

The Alumni Magazine

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY

President
Is Inaugurated

—

Dr. Pusey
Chosen Dean

—

Financial Aid
Expanded

Summer 1960

Washington and Lee's FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

1960

September	24—Centre	Lexington
October	1—Dickinson	Carlisle, Pa.
October	8—Franklin and Marshall	Lexington
	(Homecoming)
October	15—Randolph Macon	Ashland, Va.
October	22—Johns Hopkins	Lexington
October	29—Hampden-Sydney	Hampden-Sydney, Va.
November	5—Carnegie Tech	Pittsburgh, Pa.
November	12—Sewanee	Lexington
November	19—Washington University	St. Louis, Mo.

1959 Record: Won 3, Lost 4, Tied 1

Come Back for Homecoming on October 8!

the alumni magazine

OF WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY

July 1960

Vol. XXXV

No. 3

Published quarterly by Alumni, Incorporated
Washington and Lee University
Lexington, Virginia

Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office at Lexington, Virginia, September 15, 1924

Printed at the Journalism Laboratory Press
of Washington and Lee University under the supervision of C. Harold Lauck

Editor

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, 1940

Managing Editor

TINA C. JEFFREY

EDITORIAL BOARD

PAXTON DAVIS

FRANK J. GILLIAM, 1917

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, 1940

JAMES W. WHITEHEAD

THE WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

President

PAUL M. SHUFORD, 1943

Vice-President

BERNARD LEVIN, 1942

Secretary

WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, 1940

Treasurer

JAMES B. MARTIN, 1931

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

RODNEY M. COOK, 1946

BERNARD LEVIN, 1942

JAMES B. MARTIN, 1931

PAUL M. SHUFORD, 1943, President

PEYTON B. WINFREE, 1935, Ex Officio

CLARK B. WINTER, 1937

DR. JOHN B. BATTLE, JR., 1934

WILLIAM B. WISDOM, 1921

THE COVER: President Fred C. Cole takes the oath of office from James R. Caskie, '06, rector, at Inauguration ceremonies on May 7, 1960, on the campus.

CHAPTER CORRESPONDENTS

- Appalachian—John M. Jones, '37, Hilltop House, Greeneville, Tennessee
Augusta-Rockingham—J. B. Stombeck, Box 594, Waynesboro, Virginia
Atlanta—Richard A. Denny, Jr., '52, 434 Trust Company of Georgia Building
Baltimore—James R. McDonald, '50, 1206 Lake Falls Road
Birmingham—John V. Coe, '25, 1631 North 3rd Street
Charleston, West Virginia—Ruge P. DeVan, Jr., '34, United Carbon Building
Chattanooga—Gerry U. Stephens, '50, 2721 Foltz Drive
Chicago—Charles A. Strahorn, '28, Winnetka Trust and Savings Bank, Winnetka, Illinois
Charlotte—Charles L. Green, '40, 1207 Commercial Bank Building
Cincinnati—Jack L. Reiter, '41, 1020 Union Trust Building
Cleveland—James D. Bonebrake, '54, 19219 Meadow Lark Lane, Warrensville Heights 22, Ohio
Cumberland Valley—James L. Rimler, '31, 20 N. Court St., Frederick, Maryland
Danville—Richard L. Heard, '44, P. O. Box 1306, Martinsville
Florida West Coast—John A. Hanley, '34, 524 Florida Nat'l Bank Building, St. Petersburg
Houston—Ted Riggs, '38, 601 First City National Bank Building
Jacksonville—A. Lee Powell, Jr., '50, 34 Buckman Building
Kansas City—W. H. Leedy, '49, 15 West 10th Street
Louisville—Ernest Woodward, II, '40, Kentucky Home Life Building
Lynchburg—Dr. George B. Craddock, '30, Langhorne Road
Mid-South—Harry Wellford, '46, Commerce Title Building, Memphis, Tennessee
New York—E. Stewart Epley, '49, McKinsey & Co., 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17
New Orleans—Herbert Jahncke, '30, Jahncke Service
New River and Greenbrier—Harry E. Moran, '13, Beckley, West Virginia
Norfolk, Virginia—Henry I. Willett, '52, Box 8, Churchland, Virginia
North Texas—John M. Stemmons, '31, 401 Davis Building, Dallas
Northern Louisiana—C. Lane Sartor, '42, 4812 Camelia, Shreveport, Louisiana
Peninsula—Beverley W. Lee, Jr., '42, 13 Earl Street, Hampton, Virginia
Philadelphia—Sidney Ulfelder, Jr., '24, Brookmead Drive, Erlton, New Jersey
Piedmont—A. M. Pullen, Jr., '36, 203 Southeastern Building, Greensboro, North Carolina
Pittsburgh—Anthony E. D'Emilio, Jr., '41, 702 Frick Building
Richmond—Edward J. McCarty, '42, 1203 Essex Avenue, Richmond, Virginia
Roanoke—William R. Holland, Mountain Trust Bank, P. O. Box 1411
San Antonio—John W. Goode, Jr., '43, 201 N. St. Mary's Street
St. Louis—Malcolm Holekamp, '53, 344 Gray Ave., Webster Groves 19, Missouri
Tri-State—T. J. Mayo, '31, 440-12th Avenue, Huntington, West Virginia
Upper Potomac—Thomas N. Berry, '38, 15 N. Allegany St., Cumberland, Maryland
Washington, D. C.—Arthur Clarendon Smith, Jr., '41, 1313 You Street, N.W.

UNIVERSITY MARSHAL CHARLES P. LIGHT leads the inaugural procession of dignitaries down across the campus.

“An institution dedicated to the liberal arts and sciences”

Washington and Lee Inaugurates A President

WASHINGTON AND LEE, which has seen only thirteen presidents since its incorporation in 1782, inaugurated Dr. Fred Carrington Cole as its fourteenth president on May 7, 1960, in formal ceremonies on the shaded campus.

Dr. Cole, former academic vice president of Tulane University, assumed the presidency last September 1, succeeding Dr. Francis P. Gaines, who had served as president since 1930 and is now Chancellor.

Over 1,000 guests assembled to honor the university and its new president on the campus between the home Robert E. Lee occupied as president of Washington College and the R. E. Lee Memorial Episcopal Church where he served as vestryman. The academic procession before the ceremony included delegates from more than 125 colleges and universities, learned societies, and educational organizations; the Board of Trustees; alumni delegates; student delegates; the presidential party; and the Washington and Lee faculty.

CONVOCATION ADDRESS

Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University and a friend of Dr. Cole, made the convocation address which preceded the inauguration. He congratulated Washington and Lee for choosing a man of Dr. Cole's caliber for its president. "At my first meeting with him—now more than a decade ago," he said, "...I was struck by his discriminating mind, his manifest concern for quality, his affection for people. Since that time I have followed with interest his career as scholar, teacher, author, editor, and administrative officer and have observed time and again how widely he is respected for his industry, discernment, fairness and warm humanity... The moment is full of promise for this college, for your state, and for our nation. In choosing Fred Cole, this community evidences a continued awareness of what makes a good college. You can rejoice in the leader you have found; and he in the high opportunity you offer him for responsible service to quality education."

Recognizing that "Washington

Spectators enjoy good weather during the inaugural ceremony on the campus.

and Lee has achieved much of its distinction as an institution dedicated to the liberal arts and sciences," Dr. Cole, in his inaugural address, defined the liberal arts and sciences as "studies that free the mind, lead to understanding, create humility and tolerance, and afford a basis for continuing study and learning." These studies historically differ from "subjects with obvious utilitarian applications."

INTEGRITY IS KEY

"Greatness in an institution is difficult indeed to achieve or to maintain," Dr. Cole declared. "It requires toil and treasure, with no practicable or arbitrary limitations upon either. Yet the one indispensable element of greatness—integrity—is available merely by resolution to have it and to keep it. It will not by itself assure greatness; but an institution or an individual with it will be much farther along the road to greatness than one with far larger physical resources but without this essential quality."

Four of the top-ranking delegates from universities were Washington and Lee alumni: left to right; PRESIDENT FRANZE E. LUND, '33, of Kenyon College, PRESIDENT EDGAR F. SHANNON, JR., '39, of the University of Virginia, PRESIDENT ROBERT E. LEE, '41, of Georgia State College for Women, and VICE-PRESIDENT HARRY M. PHILPOTT, '38, University of Florida.

Discussing the role of liberal education at the college and university level, Dr. Cole called integrity "the most important consideration in regard to the objectives of an educational institution." It "is subject to attack and erosion from various and many sources and causes." "A principal danger," he warned, "comes from the demand to fill immediate and specific needs rather than to supply students with the basic information and broad intellectual, and scientific, training necessary for viewing and solving current problems in proper perspective and with sound understanding of causes and consequences."

THREATS TO INTEGRITY

Two specific threats to the loss of integrity today, he said, are athletics and research. He described how, in many colleges, intercollegiate sports have become a form of popular public entertainment. Maintaining a nationally prominent athletic position tempts compromises with "admission standards, the curriculum, and the needs of some academic departments. When athletics become apart from—rather than a part of—a college's educational program, then the threat of loss of integrity is very real indeed."

"A less recognized aspect of distortion in education is related to research," Dr. Cole declared. "Now every university of consequence is expected to have immense research projects or programs. . . . It must always be borne in mind that a college is basically a community of scholars and potential scholars. Such an institution should not undertake the type of research that can be pursued most by industrial, commercial, or governmental laboratories," or any type which will impose a burden on the college.

HIGH STANDARDS

Maintaining the integrity of a college requires the support of a certain framework for learning, and this framework includes adequate administrative personnel; scholar-teachers; capable students; and a comprehensive curriculum.

The new president pointed out that "a great liberal arts institution must have well-understood and well-defined objectives. It must meet the high standards in all areas and aspects of its being and its operation. . . . In a university dedicated to liberal studies, the curriculum must be broad enough to offer acquaintance with all major areas of knowledge and the great ideas that have shaped the destiny of man. . . . The faculty must be adequate to the great task before it. It is the faculty, more than any other element, that gives a college or university its character and its quality. The teacher is, after all, the only unique thing which a college has to offer. . . . The student body should be of the quality, size, and composition which will permit the instructional objectives to be attained most effectively. . . . Every student should have the intellectual and personal capacities, as well as the academic preparation, to utilize a college education for more than ordinary benefit to himself and society. . . . We must educate our young people not merely for happy living and personal success, but for wise and dynamic leadership."

"The administrative officers of a university or college must be dedicated to fostering each of these elements of greatness," he concluded, ". . . but nothing in education is ever really adequate. We can never know enough; we can never teach enough; our students can never learn enough. But we must unceasingly strive to learn more, to teach more, to get our students to know more, both by improving instructional methods and by selection of capable students who are willing to work unceasingly."

A group of alumni delegates to the Inauguration during coffee hour in Tucker Hall.

Dr. William Pusey, III Is Newly Appointed Dean of the College

WHEN WASHINGTON and Lee re-opens in September, there will be some familiar faces in new places.

Sitting in the dean's chair will be Dr. William Webb Pusey, III, a member of the faculty since 1939, and now a professor of German. He will fill the administrative vacancy created by the resignation last spring of Dr. Leon F. Sensabaugh as Dean of the University.

Dr. David W. Sprunt, professor of religion, will assume the job of Associate Dean of Students, and University Chaplain on September 1. He will also continue as an active teacher.

Dr. Pusey, 49 years old, will serve as Dean of the College. He will be the University's principal academic officer, but he will not exercise direct authority over the deans of Law and the School of Commerce.

This reflects a change in the administrative organization. Previously, the Dean of the University directed the College of Arts and Sciences, and also was responsible to the president for affairs of all Washington and Lee's academic divisions.

"Because of Washington and Lee's traditional and continuing emphasis on the liberal arts, I think it is appropriate that the university have a dean devoted exclusively to this area of learning, and that this officer be a man whose training and experience stem from the liberal arts," President Fred C. Cole declared.

"Dr. Pusey," he said, "is a scholar of the first rank, a respected teacher and a man of excellent experience in administrative matters through his valuable service on many and varied faculty committees. By appointing him Dean, we will not be losing one of our best teachers, for he will continue to teach, but I feel that Washington and Lee will benefit all the more from his leadership in other functions."

Under the new administrative alignment, Dr. Pusey, commerce school Dean Lewis W. Adams, and law school Dean Charles P. Light will hold equal administrative status, a situation "best suited to the particular needs of Washington and Lee," President Cole said. Dr. Pusey, however, will normally act in the president's behalf during his absence.

Dr. Pusey holds a bachelor's degree from Haverford College, a master's from Harvard, and his doctorate from Columbia University. His major field of study has been German impressionism, and he has also specialized in American-German literary relations. He is the author of two books, and numerous reviews and articles in scholarly journals. During World War II, he served in the United States Naval Reserve, being cited for his work as an interpreter in interrogation of the German Naval Command at the end of the war. Father of two

(Continued on page 26)

Dean of the College WILLIAM W. PUSEY, III

Washington

ANOTHER COMMENCEMENT ceremony was held under the trees of the resplendently-green campus on June 3, 1960, as 197 men advanced from students into alumni. Honorary degrees were awarded to three prominent Americans.

President Fred C. Cole delivered the graduation address, and Thomas W. Wieting of Memphis, Tennessee, the valedictory, before a large assembly of parents, faculty, and friends.

Earlier that morning, forty-three seniors were commissioned second lieutenants in the U. S. Army Reserve, after having successfully completed the ROTC course. Major General Ralph C. Cooper, commander of the XXI Corps at Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania, addressed the group.

Baccalaureate services took place on June 2 in Lee Chapel. The Reverend Charles P. Price, associate professor of systematic theology at the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Virginia, delivered the sermon.

