AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

THE eyes of educators throughout the country have been turned on the educational experiment now being conducted in Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, by Hamilton Holt, president of the college.

Imbided by the newer theories of education, Holt took several radical advances in educational methods.

He fired eleven members and the coach of the football team because he found "ringers" had been tolerated.

He abolished all required night study and placed all scholastic required work within a period of eight hours.

He abolished the lecture and recitation system in the class room, and substituted a two hour conference plan where the professor only guides and helps the student.

He established the first professorships in books and ethology.

He increased the salaries of the teaching force by 102 per cent instead of spending the funds for stadiums and athletic fields.

He limited the schools enrollment and began to encourage building up the faculty instead of enlarging the school.

Such is the program upon which Rollins College had been launched. Radical as it may seem, it still has behind it the fundamental theory that college is just what the student makes it, and that no matter how strict the requirements may be, if the student has no desire to acquire an education the process is of no avail.

Regardless of how sound the theory is which Mr. Holt upholds, the question arises as to whether he may not be a little too advanced in his theory in proportion to the practical situation which exists. If students had been brought up in the grammar school and high school on the basis of such a plan. Mr. Holt's theory might be applicable to every college in the country and be a success but the sad thing about it is that our school system is not built in that manner. It is highly possible then for Mr. Holt's plan to be a failure.

However, it should not be our purpose to criticize a plan simply because it is new. The experiment will be watched with careful eyes by people throughout the country, educators in particular. If the experiment is judged a success, it may be followed by other colleges and universities throughout the country until we come to the place that the educational system which we have today will be completely forgotten.—Ohio Wesleyan Transcript.

V. M. I.—W. L. U.

FRIENDSHIP between Virginia Military Institute and Washington and Lee was again clearly evidenced at the Generals' annual football banquet early this week, when Bill Rafferty, head coach at our neighboring institution and former coach and an alumnus here, spoke to the gridders and alumni gathered in the university dining hall.

Bill, speaking with the experience of contact with both schools, stressed the change in attitude which has become apparent within both student bodies, and among the athletes in particular, during the past several years. Changing from an attitude of indifference, and at time of actual bitterness, the two schools have come to be closer than any in the state at this time, and, he stated, it is a genuine pleasure to coaches and players of both schools that cheering sections from the two schools attend each others' games and invariably cheer for their fellow-battlers against whoever may be their opponents.

During the past three or four years it has constantly been the policy of student and administration leaders in both schools to foster the spirit of unity and friendship, and it is with a feeling of distinct pleasure that we see this feeling constantly growing with each school year.

AN IRON HAND

FREEDOM of the press! It is a constitutional right given the newspapers but what does it mean?

Every newspaper should be allowed to print whatever it pleases in the way of opinion and suffer the consequences of the abuse of that right, advocates of the free press will shout.

If there is one battle in the country in which the newspapers are combined into a unity it is the attempt to stem any inroads upon the right to print unhampered opinion.

