

Generals Win Fourth Consecutive Victory By Defeating Gamecocks

South Carolina Loses First Conference Game Of Season To Fast Going Blue And White Quint, 38 To 29

SPOTTS LEADS SCORING

Furious Comeback In Second Half Overcame Seven-Point Lead And Clinched Victory

The Washington and Lee basketball team emerged victorious from the fray with the University of South Carolina quint by a score of 38-29, yesterday afternoon in the Doremus Memorial Gymnasium. The game was characterized throughout by the smooth team work of the Carolinians and the furious fighting of the wearers of the Blue and White.

Although the game was not rough, an excessive number of personal fouls were called on both teams. The Generals received ten free throws and the Gamecocks seven. No technical fouls were made.

The feature of the game was the General's comeback after the first half had ended with the score standing 23-16 in the visitor's favor. The Generals opened an attack which could not be headed and were soon on top, where they stayed 'till the end. The Washington and Lee boys beat a team which, up until that time, had not sustained a single defeat at the hands of a Southern Conference opponent.

The Gamecocks had beaten the Orange and Blue team from Virginia just a few days previously, and the V. P. I. team Monday night. Therefore, according to the dope, the Generals are slated as champions of the Big Four in the state, for the Blue and White beat the V. P. I. team last Saturday night.

The South Carolinians opened the game with a bang. They assumed a commanding lead before the Generals could get together enough to send a single counter through the hoop. Spotts came through for the first Blue and White counter with a perfect throw from the foul line after Captain Seiderman had fouled him. Then the lead of the visitors was lengthened.

At this stage of the game the Washington and Lee attack, led by Gene White, began functioning, and the Generals drew even with their opponents and even assumed a one point lead at one time. But the Gamecocks were not to be denied and they soon rolled up another seven point lead before the half ended with the score standing 23-16 in their favor. Fair, sharpshooting forward, led this attack on the General's defense.

Evidently the talk "Captain Dick" gave his men between halves had some effect, for the Generals caught up with their opponents and took a four-point lead before the South Carolinians could score a single point. Then the game see-sawed for a few minutes, when the Generals rallied to take a final long lead. The final Generals' attack was led by Spotts, White, and Urme.

College Suicides Not Due To Overstudy President Henry Louis Smith Declares

"The recent wave of college suicides is not due to overstudy", declared President Henry Louis Smith yesterday.

"Neither psychology nor any other subject has contributed any cause for the eight suicides committed during the past few weeks. Such things can only be expected in this age of moral degradation".

Dr. Smith contends that for every four students who study just enough in the educational institutions of today, there are 250 more who study too little. Theories advanced saying that psychology and psycho-analysis were responsible for the suicides held no weight with Virginia's noted educator.

"Suicides are merely the evidence in college circles that the nation is suffering keenly from a lack of religious and moral standards. We are in such an age of self-indulgence and criminality that the student who has committed a crime or an indiscretion and finds his deed about to be discovered, seeks escape by putting a bullet through his brain".

RELAY TEAM TO OPPOSE VIRGINIA

Blue And White Defeated Cavaliers Last Year In The University Of Richmond Games

The Generals will again attempt to down the Virginia Cavaliers in the mile relay race to be run Saturday night under the auspices of the University of Richmond. The events, including all regular runs and field events common to indoor competition, will be held in the Grays' armory, and will be in charge of Frank Dobson director of athletics at the capital city institution.

Last year the Blue and White, with Captain Bill Davis running as anchor man, and Wilson, Milbank and Summerson completing the foursome, defeated Virginia in what was considered by many the feature of the evening's entertainment. Captain Milbank and Wilson are on hand to run again this year, and will run as number one and anchor man respectively. Other men who have been working with these veterans in the recent trials are Claunch at number two and Simmons as number three.

Excellent form has been displayed during the trials and practice sessions of the last two weeks, and the 1927 Blue and White speed artists are being counted on to repeat the achievement of their 1926 predecessors in running away from the Charlottesville racers.

From ten to fifteen varsity men are expected to represent Washington and Lee in the various events while between five and ten yearlings will be entered in their class of events. Coach Fletcher and Manager J. P. Moore will accompany the team which will leave either Friday evening or early Saturday morning.