Alumni activities included the annual general meeting on June 2, and a luncheon on the back campus lawn for seniors and families, and alumni and faculty.

The President and Mrs. Cole entertained at a reception in their home on the night of June 2. Student activities included a jazz concert on May 31 and Finals Ball on June 1.

The roving camera caught these groups at the luncheon given by the Alumni Association: Rhodes Scholar JON MCLIN, his date, and family; center D. ALLEN PENICK, JR., '60; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. OULD, JR., '29 and ED OULD, III, '57, '60L; bottom, law graduate CHARLES L. MCCORMICK, III, his father, mother, and date.

and Lee Finals, 1960

Honorary Degree Recipients

LEWIS FRANKLIN POWELL, JR., '29
Richmond, Virginia, attorney and civic leader

"... The Virginia Bar, the American Law Institute, and the American Bar Association, have constantly benefited from his incisive and discriminating wisdom; his discernment in educational matters has contributed to the excellence of Richmond schools and to the influence of the higher institutions of which he is a trustee ..."

DR. FLETCHER MELVIN GREEN
chairman, department of history
University of North Carolina

"... As a native Southerner, he has written of the constitutional development of the Southern states, has helped to guide the Southern Historical Association since its inception, has taught at five Southern institutions; but most of all, his distinguished graduate teaching has helped create a university of national reputation at Chapel Hill. Professor Green has planted the seed of historical scholarship in the minds of hundreds of young students."

WILLIAM McCHESNEY MARTIN, JR.
chairman, Federal Reserve Board

"... The son of a distinguished alumnus and devoted trustee of the university, he became America's proponent of sound monetary and fiscal policy in positions of highest responsibility: President of the New York Stock Exchange, Director of the Export-Import Bank, Assistant secretary of the Treasury, Executive Director of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. In recognition of his distinguished achievement, Washington and Lee welcomes his father's son as an alumnus."

Left, at the reception held at the President's home were MRS. MITCHELL I. LEWIS; MR. LEWIS, '50; DR. KENNETH P. STEVENS, biology; and DEAN LEON F. SENSABAUGH. Above, 1950 class banquet at the Virginia House.

Reunion

IT WAS back-slapping time in Lexington May 20-22, when Reunion classes descended upon Washington and Lee for fellowship and lots of fun.

About 175 alumni and wives returned for the fiftieth, fortieth, twenty-fifth and tenth anniversary reunions, and, judging by the smiles all around, the weekend was a huge success.

This was the first time a tenth reunion had been held, and, due to its success, plans have been made to include a tenth reunion each year.

Highlights of the gathering were the class banquets, an address by President Fred C. Cole, and a report on the state of the University by top administrators.

Registration opened on Friday, May 20, followed by guided campus tours, a motor trip to Goshen Pass, and a reception at the President's home. That night, in duPont Hall, history professor Ollinger Crenshaw, '25, conducted a seminar on "The South and the Nation, 1860-1960." A social hour followed.

On Saturday, a detailed report on University progress was given by University Dean Leon F. Sensabaugh, law school dean Clayton E. Williams, commerce school dean Lewis W. Adams, Dean of Students Frank J. Gilliam, and student body president J. Frank Surface. President Cole spoke at a luncheon for all classes in Evans Dining Hall. Afternoon activities included a golf tournament at Lexington's Tribrook course, and tours of Lexington gardens or the James Lees and Sons rug plant at Glasgow. Banquets and a "jamboree" for all classes were Saturday night events.

Alumni ate lunch in the new Evans Dining Hall on Saturday.

Above, class banquet of 1935. Right, at the reception at the President's home were: MRS. CHARLES P. ROBINSON, DR. B. M. KRUG, B. M. HIGGINBOTHAM, and ROBERT PAUL ASHLEY, all of the class of 1910.

Weekend

The reunion adjourned Sunday morning, following a worship service in Lee Chapel, conducted by Dr. David W. Sprunt, professor of religion. The Glee Club gave special music.

Registration of each class was as follows: 1910, fourteen men; 1920, fifteen men; 1935, twenty-nine men; 1950, thirty-one. Many were accompanied by their wives, and other members of their families.

The Reunions for the classes of 1911, 1921, 1936, and 1951 will be held next year during the first weekend in May, from May 5-7. The Alumni Secretary will be writing members of those classes to form committees and to advise in the establishing of a program. Men of these classes should bear in mind the date of their Reunion, and plan to be back for fun in 'Sixty-One.

Members of the class of 1910, hale and hearty, are shown below: seated, left to right, PHILIP W. MURRAY, ROBERT PAUL ASHLEY, D. WAMPLER EARMAN, DR. BERNARD McDOWELL KRUG, B. M. HIGGINBOTHAM, CHARLES P. ROBINSON. Standing, WILLIAM GAINES LACKEY, COL. JOHN W. TUCKER, FRANK Y. CONNER, RUSSELL L. FRINK, JOSEPH R. BLACKBURN, LOUIS W. BAKER, JAMES N. MONTGOMERY, HAMILTON A. DERR.

COLLEGE ADMINISTRATORS have learned to recognize the coming of spring by the multiplication of undergraduate fads and unscheduled extra-curricula. Once every four years Washington and Lee students channel this seasonal energy into a campus-wide production which their administrators feel has real educational value—a mock political convention held for the party out of power.

Every four years since 1908, with only two wartime lapses, they have staged colorful shows with all the finesse of polished politicians. And seven out of eleven times, they have picked the correct presidential nominees.

MR. TRUMAN and DR. COLE led the parade in the last great Dusenberg built.

Truman Keynotes Mock Convention

The 1,000 students become delegates, Doremus gymnasium is transformed into Convention Hall, and downtown Lexington sports banners and bunting of state and candidate headquarters for days before the convention begins.

Miss America speaks.

Central figure of the 1960 Mock Democratic convention on May 2 and 3 was former President Harry S. Truman, who keynoted the opening session and added authenticity to the partisan enthusiasm. He was introduced by an old friend, alumnus H. Graham Morison, class of 1932, chairman of the 1932 Democratic Mock Convention. In his twenty-two minute speech Mr. Truman reminded delegates that, in choosing the man whom we will select as our next President, we must elect "an honorable man, a man of courage . . . a man who will make decisions." He told the students that he would like to return someday to Washington and Lee to tell them about the job of being president, and what it entails.

Joining him on the celebrities' bench at the convention were two other well-known figures—"Miss America of 1960," Lynda Lee Mead of Natchez, Mississippi, and U. S. Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington. Miss Mead, who rode on the New Jersey float in the pre-convention parade, told the delegates she felt right at home in a Democratic gathering, coming from a state "where there's no such thing as a Republican." Senator Jackson feared that America is losing the initiative in world affairs because the present leaders have no clear ideas of what our purposes are and how we go about achieving them. He urged an all-out effort for building a world community here which makes room for all peoples and "for fulfillment of their legitimate aspirations—for economic progress, equality of status, freedom and security."

During the balloting, presidential candidates John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, Stuart Symington, and Adlai E. Stevenson received the largest number of votes, with Senator Kennedy forging ahead on the sixth ballot to win. Senator Jackson was named by the collegians as running mate for Kennedy, on the third ballot.

Convention shenanigans included the usual "spontaneous" demonstrations for candidates, brightened by these individual stunts: the releasing of two snowy "doves of peace" in behalf of John Kennedy . . . the doves swooped wildly over the convention, then settled down on the laps of some students' wives to be petted; an unwieldy batch of large gas-filled balloons marked LBJ for Senator Johnson, which escaped a delegation and went sailing to the ceiling of Doremus gymnasium; a toy motorized car filled with students, which cruised up and down the aisles when things got dull.

The pre-convention parade was led by Mr. Truman and Dr. Fred C. Cole, president of Washington and Lee, riding in a huge open 1940 Dusenbergs. An estimated 20,000 spectators cheered the 75 floats and twelve bands which wound their way through Lexington's streets.

One of the highlights of the parade happened in front of the President's Home, where the dignitaries were seated, when two ornery mules pulling the Oklahoma float, a covered wagon, stopped suddenly and refused to go on. Spectators shouted advice while riders in the prairie schooner implored the mules to move. Finally two collegians mounted the animal's backs and succeeded in starting them again, 'midst cheers and laughter.

Mr. Truman's last official act at the convention was to participate in the dedication of a memorial plaque to the memory of former Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, who died of a heart attack in 1956 while delivering the keynote address at the Mock Convention in Lexington. The plaque was presented by the Washington and Lee student body.

Organization and planning of the convention was ably carried out by a steering committee of five law school students and two undergraduates, who had worked all year in planning the project. They were: Charles L. McCormick, III, chairman; F. William Ling, Thomas B. Bryant, III, Thomas B. Branch, III, Warren H. Goodwyn, Peyton B. Winfree, III, and Jon B. McLin.

Senator HENRY M. JACKSON

New Financial Aid Program Is Established

A BROAD NEW student financial aid program will go into effect at Washington and Lee in September.

Named to direct the new program is James D. Farrar, '49, assistant dean of students for eight years, who now becomes Director of Student Financial Aid and Scholarships.

The plan will offer expanded scholarship aid and loan assistance to a substantially increased number of students, President Fred C. Cole said.

Key feature of the program is a student loan system through which a student can borrow up to five-eighths of the cost of his college education from Washington and Lee, with the remaining three-eighths covered by outright scholarship assistance. The ratio of scholarship and loan aid will vary in accordance with funds available and experience with the program.

Dr. Cole said he hoped the program eventually will place a Washington and Lee education within the grasp of a greater number of superior high school graduates, regardless of their financial resources.

As director, Mr. Farrar will work with the existing faculty scholarship committee in all matters involving scholarships, student loan funds, and campus and off-campus job opportunities for students.

President Cole emphasized that the loan plan will supplement, not replace, Washington and Lee's current strong program of endowed scholarships. Endowed scholarship assistance will provide 41 freshmen entering in September with aid totaling $33,080 for the 1960-61 school year. This year, 200 Washington and Lee undergraduates—20 per cent of the enrollment—received $155,115 in university administered aid, an average of $775 per student.

JAMES D. FARRAR, '49, program director

Seventeen 1960-61 applicants for scholarship help have been offered combination scholarship-loans under the new aid program.

President Cole explained the scholarship-loan system this way:

An applicant will have 75 per cent of his needs covered by scholarship funds and 25 per cent by a loan during his freshman year. As a sophomore, the division will be 50-50, and as a junior he will receive only 25 per cent scholarship aid, but 75 per cent loan assistance. His senior year all help will be on a loan basis.

Loans will be made on a basis of three per cent, with no interest charged while the student is in school. The graduate has ten years in which to pay off his indebtedness, President Cole said.

He said the system is similar to loan programs now in use at other colleges, and is also similar to the federal aid to education loan system.

The president, who helped set up a similar program when he was academic vice-president of Tulane University, said the venture will be bound by "no rigid rules."

"We shall be establishing principles now," he pointed out. "We shall need to learn from experience. I see no reason why such a scholarship-loan system, continued on a proper basis, cannot become as good as any in this country."

He said during the early stages of its application, the program will benefit largely high-qualified scholarship applicants for whom there are not enough endowed scholarships to go around. As resources become available, Washington and Lee hopes to be able to extend scholarship loans to more and more applicants who need assistance to attend.

"As always, we shall expect the student to pay as much of his own expense as possible," President Cole declared. "But if we can move ahead in this program, we shall be able to say to any student in the United States that if he wants to come to Washington and Lee and if he can meet our normal entrance requirements, he can come despite any economic limitations he may have."

Capital Fund Drive Passes Two Million Mark

OVER TWO AND ONE-HALF years ago, Washington and Lee University began its first concerted campaign for capital funds. Extensive preliminary surveys to determine the University's long range expenditures gave priority to the construction and equipping of a new building for physics, biology, geology, an addition to Howe Hall for modern efficiency in teaching chemistry, and the renovation or remodeling of Reid Hall for journalism and pre-engineering.

Since the drive for capital funds began in July, 1958, gifts have been received from over 4,000 alumni, parents, and friends of the University from all over the country. The co-operative progress which these gifts represent was realized when it was announced on May 31 that the campaign for capital funds had passed the $2,000,000 mark. Of this amount $1,500,000 has been designated for new physics, geology, biology, pre-engineering and journalism facilities toward the goal of $2,000,000 for these buildings. Approximately $500,000 has been donated to the University's endowment, the income to be used chiefly for scholarships and faculty salaries.

Campaigns involving intensive solicitation were planned for 44 different geographical areas which had a concentration of 100 or more alumni, friends, and parents. Of these 44 areas, 37 have been completed or are now in the active solicitation stage. Area campaigns are planned for San Francisco and Los Angeles, California, during August.

Top, at the Pittsburgh dinner meeting, co-chairmen ARTHUR M. DOTY, '35, and MARION G. HEATWOLE, '41, talk with President FRED C. COLE. Bottom, this group got together at the St. Louis dinner, left to right: WILLIAM M. ROBINSON, '33; HUGH D. MCNEW, '36, chairman of the dinner; PRESIDENT COLE; M. L. HOLEKAMP, '53, president of the alumni chapter; LANDON Y. JONES, '38, and JAMES C. WALKER.

PRESIDENT and MRS. FRED C. COLE and their family

University News

THE CAMPUS

■ THE LEE HOUSE, home of Washington and Lee's presidents since 1869, has undergone extensive repair and remodeling work during the past months. The job of preserving the home as an historical landmark began last fall and was completed in time for President Fred C. Cole and his family to move into during early May.

Original cost of the house was $15,000, and money for its construction was raised through public subscription throughout the country.

