who participated in the Michigan game last Saturday turn in their suits; that Ohio State get a new head coach, and that Dr. John W. Willce, head coach, institute a decided shake-up of the Ohio team.—(AP)

THOUSAND OLD GRADS ARRIVE FOR BIG GAME

Alumni Headquarters Handling The Largest Returning Crowd Ever To Hit Lexington.

Old faces, marking the return of Alumni were recognized on the campus yesterday and today. The hearty handshake and the greeting smile prevailed on the campus and in the fraternities as old and young Alumni returned to their Alma Mater for Homecoming Day.

Approximately 1000 Alumni have returned to Lexington today to renew friendships and to support the Generals in their annual clash with Virginia. A formal luncheon for 300 Alumni will be held in the new Alumni headquarters today to celebrate the formal opening of the new club rooms.

Judge E. C. Caffrey, '09, will be the principal speaker, and several other men will be heard from in short addresses. Col. F. T. A. Junkin, of Chicago, will be the guest of honor today.

Reservations for rooms at the Alumni building have been so numerous that the house is filled to capacity. Other men are being accommodated at the hotels, private homes in town, and at fraternity houses. Alumni have returned from 20 different states, ranging from Florida to Texas and Missouri to Massachusetts.

Recent arrivals include John Bell, '21; S. M. Engelhardt, '09; L. W. Harner, '15; J. S. Edmondson, '19; R. G. Nichols, '27; G. W. Summer-son, '27; R. D. Maben, '27; D. B. Owen, '12; Euc Reeves, '27.

Frosh Wrestlers Upset Varsity By 38-29 Score

The second wrestling match between the Freshman and Varsity squads, held in the gymnasium Thursday afternoon, resulted in a victory for the Greenies by a score of 38 to 29. The chief reason for the Freshman victory was the failure of many of the Varsity men to report for the meet. Accordingly, the Freshmen were awarded five forfeits, which aided them materially in gaining their total number of points.

These meets have been very interesting. A number attended the one held Thursday. Coach Mathis is rapidly molding both squads into shape, and they should prove formidable opponents for any of the teams on the intercollegiate schedule.

Miller Asks Frosh Help on Bridge

A meeting of the Freshman class and transfers was held in the gymnasium Thursday night. The meeting was called by the Executive Committee of the Student Body for the purpose of discussing the finances of the Memorial bridge, which was started by the class of 1927.

E. H. Miller, president of the Bridge Committee, gave a short talk on the advantages of the new bridge, and asked for the co-operation of the new men in financing it. W. J. Dorsey then explained the plan of contribution, asking that each man give $50.00, the initial payment of $10 to be made this year, and the remainder during the succeeding four years.

Short talks were also given by Francis Harvey, Freshman class president, and B. B. Tips, captain of the football team.

President's Paragraph

No. 9—1927-8
Learn to Cram

The second step toward business and professional leadership in this Age of the Expert is to acquire a habit and facility which were looked on with horror by the scholastic pedagogues of a half-century ago.

Here is the second step: LEARN TO CRAM, rapidly, intensively, completely, whether you will remain a permanent expert or not.

The student who can take a pile of textbooks to his room and by a fierce all-night grind become a temporary expert of high grade on a wide and complex field of human knowledge has learned more, has acquired a better training, than is represented by half the diplomas handed out Commencement Day by his college or university.

Ribbon Society At Florida Takes Its "Shines" Too Far

The officers and initiatory committee of the Serpent ribbon society of the University of Florida were asked to resign their positions last Monday by President A. A. Murphree, because of "outrageous conduct" of some of its number in public recently.

The Serpent Society is an ancient social organization at the Gainesville institution that corresponds to White Friars and Pans on the local campus, and one of their most ancient rites is that of initiating their pledges between the halves of the football game on Homecoming Day. Last Saturday between the halves of the Mercer-Gator game the Serpent pledges were sent upon the field clad only in dainty feminine undergarments, as has been the custom for years, to put on their little acts and to go through characteristic and appropriate shines.

This they did in an orderly manner, as per directions, but instead of leaving the field as they should have done when their time was up, someone crabbed the act by trying to disrobe some of his fellow-sufferers. This clever little idea spread and in a moment all of them were trying to render each other nude, and some of them were more or less successful before they could leave the field.

ACCOUNTING CLASSES ENROLL LARGE NUMBER

Approximately 165 students are now enrolled in the accounting classes, under the direction of Professor William Coan and Mr. E. H. Howard.

