BUSY WEEK ROUNDS OUT DETAILS FOR EASTER TROUBADOUR SHOWING

"Butter and Egg Man" To Appear At New Theatre and In Five Other Cities

A busy week's work by President "Tommy" Thames and Manager "Toot" Gibson has rounded the details for the Easter Troubadour show and the Easter-week trip through Tennessee and Virginia into smooth final shape.

This season's presentation by the Washington and Lee thespians will be "The Butter and Egg Man," which will be presented by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York. This play had a long run on Broadway last spring and has been a decided success every time it has been played. Production of the show has been under way for a number of weeks and the final polishing touches will be added this week and next, before the first public performance, which takes place in the New Theatre here on Tuesday afternoon, April 10.

Manager Gibson spent last week-end visiting the cities in Virginia and Tennessee where the show will be presented, and all final arrangements and details were completed by him. Contracts were signed in each of the four cities.

The final schedule of playing dates is as follows:

Lexington, Va., Tuesday, April 10.
East Radford, Va., Wednesday, April 11.

Marion, Va., Thursday, April 12.
Abingdon, Va., Friday, April 13.
Bristol, Tenn., Saturday, April 14.

The troupe will return to Lexington Sunday night, April 15.

The H. P. Knight Scenic Studios of New York city will ship a half a carload of scenery for "The Butter and Egg Man" to Lexington on Saturday of this week. This is a special order of scenery, manufactured for this show alone, and will be in perfect harmony with the play, also lending to it a professional touch. This scenery will be carried on the tour, as well as used in the performance at the New Theatre here, the officials announced.

Measurements for costumes for the entire cast were taken Monday night by President Thames. The order for all costumes, wigs, shoes and make-up articles will be placed with the William Beck and Sons Company of Cincinnati. Three cases of special lighting effects will be carried on the trip by the property managers. Stage settings in the form of such "props" as furniture and tapestries will be secured by arrangements with merchants in the various cities on the itinerary.

The troupe will travel either by motor bus or in a private Pullman car, probably the latter. No expense or trouble has been spared by the management in securing perfect comfort for the actors and in getting good transportation facilities for the entire trip.

Copies of the book of "The Butter and Egg Man" have been sent ahead to each of the cities for advertising purposes. Advertising sheets and placards will be mailed out Friday to the sponsors of show in each city for advertising display. Newspaper publicity will be sent to each stand also by the publicity department of the Troubadours.

Approximately 28 men will make the trip. This will include the cast, president and manager, property managers, business managers and costumers. The faculty advisor who will make the trip will be announced later this week.

Entertainment plans for the Troubadours are now in preparation by the sponsors in the individual cities. A dance will be given in every city on the night of the performance, and a banquet will be given the troupe in two cities.

President Thames and Manager Gibson are now negotiating for a pantomime, to be staged by the Troubadours this spring. Full details will be given within ten days.

Trackmen Leave To Battle Duke In Durham, N. C.

The track team will meet Duke University in their first meet of the season at Durham Saturday. Twenty-one men besides Coach Fletcher and Manager Harrison, will make the trip. The men will leave Friday morning, traveling by bus the entire distance.

This week ends the fourth week of practice and finds the men in fine condition. Results of the time trials held last week were fairly good, according to Coach Fletcher, and with no men on the injured list Saturday, the locals should have a good chance of emerging victors in the meet with the Blue Devils.

Light practices will be held the remainder of the week to get the men in good condition for their initial start. The following men will make the trip:

100 yd. and 20 yd. dash—Sandifer, Grashorn and Barclay; 440 yd. dash—Simmons, Backus; 880 yd. dash—Backus; Mile—Brock, Parker; 2 mile—Nance, Butler; High hurdles—Reardon, Sproul, Janney; Low hurdles—Patterson, Sproul and Jones; High jump—Sproul, Sandifer and Pilley; Broad jump—McFarland, Sandifer and Reardon; Pole vault—Pomeroy, Cooke and Pilley; Shot put—Fisher, Janney and White; Discus throw—Painter and Fisher; Javelin throw—Reardon, Janney and Pilley.