It is thought that General Robert E. Lee planned much of the house, with the assistance of his son, General George Washington Custis Lee. The two-story brick Greek Revival home looks today much the same on the exterior as it did 91 years ago.

The house had advanced ideas for its time, about heating and cooling. The walls were built in three layers of brick, with air space between the second and third layers—a natural insulation. There was also a system of vents which could be opened and closed by small latches.

In shoring up the home, workmen repaired and replaced timbers, added supports in the basement, and made extensive repairs to the interior walls and floors. The exterior brick work and mortar were in good condition and were not touched.

The house has been air-conditioned on the first and second floors, and modern conveniences added to make the dwelling more livable. However, as much as possible was done to retain the traditional atmosphere of the historic structure.

■ THE BINOCULARS used by General Robert E. Lee throughout the Civil war have been presented to Lee Museum here, the gift of Mrs. George Bolling Lee of San Francisco, California, widow of General Lee's grandson.

The field glasses are still in excellent condition. Apparently the binoculars did not fit the leather case as well as General Lee wished, for a wadding of paper in the bottom of the case was found. The paper was a blank Confederate Army printed form, entitled "Enlisted Men on Extra or Day Duty."

FACULTY

■ AN HISTORICAL study of educational techniques through the ages has been written by Dr. Edward D. Myers, chairman of the department of philosophy. His book, "Education in Perspective of History," was written against the background of Arnold J. Toynbee's monumental "A Study of History," and the noted British philosopher-historian has provided the concluding chapter to the book.

Dr. Myers and Professor Toynbee are personal friends, having collaborated on an eleventh, gazetteer, volume to Toynbee's "Study of History." Since 1958, Dr. Myers has been on leave as cultural attache for the U. S. Information Agency at the American Embassy in Bonn, Germany.

UNDERGRADUATES

The book, published by Harper and Brothers, deals with civilization's methods of handing down the accumulated experience, knowledge, and wisdom of humanity from generation to generation, tracing cultural heritages through nineteen societies over the past 5,000 years.

Dr. Myers will return from Bonn in September, to resume his teaching duties here.

■ DR. WILLIAM M. HINTON, '29, head of the department of education and psychology, has been chosen president-elect of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology. He will succeed Dr. Rubin Gotesby of the University of Georgia, when the group meets next year at Atlanta, Georgia.

Dr. Hinton served the organization as treasurer in 1952-54, and since 1957 has been a member of the executive council.

■ "PRELUDE FOR STRINGS," a composition by a Washington and Lee professor, was heard recently at a composers' conference and symposium at the University of Alabama.

The prelude is the work of Robert Stewart, assistant professor of fine arts, and is scored for a full symphonic string orchestra. The specially augmented University of Alabama Symphony played the work, directed by Julius Hegyi, conductor of the Chattanooga Symphony. Stewart was, before coming to Washington and Lee, on the staff of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago for fourteen years.

■ SEVEN NEW additions to the faculty will join the University on September 1. They are: Dr. James S. Patty, Romance languages; Dr. Cecil D. Eby, Jr., English; Douglas T. Day, English; James Boatwright, III, English; David B. Dickens, German; Clarence E. Roberts, geology; and H. Gordon Williams, Jr., mathematics.

■ FIVE MEMBERS OF the University faculty are abroad this summer, studying and touring Europe or South America.

Dr. William W. Pusey, III, new Dean of the College, took part in a month-long study tour of West Germany and West Berlin, as guest of the West German government, along with a group of other American professors.

Dr. Edgar W. Spencer, geology department head, is spending the summer in research in Europe, on a John M. Glenn grant. He will attend the International Geological Congress in Copenhagen August 10-25, and will take part in a field trip to Norway and Sweden.

Associate professor G. Francis Drake is studying French drama in Paris. Dr. Allen W. Moger is studying at the University of London.

Dr. Charles W. Turner is leading a tour this summer through South American countries.

■ A HIGH HONOR from the Garden Club of Virginia was bestowed in May upon Frank J. Gilliam, '17, dean of students, and Mrs. Gilliam for their "outstanding contribution" toward making the state "a more beautiful place." They were jointly awarded the Massie Award for 1960, an award for outstanding achievement in horticulture.

Mrs. Gilliam is a former president of the Garden Club of Virginia and has served many years on its restoration committee.

The citation said, in part, "Theirs has been a lifetime devoted to man's most rewarding recreation of growing and living beauty, horticulture, and they have started untold hundreds of people down this happy road. . . ."

Only once before has the 31-year-old award been given to a husband and wife team. Usually it goes to a member club of the group.

■ BEGINNING NEXT year, undergraduate tuition will be raised by $50 per year over a projected five year period, with the increased income being applied to faculty salaries, scholarship and loan assistance for deserving students, and to other areas of the instructional program.

Under a schedule approved by the Board of Trustees, the tuition rate will continue $750 in 1960-61, but will be raised to $800 in 1961-62; $850 the following year, and so on til $1,000 is reached in 1965-66. This schedule is subject to revision by the board, if conditions change significantly, President Fred C. Cole said.

With the new schedule in effect, all existing laboratory fees are due for abolishment. These range anywhere from five to thirty-six dollars per year.

When Washington and Lee's tuition level reaches $1,000 per year, it will be in line or below average undergraduate tuition costs already in effect in comparable colleges and universities in the South, East, and Midwest, Dr. Cole pointed out.

DR. NATHAN M. PUSEY, president of Harvard, as he delivered the convocation address at the Inauguration on May 7.

■ COMPANIES SEEKING new personnel from among the 1960 graduates exercised more selectivity this year, reports placement director James D. Farrar, '49.

He noted a tendency among many firms to make fewer job offers, but the offers generally were more attractive and seemed designed to interest and hold the very best men of the class. Grades were not a major consideration—firms were looking for evidences of maturity and an eagerness to locate permanently in a promising field. About 75 of the 180 academic seniors signed up with the placement office for interviews this year, Mr. Farrar said.

Starting salaries were up slightly from last year's offers, with the average around $425 monthly.

■ THE SAP WAS beginning to rise in the shade trees around Washington and Lee's campus on April 27, which might have passed like any April 27, except that a group of students discovered it was the 138th birthday of Ulysses S. Grant.

So, "just to even things up a bit," as one participant explained, the gay undergraduates celebrated the birthday in high style at the school once headed by Grant's Civil War foe.

A cake with 138 candles was served from in front of Lee Chapel, and banners reading "Happy Birthday, Ulysses" were strung in front of the chapel and from the freshman dormitory. This was a "nice" thing to do, one student said, since Washington and Lee always observes Lee's birthday with a holiday.

■ JAMES NEAL HARDIN, '60, of Greeneville, Tennessee, was named a Fulbright Scholar for 1960-61, to study German literature at the Free University of Berlin. His grant was one of some 900 awards for graduate study abroad made under the State Department's International Educational Exchange Program. He was a Phi Beta Kappa member and a German major at Washington and Lee.

R.O.T.C.

■ FIFTY-ONE ROTC cadets from Washington and Lee underwent summer training exercises at Fort Knox, Kentucky, for six weeks this summer. They were part of a brigade of 1,248 college students and recent graduates taking part in the training period.

Eight of the June graduates were commissioned as second lieutenants in the U. S. Army Reserve at the conclusion of camp.

LAW SCHOOL

■ THE 1960 CALYX was dedicated to Dr. Clayton Epes Williams, '12, who retired in June as dean of the Law School, after a 40-year career as a teacher here.

The dedication read, "In every university there are professors who will be remembered long after the knowledge which they have imparted becomes merely a link in the long chain of life education. Clayton Epes Williams, . . . realizes this ideal. In his many years of outstanding service to Washington and Lee, Dean Williams, has earned both the respect and admiration of his students and colleagues as an educator, an administrator, and an individual.

"His tireless efforts and unceasing guidance have been responsible for a new phase in the history of our Law School. Since becoming Dean in 1944, he has brought about vast improvements in the curriculum, the facilities, and in the quality of teaching. The fine showing of Washington and Lee's moot court teams, which during the past few years have consistently ranked very high nationally; the completion last year of the Davis Law Dormitory, which has long been one of his coveted goals; and the introduction of the John Randolph Tucker Lectures, which have attracted to our campus some of the nation's foremost judges, attorneys, and educators, are but a few of the manifold achievements exemplary of the career of this Bradford Professor of Law.

"Retirement this year of Dr. Williams . . . marks the end of a forty year association with Washington and Lee University. Thus, it is only fitting that we proudly dedicate to the senior member of the Faculty—educator, leader, counselor, and friend—this 1960 Calyx.”

The University's Board of Trustees pose in a group before joining the inaugural procession. They are left to right: JUDGE JOHN MINOR WISDOM; THE HONORABLE HOMER ADAMS HOLT; JUDGE KENNON CAITHNESS WHITTLE; DR. HUSTON ST. CLAIR; MR. EARL S. MATTINGLY, Secretary; MRS. ALFRED I. DUPONT; DR. JAMES MORRISON HUTCHESON; MR. JAMES R. CASKIE; MR. CHRISTOPHER T. CHENERY; MR. JOSEPH T. LYKES; MR. JOHN FRANKLIN HENDON; THE REVEREND JOHN NEWTON THOMAS; and MR. JOSEPH LAMAR LANIER.

■ FRANK G. BOZEMAN, 1960's top honor law graduate, has been named the national “graduate of the year” by Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. He was one of fifteen honor graduates nominated from the fraternity's provinces in the United States and Canada. Among finalists were students from Yale, Tulane, Ohio State, San Francisco, Emory and other colleges.

Frank is from Warrington, Florida. He was graduated summa cum laude from the University of the South at Sewanee, and won a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. He earned a master's degree in foreign affairs at the University of Virginia. At Washington and Lee, he was editor-in-chief of the Law Review, and compiled a straight “A” average in all his courses. He was elected to the Order of the Coif. He headed Phi Delta Phi's Tucker Inn during his senior year.

He is now affiliated with the firm of Young, Beggs, and Lane in Pensacola, Florida.

■ OSIE H. GAY, JR. with twenty-two years of service in the Navy behind him, is now starting another career—that of a student of law.

Now 39 years old, he entered the service at 17, just after he graduated from Maury High School in Norfolk, Virginia. He planned to stay in for several years, gather some savings, and then go to college. But World War II came along, then the Korean War, and he decided to “go for twenty years.” A chief boatswain's mate, he stayed in two years beyond his goal.

He gathered college credits whenever possible. When he was in port, he would swap duty watches with shipmates, to be free for night school. He took courses at William and Mary in Norfolk, Temple University, and Lake Forest College.

“I'm tired of rolling,” Mr. Gay declared. “I want to settle down now and work for myself.”

A native of Ocean View, he plans to live on Lynnhaven Bay near Norfolk, after graduation.

He has now completed one semester of law school, and looks forward to resuming his study in September. He and his mother are taking an apartment in the pre-fabs at Lexington.

■ HUGH V. WHITE, JR. is editor-in-chief of the Law Review for the fall semester. He is a 1954 graduate of Virginia Military Institute, and will graduate in February, 1961. He has been a member of the Law Review staff for three semesters, and also chairmans the Moot Court Committee. He is an officer of Phi Alpha Delta and a member of the Law School Board of Governors.

■ A DISTINGUISHED alumnus and four seniors were elected to membership in the Order of the Coif in late April. Honored by the national legal scholastic order were Ross L. Malone, '32, of Roswell, New Mexico, president of the American Bar Association in 1958-59; and student initiates Frank C. Bozeman, Nicholas W. Bath, William H. Abeloff, and Manley P. Caldwell, Jr.

Oldest and youngest journalists at the buffet luncheon—A. PRES ROWE, '60, who is assistant director of information services, chats with BENJAMIN F. HARLOW, '96, of the Lexington Gazette, Lexington.

ATHLETICS

■ “CY” TWOMBLY was just about the most pepped up man in Lexington on the morning of July 5. He greeted nearly everyone he met with his big, wide grin and a loud-voice, “How about those Washington and Lee boys!”

He was talking of Ned Baber, '59, of Richmond, and Frank Summers, Jr., '52, of Staunton. Baber, 23, had just won the Virginia State Amateur Golf Championship with a tremendous, 1-up victory in a Fourth of July finals that went 39 holes over the famous Cascades Course at Hot Springs. Summers, 29, was the tourney's medalist in the qualifying rounds with a two-under par 69, only the second sub-70 qualifying score posted in recent years.

Both young men had played on Washington and Lee's varsity golf team under Twombly, and Baber was the captain of the team that posted a 9-2 mark in dual matches and went on to win the state collegiate championship in 1959. Summers, who was a three-year letterman in baseball before turning to golf while in law school, played only one season for Twombly. Cy remembers him as the only boy he ever coached to win eleven matches without a defeat.

Baber, now a banking trainee in Richmond but a native of Lynchburg, had an easy time of it through his first four matches in the 64-player championship flight. But in the semi-finals, he never led until the 20th hole, when he blasted out of a trap to within a balls' turn of the cup and edged Ronnie Gerring-er, the state high school champion.

Up against another teenager, Wright Garrett of Danville, in the finals, Baber grabbed a four-up lead after the first 18, but saw his advantage fade when Garrett won the three final holes to pull all even after 36 holes. Garrett's hole-winning putt on the 36th went past the cup, stopped, and then rolled back several inches to drop. But Baber wasn't shaken, and three extra holes later, he rolled in a 14-inch putt for his big victory.

Summers whose medalist honors at Hot Springs and a recent third-place finish in the State Open make him one of Virginia's hottest amateurs, went out in the fourth round against Garrett.