A two hour laboratory period has been installed, replacing a part of the home work formerly required, which gives the professors more opportunity to supervise the work of the classes.

Freshmen Raking Leaves Instead Of Living In Roses

"Comes a day"—as movie subtitles would have it—when the days of freshman glory are no more.

That day, strange as it may seem, appears to come with the falling of autumn leaves. And therein lies the tale.

Rushing season has long been over. Cadillacs and Packards, et cetera, have been taken back home weeks ago, and the fraternity "goat" finds himself being hauled around by "old men" in delapidated and collegiate flivver wrecks—if he is fortunate enough to ride at all. Which most of them aren't.

The proverbial "goat meetings" have not yet warmed up in full swinging blast. So, until the batting eyes of the "dear brothers" can get back into true hitting form, there must be found other tasks with which the "elusive frosh" can occupy himself.

To the falling leaves of late October, which drift slowly but surely across a sunlit campus and down Lexington's long lanes into fraternity house yards in huge quantities, the Greek neophyte finds himself turning. It is by command—not by any choice of his. But, somehow, he feels that it will be better if he does it quickly and well. Intuition is a valuable thing sometimes. Especially, in a case like this.

Into huge drifts and swirling piles, then, does he find himself raking for dear life the gold and scarlet symbols of a waning year. Unfortunately, there is no beauty in them for him. They are to him what the "big ones" that must be made into "little ones" are to the black-and-white striped convict. They are his ball and chain.

Curfs of billowy blue woodsmoke fill the streets and avenues of the college town at dusk. The pungent odor of burning leaves lends a winy taste and tang to the autumn air. Sundown sees the scarlet-orange flames twinkling in the leafy piles.

And still the echo rings through the streets and over the campus: "Rake that yard, freshman! He does. And how! !"

Success Of Soph. Cotillion At Stake Says President

The success of the Sophomore Cotillion Thanksgiving depends on the support of the members of that class, President H. L. Williams, states. It is imperative that all men in the class pay their dues as soon as possible in order to put the dance over.

The dance will be held Friday during the holidays, and the figure is to be led by President Williams, and all members may participate.

Ross Gorman, master of symphonic syncopation, and his orchestra will furnish the music.

This is the only dance of the year that the sophomores, as a class, are able to give, and the outcome of it depends solely on the support rendered by the students of that class.

The Gray Phantom

Over the teacups! What choice bits of juicy, delectable scandal may be spread abroad over a steaming cup of tea.

It has been learned from reliable authority that one certain member of the administration of Washington and Lee university is a regular tea imbiber at the residence of one of our fairest Lexington belles. Furthermore it has been made extremely evident in the past that this same dignitary has been quoted as distinctly against drinking of all kinds. Can there be no justice?

Perhaps a romance may be born of this custom of afternoon tete-a-tetes. Who knows? But when a very reserved gentleman on the faculty of a conventional university, begins to become a habitual visitor at a particular home, Dan Cupid is mighty likely to draw his bow.

Students may wonder just how much this official learns about the out of school activities of students as he leans across a bridge table, his face gleaming like a full moon through the mist of steam arising from his delicately poised teacup.

Payment on Bridge Due; $7,000 Needed

A total of $25,000 has been pledged to the bridge fund, according to the secretary of the Alumni Verbon Kemp, but to date only $6,400 has been submitted to the treasury.

Of this $4,000 has been turned over to the contractors, and as a $7,000 payment is now past due, Mr. Kemp urges that all subscriptions be paid up as soon as possible.

"I hope the freshmen class will assume their responsibility in this matter, and will turn in their subscriptions at an early date," he stated.

RIVALS OF RIVALS MEET THIS AFTERNOON ON WILSON FIELD

Huge Crowd Expected; No Virginia Team Has Ever Crossed Goal Line On New Field; State Championship At Stake; Weight of Teams Equal.

The rivals of rivals clash on Wilson Field this afternoon when the Generals of Washington and Lee and the Cavaliers of Virginia renew their annual feud. The fact that the championship of the state depends on this struggle and that a Virginia team has never crossed the goal line on the Washington and Lee field add to the determination of the players.

Between 8,000 and 10,000 cheering fans, a typical Homecoming crowd, will fill both the temporary and permanent stands around the gridiron. The student bodies of both Universities, old grads, and football enthusiasts in general are mingling to make the most gala occasion Lexington has ever seen.