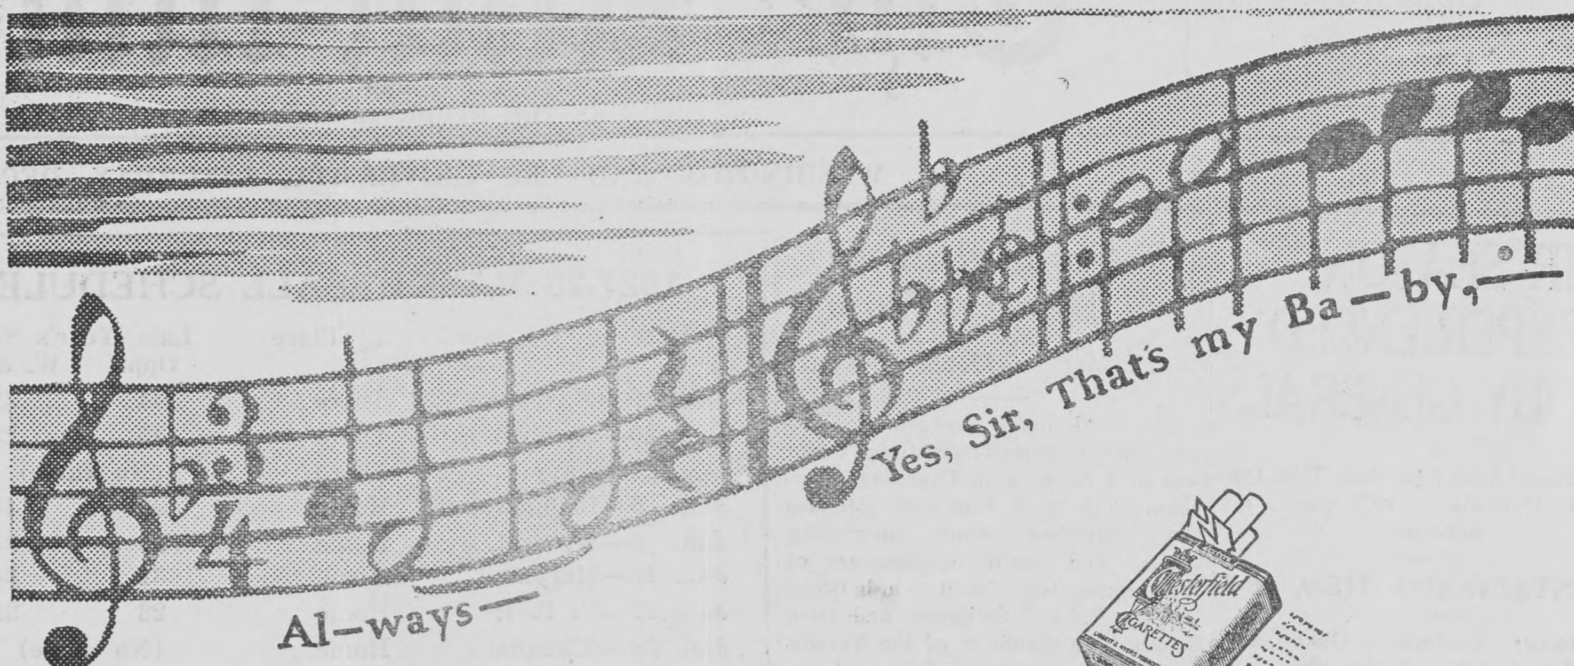

Aligned on the other side are usually the people in political life, those whose position is dependent upon public opinion. If a paper criticises them it may result in the loss of their jobs or at least bring some embarrassment.

OVERHEARD on the subway; a conversation between two Columbia University students:

"I think I got an A in physics and a B or B plus in lit. I hope so, anyway."

"Wait until you've been in school a couple of years; you won't think so much of grades. All you'll want is a good time. You'll realize you don't know anything and don't know what you're here for anyhow."

"Oh, Neitzsche! Schopenhauer! you're a radical aren't you?"

President's Paragraph

No. 14 1927-28

"Scholarship for its own Sake" — The academic idealists of a past age, defending and perpetuating certain kinds of education, held that the joy of research and acquisition, "scholarship for its own sake", was a sufficient motive and reason for zealous and prolonged study.

Today a more utilitarian age, realizing that a youth's learning-time is woefully short and fatally overcrowded, regards the zealous pursuit of useless knowledge for the sake of mental exercise as a costly and foolish failure to use one's time and brains to the best advantage.

The Gray Phantom

"Prospective hunters — apply within." This sign should be put on the front door of one of the local fraternity houses, for within said mysterious circle resides a famous turkey hunter.

Not long ago one of the boys shouldered a gun and started off in quest of wild turkey—in view of the Thanksgiving season. From this point the tales that are told are not in harmony.

Evidently, the hunter was unable to find any of the wild species of turkey, and to prevent his returning home empty handed, leaned over a fence and in cold blood slew one of Farmer Brown's prize fowls.

Well the boys at the house did eat turkey—but not long afterward said Farmer Brown, a faithful replica of the astute Sherlock Holmes, appeared at the fraternity house with a bill for one turkey—$22.00.

The following sign will soon be put up outside the fraternity house—"For sale—a shotgun, only used once—$22.00." Once was enough, and store bought turkey is just as good.

Professor Charles Light spent his holidays at his old home in Washington, and Professor Fitzgerald Flournoy enjoyed his holidays with relatives near Richmond.

Tank Practice Is Held Daily

Swimming practice is held daily at four o'clock by Coach Twombly now that the intra-mural Basketball league is over. This new schedule will give the men a chance to get in shape for the meets which follow closely after the Christmas vacation.

The varsity and freshmen squad, holding practices together, consists of about sixty men. Many new men have reported to practice in the last few days since football season is over. Among them is Moffett from last years team who is considered one of the most outstanding swimmers in school.

The schedule for the team has not been completed, but a meet with Duke University has been closed and a southern trip is being contemplated.