The summer golf triumphs of Twombly's former stars were some measure of consolation for the Washington and Lee coach whose 1960 varsity team stumbled to a so-so, 4-2-2 season, and a fifth-place state tournament finish. Highlight of the season was the crackerjack play of sophomore Jack Vardaman. He was medalist in the Greenbrier college tournament and a co-medalist in the state affair.

The big news in college sports this spring was the continued outstanding performance of Karl "Skip" Rohnke, whose record-breaking javelin marks led the Generals to an undefeated, 7-0, dual meet season in track.

Rohnke, a broad-shouldered Southern Californian, established a new school javelin record with a throw of 211 feet, 3 inches. Competing against some of the best men in the country in several invitational relays, he failed to win any first places, but he was always among the top three or four.

For his efforts, which during his four years at Washington and Lee earned him four letters each in soccer, swimming, and track, Rohnke was accorded the top athletic honors the school bestows.

NED BABER, '59, reflects on a championship putt

He was named "most valuable athlete of the year," and he won the Forest Fletcher Memorial Track award for the third time. But perhaps the biggest tribute of all was his winning the Francis T. "Wink" Glasgow II Memorial Trophy, awarded the senior "who has best displayed Washington and Lee spirit and sportsmanship over his four-year college career."

In other sports, Coach Bill Washburn's tennis team won 8, lost only 3, and got superlative play from juniors Billy McWilliams and Clark Valentiner.

Other spring sports suffered long seasons. Coach Bob McHenry's lacrosse men boasted two jimdandies in midfielder Jay Stull and attack man Skip Horst, but the rest of the squad generally lack experience. The final record of 2 wins, 6 losses and a tie doesn't reflect the heights the team did arise to on occasion.

Washington and Lee's baseball fortunes began a long, hard road back to respectability under new coach Joe Lyles. The team lacked consistent hitting in the early season, but junior right-hander Roy Carpenter again was a better pitcher than his winless record reflected. Carpenter lost four one-run decisions, and his earned-run average was one of the lowest in the state.

Junior Phil Sharp, another right-hander, won all three of the Generals' victories, including a heroic 13-inning 1-0 victory over West Virginia in the season finale. Coach Lyles, a former professional pitcher, is taking consolation in the fact that most of his 1960 boys will return next year and that this season's 3-17 record was better than the 1-15 mark posted in 1959.

Looking ahead to fall and football, there's an atmosphere of expectant optimism at Washington and Lee. The Generals face a nine-game schedule—the same opponents as 1959 with the addition of Johns Hopkins—and the season should be a winning one if things go as planned. Thirty-three of the 1959 squad of 38 varsity players are scheduled to return, and there are some valuable reinforcements on hand from last year's frosh squad, as well as a good crop of 1960 freshmen.

Continued Progress Depends Upon Support

By PEYTON B. WINFREE, '35

THIS MEETING marks the end of my third year as a member of the Alumni Board of Trustees and my one year in which I have served as your President. During this period I have considered myself most fortunate to have had the pleasant association, to have met the interesting and challenging projects and to have had the intimate contact with the affairs of the University.

The Alumni Board has been very busy about the affairs of your Association. In addition to the regular fall and spring meetings, your Board of Trustees has had two special meetings with a committee from the University Board of Trustees to review chiefly the relationship of the Alumni Association to the University and its Board of Trustees and to foster a continued and enlivened liason between the two organizations. I should like to say that the members of the Alumni Board have tried to represent the varied views of alumni but with due regard for the responsibility of the constituted authorities. It has seemed to us that the proper function of an alumni association is to act as a counsellor, not fostering discord but remembering always that this is our University through thick and thin. I am pleased to report that these meetings with the University Committee have met with much progress and to point out that our University President, Dr. Cole, has been at these meetings and contributed greatly to their success.

In conjunction with this review of relationship, we are engaged in a project to revise and adjust the By-Laws of the Association. At this stage of deliberation, however, there is nothing definite to report.

The Executive Secretary and the Alumni office staff, in addition to the absolute maze of regular duties, have been in the midst of strenuous activities with cooperating efforts in the University Development Program and in the recent outstanding inauguration ceremonies. At this last mentioned event, I might add, there were some one hundred alumni delegates representing each chapter, each class, each geographic area and among whom were four or more university presidents.

As reported by the Secretary, I am glad to say that the Alumni Fund, sparked by the Fund Council, has been successful in view of its curtailed and limited operations. The mere fact that this Fund Campaign was conducted under limited conditions and to only certain categories of alumni, imposed some difficult tasks on the office staff and Secretary. The reactivation of our Alumni Fund is of utmost importance. For the continued progress of this proudly independent university depends increasingly upon the steady, annual, and generous support of her alumni. I hope that each of us, as we complete our pledge or obligation to the Building Campaign, will renew with increased interest and vigor our regular schedule of giving to the Alumni Fund.

Finally, I might report that while the much discussed Alumni House is not yet a reality, we have managed to keep the idea alive in the thinking of the University and in view of its development plans. In light of these plans and the general welfare of the University we are hopeful this thinking will be fruitful.

In closing, I might project this thought: If the success of a college were measured, as is success in a business, by the number of satisfied customers, then Washington and Lee would be considered a "blue chip stock," for I surely believe it would be difficult to find anyone who graduated or attended this institution for any length of time who does not feel grateful, proud, and honored to be an alumnus of this University.

PEYTON WINFREE, President, 1959-60

Another Successful Year for the Association

By WILLIAM C. WASHBURN, '40

THIS IS THE second time I have been privileged to bring the alumni a brief report and happily it is again a report of continued progress. This year's report is marked, I think, by several significant events, the most important of which was the change in University administration culminating in the inauguration of President Cole on May 7.

First of all, organizational wise, our association has prospered. This time last year I reported a newly installed chapter in Hagerstown, Maryland. This chapter is now well established and, I might add, President Cole is scheduled to meet with that chapter on June 10. We now have 37 chapters, all of whom have had at least one meeting and most of whom have had many meetings of great interest and with fine spirit. At this moment there is movement under foot to install two new chapters—one in the Wilmington, Delaware area, the other in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Though the summer, due to vacations, is a hard time to organize such things—much ground work has been done and we hope to have these two chapters in operation next school year.

MANY VISITATIONS

By virtue of the University Development Program and its campaign in various areas, I have been, along with Dr. Gaines or President Cole and James Whitehead, quite busy in visitations to these chapters. It has been my pleasure now to have visited all but one of our chapters and this one is on the schedule for this summer or early September. While on the subject of University Development, I would like this opportunity to express publicly my deep appreciation for the splendid cooperation of Jim Whitehead and his Development staff. They have worked hand in glove with the Alumni Office and have been a maximum value to the alumni chapters and their activities.

New President PAUL M. SHUFORD, '43

I have nothing but highest praise and deepest thanks for all their help. The mere momentum of this program is bringing about renewed interest and vigor in the alumni chapters.

Of particular worthy note, is the practice of the chapters to help in admissions and recruitment of promising boys for Washington Lee. Practically all now have a program for active work on this; also, to assist the University in seeking and awarding young men with scholarship aid. Often the chapters invite to their meetings the boys who have been accepted for admission, as well as their parents. In some cases this year, such as in Memphis and Baltimore, chapters have helped sponsor community programs of utmost importance and have assisted such University organizations as the Glee Club to put on programs in their town or area. All of these activities, I assure you, are of infinite value to your alma mater.

FUND REACTIVATION

During this past year it became evident that it was expedient to reactivate the Alumni Fund even though the Development Campaign had not been completed. The Alumni Fund Council, under Dick Smith, met in November on short notice and under their guidance and direction a plan was established, designed not to interfere with the Development Campaign. All alumni were separated by categories: (1) those who were under pledge to the Development Campaign, (2) those who had made a gift and completed it, (3) and those who had the opportunity to make a gift but who had not. This was no easy task, I assure you, when each day new receipts would change the situation. Some mistakes and overlapping occurred; we hope not many and we are indeed sorry where they did. Through all of this, the Development Office cooperated to the fullest extent.

My hat is off to our wonderful group of Class Agents who so quickly came to our aid and who so splendidly wrote not only to those members of their class who were considered eligible for the fund but also a letter of greetings to each of their classmates. This action resulted in the strengthening of class ties and the maintenance of our Class Agent Plan. Also, four of these agents were most instrumental in promoting the Class Reunions which I'll mention later.

As of May 31, (the Fund year does not close until June 30) the Alumni Fund has a record of 707 contributors and $19,564.44. While this is a long way from our record of the last full scale campaign of some 3300 contributors and nearly $100,000.00, in view of the circumstances I think there is room for satisfaction and encouragement. Keep in mind that in the past two years the alumni of this college have supported the Development Program with a record of 3,859 contributors for $1,027,417.00. Incidentally, I might add that the total figure for the Development Fund as of this date is $2,035,000.00. These figures have not been audited, as that will be done later, but as far as our records indicate, this is the picture so far and one of which I think we can all be proud.

DR. JOHN D. BATTLE, '34, was elected to Alumni Board of Trustees.

WILLIAM B. WISDOM, '21, was elected to Alumni Board of Trustees.

STUDENT RELATIONS

There are many other activities on which I could comment at some length but for sake of brevity I would just like to mention our Student-Relation area in which we participate at freshman camp and make an award to the boy who upholds the tradition of knowing the most names; Homecoming, where the Association makes four awards to the winners of the fraternity house decoration contest; our banquet in May in honor of the seniors. These phases grow increasingly important each year.

Our annual Anniversary Class Reunions are now an established program. Following the desires of the majority of our members who felt that 25 years was a long time to wait for a special class reunion, we began this year with our first Tenth year convocation and reunion. It was a great success! In fact, the whole reunion, which saw four classes back on campus, was wonderfully supported and was a highlight of the year.

One final comment about our Alumni Magazine. This is the widest channel of communication between alumni themselves and the University. Our mailing today is roughly 10,600 per issue. This year we put out a fifth issue which was devoted almost entirely to scholarships, what part alumni could play, and what help they could give. We have tried to keep you abreast of the news and affairs of the University and of your fellow classmates and alumni. My deep appreciation goes to Mrs. Jeffrey, our managing editor, and Mr. Harold Lauck of our printing laboratory for their interest and cooperation.

In closing please let me try very simply to extend my thanks to all who have helped. It's dangerous to list, and I hope I shall not overlook any: but first, let me congratulate you on your officers who have given unselfishly of their time and talents. My thanks to the Administration and faculty and especially President Cole; to the Development Office, the Faculty-Alumni Committee; to the Class Agents, the Chapter Officers—and in fact to each alumnus, I extend my deep appreciation.

And to my office staff, a special thanks.

I have enjoyed this year of progress and look forward with pleasure to the coming year.

General Alumni Association Meeting Is Held on June 2, 1960

THE GENERAL ALUMNI Association meeting was held on June 2, 1960, in duPont auditorium, with a good representation of alumni present. Peyton S. Winfree, '35, president of the association, presided.

Reports of the president, executive secretary, and treasurer were read (as printed on other pages in this magazine). In the absence of E. Angus Powell, '36, chairman of the Nominating Committee, Bernard Levin, '42, read the names of the two nominees for the Alumni Board of Trustees for a three-year term: William B. Wisdom, '21, of New Orleans; and Dr. John D. Battle, '34, of Cleveland; for representative on the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics, to serve two years: A. Lea Booth, '40, of Lynchburg, Virginia. These men were elected by acclamation.

At the call for new business, Dr. Amos L. Herold, '09, of Austin, Texas, spoke briefly and presented eleven resolutions in behalf of his contention that the Association should be independent from the University, as follows:

"Whereas the Alumni Association, Inc., of Washington and Lee University in its regular annual session of 1960 in Lexington, Virginia, has learned the full significance of a Resolution Adopted by the Alumni Board of Trustees on October 25, 1952, which violates the 1910 Charter of the Association and commits it to continuous beggary and near bankruptcy unworthy of its membership; now therefore, be it resolved by the Association.

"1. That the Alumni Board of Trustees is hereby instructed to rescind the aforesaid Resolution; and that, beginning July 1, 1960, all funds collected by the authority and in the name of this Association by its officers and agents and all other undesignated income shall be deposited to the credit of the Alumni Association, Inc., in a reliable bank of Lexington, Virginia, for the payment of the Association's necessary operating expenses.

"2. That, at the end of this present fiscal year on June 30, 1960, and annually thereafter, any balance remaining to the credit of this Association shall be held as a surplus, year by year, until the total savings amount to $100,000 or more, which may then be used for acquiring an Alumni Headquarters Building and its endowment.

"3. That near the end of each fiscal year, a committee consisting of the President, Secretary, and Treasurer of this Association shall prepare a detailed budget of the Association's business for the following year for the approval of the Alumni Board of Trustees at its first annual session; and that annual audits be made.

"4. That hereafter the Alumni Editor shall promptly publish in the Alumni Magazine all Resolutions and By-Laws affecting vital alumni business and interests for the information of alumni members, and shall seek to improve the Alumni Magazine as suggested in 'Constructive Proposals.'

"5. That, to avoid disfranchising many alumni who live at a distance from the University, voting by proxy shall be re-established in the Charter and By-Laws.

"6. That the Board of Trustees is hereby instructed to revise By-Law Article VII (b), which defines the powers of the Treasurer of this Corporation, by striking out the destructive provision, 'except as otherwise provided by action of the Board of Trustees.'

"7. That the prohibition in the By-Laws limiting Trustees to one term shall be removed for the benefit of this Association, and that it pay the traveling expenses of Trustees to Board Meetings.

"8. That both the Alumni Secretary and the active Treasurer shall be fully bonded and shall jointly sign all pay checks of this Corporation.

