

CAVALIERS TO MEET LOCALS TUESDAY NIGHT

Virginia State Basketball Championship Will Be At Stake

FINAL GAME OF YEAR

Neither Team Has Lost a Game to a Team Within State This Year

The Virginia State basketball championship will be at stake next Tuesday night when the University of Virginia sends its veteran team to invade the camp of the Generals. The game will also bring down the curtain on the 1927-28 schedule for the Blue and White tossers and, unless the club enters the Southern Conference tournament at Atlanta, it will be the final engagement of the year.

The Virginia stronghold is confident of avenging its setback of last season. With four veterans of former years gracing the line-up, the Cavaliers have made an enviable record thus far this season and their men are in the best condition in anticipation of the fray. The Virginians have won 16 contests to date over the strongest in this section and the South and have dropped but six. Two games each have been taken from V. M. I., V. P. I., and South Carolina, and individual games have been won from Maryland, Stevens Tech, Catholic U., Johns-Hopkins, Richmond U., Hampden-Sidney, Randolph-Macon, Lynchburg College, Sewanee, and South Carolina.

Millen, giant center, is leading the club in scoring with Jones and Tyler close behind. Frank Meade, of Lexington, Va., captain of the invaders, has been shifted to guard this winter after two previous years at forward, while Sam Fayonsky is holding down the other guard post. Reports from Charlottesville rate this combination as the strongest that has represented Virginia in many years.

The outlook is not so bright for the Generals. The club has received several annoying set-backs of late and the smooth working combination of the early season has lately lost much of its polish. But neither players or the coach are pessimistic. Rather, they seem confident that defeats handed the Cavaliers for the past two years will be repeated. Except for Lowry who is not in top condition, the entire club is in good shape and is anxiously awaiting the fray.

This game marks the final appearance on the home court and against Virginia of Captain Spotts, Howe, and Eglebach. Last season the work of Spotts led the Generals to 25-20 victory over their ancient rivals, and 1926 saw both Howe and Spotts scintillate in routing the Cavaliers 46-27. Virginia's last victory came in 1925.

Collegians to Play on "Ile De France"

An important change in the schedule of the Southern Collegians, who will spend the summer in Europe, was announced this week by T. G. Gibson, business manager of the orchestra.

The Collegians will sail from New York on the S. S. Rochambeau on July 12. Instead of returning on this same steamer on September 29 as it was originally planned, the orchestra will board the S. S. Ile De France in Havre, France, on August 29 for the United States.

This change is considered very fortunate by the management of the Collegians since it will give the Washington and Lee orchestra the honor of playing on the finest modern steamship afloat. The S. S. Ile De France is the latest in steamship art and construction, and is the pride of the French Line, with whom the Collegians are under contract.

The Southern Collegians will land in Havre and will go directly to Paris, where they will make official phonograph records for the Pathe Company. The orchestra will remain in Europe over a month, playing throughout France, Italy and Spain, and in England.

Gamecocks Give Generals Second Defeat of Week

Blue and White Find Going Rough as South Carolina Marches On

The South Carolina Gamecocks handed the Generals another conference defeat Thursday night in Doremus gym by a 51-45 score. W. & L. was in front but once, when they lead 11-10 after a few minutes of playing. With but five minutes to go they succeeded in tying it up at 40—all but were unable to get into the lead.

The game ended in sensational style. Carolina was leading 44-43 with less than two minutes to play, and it looked like anybody's game with both teams fighting to get possession of the ball. Farr was given a free show which he made good to give the visitors a two-point lead. Following this the Gamecocks dropped in three baskets in succession within forty seconds to sew up the game. The Generals fought back, with White sinking a sensational shot from the tip-off, but the final whistle cut short whatever chance they had of winning.

South Carolina jumped into the lead following the opening whistle, and was leading 5-0 before Lowry sank a basket and a foul. The Gamecocks counted three more points before a free throw by Spotts and two pretty baskets by Lowry and Eglebach knotted the score. Clark sank two fouls for the visitors and then Wood came thru with a fast dribble and sank one for two points to again tie it up. Lowry made a free throw good to put the Generals into the lead 11 to 10, the only time of the game.