Receive Entries For Tournament

Contestants From South Atlantic States Coming For Basketball Tournament

Entries for the Fourth Annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament are already being received at the office of Captain Dick Smith who has charge of this yearly event. The Tournament will be held in Doremus gymnasium on March 3, 4, and 5.

High and prep schools from all sections of the South Atlantic states will compete for high honors. Indications point to a score or more teams being present for these three days and these teams will be quartered at the various fraternity houses as they have been in the past.

As has been the custom, a basketball informal will probably close the session on Saturday night. Various team and individual trophies will be presented at that time.

Spring Football Begins March 7

Spring football is expected to start March 7 and last about a month, it was learned last night. The men who wish to try out for the football team this fall will report at that time. Coach Pat Herron will be in charge of the squad with several of those having played their allotted time for the Generals and his aides de camp.

Coach R. A. Smith will not be able to contribute much of his time to the spring training on account of his work with the baseball team.

Every man who received a degree from the Boston College graduate last year has been placed in a teaching position.

STAFF MEETING

A meeting of the editorial staff of the RING-TUM PHI will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in the editorial rooms. This is an important meeting and it is necessary that every member of the staff be present.

Greta Garbo Thrills Student Audiences

Greta Garbo continued her winning ways and made many a good student leave his books and study her and John Gilbert in "Flesh and the Devil" last week-end at the New theater. The young Swiss girl gave an appreciative student audience a thrill and many points on the art of life.

Many were the lads that were so wrapped up in her charms that they unconsciously rose from their seats in vain hope of rescuing her from that icy death and preserving so much loveliness for mankind.

So well did Greta and John know their stuff that many found it necessary to remain in Lexington over the week-end for the purpose of becoming doubly well acquainted with how it is done.

The entire picture was one love affair after another. All of the men loved Greta and she told all the men she loved them. As is the usual case on such occasions the men lost their heads and duels with regard to honor took place. Greta at last became ashamed and in her frantic efforts to stop a duel she fell through the ice and was drowned.

Everyone seemed more than pleased with the performance and there were few if any who said that they did not get 50 cents worth of picture show.

Baseball Practice Began Today As Batterymen Held Initial Workout

With Many Veterans Of Last Year's Squad Available Prospects Are Bright For Best Blue Team In Years

Baseball came into the limelight for the first time this season this afternoon when "Cy" Twombly and the 1927 varsity battery candidates reported for their initial workout of the season. The remainder of the baseball squad will report some time next week if weather conditions permit.

Early predictions are that the Generals will have one of the best baseball aggregations in the Southern Conference and one of the best teams in recent Blue and White history.

Coach Twombly will have charge of the training until Graduate Manager R. A. Smith finishes up the basketball season. If the Blue and White cagemen take the trip to Atlanta to participate in the conference tournament it will be impossible for Coach Smith to take any active part in the early practices.

But, on the other hand, should the Generals not take the trip he will be able to give his personal attention regularly after February 23, when V. P. I. is met on the local court.

Two of the varsity letter pitchers, "Snake" Maben and Paul Folliard, are back this year. This will be Maben's last season of college baseball and he is expected to reach the pinnacle of his career. Last season he demonstrated some fine twirling by defeating the University of Pennsylvania and Cornell as well as several other strong combinations.

Paul Folliard has one more season after the close of the present one. He and Maben make a strong combina-

Quality Credit System Adopted

An automatic rule requiring the completion of the year with 12 quality credits for sophomores and 18 for juniors to remain in school was adopted by the faculty last May to be effective during the present school year ending June 1927. This rule was adopted in place of the former "half C" requirement. Matriculates prior to September 1926 have their option of either the quality credit or "half C" regulation. Under the new system 124 quality credits are required for graduation.

Briefly, the quality system gives 3 quality credits for each hour completed with grade A, 2 quality credits for each hour completed with grade B, and 1 quality credit for each hour completed with grade C. An extra credit of one hour is awarded for each block of 20 quality credits after the completion of 120. Such extra quality credits are to apply to free electives only. Degrees "cum laude" are offered on graduation with 240 quality credits, "magna cum laude" on graduation with 330 quality credits. For a certificate in a department as many quality as quantity credits are required.