COLONEL HUNLEY TO PRESIDE OVER ALA.-W. & L. DEBATE THURSDAY

B. J. Wagner Appears In Final Debate of College Career With Sanders Making His Debut

Colonel W. M. Hunley, head of the Political Science and Economics department at V. M. I., has been chosen as presiding officer for the Alabama debate, to be held in Lee Chapel Thursday, March 29, it was announced today by Professor M. G. Bauer, debating coach. Colonel Hunley is nationally known in the field of Political Science, and Professor Bauer stated that he felt fortunate in securing his services.

The question to be debated, Resolved, "that Alfred E. Smith be elected President of the United States," is a pertinent one in the present day political world. Washington and Lee will uphold the negative, and will be represented by B. J. Wagner and I. T. Sanders. This will be Wagner's last appearance in a local debate. He has been a member of the team for three years, and during that time has featured in many debates. This year he is manager of the team, and a member of the Debating Council. The Alabama meet will be Sander's first appearance on the W. & L. team, but he has shown up well in the tryouts and is expected to make an excellent argument. The debaters have taken an unusual interest in the subject, Professor Bauer said, and have spent a great deal of time in preparing their material.

Alabama will be represented by Clanton W. Williams and Hubert Hayes. They will arrive in Lexington late Thursday afternoon from Williamsburg, Va., where they are debating William and Mary this evening. The Alabama team has been debating the negative side of

W. & L. Golf Club Fast Rounding Into Shape Under Lanier

The Washington and Lee golf team, resurrected and inaugurated last year, is fast rounding into shape under the captaincy of George H. Lanier.

The team has been practicing every afternoon the weather has permitted for the past two weeks, and some excellent scores have been turned in for so early in the season. Each try-out has handed in three 18-hole cards thus far, according to Capt. Lanier. It is planned to hold a 36 hole qualifying round at the end of the present week, 18 of these holes to be played over the Lexington course, and 18 on either the Natural Bridge or the Roanoke links.

The team leaves for North Carolina, Tuesday, April 3, where Davidson College, University of North Carolina, and Duke University are to be met in the order named. A match with University of Pennsylvania and a home-and-home series with University of Virginia are also pending.

Although no definite selection of a team has been made, any new candidate would have to show up exceptionally well said Capt. Lanier, to top the work of the following men who have been out regularly: W. F. Chandler, J. L. Comegys, T. G. Cooke, M. Davis, J. B. Ecker, H. L. Echols, H. W. Mabry, W. A. Ward, and R. C. Wickersham.

the question in several meets. They will change sides, Thursday night, and defend Smith. This gives them a decided advantage as they have gone over the arguments several times and thus fully prepared to know the subject thoroughly.

An entertainment has been planned for them by Professor Bauer. A dinner will be given before the debate, and arrangements will be made for further entertainment later in the evening. The Alabamians will leave Lexington Friday for North Carolina, where they will debate the same question.

The debate will be an informative one for the audience, as the qualifications of Alfred E. Smith will be presented to the auditors in such a manner as to cover all the details of his eligibility. The debate will have a direct bearing on the mock Democratic convention to be held here next month, since the vote of the audience will express the general local tendency of opinion concerning Governor Smith as a presidential candidate.

A vote will be taken before and after the meet on both the question and the merits of the debate. A special ballot has been printed for this purpose, and will be distributed under the direction of Professor Bauer who will have charge of the voting. Professor Bauer is cooperating with several schools in making a study of audience votes, and the result of this debate will be turned in as material to the study.

The following men will serve as ushers: Albert Steves, H. M. Platt, H. H. Butler and F. M. Faulkner.

W. & L. GETS FIRST BOILER FROM NATIONAL SENATE; REPLACES STOVES

"Put another piece of wood in the stove, Mr. Smith, before you write those French sentences on the board."

"How can they expect a fellow to study with all that woodchopping going on?"