COMPLIMENTARY LETTER RECEIVED BY MINK EDITOR

Commending the Student Body of Washington and Lee highly for its conduct during football games, a letter of such praise has just been received by Wilton M. Garrison, editor-in-chief of the 1927-28 "Mink". The letter follows:

Washington, D. C.
Editor "The Mink",
Washington and Lee,
Lexington, Va.
Dear Sir:

While in Lexington for the Virginia game I noticed the following editorial in "The Mink":

"Two teams of gentlemen meet today in conflict. Both will fight to the last whistle. One of them will win. It will be the best one and the victory will not be begrudged. Nor easily won".

I wish to take this opportunity to heartily commend you for such a statement and also to say that the actions of your student body clearly showed that they shared your sportsmanlike attitude. When received in such a manner your opponents feel that they are welcome on your campus. It is indeed appreciated.

A growing evil noticeable at some games in the North is the practice of one side "Boo-ing" their disapproval of the tactics of their opponents. Let us hope this will never reach the South. Such good sportsmanship and keen rivalry as evidenced in the Virginia game should endure. Here's hoping it will.

Respectfully yours,
Howard M. Lloyd,
Alumnus of Virginia and an ex-V. M. I. Keydet.

Only One Student Handled by Comm.

Only one student received disciplinary action at the hands of the student dance control committee, which met Monday night to hear complaints and reports on conduct at the Thanksgiving set of dances.

The general impression around the campus, although not expressed officially by the committee, is that the student body continued to uphold the student authorities in their efforts to maintain order and to enforce the regulations at all social functions.

SOUTHERN COLLEGIANS PLAY TWICE IN ROANOKE

The Southern Collegians played for two dances in Roanoke last week at the Hotel Roanoke, on both Thursday and Friday nights. They made a very favorable impression on the guests.

Manager "Toot" Gibson announced that he was at the present time planning an extensive trip for the orchestra during the Christmas holidays. He does not as yet know definitely where this trip will be. He is attempting to make it include either North and South Carolina or Tennessee and Alabama.

You'll like P.A. and how!

OPEN a tidy red tin of Prince Albert and give your olfactory nerve a treat. Never have you met an aroma that had so much come-and-get-it. Some fragrance, Fellows. And that's just a starter. Load up and light up. . . .

Cool as final exams. Sweet as passing. Mild as cafe au lait—mild, but with that rich, full-bodied flavor that bangs your smoke-gong right on the nose on every fire-up. You'll like this long-burning Prince Albert in the bowl of a pipe. And how!

One of the first things you notice about P.A. is that it never bites your tongue or parches your throat, no matter how wide you open the smoke-throttle. It is one tobacco that never wears out its welcome. You can stoke and smoke to your heart's content, with P.A. for packing. Get some Prince Albert now and get going!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Mr. Bauer To Read Christmas Carrol

Reading of Dickens' "Christmas Carrol" by Professor Bauer, and singing of old English carrols by the Glee Club will constitute the pre-Christmas entertainment offered by the English department in Lee Chapel Thursday, December 15, at 8 P. M.

Mr. Bauer, professor of public speaking, is a trained reader, and his interpretation should lend new beauty and meaning to Dickens' most charming work. The audience will join in the singing of some of the old English carrols, while the more difficult and unfamiliar ones will be rendered by the Glee Club, accompanied by Professor Shelley on the organ. The chapel will be decorated with holly and mistletoe.

The singing of Christmas carrols is an old custom which has been allowed to lapse of late on this campus. It is hoped that this entertainment may re-establish the custom and bring additional breath of Christmas to both town and campus.

All townspeople of Lexington, as well as all students, are cordially invited.

Miss Helen Rockwell, librarian, spent Thanksgiving in Washington.

Student Loan Fund Has Few Applicants

Washington and Lee students have not availed themselves of the Storer Loan Fund as they have in previous years, Dr. W. M. Brown, chairman of the Faculty loan committee, stated recently. There have been only two applicants for the use of this fund this year, and only one loan has been granted so far; the other being subject to consideration and investigation by the committee at the present time.

The Harmon Foundation administers these loans to Washington and Lee University under the name of the Storer Student's Loan Fund. The total value of the Washington and Lee fund is one thousand dollars, which is administered to student applicants in varying sums according to the needs of the student and the number of applications handed in to the committee. Loans are granted only after investigation and consideration by the faculty loan committee. This committee is composed of Mr. Latture, Dr. Desha, and Dr. Brown as chairman.