ALUMNUS HONORED

Powell L. Paxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Paxton of Buena Vista, and a graduate of Washington and Lee University, has been made power engineer of the Virginia Public Service Company with headquarters at Charlottesville. He has for three years held a position with a gas and electric corporation in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

NOTICE

There has been a slight change in the bus schedule to Staunton. The bus for Staunton leaves at 9:55 a. m. instead of 10:05.

TRYOUTS

All men wishing to try out for the editorial staff of the RING-TUM PHI please be at the editorial rooms in the Journalism School at 8:00 o'clock Friday night.

Generals Knock V. P. I. Quinters For A Loop In Fast Game, 39 To 23

Blue And White Basketeers Secure Lead Early In Game And Hold It By Close Guarding And Ringing Many Baskets

BLUE CAGEMEN MEET CAVALIERS

Washington and Lee Has The Best Record Up To Date—Team Out To Avenge Football Defeat.

Washington and Lee basketeers will go into one of their hardest frays Saturday when they tackle Virginia at Charlottesville. So far this season the Generals have been playing an exceptional brand of basketball and it is not their intention, according to reports, to alter their brand of playing in the least when opposed by Virginia.

Attempting to pick the outcome of Saturday's game from the dope bucket would be a risky thing, for last year when the Virginians were doped by all sports writers as the sure winners of the court game here they were badly set back when the Generals turned in so a decisive win over the Cavaliers.

Up to that time Virginia had not lost a game to a school in the state. It was their first defeat at the hands of the Generals in five years.

If the dope bucket were used to pick the probable winner of Saturday's game, Washington and Lee would be picked without any doubt. There are many reasons on which this decision could be reached. Last week South Carolina caused the downfall of the Cavaliers twice. Tuesday the same crew that so effectively trounced Virginia was downed by the Generals to the tune of 38 to 29. The Blue and White players have also defeated other teams that have had little trouble at Charlottesville.

The Generals have been turning in excellent scores from their various encounters, both here and abroad. To date they have lost but five games. The game to the West Virginians was lost by a narrow margin, and Richmond outpointed the Generals early in the season by the scant margin of one score, chalked up in the final minutes of play.

Maryland, Duke, V. P. I., and Kentucky are examples of the teams that have balked and halted when opposed by the Generals captained by Urme. Led by Ebert and White on the scoring end of the Generals and backed by Spotts, at the tip-off post, and with Urme, Groop, and Joynes keeping guard of the basket, the team presents a strong line-up. Ebert has been slightly off his regular form in the last few games but he is expected to have had time to snap out of it and go fast in Saturday's game.

White has been hitting the loop with great regularity and excellent results in the last several encounters of the Generals and is expected to be a big factor in the Washington and Lee-Virginia game. Spotts has been playing his usual brand of high class basket ball all season and is holding down the center post in fine style.

Captain Urme and Groop are expected to stand the brunt of the Cavalier attack Saturday and from past records they are fully capable of taking care of their positions.

Intimate History Connects The Priceless Portraits Hanging In Lee Mem'ial Chapel

Intimate history, dating back to is connected with the priceless portraits hanging on the walls of the Lee Memorial chapel at Washington and Lee University, it has been recently revealed. Much has been said about these pictures, but some facts have not been published before.

One of the pictures of General Robert E. Lee, where he is portrayed standing in Confederate Uniform, was painted by an artist, Pine, at Asheville, N. C., while he was trying to recover his health. After reading much of the General, talking with Confederate veterans, and securing numerous photographs, Pine painted the picture, and died soon, leaving the portrait to mankind.