These are two common Washington and Lee expressions the profs and students used back in the good old days when every classroom contained a smoky wood stove, when the university woodyard was where Lees dormitory is now, and so it is rumored, when the university made its dormitory students cut wood for the heating of their own rooms.

Keeping warm in this university meant chopping wood during the years previous to 1905. Now the university pays $10,000 and uses 1600 tons of coal annually to save students that trouble.

From Washington came the news in the fall of 1904 that the U. S. Senate was installing a new heating system. They were selling off their old steam boilers in order to make room for new ones. Washington and Lee bid for one. The university got the first boiler that was ever installed in the Senate office building, and with it as a nucleus, built a central heating plant here.

Evans Almiral Co., of New York, contracted to put in the hot-water system on the campus for $16,000. That was cheap as prices go today. The company did not lose, however, as they had to pay only seventy-five cents for labor in those days.

So, in the spring of 1905, the central heating plant was completed. From it radiated a single hot water pipe that cut through Tucker Hall and Washington College, then continued down the campus to the homes

GENERALS MAKE DIAMOND DEBUT FRIDAY AGAINST C. U. CARDINALS

Team Appears In Top Notch Form; Captain Folliard To Be On Mound

"Play ball!" The long waited for cry will be heard on Wilson field for the first time this spring Friday afternoon when the Washington and Lee Generals meet Catholic University from Washington.

The Generals have been going through strenuous workouts for over three weeks. In spite of the cold weather that greatly hampered the team last week the boys appear to be in top notch form, and ready to go at full speed. Coach Smith is pleased with the progress shown by his team and believes it to be a better combination than last year's despite the loss of several veterans.

Although the game is just below the horizon Captain "Dick" has come to no definite decision regarding his line up. There appears no worry in the inner works as to who will get the call, but in the outfield there is still a merry battle being waged. It is likely that the Generals' mentor will not make his final selection until just prior to game time.

"Babe" Spotts will hold down the initial sack, with Gene White and "Shorty" Franklin taking over the key-stone and Eigelbach will be in charge of the hot corner. Jones and Tips will do the receiving. Captain Paul Folliard and Osterman will share the honors from the hill, with probably Radford and Atwood getting a peep into the game.

The task comes in selecting an outfield. There is on hand Johnston, Hickman, Lowdon and Warthen of last year's varsity and reserves from which to select as well as Slanker and Tuggle of the ex-frosh machine. Then Tips is capable of taking his turn in the outer works. Johnston Lowdon, and Warthen are monogram fly chasers, while Hickman was a reserve last year.

It would be a matter of mere guess work to attempt to select the starting three in the outfield. Hickman appears to be fairly sure of taking care of the rightfield post provided a right hander is on the mound for Catholic U. Warthen and Slanker are arguing it out for center with Lowdon, Johnston and Tuggle scrapping for left. All five of these have been used in both center and left so it would not be a surprise to see any one start in either of the fields.

Captain Folliard is due to have his greatest year on the mound for the Generals. He has added about ten pounds in weight and has further perfected his curves and change of pace. This week he has had his curves breaking in every direction and completely baffling batsmen.

Osterman is scheduled to take part in the game despite his recent injury. After serving for two years in the relief role "Osty" has great chances of breaking into the regular flinging line with a bang. Last year in the only full game he tossed he displayed great form with promise of being a great aid to the 1928 corps.

Radford and Atwood, trying their first hand in varsity baseball, appear to hold the upper hand over the other recruits. Both are right handers and are likely to see some service before the team heads South to meet the three North Carolina teams.

The Catholic University tossers are due to arrive in Lexington Thursday afternoon and take part in a drill on Wilson field. Little is known of the strength of the Cardinals other than their records of past years which has been very impressive. Weather has played an all important part in the Washington team's training season, frequently forcing the Cardinals to put aside their outdoor drill and take up inside work.

STEPS TO BRIDGE MUST BE CHANGED

Changes must be made in the plans for the approaches to the bridge according to Mr. Horace Peasle, Washington and Lee architect, who arrived here today from Washington, D. C. Mr. Peasle will make a new set of plans in the next few days, so that the approaches can be made to conform more with the general layout of the bridge.