The visitors immediately began to make good on fast playing and some sensational long shooting. By the end of the half they were leading 30-23 mainly through the work of Holcombe, center, and Fair, a fast forward.

'28 Calyx Nearing Completion Says Editor M. Davis

Work on the 1928 Calyx is fast nearing completion, McRee Davis, Editor-in-Chief, announced yesterday. All the Senior panels, with the exception of three, have been sent to the printers, and with the opening section approved, the Calyx is a certainty.

The Beauty Section is not yet completed, but will be picked by ten men, selected by the editor, within the next five days.

Of those photographs of girls which have been submitted by students, sixteen pictures will be chosen, to be set in ovals on a black background, with an olive border. The Feature and Beauty section will be larger than in any preceding Calyx, the Feature section to contain numerous interesting photographs.

White's photographer will be on the campus at the end of this week, but will not take any more individual pictures, only to secure such group pictures as are yet unphotographed.

Work on the book will be rushed as fast as possible, so that it may be published on time. It will be delivered in Lexington by the 15th of May.

NO DOUBLE CUTS FOR WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22

According to a statement from the registrar's office, cuts taken before or after Washington's birthday, February 22, will not count double. The absence regulations of the university state that cuts count double four days before and after the Thanksgiving vacation, the Christmas holidays, the Easter recess, and the first four days of the second semester.

PRESS CONVENTION

The Interscholastic Press Association will hold its annual convention here again this year, May 10, 11 and 12. The meeting will be sponsored by the Lee School of Journalism and the Pi Delta Epsilon journalistic fraternity. Plans are underway now and further announcements will soon be made.

ENTRIES FOR SOUTH ATLANTIC TOURNEY BEING FILED RAPIDLY

Some of Best Teams of This Section Have Formally Entered With Several More Entries Expected Soon; All Must Return Blanks By February 25

Entries for the fifth annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament, which will be held here March 1-2-3, will close February 25, R. A. Smith, director of the tournament, announced today. Already some of the best high and prep school teams in the South Atlantic States have formally entered the tournament.

"Our aim this year is to get better teams," says Mr. Smith; "several prep school teams are coming that were not here last year." The list of the teams participating in the tournament will be published next week.

Winning teams and star players will be given handsome cups, medals, and other trophies donated by Lexington business men. These trophies will be placed on exhibition at the Corner next Monday.

Saturday night, following the final game of the tournament, an informal will be held for the visiting players. The Southern Collegians will furnish the music. After the dance Dr. Henry Louis Smith will present the trophies to the tournament winners. Each day of the tournament one session will begin at two in the afternoon, and another at 7 o'clock at night.

Special student tickets will be sold for one dollar. They admit students to all sessions except the final game Saturday night. The regular admission price is fifty cents for each session. A campaign for selling students tickets will begin on February 27.

Fraternities will again house the visiting players, each fraternity caring for one team.

Expense of sending a basketball team to the South Atlantic Tournament is very little, for the gate receipts are distributed among the teams in proportion to the distance they have traveled, while the team's board and lodging is taken care of by the fraternities.

W. S. Gooch, Jr. will again act as head official. R. A. Smith has appointed special committees to take charge of various phases connected with the tournament. The chairmen of these committees follow: George Lanier, finance and advertising; J. W. Alderson, Jr., entertainment; W. D. Bach, arrangement; A. L. McCordell, reception; and P. R. Harrison, publicity. H. P. Johnston, official scorer with E. H. Ould as announcer.

This tournament was originated in 1924 by Graduate Manager R. A. Smith. John Marshall High, of Richmond, was champion over 198 other teams in that first tournament. The L. and fought for tournament honors. Staunton Military Academy emerged as champion.

In 1926 Oak Ridge Institute from North Carolina was champion of the twenty teams participating and last year 21 teams came to the tournament with John Marshall High of Richmond getting the championship for a second time.