"9. That, beginning January 1, 1961, the Alumni Magazine shall be sent only to alumni members who contribute a minimum of two dollars to the funds of the Association for the following year.

"10. That, at an early date, both the Association's Charter and its By-Laws shall be revised to conform to authorized changes in them and accurately republished for the use and information of all alumni.

"11. That the Alumni Staff be enlarged and strengthened by the addition of one well-qualified, full-time alumnus editor, who could also function as assistant treasurer." He then moved adoption of his proposals.

Charles H. Davidson, '32, made a motion that any and all of the resolutions that had not already been voted upon by the Alumni Board of Trustees be referred to that board for further consideration and report, but that none be adopted at this time. He moved further that Dr. Herold be thanked for his interest. The motion was unanimously approved.

New officers of the association were announced for the year 1960-61 as follows: president, Paul M. Shuford, '43; vice-president, Bernard Levin, '42; treasurer, James B. Martin, '31.

Mr. Shuford spoke briefly, explaining that the Alumni Board has under consideration a plan to enlarge the membership of the Board and extend their terms of office. A formal proposal for a change in the charter may be ready by the next meeting, he said. He also stated that greater emphasis is being directed toward a more active program within the chapters and between the chapters and the University. He said, in answer to Dr. Herold, that annual budgets for the Association are made up and the books are audited each year.

Calendar of Events

Washington and Lee University
1960-61

September 7-9	Freshman Camp
September 14	Classes begin
October 8	Homecoming: Generals vs. Franklin and Marshall
October 22	Parents' Day. Football: Generals vs. Johns Hopkins
November 9-11	University Religious Conference
November 23-28	Thanksgiving Holiday

OF THE 1960 graduates at Washington and Lee, sixty-six have signified their intention of going on to graduate school, according to reports by Dean Sensabaugh.

The largest number, twenty-one, will enter medical schools throughout the nation. This represents 100 per cent of those applying. The next largest number, nineteen, will attend law schools, here and at other institutions.

Two graduates will study for the ministry at Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria. Five will go to graduate schools of business.

Eighteen will study English, history, psychology, chemistry and geology in graduate schools. One will study physics.

Thirteen students will work for advanced degrees on scholarships or fellowships—the Rhodes scholarship, four Woodrow Wilson Fellowships, three National Defense Act grants, one Southern Fellowship, one Fulbright for study in Berlin, one institutional scholarship, and two law scholarships. In addition, two others received teaching assistantships, to be used while working for advanced degrees.

HOMECOMING PROGRAM

Friday, October 7

7:00—Pep Rally forms at Doremus Gymnasium

Saturday, October 8

10:30 a.m.—Alumni Coffee Evans Dining Hall wives and guests are cordially invited

12:15 p.m.—Alumni Luncheon Evans Dining Hall

2:00 p.m.—Football Kick-off Wilson Field
Generals vs. Franklin and Marshall

Half-time Period—Crowning of Homecoming Queen

5:00 p.m.—Reception Robert E. Lee Hotel Mezzanine

Head of Ballyache Syndicate Was A Good Runner as a Student

NEWS WAS MADE recently when a syndicate, headed by Joseph Lee Arnold, '37L, bought the famous race horse, Ballyache for $1,250,000.

Mr. Arnold is now a Kentucky lawyer and a real estate developer, but old friends at Washington and Lee recall that he was a pretty fair runner himself, when he was a colt at the University.

Chauncy Durden's column in the Richmond Times Dispatch reprinted in part below, explains that JOE ARNOLD, head of the syndicate that recently bought Ballyache for $1,250,000 was a pretty fair runner himself when he was a colt at Washington and Lee. Mr. Arnold is now a Kentucky lawyer and real estate developer.

Arnold, a native of Danville, Ky., was "recruited" for Washington and Lee the summer of 1932 by Charles McDowell, professor of law at Washington and Lee. Professor McDowell had taught (and coached basketball) at Centre College in Danville before becoming a member of Washington and Lee's Law faculty. Each summer Professor McDowell returned to Danville with his family. During these summer vacations in Kentucky the professor "influenced" several good Kentucky athletes to enroll at Washington and Lee.

Columnist McDowell, recalling those boyhood days, said "Every time we returned from Danville (to Lexington, Va.) Dad had one or two Kentucky boys in the car with the four of us." (Professor and Mrs. McDowell, Charles, Jr., and John.)

Warren E. "Tex" Tilson, who coached the Washington and Lee football teams during the '30's, said of Professor McDowell's "recruiting."

"Mr. McDowell helped me more when I was coaching than any other person I can think of."

Just how good a football player was Arnold?

Well, it will be remembered that the strangest of all football jersey numerals was once reserved for Washington and Lee's backs of outstanding promise. That jersey was 00. The first wearer of the double-O jersey was Joe Arnold, who was the star of the 1933-34-35 W&L teams, one of which (1935) won the Southern Conference championship.

How did the 00 jersey come about?

"We were in the gym one night," Tilson recalled, "ordering uniforms for the season. Arnold had played superbly the season before and we were confident he was going to have an extra good year. Someone had the idea that there should be something distinctive about Joe's uniform, something similar, say, to Red Grange's famous 77 jersey number. But the double jersey numbers—22, 33, and the like—had become commonplace for outstanding backs. We were stumped until a fellow—I forget who—came up with the 00 number. An 00 numeral would be distinctive, all right, and we had it sewn on Arnold's jersey.

As far as could be ascertained, only two other Washington and Lee players wore the 00 jersey—Dick Pinck, perhaps the finest all-round athletic prospect Washington and Lee had seen since Cy

JOE ARNOLD, '37L

Alumni Sons—Class of 1964

Entering as freshmen this September are 35 sons of alumni. This is a slightly larger number than last year and their geographic distribution is wide spread. Those boys following their paternal footsteps are as follows:

- Robert Bolen.....Amos Bolen, '34
 - John Bridgforth.....Jack Bridgforth, '39
 - Arthur Broadus.....T. H. Broadus, '25
 - Ned Browning, III...E. P. Browning, '17
 - Sydney Butler.....Landon V. Butler, '37
 - George Craddock, Jr...G. B. Craddock, '30
 - John Dean, Jr.....J. M. Dean, '35
 - Lester Foote.....*H. D. Foote, '33
 - Charles Gaines, III...C. L. Gaines, Jr., '25
 - Jay Ganong.....J. F. Ganong, '39
 - William Gotten.....N. Gotten, '24
 - H. P. Henshaw, III...H. P. Henshaw, Jr., '39
 - Bruce Houghton.....D. B. Houghton, '39
 - John Jenkins.....*J. M. Jenkins, '37
 - Robert Kell.....R. C. Kell, '31
 - John Lackey.....R. S. Lackey, '24
 - Kenneth Lane.....K. P. Lane, '36
 - Thomas Lewis.....C. I. Lewis, '30
 - Jack Martin, Jr.....J. C. Martin, '38
 - Bruce Moss.....A. W. Moss, '35
 - Jack Neal, Jr.....J. L. Neal, '24
 - Robert Paddock.....C. H. Paddock, '32
 - Sam Rayder, Jr.....S. W. Rader, '30
 - Judson Reis.....M. J. Reis, '30
 - Bruce Rider.....M. C. Rider, '37
 - William Robinson, Jr...W. M. Robinson, '33
 - George Spaulding...G. M. Spaulding, '34
 - Walter Steves.....W. Steves, II, '39
 - Tain Tompkins.....P. S. Tompkins, '27
 - Jerry Turner.....C. Turner, Jr., '27
 - C. F. Urquhart, III...C. F. Urquhart, Jr., '30
 - John Watts, III.....J. W. Watts, Jr., '39
 - Ernest Williams, III...E. Williams, '38
 - Frank Wright.....T. P. Wright, '29
 - Frank Zoch, III.....F. P. Zoch, Jr., '33
- *Deceased

Degrees Awarded, 1959-60

	October 1959	January 1960	June 1960	Previous Total	Year
Bachelor of Laws	1	11	26	38	37
Bachelor of Science (Commerce)	0	5	25	30	43
Bachelor of Science	1	0	24	25	29
Bachelor of Arts	5	9	122	136	119
	7	25	197	229	228

Young, and Ed Marx, a brilliant prospect who broke a leg as a freshman and was handicapped thereafter.

The double-o jersey was discarded when Washington and Lee began fielding football teams after World War II.

Tilson said Arnold's best game may have been the one he played against Princeton in 1934. Princeton in those days was coached by Fritz Crisler, and ruled the East. From 1933 through 1935, the Tigers lost but one game (a 7-0 upset by Yale in 1934) and won 25 games. The 1933 and 1935 Princeton teams compiled 9-0 records.

Washington and Lee gave the unbeaten 1933 Princeton team its closest game of the season (6-0) and led the 1934 Tigers until the final minutes of the game.

With Arnold starring all the way, the Generals led Princeton 12-7, with time running out. Princeton was forced to punt and Arnold was playing safety for the Generals. Arnold fumbled the punt as he was hit by All-American guard Weller and end Lea. Princeton recovered the ball on Washington and Lee's 36 and scored in the final minute to win, 14-12.

Talking about the game and his fumble, Arnold said recently, "Everything I had tried came off that day, so I never gave a thought to a fair catch or playing it safe. The way I was going it might have been a touchdown."

Tilson said Arnold's fumble should not have affected the outcome of the game. "We scored another touchdown which was called back when it should not have been. We'd put in a play where the fullback took the snap, charged up to the line, suddenly stopped, wheeled and pitched back to the halfback coming around from the wing. Arnold was the halfback who took the pitch from the fullback and he went all the way. But the play fooled the officials as well as Princeton and we got a penalty instead of a touchdown.

Double-o Arnold, when a colt, must have been a right fair runner himself.

Scene at the outdoor luncheon during Finals, given by the Alumni Association.

New Dean

(Continued from page 5)

teen-age daughters, he has been a member of the Lexington and Rockbridge county school boards. He is regional associate for Western Virginia of the American Council of Learned Societies.

Dr. Sprunt, 41 years old, came to Washington and Lee in 1953 as director of religious activities and associate professor of religion. In 1956 he was promoted to full professor. He holds bachelor degrees from Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. He received his doctorate in theology from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1953. He also has studied at the University of Zurich, University of Vienna, University of Jerusalem, and the University of North Carolina.

During World War II, Dr. Sprunt served three years as a Navy chaplain. From 1948 to 1950, he was assistant professor of Bible at Southwestern in Memphis, and later served one year as assistant to the president there.

Dr. Sprunt will assist Dean of Students Frank J. Gilliam in all phases of student counseling, both

DEAN SPRUNT

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON—Prominent in South Carolina Politics is T. B. BRYANT, JR., '28, right, Orangeburg attorney. His Son, THOMAS B. BRYANT, III, left, was Democratic chairman of the 1960 Mock Convention at Washington and Lee. TOMMY will be graduated from the Law School in 1961. Sandwiched between them is MRS. BRYANT, who was an interested spectator at the Mock Convention.

academic and personal. Dean Gilliam said Dr. Sprunt's new work will mark "a significant step forward" in the University's counseling and guidance program. "I can think of no one more highly respected by our students than Dr. Sprunt," Mr. Gilliam continued. "He will make an immeasurable contribution in an area where we have long needed more emphasis."

As University chaplain, Dr.

Sprunt replaces Dr. Milton P. Brown, Jr. who will teach at Southwestern next year.

Dr. Sensabaugh came to Washington and Lee as Dean of the University in 1956 from Birmingham Southern College, where he was professor of history. He resigned in late spring in order to devote his time to his first love, teaching. He will serve as professor of history at Washington and Lee.

News for Class Notes

Clip this and send us news of your family, business, civic and church life. Your classmates want news of YOU!

Name..... Class.....

Address.....

News:

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY ALUMNI, INCORPORATED
 OPERATING STATEMENT
 For the Year Ended June 30, 1960

OPERATING INCOME:

Class Agent Fund.....	$ 21,553.39
Allocation of Capital Funds Campaign Receipts	58,446.61	$ 80,000.00

DESIGNATED INCOME:

Endowment Funds:
Scholarships	$ 30.00
University departmental operating income.....	305.00	335.00
Total Income.....		$ 80,335.00

OPERATING EXPENSES:

Salaries	$ 19,031.81
Class Agent expense.....	1,046.75
Alumni Magazine.....	8,980.03
Bulletin	26.50
Class reunions.....	2,958.17
Homecoming	777.41
Traveling	1,657.63
Entertaining	2,036.58
Office supplies.....	1,153.10
Postage	1,101.22
Telephone and telegraph.....	242.96
Miscellaneous	402.05
Total Operating Expenses.....		$ 39,414.21

EQUIPMENT PURCHASED..... 312.64

DESIGNATED INCOME TRANSFERRED TO UNIVERSITY TREASURER.....

	335.00
Total Expenditures.....		$ 40,061.85
Excess of Income over Expenditures.....		$ 40,273.15

REVOLVING FUND, JUNE 30, 1960 (Cash advanced by University Treasurer for payment of current office expenses)		$ 800.00
CASH BALANCE, JUNE 30, 1960—PLATE FUND		$ 1,109.24
VALUE OF PLATES ON HAND, JUNE 30, 1960.....		$ 708.00

NOTE:

All items of income and expenditures in this statement were taken into the accounts of the University Treasurer.

Officials of the Cumberland Valley chapter are shown above. Seated, left to right, SAM STRITE, ROBERT E. CLAPP, CHARLES BEALL, and I. GLENN SHIVELY. Standing, WILLIAM C. HAMILTON, HARRY GEORGE, JR., DAVE SIMPSON, JOHN M. MCCARDELL, and MERLE G. KAETZEL.