These changes will not materially affect the contract for the approaches, but if more concrete is used than the present plans call for the school will pay for it.

The contract for the approaches has been let to the Luten Bridge Company, the same contracting firm that is building the bridge.

Half the spindles for the railing of the bridge were broken in shipment from Knoxville, Tennessee, and work on the bridge itself is temporarily suspended. Work therefore, will be begun immediately on the approaches to the bridge on the Athletic field side because no changes in the plans will affect that side.

The bridge itself, because of the broken spindles, will not be finished for two weeks.

Frosh Trackmen Meet S. M. A. Sat.

The Frosh trackmen will open their season in a meet with Staunton Military Academy, next Saturday. Twenty-two or twenty-four men will be taken on the trip, the exact number having not yet been decided on.

Time trials have been held by Coach Fletcher, and the results have been favorable. This being the first meet of the season, nothing definitely can be ascertained as to the outcome. The team as a whole looks good in all respects and is expected to make a fine showing against the cadets.

SOUTHERN COLLEGIAN

There will be a meeting of all tryouts for the business staff of the Southern Collegian, first floor Newcomb Hall, Thursday at 7:30.

TRAVEL NUMBER OF MINK OUT APRIL 2

The "Travel Number" of The Mink, monthly humorous magazine of Washington and Lee, will appear on Monday, April 2, according to an announcement today by the editor and business manager.

This issue, the sixth one of the 1927-28 school year, will obtain 28 pages. Art work by Dud Carr on the title page, double-page and center-page will feature. Miss Frances French will also be a prominent contributor to The Mink this month as in the past. A cover design in the form of a red-haired girl, designed by Dud Carr, will adorn the front of this issue.

BIOLOGY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

The Biological Society held its first open meeting of the year on Monday, March 26, in the Washington College lecture room. An interesting program was rendered by the new members of the Society which included six ten-minute talks on scientific subjects. At the close of the meeting the audience was invited to attend an informal smoker at the home of Dr. Hoyt.

According to Dr. Hoyt, the Society will hold three more open meetings during the remainder of the year, each followed by a smoker at the home of one of the professors. All students in the University are cordially invited to attend these entertainments and are urged to take part in the discussion.

The program of the meeting on Monday night was as follows: "Darwinism", by N. E. Hawes; "La Markianism", by J. V. Eddy; "Immortality in Pawn", by L. L. Davidge; "The Lemmings", by M. H. Kaplan; "The Romance of the Stars" by R. P. Carter; and "The Romance of Chemistry" by Marcus Cohen.

The Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology will hold its annual convention and meeting in the Jackson Memorial Hall of V. M. I. on Friday and Saturday, April 6th and 7th.

CRITICISM

ADMINISTRATION, faculty, student governing bodies, publication and dance executives, and every leader of any organization or movement on the campus are objects of almost continual criticism from members of the Student Body. Why?

Constructive criticism, thoughtfully guided and considered, is a sign of healthy progress upon the part of students toward a realization of the problems which confront a college or university. Destructive criticism, hastily expressed and more hastily retracted when the fallacy of its arguments are proven, is one of the worst forms of intellectual stagnation and unwillingness to study and battle the concrete obstacles which frequent the path of a university's growth and progress toward a higher plane.

Those in charge of affairs here, including university executives, faculty members, and student leaders, are subject to a great amount of the latter type of criticism, but to a pitifully small amount of genuine constructive criticism—the kind which they are anxious to hear and more anxious to heed in most instances.

Instead of merely knocking decisions, movements, and attempts to "carry on" toward the realization of a greater Washington and Lee, whether in university or student affairs, why do not more students endeavor to present constructive suggestions and criticisms of existing conditions or pending changes?