DR. BROWN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION OF VIRGINIA COLLEGES

Dr. William M. Brown, head of the Department of Psychology and Education, was elected president of the Association of Virginia Colleges for the year 1928-29, at the meeting of the association, February 10-11 at Richmond. President Charles J. Smith, of Roanoke College, was elected vice president, and Dean William T. Hodges, College of William and Mary, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Brown addressed the meeting Saturday morning. His subject was "Vocational Guidance on the College Level." In stressing the need of vocational guidance in colleges, Dr. Brown used statistics which he has gathered for the past several years at Washington and Lee. Speaking of the situation at W. & L., he said, "Records of 1569 men who entered college during the years 1920-1924 inclusive, show that 75 per cent made some choice before or during their college careers; 25 per cent made no choice whatever up to the time of their leaving college; and some wrote down undecided for two, three and four years in succession.

Dr. Brown then asked, "What can be done?" and closed his address by giving in detail the various ways by which vocational guidance may be successfully carried out.

Indoor Trackmen Compete Tonight in Richmond Meet

Generals Out to Defeat Virginia For Third Time in Relay Race

The Washington and Lee indoor track squad, including Sandifer, Brock, Backus and Simmons in the relay; Captain Reardon and Patterson in the hurdles, Sproul in the high jump, Butler in the two-mile, and the freshman relay team of Grant, Bigham, Shepherd, and Dickey competes tonight in the University of Richmond's annual indoor track meet at the Gray's Armory.

One of the feature events is the annual dual relay between Washington and Lee and Virginia, which the Generals have won for the last two years. If the Duke team fails to enter the meet, Maryland, the conqueror of Pennsylvania and Harvard, will enter the race with Washington and Lee and Virginia.

Simmons, who will run as anchor man, is the only member of last year's winning combination left. As third to carry the baton last year, Simmons added twenty yards to the Generals, ten yard lead to practically clinch the race. Sandifer will start for Washington and Lee, and will be followed in order by Brock and Backus. Coach Fletcher is confident of his relay team's ability to make it three straight over the Cavaliers, and feels that his combination will make up in condition and enthusiasm what it lacks in experience.

"The best freshman relay team Washington and Lee has ever had," according to Coach Fletcher, "will tackle the Virginia yearlings in what should be a beautiful race." Reports from Charlottesville state that three of last year's prep school champions are running for the Little Cavaliers.

Grant will lead the Washington and Lee procession, with Bigham and Shepherd following in order and Dickey running as anchor man. Reardon and Patterson placed second and third respectively in the continued on page 4

Varsity and Frosh Swimmers Have Two More Meets to Go

With only two more meets scheduled for both the Varsity and freshman swimmers, Coach Twombly has been putting his men through extra hard workouts for the past week. Monday the Frosh journey to Staunton to meet Staunton Military Academy and complete the schedule next Saturday when they accompany the Varsity to Charlottesville to meet the University of Virginia. Catholic University meets the Varsity here on March 3 in their final.

The Varsity with a victory over Duke University last Saturday to their credit, is working hard in preparation for the coming meet with the Cavaliers in order to keep their slate clean.

With the experience of four meets in their favor and strenuous practices all this week the Freshmen should have a good chance Monday to avenge their defeat by the cadets earlier in the season.

University Catalog Expected March 20

The new university catalogue will be published about March 20, according to Professor C. E. L. Gill, who is in charge of the editing of it.

This edition of the catalogue will not contain the new schedule for classes to be adopted next September, however, since this schedule has not yet been given the official approval of the faculty.

A committee consisting of Dr. Wooten, chairman, and Professors Gill, Coan, Paxton, Williams, and Graham, is working on the new schedule, however, and it is probable that a supplementary edition of the catalogue will be printed in order to outline the new system.

SIGMA INITIATES WEDNESDAY

Sigma, honorary Senior Society, will hold its initiation on Washington's birthday, Wednesday, February 22, as is customary, it is was announced today. The usual "shines" will be carried out by the "goats," including a parade through the streets singing their song, and a reading of the Litany in front of Washington College at 3:30 o'clock.