Although the Blue and White record is more impressive than that of Virginia, the experience of last season proves that dope is worthless. Picked to win last year, the Generals were baffled early in the game by Virginia's pass attack and when the final whistle blew, were on the short end of a 30 to 7 count. Washington and Lee has to its credit victories over Maryland, Kentucky, Duke and Lynchburg, while the Cavaliers are bidding for the state championship with triumphs over V. M. I. and V. P. I. in spite of their losses to Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee. Maryland has decisions over the two military schools which gives Washington and Lee a slight mathematical advantage.

Coach Herron has been drilling his men throughout the week on defensive play. His main attention has been given to breaking up the Virginia aerial attack which spelled defeat for V. M. I. and V. P. I. Coach "Greasy" neale at Charlottesville has also spent the week trying to curb the overhead game of the Generals. While the air route has been the source of many Washington and Lee touchdowns, a running attack by a versatile set of backs is the Blue and White's most dangerous offensive threat.

The Generals emerged from the Maryland game without any serious injuries. Tommy Stearns received a charleyhorse from a vicious tackle and Fitzpatrick got a bruised shoulder, but both injuries are of a minor character and the men will start in their regular positions this afternoon.

Reports from Virginia indicate that it is doubtful whether or not Flippin and Turner, varsity ends, will be in the game. Flippin was hurt in the V. M. I. game while Turner received his injuries last week in Tennessee.

The average weight of both lines from end to end is 181 pounds per man. From tackle to tackle, however, Virginia has an advantage of about three pounds to the man. Both Captain Caldwell and Luke, veteran tackles, weigh close to 195 pounds, while Fisher and Fitzpatrick who handle these positions for the Blue and White, tip the beam at 192 and 193 respectively. Daniel and Symington, who hold down the guard positions for the Cavaliers, weigh 205 and 180 respectively, in comparison to Captain Tips' 187 and

FROSH DEFEAT G. M. S. FRIDAY TO OPEN GAMES

Military Lads Outplayed by W. & L. Yearlings, Who Win Handily 18-0.

A powerful running attack with Faulkner, Thibodeau, and Jacobs carrying the ball, gave the Little Generals an 18 to 0 victory over Greenbriar on Wilson Field yesterday afternoon. Throughout the contest, Washington and Lee carried the fight to the West Virginia boys and the outcome was never in doubt.

The Little Generals' line proved a stone wall, as only two of Greenbriar's five first downs were made by rushing. The prep school boys registered three first downs on passes, but had five more of their heaves intercepted by the alert Blue and White secondary defense to counteract this advantage.

The real thrill of the game came in the third quarter when Jacobs dashed through the center of the Cadet line, cut across to the sidelines evading the Greenbriar safety man, and ran 55 yards for a touchdown. The try for extra point failed. The way was paved for Washington and Lee's first score when a bad Greenbriar punt went outside on the Cadets' 33 yard line. Two plunges by Jacobs netted seven yards and Faulkner made it a first down on Greenbriar's 22 yard marker with a smash through center. Faulkner added seven more around right end and Jacobs drove through the line for another first down on Greenbriar's ten yard line. Faulkner made four more and three plunges by Thibodeau carried the ball over. Thibodeau's kicked was blocked.

In the final quarter after Jacobs had intercepted a Cadet pass and returned it to the Greenbriar 42 yard line, Thibodeau made 11 yards in three plays for a first down. Thibodeau and Faulkner gained six yards in the next two rushes, but Thibodeau was then thrown for a yard loss. On the fourth down with five to go, Jacobs tossed a 15 yard pass to Williams for a first down on the Greenbriar 18 yard marker. Faulkner brought the oval four yards closer with a dash around left end, and Thibodeau bumped center for an additional five yards. Faulkner smashed through for a first down on the two yard cross-strip and carried it over in two attempts. Again the try for extra point failed.

Faulkner, Thibodeau, and Jacobs gained steadily through the line and around the ends. Faulkner's twisting cut-backs through tackle, Thibodeau's plunges, and Jacobs' steady gains and accurate heaves were a thorn in the side of the visitors and a great delight to the spectators. Leigh Williams at left end gave a Babe Spotts exhibition of

New Headquarters Welcome Alumni

Returning alumni today will find the Alumni Headquarters incorporated in its new offices and ready to receive all visitors.