The famous Peale's two pictures, of George Washington and Lafayette, were painted at Mount Vernon from life. They hung at Mt. Vernon until the death of Mrs. Washington, and then were taken to the Lee home at Arlington. When General Lee came to Lexington, to be president of Washington and Lee University, he brought the portraits with him. Mrs. Lee had cut them

WHITE AND SPOTTS STARS OF GAME

Ebert, Urme And Joynes Play Tight Defensive Game And Enable Generals To Hold Lead

Last Saturday night, on the V. P. I. court, the Blue and White Basketeers emerged victorious from their hotly contested tilt with the Blacksburg quint. The final score was 39-23, with Washington and Lee hanging on to the big end. Washington and Lee piled up a score in the early minutes of play that the Techmen were never able to head, although they, at times, pulled closer to the Generals. The first half ended with the score standing 22-9 in favor of the Blue and White. However in the second half the Techmen braced and made decided efforts to overcome the Generals' lead, but the sensational shooting of Spotts, and the general all-round floor work of his team mates held the Blue and White on high for the remainder of the game.

Although the game was close, the Generals clearly outplayed their opponents at every stage of the game. Buddy Dear, Virginia Tech's star forward, was the first man to score, two minutes after the opening whistle. It was only a few minutes later, however, that the Washington and Lee attack got going, and led by the deadly shooting of Ebert, White, and Spotts, the Generals soon acquired a comfortable lead and were never headed. Ebert followed Dear's double center with a beautiful shot from the floor. Then Spotts sank a single tally from the foul line and the Generals had the lead. The floor work of the entire General team repeatedly worked the ball down the floor, where Ebert and White sank shot after shot at close range to carry the Generals well ahead, with the score at 22-9 at half time.

The second half was fast and furiously played, with the Techmen striving to their utmost to bring their count even with that of the Generals. As a result, the score for this half was closer than that of the preceding period of play, the Generals increasing their lead by only three points. The play at this stage of the game was fast, with both teams working the ball down the floor in furious style. However, the Generals held on to and increased their lead through the sensational shooting of White, and the hang-up work of his teamsters.

"Gene" White was easily the star of the game. He rang up two foul shots and seven double deckers. His shooting from under the basket was deadly, while his longer shots bordered on the miraculous. Ebert's shooting and all around offensive and defensive work was also of a high quality. "Babe" Spotts, as usual shone in his own way, making needed points breaking up enemy plays, and working the ball down the field and feeding his forwards for the good of his team. Groop broke into the scoring with two field goals, at crucial points

General Custis Lee inherited the famous portraits from his father and presented them to Washington and Lee while he was president.

Another interesting story is connected with the portrait of Dr. Junkin, former president of Washington college, now Washington and Lee, during the Civil war. Dr. Junkin sympathized with the Union side.

One morning he saw a confederate flag floating from Washington college, and ordered it removed. The next day the flag was there again. Rather than cause hard feelings among his students, Dr. Junkin resigned the presidency and moved North. His picture now hangs in the Lee chapel.

These pictures have been highly valued by critics, and the two Peale's are especially valuable, but they are treasured at Washington and Lee for their memories and the stories connected with their past, and the memories of the men they portray.

"Let Students Pay"

LET students pay the entire cost of education. Here is a means of eliminating the necessity for perpetual begging, for million dollar endowments and the attendant evils. So at least thought some of the delegates to a recent Association of American Colleges meeting at Chicago.

Instead of paying only 31 per cent of educational cost as they do now, college students should foot the entire educational bill, argued Trevor Arnett, authority on college finance, who represented Carnegie Institute. He recommended that tuition fees be raised gradually to cover the entire cost of college courses.

Scholarship loans and student aids of all kinds should be utilized to enable students to meet this additional charge. Money now used for endowments, Mr. Arnett suggested, could be diverted into these channels.

While discussion goes on, one college has greatly begun to experiment with this new idea. The forthcoming catalogue of Alfred University (New York) carries the announcement that tuition fees will be gradually increased to meet the cost of education. By a cooperative agreement the Harmon Foundation promises to loan money to students unable to furnish cash.

The tuition will increase gradually during the next three years, from the present amount of $150 per year to $300. Eventually, Alfred University announces, this move will free higher education from the "stigma of eleemosynarism."

Students will, of course, not be expected to pay at once the entire fee. Except in rare cases only $150 or possibly $100, will be asked for in cash payment. The deferred obligation will be turned over to the Harmon Foundation for collection within the next five years. In return, the Foundation will furnish the University with cash for current operating expenses.

This is not the first attempt of the Harmon Foundation to loan money to students. Since 1922 groups of students in 60 colleges have been borrowing from this source. The money is loaned for a period of five years, to be repaid in installments of $10 per month. So far the plan has been quite successful, out of 357 borrowers only two have failed altogether in their payments.