Alumni Chapter Meetings

CUMBERLAND VALLEY

The Cumberland Valley chapter held a dinner meeting on June 10 at the Alexander Hotel in Hagerstown, Maryland. Members from the Waynesboro, Frederick, Martinsville, Winchester and Charles Town areas attended. A social hour preceded the dinner, at which President Fred Cole gave the principal address. His remarks concerning some of the immediate problems and future programs of the University were well received and brought about a highly successful period of spontaneous discussion following the meeting.

The business session included reports from the outgoing president, Merle Kaetzel, '31, and treasurer, Bill Hamilton, '43, and the election of the new officers and directors.

Those elected were: president, Robert E. Clapp, Jr., '30; vice-president, Charles R. Beall, Jr., '56; secretary-treasurer, James L. Rimler, '31.

Directors from Hagerstown; Samuel C. Strite, '29; Merle G. Kaetzel, '31; William C. Hamilton, '43; from Chambersburg; I. Glenn Shively, '36; from Brunswick; Harry George, Jr., '36; from Martinsburg; Clyde E. Smith, Jr., '42; from Frederick; J. M. McCardell, '37; from Winchester; Dave G. Simpson, '56.

RICHMOND

About sixty alumni turned out for a stag night meeting of the Richmond chapter on May 20, 1960, in the auditorium of the Southern Bank and Trust Company's Westhampton branch. Retiring president Earl L. Hargrove, Jr., '54, reviewed the chapter's activities for the past year, and suggested new programs for the coming year.

New officers elected were: president, A. Christian Compton, '50; vice-president, Reno S. Harp, III, '54; secretary, Edward J. McCarty, '42; and treasurer, Charles W. Pinnell, Jr., '46.

Harry K. "Cy" Young, '17, former Alumni Secretary, was a special guest for the evening. He was visiting in Richmond with his son, M. Neely Young, '43. Cy, a member of Football's Hall of Fame, finished the evening in an avid discussion concerning some great plays with Don Fergusson, '51, and Gil Bocetti, Jr., '54.

class notes

09 LEVI T. WILSON is professor of physics, and head of the department of physics and physical science at Jacksonville University. His wife is professor of mathematics. The two Wilsons held similar positions at Doane College in Crete, Nebraska, prior to joining the faculty at Jacksonville last September.

CROWELL T. DAWKINS writes that he is still active in business, and is busy watching his grand-children grow. He says, "There still remains an active and well-recognized bond between all Washington and Lee men I meet. In fact, it has gotten so even VMI men I know seem kindred spirits only because they used to walk through our campus every Saturday."

10 WILLIAM CAREY BARKER, pastor of the large First Baptist church of Newnan, Georgia, resigned his active pastorate on May 1. He joined the staff of one of the Georgia Baptist agencies. His address is 20 Waverly Circle, Newnan.

11 L. L. HUMPHREY is chairman of the board of the Security National Bank, Duncan, Oklahoma. In addition to his banking duties, he indulges his liking for the outdoor life by operating a ranch which he owns near Duncan. Always interested in his alma mater, he is currently planning to return for his Class Reunion in 1961.

12 RUFUS OWEN is a retired school teacher and farmer. His four children are now grown, with education completed, leaving Rufus and Mrs. Owen "footloose and fancy free."

13 DR. PAUL D. CONVERSE has been teaching at the Institute of Business Administration in Palermo, Sicily, this year. He retired from the faculty at the University of Illinois in 1957. Since that time he has completed a book, several mono-graphs, and has taught both in California and at the University of Texas.

22 WILLIAM B. HESSELLTINE is the co-author of "The South in American His-

.....

WILLIAM W. CASH, JR., '15, who has won many awards during his lifetime, capped his prizes on June 3, 1960 when he was presented the 1960 Distinguished Service Award from the Virginia section of the American Chemical Society. A dinner was held in his honor in Richmond by the Virginia chemists.

His citation read, "The Virginia Section of the American Chemical Society has the honor of presenting its 1960 Distinguished Service Award to William Waugh Cash, Jr., in recognition of his inspirational contributions to the teaching of high school chemistry in Virginia."

Mr. Cash, a former chief chemist and metallurgist for E. J. Lavino and Company (Alloys Division), was forced by ill health to retire from industry in 1945. He returned to his boyhood home in Eagle Rock, Virginia, to regain his health. He became very much disturbed over the lack of organized science teaching in the schools of the county, and asked for and received a contract in 1947 to teach all science in Eagle Rock High School, a position he held until 1959.

He organized a science club at the school and twenty-five of his tory, Second Edition," published by Prentice-Hall for use as a text-book. The study of the South begins with the year 1607 and traces its development up to contemporary days. Dr. Hesselstine teaches at University of Wisconsin, and lives at 4014 Manitou Way, Madison.

VERBON E. KEMP is tour director of a 43-day cruise of several hundred Virginians to Scandinavia, North Europe, and Russia this summer. The ship, Victoria, was chartered by Virginia Cruise Corporation, of which Mr. Kemp is secretary-treasurer. Eleven cruises previously have been booked by this group. He has been executive director of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce since 1935, and makes his home at 5004 Evelyn Byrd Road, Richmond. He is the father of three children, Dr. E. V. Kemp, Jr., Ann and Wilson. He has served as president of the National Association of State Chambers of Commerce; a member of the Virginia State Planning Board; a trustee of the Jamestown Corporation; and member of the students have won local, regional, state and national awards in science exhibits; four have won state and national Science Talent Search awards. In a school where the mountain boys and girls seldom went on to college, Mr. Cash has been instrumental in sending more than thirty graduates to college, a number to junior college, and fourteen girls to nursing schools. In all needed cases, he was able to secure scholarship or work assistance. For pupils not able to profit from more formal education, he had an agreement with a local industry to give examinations for jobs. Through this program, 35 boys have been given jobs, two in the research laboratory, and several in plant laboratories.

Among the many honors won by Mr. Cash are: National Science Foundation Fellowship in 1956; Future Scientist of America Foundation's Fellowship in 1957; National Science Teachers Achievement Award in 1958 for his paper, "Effective Science Teaching Without Facilities"; Virginia Junior Academy of Science citation in 1959 for pioneering work in the elementary school science fair of Botetourt county, Virginia.

class notes

Advisory Council on the Virginia Economy. From 1920 until 1929, he was field secretary, alumni secretary and assistant to the president at Washington and Lee.

24

DR. MARKHAM L. PEACOCK, a member of the English faculty at Virginia Polytechnic Institute since 1926, will become head of the English Department on September 1. He is the author of a book entitled, "Critical Opinion of William Wadsworth." Another book is in the hands of a publisher and Dr. Peacock is working on a third. He is also the author of literary, critical, and educational articles. He is the editor of the national publication of Guild Scholars.

25

M. R. BRUIN, JR., has for years taught, coached or supervised schools. He has been principal of three Virginia high schools, and president and secretary-treasurer of the State Principals' Association. During World War II, he was in charge of restricted and confidential training material at an Army Air Corps technical training school. At present, he is teaching science in Herndon High School, Herndon, Virginia, but planning to retire to the farm in Pulaski county in a year or two. He has been a Mason for over thirty-five years, served as president of the Falls Church (Virginia) Lions Club, and charter president of the Herndon Lions, and has been a Sunday school teacher, deacon, treasurer, trustee or elder in Presbyterian churches where he has lived. For many years he has been toastmaster or speaker at local, district, or state meetings and banquets of various kinds. He and his wife have a son and a daughter.

DR. NICHOLSON B. ADAMS, '15, has been professor of Spanish at the University of North Carolina since 1924, and is an associate editor of "Hispania." He has recently published three books: "The Heritage of Spain (Holt); "Spanish Literature: A Brief Survey" (with John E. Keller: Littlefield), and a revision of G. T. Northrup's "Introduction to Spanish Literature" (U. of Chicago Press), widely used in the nation.

26

CHARLES H. HAMILTON, managing editor of the News Leader, Richmond, Virginia, was the author of a recent article in the Readers Digest on "The Most Unforgettable Character I've ever Met." His story was about the late Dr. Douglas Southhall Freeman, editor of the paper, and historian, educator, and lecturer.

WILTON W. CONNER has been for twenty-two years with U. S. Public Health Service—five years in Division Tropical Diseases, N.I.H., Bethesda, Maryland; seventeen years in Division Quarantine U.S.P.H.S. Miami, Florida. Now he is stationed at International Airport, Miami.

27

DR. JOHN PRESTON MOORE, professor of history at Louisiana State University, has been awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship to study the life and times of Antonio de Ulloa, an eighteenth century Spanish colonial administrator and scientist.

29

FOSTER EDWARDS has been clerk of the Superior Court, New Hanover County, Wilmington, North Carolina, for the past ten years and writes that he is enjoying to the fullest the local and state politics. Prior to becoming Clerk "Spunky" was on the management side of the local newspapers and radio stations.

HARRY E. GODWIN is district manager for Hirsig-Brantley company, manufacturers' representative, and he and his family live at 231 West Edwin Circle, Memphis. Father of six children, Harry has two of them married so far, and four still at home.

30

PAGE TREDWAY is in the paper business at 164 Duane Street, New York City. His home is in Little Falls, New Jersey, where for twenty-two years he has been organist and Choir Master of St. Agnes' Episcopal Church. He married the former Margaret Lambeth of Bedford, Virginia, and they have a daughter, Anne, aged 11.

ROBERT REINHOLD, '32, is now on home leave from his International Cooperation Administration assignment in Pakistan. He was special assistant with the Navy Department before joining ICA in 1957.

31

GILMORE NUNNELLY NUNN was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Yankton College, Yankton, South Dakota in June. He is a former vice counsel to Portugal, and is director of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Lexington, Kentucky. He was formerly president of the Kentucky Broadcasters Association, a U.S. Delegate to Inter-American Association of Broadcasters, member of the Directive Council of that body, and its delegate to the United Nations. Mr. Nunn is also a director of the Kentucky Medical Foundation, and a member of the Board of Curators of Transylvania College.

32

SHERWOOD WISE is the president-elect of the Mississippi Bar Association. He is presently serving the group as first vice-president. He is a member of the law firm of Byrd, Wise and Smith, in Jackson, Mississippi, and is a past president of the Hinds County Bar Association. He is a member of the American Judicature Society, National Association of Railroad Trial Counsel, a Mississippi State Bar Commissioner for two years, and vice-president for the Central District, Conference of Local Bar Associations. He is Junior Warden of St. Andrews Episcopal church in Jackson, and was one of the organizers and trustees of St. Andrews Episcopal Day School. His son, Sherwood, Jr., is a rising junior at Washington and Lee.

BILL HOYT bought an early eighteenth century home in Rockport, Massachusetts, in 1956, and moved there in 1958, after leaving Loyola College. He has been busy ever since, as Editor of the John Carroll

SHERWOOD WISE, '32

Papers, as a researcher for various groups, and as visiting professor at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., during the summer. He has also done some research into his father's family connections, in the hill country of New Hampshire, and in Georgia, where he found the Hoyt House on Hoyt Street in Athens.

R. L. MCKINNEY, JR. is still a partner in an insurance agency in Denison, Texas. He has a son at Woodberry Forest school, and a daughter in junior high. His spare time is spent with two civic projects: the development of the Texas State Park System and Eisenhower State Park on Lake Texoma, in particular; and eliminating the salt from the Red River and Lake Texoma, to give Denison the best water supply in the Southwest. The salt comes from salt springs in West Texas and West Oklahoma, and a survey of the problem is now being made by the U.S. Public Health Service and the Corps of Engineers, he says.

DR. JACK J. STARK keeps very busy with his practice in general surgery in Belpre, Ohio. His spare time is spent in serving as president of the Parkersburg Academy of Medicine, with jurisdiction over nine counties; and as president of the local Boy Scout Council, which involves seven counties in West Virginia and two in Ohio. He is the father of three daughters.

33 CHARLES J. LONGACRE is Director of Field Services for leadership in the extension division of Newark State College, New Jersey. The training program in this division has doubled during the past three years and the enrollment now runs about 8,000 students per year. This program renders a very important part in raising the level of elementary and secondary education in New Jersey. Charles also serves as chairman of the Committee of Higher Education for the state of New Jersey.

34 DUNCAN BURN is the new executive secretary of stewardship, Episcopal Diocese of Florida. He worked for the Washington Times-Herald in Washington, D.C., after graduation, and went in 1939 to the Philippines, where he established a retail credit bureau. During World War II, he and his family were prisoners of the Japanese for four years. While in the Islands, he was treasurer for many years of the Philippine Episcopal church. He and his wife, Frances, are the parents of four daughters.

A posthumous award of the Distinguished Service Medal was made to DR. GEORGE H. FOSTER by the Secretary of the Navy in Washington. The award was accepted by Dr. Foster's son, Ned, accompanied by his mother and a younger brother, Billy. The award was made for outstanding work in the field of flight safety and aviation training, and is the highest honor which the Navy can grant a civilian. For some years, Dr. Foster, who died in November, 1959, of a heart attack, had authored training manuals for Navy flight students.

THE VERY REV. DARBY WOOD BETTS, dean of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John and director of church and community relations for the council of the Diocese of Rhode Island, has resigned to work with the Right Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of California. He will have the title of canon to the bishop, and will be director of publicity, social relations and ecumenical relations. Dean Betts was former canon of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City for three years during the deanship there of Bishop Pike.

36 JAMES A. ROBERTSON is assistant vice-president of Dibrell Brothers, Incorporated. He supervises tobacco purchases in all flue-cured and burley districts. He has been with the company since 1936, and makes his home in Danville, Virginia.