A new sign, erected yesterday on the sidewalk in front of the building, informs the alumnus that he is welcome to the club rooms and lounges, and to come in and make himself at home.

Verbon E. Kemp, alumni secretary, has been at work on the building all fall, and has outfitted it in a most attractive way. This fills a need for a suitable alumni headquarters, which Washington and Lee has felt for a long time.

All offices of the Alumni Association and of the Alumni Magazine are located in the building, which is situated in front of the Lee Memorial Church in the former quarters of the Lee Memorial School of Journalism.

snagging passes. Groop, Stillwell, and Faulkner played well on the defense.

For Greenbriar, Winters was the whole offensive show until a vicious tackle by Faulkner slowed him up. Captain Carney and Caudill played stellar ball in the line.

CLASSES END AT 9:00 FOR V. M. I. MORNING GAME

Parade and Inspection Follow With Carolina Game Scheduled For 11 O'clock.

Only one class was held at Virginia Military Institute this morning, due to their Homecoming game with North Carolina University at 11 o'clock. The hour from 8 to 9 was devoted to regular class work, but after that the entire corps was dismissed from further routine work.

The regular Saturday inspection was moved up to 9:30, and immediately following there was a parade and review of the entire corps before the Board of Visitors and officers and members of the Alumni Association of the Institute. Many visitors to both the V. M. I.-North Carolina and the Washington and Lee-Virginia games were on hand at the parade ground to witness the review, which was carried off with customary military display.

Owing to the confinement of the corps by action of the Board of Visitors several weeks ago, the cadets will not be allowed to attend the afternoon game on Wilson Field, but the twenty-six men of the varsity football squad will be given leave during the two hours of the game to attend if they wish.

Those fans holding tickets to the main attraction at 11 o'clock will be allowed to remain on Alumni Field for the game between Augusta Military Academy and Danville Military Institute, which is scheduled to start at 12:45, or immediately following the Cadet-Tarheel fray. Short quarters will probably be played in the prep school battle, so as to give everybody plenty of time to get to Wilson Field and get seated before the opening kick-off of the Generals-Cavalier classic.

Bill Rafferty's outfit will be out to avenge the defeats of the past three years when they tackle the Carolinians this morning. The Cadets have not come off victorious since 1923, when they scored a touchdown and a field goal to win 9 to 0 on Tate Field, Richmond. The following year, at Chapel Hill, the Tarheels came back to eek out a 3 to 0 win, but crashed through at Richmond in 1925 to win 23 to 11. Last year they kept the Cadets away from their goal line at Chapel Hill, and won 28 to 0.

It was the intention of the V. M. I. authorities two years ago to have the game played here instead of at Richmond, but the conflict with the Virginia invasion of Lexington made it appear expedient to keep the scene of battle in the capital city again.

Magann To Recount Meetings.

S. T. Magann, senior in the department of education, who was a delegate from the local Baptist church to the recent Student Conference at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, will speak and give an account of the meeting tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service at Manley Memorial church.

BILL LUKE

Playing his third year for Virginia, Luke has been the bane of many an opponent during his three years' service.

With the most brilliant record in years behind them, the Washington and Lee Generals will clash with the Virginia Cavaliers today in an attempt to keep their Conference slate clean and avenge the defeat suffered last year at the hands of the Orange and Blue.

It will be the last game on Wilson field for Captain Tips, Stearns, Spotts, Fisher, Howe, Dorsey and Latham. These men have never played on a Blue and White eleven which was defeated by the Cavaliers on the home field, and will give everything they have to uphold this record.

The championship of Virginia will probably depend on the outcome of this battle, since the Cavaliers have defeated both V. P. I. and V. M. I. With a victory over Virginia the hope will be heavy for Washington and Lee when they journey to Blacksburg next Saturday to clash with the V. P. I. "Gobblers."

No predictions are being advanced on today's battle, but Washington and Lee surely has the more impressive record. The Generals have been victorious in both of their Conference starts, having defeated Kentucky 25 to 0 and Maryland 13 to 6. The powerful Princeton team alone can boast of a victory over the Blue and White eleven.

Virginia has met defeat in three of their games, all Conference battles. Both the University of Georgia and South Carolina have lowered the standards of the Orange and Blue, and Tennessee overwhelmed the Cavaliers last week 42 to 0.

When fall practice started, Coach Herron found only five Generals missing from last year's eleven. These were Rauber, Palmer, Holt, Whitlock and Rector.

