WELCOME, VISITORS

BEGINNING tomorrow, Washington and Lee plays host for three full days and nights to a number of guests—members of teams, coaches and students—all of whom will be in Lexington for the fifth annual scholastic basketball tournament. The opening session begins Thursday evening, March 1st. From that time until late Saturday night, the University will be engaged in entertaining these visitors. The tournament will swing to a close that night with the best informal dance of the year in Doremus gymnasium, sponsored by the Athletic Association and the Cotillion Club.

These visitors, members of teams and coaches of probably twenty prep and high school teams, will be the guests of the fraternities of Washington and Lee as usual. In the past this has proven to be a very successful plan for the housing and entertainment of these visitors and it is certain that this year's program will fail through no lack of co-operation and hospitality on the part of the campus "Greeks".

Washington and Lee welcomes these visitors to her campus, and sincerely hopes that they will enjoy their stay here. Three chock-full days of fast and furious athletic play will be offered them, with social features as a side attraction. A sportsman-like air reigns during these three days, and everyone enters into it whole-heartedly. It is serious, yet it is a recreation period in every sense of the word.

We must make these guests our guests, and make them enjoy the many things Washington and Lee has to offer them. Welcome, visitors!!

DIAGNOSIS OF WORK RESULTS

THE MOST successful boys in school are those who are compelled to work to support themselves. The least successful are those who work merely for spending money. Non-workers fall between these two classes. The mere act of work does not appear to influence success, whereas the motive does so.

These startling statements have just been issued after a study conducted in Cambridge, Mass., by a Harvard man among one thousand students.

The following summary of results was given:

No outstanding difference exists between the workers and the non-workers in school marks.

Judged by failure marks, the workers are a little more successful in school. Judged by honor marks the non-workers are a little more successful in school. The group intelligence tests show no distinction between the groups in general mental ability as shown by the test. Of the two groups of workers, those obliged to work show greater success in average school marks. The group obliged to work has fewer failure marks per pupil than the group working for extra money. Those obliged to work have more honor marks per pupil than the workers for extra money. The two groups of workers are not distinguished in general mental ability. Those obliged to work are more successful in average school marks than either the non-workers or the workers for extra money. The non-workers and the workers for extra money make about the same record when failure marks are considered, and both have more failures per pupil than those obliged to work. When honor marks are considered, those obliged to work hold first place, the non-workers hold second place, and the workers for extra money hold last place. Those obliged to work have slightly less general mental ability than either the non-workers or the workers for extra money.

It seems that the motive to work, the eager desire for an education—not just for aids in pleasure while acquiring an education—is the real guiding force nowadays for the young man seeking knowledge. He desires it and if hard work will secure it for him and help him to make a success in life he is going to get it. It is encouraging to see such a spirit developing in American institutions of learning. Perhaps—wonder of wonders!—the younger generation isn't going to "bow-wows" quite yet, despite its criticisms from the fogies, the "has-beens" and the "also-rans" of another era whom life has all so suddenly passed by and left in a rut. It seems encouraging. And perhaps the future of America isn't in such bad hands after all.

KEEP FANNING THE EMBERS

IT IS the sincere belief of THE RING-TUM PHI that Washington and Lee needs a campus tax. This belief is based upon a thorough study of campus institutions and problems. It is nothing new, but a problem that has been "hanging fire" for years and a problem which has been handed down to us by past campus leaders and officials who were unable to solve it. It would be an admirable accomplishment if it could be solved this year, if it could be studied out and fathomed successfully. In fact, an accomplishment—we sincerely believe—of which the Washington and Lee of future years would be thankful. It is a task, a hard task. And not a tasteful one. It will require real leadership, foresight and thought to solve the enigma. But it will repay all efforts a thousandfold. Don't forget it. Don't put it on the shelf again. It is too vital, too all-important to Washington and Lee.

The Gray Phantom

The dormitory was swathed in sleep. The heavy breathing of deep slumberers might be heard. The tomb-like silence was oppressive—smothering—choking.

In one room lay the freshman sleeping the sleep of the soul at rest, with mind and heart content. The gray blanket about him rose and fell with his slow and steady respiration.

His door was opened. A figure, silent as the proverbial "mouse," entered, slid across the room to the side of the sleeping froth. It stopped and gazed at the sleeper's profile, etched in moonlight on the wall close by his head. The crow of the rooster, bothered by troublesome dreams, broke the monotony of the stentorian breathing of the occupants of the room. Dawn was but two hours off.

The phantom figure bent over the sleeping figure. It staggered as it did so. And then it spoke—"Wake up, wake up." The freshman opened a mangling eye.

The spirit-laden voice of the invader of silence pleaded sincerely—"Tell me, pal, what color was Napoleon's white horse? I've been worrying over it and can't get to sleep."

Fifteen brief minutes later silence reigned once more—this time broken only by an occasional groan. Sleep.

President's Paragraph

NO. 25 1927-8

What is the Controlling Object of a four-year College Course?
Glenn Frank's Answer

"To prepare young Americans for intelligent and effective participation in modern society."
"Our schools are loaded down with things to study and ways of studying them which bear little if any vital relation to the human problem of getting ourselves in position to live happily and work effectively. . . -almost wholly dictated by the professional interests of the teacher rather than by the need of the students."