JOHN W. VARDAMAN was recently elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Fourth District of Alabama Tuberculosis Hospital, located in Gadsden, Alabama.

37 WILLIAM CUTTINO WILBUR, JR. has accepted a position as associate professor of history at Florida Presbyterian College, new college being built in St. Petersburg, Florida. Address: Care of Florida Presbyterian college, Maritime Base, St. Petersburg 1, Florida.

ALTON D. FARBER, '40, has been elected a vice-president of Mayor and O'Brien, Incorporated, Chicago-headquartered public relations firm. Since 1952, he had been assistant director of public relations for the J. Walter Thompson Company.

THE NEW EDITION of Who's Who in America, volume 31, has been issued, and twenty-three alumni are appearing in its pages for the first time.

A total of 54,146 persons were included in the new edition, the all-time high. Of these, 8,149 were listed for the first time in the biennial volume.

New listings include these alumni: Dr. Nicholas B. Adams, '15; William W. Barron, '34; Frederick Bartenstein, Jr., '41; Marvin K. Collie, '40; Robert F. Corrigan, '36;

Edwin J. Foltz, '40; N. D. Hall, Jr., '30; Herbert G. Jahncke, '30; John D. Kerr, Jr., '24;

Also, Harold R. Levy, '42; M. Hepburn Many, '38; Samuel A. McCain, '27; W. Carroll Mead, '25; Frank T. Mitchell, '25; William T. Owen, '28; Robert W. Reinhold, '32; William K. Self, '39;

Also, Harold J. Sullivan, '32; William C. Wells, III, '17; Jack Wilder, '33; Charles M. Williams, '37; Burke Williamson, '26; and Lloyd E. Worner, '40.

class notes

38 WILLIAM L. WILSON, JR., an attorney and businessman in Cumberland, Maryland, was named to a seven-year term on the State Board of Education recently by Governor Tawes. He is also a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, and a former vice-president of Maryland Bar Association.

DR. HARRY M. PHILPOTT, vice-president of the University of Florida, was principal speaker at the 1960 Conference of the Association of College Honor Societies held at Miami Beach, Florida, on February 26-27, 1960.

39 HARRY E. REDENBAUGH has been named vice president of Mine Safety Appliances International, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He also retains his position as manager of MSA International, which he has held since May, 1957. His new responsibilities include supervision of the export department and seven subsidiary companies in Canada, South Africa, Scotland, Mexico, Venezuela, Germany, and Italy. He is director of the Inter-American Safety Council and of the Foreign Policy Association. He is a member of the International Executives Association, National Foreign Trade Council, and the Foreign Commerce Committee of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

40 JACK W. WATSON is vice-president and general sales manager of the Industrial Division, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Sales, Incorporated. He joined Kaiser company in 1946 as a salesman in Los Angeles, and has progressed upward. He spends about half his time "on the road," visiting forty-nine Kaiser Aluminum sales offices from coast to coast. He is the father of four children, a boy and three girls.

EUGENE M. KRAMER is president of Alaska-North American Investment Company, a closed-end investment firm to participate in economic development of Alaska and elsewhere in North America. Principal office is at 1511 K Street N.W., Washington, D. C. Mr. Kramer is also vice-president and Secretary of District Theaters Corporation of Washington and vice-president of Helmar, Incorporated, which owns and operates a radio station in Little Rock, Arkansas.

41 ALFRED T. BISHOP, JR. is now general manager and vice-president of the Indiana Tractor Sales Company, the Ford distributors for the state. He and his family live at Rolling Hills Farm, Route 17, Box 596, Indianapolis, Indiana.

42 LAWRENCE JOHN FISHER, JR. is vice-president of Deering Millikin and Company, textile organization, in New York City. He and his wife and four sons moved recently from Abbeville, South Carolina to 5 Mystic Lane, Darien, Connecticut.

WILLIAM M. MARTIN, judge of Citrus Municipal Court in California, was named Citizen of the Year in West Covina, California, and was honor guest at the banquet given by the West Covina Chamber of Commerce. Judge Martin was the jurist who presided over the preliminary hearing on the murder charge against Carole Tregoff, in the Finch murder case, and ordered her bound over to Superior Court. The award, however, was made because of his extensive civic work and leader of the United Community Fund drive.

ROBERT F. HUNTER, assistant professor of history at Virginia Military Institute, was speaker at Memorial Day exercises in Lexington's Stonewall Jackson cemetery on May 30, 1960. The observance is sponsored annually by the Stonewall Jackson Memorial, Inc., and the Mary Custis Lee chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Dr. W. Gleason Bean, head of the history department at Washington and Lee, presided.

43 WILLIAM J. NOONAN, JR. is the father of four children, one boy and three girls, ages 12, 10, 7, and four. He is vice-president of Noonan Construction Company; treasurer of Southern Prestressed Concrete Company; secretary-treasurer of Concrete Supply Company; president of Noonan-Whiddon Enterprises; and director of the Florida Roadbuilders Association and the West Pensacola, Florida, Bank. He is an elder and superintendent of the church school of First Presbyterian church of Pensacola and is also a member of the Recreation Board of Pensacola.

CARMINE JOHN PERRAPATO is chief of police in Garfield, New Jersey.

44 A. LINWOOD HOLTON, JR. has been named a delegate to the National Republican convention in Chicago, representing the Roanoke district of Virginia. Linwood is also the newly appointed chairman of the Washington and Lee Alumni Fund Council. He is an attorney in Roanoke.

ALBERT F. BREITUNG is managing director of Panarama, Ltd., Discovery Bay, Jamaica. He is operating a small group of luxury cottages for rental to tourists.

DR. LLOYD HOLLINGSWORTH SMITH, JR., is assistant professor of medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital. He lives at 24 Oakley Road, Belmont, Massachusetts.

47 DR. WILLIAM H. PIFER has his new office in a remodeled ante-bellum mansion in Winchester, Virginia. He and his wife, Dorothy, are the parents of two sons, Richard 10, and Billy 6. Address: 19 N. Washington Street, Winchester.

HENRY A. ODER, JR. is chairman of the Republican party in Rockbridge county, Virginia. He is a Lexington attorney.

48 DAVID B. COFER, JR. was nominated in the first Democratic primary in the state of Texas for District Attorney without any opposition. He expects to take office January 1, 1961. The new District Attorney is active in the U.S. Army Reserve and presently holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

49 JOHN C. DILLON, who teaches at Woodstock Academy, Connecticut, attended the 1960 Summer Institute of Mathematics at Clark University, one of 30 secondary school and 25 junior college teachers of mathematics invited to study at Clark University. He received a grant from the National Science Foundation to attend the institute.

HUGH T. VERANO, '49 Law, has been appointed assistant to the general counsel of the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corporation. His responsibilities include handling of contracts, appeals, tax matters, and related assignments. He has been with Convair since August, 1958. He, his wife, and three children live in Rancho Santa Fe, California.

THE REV. L. ROPER SHAMHART, 47, has been elected rector of St. Mark's church, Jackson Heights, New York. He was, until recently, associate at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, 2 East 90 Street, New York.

MAJOR PAUL J. B. MURPHY, JR., was graduated June 17 from the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He has been serving in the army since his graduation from Washington and Lee.

JOHN FARR practices law in Anderson, Indiana, with the firm of Busby, Davidson, Cooper, and Farr. He and his wife are the parents of three children, James, 7; David, 4; and Nancy, 2.

50 ROBERT C. MADDOX has been promoted to assistant counsel by Prudential Insurance Company. He joined the company in 1955, and lives in Plainfield, New Jersey, where he is a city councilman.

JOSEPH H. MCGEE writes that he has been practicing law in his home town of Charleston, South Carolina, since he finished his Navy tour of duty in 1956. He was married on June 25, 1960 in Marion, South Carolina, to Evelyn B. Moore. They reside at 2-A Ladson Street, Charleston, South Carolina.

JOEL BRANDON COOPER, formerly of the office of the chief counsel, Internal Revenue Service, in New York City, has opened his own law office for the special practice of law in matters of taxation. Address: Royster Building, Norfolk, Virginia.

51 EDWARD P. BASSETT has accepted an appointment to the University of Iowa School of Journalism faculty, effective this fall. Ed was recently awarded an American Political Science Association plaque for local government reporting. The Bassetts have three daughters, with the latest, Lisa Wightman, joining the family on May 31, 1960.

PARK B. SMITH reports that he has two prospective Washington and Lee students, aged 3 1/2 and 4 1/2, and that he is still an account executive with Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc. in Charleston, South Carolina.

JOHN O. MARSH, JR., an attorney in Strasburg, Virginia, was presented the distinguished service award by the Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce, and cited as the state's outstanding young man of 1959. He is police court judge in Strasburg and town attorney for New Market, a member of the Shenandoah County school board, and an elder in the Presbyterian church of Strasburg. He also has been active in the movement to attract new industries to Strasburg and the Shenandoah County area. He was honored in particular for having originated the "Liberty Tree" program, designed to revitalize patriotism and combat Communism. His work has been commended by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

GEORGE E. DASHIELL, '49, is regional manager of a new seven state Atlantic sales and service region for the Burroughs Corporation. Headquarters is at 1739 H. Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. He heads branch offices in 22 cities from Pennsylvania to Florida, which market electronic computers and general business machines.

ROBERT HOLT SALISBURY is associate professor of political science at Washington University, an author, and is in demand as speaker on television and on the public platform. He and his wife have bought a large rambling house near the University campus, which permits Bob to walk to work. However, Bob reports that—although he is not fat—he is fifty pounds heavier and ten inches bigger around the middle than when he graduated. Clearly, he says, life agrees with him!

52 FRANK L. SUMMERS, JR. an attorney in Staunton, Virginia, was medalist on June 29, 1960, when the Virginia State Amateur golf tournament was held at the Cascades course, Hot Springs. Frank sizzled over the course with a 69. Frank was recently installed as president of the Staunton-Augusta Chamber of Commerce.

53 DR. THERON R. ROLSTON has completed two years of medical residency at the Hartford (Connecticut) Hospital, and now has a general practice in Mount Solon, Virginia.

ROBERT L. CONRAD, JR. is assistant manager of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia's claim division. He joined the company after his graduation from Law School in 1953, and was formerly an administrative assistant in the accident and health division. He and his wife and four children live at 1309 Santa Rosa Road, Richmond, Virginia.

JOHN DAVID MAGUIRE was awarded his doctorate in religion from Yale University on June 13, 1960, after a somewhat unprecedented career as a graduate student. He won every major academic prize in theology, studied each year on University fellowships, was a student body officer, and for one year was a half-time faculty member. He graduated in 1956 with a Bachelor of Divinity degree, as the sixth summa cum laude in this century. He has directed such diverse student activities as an Arts

JOHN DAVID MAGUIRE, '53

class notes

Festival, a faculty-student variety show, and a campaign for non-discriminatory housing in New Haven. He is now serving as assistant professor of religion at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, engaged primarily in relating theology to other academic disciplines. Dr. Maguire is a life-time Fellow of the National Council on Religion and Higher Education, a member of the Editorial Advisory Committee of Haddam House Publishers, and a frequent speaker in colleges and schools in the New England area.

BRANTLEY BARR, JR. is new sales promotion supervisor for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York. Prior to his appointment, he was commercial manager for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company in Beckley, West Virginia. He and his wife, Sue Ann, are living at the York River House, New York City.

54 THOMAS DAVIS BERRY, JR. has moved from New Orleans, Louisiana and is now practicing law in Gulfport, Mississippi. The Berrys have two daughters, Judith, two years old, and Kathryn, one year old.

NICHOLAS GREGORY MANDAK often acts as police magistrate of Clifton, New Jersey, his home town.

RAYMOND FRANCIS BEE served two years in the army, 1954-56, then went to graduate school at State University of Iowa. He looked for a job in oil field work, domestic or foreign, to no avail, so has now settled down to assisting a brother run a Sinclair service station. He says he is selling gas and oil instead of searching for it. He is still a bachelor.

CIRO BARCELLONA, dean of boys at Garfield High School, New Jersey, was awarded a summer scholarship in the field of personnel and guidance by the University of Delaware. He has been active in athletics at the school, having coached football and track teams. He is a member of the Garfield Jaycees, and the Garfield Boy's Club. He has a master of science degree in education and administration from Seton Hall University.

RICHARD A. BUSCH was graduated from Yale Divinity School in June, 1959, with a BD degree. He was ordained a deacon in the Episcopal church in September, 1959, in Memphis, Tennessee. For the past year, he was studying theology at Oxford, England, returning this summer to enter the parish ministry.

THE REV. DANIEL DICKENSON, JR. is assistant to the Educational Secretary of the Board of World Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. His address is: Box 330, Nashville 1, Tennessee.

JAMES R. TRIMM was awarded his law degree in 1956 by the University of Virginia, and then went into the Navy. He served in the Philippines and Far East. He is now employed in the Washington, D. C. branch of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company.

RICHARD E. HODGES, JR., '50, has been promoted to vice-president of Liller, Neal, Battle and Lindsay, Inc., advertising and public relations agency, with offices in Atlanta, Richmond, and New York. He has been with the firm for nine years, and he and his wife and son live at 439 Carolwood Lane, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia.

BERTRAM S. GRIFFITH, JR. has been promoted from sales representative for Ditto, Incorporated, New York to Product Manager, Offset Machines and Equipment in Ditto's home office, Chicago, Illinois. He is the father of two children, Debby, 3 1/2 and Beverly, 1 1/2. Address: 920 Columbus Lane, Wilmette, Illinois.