The final result of this new idea remains to be seen. At the present time it seems almost impossible—that is, the theory of the whole idea. But the future may see such a thing take place. Who knows?

"If I Only Could . . ."

THOMAS ARKLE CLARK, dean of men at the University of Illinois, and one of the best informed men on college and fraternity affairs in the country, has made a list of things that he would do if he had to go through college again.

Were Dean Clark to begin his college days anew he would:

1. Develop concentration—work harder but not so long.
2. Learn to work while others are around.
3. Put more stress on learning how to get information than upon the information itself.
4. Find more difficult tasks to do.
5. Learn to speak in public.
6. Learn to play some athletic game.
7. Learn to do one line of work particularly well.
8. Get better acquainted with his instructors.
9. Take fewer courses which are strictly practical.
10. Have an avocation which would bring him into close touch with men.

Perhaps he would do these things. Then again perhaps he wouldn't. We are inclined to think he wouldn't.

But, take it or leave it, it's good advice, and it won't hurt any college man to think it over and try to try a few of Dean Clark's recommendations during his undergraduate career.

The Mink

It has been no easy fight to bring a former financially and editorially defunct magazine back to its feet and to put it on a successful and paying basis. Such a fight deserves to be recognized by a student body which enjoys the present Mink.

To T. B. Bryant, Jr., who recently resigned his position as business manager of this publication on account of stress of studies, and to S. A. McCain, present business manager, go a lot of credit for successful handling of the monetary affairs of the magazine so well and making it a profitable venture.

And to Jairus Collins, editor-in-chief of the Mink, goes a large share of credit also for the editorial organization he has perfected in such a short time, and for the snappy appearance of the magazine, which now ranks among the best of the South's fun makers.

Talent interest in the work, and hard work alone have made this goal possible.

And to The Mink, our official wise-cracker, the RING-TUM PHI takes this opportunity of wishing the very best of luck and success for the future.

Bon voyage!

"YOUTH"

And yet we hear much of the youth of today. Are they so bad? Are they so good? Are they different? Are they like past generations? If we find how they think we can immediately see how they are. The quotation shows clearly that at bottom one sector of youth, the students of one school value girlhood and womanhood. If they are consistent they will equally value and inwardly prize manhood.

The following question shows again what a student body thinks of honor. It seems an adequate test, although the author does not say there are not shortcomings in the totals:

"There has grown up on the Washington and Lee campus a method of buying and selling which must be unique, since it seems to awaken such amazement among the visitors. The 'co-op' store has regular counters piled with priced articles where every customer pockets whatever article he selects, making his own change out of an open money-box, and departs, without the intervention or even the notice of a salesman. The day before a recent 'great game' with the University of Virginia some enterprising student placed hundreds of lapel buttons with the college colors on a table under a campus tree, priced according to size, with an open box to afford change and hold the money. Before night the box was so overflowing with bills that a passing professor placed a weight on them to keep the pile from blowing away. Over 300 emblems were sold in this way without a salesman in sight, and before dark the pile of bills and coins on that lonely table exceeded $125. At the same time the following were noticed in a walk through the university buildings: In the basement of the gymnasium was an immense box of bagged peanuts with an open box nearby to hold the money. Near the stair landing of the largest dormitory an open barrel of fancy apples was found, with a money-box resting on the apples, and a card put up by the unknown salesman, stating the price. Meanwhile in one of the corridors of the Graham dormitory, holding 116 students, might be found every night in the lighted open hall a well-stocked 'midnight lunch' table, with money-box and schedule of prices, but no visible salesman. It was stated that the box generally held from three to five dollars by morning."

To probe deeper may be demanded. The doubter may ask what is the motive of the Washington and Lee custom. The writer is willing to accept it without reservation as honor based upon honesty, integrity and belief in the highest standards of thinking. On the other hand it may be said, in fact it has been said, that the Virginia honor system is founded upon the less exalted basis of a gentleman's agreement as to certain campus practices and not more than that.