GENERALS DOWN FIGHTING TEAM FROM SEWANEE

Locals Win 54 to 30 After Losing Two Games This Week

SPOTTS SCORES 20 POINTS

Eglebach and Thigpen and Smith of Tigers Tie for Second Place Scoring

Washington and Lee's varsity basketballers recovered from their recent slump and emerged victorious from a high-scoring contest with Sewanee, score 54-30.

Led by Captain Spotts, the Generals fought hard to maintain a lead at half time and returned in the second half to run up a substantial score.

Coach Smith started a new combination with Wood and Gordon in guard positions, Spotts at center and White and Ebert forwards. This team found the going rough, and after ten minutes of play Lowry and Eglebach assumed the forward positions with the score standing at 10-7 in favor of Sewanee. Joynes replaced Wood, and a few minutes later Howe took over the other guard position. The Generals soon found themselves and spurred to 19-12 at half time. They were never in danger thereafter.

Spotts continued his high scoring by amassing 20 points. Eglebach, and two of the visitors, Thigpen and Smith, followed closely with 12 points each.

WILLIAM HAINES STARS IN "WEST POINT" PICTURE

William Haines, who scored notable successes in "Tell It To The Marines," "Slide Kelly, Slide," and "Brown of Harvard," is to be on the screen at the New Theatre next week in "West Point", a story of a youth who sought to win the heart of the girl of his dreams with brass buttons.

The brass buttons take him through all kinds of laughs and tears until it brings him the love of Joan Crawford, who, in this picture, is said to be even more alluring than she has appeared in other Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer successes. In one scene Haines is torn between love and duty and the battle of the heart with the head is said to furnish plenty of laughs and tears.

PROHIBITION ON THREE FRONTS

THAT unsettled questions have no regard for the repose of nations is true of Prohibition. It cannot be kept out of the news. Wherever men are gathered to discuss questions of public policy it makes its appearance.

Here is the New York City Bar Association by a vote of nearly three to one resolving that the dry law is "in derogation of the liberties of the citizens and rights of the States" and that both the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act should be repealed. Leave the question to the States, say the lawyers.

Here is Assemblyman Jenks introducing in Albany his Local Option Bill, which with his Republican fellow-mmembers is about as popular as small-pox. If Mr. Jenks has his way a referendum must be held in November to determine, county by county, whether the people desire the re-enactment, locally, of a new enforcement act. This proposal takes the place of a general enforcement bill which Mr. Jenks' associate from Broome County, Senator Wales, refused to introduce in the Senate. "Why can't Jenks let it alone?" is the complaining comment of the harassed legislators.

In Washington the House passes a $13,000,000 appropriation for the Prohibition Bureau. About $15,000,000 in the Coast Guard budget will be used also for dry-law enforcement. The disciplined majority rejected an amendment intended to stop the issue of the poisoned liquor that kills so many reckless drinkers. They ignored Mr. La Guardia's challenge to show their sincerity by appropriating $200,000,000 or $250,000,000 in a real attempt to enforce the law. It would probably fail, but it would at least show good faith. What the House did was futile. And it was hypocritical.

So there is the news for a single day of the dry battle on three fronts. Everywhere Prohibition is entrenched. Everywhere it fights on the defensive.—New York World.

BASEBALL LOSING ITS GRIP

IN ORDER to stimulate interest in baseball among the small boys of the country, the American Legion has set on foot a movement, backed by the financial as well as moral support of the major leagues, to bring 100,000 youngsters under seventeen years of age into annual competition on the diamond. The plan calls for State, regional and national tournaments, the ultimate winners to be the guests at the world Series in October between the penant winners in the American and National Leagues. Judge Kensaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, and the presidents of the two major leagues have voted to appropriate $50,000 toward defraying its expenses.