Only one injury marred the early fall training, and this was when Bailey broke his ankle two days before the Lynchburg game. He has been out of the game ever since, but may be in condition to play in the V. P. I. game.

In the early part of the season Towill injured the arch of his foot, and Sproul and Dorsey have alternating in his place at left end.

Spotts and Captain Tips have featured the play of the Generals throughout the season and especially in the Princeton, Kentucky and Maryland games. Spotts' phenomenal ability to cage forward passes, and Tips' great line play have won comments from sports writers in all towns where the Generals have appeared.

Fisher and Fitzpatrick have usually started in the tackle positions, with Hawkins in ready reserve. Their ability to diagnose opponents' nating at center. Groop has always been a tower of strength, and his intercepting a pass was one of the White eleven made a very creditable showing.

The next encounter was with West Virginia and resulted in a 6 to 6 tie.

Groop and Tips have occupied the guard positions throughout the year with Latham and Snodgrass alternately has been a feature, and their furious charges have spelled disaster to many a rival back.

Every game has found Spotts at right end with either Sproul or Dorsey.

JOHN SLOAN

Fast sophomore halfback, starting for the Cavaliers.

LAST YEAR FRESHMEN MAKE GOOD SHOWING ON VARSITY ELEVEN

Five men, three backs and two linemen, products of last years freshman team, have shown great promise on the varsity football squad this year. These five footballers de luxe are Messrs. Barnett, Hawkins, Snodgrass, Eberhardt and Cohen.

Barnett, who is Gene White's understudy at fullback, has seen much service due to White's being on the sick list at various times. His powerful thrusts put huge dents in the forward walls of Duke and Kentucky. It was he who crashed through for the first touchdown against the heavy Blue Devils and he again who carried the ball four out of five times in the last forty-five yard march through the Wildcats of Kentucky.

Bill Hawkins has been in action in practically every game the Generals have played. As an alternate for Fitzpatrick, who is troubled with an injured shoulder, he has worked like a veteran. A terrible man on the defense and driving player on the offense, he will be heard from often next season.

Snodgrass, who has been giving Latham a run for his job at center, is another talented sophomore. On the defense he is one of the hardest men on the squad to get through and is often run in when the Blue and White is forced back into its own territory. His passing is a little erratic at times, but he is learning the art.

Eberhardt, a halfback, is also gaining valuable experience this season in order to be ready to fill in a gap in the next campaign. A flash on the offense, an alert enemy to opponents passes, and a punter of ability, he will be heard from next year.

Cohen is the understudy of Tommy Stearns at quarterback. Although his opportunities to show his wares have been few this season, his ability to lead the interference is of the highest calibre and he appears the logical man to succeed Tommy next season.

Navy Not To Abandon Scouting Says Coach

No new limitation agreement is going to hamper the activities of the Navy yet awhile—that is to say, the Navy football team. The Naval Academy gridders this fall will still be one of the teams free to scout, and to be scouted upon.

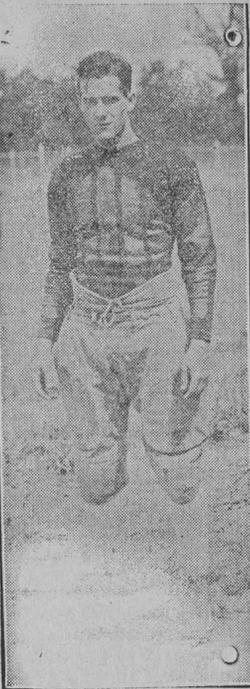

Commander Jonas H. Ingraam, director of athletics at the Naval Academy, is firm in his decision that the Navy will enter into no pact with football rivals to end scouting this year. Such an agreement would lead to distrust, he contends. Navy will enforce the three-year rule beginning in 1928. And this season West Point joined the Midlands in enforcing the Freshman or Plebe rule.—(A.P.)

Graham-Lee Meets Again Nov. 19.
The next meeting of the Graham-Lee society will be held on November 19. The meetings for November 5 and November 12 were postponed on account of the Virginia and the V. P. I. games on these days.

FITZPATRICK

This Roanoke lad has vied with Captain Tips for honors in the line all season, and is death to a man receiving a punt.

BARNETT

"Cutie" is likely to see service in the Generals' fullback position before today's game is over. He is one of the backs from last year's freshman squad who has made the grade this year.