There is said to be honor among thieves. But such honor is not the truest honor. We venture to opine that such is not the case in Virginia. May the youth of that great State continue in honor as their forefathers have through our history led in times of war and peace.—The Baptist Student.

Collegian Learns How It Feels To Be A Striker

Marching for a few minutes with 500 striking paper box makers, a few inquiring Columbia University and Hunter College students were quickly supplied with data on strikes. A mounted policeman charged into the picket line bowling over women workers, a police reporter and causing one striker to be removed to the hospital with a possible fracture of the skull.

One student, James D. Wyker of Union Theological Seminary, received additional information. He was arrested, spent some time in a police cell and then was released in $500 on the charge of disorderly conduct.

About a dozen college students had come to strike headquarters to get first-hand information on strike life. They first attended a mass meeting at the Church of All Nations, 9 Second Avenue. After listening to a harangue by the strike leaders they filed out of the Church with the strikers marching along Wooster Street, where the industries are located.

On the trip up Wooster Street several strikers shouted to the workers on the sidewalk before the union shops. Two policemen then charged the line with swinging clubs, forcing the strikers off the walks. Shortly afterward a mounted policeman charged into the crowd, without warning, jolting the students and strikers unmercifully. Four of the students and strikers were arrested.

Intercollegiate Literary Contest Will Close Soon

With the closing of the Harper Intercollegiate Literary Contest only a few weeks away, the Editor of Harper's Magazine have issued a statement reminding the contestants that originality is likely to count heavily in the awarding of the prize.

"In offering prizes of $500, $300, and $200 for the three best prose manuscripts written by undergraduates in any American colleges and universities," says the Editors in their statement, "we are looking for manuscripts original and interesting in substance and written in a form well adapted to this substance. This sounds obvious enough, but to judge from some of the contributions received in the Intercollegiate Contests last year, the importance of original substance is not as generally understood by undergraduate writers as it might be. By original we do not mean queer, extravagant, impudent, or exotic; we mean first-hand, drawn from personal experience or personal knowledge.

"We do not want imitations of literary models studied in the classroom any more than we want deliberate efforts to evolve something eccentric. We want stories and essays and articles written out of their authors' own lives and and ideas and imaginations. The important thing is to have something of one's own worth saying or a story of one's own worth telling, and to say or tell it well. That, after all, is what the authors of the masterpieces of English literature did. They did not imitate, they struck out for themselves."

Full information about the conditions of the Harper Intercollegiate Contest may be obtained from Harper's Magazine, 49 East 33rd St., New York City. The contest is open to all undergraduate students in American colleges and universities and closes March 5. The judges are Henry Seidel Canby, William McFee, and Elinor Wylie.

Co-Eds Discover Women Suffrage

Evanston, Ill.—One more body of university women at Northwestern University are tired of having their minor offices thrown to them as sops. They are going out to wrest control of campus politics from the men. Twenty-six of the twenty-seven university sororities have banded together to fight the fraternities, which, they charge, control all elections.

QUESTION

He was a little, wizened, shriveled up, emaciated, imbecile type of human, peering out from behind enormous, thick-rimmed goggles, with a droop in his shoulders, and wearing a threadbare and shiny old suit. He had a face which bore the evidence of having been stepped upon by an elephant. Yet, despite his homely mien and terrible shape, he was the most popular man on the campus. Beautiful co-eds, with ruby lips and pearl-like teeth, flirted with him shamelessly. Football heroes covered before him and trembled at his every word. The ritziest fraternities extended him a welcome hand.

He was a professor.

Yale College In China Closed By Strike

Sweeping northward from Canton, the revolutionary and nationalistic forces have possessed themselves of the Province of Hunan sending missionaries scurrying to the coast and paralyzing, temporarily at least, Yale's Chinese branch, Yale-in-China at Changsha. By cablegram announcement came that the college, closed on December 10 by a student strike, would not reopen for the second term on February 15.

Princess Tarhata Kirm, daughter of the Sultan of Sulu and a graduate of the University of Illinois, has surrendered to tradition and entered the harem of Datu Tahill, a high state Sulu dignitary. The princess returned from the United States with bobbed hair, short skirts and rolled hose. She is wife number four in the harem.