The very fact that such a plan should be considered necessary will be construed in many quarters as a tacit admission that baseball, though enjoying the greatest gate receipts in its history last season, is on the wane as a sport. College baseball, for example, is fast assuming the status of a minor sport though it was once the most popular branch of college athletics. The college boys are said to prefer boxing, wrestling and basketball to the diamond game and of course none of them compares in popular interest with football. The bat and glove are no longer the seasmie to a youngster's heart. The mashie and the driver have taken the place of the mask and the mitt in his affections. Golf, as well as football, takes precedence over baseball in popular interest except in and near the large cities that are represented by teams in one or the other of the major leagues.—Roanoke Times.

Miss Frank Resigns As Superintendent

Miss Mattie Frank, superintendent of Jackson Memorial hospital since its opening fourteen years ago, has resigned. Mrs. Clyde Morehead, of near Stuart's Draft, is acting as temporary superintendent pending the securing of a permanent official by the hospital authorities.

Miss Frank spent some time during the World War in France with the American expeditionary forces, but aside from that interruption and a few short vacations, has been on constant duty at the hospital since its opening. She will remain for several days with Mrs. Morehead assisting in acquainting the new chief with the details of the hospital operation.

"Modern Number" To Feature Mink Issue

"The Modern Number" of The Mink will appear on the campus on February 29, according to an announcement today by Wilton M. Garrison, editor-in-chief.

This issue of the university humorous magazine will be the fifth to appear during the 1927-28 session. The last one appeared January 30, during the Mid-Winter dances, and proved to be exceedingly popular as the annual "Fancy Dress Number."

The theme of the "Modern Number" will be modern literature and art, with a trend toward the futuristic and modernistic, according to Editor Garrison. A particularly attractive cover will appear on the issue, and art work and literature of a different and new type will fill the pages.

All material must be in by the dead-line date, which is tomorrow at midnight.

A recent subscription campaign conducted by George S. DePass, business manager, proved to be a success. The Mink this year has the largest number of subscriptions in its history, and also the largest newstand sale. Approximately 2000 copies are distributed locally and nationally each month.

FACULTY-STUDENT CONFERENCES URGED BY CORNELL SUN

Regular faculty-student conferences for discussion of faculty legislation pertaining to students is suggested by the CORNELL SUN to "promote greater understanding and insure complete cooperation in questions directly concerning the undergraduate body." The Sun believes a representative group of students meeting with the faculty would do much to remove mutual irritation.

The proposal is not new. Elsewhere it has been presented in student attempt to gain access to faculty meetings. These efforts generally have been fruitless, presumably on the ground that the students are not sufficiently mature to be of aid to the administrators. However, some of the kindlier teachers have let it be known that the faculties are not so much afraid of the danger that the inane character of most faculty meetings may become too generally known.—(N.S.S.)

Grapplers to Meet Princeton and F-M.

The wrestling team, under the leadership of Captain "Mike" Sellgman will leave next Friday after classes for Princeton to engage the Orange and Black matmen in a meet Saturday night.

The team will spend Sunday in New York and leave Monday for Lancaster, Pa., that night they will take on the Franklin and Marshall grapplers.

This is the first time in several years that the Blue and White has had a match with Princeton, but the enagement with Franklin and Marshall is a return match, the Pennsylvanians having won from the Generals last year in Doremus gymnasium.

Coach Mathis has not announced the definite line-up as yet, but will be prepared to do so next Wednesday.

SEEK YE NO FURTHER, DIOGENES . . .

THIS jobbie Diogenes was a Greek who left his fruit stand for the commendable purpose of questing for honesty by good old-fashioned lamp-light. And now, loud and ever clearer, rings the cry from the housetops: "Diogenes—throw away your lantern . . . here's an honest cigarette! Have a Camel!"

Camels have but one raison d'être—to pack the smoke-spots of the world with the "fill-fullment" every experienced smoker seeks. Fill your own smoke-spot with a cool cloud of Camel smoke, and hear it sing out—"Eureka!" (from the Greek, "Eureka," meaning—"Obey, here 'tis!").