GENERALS HAVE A GOOD RECORD

sely defending the other flank. They are always down under punts and have accounted for a great amount of yardage with the reception of innumerable forward passes.

The versatile backfield composed of Stearns, Howe, Lott, and White, with Barclay, Barnett and Eberhardt in reserve, has won the praise and comment of the entire South. White's and Stearns' line plunges have been unexcelled, and equalled only by the end runs of Howe.

Lynchburg was the Generals' first opponent, and was defeated 26 to 2. The game was witnessed by a small crowd, made up mostly of students. Considering that it was the first game of the season the Blue and The Generals had the best of the battle throughout, and outplayed the heavy "Mountaineer" eleven in every department of the game.

The second home game was with Duke, and it was in this battle that Warner system was pitted against Warner system, men played against the coaching of their former team mates, and the strategy of former W. and L. coach DeHart was used against that of "Pat" Herron, former Duke coach. The game was witnessed by a large crowd of students and outsiders, and the Generals emerged victorious over their heavier opponents, 12 to 7.

Outweighed 20 pounds to the man, the Generals held the powerful Princeton Tigers to 13 points in Palmer stadium the following week. A big crowd of Washington and Lee students made the trip to Princeton and were back of the team throughout the game.

In the first Conference game of the season the Blue and White eleven overwhelmed the Kentucky "Wildcats" 25 to 0 before a crowd of 6,000 persons. This was the best showing the Generals had made to date, the broken field running of Howe being the feature of the battle.

With the odds against them the Generals next encountered the heavy Maryland eleven. With wonderful coordination between the line and backfield the Blue and White romped through the "Old Liners" to emerge victorious 13 to 6. The Washington and Lee band followed the team on this trip.

Prof. Was Wrong

Roland S. Finley, Lafayette College student, won his bet of a good cigar with Professor Miller D. Steever that he could get a job at manual labor without influence within 24 hours of the time he set out looking for it.

Last week Professor Steever told his class unemployment in the United States now was a serious indictment "of our social organization" and it was hard even for a man willing to work to get a job.

Finley, a senior, rose and said he would bet he could get a job in a city nearby in 24 hours. "Done," said Professor Steever.—(A.P.)

Dance Last Evening Opened Festivities

The week-end's festivities were unofficially ushered in last night at the Natural Bridge Hotel, when a subscription dance was held with the Southern Collegians furnishing the music. Over a hundred students, together with most of the alumni who had arrived in town at the time, attended the affair, and practically every girl who had come to Lexington for the game was present.

The dance continued until a late hour, and provided just the right "warming-up" atmosphere necessary to insure a gala day for everybody beginning at 11 o'clock this morning.

The V. M. I.-Carolina game at 11 o'clock, the Augusta Military Academy-Danville Military Institute game immediately following, and the Generals-Cavaliers encounter at 2:45 will provide enough football to satisfy even the most rabid enthusiast, while the subscription dance at the Robert E. Lee Hotel at 12:30 and the Monogram club affair in the gym tonight will provide pastimes for those desirous of tripping the light fantastic.

The first snow of the season fell in Lexington yesterday morning, and football fans for a while feared repetition of the inclement weather of two years ago for the Cavalier game.

Practically Every Va. Student Coming

Over a thousand students from the University of Virginia accompanied by their band, will arrive here about 11 o'clock today for the annual battle between the Cavaliers and Generals. A special train left Charlottesville between 6:30 and 7 o'clock this morning, carrying the majority of the crowd and the band, while two hundred or more drove over in cars last night and early this morning.

A university holiday was declared by President Alderman and the state university authorities for the day, and all students, regardless of whether undergraduates or professional students, have an opportunity to see the game if they desire to.

The special train is expected to leave Lexington about 6:30 although it is probable that most of the men driving over will remain for the Monogram Club dance in the gym tonight.

A collection of manuscripts tracing in official records of the day the British story of the war of the American revolution will be placed permanently in the W. L. Clements library on the campus of the University of Michigan.

The Generals have the first Saturday of real football weather this year for their game today.

BILL LOTT

This star came from Alabama to fill the shoes left vacant by Palmer. Lott is a triple threat man, kicking, passing and running with football's best.

HEINE GROOP

A steady constant guard of the highest rank. Groop has played every minute of this season, but for a few minutes against Princeton.