Among the contributors were Christopher Morley, novelist; Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House; Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana; Max Mason, president of the University; and Eddie Cantor, comedian.

A Crusade For Arbitration

With the United States and Mexico drifting perilously near open hostility the plans for a National Crusade for theaties of arbitration will be of interest to students.

An arbitration crusade is now afoot to induce our Government to outlaw war by negotiating treaties between the United States and every other nation providing for obligatory arbitration or adjudication of all disputes that may arise between them.

William Floyd, editor of The Arbitrator, is organizing the campaign, which an announcement says "should meet the approval of every patriot form thte office of the training camp who urges preparedness to prevent war to the absolute pacifist who pledges himself not to fight under any circumstances." The proposed method requires no action on the part of the United States that is not reciprocal or the part of other nations.

Students who are interested in the "Arbitration prize" of $500, the different methods of aiding in this crusade, or in contributing money to its furtherance, should write to The American Arbitration Crusade, 114 East 31st Street, New York City.

A Canadian Student Union Is Discussed

A national union of Canadian students may be formed, similar to the National Union of England and Wales, the "Confederation Internationale des Etuciantes" of Europe and the National Student Federation of America. Representatives of eleven Canadian colleges and universities met in Montreal during the Christmas vacation to decide whether the project is feasible.

In the West Canadian colleges fell an especial need for this union. The "better understanding" which a union would bring about is wanted in these institutions which are at present practically isolated from the rest of the Dominion. The situation is somewhat better in the East, because of Intercollegiate Union.

The conference considered the scope, the finances and the organization needs for a union. A tentative constitution was drawn up. Findings will be dispatched to all Canadian institutions. If ten of them resolve to form a union it will be done.

Something New: A Film School

From the universities come men trained for selling real estate in Florida and sewing machines in Patagonia; men who have taken the course in motor vehicle salesmanship, and men who are well equipped to detect scrub cattle. Even captains of the walnut industry, in California, have succeeded in having a course offered at the State University for walnut growers.

And now a film school is being planned. With the financial reviews reporting the film industry is third in the country, there is a move afoot to include film production in the curriculum. President Nicholas Murray Butler announces that a faculty committee at Columbia University is considering the matter.

He declared that he would make a definite announcement as soon as the faculty committee completes its report.

A committee, appointed by Will Hays for the producers and by Dr. Butler for the University, will make a final report on the entire subject.

Premature Rushing In The High Schools

Los Angeles, Calif.—Inglewood union High School, has sent letters to the president of every college and university in Southern California announcing that the institution will tolerate no more rushing of high school students by college agents, alumni, or coaches. Cases were cited in the letter in which students who wished to take up forestry and lumbering were compelled by force of argument alone to attend a college which made no pretense of giving the desired courses.

Varsity And Frosh To Fight Thursday

Both varsity and frosh boxing teams will swing into action on home territory again Thursday, when the yearlings meet Staunton Military academy in a return match in the afternoon and the varsity engage the strong North Carolina squad in the evening.

It is not definitely known how the two teams will line up, but is expected that there will be few changes made from the squads that saw action last week in engagements on foreign floors.

That both contest will be interesting is evidenced by the fact that North Carolina is undefeated and that S. M. A. tied the Little Generals in their last meeting.

Frosh Boxers Fight S. M. A. Pugs To Tie

The freshman boxing team and the S. M. A. battlers fought to a three all deadlock there last Saturday. The tie was caused by the fact that the bout in the unlimited class was not held.

Holland of the Blue and White pugilists won a decision over Tortora, the former undefeated entry of the Cadets in the 125-pound class. Platt and Smitt accounted for the other 2 points of Washington and Lee.

Tomorrow at 3 o'clock th freshmen will hold a return bout with S. M. A. in Doremus gymnasium.

Summary:

125-pound Class—Holland of W. & L. won by decision.
135-pound Class—Perry of W. & L. lost by Decision.
145-pound Class—Platt of W. & L. won by decision.
145-pound Class—Schmitt of W. & L. won by knockout.