Dr. Brown in speaking for the committee stated that as only two students had made applications so far, there was money still available from this fund. He further advised that students wishing to make use of the loans hand in their applications in the near future, as applications cannot be accepted after February 1.

Only Two Classes At 1 On Saturday

Only two classes in the University meet at one o'clock on Saturdays. These are French 101-2, with an enrollment of 18, taught by Professor Thompson, and Biology 103-4, with 20 students, under Dr. Hoyt.

According to Dr. Hoyt, the Biology class has been meeting at this hour for more than twenty years. It was scheduled for this hour when he came here thirteen years ago, and has continued at the same time since.

Dr. Hoyt stated yesterday that there would in all probability be a shift of other classes to that hour next year. He also said that at certain hours of the morning there are no courses open to first year men, and that this problem would perhaps be remedied by the change.

A faculty committee has been appointed to investigate these difficulties in the class schedule, and a report from them is due on December 12. At this time the committee appointed to report on the possible results of starting classes at eight-thirty is also expected to make a report.

Rogers May Not Return To Coach

Speaking at a football banquet held at Chester this week, head coach Ira E. Rodgers, of West Virginia, indicated that he may not serve as head football mentor at his Alma Mater after the 1928 season. His contract expires at that time, and he states that next year might be his last year with the Mountaineers.

Coach Rodgers has been the target for some severe criticisms on the part of various individuals. These individuals have been at no pains to conceal the fact that they considered Coach Rodgers' method the main cause for West Virginia's disastrous season. Harry A. Stansbury, director of athletics, has soundly defended Rodgers, however, and made the statement that as far as he himself was concerned, Rodgers would again be asked to direct the Mountaineers. Coach Rodgers would not amplify the statement concerning his withdrawal, and refused to make any further comments.

Tablet Erected To Old Servants

There was put in place in courthouse square a simple and enduring monument to the old servants of slave times in Rockbridge. It is a massive, gray, granite boulder, to be seen standing out over-looking Washington street near the side entrance to the square. Upon the rough surface towards the street there is encased a bronze tablet, bearing, in raised letters, this inscription:

"A tribute by the white friends of Rockbridge county in grateful remembrance of the faithfulness and loyalty of the old servants of the past."

"They loved their owners and were trusted and loved by them." The boulder was quietly put into position. No ceremonies attended the placing. It is forty inches high, thirty-three inches broad, and fifteen inches deep.

BOXING CANDIDATES REPORT FOR TRIALS

Captain Bill Price and his veterans of the 1927 pugilistic squad started their season's work this afternoon in the boxing room on the second floor of the gym. A call for all candidates for both varsity and frosh squads has been issued for tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, and at that time real practice preliminary to the winter's schedule will start.

A number of the men have been working out together for some time, and the start of daily sessions will find many of the men in condition to get down to hard training from the outset.

Cold Snows Replace Warm Weather Here

Ole Man Winter after a record delay, has finally made his appearance. He came in a series of rains and snow and with each his breath came stronger. No one knows why the tardiness, but he seems to find it harder to swing south each year. Nor does he come in such fierce gales as formerly nor seem to stay as long. Perhaps he is growing a little weary and tired of the monotonous grind.

Lexington, for the past few weeks, has almost seemed like spring, and passers-by would almost catch themselves startled at seeing show windows decorated for Christmas. Athletic teams have never experienced finer weather in which to practice, and many sports formerly disbanded in the early fall have been participated in almost into the bounds of December.

LINDY GETS STILL ANOTHER GREAT HONOR

Mussolini is not the most important man in world news, or Ruth Elder the most important woman, journalism students at Northwestern University have voted.

The distinction instead has been given to Colonel Lindergh and Henry Ford among the men and to Queen Marie among the women.

Mrs. Coolidge, Ruth Elder Helen Wills and Jane Addams received several votes to rank them just below the Rumanian queen as of major world news importance. (A. P.)

Y. M. C. A. To Have Feature Social Tuesday

Special music, a W. & L. professor as speaker and a social will feature the Y. M. C. A. meeting next Tuesday, it was announced today.

Delegates to the national convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, which will be held in Detroit December 28 to January 1, will be elected at this meeting.

The various committees will make reports concerning their activities so far this year, and an open forum discussion will follow in which suggestions for the improvement of the Y. M. C. A. will be discussed.

W. and L. In The Past

1907
The third annual Ball Rush between the Sophomore and Freshman classes was waged on Wilson field Saturday, September 26. To a spectator the fight was one of the most interesting ever witnessed and it resulted in a 25 to 0 victory for the freshmen.