GENE WHITE

The Generals' fullback crashed into the lime light against Duke when he rose from a sick bed to beat the Blue Devils. Gene is a tower of strength on the defense as well as a plunging back.

RIVALS OF LONG STANDING CLASH

Groop's 183. Latham, center of the Generals, rings the bell at 174, while Taylor of the Orange and Blue is about the same size. On the ends, Washington and Lee has the advantage by virtue of Babe Spotts' 185 pounds.

In the backfield, the Virginia ball carriers Hushion, Sloan, Close, and Hutter, have an average of 169 pounds, while Stearns, Howe, Lott and White of Washington and Lee average one pound less. Hutter, the Cavalier fullback, will be the heaviest man behind the line, his weight being 190 pounds. Stearns of the Generals tips the scales at 183, Gene White at 170, Close, the lefthanded Cavalier half, at 165, and Lott and Howe at 160. Hushion, Virginia field general is the lightest backfield man as he weighs only 155 pounds.

Washington and Lee In Past Years

One year ago this week extensive plans were being made for the University Homecoming Day. However, this homecoming game was with Maryland and not with Virginia.

One year ago this week the Washington and Lee Band made such a good appearance at the University of Virginia game that papers all over the state commented on its showing. Between halves the band marched across Lambeth Field, formed a "V" and played the Virginia song, they then marched down the field again, formed the W. and L. monogram, and played the Swing. This was the first year that the school band was furnished with uniforms.

Two years ago this week Dr. Denny, former president of Washington and Lee and now President of the University of Alabama, returned to make a talk at the rally for the University of Virginia game. He spoke of his regret at having left W. and L. and expressed his desire that both of his teams, Alabama and W. and L. would meet with success in their coming games.

Three years ago this week plans were being made for the Virginia game. A crowd of ten thousand was expected and the Phi Delta Phi goats were to give a parade and "shine" on Wilson Field.

Six years ago this week Washington and Lee was preparing for its first game with Virginia since 1907.

Twenty years ago this week the students of Washington and Lee were creating much comment and bewailing the fact that they did not have a new gymnasium, because their present one then was such a poorly constructed affair.

WASHINGTON AND LEE BOASTS BEST COLLEGE BAND IN "DIXIELAND"

Washington and Lee has the best college band in the South according to the prevailing opinion in the stands following the Maryland game. "Hank" Slanker, director this year, says that scores of Washingtonians complimented the band both for its showing at the game and for the good deportment shown by the men at the dance after the game.

Forty-six bandsmen made the trip to Washington with their expenses, about $400, paid by the Athletic association. On the field they showed their spirit by keeping up a steady cheering for the team. Between halves they marched out on the gridiron, formed the Maryland "M" while playing "My Maryland," and then formed the "WL" to the tune of the "Swing."

At the bi-weekly practices they have been perfecting themselves in several new pieces so as to possess a sufficient musical vocabulary to enable them to continue playing throughout most of the Virginia game. In addition to this general playing they will form the usual "V" and "WL" between halves while playing the respective college songs.

Next Friday they will lead the freshmen pajama parade from the gym up through Main street and into the New Theatre, then to the Corner where they play the "Swing" and disperse.

The band will attend the V. P. I. game with the aid of a threefold system of finance. If this system of finance is adopted the Athletic association will give one third, the bandsmen themselves one third, and the students will be asked to contribute the other third.

Twenty more men are in the band this year than last year. Slanker is holding bi-weekly practices, a thing no other leader in the past has attempted. These are well attended in spite of conflicting labs.

Women Continue To Use Less Cloth In Daily Apparel Here

Casual observers of feminine styles have long been convinced of a fact which now is confirmed by the serious statement of the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, to-wit: that women have decreased the yardage of material needed for their clothes. Since 1919 the amount of cloth required for a dress has decreased from an average of 5 7-8 yards of 36-inch material to a paltry 4 1-6 yards—and in some cases, unless the eye deceives us, to even less.

This reduction of yardage has had a disastrous effect upon some industries. Cotton manufacturers look upon the situation as anything except a joke. All their ingenuity is directed toward redressing the balance. They are in the same position occupied by the trade a few years ago when it was suggested that the missionaries endeavor to induce John Chinaman to add four inches to the tail of his shirt as a handy means of absorbing the cotton surplus.

BAILEY

"Buck" has been out the entire season with a broken ankle sustained in pre-season practice, but may break into the line-up either today or against V. P. I.