Frosh Cagers To Meet V. P. I. Friday

Gobbler Engagement Will Have Large Bearing On State Title

The frosh cagers will meet the V. P. I. aggregation Friday night on the local court. As this game will mean much toward the State Title, Coach Davis has been putting the Little Generals through some strenuous practice in the last few days. Last year the undefeated freshmen team had little trouble in disposing of the Techmen and Coach Davis expects his men to repeat this year.

The probable line-up for the Little Generals will be as follows:
Wilson, Forward.
Alexander, Forward.
Collins, Center.
Gordon, Guard.
Wood, Guard.

SUBMIT YOUR GIRL'S PICTURE

Editor-in-chief of the Calyx, M. M. Junkin, urges all students having pictures of girls which they desire to submit for the "Beauty Section" of the Calyx to turn same into him or to O. J. Wilkinson within the next few days.

It is desired to make this year's beauty section truly representative of the famous Washington and Lee dances and the more pictures submitted the greater will be the chance of accomplishing this. At present few pictures have been turned in thus enhancing the chance of any turned in now.

GENERALS KNOCK V. P. I. FOR LOOP

White ranked close behind Spotts in the ranks of stardom with six field and one foul shot. Spotts gave indications today of returning to the form which made him high scorer of the South Atlantic states last year.

Captain Urmev played his usual furious, inspiring play, breaking up many enemy plays, and covering the floor in fine shape. He also broke into the scoring with two double counters and one bulls-eye from the foul line. Groop and Eglebach showed up well and "Hot" Ebert played a fine game and was indispensable to his team, though he shot only one field goal.

For the visitors Rogers was the shining light with five field goals and some wonderful floor work. Fair did his part in the scoring of his team with four field goals. Both teams played strong defensive games, but the Generals excelled in this department.

Unexpectedly, the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations received a gift of 59,082 kroner for carrying on its work in ferreting out the complicated motivations of national policy. The check, amounting to about 15,775 American dollars, was the gift of Vice President Dawes and represented his share of the Noble Pearce Prize for 1925, which was awarded him in conjunction with Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

Johns Hopkins University will be the home of the Page School. President Goodnow of that institution sets forth its purpose in a message accompanying the announcement of the Dawes gift: "... little effort has been made to search out in a scientific and objective manner the underlying causes—commercial, financial, ethnic, psychological and political which determines the policies of nations."

Three Dates A Week Bother Co-Eds

"Smuggling" threatens to become a favorite sport at the University of Texas where the Co-eds are limited to three dates a week. This is out great open spaces—where men are men and women kiss straight from the shoulder. Some of the more homely Co-eds wished to know if this was a guarantee that they would have three dates a week, while one snappy-looking Freshman complained, "I'd like to know how they expect a poor little girl to get educated on three dates a week."

"There is not such poison in the green snake's mouth or in the hornet's sting as in a woman's heart."—Chinese Proverb.

Any student receiving "A" for the team in any course at the University of South Carolina will be exempted from the final examination in that subject. This rule was made to encourage and stimulate better work. Professor Cook, chairman of the advanced standing committee, says it is much more desirable to have students study through the term than to have them "cram" a week before examinations.

The production, which will be handled by a freshman, will be a two-reel story of two collegians from the moment of their decision to go to college until the final day of their four-year term.

The picture will be made under the auspices of the University Alumni corporation. After a premier at the annual banquet of the Colgate Alumni association of New York on February 8, in New York City, it will be shown to alumni throughout the country.

"Owning and operating a hotel" is a new course instituted at Western Reserve University. Everything from kitchen to manager is included in the course. Aid and suggestions have come from Cornell where a similar course is offered.

Professor Tucker Back From Meeting

Professor R. H. Tucker has returned from Richmond, Va., where he spent last week in a meeting of the Committee on Consolidation and Simplification of State and County Governments.

The report of this committee was made public last Sunday. It has made many proposed changes in the administrative structure of the state government. Of the 85 independent agencies now functioning as part of the state government it is recommended that 28 be abolished and the rest be grouped into 11 well organized departments. The most important proposal would create a department of finance with divisions of purchase and printing, audit and control, the latter of which would have supervision over the expenditures of all state departments and institutions.

The report contained recommendations for the principle of the short ballot and the administrative consolidation to county governments as well as to the state governments.

The proposals will be taken up in the General assembly called to meet March 15.