LAST FINALS DRIVE TO START NEXT MONDAY JAN GARBER SIGNED UP

Beginning with the first Monday in March the second and final drive towards Finals will be staged, it was stated today by "Bob" Howe, president.

"Only about one-third of the student body has yet been solicited," he said, "and the rest will have to fall in line immediately if Finals is to be made a reality."

Desks will be placed over the campus, and at the Corner, which will be in charge of various members of the Finals finance committee. All students who have not yet subscribed are asked to please sign up promptly to avoid delay and additional follow-up work.

Jan Garber and his orchestra were signed last year for the 1928 final set. No further word has been heard, but it is taken for granted that he will be on hand. As yet, not enough subscription money has been guaranteed to warrant his coming.

Howe further announced that Tips and Gwaltney would be vice-presidents of the Finals and that Bill Dorsey would be secretary and treasurer. The members of the committees will be announced later.

Court Managers To Be Selected

Senior and Junior managers for the basketball season of 1928-29 will be appointed at a meeting of the Athletic Council next week.

Under Alan Morgan, this year's Junior manager, eight men have been working as Sophomore managers. The men who have been out at every practice, and to whom much credit is due, are: T. L. Bauer, Bill Fields, Dick Hamilton, Ed. Graves, George Turner, Bill Marsh, J. W. Kline, and Marshall Vaught. From this group next year's Junior manager will be picked, solely on a competitive basis.

BAND PICTURE FRIDAY

All members of the Band are requested to appear in front of the gym Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock for their Calyx photograph. Director Hank Slanker urges that each member come on time, but not with the instruments.

Dr. Gibson Resigns, Going to Ardmore

The Reverend Churchill Gibson, pastor of the R. E. Lee Memorial church for the past ten years, will leave Lexington about the middle of April to become pastor of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal church in Ardmore, Pennsylvania, a suburb of Philadelphia.

During his stay in Lexington, Dr. Gibson has become closely associated with Washington and Lee. Coming here in 1918, he trained with the Washington and Lee battalion of the S. M. T. C. for several weeks. After becoming pastor of the Episcopal church, he organized the Student Episcopal club and brought about closer relations between the Student Body and the Episcopal church in the Bible classes.

Dr. Gibson says that his work in Lexington has been enjoyable and that he is leaving with great regret. He said, "I feel, though, that I should go into a more ordinary parish ministry."

Dr. and Mrs. Gibson have often entertained at dances and socials given at the Rectory for students. Every Sunday afternoon Mrs. Gibson has served tea to students at her home. Rev. and Mrs. Gibson have also been patrons of all University social functions for many years.

After receiving his preparatory education at Episcopal High School, Dr. Gibson studied at the University of Virginia. He then completed his training for the ministry at the Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria. Washington and Lee University gave Dr. Gibson the degree of Doctor of Divinity several years ago.

Sun Runs Etching of Washington College

A half page etching showing the main building and the campus of Washington and Lee appeared in the magazine section of the Baltimore Sun, last Sunday. It was used to illustrate a feature story entitled, "The Estate of George Washington" This article shows that Washington was a man far in advance of his time, as proven by his "remarkable" will in which he anticipates the coming of the modern trust company.

Finds Tobacco for "Breaking In" a Pipe

Columbus, Ohio
March 10, 1927

Larus & Bro. Co.
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:

Two years ago my wife gave me an expensive pipe. I smoked it a great deal for two or three weeks, put it aside, then began smoking it again. This time it was very strong. Veterans told me that it had been smoked too hard for a new pipe and should be put away.

The pipe was laid away again. A short time ago I got it out and smoked one of the common brands of tobacco in it. The results were disappointing. I told the druggist of my experience with it. He asked if I had tried Edgeworth. I told him I never had. I followed his suggestion, and I am honest when I say that it has restored the sweetness to the pipe, and has made me wonder. Was it the pipe or the brand of tobacco that caused me to lay it away for the long period of time?

As a novice, I prefer Edgeworth. I am going to stick to it, as I feel satisfied that there is none better on the market.

Sincerely yours,
Philip C. Shera

Youth on a lark... to Europe

Dancing, swimming, playing—
Go over with the Younger Generation in the rollicking
Tourist Third...and have more money to spend abroad...

$193.50

(Round Trip)
in Cunard Comfort

Go the economical way with adventurers of your own age—people who are determined that they will see, and get all the advantages of having seen Europe but who want to save their money to spend while traveling there and who enjoy a trip on the ocean for its own sake.

Do you realize how very inexpensively this can be done on big Cunard ships such as the CARONIA, CARMANIA, SCYTHIA, LACONIA, LANCASTRIA, and TUSCANIA? You are berthed in a comfortable, clean cabin, you have good food, nicely served, with ample deck space and you enjoy the company of your own kind of people... because they are others like you who feel the adventurous call of traveling Tourist Third Cabin. You will dance on moonlit decks to the rhythm of a college orchestra no feet have yet resisted. You will swim in salt water in an improvised deck tank. You'll play the delightful deck games that youth-on-a-lark deifies. And there'll be bridge,--and conversation; --and sometimes lost sleep! But of course you have your choice between missing sleep and fun.