55 TOMMY BAKER has purchased the Earl N. Levitt store in Lexington, and the new name of the business is Thomas, Ltd. Tommy was a student assistant in the store while at Washington and Lee. Since 1956, he has been office manager of Baker Ford Sales in Lexington. He and his wife have two children, a girl and a boy. He is a director of the Lexington Country Club, the Lexington Jaycees, and is a member of the Kiwanis club.

BILL BARTSCH is administrative officer at the American Consulate, Kuwait, an oil-rich sheikdom on the Persian Gulf. This is his first overseas assignment with the Foreign Service, after serving two years in Washington with Bureau of Intelligence and Research. His tour in Kuwait will be for two years. Address: American Consulate, Kuwait.

ROBERT NORFLEET WHITE completed a year of study in taxation at the New York University Graduate School last February. Since March 1, he has been in a general civil and tax practice with the law firm of Donelson and Adams, 1500 Commerce Title Building, Memphis 3, Tennessee.

JOHN W. ENGLISHMAN will receive his master's degree from George Washington University in Washington, D. C. this summer. He has been teaching Social Studies at a high school in Georgetown.

O. B. RAMSAY received his doctorate in February, 1960, and is now engaged in post-doctoral research in chemistry at Georgia Tech.

ROGER S. DENU, released from the Coast Guard about 18 months ago, is now in charge of Micro-bore sales for the Cincrock Machinery, Incorporated, a machine tool sales organization in Clifton, New Jersey.

56 RICHARD GREGORY MCNEER was a law graduate at University of Virginia in June, 1959, and admitted to the West Virginia bar. He was a student at Cambridge last year, receiving a Diploma in Comparative Law in June, 1960. He is now associated with the law firm of Campbell, McNeer, Woods and Bagley in Huntington, West Virginia.

EDGAR GILMORE GIVHAN received his medical degree in June from Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri.

LEE C. WALTZ was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Divinity by Union Theological Seminary on June 7, 1960. He is now pastor of Pratt-Reed Memorial Presbyterian Church at Sweet Hall, Virginia.

JACK A. MORGENSTERN is now a doctor of medicine. He was awarded his medical degree on June 15 by Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio.

57 ROBERT JACKSON HUMMERS graduated from Harvard Law School in June. He is now employed by the firm of Reynolds, Richards, Ely and LaVenture, 68 William Street, New York, New York. His home address is 787 Wyngate Drive, East; Valley Stream, New York.

OLIVER C. CONGER, after completing course requirements at Wharton Graduate School, University of Pennsylvania, has withdrawn to work fulltime at Evans, Conger and Company. He is also a director of the YMCA in Pottstown, Pennsylvania, youngest director in its history. In addition, he is Scout Master of troop 581, a member of the First Troop Philadelphia City Cavalry, and deacon at Tabernacle Presbyterian church in Philadelphia.

PHILIP SIDNEY MORGAN, III married Elizabeth McDowell of Wake Forest, North Carolina in 1957. They have two boys, Philip, IV, and Edward, age 2 1/2 and 1 1/2. Phil is vice-president of Andrews Associates, Incorporated, insurance and pension consultants, and also supervisor with The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. The Morgans live at 3830 Jay avenue, Alexandria, Virginia.

JOSEPH C. DICKSON, JR. received his bachelor of laws degree from Rutgers on June 8, 1960.

58 JIM LEWIS and Mrs. Lewis are the proud parents of a son, Stephen James, born on January 22, 1960. The young fellow weighed in at 7 pounds and 9 ounces, and is scheduled to follow his father's footsteps in lacrosse and football. Jim is presently stationed in Okinawa with the U.S. Marine Corp and took a part in the unit which was used to control the demonstration during the visit of President Eisenhower in June. The young son and his mother are in Batavia, New York, where they await Jim's return to the states in early 1961.

JAMES NEWTON BERRY has returned from Army duty in Germany, and is now in New York City, where he is doing some writing.

LIEUT. ARNOLD L. STEINER, '59, is with the Office of the Comptroller, U.S. Army Transportation Terminal Command, Gulf, New Orleans, Louisiana, serving his six months of active duty. Before entering the service in February, he was with the Steiner Brothers Bank in Birmingham.

SUMMER 1960

WILLIAM O. ROBERTS will teach Torts at Law School during the first semester of 1960. He practices law in Lexington at 18 West Washington Street. Bill is president of the Rockbridge County Council of P-TA, after having served as president of the P-TA in Lexington last year.

RANDOLPH W. LUNSFORD has completed his second year at Drew Theological School in Madison, New Jersey. He is also a student-minister at the Calvary Methodist church, Paterson, New Jersey.

59 NED BABER emerged victorious on July 4, 1960, as winner of the Virginia State Amateur golf tournament at Hot Springs. He eliminated an 18-year-old contender, Wright Garrett, on the 39th hole, to take the crown. Other Washington and Lee men in the tournament were Frank L. Summers, Jr., '52, who was medalist with a 69, and Frank Goodpasture, '43 and Jimmy Watts, '36.

60 PRES ROWE has been named assistant director of information services at Washington and Lee, and began his new duties with Frank A. Parsons on July 5. He is a former reporter with the Fredericksburg Free-Lance Star. He and three other bachelors are living at the Old Bridge, Col. Thomas A. Barton's home across the Maury River from VMI.

MARRIAGES

1950

DR. C. DWIGHT TOWNES and Carolyn Hunter were married November 1, 1959. He is a general practitioner in Perry, Kansas.

ALFRED H. EBERT, JR. and Kay Flythe were married on May 28, 1960. They are living in Houston, Texas where Al is with the law firm of Andrews, Kurth, Campbell and Jones.

1951

GUY B. HAMMOND and Alice Jean Love were married June 27, 1959. Guy is assistant professor of philosophy and religion at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

1952

CHARLES HOWARD MCCAIN, JR. and Nancy Ann Russell were married on April 23, 1960, in Syracuse, New York. They live at 947 James Street, Syracuse.

1957

JAMES H. DAVIS and Elizabeth Ann Brown were married on June 25, 1960 in the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, Austin, Texas. They are living in Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

JOHN GARLAND FIREBAUGH and Theresa D. Barfield were married April 3, 1960, at the Pentacostal Holiness Church of Franklin Springs, Georgia. They are making their home in Washington, D. C.

1958

JOHN STAFFORD PEALE and Lydia Daniel Woods were married on June 25, 1960 at Rivermont Presbyterian church, Lynchburg, Virginia.

GLENN R. FAHRENTHOLD and Sally Curtiss were married July, 1959. Glenn is employed by a Dow Chemical Company division, Dobeckmun Company, in Cleveland, Ohio.

CHARLES EDWARD MOCHWART and Mary Jane Offutt were married on June 18, 1960, at St. James Episcopal church, Warrenton, Virginia.

ROY GRAHAME DAVIS and Sheila Higgins were married on June 4, 1960, at St. Elizabeth's Episcopal church, Ridgewood, New Jersey.

1960

CARTER SAUL KAUFMANN and Gail Nauheim were married on June 5, 1960, in the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C. They are making their home in El Paso, Texas.

BIRTHS

1941

MR. and MRS. ROBERT C. PEERY are the parents of twin boys, born January 12, 1960. William McGuire and John Stewart. They also have a girl, age 6, and another boy, age 4. Address: 1005 Ridge Top Road, Richmond 29, Virginia.

1949

MR. and MRS. CHAMPE RAFTERY are the parents of a son, William Sherman, born February 4, 1960.

1950

MR. and MRS. THOMAS T. TONGUE, II, are the parents of a son, Thomas T, III, born March 25, 1960. Tom and family live at Avon Old Farms, Avon, Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. RICHARD E. HODGES, JR. are the parents of a son, Richard E. III, born April 10, 1960. The Hodges reside in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. KERR are the parents of a son, David Barclay, born April 8, 1960. Their home is in Chatham, New Jersey.

1951

Mr. and Mrs. KIRBY WERT MALONE are the parents of a son, Kirby Wert, Jr., born March 4, 1960. They also have a two-year-old daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. RICHARD DOLMAN DAVIS are the parents of a son, Richard Dolman, Jr., born April 20, 1960.

1953

Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM DURWOOD BRUCE are the parents of a son, Thomas William, born May 27, 1960. Their daughter, Karen, is now two and one-half years old. Address: 7326 Topping Street, N.E., Roanoke, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. WILLIS F. BROWN are the parents of a daughter, Carolyn Ann, born January 17, 1960.

1957

Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM J. RUSSELL, JR. are the parents of a daughter, Joanne, born April 17, 1960. They also have another daughter, Janet, who is sixteen months old. He is associated with the investment banking firm of Butcher and Sherrerd in Philadelphia, as a stockbroker. Address: 192 Mansion Road, Newtown Square, Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. ROBERT A. PRITCHARD are the parents of a daughter, Tracy Bradshaw, born October 16, 1959. Daddy is secretary and treasurer of the Best Company, Incorporated, of Tennessee, builders of Shell Homes. Address: 4200 Tuckahoe Road, Memphis, Tennessee.

1959

Mr. and Mrs. OWEN A. NEFF announce the birth of a daughter, Karen Anne, in February, 1960.

1903

THOMAS BALL, a lawyer and philanthropist of Los Angeles, California since 1906, died May 24, 1960. He was a member of Los Angeles and California Bar Associations, American Bar Association, Jonathan Club, Kiwanis, Sons of the Revolution, and the Society of the Cincinnati of the state of Virginia. He was a brother of Mrs. Alfred I. duPont, a member of the board of trustees of Washington and Lee.

1904

GEORGE RADER NISWANDER, of Cincinnati, Ohio, died March 15, 1960.

1906

CHARLES AUGUSTUS DUNLAP died on February 13, 1960, of heart failure following an operation. He retired in 1947 after forty years as an engineer on the AF and SF Railroad. His home was in Los Angeles, California.

1907

DR. A. R. LARRICK, a Presbyterian minister for many years, died on April 29, 1960, at his home in Plant City, Florida. He had suffered from heart trouble for several years, but kept up his interest in the work of the church. He was a trustee of Thornwell Orphanage in South Carolina from 1935 until his death. For twenty-six years, he served as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Plant City, and then became executive secretary of home missions for St. Johns Presbytery, where he was instrumental in organizing over 60 new churches. He was stated clerk of St. Johns and Westminster Presbyteries from 1932 until 1958, and a former moderator for the Synod of Florida. He was a member of the Plant City Housing Authority, and one unit of the housing was named for him.

1910

DR. HUGH JOHNSON HAGAN died on June 16, 1960, at his home in Roanoke, Virginia. He had been a practicing physician in Roanoke since 1914. He was a past president of the Roanoke Academy of Medicine, and had been a vestryman of St. John's Episcopal church. Dr. Hagan was instrumental in founding the Roanoke Life Saving Crew, and Burrell Memorial Hospital. Survivors include his widow and three sons, one of whom is William C. Hagan, '51.

1913

HERBERT MORRISON WOODWARD died in April, 1960. He had served as a Class Agent for Washington and Lee. He practiced law with the firm of Woodward, Agelasto, Ward and Jarvis in Norfolk, Virginia.

1914

MILLARD F. NULL, Jr. died recently. He had been chief, Industrial Training ing specialist, Pennsylvania State Employment Service, and had also served as chief of War Production training of the War Manpower Commission for the state of Pennsylvania. His home was in Harrisburg.

1922

CHARLES H. MILLER died on April 11, 1960, while attending the convention of the National Dairymen's Association in Washington, D. C. He made his home in Talladega, Alabama, and was active in church and civic organizations. He was a former president of the Talladega Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis Club, and Settlement Club; secretary of the Alabama Dairymen's Association, and a director of the Southern Dairy Products Association. He moved to Talladega in 1926 as district manager for the Alabama Power Company, and later he joined the Talladega Ice and Storage Company.

1923

ROSCOE ROSTIN WHITE, M.D., a surgical chief at Shore Memorial Hospital, Somers Point, New Jersey, died September 4, 1959.

1924

LOUIS T. TOWBES died on November 2, 1959. He was in real estate and development in Washington, D. C., and was the father of a son and a daughter.

1927

CHARLES H. BRONSON, JR. died on March 22, 1960. He had been a salesman for Guyan Mills, Incorporated, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, and made his home in Attleboro, Massachusetts.

1929

WILLIAM HENRY CASSELL died on March 15, 1960, after a long illness with pulmonary emphysema. His home was in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

1931

RENE K. FRANK died on May 6, 1960. He had been a district manager of Universal CIT Credit Corporation for fifteen years, and had served with the company in Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Duluth, Minnesota; Eau Claire, Wisconsin; and St. Paul, Minnesota. He leaves a widow, a son six; and a daughter, five.

1938

PAUL RHODES WHIPP died on May 24, 1960, in Frederick, Maryland. He had been engaged in social work with the State of Maryland.

1944

ADOLPH WILLIAM CLARK died at his home on June 29, 1960. He was former manager of the Cash Building supply company in Buena Vista, and was a Mason, a Shriner, and a veteran of World War II.

THE ALUMNI MAGAZINE

WASHINGTON AND LEE

Commemorative Plates

(Wedgwood)

Sold only in sets of eight different scenes

Price, $20.00 per set

(in Blue only)

F.O.B., Lexington, Virginia

WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

Lexington, Virginia

The Washington and Lee Chair

(with Crest in five colors)

This chair made from Northern Birch and Rock Maple—Finished in Black with Gold Trim (arms finished in cherry). A perfect Gift for an Alumnus for Christmas, Birthday, Anniversary or Wedding. A beautiful addition to any room in your home. All profit from the sale of this chair goes to the scholarship fund in memory of John Graham, '14. Mail your order to:

WASHINGTON AND LEE ALUMNI, INC.

Box 897, Lexington, Virginia

Price: $28.00 f.o.b. Gardner, Mass.—Delivery within three weeks