Every man in an official position on the campus, whether elective or appointive, and whether of a university or of a student nature, is more or less of a specialist in his particular line, but at the same time we believe all of them realize that they are in their positions of responsibility in order and from a desire to be of service to Washington and Lee. Recognizing this fact, every one of them is willing to have constructive criticism and well-considered suggestions communicated to him for consideration, and, if merited, for action either in toto or in such part as seems wise under existing conditions.

Let the criticism from students be of a more constructive and of a less destructive nature. Let it be communicated to those against whom it is directed, and not disseminated among fellow students in the nature of grumblings and dissatisfied expressions of opinion as to what should be done and how it should be accomplished. If these suggestions are followed, we feel certain that results will be forthcoming, or, if immediate action is impossible or impractical at the time, explanations of the prohibiting reasons will be given gladly by those affected.

SMITH FOR PRESIDENT?

SMITH for President? Regardless of the individual preferences of Washington and Lee students, they will have an unusual opportunity to hear this question argued pro and con tomorrow night in Lee Chapel, when Alabama and Washington and Lee meet in debate. Alabama will argue the affirmative, while the Generals will answer "No."

This debate, above all others this year, is expected to draw a capacity crowd of students and townspeople, especially in view of the mock Democratic national convention which will be held here April 23 and 24. Students who favor the nomination of Smith both here and at Houston in June will have the opportunity to hear his qualities presented, boosted, and assailed in a studied fashion, while those opposed upon any grounds whatsoever will have a similar chance to gain added arguments for presentation at the convention.

Alabama, where pro- and anti-Smith forces have clashed in verbal combat with more spectacular vehemence than elsewhere in the country, will send two men here who are rated as masters in debating and artists in the realm of presentation of their views. Strange to say, the far-Southern speakers will unofficially take up the burden of combating their Senator Heflin's intermittent diatribes against the New York governor, but at the same time will be expressing the opinion of a great many of their fellow citizens, some of whom endeavored to promote a debate in several Alabama cities between Heflin and pro-Smith campaigners. Washington and Lee's representatives will argue pro-Heflin, although probably without the personality which characterized the Senator's outbursts on the floor of the Senate and elsewhere.

The local debaters are satisfied that there exist reasons why Smith should not be nominated aside from the common cries of Romanism and nullificationism. The latter two arguments are those most commonly heard where tirades against the four-term New York executive are delivered, but at the same time there are doubtless other reasons why some of the more unbiased Democratic leaders do not wish to see him named leader of their ticket this year. This debate should bring out every possible argument for and against Smith's nomination, and every student here, whether vitally interested in national politics or not, should deem it a privilege to hear both sides of the question presented in a manner calculated to stir thought in the minds of every voter and potential citizen.

Pack the chapel tomorrow night, and prove to all who say debating is not wanted at Washington and Lee, and to those who claim that present-day students are not interested sufficiently in national political affairs, that their judgment is erroneous so far as W. & L. men are concerned.

The Gray Phantom

College men always give tips. Whether the recipient be the bootblack, tonsorial artist, waiter, or just Gasoline Gus, the man at the filling station, when the "be-slickered" college scion appears it always means a working bonus.

Pudge is a student here. We might call him Brown or Smith, but they're trite, and he is individual if nothing more.

Several days ago Pudge was "week-ending" when he had occasion to drive into a gas station to replenish his supply of "essence of Rockefeller". Four gallons filled her up—at twenty-one cents a gallon. Pudge professed old Gasoline Gus 85 cents. Gus had just about found a penny down at the bottom of a pocket of change when Pudge,

Frosh Attempt to Evade Upper-classmen's Rulings By Giving Dance

Sophomores at Hampden-Sidney College kidnaped and confined over half of the freshman class for several hours Friday evening to prevent a dance planned by the freshmen from being staged.

Although hazing of any sort has been taboo there for years, there is a freshman system in vogue, somewhat similar to the one at Washington and Lee. The sophomores, who are in control of the system, passed an edict several days ago forbidding the freshmen from visiting the nearby town of Farmville for a period of two weeks.