Lexington Sang
"Dixie" When Lee
Statue Arrived

An interesting story is told of the arrival of the statue of Lee in Lexington by an eye-witness of one of the little town's greatest days. When General Lee died, the people of Virginia, war-poor as they were, formed the Lee Memorial Association and commissioned Valentine to make the statue which excites the admiration of all who see it in the simple little Chapel on the University grounds. The people could raise only $32,000 for the work and when the statue was completed and ready to be removed from Richmond all funds were exhausted. The two literary societies of Richmond College provided the money to transport the statue by canal boat, and their offer was accepted. When it arrived in Lexington, the whole town and countryside had turned out and was well organized to receive it. General Bradley T. Johnson—that gallant Marylander who led the famous "Maryland Line" in the Confederate army—was the marshal of the day. The committee who came with the statue, asked for horses to draw the wagon upon which the statue was loaded from the canal boat to General Lee's grave. "Horses," said General Johnson, "no horse flesh shall ever pull the statue of our Lee through the streets of Lexington." But we will let our old friend tell the rest of the tale in his own words:

"A man came down the double column with a long grass rope and fastened it to the ring of the wagon tongue. Gen. Jubal Early stepped up and took hold of one end of the breast yoke; Governor Letcher, then head of the V. M. I., took hold of the other end. General Johnson, the only man on horseback, rode up the column and said with a clarion voice, Men, women, fellow citizens of Lexington, fall in.' Immediately every soul of them laid hold of that rope. General Johnson gave the command, 'Forward march.' The great wagon moved off as if by magic. An ex-soldier began to wave his red bandana. Immediately handkerchiefs, hats, and bonnets were waving in the air. Then someone began to sing 'Dixie'; Lexington joined in. I have heard people sing 'Dixie'; I have heard bands try to play it, but I heard Lexington really sing it. The procession mounted the incline. When it reached the corner of the campus it swung around like a great human rainbow, passed through the double gates and stopped under a black locust tree beside the grave of General Lee. The old Lexingtonians fell on each other's necks and wept. One great emotion moved them all." —Southern Churchman.

Campus Tax To Be Argued at Meeting of Graham-Lee Soc.

Why not a general fee for Finals support? Why not a general fee for the support of campus publications? Tonight Graham-Lee halls will echo to the oratory unleashed over the question: "Resolved, that there should be a general fee for the support of Finals and publications at W. & L. payable upon registration." Taking the affirmative are A. C. Junkin and H. Baeler, while the negative will be upheld by H. O. Winston and G. Walden. The remainder of the program consists of speeches, one on Current Events by Ed Pilley, a declamation by W. Ballard, and a Book Review by J. Lynch. Visitors are invited.

for an unknown made car? Certainly not! Then why buy Haberdashery that is made by unknown makers?

In 1882 we started in a small way to give Lexington, standard high grade Haberdashery. To day we are still at it, only we have weeded out the best of the brands and offer them at prices no higher than the unknown brands.

two fouls at the start of the second half before the Generals got started. With about ten minutes to play they had a comfortable ten point margin leading 37-27. The Blue and White suddenly came to life, and with White, Spotts and Ebert doing sensational passing and shooting, the Generals slowly crept up. While Groop and Howe held the Gamecocks to three foul shots, the Generals netted 13 point to tie it up at 40-40. However, Coach Smith's team was unable to get the lead, and lost their big chance to win the game at this point.

Holcombe, the visiting center, won high scoring honors for the evening with a total of 17, closely followed by Spotts with 15. Gene White dropped in six sensational baskets for a total of 12 to come next in line.

It was White's best game of the year. Wood and Howe also played sensational games. For the visitors Holcombe was outstanding, with Chandler and Fair also giving exhibition.

are again entered. Little is known of the grade of opposition they will encounter. Sproul is Washington and Lee's entrant in the high jump, while Butler will match strides with brilliant runners from North Carolina and Duke in the two mile race. Washington and Lee has not entered for the purpose of competing in the open events, but will place all her efforts in the events she has selected. The primary object is made it the third consecutive victory over Virginia in the indoor one-mile relay.