1914
The remains of Captain Robert E. Lee, the sole surviving son of Gen. Robert E. Lee, commander-in-chief of the Confederacy, were laid to rest in the family vault in the Lee Memorial Chapel Friday morning, October 25.

1926
An unusual sight was afforded the people of Lexington and the neighboring country side, when the "Virginia Creeper", "main line" of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, the Wednesday morning following Christmas, drew the first real Pullman into the valley metropolis that had been here for years. The natives for miles around gathered at the station to view the unheard of spectacle. The Pullman was arranged for by Washington and Lee students to come direct from Norfolk to Lexington via the Norfolk and Western and the Chesapeake and Ohio railways.

Alpha Sigma To Initiate.

Alpha Sigma, freshman honorary English society, will hold its initiation of new men at 7:30, Tuesday, December 6, in room 106 Washington college. Albert Steves, president, requests that all old men be present at this meeting.

Visitors Continue To Come To Chapel

One day it is raining. The next is bright and cold. A third brings the icy grip of a winter snow. Yet day in and day out visitors come to the Lee Memorial Chapel in a steady stream in homage to Robert E. Lee, the great Southern chieftain.

The frigid blasts of the winter months do cause a decrease in the number of visitors there, but not a day passes when at least twenty persons do not enter the chapel.

A total of 2835 visitors are recorded for the month of November, showing a gain of 1427 over the same month last year, when the number of persons registered totalled 1408. Among these are tourists from every state in the union and many from abroad.

The effect of the unenforced regulation concerning an admission fee to the shrine is little. The amount of $28 was collected during the past month, some of which was for the sale of books, dealing with the story of the chapel. The rest was derived from voluntary contributions.

Public Speaking Banquet Dec. 14

To create a more real atmosphere for the delivery of speeches, Mr. Bauer, professor of public speaking, has arranged a banquet for the four public speaking classes, to be held at the Dutch Inn on Wednesday, December 14, at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Bauer stated that in a class room the audience is too small, and the atmosphere too artificial, to bring out the best in a speaker; consequently this banquet is being held to give the students an opportunity to deliver their speeches in a more natural environment and to a larger audience.

About 50 students are expected to attend. F. B. Clower will act as toastmaster, and speeches will be made by H. E. Bemis, F. R. T. Alford, M. W. McFarlin, J. P. Davis, P. W. Sherrell, and J. E. Taylor.

SOUTHERN COLLEGES EXPECTED TO DEBATE W. & L. IN LEXINGTON

B. J. Wagner, manager of the debating team, announced that he is negotiating with several universities and expects to have a number of engagements booked for the winter months. He is now in correspondence with the teams of the universities of Alabama, Florida, Columbia, and Gettysburg College. All these debates will be held in Lexington. As yet, no definite arrangements have been made. Wagner is also negotiating for a southern trip, in which the team will oppose the leading debaters of the southern schools.

The last debate, with the British team, held in Lee Chapel, November 19, drew a crowd of 250. The Washington and Lee team, upholding the affirmative, won by the close vote of 114 to 119. The question argued was: Resolved, that co-education is a failure.

Since the faculty does not allow the debating team either to charge admission or ask for contributions in Lee Chapel, the debate was financed from the funds appropriated by the University for the use of the Debating Council.

The Debating Council is attempting to secure questions which will be of interest to the students, and desires that suggestions be given it by all who are interested.

Cat Coach Wishes Players Kept Off All-State Team

Harry Gammage, coach of the University of Kentucky football team, said recently he hoped no sports writer or anybody else would pick a member of his team on an all-state eleven.

He explained that since the university is the only member of the Southern Conference in this state and plays stronger teams than do the other Kentucky elevens, he did not think it would be fair to consider the Wildcats for all-state teams.

"We are primarily interested in the Southern Conference," Gammage said, "and if my boys are not named for all-Southern teams, I do not want them mentioned on any team. (A. P.)"

Frosh Court Team Starts Work After Holidays

Because of the crowded condition of the gym each afternoon with other mid-winter sports, freshman basketball practice will not begin until January. The opening engagement for the yearlings is not scheduled until late in that month and Coach Davis believes that he will have ample time to develop a formidable combination.

Coach Davis will again take charge of the frosh and reports that there seems to be a wealth of material. He feels confident that he will be able to effect a combination that will rival the power of the crack frosh club of last season.