In order to make their enforced stay on the campus more pleasant, the yearlings decided to give a dance. Shortly after 2 o'clock, the sophomores began to lure the unsuspecting freshmen, one by one, to a loft of one of the dormitories and securely locked them in.

After the dance had been under way for several hours, upper classmen entered the loft. The sophomore president, Jack Savage, gave the freshmen a severe lecture and stated he hoped that they had learned their lesson—never to try to put anything over on the upper classmen and that they might now go to the remainder of the dance.

If the V. C. were established at Hampden-Sidney, there would probably be little danger of the Freshmen rebelling against rules laid down by the upper classmen.

W. & L. GETS BOILERS FROM SENATE HOUSE

of Dr. Easter, Dr. Shannon, and the president, after which it curled through Lee's dormitory on to Reid Hall and back to the heating plant. Through this pipe, powerful pumps forced hot water.

The increased heating demands occasioned by the building of the library in 1903 called for a larger plant. It was not until 1912, however, that a new boiler and a larger smoke-stack were put in. The homes of Dr. Howe, Dr. Campbell, Dean Moreland, and the Dining Hall were connected to the central system at this time.

When Doremus gym was completed in 1914, a special steam line was installed to carry heat from the central plant to it. This proved so unsatisfactory that a separate plant had to be built for the gym. The steam line which formerly went to the gym was turned into Graham dormitory in 1919.

Last year the university piped hot water heat into Lee Chapel and into ten professor's homes on the lower part of the campus. Another boiler was bought to replace the old original boiler that had "U. S. Senate" written in large letters over the top.

At present, three buildings are heated by steam; Newcomb Hall, the Dining Hall, and Graham dormitory. All the other campus buildings have hot water heat. The advantages of the hot water over the steam system, according to Professor Dickey, are that the firemen can regulate the heating temperature and not so much heat is lost where the pipes extend through the ground. Eventually every building on the campus will have hot water heat, Dr. Dickey added.

At the cost of $6,500, an electric tramway was built in 1923 for carrying coal from the trainroad siding across Woods Creek valley to the heating plant. This tramway brings coal over for five cents a ton, where formerly it cost 75 cents to cart it up from the station.

The present central heating system is valued at $75,000. It feeds 40,000 square feet of radiator space, requires three firemen who work on eight hour shifts, contains two 150 h. p. steam boilers, and is operated from October 1 until June 1.

Add Warren, former North Carolina University boxer, has recently turned professional. He has failed to floor his man only once in almost fifty fights. A few weeks ago he challenged Gene Tunney, heavy-weight champion of the world, to a debate and a prize fight afterwards.

Baseball Team To Be Busy Next Week

After the opening game with Catholic University, Coach Smith's varsity tossers will go into a strenuous schedule, playing Cornell here next Tuesday and embarking on a five day invasion of North Carolina beginning on April 4. The program calls for contests with Duke on April 4 and 5 and from there the team will go to Raleigh on April 6 to engage N. C. State. The final game in the Tar Heel state will be played in Chapel Hill on April 7 against the University of North Carolina. After a rest on Easter Sunday the team will come back to Richmond, Virginia and take on Coach Dobson's University of Richmond Spiders.

The entire trip will be made in the bus, according to Coach Smith. Sixteen men will be taken, but exactly who will make up the party will depend much upon their showings in the two home games.

Lured by Aroma of Neighbor's Tobacco

Boston, Mass., April 21, 1927
Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va. Gentlemen:

This morning I had a smoking adventure worth recording.

Next to me in the smoking car a gentleman was puffing his pipe contentedly. I was not smoking at the moment, and the aroma of his tobacco intrigued me exceedingly. For twelve years I had smoked Edgeworth without being tempted by any other brand, but the fragrance emanating from the pipe of the gentleman beside me was so agreeable that I could not resist the temptation to speak of it.

"That is wonderfully fragrant tobacco you have there," I remarked. "Would you mind telling me the name of it?"

"It is Edgeworth," he answered. We then congratulated each other upon our mutual good taste, and I decided that I would continue to use his brand and mine.

Sincerely yours,
S. H.
